PLEASANT OCCASION.

Eightieth Birthday Tuesday.

Mrs. Lucy M. Wood celebrated the 80th anniversary on Tuesday at her home at North Lake. Relatives and neighbors to the number of sixty assembled at the farm home to assist in celebrating the event. A sumptuous dinner was served and a very enjoyable day was spent. The pioneer days were gone over by the elder members and the younger ones discussed the present day events.

Mrs. Wood was born on the farm at present owned by F. A. Glenn, and has resided at her present home for over fifty-five years; in fact her en tire life has been spent in the immediate vicinity of her present home. The farm is conducted by Mr. and Mrs. P. #### Good Roads in Lyndon.

The readers of the Standard will remember that something better than a year ago, this paper called their attention to a mysterious little meeting that was held on a ditch bank over in north Lyndon hard by the old Watts homestead now owned and occupied by the Heatley family. Four persons comprised the meeting. Their looks were unpreposssesing, their words were few and their purpose entirely unknown. It was their actions that were noticable. They shaded their eyes from the sun with hats, looked at the ditch before them and smoked. A representative of the Standard who chanced to drive by took notice, stopped and asked some questions but received little or no information from the, members of the group as they dusted their pipes returned to their work or drove away in different directions. A week later it leaked out that there was a new association in the neighborhood named Lyndon Good Roads and officered by Henry Leek as president, Rev. Charles Ormond O'Rielly D. D. of Detroit, vice president, Eugene Heatley treasurer, and James Clark of Lyndon Center, secretary. The new organization held frequent evening meetings at the house of Doctor O'Rielly who was sojourning for the snmmer in Chelsea. The new organization, its officials and members said nothing. They went to work and next thing the association was known in Lansing, Jackson, Ann Arbor, Detroit and in circles where Lyndon itself was not known.

Last Tuesday evening the Lyndon Good Roads Association held its first annual meeting at the town hall Lyndon Center. (Its light was no longer under a bushel.) It had a record behind it. Its membership had increased to fifty, virtually representing all the wealth, dignity and intelligence of the rural township that never held within its precincts a postoffice, a store or a saloon and still stood intensely and obdurately democratic. The meeting was largely attended, but bore the traits of its assemblage in a marked degree. It was quite deliberate and bent on business. The meeting was called to order at 8 o'clock by the president Commissioner Leek, who ordered his subordinate vice to the chair. The Rev. Doctor in a ringing speech gave a ments of the organization since its inception. The raggedst tire-cutting pitches in the short hills had been subdued into comfortable carpeted ways for automobiles and other equipages to pass over unharmed. The Hummel sand hill had itself been humbled. Doll's mountain had been brought down. The neighboring townships and villages attested their admiration not only by word of mouth but by generously joining in the work. They had put their hands in theirpockets and contributed liberally to our undertaking. He paid a high tribute to the business men of Chelsea for their warm and practical support, never he declared had he known a time when so good a feeling existed between the township of Lyndon and it should be. Town and country were mutually dependant on each other. If Lyndon were a prosperous township, it was mainly because Chelsea was a good market. Chelsea has had its ups and downs with manufactures opening, closing, prospering and collapsing, but Chelsea was still on earth, giving banquet the members of the not because of its manufactures, ma-Church of Our Lady of the Sacred chine shops, cement work, or peat Heart have secured the services of mines, but because of the farming

COMFORT AND INSPIRATION. There are very, very few persons in all this wide world who do not need "comfort and inspiration" at different periods of their lives. Just as the young organist, alone in his blindness, groped in his uncertain way for encouragement which no one thought of giving him, so, too, we who labor in our temporal blindness not only hope for, but really need the kindly word of cheer to help us through the burdens of our days, says the Charleston News and Courier. The men who administer large affairs, the men who are vitally concerned with the shaping of public issues and the men who hold positions of high trust need encouragement throughout all their lives, and at is the word of encouragement spoken at just the right time, when perhaps a weighty decision hangs in the balance, or a new responsibility is to be undertaken, which helps more than anything else could. If the men who control in large affairs require praise and encouragement how much more do the men who work under them long for the word of approbation. The carnest man, the man who takes an active interest in his task and can see beyond the dollars and cents for which he works, cannot be expected to la bor indefinitely without knowing whether his labors are appreciated or not It is argued, of course, that the man who does not give satisfaction does not, naturally, retain his position, but to many finely tempered nanot everything. Appreciation means much to them and when rightly expressed goes a long way toward encouraging their best efforts.

