SPRAYING can no longer Le considered by the up-to-date farmer or grower as an expense. It is rather an investment. The man who sprays his orchard systematically and with the proper materials is sure to have a larger crop and more perfect fruit than the man who does not spray.

SHERWIN-WILLIAMS LIME-SULFUR SOLUTION is a universal fungicide and insecticide for destroying San Jose Scale and other sucking insects and mites. As a Fall spray it should be used 10 days after the leaves have dropped, and as a Spring spray it should be applied just before the trees come out of their dormant state. The Spring spraying is effective against the Peach Leaf Curl as well as the scale. The proper use of this solution at the right time will increase the proportion of perfect fruit in your crops many times. ...

Poisoned Fish Menace.

The state board of health has sent Engineer Rich to Blissfield and other towns along the river Raisin to investigate the complaints of several boards of health there that fish are being poisoned by the wagon load and that the public health is menaced. The state game and fish department has also sent a deputy to investigate

According to Dr. Dixon, secretary of state board of health, the fish are being killed by the refuse which the Continental sugar factory, at Blissfield, is dumping into the river.

The doctor ordered all dead fish ouried regardless of the amount, so as to protect the health of citizens. Telephone communication with Blissfield reveals that the river is fairly covered with dead fish. The game for his home. and fish department says there is an injunction against the sugar company restraining it from dumping refuse in the river. The department promises drastic action unless the practice is stopped.

Gov. Osborn has also received complaint from the citizens of Dundee because of the slaughter of fish

Early Fire Alarm.

The fire department was called the residence of Mr. and Mrs. B. Nichols, on Harrison street, about six o'clock Tuesday morning. The blaze was caused by flames from a gasoline stove. Other than from smoke the damage was very small.

Mrs. Nichols attached the garden sink and had the blaze out when the fire department arrived. The flames shot up between a partition and the whole house was soon filled with

The alarm was rather confusing as he signal given sounded the third ward, instead of the first. The fire department and citizens in general had considerable trouble to locate the fire and some time was lost in making starts in different directions.

Two Workmen at Gas Plant Injured Last Saturday Afternoon.

Fred Hoffman, foreman of the construction crew at the Chelsea plant of the Ann Arbor Gas Company met with an accident last Saturday afternoon that will confine him to his home in Ann Arbor for some time.

Mr. Hoffman was engaged with other workmen in building a scaffold and runway for the cement foundation of the gas reservoir, when it gave away andhe fell a distance of between 12 and 14 feet, landing on his feet on the cement. His right ankle was sprained and it is thought that some of the small bones in his foot were broken. He was taken to the electric line in an auto where he took a car

Custer Brigade Reunion.

The lustre surrounding the career of the dashing Custer brigade, with the tragic circumstances attending the death of the admired leader at the hands of the hostile Sioux under Sitting Bull, invest the coming reunion of the regiments composing the brigade at Detroit on October 9 and 10, with unusual interest. The First. Fifth, Sixth and Seventh Michigan hose to the water tap at the kitchen cavalry regiments composed the brigade, and this, its annual reunion, will be held at the Detroit Grand Army Memorial building on the above dates. These reunions of the brigade are always occasions of enjoyment to the veterans, and the one this year is expected to be an unusually interesting one.

There are several members of the brigade who reside in this vicinity who expect to attend the reunion.

Ends in Death of Playmate.

Ann Arbor Times News: A game of "cowboy" ended fatally for Neil Beahan, nine years old, for he was shot in the head by Roy Streeter, aged 12, one of the boys in the gang, and died at midnight Sunday night at St. Joseph's sanitarium.

According to the statement of Coroner Burchfield, young Streeter picked up one of the rifles which the boys had been using in their play, thinking it was his own, which he had laid down a few minutes before, unloaded. "I'm going to shoot you," he called out pointing it at Neil, and pulled the trigger. The bullet struck the lad in front of the ear inflicting a wound which proved fatal in a few hours. The accident happened Sunday afternoon in Cascade Glen. There were 12 or 14 boys in the gang all about the same age as the Streeter boy, and they carried the wounded boy first to a little stream where they washed away the blood and then to a buggy in which one of the boys had driven to the place. Earl Beahan held his brother in his arms and they drove to the offices of two doctors before they finally found one in.

The boys all tell the same story about the accident. Streeter had unloaded his rifle and laid it on the grass beside a loaded one belonging to the Beahan boys. John Beahan came along, picked up Streeter's rifle and went off into the woods with it, and when Streeter saw the gun on the grass he naturally supposed it was his

Black Silk Stove Polish

ON'T imagine for a moment that all brands of stove polish are the same. Don't get the idea that to keep a nice glossy shine on your stove you must black it every few days. It's not a question of oft-repeated application. It's a question of the stove polish to use.

Black Silk Stove Polish is so much better than other stove, polishes that there is absolutely no comparison—it's in a class all by itself.

It makes a brilliant glossy shine that don't rub or dust off. It anneals to the iron—becomes a part of the stove. It makes old stoves look like new and lasts four times as long as any other shine.

Get a can and give it a trial. Try it on your parlor stove, your cook stove, or your gas range. If you do not find it the best stove polish you ever used, your dealer is authorized to refund your money. Black Silk Stove Polish has been made by the same formula and sold under one name for 30 years. Here is what some of the ladies write us:

"I sent to you for a can of Black Silk Stove Polish and found it so much better than any I had ever used that I asked my hardware dealer to order a supply. He did so, and is now selling nearly everyone in the place your polish. I had no idea there could be such a difference in stove polishes."

"I was visiting friends and they used Black Silk Stove Polish on their stoves. It made the best shine I ever saw, and after blacking, the polish did not rub or dust off. It is way ahead of any polish I have ever used."

