Nyal's ECZEMA LOTION

Children suffer from several forms of Eczema or Salt Rheum. It's a mistake to think "milk crust" on the scalp or face of a baby should not be removed. Don't let the baby suffer untold torment from itching and soreness, for Nyal's Eczema Lotion relieves this condition-and it doesn't "drive in the rash," either. This Lotion also soothes and heals redness and rawness caused by chafing. It relieves most skin diseases and eruptions, such as Hives, Nettle Rash, Ringworm, Tetter, Pimples, etc. Price 50c.

Brakeman Killed.

On his first trip as a brakeman for the Michigan Central, Charles W. Billings lost his life in Ann Arbor Monday night. He was told by the head brakeman to go the third car. from the rear end of a freight train and loosen the brake. A minute later the head brakeman looked back and saw Billings' lantern lying on the ground. He stopped the train and investigated and found the upper half of Billings' body lying beside the track and one leg pinned in a switch point, 300 feet away. It is believed

There were more than 100 passengers on the train and it is a remarkable fact that no one was seriously hurt, except one old woman, who clerk was wounded slightly on the head.

Spreading of rails is said to have caused the wreck.

Electrocuted as Friends look on.

As two of his friends stood by and watched him, Charles Finlanson, a Scotchman, was electrocuted in Battle Creek when he attempted to fix an arc light which had gone out. Telling his friends that he could easily remedy the matter, he grabbed the cable leading to the light and 3,000 volts of electricity passed through his body. Horrified, his companions quickly picked him up and rushed to the Commonwealth power plant, where physicians were notified. A pulmotor was pressed into service but after two hours' work he was given up as dead.

Battle Creek Gets National Meet

Battle Creek has landed the 1913 national encampment of the uniformed rank, Knights of the Modern Maccabees, for Aug. 21 and 22. This will be one of the biggest Maccabee events ever held in Michigan, 15 of the best for the parade and encampment.

The encampment will be combined with Battle Creek's annual fraternal outing day-a festival not duplicated in America in which pratically every lodge in the city goes on a monster picnic, following a parade introducing the various drill teams, degree teams, and floats representing the work of the lodges.

In addition to the fraternal organizations in line, Battle Creek hopes to have a regiment of state troops for the occasion, and a committee will call upon the governor, after election, to show its plans for handling the troops and financing the proposition. One or two crack drill teams that approach the professional type also will be secured for exhibition purposes, the Jackson Zouaves, the Toledo Cherry Pickers and the Ling', famous "white company" of Battle Creek, winner of national honors in competition, being considered.

IN WESTERN CANADA IT IS CERTAIN.

The story of the Big Farmer in Western Canada, and the immense profits he has made in the growing of grain, has been told and retold. He has been found in all parts of the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. His splendid farm build ings have been pictured, his traction outfits described and his princely sun roundings, resultant of his success in growing grain, have been portrayed by letter, press and camera. It certainly cessfully applying common sense and up-to-date methods to the conditions that climate, a good soil, and splendid market have placed at hand, that ha has made the best use of them. He is not too proud to admit that he came to the country a very few years ago handicapped as to money, leaving behind him unpaid mortgages in his old home land (which are now wiped out) and he is still today the same goodhearted fellow he was in the days that he had to work for a neighbor, while the neighbor broke the land on his homestead, which went to make up the settlement duties.

Then, there, too, is the farmer and the farmer's son, already wealthy, who has bought large holdings in Western Canada, in either Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta, who has made forty to one hundred per cent. on his investment, whose big grain crops and whose immense cattle herds are helping to improve the country. Health and strength, energy and push, and bull dog grit are as essential in Western Canada as in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, or any of the states from which so many of these people come, and then, when you have added to that a fair amount of means, with which to make a start, the land which is only waiting for the skill of the husbandman will quickly respond.

