Seventeen Young Ladies and Eight Young Men Graduate this Year.

The commencement exercises of the Chelsea high school were held in the town hall Wednesday evening. The hall, as is usual on these occassions, was filled to its utmost capacity with the parents and friends of the '12 boys and girls, who received their diplomas. With the close of the school many of the young ladies and gentlemen who have been associated as classmates, some for the past twelve years, and others of them for the last four years, will sever their connections to take up other vocations in

Took A Sudden Bath.

Thomas Watkins took a sudden bath Sunday at South Lake which was not on his want list. In company with a party of friends who were spending the day at the lake "just watching the cork bob," suddenly Tom got a bite and the fish was so large (?) that when the line parted the young man fell overboard. Some of the party estimate that the fish that was lost weighed from six ounces to twenty pounds. At least Tom knows that he got a good "ducking" in about three feet of water.

Naturally enough, the imperial artists glanced at the composer to see how he was impressed by the honor they were doing him. They were shocked to observe that he was making a series of grimaces. The emperor stopped and inquired whether he and the archduke were not singing the bit according to Gluck's idea of how it should be done. "My idea!" exclaimed Gluck. "Why, sire. I am the poorest walker in the world, but I would vastly rather take a walk of six leagues than be forced to hear a composition of my own interpreted in such a way as that." Joseph II was brave enough to take no notice of the criticism, but the court was quite convinced that if such a reproach had been addressed to the Czar Nicholas the composer would have prosecuted his musical studies from that time forth under the unfavorable surroundings of the Siberian

ROOT CHOSEN TEMPORARY CHAIRMAN Excitement and Bitterness Between Rivals for Presidential BY VOTE OF 558 TO 502

Senator in Keynote Speech Makes Appeal For Continuance of Power of Government by Republican Party.

Coliseum, Chicago, Ill., June 18.-At 6 o'clock the republican national convention, after six hours of tumultuous scenes, elected United States Senator Elihu Root, of New York, temporary chairman.

The vote was as follows: Elihu Root, of New York, 558. Frank E. McGovern, of Wisconsin, 502. W. S. Lauder, of North Dakota, 9. Walter L. Houser, of Wisconsin, 3. Asle J. Gronna, of North Dakota, 1. Absent or not voting, 5.

Total. 1078. Necessary for choice, 540.

After the officially announced result of the ballot for temporary chairman-Root, 558; McGovern, 502-and after the cheering had subsided. Senator Elihu Root, of New York, was introduced as the temporary chairman of Many spectators were hurrying toward the exits, and even the delegates were moving about and talking in loud tones. Senator Root soon abandoned the attempt to make himself heard until quiet could be restored. For fully 10 minutes he waited while the sergeant-at-arms, his assistants, and a large number of policemen worked to quiet the big crowd.

A Pennsylvania delegate caused a disturbance near the platform and the policemen were advised to "throw him out," but that extreme measure was In assuming his duties as temporary chairman, Senator Root expressed his appreciation of the honor bestowed upon him and the confidence audience cheered and applauded.

The famous New Yorker talked for more than an hour. When he concluded his address about 7:30 o'clock, practically all the delegates and at the hall, directly under the runway extending out from the platform. least one-third of the spectators were still in their seats, after a continuous session of nine hours. And most of the 500 policemen who had been assigned to duty had not been obliged to prevent rioting or fighting among the delegates, were still there.

During the uproar of people leaving the hall "Bill" Flinu, of Pittsburg, and gave her a perfectly good excuse went to the platform ,shook hands with Senator Root and conferred with for not coming straight home, and"- him. After about 10 minutes' interruption Senator Root resumed.

The Opening Session.

Amidst confusion and shouting the fifteenth national convention of the Republican party was born in Chicago Tuesday. Chairman Rosewater's gavel banged at 12:01, just one minute behind the schedule. It was still banging 15 minutes later as Sergeant-at-Arms Wan. F. Stone, with a megaphone, ordered the police to clear the aisles and prepare for a photographer to take a flashlight of the scene. The fight over the nomination, the climax of a campaign that has seen a former president and a president trail through half the states of the Union, was reflected in the attitude of the delegates.

Crowded in the aisles, standing on their chairs, one state cheering and another answering with its own discordant reply, the men refused to come to order so that, the photographer might work. In the meantime speakers prepared to say suave words of the party's 60 years of history, were delayed. The program could not go on. The sergeant at-arms struggled with the crowd. The police helped here and there. Finally the picture man let off the blinding flash. The chairman's gavel brought a semblance of order. The chaplain uttered his two-minute prayer. The con vention was really under way.