Ask Your Dealer for Black Silk Stove Polish and refuse a counterfeit brand. The control of the best. Made in liquid or paste—one quality. Black Silk Stove Polish Works, Sterling, Ill.

Use Black Silk Air-Drying Iron Enamel for grates, fenders, registers, stove pipes, etc. Prevents rusting. Not affected by heat or cold. Produces a permanent glossy black surface. Can, with brush for applying enamel, only 25 cents. Ask your dealer. Use Black Silk Metal Polish for nickel, brass, silver ware or tinware. It has no equal for use on automobiles

BUY IHC Wagons for True Economy

TOU cannot farm without a wagon any more than you can keep house without a stove. You work your wagon oftener and harder than anything else on the farm.

Buy a wagon that lasts longer than the average. It is an easy thing to do, even though all wagons which are painted alike may look alike. The difference in wagons is underneath the paint. It is the material and workmanship, entering unto the construction of I H C wagons,

New Bettendorf Weber Steel King Columbus

which make them the best wagon investment. We want every purchaser to convince himself before buying, that when I H C wagons are advertised as having oak or birch hubs, hickory axles, and long leaf yellow pine box bottoms, these are the materials actually used. When an I H C wagon reaches a farmer's barn, that farmer has one of the best-wearing, easiest-running farm wagons that skilled labor can make or that money can buy. There is no need to speculate in buying a wagon. IHC wagons are made for nation-wide uses, with special features adapted to local conditions. Weber and Columbus have wood gears. New Bettendorf and Steel King have steel gears. The I H C wagon dealer in your town sells the wagon best suited to your neighborhood. Ask him for I H C wagon literature, or, write

PASSING OF STEAM ENGINES.
The practical success which has followed the use of the juternal combustion engine in large ships seems to spell the beginning of the end of steam vessels. Recently the head of a company owning and operating more than 70 steam vessels announced that his company would never again build s ship with steam as the motive power. The advantages of the internal combustion engine are many. They utilize a great per cent. of the energy of the fuel. They are economleal in operation. As one man expressed it, all you have to do is to start the thing and then read a newspaper. The fuel can be conveniently carried, no stokers are required, and instead of the engines becoming overheated in tropical climates, trial seems to show that they work better the hotter the temperature. The present difficulty seems to be to get oil at a reasonable cost. Gasoline, has been rising steadily in price for some time. The supply of crude oil is not limitless by any means. There remains, of course, denatured alcohol. which can be made from vegetable matter, and it may in time become the great fuel of the world. However that may be, it is reasonably certain that ship owners during the next decade will turn to the internal combustion engine to solve many of their difficulties.

A great many people, fearful of the altimate swamping of this country by an influx of foreigners, look only at the statistics showing arrivals of immigrants, and forget that there is a refluent tide. During the fiscal year which ended with the month of June more than a million individuals from toreign ports landed in ports of the United States. Of these, however, 178,983 were classified as non-immigrants, which fact reveals the number of immigrants as 838,172, says the Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin. But against this there was an offset. The slien departures from American ports in the fiscal year numbered 615,292, of whom 282,030 were non-immigrants. To find the extent of the immigrant addition to the population in the year 1911-12 it is necessary to subtract the 222,262 representing immigrants who departed from the 838,-172 representing immigrants who aryear to have been 401,863, which is not alarming.

SUPREME JUSTICE-Long term. Edwin S. Lyons of St. Johns; short term, Willard G. Turner

The much-discussed attempt of Governor Osborn's friends to secure recognition of his administration or indorsement of Supreme Justices Kuhn and Steere was apparently completely forgotten in the Bull Moose convention in Lansing on Tuesday.

Representatives of Osborn had conference during the early morning hours with Julius B. Kirby, who as temporary chairman, was to deliver the "key-note speech," and it is alleged they induced him to warm up a bit on behalf of Osborn.

Every reference to Osborn was bluepenciled except the mention of his name in connection with the presi- with slaying John Eisy in Jackson. dential preference primary matter until the jurisdiction of the civil and the workmen's compensation act, and the speech was then amended so as to include L. Osborn's name was passed without a single plaudit. Individual delegates made bitter reference to the "state house crowd" and its "nerve" in "butting in" on a Progressive convention. but the convention ignored everything pertaining to Osborn and his administration.

The alignment of Herbert F. Baker. of Cheybogan, with the Bull Moose standard bearers was the source of much delight. Baker certainly did not seek the nomination. Telegram after telegram was shot at him until finally, late in the afternoon, less than ten minutes before the convention balloted on the auditor generalship, a wire came from Cheybogan bearing the brief legend: "Do as you think best. Democratic Candidate for Probate Judge of Washtenaw County.

To the Voters of Washtenaw County: Election day, November 5th, is drawing nearer, and naturally every voter wishes to know something about the men they are going to vote for. Therefore, as chairman of the Dem-Frank Knickerbocker and family ocratic county committee, I wish at and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Holmes, of this time to give you some facts and Norvell, spent Sunday with Bernis information relative to the candidate who heads the Democratic ticket.

Mr. William H. Murray, Democratic Rosnell, New Mexico, where he had candidate for Judge of Probate, was been with sheep. L. B. Lawrence, born and brought up on a farm in the village of Milan, and has always lived in Washtenaw county. After graduating from the Milan high school, he entered the University of Michigan, taking work in the literary and law departments, graduating from the law department in 1895, and receiving the degree of Master of Henry Akay spent last week at the Laws in 1896, shortly afterward starting his legal career in the Ann Arbor E. E. Rowe and family spent Sun- office of Hon. John P. Kirk, who was then prosecuting attorney, and has been practicing law in the city of Ann Arbor continually ever since, except what time he served in the army during the Spanish-American war in 1898, being a member of Company A, 31st Michigan volunteers. He is a man of marked legal ability and of the highest integrity; by hard work and square dealing he has earned for himself a well deserved recognition as a lawyer, to which all of his clients and people who have employed him will testify.