The dangers of submarine naviga- Texas .... tion, in the present stage of its development, are greater than those of the seroplane. In an aeroplane accident the deaths are limited to one or two. but when a submarine boat goes down and fails to come up, the calamity usually carries off a dozen or more human beings at a time. There were 15 men on the British submarine B.2. which was struck by the Hamburg-American liner Amerika in a fog off Dover, and only one of them came up. This is the sixth disaster to British submarines, and in each of the previous disasters the death roll ranged from 11 to 15.

The determination to make an effort immediately to put Michigan in the this district, the property being valdry column does not carry with it all the details involved. These methods were considered statutory prohibition, the submission by the legislature of a constitutional amendment, and the initiation of legislation.

Statutory prohibition is the proposition tentatively settled upon the other methods of obtaining a dry state being considered only as subsidiary measures. Statutory prohibition requires only a majority of each house of the legislature, and although the anti-saloon men have not procured definite returns on all the legislators elected, they are confident that they will be able to muster at least onehalf of each house. The submission of a constitutional amendment to the people requires a two-thirds vote of each house, and although they do not admit that it would be impossible for them to get that many votes, the drymen are not going after the twothirds vote if they can pass the measare with a bare majority. The initiative method is considered only as a last resort by the anti-saloonists, and it will only be followed if both others fail.

Statutory Plan Adopted.

All three parties have been comtted to the submission of an initiae and referendum amendment to constitution and petitioning unthe initiative, if it carries, would lay the submission of prohibition for least two years, say the anti-saloon en, and for that reason they will ake the strongest efforts to obtain atutory legislation.

WESTERN CANADA'S PROSPERITY

NOT A BOOM, BUT DUE TO NAT. URAL DEVELOPMENT.

One of the largest banks in Holland has been doing a big business th Western Canada, and Mr. W. Wester man, the President, on a recent visit into the Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, expressed himself as being much impressed with present conditions and prospects, and was convinced that the great prosperity of the Dominion was not a boom, but merely the outcome of nat ural dévelopments.

Not only has money been invested largely in Western Canada by the Holland Banks, but by those of Germany, France, as well as Great Britain. Not only are these countries contributing money, but they are also contributing people, hard headed, is dustrious farmers, who are helping to produce the two hundred million bushels of wheat and the three hundred million bushels of the other small grains that the Provinces of the West have harvested this season.

During the past fiscal year there came into Canada from the United States 133,710; from Austria Hungary 21,651; from Belgium 1,601; Holland 1.077; France 2,094; Germany 4,664; Sweden 2,394; Norway 1,692; and from all countries the immigration to Canada in that year was 354,227. From the United States and foreign countries the figures will be increased during the present year. Most of these people have gone to the farms, and it is no far look to the time when the prophecy will be fulfilled of half a billion bushel crop of wheat in Western Canada. Advertise

Built Her Own Home.

Miss Frances Lyon of Westwood has the distinction of being the only woman in New England who lives in a house literally built with her own hands. Miss Lyons belongs to a club whose members are practicing the doctrine of going back to the farm. The club is limited to 40 members and owns property to the amount of $1,000 and about 70 acres of farming land not far from Westwood. Each member holds a deed to one acre and the balance of the land is held in common to be rented to any member who wishes to try farming on a larger scale. House Plans Important.

The care in the home and all other forms of household work are greatly facilitated by right planning and the use of suitable materials for the construction and furnishing of the home. An adequate and convenient water supply and other conveniences are essential, not only for comfort and for saving labor, but also from the standpoint of home hygiene.

Mr. and Mrs. Little Jimmie. Mrs. Sammy Whitcomb had longed for the sweet privilege of squaring matters with Mrs. Jimmie Wellington. Somehow a wave of jealous rage surged over him, and he growled: Your husband is a scoundrel."

Mrs. Whitcomb's smile turned to vinegar: "Oh, I can't permit you to slander the poor boy behind his back.