But there is the smaller farmer, the man who has not made sufficient in four or five years, that he might comfortably retire if he felt like it. There are many of them in all the three Provinces. It is not the less to his credit that he has earned his homestead by the three years residence, that he is free from debt, and has a reasonable bank account. He, too, came to the country handicapped by debts, and with very little means. He is contented, has a good home, laid free of encumbrance, some stock, and with good prospects. One of these writes: "I formerly lived near Dayton, Ohio, on a rented farm, had as fied myself that if I ever expect secure a home, I would have to under take something else. Hearing of Western Canada, I investigated, and seven years ago last Spring settled in a homestead and purchased (on time) an adjoining half section, arriving with a carload of household effects and farm implements, including four horses and three cows, and $1,800 ia money-my ten years' work in Ohio. "The first year our crops gave us feed, the second year 100 acres of wheat gave us $1,800; no failure of crop since starting here. I have now 22 head of horses, 15 head of cattle, and 35 hogs. We own 1,120 acres of land, and have same all under cultivation. _ Was offered at one time $35.00 per acre for a half section where we live, and all the other land could be sold today on present market at $30.00 per acre. Should we care to dispose of our holdings, could pay all debts and have over $30,000 to the good, but the question is where could we go to invest our money and get as good returns as here? "We have equally as good, if not better prospects for crops this year, as we , had three years ago, when our wheat reached from 30 to 48 bushels per acre. I never believed such crops could be raised until I saw them my self. I had 15 acres that year that made 50 bushels to the acre. Our han vest will be ready by the 12th. We have this season in crop 400 acres of wheat, 125 of oats, 90 of flax, and run three binders, with four men to do the stooking. "We certainly like this country, and the winters, although the winters are cold at times, but we do not suffer a one would-think. What we have at complished here can be duplicated in almost any of the new districts. anyone doubts anything I have sall in this letter, tell them to come here. and I can prove every word I has written."

Liquid Measure. It was the time of the singing lesson at the local council school, and the teacher was explaining to the young hopefuls that if a "treble," and "alto." a "tenor" and a "bass" sung together, their united efforts would constitute a quartet.

There seemed no trouble about that, and the teacher thought the class was getting on very nicely.

"Now, Jimmy, leave off pinching your brother's leg and listen to me." said she. 'If a bass and a tenor sang together, what would you call that?" Jimmy was the son of the local ikman, and a bright lad withal. His answer was not long in coming. "Please, miss," said he, "that would be a 'pintette.' "

Optimists.

For non-committal brevity of speech, commend us to the Yankee lord of the soil. One such, who was obliged to make a physician daily visits, had an unvarying answer to the question, "How do you feel today?" "Well," he would reply, showing as little interest in the subject as possible, "I ain't no wuss." Further than that he wished to say nothing, and it took the cunning of a serpent to discover his real feelings. A man who was knocked down in the street by a snowslide was assailed by a sympathizing crowd with condolence and question. "Did it hurt you?" inquired one of his rescuers as he brushed the snow from the clothes of the well-powdered victim. "Well." was the cautious answer, "it ain't done me no good."-Argonaut.

A DOCTOR'S TRIALS. He Sometimes Gets Sick Like Other People.

Even doing good to people is hard work if you have too much of it to do. An overworked Ohio doctor tells his experience:

"About three years ago as the result of doing two men's work, attending a large practice and looking after the details of another business, my health broke down completely, and I was little better than a physical wreck.

"I suffered from indigestion and conbloating and pain after meals, loss of memory and lack of nerve force for continued mental application. "I became irritable, easily angered and despondent without cause. The heart's action became irregular and weak, with frequent attacks of palpitation during the first hour or two after retiring. "Some Grape-Nuts and cut bananas came for my lunch one day and pleased me particularly with the resuit. I got more satisfaction from it than from anything I had eaten for months, and on further investigation and use, adopted Grape Nuts for my morning and evening meals, served usually with cream and a sprinkle of salt or sugar. "My improvement was rapid and permanent, in weight as well as in physical and mental endurance. In a word. I am filled with the joy of living again, and continue the daily use of Grape-Nuts for breakfast and often for the evening meal. The little pamphlet, 'The Road to Wellville,' found in pkgs., is invariably saved and handed to some needy patient along with the indicated rem-

TELEPATHY AMONG ANIMALS

Birds and beasts receive information through the medium of earth vibrations, John D. Quackenbos, M. D., writes in the North American Review. Certain game birds and animals are sensitive to the faintest earth tremor, and are approached only by the hunter who steps slowly and carefully, without jarring the surface of the ground. The nature of the vibrations also conveys a notion of the direction from which the danger is coming, and wild game depend as much on their apprehension of this as upon detection by the ear. When it comes to cosmic vibrations, the subtle movements communicated to the earth's crust by the tides or the pull of heavenly bodies, animals are mysteriously affected as to appetite, sleep, nervous poise and possibly procreation and migration.

Recent experiments have proved moths and other insects to be capable of thought transference so far-reaching as to impress their fellows miles away with a knowledge of their whereabouts.