He has never held a county office other than circuit court commissioner some years ago. At present he is a member of the common council of the city of Ann. Arbor. The manner in which he has performed the duties of these offices highly recommend him to your consideration as a candidate for Judge of Probate. Mr. Murray resides at 711 West Washington street, in the city of Ann of Chelsea, spent several days of last Arbor, and his home life is an example of devotion to his family, having been married since 1901 to Julia J. Allmendinger, daughter of David F. Allmendinger, of this city, and having three children, of whom he is very proud. Having a family of children better qualifies him to take care of the juvenile cases which come before the Judge of Probate to this west bound-5:55 am, and every two hours

In addition to his legal work, he has had many dealings in buying and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sager and family selling property, and is well versed spent Sunday with John Walz and in real estate, both in farm lands and city property, which is a valuable asset for any man holding the office of Judge of Probate.

Mr. Murray having all the qualifications for the office to which he as-Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jacob, of Nor- pires and his reputation and integrity vell, were Thursday guests at the in all his dealings assures you that if him, as well as yourselves, but will assure the county a clean and impartial administration in the office. Ambassador's Privileges.

An accredited ambassador is wholly free from the jurisdiction of the courts of law or of any other authority in the country to which he is sent. His house is as sacred as his person. It is regarded not as belonging to the country in which he is living, but as a part of the country which sent him. It could no more be entered by the police than a town could be occupied by the soldiery of another nation. This protection is extended to the inmates of the house. If a wrong is committed by some one in the employ of an embassy, in any capacity, the only means of redress is an appeal to the ambassador or to the government which sent him, and which will not, it is supposed, allow a wrong to be sheltered under the peculiar privileges granted its representative.

In Sight.

The scene was on the road to Point Place. Illuminations were furnished by the moon and stars. Besides the rabbit and the auto there were one man and two girls, also a chauffeur. The big automobile was speeding along the highway, sending its white light ahead, when suddenly right across the path of the rays from the head lamps shot a young rabbit. The chauffeur slackened speed, hating to hurt the little creature, and then the rabbit hopped back into the center of the road again, gave one look into the blinding glare of the lamps and started the race. Straight down the center of the smooth, white highway he shot on ahead of the car, and the chauffeur speeded up a bit just to see how fast the race was going to be, but he could not catch the rabbit, not by ten feet. That little critter's feet went so fast there did not seem to be any there, and just a speck where the long ears bobbed with the motion of his little body and a brown blur of hair. And still he ran, on and on, keeping his distance ahead of the big machine as if the light had hypnotized him and he could not stop, while behind in the car big, lazy pursuers laughed and watched and begged the chauffeur not to run him down. There was no such

The rabbit was too quick. When he was tired of the sport he hopped to one side of the road as the car went by, tipped up his tiny head and winked out of one pink eye as he looked at the speeder and its occupants with a quissical curve of his little mouth.—Toledo Blade.

By C. P. Bull.

[National Crop Improvement Service.] Some important factors in the growng of rye set forth in brief by C. P. Bull, Agricultural Experimental Station, University of Minnesota: Kinds of soil best adapted to growing rye: Any soil not depleted of its fertility, though it will do better on impoverished land than any of our cereals; sandy loam and loam or clay loams are best.

Climate best suited to growing rye: Any spring wheat region will be found suited to rye. It will also grow well in winter wheat districts, but in the latitude of the 45 degree parallel will probably grow best rye.

Methods of preparing the ground: Plowing (sub-surface packing if dry), rolling and disking if lumpy; harrow. Depth to plow for rye: Depends on the soil; 5 to 7 inches for sandy to Preparing the seed bed: Depends n conditions of soil. Make it fine and Best fertilizers for rye: Barnyard anure used with a good 4, 5, 6 or 7 year rotation of crops.

Disking for rye: Good crops of fall rye have been grown on cereal stubble (crop harvested) when the land was disked and seed sown; not to be recommended but can be done.

Selecting seed rye: Same as for wheat—with fanning mill and graders. Varieties best adapted to soil and mate of various states: Native winer varieties for Minnesota and northn climates; Minnesota No. 2 for Minesota and northern climates; spring ye is not recommended.

Amount of seed to sow to the scre: 1 bu, per acre.

Best time for seeding: Sept. 1 to ot. 5th; best about Sept. 15th. Where to get seed: In Minnesots ind the northwest get a seed stock of Minnesota No. 2 from Experiment tation, University of Minnesota. Farmers should grow one variety. But practically speaking, there is but one variety commonly grown. Effect of freezing in winter and pring: Winter rye is perfectly hardy. Best treatment for rye diseases: mut does not bother rye. Ergot is bad. Use pure seed stock. Grade seed and rotate crops and use grading mill most vigorously and long, dasect enemies of rye—how to com-lat: Does not seem to be bothered to

How to take care of crop after harvest: Shock; thresh at once as soon as dry, or stack. It will not pay to stack if it can be threshed from shock. Rye as food for animals: A little heavy-laxative. Rye as human food: O. K. More of it should be used. People have a false idea of what is best for health and fashion. Rye as cover crop: A good cover

Value of rye as green manure: One of the best-the best not counting the Profits in rye growing compared to other grains: A top notcher, Just as good as any when properly grown, Rye as a forage crop: Excellentoffers great opportunities as a green pasture both fall and spring, and will afterward produce a profitable seed

PERTILIZER FOR THE RYE CROP?

