Bartch-Brundrett Wedding.

A very quite wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Hammond on East street at 11 o'clock Monday forenoon, when their daughter, Miss Ruth E. Bartch, was united in marriage with Mr. Robert H. Brundrett of Dayton, Ohio, the ceremony being performed in the presence of the immediate members of the family, Rev. J. W. Campbell, pastor of the M. E. church, officiating.

The bride is a graduate of the Chelsea high school and for the last six years has been a successful teacher in one of the lower grades. She has taken an active part as a singer in the churches of this place. She was given two pre-nuptial showers by her young lady friends. The groom is a bookkeeper in the Dayton National bank. The couple left on the afternoon train for the east and a trip up the lakes. They will make their home in Dayton.

New Garage.

H. Lighthall commenced work the first of this week on a new garage which he will erect on the BeGole property on Main street for L. G.

The north part of the residence is to be torn down and the upright part of the house is to be raised and a wall put under it and will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Palmer. The garage will have a frontage on the street of 40 feet and will be 100 feet in depth. The new building will be on a line in front with the house and will run back covering the ground in the rear. The front of the new building will be constructed of pressed brick and he remainder will be built of the ordinary building brick. There will be a front and side entrance. The floor will be of cement and is to be heated by steam. Mr. Lighthall has taken the contract for the building.

Automobile Accident.

Last Friday evening Wm. J. Schnait. man and family met with an automobile accident on the hill east of the residence of M. Kappler in Sylvan. He was driving into Chelsea and as he started down the hill he met a man into the ditch were it was turned over on one side. The windshield, one bow in the top and a number of bolts were broken. Mr. Schnaitman was the only member of the party who was injured and he received a slight cut over one of his eyes. He drove the machine into town after the accident. Mr. and Mrs. Schnaitman and children returned to their home in Detroit Saturday.

Blue Ribbon Races.

The Michigan state fair track where the grand circuit races are held has been regarded as one of the best in the country, but it never was in as good condition as it is this year. The patrons of racing want to see the best horses and contests, also they like to see very low figures hung on the timing board. These three elements will combine at the annual Blue Ribbon meeting in Detroit from July 22 to 27, for now it looks much their annual meeting in the pavilion will be $8.00 for the time in camp and as though the records for many of the classes will be lowered. The expense of putting the track in pertect shape is heavy, but the Detroit Driving Club has not stopped at this, the consequence being that when the big stables reach the Michigan metropolis week after next they will find the race course ideal for the best efforts on the part of the steeds that have been specially prepared for this meeting.

From all over the country where horses are in training and from other points where they have started racng word comes of the wonderful speed that has been shown in the last two weeks. Never were the horses appointed to aid in the establishment in such superb condition, and this is partly owing to the fact that less has been done with them in the preparation and they have more animal life to take to the score.

The Merchants & Manufacturers' stake which will be raced on July 24, and the Chamber of Commerce stake set for July 23 promise to be the most sensational renewals of those classics of the light harness turf. Horses named in other early closing events are doing just as well and it is known that the many that will make up the class races are in better form than is usual. The Blue Ribbon meetings have added much to the fame of Detroit as the city where life is worth living, and the last week in this month promises to see most brilliant sport on the fast track in the metropolis of Michigan.

A Hero in a Lighthouse.

For years J. S. Donahue, South Haven, Mich., a civil war captain, as a lighthouse keeper, averted awful wrecks, but a queer fact is, he might have been a wreck, himself, if Electric Bitters had not prevented. "They cured me of kidney trouble and chills," he writes, "after I had taken other so called cures for years, withother so called cures for years, without benefit and they also improved my sight. Now, at seventy, I am feeling fine." For dyspepsia, indigestion, all stomach, liver and kidney troubles, they're without equal. Try

DESERT OCEAN IN AFRICA

Sahara to Be Covered With Ships and Surrounded by Fertile Fields and Forests.

The project of converting the desert of Sahara into a vast inland sea, one-half the size of the Mediterranout a satisfactory plan for the engineering work necessary, and is now urging that France add this to its other Northern Africa enterprises.