It is well known to whalers that a cetacean struck by a harpoon has power instantly to convey intelligence of the presence of an enemy to a spouting school a half mile distant, so that the individuals composing it immediately disappear below the surface. Every angler is aware that if one trout in a pool has caught a glimpse of him all are instantly apprised of his presence. so that his most attractive lures are offered in vain. What one knows all know at the same moment through an interchange of subconscious states. Aristotle noticed that the female partridge is affected by a distant male bird through what he described as a breeze from the male's direction.

Some twenty years ago the late Austin Corbin purchased 25,000 acres of farm and wood land in forgotten the number of the house, and New Hampshire and stocked the estate known as Blue Mountain park with elk and deer. PAYING FOR THE SPOONS

If it were not for the souvenir thief no hotel manager would be gray-headed or hald. Their lives would be one long dream of bliss, broken three times daily by a spasm of happiness when they sell 35/cents' worth of food for $1.25. But the memento grabber ages him. "We tried to make the waiter protect the silver," said one the other day. "And we found that after the waiter worked for us a month he owed us money, because of fines for stolen silver. That wouldn't do. That same waiter would do his waiting elsewhere-first trying to break even with the establishment before leaving. And it is very unpleasant to lock the doors of a private dining room until we audit the teaspoons."

So all hotel managers have adopted a new plan. The cost of stealing silver is included in the bill for the meal you take in the public dining room. That is a matter of average. When you dine with a merry little party-or several merry littleparties, as it sometimes happens-in a private room, it is also included in the bill. Not long ago the man who entertains out-of-town buyers in a certain wholesale line ordered a private dining room and a special dinner for a half dozen guests. The hotel manager gave him a figure.

"Tell your cook to spread himself on this dinner," said the prospective host, laughingly. "My guests are all from the west," "Pardon me," said the manager, hurriedly.

they're saved a sin."

The host looked at the memorandum and found an item marked "spoons." "Much better to charge for the spoons in advance," said the hotel man, without a blush. "The ladies from out of town all take 'em. So do the ladies from in town. This way we're safe and also has ducks and geese and pigeons. A large number of the fowls are successfully kept in houses made of paper. In the coldest weather the hens live in these houses and seem as comfortable as those in the frame building. These houses are long enough to be divided into several pens. One of them has been in use seven years. In making these houses a light frame is put up and poultry wire is stretched tightly over it and heavy tarred paper laid over the wire. The paper is given a heavy coat of paint inside and out. The outside color is red, but white is used inside to enhance the light. Being in the heart of the town, night prowlers are to be looked for, but any activity on their part during the summer is prevented by the presence of Mr. Brown's son, who has a tent in one corner of the half-acre, where he spends the night. His sleep is seldom disturbed, except when he finds it necessary to get up and shoot a few rats. In his war on these pests he is aided plane or its crew, it being by a nimble Irish terrier, Both Mr. Brown and his son say that > Horrible Example: Nat Goodwin was on a tour.

Seats were selling like hot cakes. Mr. Goodwin was down in the foyer watching the weather. A thin-visaged woman with a throttle-hold on her purse minced up to the window and bought one ticket for the matinee.

As she passed out, counting and recounting her change, the woman overheard an accquaintance of Mr. Goodwin's calling him by name. The woman looked them both over with close scrutiny. Then, she went back to the box office. "Is that Mr. Goodwin?" she demanded.

"Yes." "Mr. Nat C. Goodwin?"

"The man who plays in this play I ve just bought a ticket for?"

"All right," said the woman. She stopped, probed the fastnesses of her reticule, pulled out her newly secured ticket and pushed it back reluctantly through the window. "If you're sure that's Mr. Goodwin," remarked the woman, "you can take that ticket right back and give me an orchestra seat as far front as you can get it-no, give me two orchestra seats and give them to me for tonight. For if that's Nat-Goodwin, I'm going to bring my feather-headed son along and show him just what matrimony can do for a man."-Green Book.

Call That Jack Welcomed.

A man-o'-warsman, on visit to his native city of Liverpool, gave an amusing instance of the readiness and resource of naval seamen. He had made an arrangement at Portsmouth to meet a chum from his own ship, but he had he did not care to knock at every door along. Jack seized the bugle.

"I'm looking for a chum," he explained.

Then he blew the grog call of the navy. As the last note died away a window was hastily flung up and a sailor's head was thrust out.

"Ah," said Jack, as he handed back the bugle, "I knew I'd find him. He's never missed that call yet!"

And a few minutes later the soughtfor tar explained sorrowfully to his chum:-

"You've given me away all right! I'm courtin' the gal there, and told them that I was a teetotaller; but her father is an old salt and knows the call,"-London Tit-Bits.