[National Crop Improvement Service.] Many farmers have much to learn about growing rye. This is shown by the large number of poor rye crops reported on every hand, and yet good crops of rye can be grown without much trouble and expense. The exsential thing is to use the right kind of fertilizer. Since an average crop of rye (say 30 bushels of grain to the acre) removes from the soil in the straw and the grain 45 pounds of Potash and 26 pounds of Phosphoric Acid, it will be seen that Potash must be supplied to the rye crop if a full yield is to be expected. From an analysis of the rye plant it is evident that both the straw and the grain require a complete fertilizer and that when both are taken together the manural requirements of the crop is mainly for Nitrogen and Potash. In addition to supplying actual plant food essential to growth and maturity, potash especially useful in giving strength and stability to the straw and plumpness and weight to the grain.

The business side of farming attracts more attention every year. The discussion of farm problems has proven of so much benefit that the institutes and farmer clubs are holding meetings to compare notes as to best methods. A rye meeting covers the following subjects:

The auto truck used as motive power to pull graders and drags or other road making devices is fast coming into use. The county commissioners and road overseers in many counfor this purpose and in all cases have found it to be of great service in road building. RYE IN WISCONSIN.

Rye a General Crop and Can Be Grown on a Wide Variety of Soils.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

"We have two pedigreed varieties of rye which I think are the best strains in the United States today. One party after testing the pedigree rye agreed to take all the rye Wisconsin could produce of this strain at an advanced price. We will have a large quantity of it grown this year so we will be in position to supply this pedigree seed rye in large and small quantities about August 1st," said R. A. Moore, agronomist, Wisconsin Experiment Station. "The rye should be sown the last week in August or first week in September in order to do its very best. Rye does well on soils that are too light to grow wheat, oats and barley.

Rye Fine Cover Crop. "Rye is a general crop and can be grown on a wide variation of soils. It can be grown to advantage on low mucky soils, clay, sand or prairie soils. It makes an exceedingly fine cover crop and affords good pasture for stock in the late fall and during the winter and early spring. It can be pastured heavily without much detriment to the crop. As soon as the stock is taken off the rye comes on exceedingly well.

"We hope to get rye disseminated extensively throughout our state and another year we want to be able to grow sufficient of this rye to plant the whole rye acreage of the United States, providing the farmers desire

CANNOT ENDURE THE PIANO!

Chinese Servant Gives Notice When Employer's Daughter Gets Old Enough to Practice.

The fascination of an untrammeled life in New York had lured other Chinese servants away from western families who had migrated with their retinue to New York, but John of the banker's family had remained faithful through two years of metropolitan temptations.

At last he gave notice and refused to tell why. Finally the manager of an employment agency offered a solution of John's defection.

FOR DISINFECTION OF BOOKS

Apparatus Devised by a Frenchman Removes Danger of Contagion and Doesn't Damage Paper.

The danger from contagion from books that have been in the hands of persons suffering from various diseases has led to the invention of various methods of disinfection, of which none appears to be more effective than an apparatus devised by Marsoulan of Paris.

His process embraces two parts. In the first place, the books are placed in a "beater" where a strong current of air opens every leaf and an aspirator sucks out the dust and deposits it in aseptic water; then they are suspended in a disinfector, the covers being bent back and held by clips so that the leaves are widely opened and placed over a heater which for a time subjects them to a temperature of 167 degrees Fahrenheit. The paper is not damaged, and the efficiency of the process is said to have been demonstrated beyond question.-Harper's Weekly.

TRIBUTE TO THE JUNGLE.

That India still pays its annual tribute of human life to the jungle is shown by a statement made in a recent issue of the London Times. During the past three years the number of deaths from snake bite or the attacks of wild animals has steadily increased. Rising waters have driven the serpents out of the lowlands up into the villages, and have diminished the natural food supply of the larger animals

In 1910 55 persons were killed by elephants, 25 by hyenas, 109 by bears, 851 by leopards, 318 by wolves, 853 by tigers, and 688 by other animals, including wild pigs. No less than 22, 478 died from the bite of poisonous snakes. The grand total of mortality is 24.878.

During the same year, 93,000 cattle were also killed by wild beasts and snakes. The losses on the part of inhabit ants of the jungle were nearly but not TYPEWRITER VS. COAL HEAVER. quite as great as those of their human enemies and domesticated animals combined. Ninety-one thousand one hundred and four snakes and over 19,000 wild beasts of various kinds were killed.

A WATERLOO DISPATCH.

There has just been published Blucher's dispatch which gave Berlin the first news of the victory of Waterloo. It was addressed to the governor, and said:

"I inform your excellency that in conjunction with the English army under Field Marshal the Duke of Wellington, I yesterday gained the most complete victory over Napoleon Bonaparte that could possibly be won.

"The battle was fought in the neighborhood of some isolated buildings on the road from here to Brussels bearing the name "La Belle Alliance," and a better name can hardly be given to this important day. The French army "How can you tell whether your au- is in complete dissolution, and an extraordinary captured.

"Time does not at this moment permit me to send further details to your excellency; I reserve them for a future occasion, and beg you duly to communicate this joyful news to the good Berliners.

"BLUCHER." (Signed.) This dispatch reached Berlin on June 24, 1815.

OLDEST FIRE TOWER.

At La Coruna, in northern Spain, may be seen a fire tower which is. with the exception of the ruins of the Roman lighthouse at Dover the oldest of all existing structures of this kind. The exact date of the erection of this tower is unknown. According to an ancient tradition, it is accredited to Hercules, whence its name Torre de Hercules. Others say that Phoeniclans, who established several colonies in Spain, had erected this lighttower for their northland cruises. However, judging from the inscription, it is more probable that the Roman money, have you? Well, you're a emperor Trojan (98 to 117 A. D.) erected this structure. The inscription also mentions the name of Servius Supus of Lusitania as the architect. The tower is built of ashlars and is nine meters square and 40 meters in height. It has six separate stories. which can only be reached by a circular staircase around the exterior of the tower. The lighthouse was restored in 1684, but at the end of the eighteenth century was again in ruins. In 1797 it was rebuilt by the Spanish government and still sends forth its

FRANCE'S LOW BIRTH RATE.