About one-fourth of the great desert is below the sea level, and by his plan of cutting a canal some 50 miles long to the north coast of Africa, the whole region would be covered with a sea from 10 to 60 fathoms deep and navigable by steamers, thus producing a flourishing traffic between French West Africa.

It is also argued that all the arid section surrounding the desert would be rendered as fertile as Europe, and that millions of people, now leading a precarious existence, could support themselves in comfort.

Two objections are raised by other cientists. One is the possible damage which might be done to Europe by an alteration of climatic conditions on a large scale, and another the ned possibility that the equilibeing of the earth would be affected by the displacement of so many billions of tons of water. GOV. OSBORN REFUSED TO LEAD PROGRESSIVES AT THIS TIME.

Clash Among Leaders as to Whether Call Should Provide for Organizing a New Party or Simply Indorse Roosevelt.

Plans for the organization of a national progressive party in Michigan, to provide a way of supporting Col. Roosevelt, were agreed to by those who attended the conference in Lansing. A convention will be held under "The Oaks" at Jackson, July 20, to nominate presidential electors, perfect a state organization and take up such other matters as are deemed necessary. The result was not brought about until the convention had been in session all the afternoon, with threats of bolt by some delegates and many extended arguments.

The clash was over the question as to whether the call should provide for organizing a new party and the electors will be named and leave the decision as to a permanent organization for consideration later. The latter plan carried, after Gov. Osborn

WILSON AND MARSHALL THE NOMINEES OF THE DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION AT BALTIMORE.

CONVENTION, AFTER A HARD BATTLE, ENDS LIKE A LOVE-FEAST.

The Great Battle Ended in an Uproar and the Tired Delegates Sighed With Relief From the Strain.

Baltimore, July 3 .- 2:30 a. m .- For president, Gov. Woodrow Wilson, of

For vice president, Gov. Thomas R. Marshall, of Indiana. This was the ticket completed by the democratic national convention 1:56 a. m. Tuesday. The nomination of Gov. Marshall for vice president came as something of a surprise, for when the night's balloting for vice president began it seemed that the Bryan-Wilson contingent in the convention had definitely settled upon Gov. John E. Burke, of North Dakota. There was not much of a fight, however, and when two ballots disclosed Marshall easily in the lead, Gov. Burke's name was withdrawn and Marshall was proclaimed the nominee by acclamation. A minute later the convention had adjourned sine die. The delegates, worn and weary, made their way out of the big convention hall singing and happy to be started for home. The democratic national convention nominated Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey, for president at 3:33 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. The nomination came on the fourth ballot of the day and the forty-sixth of the convention. up of a fiscal year, and it beats a Wilson, on the final ballot, got 990, Champ Clark 84, and Gov. Harmon 12.

The nomination was then made unanimous. At midnight Tuesday the convention was in session trying to nominate a running mate for Gov. Wilson. The governor himself was strongly in favor of having Champ Clark take second place on the ticket. Efforts were made early in the evening by the leaders to get Mr. Clark to accept, but the announcement was made on the floor of the convention that he would not take the place. Toward midnight efforts to persuade Mr. Clark to consent to the use of his name had been renewed, and the work on the floor of the convention in regard to selecting a vice president had been laid aside, pending the conference with Speaker Clark over the long distance telephone. Speaker

Clark absolutely declined to acept the nomination. CONVENTION HALL, BALTIMORE, July 2 .- Woodrow Wilson, governor of New Jersey, was nominated for president by the Democratic national convention on the forty-sixth ballot Tuesday afternoon.

The final break to Gov. Wilson came at the beginning of the forty-sixth ballot. Wilson had received 633 votes on the forty-fifth ballot with only 25 1-23 necessary to nominate.