The German consumption of chew ing gum is limited largely to persons who have "traveled in the United States, but might be increased if manufactures carried on an advertising campaign in this market. Well known American brands are now offered for but gently on sale in places of popular amusement in all larger cities. The article is known in this country as "kaugummi," and, in import statistics, is included with all unbaked sweetmeats containing sugar, such as bassorine, tragacanth, fruit kernels, spices and seeds coated with sugar. The total quantity of these goods imported in 1911 amounted to 6.8 tons, and in 1910 to 7.3 tons. It would be possible to maintain stocks of American chewing gum in the Hamburg free port without the payment of any duty, except on such quantities as might from time to time be sold for consumption. The market in Scandinavia, Russia and Austria might also be served from the tree port supplies.-Consular Report.

CAPT. E.B. HENNESSY OF THE AVIATION

SQUAD Careful examination of the target showed that out of the full magazine of fifty cartridges discharged by the gun operator, forty-five shots had hit the mark. The other five shots, the gunner explained, had been sent into a nearby fish-pond in order that he might get, by the splash of the water, an instantaneous report of the accuracy of his aim. The fact that this was the first time the gun had been taken aloft, together with the trueness of the aim as shown by the examination of the target, spoke emphatically then and there of the great possibilities of fleets of aeroplanes loaded with these rapid-fire guns, soaring over a column of the enemy's troops. The potential result of swooping air-craft, armed to the teeth with death-dealing bullets, is staggering to ordnance officers of the army and navy who discuss it. "Where will this lead?" they ask. It is possible that the air is to harbor the greatest destructive forces in modern warfare? There seems nothing to prevent it. This remarkable aeroplane gun is the invention of Lieut.-Col. Isaac N. Lewis of the United States stipation, loss of weight and appetite, army coast artillery corps. Curiously enough. the gun was designed primarily for infantry and cavalry use. Later, however, Colonel Lewis was impressed with its possibilities for use in a ro-

Heretofore the difficulties which have stood in the way of serviceable guns for aeroplanes have been difficulty in manipulation, too great weight, terrific recoil which would knock the frail craft out of gear, and flame from the rifle which would endanger the machine.

In the Lewis gun these difficulties are eliminated. There is no smoke no flame only the sound of the explosion tells that the gun has been fired. There is no recoil and the gun is so balanced by the magazine that the aim is not even interrupted while the gun is being fired. It can be fired at as high a rate as 750 shots a minute, but the rate may be reduced to 350 shots per minute, or to any number between these limits, by a simple adjustment of the gasport valve controlling the admission of the gas to the piston cylinder. When firing at full speed it takes approximately four seconds to discharge a magazine of fifty cartridges, and the empty magazine may be replaced by a full one within two seconds.

It might naturally be supposed that such rapidity of firing would soon overheat the barrel of the gun and render it temporarily useless. One of the distinguishing features of the gun, however, is a device whereby the barrel is kept continually cool by automatically produced blasts of air. The barrel of the gun is surrounded by a close-fitting aluminum jacket, cylindrical in form and having some twenty deeply-cut longitudinal grooves extending from breech to muzzle. Outside of this jacket is a light steel tube, three and three-quarters inches in diameter at the breech and two and seveneighths inches at the muzzle end of the gun. The grooves in the steel jacket have full access to the atmosphere at the breech, thus forming a series of inclosed air ducts running the entire length of the barrel. Each time the gun is fired the ejector action of the discharge blast sucks through these ducts, from the rear, a draft of air which serves to carry off the heat transmitted to the jacket from the barrel. The cooling is automatic in action, without the use of water or other cooling liquid and without mechanism or moving parts. As aluminum has six times the heat conductivity of steel and but onethird its weight, this very effective method of cooling the gun adds but a few pounds to the total weight carried. Another novel feature which diferentiates the Lewis gun from all other gas-operated guns is the small inclosed operating spring which is locatetd near the trigger piece at the breech far removed from all injurious heat effects. The temper of this spring cannot be affected by, either direct or transmitted heat, no matter of rapid and long-continued firing.