Statistics show for last year 34.867 deaths in France in excess of births. The depopulation of France, states Dr. Variot, the eminent children's physician, is not due to high death rates. but to low birth rates.

In 1862, when the population o Paris was 1,721,917, there were 52,312 births. In 1907, with a population of 2,728,781, there were only 50,811. Germany, whose people numbered 60.000,000 in 1905, had increased to 64,800,00 by the year 1910. The German population is increasing at a faster rate than that of Great Britain.

SOUTH AFRICAN STOCK.

A summary of the returns of the live stock in South Africa as ascertained by the census in May of last year gives the following results: Cattle. 5,796,000; horses, 719,000; mules, 93,000; asses, 836,000; ostriches, 746, 000; wooled sheep, 21,482,000; other sheep, 8,814,000; angera goats, 5,257, 000; other goats, 7,487,000. The Cape Province supplies by far the princi pel proportion of these figures, viz. 2,715,000 cattle, 839,999 horses, 728,000 ostriches, 11,051,000 wooled sheep, 5,082,000 other sheep, 8,840,000 angoras, and 4,613,000 other goats.

THE SPEED OF THOUGHT.

How fast do impulses travel alons the nerves? The speed has been duly measured by the aid of the elaborate apparatus with which the physiological laboratory of today is supplied. In man the rate has been set down at about 114 feet a second.

This measurement has reference to the rate at which messages of the bodily telegraph system are sent from nerve centers along motor nerves or those destined to bring muscles into play. But a second class of nerves exists in the body called "sensory," whose duty it is to convey messages from the body to nerve centers. The rate of impulse in the sensory nerves is quicker than in the motor nerves. Investigators give varying rates, from about 168 feet to 675 feet per second, an average rate being 282 feet.

Physiologists have made careful calculations regarding what is called our reaction time. Here we endeavor to calculate the interval which elapses between the impression made on our organ of sense and the giving of the signal which registers the impression as received by the brain and translated into terms of consciousness. Different results, due, no doubt, to the varying nervous capacities of the individuals, have been obtained. In one series the interval averaged 1087 of a second and in another .1911.

Signaling to the eye by means of a light demanded for its reception and demonstration .1189 of a second. In the case of a sound the interval was .1860. An electric spark used to stimulate the eye gave as reaction time .1377 of a second when the signal was given by the lower jaw and .-840 when given by the foot,

The girl who is operating a type writer doesn't appear to be doing very heavy physical labor, as compared with the brawny individual in the stokehold of an Atlantic liner who is shoveling coal into a hungry furnace, but this is one of the many instances in which superficial appearances are receptive, as a comparison of the force expended by the two will show. The stoker may be credited with handling one ton of coal per hour, or eight tons per day, plus the weight of his shovel. Adding the shovel to his 17,960 pounds of coal, he expends about 20,000 pounds of energy. For each key struck on the typewriter there is an expenditure of something over three ounces of energy, or, say, one pound to the average word. A fair operator will average 1,500 words an hour, or in eight hours 12,000 words-12,000 pounds of energy. To throw over the carriage for each new line requires on an average three pounds of force. Twelve thousand words will make 1,000 lines, so there are 8,000 pounds of energy to be add ed to the 12,000, making 15,000 pounds of energy expended-which compared the farmer who had come in with the pretty well with the stoker's 20,000, food, and was waiting to take the all things considered. A really fast operator would push the expenditure hills. He had been standing at the of energy in to 25,000 pounds or more.

THE LAST STRAW.

Few food cranks have carried their ly: yearning after the simple life to such an extreme length as did one Roger Crab, who, in spite of his strange fare. saw a fair part of the seventeenth century. Up to his twentieth year he was normal-minded, then he turned vege tarian, and framed his apology: "Butchers are excluded from juries but the receiver is worse than the thief, so the buyer is worse than the butcher." From the banning of meat he turned his attention to butter and one finished he would step from the cheese, and thought that he could live phone and the following would take without them. Snowbonnd Nightingale Sings by Wire.

By EDGAR WHITE.

The snow had fallen steadily all the day, weaving garments of white for the undulating earth. As twilight came on the little train, in spite of the tremendous puffing of its engine, settled down to a walk. Men of the crew rushed backward and forward through the aisles, looking anxious, The country seemed a wilderness; deep ravines, dense forests, frowning cliffs and rugged mountains.

The lamps were lighted and "The Faust Opera" troupers in the rear coach began to sing. All day their spirits had fallen with the snow. A failure to reach the junction meant Christmas Day in the wilds, a most distressing thing after the eagerly looked-for reunion with the folks at home. So they tried to sing the blues away. But it was no use. The songs died mournfully. Suddenly the engine stopped. A brakeman, lantern in hand, entered from the rear.

"Where are we?" asked the tall thin manager of the show company.

"Frog Island Crossing," said the brakeman tersely. "The road's blocked."

Idly they watched the brakeman and another man working outside with a line to connect the telephone wire with an instrument in the car. This meant they were going to call up the nearest telegraph office so the man there might notify the superintendent to send the snow plow and men; relief was far away.

It was ascertained that the nearest help was seventy miles down the line, and that the snow-plows could hardly hope to reach the train before morning. As it was still snowing heavily even this calculation might be overly optimistic.

The conductor found a farm house and returned with baskets of dellclous turkey, chicken, light bread and preserves. There were tankards of coffee, and cans of real cream. How the old world troubles fell under the gracious influence of that homely country fare foraged out of the storm, And how the actors ate! It was a repast unsurpassed along the length and breadth of the Great White Way. Song birds chatted and laughed with farmers and country merchants. They swapped yarns, cracked jokes and became jolly good fellows all Finally, their hunger appeared, Mephisto and Marguerite arose and started a song.