Senator Bankhead, of Alabama, quickly withdrew Underwood. Senator Stone, of Missouri, in behalf of Champ Clark, released all Clark delegates, at the same time saying Missouri would vote for him to the Mayor Fitzgerald, of Boston, withdrew Gov. Fass from consideration. By this time it was apparent Wilson would win on the forty-sixth ballot and the convention was in an uproar, delaying the call for a long while. The deciding vote was: Wilson, 990; Clark, 84. Wilson's gain appeared immediately on the reopening of the convention.

On the first ballot taken he had 602 votes, a gain of 108; on the next ballot he went to 629; on the third count of the day, the forty-fifth ballot he got 633, a total gain for the three ballets of 137. It was than that Underwood Following three ballots in which Woodrow Wilson gained a total of 133 votes, placing him within 93 of nomination, Oscar Underwood and Gov. Foss withdrew from the race this afternoon. Clark's delegates were released and the nomination of Wilson by acclamation was expected to follow almost at once. On the forty-fifth ballot Wilson's vote was 633, Clark's 306. Bankhead spoke for Underwood amid breathless silence. He said Underwood had entered the contest hoping to be the nominee. But his chief

RAPE FOR LATE SUMMER AND AUTUMN PLANTING

By R. S. SHAW, Dean of Agriculture, Michigan Agricultural College

The use of the rape plant on American farms is not as common as other crops which have been grown for a longer period and are better known. In the early stages of its growth its leaves resemble, and can scarcely be distinguished from the rutabaga, but as development proceeds the energies of the plant are used for the production of stems and a profusion of leaves rather than for the production of a large bulbous root as in the case of the rutabaga. The tender stems and for maintenance. leaves of this plant furnish excellent pasturage for sheep and swine during the latter part of the season when grass pastures are dry and scant.

Rape may be introduced in a number of places in planning the farm crop system; it seldom occupies a place in a rotation of cereals and hay crops. Rape may be sown along with oats but it is safest to broadcast and harrow after the oats are up for fear of the rape making too much growth before harvest, thus interfering with parvesting, curing and threshing. This crop can also be grown along with corn by broadcasting just previous to the last cultivation.

Rape makes a good cover for the bearing orchards where permanent sod conditions are not desired. This combination is ideal for both sheep and swine. It can also be grown on fields or portions of fields where earller sown cereal crops have failed from a variety of causes. Soils not as well drained muck, will produce station at East Lansing for bulletins good crops of rape.

This crop is adapted to a variety of soils though the best results are secured from the more substantial loams. It is a gross feeder and responds quickly to fertilizers. Impovclays are not well suited to rape pro-

Of the great variety of weeds found in our meadows there are three particularly bad ones, viz; narrow-leaved dock (rumex crispus), red root or pigeon weed (lithospermum arvense). and false flax (camelina sativa). The reason why these are bad weeds

Only four states, Mississippi, Nerada, Utah and Wyoming, have no heds whatever in special hospitals or wards for consumptives. Eight years ago when the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis was organized, there were 26 states in which no hospital or sanitorium provision for consumptives existed, and the entire number of beds in the United States was only 10,000.

"While these figures would indicate a remarkable growth in anti-tuberculosis activity," says Dr. Livingston Farrand, executive secretary of the National ascociation, in commenting on the subject. "there are still practically ten indigent consumptives for every one of the 30,000 beds, including those for pay patients. In other words, we have from 250,000 to 300,000 consumptives in this country too poor to provide hospital care for themselves. HOW SHARK IS HARNESSED Trick by Which Sallor Pays Debt to Merciless Member of the Finny Tribe.

The shark's jaws are pried open to the fullest extent; a stout eight-foot spar of tough timber, four inches by four in cross-measurement, is fixed transversely far back in the angle of the jaw, the ends projecting on either side. A strong rope leading from the ends of the spar is drawn close and tightened with a clove-hitch round the fish's tail, behind the wide tailflukes. It is thus the sailor harnesses