Wellington amazed himself by his own bravery when he heard himself volleying back: "And I can't permit you to slander my wife behind her back. It was all your husband's fault."

Mrs. Jimmie overheard this behind her back, and it strangely thrilled "I'd say it if you only had that her. She ignored Ashton's existence retort. It consisted of a simple, icy drawl: "I think I'll go to breakfast."

She seemed to pick up Ashton with her eyes as she glided by, for, finding himself unnoticed, he rose with a careless: "I think I'll go to breakfast," and followed Mrs. Whitcomb. The Wellingtons sat dos-a-dos for some exciting seconds, and then on a sudden impulse, Mrs. Jimmie rose, knelt in the seat and spoke across the back of it:

High Tribunal Upholas Act; Brakeman Awarded $12,000.

The supreme court in an opinion handed down upheld the constitutionality of Act No. 104, of the Public Acts of 1909, an act holding common carrier railroad companies liable to their employes. By this decision not only n the constitutonality of the act upheld, but George Sousmith, a brakeman employed by the Pere Marquette Railroad Co., secures a judgment against the road of more than $12,000 for the loss of a leg, the amount of the damages being figured on the amount of wage received at the time of the injury and a life expectancy of 40 years. The injured man was 23 years of age at the time of the accident. The case, which was tried in a lower court, where judgment was awarded, is affirmed.

This decision is regarded by attorneys here as one of the most important handed down by the highest tribunal in the state in years. In Wisconsin the supreme court of that state recently upheld the constitutionality of a similar act

Two years ago more or less Mr. Deake, who lives near Ypsilanti, crated this bull calt and shipped it by way of United States express to a man somewhere up state. The man somewhere up state. The man somewhere up state never got it. Certain husky expressmen in Detroit endeavored to transfer Mr. Bull Calf from a D. U. R. car to a Michigan Central train, and immediately things began to happen. Mr. Deake after-James P. Wood, who has spent the responsible for what happened and should have provided against it with a portable padded cell, or something like that, while the express company said the bull calf had a mean disposition naturally and was crated at Mr. Deake's risk. It has taken the courts two years to decide the case.

Mr. Deake brought suit against the express company for $80, which he said the express company had beaten him out of by carelessly letting the bull calf get away. He got judgment in justice's court, and recovered in the circuit court on the express com-pany's appeal. Then the express company went up to the supreme court, and last Friday the supreme court solemnly declared that the express company shouldn't be held responsible for this particular bull calf's unfamiliarity with railway etiquette. In other words, the ex-Mrs. Ellen Gunn returned to her press company doesn't have to pay home in Ypsilanti this morning after the $80 and Mr. Deake does have to knowledge of the existence of and project of Mr.

J. Pierpont Morgan for excavations at Hercu-laneum. Mr. Morgan's name has been mixed up with this question owing to the fact that Mr.

Charles Waldstein, the author of an international project for unearthing the buried city, delivered a lecture on January 3, 1905, in his house in New York with the object of collecting the money necessary for the work, which was then estimated

Before lecturing in New York Mr. Waldstein

had visited Rome and spoken on the matter with the king, Signor Giolitti and Signor Orlando, then minister of public instruction. He had even obtained from Signor Orlando a letter warmly commending the project, but in no way engaging his responsibility. As soon as the idea became spends from two to three millions yearly in digging. The excavations at Pompeii alone cost 200,000 lire a year. The government will also search the soil of Herculaneum, but that is not so simple an undertaking as the uncovering of Pompeii, over which vineyards and olive groves have spread. That is what we did also for the British Archaeological school in Rome, which desired to omplete special researches in the Forum of propriation of the land there is not so easy as in the case of Pompeii. We have under consideration a bill dealing with the proprietorship of archaeological subsoils, which will probably allow us to excavate Herculaneum by a series of underground galleries without demolishing 'the pretty little town which stands smilingly above it. A commission has been appointed with this object. There is no immediate call for the undertaking except that due to our praiseworthy curiosity. The world of science can wait; it has yet to study, at least three-quarters of the objects found at Pompeil and in the vicinity, and the jewels of art which are hidden under the lava are not perishing. On the contrary, the frescoes uncovered at Pompeli some fifty years ago are spoiling and falling into ruin under the action of the air and damp."