"If you people don't mind my buttin' in, would you fist wait a minute?" The unexpected remark came from empty baskets back over the white end of the car, deferentially waiting for his guests to get through. The travelers instantly divined, or thought they did, what he wanted. and began reaching into their pock-

"'Tain't that," he said; "you're wel-

"'Nough said, my friend," said Me 'em up if they have phones-don't leave anybody out." Then turning to connections with our country cousins; the curtain may rise!" When the actors arose to obey, a lady with chestnut curls and blue eyes, who took the rather inconsequential part of Bessy, started to join them. Marguerite of the sun-kissed hair observed Bessy, and said, sweet-

"He didn't call for the maids-inwaiting."

The gentle Bessy, wounded to the quick, stepped back, the stately Marguerite sweeping by. It was mostly before the footlights that Margue rite's injured innocence and meekness glowed. After a brief discussion of the se lections to be given the performers removed the lid from their melody. As people. Here are a few examples: When the singers had finished as much of the piece as it was practical to give over the wire there came a "Ting-a-ling-ling-ling!" A singer stepped to the phone. "Is this the train where the sweet voice "Yes-this is the Faust Concer company you have been listening to." "I think it is perfectly lovely-" "Thank you, Miss. Will you give me your name so I can tell my com-that to a friend of mine, Miss Hastings, who plays Marguerite." Marguerite, with a satirical smile, took Mephisto's place at the phone. Out of the depths of the snow floated tht gentle voice of "Cecil of the Woods:"

'O'er the blue depths of Galilee There comes a holier calm, And Sharon wayes, in solemn praise, Her silent groves of palm.

"Glory to God! The sounding skies Loud with their anthems ring, Peace to the earth, good will to men, From Heaven's Eternal King!"

Welling out of the blackness of the night, from some unknown spot in that vast, mysterious wilderness, the tender, well-modulated voice struck serve the right to reject any and all deep into the heart of the woman of bids, and any and all persons buying the stage. There were the signs of said property, or any part thereof,

"That girl is best where she is," said Marguerite, "but think what that voice would be with a little training." "Wouldn't it?" cried Mephisto, enthusiastically, again going to the phone. "That's a prize if we can get her." (In the instrument:) "Hello!"

"Yes, sir," replied the voice of Cocil of the Woods. "How would you like to train to travel with a great opera company like ours?" "Oh, sir-I fear you are laughing at me," with an expression of pain.

"Never more in earnest in my life," protested Mephisto. "We'n snowbound for tonight and maybe all day tomorrow, but I will leave the address with one of the railroad men and means for you to meet us in the city during the holidays, and then we'll talk things over. You'll be playing Marguerite yourself inside of a year, and will be famous." This terminated the interview, and Mephisto hunted up Jim the elctrician, and instructed him about a further dispatch to the paper concerning his remarkable find. "By George!" he said, "Our Luck! with us in spite of this infernal snow. Who'd a-thought of striking a prize song-bird in this bleak region-and while snow-bound, too! Facts beat fiction every time."

Jim went into the forward car to write up the newest developments of the snow-bound troupe, under the inspiration of a cigar furnished by Mephisto, who followed to suggest interesting details. As he passed into the car ahead Mephisto noticed Bessy of the chestnut hair curled up in a seat, "sound asleep." Nailed to the corner of the car near her was a telephone, the same as in the rear car. A horrible suspicion swept over the manager, and he glared about with glassy eyes. Seeing a brakeman snoozing in a seat, with his lantern beside him, Mephisto seized it and ran outside. Holding the light up near the corner of the car he observed a thread-like strand reaching from the ventilator off into the darkness, Then he re-entered the car, and wearily walked up to where Jim was traveling with his press dispatch, saying: "Since thinking the thing the thing over, Jim, you needn't send off that last chapter. It's too good for them muckraking newspapers any merest trifle, bowed and murmured: "Good afternoon, Miss Newton."

He stalked out and she turned her back on him. A casual witness would have said that they were too indifterent to each other even to feel anger. As a matter of romantic fact, each was on fire with love, and aching madly with regret. Each longed for strength to whiri round with outflung arms of reconciliation, and neither could be so brave. And so they parted, each harking back flercely for one word of recall from the other. Butneither spoke, and Marjorie sat staring at nothing through raining eyes, while Mallory strode into the Men's Room as melancholy as Hamlet with Yorick's skull in his hands,

It was their first great quarrel, and they were convinced that the world might as well come to an end.

For just as Mallory moped into the smoking-room at one door, Ira Lathrop swept in at the other, his face rubicund with embarrassment and ecstasy. He had donned an old frock coat with creases like ruts from long exile in his trunk. But he was feeling like an heir apparent; and he startled everybody by his jovial hail: "Well, boys er-gentlemen - the drinks are on me. Waiter, take the orders."

Little Jimmle woke with a start,

"Sarsaparilla," said Dr. Temple, but they howled him down and ordered other things. The porter shook his head sadly: "Nothin' but sof drinks in Utah, gemmen."

A groan went up from the clubmembers, and Lathrop groaned loudest of all:

"Well, we've got to drink something. Take the orders. We'll all have sarsaparilla."

Little Jimmie Wellington came to the rescue.

"Don't do anything desperate, gentlemen," he said, with a look of divine philanthropy. "The bar's closed, but Little Jimmie Wellington is here with the life preserver. From his hip-pocket he produced a silver flask that looked to be big enough to carry a regiment through the Alps. It was greeted with a salvo, and Lathrop said to Jimmie: "I apologize for everything I have said-and thoughtabout you." He turned to the porter: "There ain't any law against giving

When Little Jimmie offered of the flask to Dr. Temple, the clergyman storm, turned her sunshiny smile on put out his hand with a politely horrified: "No, thank you."