The clamp of the cruel jaws drives the two-inch long teeth deep into the tough spar. The tight line holds it in place, and, struggle as he may, the shark fails to move the spar an inch from its position. As a finishing touch, the sailor drew his knife-blade across the shark's eyeballs and let Bitted and bridled, blinded, with jaws wide-gaping, he swam through a limitless sea in never-ending fatuous circles. The queer furnishings he bore scared away others of his kind. Lonely and silent he passed like Cain among the fishes till starvation and sheer misery ended his existence. Cruel? Of course it was. But surely, like the venomous snake, the shark Thomas Wortley and Lynn Kern spent has long put himself beyond the pale of human mercy. Soft-hearted as he usually is, the sailor-man has a long memory. The shark has followed for weeks in the shadow of his ship, and has watched each man of the crew with greedy malevolent eye. There is a heavy debt against all the shark tribe for many a lost mariner, and, when the chance comes to settle old scores, the sailor pays it to the full. Besides the thing has the sanction of immemorial custom. It was some old Phoenician, trading out of Tyre to the far Cassitorides, who, probably, first put the trick in practice.-Wide World Magazine.

ONOLULU goes in for water sports to a greater extent, probably, than any other city in the world. All kinds of aquatic games are indulged in, but the most popular are also among the most dangerous and are specialized in here to a degree that makes them almost a distinctive Hawaiian diversion. Surf-riding is one or the most common of these water sports and is full of excitement for both pardeigants and onlookers. In outriggered cances the natives ride the breakwater waves as they much shoreward, and, it is almost superfluous add, it is a sport that calls for a steady merve and no little skill.

Biding the surf on planks is another form of this sport practiced by the visitors at Waibeach, and is just as exciting and danger-

But the most exciting and dangerous of Maraiian water sports is shark hunting. This goet is indulged in in the vicinity of Honolulu Power boats of about four tons disprement are generally used. In the company a congenial Honolulu sportsman I went out to try my hand at the game. We left the harther at 8 o'clock in the morning, at which early hour the bay and vicinity is alive with people carraged in all kinds of fishing. Just as we started we came across a number of Japanese; some were wading up to their waists in the aballow water and others were angling from heats. Outside the bay men in two-oared punts were hunting for sea turtles, which in these waters average from 400 to 500 pounds in weight. In cooking cheese it is well to remember that overheating it makes it indigestible. When possible, add the cheese to a hot dish only long enough to melt it. A tablespoonful of cheese will flavor a dish, and not even a scrap should be thrown away.

Cows, which have been known in Corea for scores of centuries, are never milked, or were not cntil a few years ago, and the Coreans never knew anything about dairy products.

In most countries the horse is considered a better mount than the donkey. Not so in Corea. There the meek and slow moving ass is regarded as the best riding animal.

Street signs are relied upon in the cities of other countries, and nowhere are they more used than in China, which formerly exercised a shadowy suzerainty over Corea and was her neighbor. But in Seoul they were not used at all before the Japanese came. In almost all other countries women are fond of going shopping and merchants strive to please them. In Corea it is otherwose. The women regard shopping as a necessary evil, and the merchants keep their goods in closets instead of on counters and shelves and in showcases. The merchant does not hustle for trade or argue for a sale. If the customer asks for something else she is likely to be shown what the merchant has and told that he has nothing like what she wants.

In most countries retailing liquors is not regarded as a suitable avenue of activity for an aristocratic woman whose fortune has dwindled. In Corea a lady in distress may operate a saloon without fear of any social stigma resting upon her. And a bar is the only kind of shop she may keep with impunity. Her maid acts as barmaid, but the saloon is given space in the residence without injuring the tone of the establishment. A woman of social distinction may make shoes provided she makes such as the common people wear. To make shoes for her own class would remove her from that class. A Corean lady in reduced circumstances may become a physician, and to protect the occupation from overcrowding the law of Corea, before the Japanese occupation, provided that no woman who was not an aristocrat might practice medicine. Powdered tiger claws, bear's gall and other remedies that do not appear in the pharmacopoeia are prescribed. Lieut. Harry Mallory is ordered to the philippines. He and Marjorie Newton decide to clope, but wreck of taxicab prevents their seeing minister on the way to the train. Transcontinental train is taking on passengers. Porter has a lively time with an Englishman and Ira Lathop, a Yankee business man. The alopers have an exciting time getting to the train. "Little Jimmie" Wellington, bound have an exciting time getting to, bound train. "Little Jimmie" Wellington, bound for Reno to get a divorce, boards train in maudlin condition. Later Mrs. Jimmie appears. She is also bound for Reno with same object. Likewise Mrs. Sammy Whitcomb. Latter blames Mrs. Jimmie for her marital troubles. Classmates of Malory decorate bridal berth. Rev. and Mrs. Temple start on a vacation. They decide to cut loose and Temple removes evidence of his calling. Marjorle decides to let Mallory proceed alone, but train starts while they are lost in farewell.