The development tests of the gun, which have been in progress for two years, show that the barrel does not become overheated under continuous fire at full speed, and that it will not therefore be necessary to carry along an extra barrel when on the firing line. Since no cooling water is necessary, and no special mount except a small stake or "cowboy" mount weighing about eight pounds, the field equipment of the Lewis gun is reduced to a minimum. The gun may be fired from any natural support found in the field, such as a rock, log, stump, tree or mount of earth. It is even possible to empty a magazine while holding the gun to the shoulder or from the hip, as the recoil effect is scarcely noticeable. It is a matter of note that one of the most conspicuous things on the battlefield in South Africa was the jet of steam from the boiling water which was being used on the barrels of the rapid fire guns for cooling purposes, The gun is simplicity itself. It has only fortyseven parts, as compared with twice that number for other rapid fire guns. On the battlefield or in the air where tools are necessarily scarce, and where they are needed more than anywhere else when they are wanted, the Lewis' gun would certainly cause no worry, should some piece of the mechanism be broken or otherwise get out of working order, since the only tool required to dissemble or assemble the gun is the point of a

The accuracy of the firing of the Lewis aeroplane gun on its first test was not only surprising in itself, but has aroused attention on the part of our army and navy experts to the fact that our battleships and the disappearing gun batteries of our coast defenses are completely unprepared for attack from the air. In the opinion many, including Colonel Lewis, who is also the inventor of the Lewis depression position finder now employed in the coast artillery service, it marks the beginning of a development that is destined to produce radical changes in our land defense and coast armaments, both for offense and defense.

According to Colonel Lewis, an aeroplane costing not more than $5,000 will easily be able to carry the gun, 2,000 rounds of ammunition, the gun operator and the pilot. At a height of one mile or greater, and while moving at a speed of fifty miles per hour, it will be possible with this gun to pour in the most destructive fire upon the deck and fire control masts of battleships, and

ENORMOUS WASTE OF COAL

One Reason Why the Use of Oil as Fuel Would Be of High Economic importance.

The United States is by all means the greatest coal producing country in the world. In 1850 the production of coal in the country amounted to 6,266,283 tons. Thirty years later it had risen to almost 64,000,000 tons. In another twenty years this industry had grown to over 240,000,000 tons. Ten years more passed and the production of coal in the United States by the census of 1910 was over 400.-000,000 tons. For the year just past it is estimated at about 500,000,000 tons. But in the production of this coal the industrial experts inform us there is wasted 250,000,000 tons. In other words, the United States is using its coal supply at the rate of 750,000,000 tons a year, and this consumption is increasing, as shown above, at an enormous rate.

By the western sea and throughout the great southwest the production of coal is not of great direct interest. In this portion of the country petroleum largely takes the place of coal, and in the production of petroleum California leads all other states in America and indeed all the world. This is a new industry compared with coal. The statistics show that in 1898 the United States produced little more than 60,000,000 barrels of crude petroleum, forty-two gallons to the barrel. In 1910 the production of petroleum in the United States surpassed 182. 000,000 barrels. At the present time in California the consumption of oil runs to about 225,000 barrels a day.

There is no such waste in the use of oil as that indicated above in coal. Indeed, the waste in the oil industry from beginning to end is a matter of comparative insignificance.

Signs of Age. There are various ways of telling when a man is getting old. One of the surest ways by which he may know it himself is to find that young women address him as "sir." One "Yes, sir," will age a man by an indeterminate sentence of anywhere form one to five years. Then there is the mustache, which, if allowed to get out into the open, instead of being closely shaved, will show the sere and yellow, or rather gray. (This is not to be spelled "grey," but "gray.") Then, again, there are the wrinkles which add themselves one to another in the forehead, but there is one sure which beats all of the others, as it never fails. When a man is seated between another man and a pretty girl and another passenger enters the car, if the man moves in order to any more quickly than the pretty girl

His Golden Text.

A union Sunday school service was held in a St. Louis church a few months ago, and the superintendent had thought that in order to make be a good plan to have six-year-old sirable to use a steel inside finish, it Johnnie go to the rostrum and repeat can be substituted without material the golden text of the morning. This Johnnie consented to do. The golden text was "I am the bread of life."

When it came time for Johnnie's part of the program he rose from his seat with calm assurance and walked boldly down the aisle to the rostrum. Once upon the rostrum, with the sea of faces confronting him Johnnie's calm assurance suddenly left him. Things looked entirely different from the platform. He hest tated, standing first on one foot and then on the other. Finally in a shak ing voice he shouted:

"I am-a loaf-of bread!"

Have You a Dream Pillow?

The "dream" pillow may measure 15 by 10 inches and may be stuffed with elderdown or hair as it is liked, hard or soft. Carry it when you travel. Take two plain linen covers with hemstitched hems. A third cover of heavy satin, with a monogram embroidered in blue, is useful for a steamer chair.

Easy to pack is an automatic air cushion that, when inflated, is 9 by 16 inches. It is of cloth, with a silken firish and fits into a flat leather case, measuring 5 by 11 inches. Extra linen covers can be made to fit this pillow if it is to be used at night.