Chairman Rosewater ruled Hadley's motion to substitute "purged" list of delegates out of order. Hadley appealed from ruling and Watson moved to getting seats equally as good. They City Clerk Nichols and Ald. Chas. were Illinois. Indiana and New York Watson nominated Root as temporary chairman.

Cochems, of Wisconsin, nominated Gov. McGovern as temporary chair-

Job Hedges, of New York, seconded for Root. Hadley seconded for McGovern and was greeted with loud and prolonged cheering.

Gov. Johnson, of California, also seconded McGovern's nomination.

J. F. Woods, colored delegate at large from Kentucky, seconded Root.

DELEGATIONS CREATED ENTHUSIASM AS THEY MARCHED IN WITH BANNERS FLYING.

For the first time in the history of Republican national conventions no picture of the president hangs in the Collseum, where 1,078 delegates from the states and territories of the United States met to name a candidate for president and vice-president and to formulate a party platform.

Story as Told in Bulletins.

At 10:15 a. m. the band in the Coliseum began to play "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," and the people began to stream into the Coliseum.

At 16:30 the solid line of police, 20 strong, thus far had been in the front row of delegates' seats, stood up against the edge of the waist-high platform and faced the "arena."

By that time there was a goodly sprinkling of people in all the sections. Some of the delegates from New York, Mississippi, Texas and Louisiana were in their seats by 10:30.

The first real applause came at 11:30, for Former Vice-President Fairbanks, who entered with Former Senator Heminway and Former Representaive Jas. E. Watson of Indiana. Watson was chosen as Taft floor leader. He filled the place for the Indiana delegation, stopping to shake hands with Senator Guggenheim of Colorado. The cheering followed him all the way to the last seat in the Indiana section; Watson and others made him take the front. National Committeeman Estrabrook of New Hampshire, reaching the When Senator Root urged the preservation of the federal constitution, the platform, had got the first hand-clap from his own delegation. Col. New and Mr. Fairbanks immediately got together in conference on the floor.

Fairbanks' new seat gave him one of the most commanding positions in Kermit Roosevelt had a hard time to find a seat. He got caught in the crowd between Idaho and Maine. California came in at 11:32. The two women in the delegation were coundly cheered Chairman Victor Rosewater of the Republican committee appeared on the stage at 11:15.

At 11:25 Chairman Rosewater sent for Wm. Barnes, Jr., of New York, who was seated with the New York delegation. Barnes hurried to the platform for a conference with Rosewater and the other parliamentarians. Pennsylvania gave Flinn a cordial cheer. This was the first real cheer since the welcome to Fairbanks.

The banner of the California delegation caught in some of the section number signs overhead. Then all banners were ordered excluded. Gov. Johnson headed the delegation. West Virginia came in with a snappy "Ra, ra." They had it all to them-

The Californians rolled up their banner reluctantly. The New Jersey delegation covered their regrets with their now famous cheers. All this time the band was playing "Silver Threads Among the Gold," "Darling, I Am Growing Old.' Strains of "Dixie," which followed the rather doleful medley of old favorites, brought the southerners to their feet with a yell. Many northern At 11:50 there were few candidates outside the hall. Although the hall was full, there had been few signs of enthusiasm of any sort.

THE PRELIMINARIES. Each Side Holds Forces Intact as They March to the Coliseum.

Warring Taft and Roosevelt forces gathered at the Coliseum for the opening of the 15th Republican national convention, with battle lines on both sides apparently holding firm and with leaders and delegates predicting that the session would mark an epoch in the annals of American politics. Rarely have the principals in a national political convention got under greater stress of feeling that that which now prevails. The atmos-phere was electric with bitterness and personal animosity.

Thousands of people who were unable to obtain seats at the convention thronged hotel lobies and the immediate vicinity of the Collseum with the idea that a sensation of one sort or another would develop in the big hall at any moment. Many political veterans said it was the worst crush of humanity in their convenvention experiences.

President Taft's managers concluded their plans for the fight on the floor of the convention on the assumption that the temporary roll as prepared by the national committee would show a Taft majority, though by a small margin. Also they assumed that the temporary roll of the committee would become the temporary roll of the convention.

Col. Roosevelt and his advisers, evidently familiar with the Taft figures, evolved an eleventh hour scheme for reducing this small Taft majority by means of an arrangement to eliminate from the poll on temporary organization those votes which were challenged by Col. Roosevelt.