"The Italian government," Signor Corrado Ricci continued, "already culaneum the city of Resina is built and the ex-

It is little wonder that the entire world has been so deeply interested in the excavations at Herculaneum and that archaeologists and historians have treasured such an ardor for the completion of the unearthing of the ancient city SMALL STORES BOOMING. for so many years, for the conditions of its tragic engulfment were such that it is generally believed these ruins more than any others will present a complete picture of the life of the times before the sepulture of the city. The more suddenly the forces of nature did their work of destruction the more perfect have been found to be all the details of the buildings and their furnishings when the work of excavation has been completed. In the other cities where great excavations have been made the destruction was more gradual and great havoc was wrought before the final sepulture took place. Thus, although some of the other points at which excavations have been made were of greater importance in the ancient world than was Herculaneum, it offers the most perfect opportunities for beholding an ancient settlement as it existed, with few important details destroyed or disturbed.

Another point which contributes to the greater importance of Herculaneum as a field for archaeological investigation is that the suddenness of the disaster from which it suffered made it impossible for the inhabitants to make an effort to save any of the valuable articles of their homes by attempting to remove them to some distant place. In Pompeil, for instance, there was ample time to remove many of the most precious belongings of the inhabitants. But in Herculaneum this seems to have been impossible, and the valuable objects of the rich households were buried beneath the mass of liquid mud which inundated the city as securely as if they had been locked in impregnable vaults. This mud was an extraordinarily successful preserving fluid, to judge from the finds which have been made, for instead of the surface of objects having been burned and charred by hot ashes, as was the case at Pompeil. at Herculaneum the objects discovered by the excavators were many of them in wonderfully perfect condition. Bronze, marble and glass objects were none of them severely damaged, and manuscripts were sufficiently preserved to make possible their restoration to a degree which is highly satisfactory to archaeologists and historians. That the modern world will be able to obtain better illustration of Hellenic culture as it was represented in a Graeco-Roman town from the excavations at Herculaneum than from those at empeli is the belief of many who have made a comparative study of the ruined cities. They adduce this belief from the fact that Herculaneum is believed to have been less of a commercial ent than was Pompeii, and that its inoftants were greatly more interested in the due arts and in all that pertained to the most advanced thought and culture of the times. The inhabitants of Pompeil, on the other hand, are be-aggregation of merchants very largely, and as such they were not particularly representative of the life and thought of the most highly cultivated people of the times. One of the reasons for this belief in the different character of the two cities is the discovery of such a large number of manuscripts at Herculaneum, whereas at Pompeli no manuscripts have been discovered. Some students of the excavations attribute this fact to the greater destruction that took place at Pompeii or to the fact that so many of the valuables were removed, but this point of view is disputed by many persons, who are of the belief that no manuscripts existed in this city of merchants

lieved to have been an

Herculaneum in the time of its prosperity occupied to Rome somewhat the position which a suburban town of wealth in the vicinity of a great city fills today. Well-to-do citizens of Rome resorted thither for the benefit of their health, as its air was believed to be particularly exhilarating. Rest and quiet from the disturbing influences of the great center were found in the luxurious villas which were situated in and around Herculaneum. There seems to have been no industry in the town except fishing, and the character of the ruins suggests that, like such a prosperous suburban retreat of today, the settlement rejoiced in all that wealth and care could afford of beauty and convenience.

Bouncing Betty-Make a pure white blanc mange, flavoring it with almonds and molding it prettily. Put upside down on a platter and ornament with a ring of baked apples, each one holding a stick of cinnamon. If a smooth mold has been used for the blanc mange it is easy to outline a fat face on the top with small brown chocolates.

Caldron Custards-At several of the shops there are little individual custard dishes made in the shape of the witches' caldron. These are in a brilliant yellow, but if it is impossible to get them the usual round dishes will do. Fill the little dishes with a nice baked custard mixture, bake them until brown and put them on the ice. Serve the custards in the ramekins, placed in a circle on a large round dish. In the center of the ring stand up a hickory nut doll, dressed as a witch in crinkled tissue paper.

Punch-To every quart of sweet apple cider add a bottle of club soda. Have ready some thinly sliced tart apples and some sprigs of fresh mint. Bruise the mint leaves, allowing a little sprig for each glass. Several of the apple slices must also be put into each glass, and the punch may contain much sugar and a little lemon juice, if liked.