Overdoing It.

Woodrow Wilson, at a luncheon at Spring Lake, said of a boy athlete: "I am afraid be sets athletics too far above English, mathematics and history. His aunt said to him

"I'm delighted to hear of your success on the school baseball team, Harold; but you must remember that there are other things in life besides baseball.

Of the list of strange callings followed by women that of wine tasting is one of the most curious and lucramand in France, Germany and Italy as a wine taster, is said to make an income of about £5,000 a year, many firms employing her for regular work and frequently for special duty. Only half a dozen wine tasters have been known to history, the most renowned of these being the wife of a famous London wine merchant, Mme. Pommery, who died in Paris twelveyears ago, and Signora Sousa, who has a great reputation in Spain on account of her judgment and knowledge

Wine tasters, it appears, are born, not made, and must possess the gift of a rare and delicate palate. To this, of course, must be added a knowledge of wines. Mlle. Collinere's taste is so fine and her knowledge of wines such that she can discern from the first taste of a wine just where the grapes grew from which it was made, whether they were raised in California or in the vineyards of France, Germany, or elsewhere. She can easily detect adulteration of any sort, or if there is a blend and of which wines, and can tell the age of a wine almost to a day. As a matter of fact, there are no secrets that a bottle of wine can withhold from this remarkable Frenchwoman once she has had a spoonful of it in her mouth.

She does not swallow the wine. In fact, she is a teetotaller, and if she order to do her work, for her sense loses its cunning when she gets out

About a fortnight ago the surface became covered with what may be called "blisters," raised a little above the common level, which attracted much wondering attention.

From each of these, in a few days, a series of cracks appeared, extending themselves in rays from a center. Finally came up a broad, soft shoot, looking extremely well pleased with itself and its work, which proved to be so old and well known a friend as the thistle. At this moment there are hundreds of those bold intruders showing defiantly through the pavement, affording a most interesting illustration of the power of vegetable growth.

SYNOPSIS.

Licut. Harry Mallory is ordered to the Fhilippines. He and Marjorie Newtor decide to clope, but wreck of taxicab pre-vents their seeing minister on the way to the train. Transcontinental train is tak ing on passengers. Porter has a lively time with an Englishman and ira Lathrappe a Yankee business man. The elopers have an exciting time getting to the train. "Little Jimmie" Wellington, bound for Reno to get a divorce, boards train in maudlin condition. Later Mrs. Jimmie appears. She is also bound for Reno with game object. Likewise Mrs. Sammy Whit-comb. Latter blames Mrs. Jimmie for her marital troubles. Classmates of Malner marital troubles. Classmates of Mar-bory decorate bridal berth. Rev. and Mrs. Temple start on a vacation. They decide to cut losse and Tomple removes evidence of his calling. Marjorie decides to let Mallory proceed alone, but train starts while they are lost in farewell. Passen-ments in Mallory's classmates in giving zers join Mallory's classmates in giving couple wedding hazing. Marjorie is discouple wedding hazing. Marjorie is distracted. Ira Lathrop, woman-hating bachelor, discovers an old sweetheart. Annie Gattle, a fellow passenger. Malbory valuly hunts for a preacher among the passengers. Mrs. Wellington hears Little Jimmie's voice. Later she meets Mrs. Whitcomb. Mallory reports to Marjorie his fallure to find a preacher. They Jorie his failure to find a preacher. They becide to pretend a quarrel and Mallory finds a vacant berth. Mrs. Jimmie discovers Wellington on the train. Mallory again makes an unsuccessful hunt for a physical control of the state of the sta preacher. Dr. Temple poses as a physician. Mrs. Temple is induced by Mrs. Wellington to smoke a cigar. Sight of preacher on a station platform raises Mallory's hopes, but he takes another train. Missing hand baggage compels the reanin. Missing that describe the property of aroused by Mallory's baseball jargon Marjorle suggests weeking the train in opes that accident will produce a preaor. Also tries to induce the conductor to hold the train so she can shop. Marjorie's dog is missing. She pulls the cord, stopging the train. Conductor restores dog and lovers quarrel. Lathrop wires for a spreacher to marry him and Miss Gattle. Mallory tells Lathrop of his predicament and arranges to borrow the preacher. Kitty Lewellyn, former sweetheart of Mallory's appears and arouses Marjorie scalousy. Preacher boards train. Afte marrying Lathrop and Miss Gattle, the her escapes Mallory by leaping from moving train.