This scheme, fathered by the Illinois delegation, and ratified at a meeting of the Roosevelt delegates, was embodied in the following resolution, which was addressed to the body of the convention:

Resolved, That no election of temporary or other officers of this convention or resolution or other proceeding shall be taken as the act of this convention or have any effect unless it shall receive on roll call the affirmative votes of 50 delegates whose seats are uncontested, and this resolution shall govern and be in force during the temporary organization of this convention and until the permanent organization thereof shall have been effected.

Every possible effort was made by the Roosevelt managers to have the Taft leaders agree to accept and abide by this proposal. Illinois friends of Congressman Wm. B. McKinley, President Taft's campaign manager, sought to have him agree to the plan. Gov. Deneen, Lawrence Y. Sherman, State Senator Logan Hav of Springfield and Thos. Healy of Chicago were among those who threw their personal influence into the balance in attempts to have Mr. McKinley accept the arrangement.

Taft leaders, pointed out that the rules governing the national committee and to long established procedure in the temporary organization of Republican national conventions. The proposed innovation met with little encouragement at the hands of a majority of the members of the national

The more moderate members of the Reosevelt organization counseled against this resolution. They declared that attempts to secure its adoption would precipitate a decisive fight at once. They said that they did not believe revolutionary proceedconvention, but merely the gateway to the convention. In this connection a hard fight of protest was urged on every point, with the idea of preparing a case for presentation to the country in conjunction with whatever line of action is found feasible at a stage further along.

THREE CONVICTS ESCAPE.

Secrete Themselves in Feright Car Filled With Binder Twine.

Secreting themselves in a box car that was being switched out of the prison yard, three convicts made their escape from Jackson prison and are still at large.

The escaped men hid themselves in one of the cars standing in the yard, entering the car just before it was sealed and pulled out of the enclosure. An inspection of the cars was made a few moments before they were switched out of the yard, but nobody was found in the cars at that time. Trainmen heard the sound of voices in the car shortly after leaving the yard, but the fact was not reported to the prison officials until about 20 minutes after the escape.

Once outside the prison yard, the convicts broke the seal of the car and escaped. Three suits of prison clothes were found inside the car, the men having changed for citizens'

The wealth thus poured into the various monasteries is largely dispensed in alms, which helps further to increase the prestige of the order. On the death of the founder his son succeeded him. The order continued to grow and the new head, in order to be still more remote from civilization, emoved to the oasis of Kufra, deep in the hinterland of Tripoli. The only European who has ever set foot in this stronghold was Gerhardt Rohlfs, a German surgeon' long attached to he French foreign legion. Later he pretended to be a convert to Mohammedanism and during the seventies made a series of trips through the Sahara, none of which equaled in thrills the one to Kufra. To be wrinkled at thirty is indeed a nisfortune, and if the skin is very thin it must be admitted that it has less promise from beautifying treatments han the thicker ones. Thin-skinned faces are at a disadvantage with every wind that blows, with sunburn, fire heat, indigestion, worry, etc.

Thin skins need much more grease than others, for as a rule they are very dry and sensitive to all external influences, and sometimes it is necessary to cleanse such faces with grease instead of with soap and water. This formula will achieve a very good purpose if it is carefully made from pure substances:

Doctors Could Not Help Mrs. Templeton-Regained Health through Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.

Hooper, Nebraska,-"I am very glad to tell how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped me. For five years I suffered from female troubles so I was scarcely able to do my work. I took docinto the stock solution tanks and the tors' medicines and used local treatment but was not helped. I had such awful bearing down pains and my back was so are various types of strainers, but weak I could hardly walk and could not ride. I often had to sit up nights to sleep and my friends thought I could not live long. At my request my husband got me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I commenced to take it. By the time I had taken the seventh bottle my health had returned and I began doing my washing and was a well woman. Atone time for three weeks I did all the work for eighteen boarders with no signs of my old trouble return ing. Many have taken your medicine after seeing what it did for me. I would not take $1000 and be where I was. You have my permission to use my name if it will aid anvone,"-Mrs. Susie TEM-PLETON, Hooper, Nebraska.