CHAPTER IX.

All Aboard! The starting of the train surprised the ironical decorators in the last stages of their work. Their smiles died out in a sudden shame, as it came over them that the joke had recoiled on their own heads. They had tion. done their best to carry out the timehonored rite of making a newly married couple as miserable as possibleand the newly married couple had failed to do its share.

The two lieutenants glared at each other in mutual contempt. They had studied much at West Point about ambushes, and how to avoid them. Could Mallory have escaped the pit they had digged for him? They looked at their handiwork in disgust. The cosy-corner effect of white ribbons and orange flowers, gracefully masking the concealed rice-trap, had seemed the wittiest thing ever devised. Now it looked the silliest.

The other passengers were equally in the corridor were kissing goodbyes as if they were hoping to store up honey enough to sustain their hearts for a three years' fast. And "Then I'll jump off," Marjerie lowed, making a dash for the door. But the porter filled the narrow path, and waved her back.

"Vestibule's done locked uprain's going lickety-split." Feeling that he had safely checkmated any rashness, the porter squeezed past the dumbfounded pair, and went to change his blue blouse for the white coat of his chambermaidenly duties. Mallory's first wondering thought was a rapturous feeling that circumstances had forced his dream into a reality. He thrilled with triumph:

her shoulder: "Doctor? Doctor Temple? Is your husband a reverend doctor?"

"A reverend doctor?" the little old lady repeated weakly. "Yes-a-a preacher?"

The poor old congregation-weary soul was abruptly confronted with the ruination of all the delight in her little escapade with her pulpit-fagged husband. If she had ever dreamed that the girl who was weeping in her arms was weeping from any other fright than the usual fright, of young brides, fresh from the preacher's benediction, she would have cast every other consideration aside, and told the truth.

But her husband's last behest be fore he left her had been to keep their precious pretend-secret. She felt-just then-that a woman's first duty is to obey her husband. Besides, what business was it of this young husband's what her old husband's business was? Before she had fairly begun to debate her duty, almost automatically, with the instantaneous instinct of self-protection, her lips had uttered the denial: "Oh-he's-just a-plain doctor.

There he is now." Mallory cast one miserable glance down the aisle at Dr. Temple coming back from the smoking room. As the old man paused to stare at the bridal berth, whose preparation he had not seen, he was just enough befuddled by his first cigar for thirty years to look a trifle tipsy. The motion of the train and the rakish tilt of his unwonted crimson tie confirmed the suspicion and annihilated Mallory's new-born hope, that perhaps repentant

WITH AN EYE TO THE FUTURE

Manner of Laying Out the Streets of a New Town Should Be Most Carefully Considered.

For outlying districts, narrow, winding, or diagonal streets make it possible to spend more on the sanitation of the homes, declares a man who has made a study of dty planning. Where traffic of the future promises to be dense and a wide street may at some time be wise, in the intervening years a narrow paved area, bordered by grass and trees, is good economy, good sense, and good health.

As between rectangular streets exclusively and a combination in which some of the streets are diagonal and with less inconvenience than in any other city, and there the cars come in on diagonal streets to the Rigstrasse, which they follow around to deliver their passengers as near as possible to their destinations.

Robinson says: "The two diagonal streets, Broadway and the Bowery, in New York saved for the city breathing spots like Madison and Union squares-space out of reach if condemnation had been required."