CHAPTER XXXI.-Continued. Mallory caught his hand as it turned back. Marjorie, equally determined, caught his other elbow: "Please don't go," Mattery urged.

"You've just got to," Mallory insisted.

"Release me, please.

"Never!" "How dare you!" the parson shricked, and with a sudden wriggle writhed out of his coat, leaving it in Marjorie's hands. He darted to the soor and flung it open, with Mallory hot after him. The train was kicking up a cloud dust and getting its stride. The widnapped clergyman paused a mohe climbed the brass rail and, with glow. a hasty prayer, dropped overboard. Mailory lunged at him, and seized him by his reversed collar. But the collar aione remained in his clutch. The parson was almost lost in the dust he created as he struck, bounded and rolled till be came to a stop, with his stars and his prayers to thank for injuries to nothing worse than his dignity and other small clothes.

Mallory returned to the observation room and flung the collar and bib to the floor in a fury of despair, howling: "He got away! He got away!"

Soon after leaving Ogden, the train entered upon the great bridge across the Great Salt Lake. The other passengers were staring at the enormous engineering masterpiece and the conductor was pointing out that, in order to save forty miles and the crossing of two mountain chains, the railroad had devoted four years of labor and millions of dollars to stretching a thirty-mile bridge across this inland

WHAT TO HAVE FOR BREAKFAST.

The American breakfast, compared to the English meal, is quite in the beginner's class. Here is a simple breakfast menu for August, taken from an English cook book: Bloaters on toast, collared tongue (whatever that may be), hot buttered toast, marmalade, white bread and butter, brown bread. and bread and milk.

Another-Pigeon pie, stewed kidney, milk rolls, dry toast, brown and white bread, mustard and cress, milk porridge.

A person who could digest such breakfasts as these in August ought to make a good soldier. It is said. and justly, that Americans eat too much, but we certainly are low on breakfasts, compared to the English.

We need follow no law except that of the individual in preparing our breakfasts, as each individual has desires peculiar to himself. Fruit is enjoyed by some and a source of distress to another. Cereal is energy to one and a "a soggy mass of indigestibility" to another. Coffee, the fragrant, refreshing cup, a joy to many, is blamed for much of which it is inno-

Then there are the "no breakfast" advocates, an arrangement which certainly has its good points, for it does away with the hurried meal presided

A dainty breakfast, well served, is of far more value to the individual than the more food properties served. A far better day is in store for the man who leaves his breakfast table in an agreeable frame of mind, and he the wonderful train-change that had will return, usually, in the same mood. No greeting, however smiling, or dinner well prepared, will atone for a hurried scramble at the breakfast ta-

FIGS AND DATES.

We are in the habit of thinking that dates, figs and raisins are confections. tidbits and luxuries. They are, in a measure, but contain much food value, and are much more wholesome for moaned, then left the general for the children to eat than too much of the particular: "Won't you come in and go-called fresh fruit with which they are provided. These dried fruits are both nourishing and economical, as they take the place of more expensive foods. go back on your promise?" Ted swallowed hard. "If you'd want me to, Nell, I don't believe I could care for you as much as I do. You see, I'd feel that something was wrong. Now kiss me, dear, and just wait until tonight, and I'll prove to you that I'm just what I've said I am, not so awfully bad after all," and without waiting for permission, he drew her into his arms, kissed her not once but several times, then ran away, leaving her gasping, but happier than she had been for several days.

The crux of the trouble had been reached the night before, when there had been a dance to which all of her set had been invited. It was the last she expected to attend before their marriage, and so Helen had looked forward to it eagerly. Ted was to come for her at nine, and she had dressed very carefully, pinning on the blush roses he had sent her, after kissing them with girlish tenderness. However, although she was all ready a little before nine, Ted did not come. Nine grew to ten, then eleven, and finally twelve, and still she waited alone and in vain, and worse than all. she received no message of explanaall kinds of accidents, she had thrown herself, all dressed, on her bed and sobbed herself to sleep. In the morn- of 11,900 women filling honorary posiing he had telephoned her, asking her tions in cities and on charity boards. to meet him at the park entrance, and In 155 municipalities seven thousand when she arrived at the appointed women are in active service for the spot she found him haggard, sleepless care of the poor and of orphans. business had detained him. Still, she loved him with all her girlish heart, and as she sat there in the sweet, early spring air after he had left her, feeling alone as though on a desert island, she realized that she was begi...ning to understand more of her woman's nature, to make excuses and forgive without knowing why.