Mallory whirled on him with the eves of a hawk about to pounce, and "The very idea!" was the best disclaimer Dr. Temple could manage, suddenly finding himself suspected. Ashton put in with, "The only way to disprove it, Doc, is to join us."

The poor old clergyman, too deeply involved in his deception to brave confession now, decided to do and dare all. He stammered, "Er-ahcertainly," and held out his hand for his share of the poison. Little Jimmie winked at the others and almost filled the glass. The innocent doctor bowed his thanks. When the porter reached him and prepared to fill the remainder of the glass from the siphon, the parson waved him aside with a misguided caution:

"No, thanks. I'll not mix them." Mallory turned away with a sigh: "He takes his straight. He's no parson."

Then they forgot the doctor in ger, and held it out as if she scorned curiosity as to Lathrop's sudden spasm of generosity-with Weilington's liquor. Wedgewood voiced the Mallory took it as if it were the general curiosity when he said: "What's the old woman-hater up to

There was a general yell of acceptance and Ashton began to sing, "There Was I Waiting at the Church' Then he led a sort of Indian wardance round the next victim of the matrimonial stake. At the end of the bullaballoo all the men charged their glasses, and drained them with an uproarious "How!"

Poor Dr. Temple had taken luxurious delight in the success of his disguise and in the prospect of watching some other clergyman working while he rested. He joined the dance rose hastily to his feet and saluted, as gaily, if not as gracefully, as any saying: "Present! Who said take the of the rest, and in a final triumph of of straight whisky.

"To get married." "Again? Good Lord, are you a Mormon?

"Me a Mormon!" "Then what do you want with an extra wife? It's against the laweven in Utah." "You don't understand."

"My boy, one of us is disgracefully drunk."

"Well, I'm not," said Mallory, and then after a fierce inner debate, he decided to take Lathrop into his confidence. The words came hard after so long a duplicity, but at last they were out:

"Mr. Lathrop, I'm not really maried to my wife."

"You young scoundrel!" But his fury changed to pity when he heard the history of Mallory's illfated efforts, and he promised not only to lend Mallory his minister at second-hand, but also to keep the whole affair a secret, for Mallory explained his intention of having his own ceremony in the baggage-car, or somewhere out of sight of the other

Mailory's face was now aglow as the cold embers of hope leaped into over a dangerous crossing. sudden blaze. He wrung Lathrop's hand, saying: "Lord love you, you've saved my life-wife-both."

Then he turned and ran to Marjorie with the good news. He had quite forgotten their epoch-making separation. And she was so glad to see him smiling at her again that she forgot it, too. He came tearing into the observation room and took her by the shoulders, whispering: "Oh, Marjorie, Marjorie, I've got him! I've got

"No, I've got him," she said, swinging Snoozleums into view.

Maliory swung him back out of the way: "I don't mean a poodle, I mean a parson. I've got a parson."

"No! I can't believe it! Where is he?" She began to dance with delight, but she stopped when he explained:

"Well, I haven't got him yet, but I'm going to get one."

"What-again?" she groaned, weary of this old bunco game of hope.

"It's a real live one this time," Mallory insisted. "Mr. Lathrop has ordered a minister and he's going to lend him to me as soon as he's through with him, and we'll be mar-"I'll bet I know who she is," Ashton interposed; "it's that nectarine of ried on this train."

I am truly grateful for all the nice things you wrote me regarding this column, for it makes me feel as if I was accomplishing a wee bit, if I help even one girl.

Regarding the "old maid" proposition, there are no old maids in the in the event of any eruptive condition sense that you mean, and no age limit. When a bride is married in a traveling suit at a morning chcurch wedding it is perfectly proper for her to carry a bouquet (not the "shower kind") or she may wear a large bunch of violets with a rose or orchid in the center. I think the latter is preferable. .

Faith's Answer. Perfectly proper for you to ride horseback; Why not? You may ride astride or side saddle, just whichever you prefer. MADAME MERRI.

When a girl comes to the love of cosmetics, those supreme luxuries of womankind, she may be called grown up. Her delight in delicate powders, fragrant perfumes, creams, toilet waters, fine soaps and scented baths divides her forevermore from the careless habits of childhood. Henceforth the prettiness of her skin and the glossy softness of her hair are sacred trusts, and all she asks is that she may be able to replenish her little store of beauty materials every now fectly legitimate state of things, and therefore it behooves parents to supcomplexion and hair.

Good Powders.

In the matter of powder, good taste demands something very simple for the schoolgirl, a pure white powder, such as talcum or rice or wheat starch, very lightly perfumed. The talcums for nursery use, prepared as they are for the tender bodies of babyhood, are the best of these powders, but girls should keep their powder boxes and puffs free of dust, for the soil that gets it will help to encourage blackheads. However simple the powder is, too, it should be taken off at night with a cleansing face bath, for, if left on the face, it is bound to stop up the pores. A French nursery powder of indescribable fineness is often used by women as well as young girls, this being almost impalpable when put on, and possessing the fragrance of lilies-of-the-valley. This clusiveness of scent should be a feature of all beauty materials used by young girls, for strong odors do not eem to go well with the modesty and freshness of girlhood.

Face Bath Needed.