The Pinkham record is a proud and peerless one. It is a record of constant victory over the obstinate ills of woman-ills that deal out despair. It is an established fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored health to thousands of such suffering women. Why don't you try it if you don't you try it if you necdsucha medicine?

have been various methods, more or less successful, of getting around this difficulty. Two millenniums ago Greek was the language of culture throughout the world, though it was not the first international language. Later, through the influence of the church, Latin came to be the common tongue of the educated. In more recent times French has been the international language of diplomacy, and, in a restricted field, Pidjin English has served as an international language of

Within the past four centuries many projects have been advanced for a purely artificial international language, but none of them proved practicable. A quarter of a century ago a doctor in Poland published a pamphlet describing his plan for an international language, signing it "Dr. Esperanto." Esperanto, in his new language, signifies "one who hopes," and the word came to be used as the name of the language. In this limited space one can do no better than to quote the late Dr. Lloyd, of the University of Liverpool, who said that "when Esperanto is roughly described as a new and artificial language, there remains a good deal to be said in qualification of both these terms, for there is very little in it which did not exist in some other language before. though often in a less uniform, less exact and less swiftly manageable form. . . . The uses of Esperanto in Europe in business and professional affairs has been told in various magazines. From England, "I am a Wesleyan minister, hedged in by sickness and age, and cannot take much part in any kind of meetings, but watch with great interest all Christian work in the whole world, especially that in my own country and in the sister republic across the sea." From Switzerland, "I desire the greatest success for your Christian Endeavor convention, but I regret that the Christians, here at least, do not accept the help which Esperanto would give to them." From Bohemia, "As a sincere friend of Christian Endeavor, I send the most cordial good wishes, and desire great success for the convention." A Spaniard sent a bit of verse telling how God has given us a language, everywhere comprehensible, by which we may make known the name of Christ to the ends of the earth. A school girl in Hungary sent a picture of an Esperanto group, consisting of fourteen girls and their teacher, with the greetings of all. A Belgian wrote that he was planning to make a lecture trip among the Y. M. C. A.'s of that country during the winter, and would be glad to have an account of what was done at the Nebraska convention. to incorporate in his lecture. There were other messages, from Siberia, Russia, Poland, Norway and Germany.

More epoch-making than any of these, however, was a message of greeting sent by order of the Christian conference already described as meeting at the time of the world congress at Antwerp.

Besides the exhibits there were two conferences, at which Esperanto experts explained the nature and advantages of the languages. answered questions and dispensed literature. TO CHANGE REPRESENTATION rowing Demand for a Proportional System-Issue Likely to Be Pressed Throughout Country.

A growing demand throughout the country is calling for proportional representation in the National Grange, and apparently this is one of the problems with which that body will have to deal in the very near future. For years the states of Maine, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Washington and Oregon have been pressing the claims of a changed representation and this demand was recently joined in by the state of New York, with its more than 100,000 members. Now local Granges in Ohio are taking up the same cause and are starting a widespread movement in that state. Should a majority of Ohio Patrons come out in favor of proportional representation, it would so strengthen the latter issue that it is likely to take on energetic form at the coming National Grange session at Spokane, Wash. The present system of representation in the National Grange is based on the same principle as the United States senate-each Grange state has two voting members, its state master and wife, in the session of the National Grange. It making no difference whether they come from a state of 1,-000 members or of 100,000. The entire voting strength of the National Grange is therefore but 60 votes, in which it would be possible, should such a disposition ever appear, for the 16 smallest Grange states to form a combination and completely outvote the 14 largest states, in which case the minority might possibly represent ten times the actual membership represented by the majority. It has always been this way since the National Grange was organized and the leaders of the order have always held that such an arrangement was necessary to preserve the stability of the Grange.

For years no objection to such a basis was offered but of late the so-called "insurgent" contingent has been pressing hard for proportional representation, declaring that no other method is just to the membership as a whole. The steady acquisition, to this demand, of state after state indicates a likelihood that ultimately there will be some change in the present representation system in the National

In South Dakota.

The past season in South Dakota has been one of much Grange prosperity, and new organization work has progressed remarkably well. State Master George R. Malone reports the completion of nine new Granges during the month of March, with the beginning well started on several others. The extreme cold weather of the past winter seriously handicapped organization work in the Sunshine State, but good headway was nevertheless accomplished. South Dakota is one of the newest Grange states and the present state master is George R. Malone of Draper. Working closely with the latter are State Secretary George W. Dixon of Watertown and Prof. Arthur A. Brigham of the state university at Brookings, the latter a former master of the State Grange of Massachusetts.

As a result of the progress in South Dakota, a movement is now on foot looking towards the extension of the Grange into North Dakota, and present indications are that this will be accomplished the coming fall. Na-Ill, has recently made a careful investigation of North Dakota conditions and believes that the time is ripe state. Montana is already being organized, so that the probabilities are that these two new state Granges will claim representation at the next sitting of the National Grange, in Spokane, Wash., next November, The greatest need in this work is to secure courageous and capable organizers, as the task is an arduous one and requires no end of perseverance and patience. Apparently, however, the Grange will get a strong following in both North Dakota and Montana, when once well under way.