Marshmallow Ghosts-Toast a lot of marshmallow drops and, while each one is piping hot, drop it onto a little round, crisp ginger snap. These can be prepared by the company of a Hallowe'en gathering, and most young people find the making of the "ghosts" the greatest fun. The uncanny sweets finish off a meal very nicely, so they could be used instead of any other sugary thing.

NO MEDICINE But Change of Food Gave Final Relief.

Most diseases start in the alimertary canal-stomach and bowels.

A great deal of our stomach and bowel troubles come from eating too much starchy and greasy food.

The stomach does not digest any of the starchy food we eat-white bread, pastry, potatoes, oats, etc .-these things are digested in the small intestines, and if we eat too much, as most of us do, the organs that should digest this kind of food are overcome by excess of work, so that fermentation, indigestion, and a long train of alls result.

Too much fat also is hard to digest and this is changed into acids, sour stomach, belching gas, and a bloated, heavy feeling.

In these conditions a change from indigestible foods to Grape-Nuts will work wonders in not only relieving the distress but in building up a strong digestion, clear brain and steady nerves. A Wash. woman writes:

"About five years ago I suffered with bad stomach-dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation—caused, I know now, from overeating starchy and greasy food.

"I doctored for two years without any benefit. The doctor told me there was no cure for me. I could not eat anything without suffering severe pain in my back and sides, and I became discouraged.

"A friend recommended Grape-Nuts and I began to use it. In less than two weeks I began to feel better and inside of two months I was a well woman and have been ever since. "I can eat anything I wish with pleasure. We eat Grape-Nuts and cream for breakfast and are very fond of it." Name given by Postum

Newspapers and Literature. All this over emphasis of the unmeaning surface is due to a confusion of newspaper and literary standards, ends, aims. The word literary has come to suggest an absence of red-blood; spinners and knitters in the sun; the 25 cent magazine crowd; this is nonsensical, of course. In its elemental meaning literature is at least as stern a jab as journalism, albeit the intention and function of the latter is merely to present things that happen, of the former to volatilize such material into hovering and potent meanings, to strike the rock and raise a spirit that Michigan Gets Six West Point Places.

ered; Urges Prison Reformation. SHOT BY ANARCHIST

Sensational developments, which nay involve a number of persons outside Jackson prison as well as prison inmates, are promised if the rumors relative to the probe of Burns detectives into the convict conspiracy are to be believed.

I am willing to make this statement for the benefit of you readers in Michigan, regarding the Jackson prison case, said Burns. Fear in mind that I cannot tell you all, for obvious

Several convicts are intent upon taking the life of Warden Simpson. Trouble began because he began to enforce discipline. Immediately after the burning of the sisa! storage plant, the warden conferred with the governor, and I was asked to investigate. We were carrying our plans into effect when the plot to burn the canning factory developed. I came on from New York with Guy Biddinger, chief of our criminal bureau. Wit' Roy Kelley, manager of the Detroit branch, we arranged for the immediate transfer of the eight ring leaders to Detroit. We showed them that we had positive proof of their conspiracy, and one by one they confe sed after we had "sweat" them. There still remain things to uncover, which we expect to get next week. The convicts had a very simple. modus operandi for seiting fire to the sisal house. They li' a piece of candle and placed it where, after it had burned low, it would set fire to the sisal. The same plan was to have been worked in the canning factory.

Two More Jackson Convicts Removed

Two more convicts, it is stated, were taken from the prison late Saturday night, under heavy guard. The men are believed to have been removed to Detroit, where the remainder of the leaders of the piot to burn the prison and kill Warden Simpson are held.

Many rumors were he rd about the streets regarding the latest trouble at the prison. It is sid that Burns detectives, who discovered the plot to burn the prison and kill Warden Simpson, while posing as convicts are still at work in the prison.