Utilization of Vacant Lots. For several years the City Beautiful page has advocated the use and beautification of vacant city lots, calling attention to the success attained in eastern cities through the work of Vacant Lot associations, etc. The probem now seems near to solution. The various schools of the city have extended their school garden work to near-by unused property, and if this movement does not culminate in the appropriation of all vacant lots it will at least call attention to the importance of control of one of our greatest eyesores-numberless weed-grown, rubish-strewn vacant lots.-Los Angeles Times.

ARCHBALD INDICTED

Articles of Impeachment Filed With House of Representatives. Chairman Henry D. Clayton of the committee on judiciary of the house of representatives presented the house 13 articles of impeachment against Judge Robert W. Archbald, of the U. S. court of commerce, Mr. Clayton's report was unanimous from his committee, Rejublicans as well as Democras voting for bringing the judge to trial. It constitutes the ninth impeachment of a judicial or civil official of the U.S. since the foundation of the government, and is the first since the impeachment of Judge Charles Swayne of the northern district of Florida who was acquitted on Feb.

27. 1905. "The conduct of this judge has been exceedingly reprehensible and in marked contrast with the high sense of judicial ethics and probity that generally characterize the federal judiciary," the committee said in summing up its findings of misbehavior in office against Judge Arch-

SKIN ERUPTION ON CHEEK

Kingsley, Mich.—"Last May my thirteen-months-old baby had a sore come on her cheek. It started in four or five small pimples and in two or three hours' time spread to the size of a silver dollar. It spread to her eye. Then water would run from the pimples and wherever that touched it caused more sores until nearly all one cheek and up her nostrils were one solid sore. She was very fretful. She certainly was a terrible looking child, and nothing seemed to be of any use.

"Then I got some Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. She tried to.rub off everything we put on so that we would sit and hold her hands for two hours at a time, trying to give the medicine a chance to help her, but after I washed it with Cuticura Soap and then put on the Cuticura Ointment they seemed to soothe her and she did not try to rub them off. It was only a few days before her face was all healed up, and there has been no return of the trouble since. We thought that baby's face would surely be scarred, but it is not." (Signed)

Mrs. W. J. Cleland, Jan. 5, 1912. Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. L. Boston."

Lieut. Harry Mallory is ordered to the Philippines. He and Marjorle Newton decide to elope, but wreck of taxicab pre-vents their seeing minister on the way to decide to elope, but wreck of taxical prevents their seeing minister on the way to the train. Transcontinental train is taking on passengers. Porter has a lively time with an Englishman and Ira Lathrop, a Yankee business man. The alopers have an exciting time getting to the train. "Little Jimmie" Wellington, bound for Reno to get a divorce, boards train in maudlin condition. Later Mrs. Jimmie appears. She is also bound for Reno with same object. Likewise Mrs. Sammy Whitsemb. Latter blames Mrs. Jimmie for her marital troubles. Classmates of Mallory decorate bridal berth. Rev, and Mrs. Temple start on a vacation. They decide to cut loose and Temple removes evidence of his calling. Marjorie decides to let Mallory proceed alone, but train starts while they are lost in farewell. Passengers join Mallory's classmates in giving couple wedding hazing.

"My dear what?" Marjorie mumbled inanely, and began to sniffle again. Whereupon Mrs. Temple resigned her to Mallory, and consigned her to fate with a consoling platitude:

Marjorie and Mallory's eyes met in one wild clash, and then both stared into the window, and did not notice that the shades were down.

CHAPTER XI.

A Chance Encounter.

While Mrs. Temple was confiding to her husband that the agitated couple in the next seat had just come from a wedding-factory, and had got on while he was lost in tobacco land, the People in the seat on the other side of them were engaged in a little drama of their own.

When he raised his head, he found that he had crowded into a seat with an uncomfortable looking woman, who crowded against the window with oldmaidenly timidity.

He felt some apology to be necessary, and he snarled: "Disgusting things, these weddings!" After he heard this, it did not sound entirely telicitous, so he grudgingly ventured: | er." "Excuse me-you married?"