But far more enhancing than the powder is the cleansing face bath, which is required to free the skin of Ad cuticle, stale oil, dust and perspirface bath remember all the wastes pretense of things with little dabs of cold water and an indifferently clean face cloth. Hot water and a bland soap must be used, several rinsings must be done with plain water, and wash rags and towels should be kept apart from those used by the rest of the family, and be washed by themselves and sterilized. That apparently innocent thing, the wash rag, by the way, is responsible for many a bad state of things with the skin. It is only safe to use it once, and if examined by a strong microscope when very dirty the reason for this will be discovered. Wash rags should always be hung in the sun after using, as the shady corner of the bathroom is the very place for the developing of the germs that infest them, and sun is death to germs. Never use a sponge for a bath of any kind, as the sponge holds the body soil and so can never be cleansed properly. A sour bit of bathroom linen of any sort is an abomination and very injurious to the beauty of the skin, conveying to it sometimes a little fungus growth caught from the invisible mold on the rag or towel. Ringworms may be propagated in this way, and if the offensive linen is used by other members of the family this really dreadful skin affliction may spread through the whole household.

In many a bathroom not yet educated up to the elegancies of the toilet common laundry soaps are put for toilet purposes, and these the girl of the family often uses on her face and hair, entirely ignorant of the fact that she is doing her looks incredible harm. Such soaps are strong with alkali, and if they do not bite the skin to the point of torment they yellow and roughen it. When washed with them, the hair is robbed of every drop of natural oil, made brittle and colorless, to say nothing of the great difficulty of getting the strong adhesive suds out of the locks and from the scalp, where the hard soap seems to love especially to cling.

Soap for Toliet.

Fine toilet soaps and shampoos are dear, of course, but a liquid soap can be made of a twenty-five cent cake of castile which would be just as deticate for washing the face and hair as the finest soap on the market. Shave when using, but only making a thick suds for the hair. PURSUED CLOSELY BY A GREAT BIG UGLY FISH

"If your girl doesn't know how to fish," enthusiastically, declared the young fellow who clerks in a bank, take her out fishing some day if you want to have some real fun. If she knows how to fish it won't be half so much fun, and it will be all the more fun if you don't know how to fish yourself."

Then the enthusiastic young man proceeded to explain his proposition. "A friend and I." said he, "got our girls to go to Greenwood lake last Sunday. We hadn't any idea what we were going to do or see when we got there, and we didn't seem to care, only so we ran against a good time. "On the way up I asked the conque-

When we got to the lake we found a man who had boats and fishing things to hire, got a couple of boats, a fish pole apiece and some bait, and prepared to go fish-

"This seemed to bear out the advice the conductor had handed us, and I considered that we were following the right path to overhaul fun, so after the man had told us how to bait our hooks we rowed out on the lake and went to fishing. Our boats drifted about for a while, and as the situation was all to the restful and dreamy I was passing quite a few over to Sue in the line of soft nothings, and Sue was taking 'em for all they were worth and now and then murmuring one or two back to me, the fishing stunt kind o' slipped my mind and hers, too. Then all of a sudden she gave a scream that almost lifted my hat and hollered:

"'Oh, Charlie, something is trying to take my fishpole away from me!' "I looked, and sure enough, her fish-

When cultivated crops occupy the land, the cultivation should be frequent and shallow. Only those who have practiced persistent shallow cultivation can appreciate the importance of thus stirring the soil in preserving the moisture and insuring profitable

Use "catch" crops where possible H a regular crop has been removed fairly early in the fall and the succeeding crop is not to be planted the following spring, it is always worth while to seed the land to oats or rye or vetch. Frequently it will be found desirable and profitable just before the last cultivation of the corn to seed the corn field to winter vetch seed at the rate of 30 pounds per acre. The field may be seeded to oats or rye instead. The benefits to be derived from the catch crop are at least

1. In the fall and early spring soil is protected from the winds.

2. During the winter these crops eatch and retain the snow upon the ground, from which fact the soil benefits not only from the blanket of snow buring the winter, but, also, from the melting of the snow in place in the

Oats and peas are sometimes used, sown at the rate of one bushel of oats to two bushels of peas to the acre. Sand vetch is also used, the seeding being at the rate of 30 to 50 pounds per acre. The seeding in all cases is done as early as conditions of soil and air are suitable for the planting of the crop.

The sand, hairy or winter vetch seems to be rapidly growing in favor, both as a catch crop plant and as a green manuring plant. Its value rests upon three things, viz:

EXHAUSTION OF THE SOIL. Prof. E. H. Farrington of Wisconsin Agricultural College, in speaking of Soil Exhaustion, made a very interesting statement regarding the selling of dairy products from the farm as compared with selling the grain productions directly off the farm. Here is what he says:

"There is a great difference in the amount of soil fertility removed from the farm by selling crops as compared with the selling of cream and butter. The constituents of the soil that become most easily exhausted by farming operations are the nitrogen, the phosphoric acid and the potash. These each have a market value per pound and can be bought in commercial fertilizers. They are also contained in farm manure. "An analysis of different crops and of milk, butter and cheese will show how much of these various constituents are removed from the farm when a certain quantity of these products are sold. For instance, by using the same prices per pound for the following crops, etc., we find that the fertilizing constituents taken from the soil when one ton of hay is sold from the farm have a value of $4.34, one ton of corn $5.36, one ton of wheat $6.63, one ton of milk $2.17, one ton of skimmilk $2.31, one ton of butter 49 cents, gine "run wild." one ton of whey 84 cents, and one ton of cheese $14.19. Milk-crust all over tiny baby's face

Mothers, if your little ones are suffering from tormenting, unsightly skin or scalp eruptions, how can you fall to profit by the experience of this mother, who writes: "I do not know what caused the milk-erust on my haby's face, all over it ex-cept the eyebalis. It started as a rash, of an itching nature; though only three weeks old it tried to scratch it. Then in about a week or ten days it had formed into crust that was very sore, whitish, and used different washes, but it did no good. From the first application of the Resinol Soap and Ointment, in a few hours, seemingly, we could see the change. I can safely say I cured the baby with Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment. Anyone who will fire them will sure get results that are lasting." (Signed) Mrs. Lavenia R. Ruffin, Cauthornville, Va., May 15, 1912.