The news that a portion of the 750 convicts in the prison have sworn to "get" Warden Simpson, was the main topic of conversation, both on the streets and among the guards and Guards also fear atta ks from the convicts. It is known that several of the guards have been openly threaten- appointed to examine Schrank's mened by inmates. The guards and keepers are on the alert at all times, ready for a fresh ou reak among the inmates, which is feared may take place at any time.

governor general. That he was quite a despot can be gathered from the way in which he contrived to get this great work done without its costing a penny to the high and mighty Dutch East India company, which then held sway. Even in those early days the Chinese had found their way to Java and had also found plenteous means of enriching themselves there. One Chineman was known to be the wealthiest man in Batavia. Jan Pieterson Coen called him into his doughty presence. When he arrived, pale and trembling, the governor said: "Chinaman, I want a good road to be built from Batavia to Samarang. and you must build it! You must build it at your own cost, and it must be well done, too! If you do not do what I tell you I will have your head struck off."

No protestation, no lamentation of the wealthy Chinese could move him. The work had to be done, or the death penalty would have to be paid. This the unfortunate possessor of untold wealth realized. He loved his money dearly, but he valued his life even more; so he stopped lamenting and set about his task. A whole army of coolies were set to work and in an incredibly short time a splendid highway united Batavia and Samarang. The Chinaman's head remained on his shoulders, and it is believed he soon found divers ways of recouping for his loss of gold, and Java was the better off for a fine road that had not cost the government a penny.

But that happened in the long ago. Modern governments are debarred from taking any such drastic measures to enforce the institution of public utilities.

His system of payment was the strangest feature of his novel busi-ness. He fixed the price he demanded by the age of the paper desired. One penny a day from the date of publication, for any paper in the world, in addition to the original cost of the paper was his rule, It was a lucrative trade. A paper a year old, by this rule, was worth $3.65 above the original price; a paper two years old was worth $7,30, and a pated ten years old brought $36.50. And when it is borne in mind that very often he supplied newspapers 30, 50, or even 100 years old, the profits of the business are apparent.

"I'm a jeweler by trade," he would say, with a twinkle in his eye, referring to the value of his wares.

Majestic Grand Opera Co.

In an interview with Theodore H. Bauer, the general manager of the Majestic Grand Opera Company, which will present "Elijah" at the Whitney Theatre, Ann Arbor, Saturday, November 16, he says: "The Majestic Grand Opera Company, is born to supplement the permanent grand opera organizations of Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia and New York."

"In its present organization the new opera company is capable of presenting a repertoire of Italian, French and German opera in their respective languages. This means that the singers we have engaged to appear in the first American production of the opera "Elijah" are material for international grand opera fame."

"The reason managers are compelled to charge $5 and $6 for grand opera in America, is because the fame of the singers once established creates a fabulous value. The talent and artistic work of the singers we have engaged in Europe for this special tour of "Elijah" is equal, in some cases perhaps superior to that of artists whose names command fabulous sums. We have looked for talent more than for names and this has made it possible for us to present grand opera in America at the regular theatre prices of $2."

"In making the first American production of Mendelsshon's "Elijah" in Joseph Walz and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. the form of grand opera we make our Beeman at the Walzhome near Roots' debut to the American people not as Station, the occasion being the 20th a venture, but as the beginning of anniversary of their marriage. #### "Bunty Pulls The Strings."

No play of recent years has had so much of genuine interest to the play going public as "Bunty Pulls the Strings," v clever satirical comedy by Graham Moffat, which is the dramatic sensation of two continents, and which comes to the Whitney Theatre, Ann Arbor, on Tuesday, November 19th, for its first local presentation. Its interest is broad in its scope, and the touches of pathos and ment well worth seeing by everybody, old and young. The keynote of its success is in the fact that it pictures real people, real life, and a real state of affairs to be found today in any haugh, Scotland, where the struggle for existence is hard and where nar row-minded prejudice dominates largely the lives of the villagers. Bunty Biggar is the pivot of the activities; Bunty, the frugal little housekeeper; Bunty, the manager of her big clumsy lover, Weelum Sprunt; and, in truth, of everybody else in this beautiful idyl yes, and Bunty, the big hearted, loyal sister.' The success of this much heralded play is said to lie in the unique characters presented in "Bunty." The heatherland atmosphere is truly portrayed The canniness and cleverness are really never harsh but rather softened by a delightful motive. "Bunty" is costumed in the period of 1860, the women in hoopskirts and old fashioned short jackets, and the men in tall hats, baggy trousers and frock coats.