The day passed slowly, and she felt she could scarcely wait until evening. The dreariness of the house became more pronounced because of the calls from many of her girl friends, who came so openly to question her absence from the dance, that she felt that her endurance was almost gone. To them all she replied gaily, hiding her worry beneath a smile.

"Why, there's nothing in it. Surely Ted and I ought to be allowed the privilege of choosing our way of spending an evening. You see, Ted is a bit jealous, and I honestly believe he doesn't like me to dance with any one else." And with this palpable but innocent fiction, smilingly given, she disarmed even her chum who was to be maid of honor at the wedding. The latter laughed teasingly as she

"And to think that you'd be so much in love, Nell, that you'd be willing to give up a dance like that last night." But Nell only smiled beck:

"Just wait, Grace, until your turn comes, and then you'll know how dear the right one can be," and there was a catch in her throat as she spoke, for surely Ted was dearer than even her sense of justice, and she felt she could still trust him.

At last, when the gleaming of the pring evening wrapped the world in ts cloud, with trembling fingers Helen dressed for Ted, her heart beating so rapidly that she could scarcely get her breath. Long before eight she was ready for him, but it was after nine before she heard his ring and ran to et him in. Somehow she could not reproach him, he seemed so tired and worn. His eyes were deep with fatigue and ring encircled, and so she only put her arms up and drew his head down, saying gently:

"My poor boy, how tired he looks; come, sit down and rest." "You darling!" he whispered, and for a moment he rested his aching head on the little shoulder lovingly offered for his support, and then he broke out with: "Thank God, it's all over," and drew her closer to him. All curiosity suddenly left Helen. No longer was she a petulant girl, jealous of her rights, but a strong, courageous woman, with a deep trust in the integrity of the man she was going to marry, and she laid her firm, cool hand on his burning one so confidingly that he raised it to his lips before he began:

"I wonder, Nellie, if I were to ask you to keep on trusting me without any explanation, you'd do it?" Without any hesitation, she re-

An employer's son, who of the most prominent lawyers of the had fallen into bad company, had been

The Girl Who Thinks.

"My estrangment, if you can call it that, from my mother, dated from the moment I began to think," says a writer under the title of "My Mother Didn't Tell Me," in Harper's Bazar. "I had been very much a 'mother's girl.' My mother and I planned my frocks, we sewed a great deal together, we chatted together, we read poetry aloud together, and also a good deal of modern fiction. My mother was very fond of books, and kept abreast of the times. Our companionship was of a very beautiful sort and still is—as long as I keep within those prescribed limits and as long as I do not venture into any question that has to do with the life or thought of the country today. My mother is as much interested in my frocks today, now that I am twentyseven, as she was when I was seventeen. She still has that interest in books, nor does her dislike of the tendency of modern thought extend very far into literature."

The object of their bitter animosity was mainly the Turkish government itself, and in all conflicts with soldiers sent to capture wherever they come in direct them they showed no mercy. It is not denied that during the past ten years cycles, they have the preference. at least three hundred victims, most of them soldiers, have fallen to Tchakirdjall's rifle. At another time this same bandit, who feared neither man nor devil, rode into a town in the Meander valley where lived three Turks who notoriously ground the faces of the poor: It was high noon, and the three men were in the mosque at prayers. Tchakirdjall went boldly into the mosque, and, tapping each of the three on the shoulder, said: "I want to see to preserve a modest opinion of our you outside." All three came out, cwn.-Parrow.

One very important reason for giving the mouth the best of care is that advancing age shows its marks first around the mouth.

Perhaps the first direction for improving the mouth should be to cultivate smiles. Not grins-you knowbut smiles, which bring a look of hap piness and joy to the face and obliterate in a minute all the hard lines which have been years in forming. "I used Sloan's Limiment for broken sinews above the knee cap caused by a fall and to my great satisfaction was able to resume work in less than three weeks after the accident."

SLOAN'S Fine for Sprain

MR. HENRY A. VOEHL, 84 Somerset St., Plainfield, N. J., writes:—"A friend sprained his ankle so bady that it went black. He laughed when I told him that I would have him out in a week. I applied Sloan's Liniment and in four days he was working and said Sloan's was a right good Liniment."

Westbrook: Massage of the scalp is much better than vigorous brushing to stimulate the circulation and increase the growth of hair. Surface friction is beneficial when given very moderately, but the average person is apt to be oo severe in their use of the hair brush. Press the fingers firmly, but not too heavily, on the scalp and move the scalp in small circles. Have the fingers separated a little and change them from place to place until the entire scalp has received the massage. Do not bruise the tissues-remember that gentle movements many times re-
