WM. W. WEDEMEYER OVERPOWERS GUARD

Apparently Rational, He Suddenly Jumped Into the Ocean—Feared He Would be Left Behind.

Arriving in New York from Panama Wednesday afternoon Congressman Edwin F. Sweet, of Grand Rapids, and Congressman George A. Loud, of Bay City, gave the first details as to the self-destruction of the late Congressman W. W. Wedemeyer. They together with members of their families arrived on the steamship Panama, the vessel from which Mr. Wedemeyer leaped to his death soon after she left Cristobal, January 2. At the pier they were met by five friends of the Wedemeyer family: Dr. Royal S. Copeland, of New York; John J. Lentz, of Columbus, Ohio; Frank J. McIntyre, the actor; Frank J. Audette and George J. Burke, of Ann Arbor.

After a brief conference with Messrs. Sweet and Loud, the friends who met the boat announced that no effort would be made to detain the attendant in whose care Congressman Wedemeyer had been placed for the trip from Panama to New York. No one on the boat was inclined to blame the attendant for his failure to deliver Congressman Wedemeyer safely into the hands of his friends. He weighs less than half as much as Congressman Wedemeyer did, and was absolutely helpless in his attempt to prevent the determined man from jumping overboard.

When Congressman Wedemeyer was taken from the sanitarium on the isthmus and placed aboard the Panama, Dr. H. V. Dutrou of the Colon hospital and C. W. Powell of the canal zone service, were designated to accompany him. At the time Congressman Wedemeyer was laboring under the hallucination that he was to be left behind on the isthmus by his friends. He told them if they left him the doctors would operate on him, so when he was taken aboard the vessel he seemed to regain his hopeful spirit.

At dinner a short time before his death, he sat across the table from Mr. Loud, and according to the congressman he talked rationally. When the dinner was over Mr. Wedemeyer and Attendant Powell went on deck.

"We sat there for a moment," said Mr. Powell, in telling of the circumstances surrounding the tragedy. "Mr. Wedemeyer then said to me: 'Well, suppose we take a walk.' 'Several persons were promenading, so I said: 'All right.' We made two complete trips around the upper deck. On the third round as we came to the rear, he suggested that we stop a minute and watch the children play on the deck below. While we were standing there he called my attention to the star Venus, which shows as brightly as an electric light. We talked of a number of things in a quiet sort of way, and then I suggested that we go around and sit down with the others, meaning his congressional friends."

"Just as we turned the corner on the starboard side to go forward, he put his right arm on my back and gave me a violent shove. I was between him and the rail at the time, but the force of his shove threw me over against Congressman Evans of Illinois who was sitting in a steamer chair against the cabin."

"Before I could regain my feet, almost in the twinkling of an eye, the congressman had hurled himself over the rail. He was never seen again."

Three illuminated life buoys were thrown overboard, the engines of the vessel reversed, and a small boat lowered as soon as possible. For an hour the searchlights were played on the water but the search was futile. The sea was running strong and those on board feared for the safety of the men in the small boat, before giving the order to proceed. The captain asked Congressman Loud whether he believed everything had been done that could be done and after a conference with the other friends of Mr. Wedemeyer, Mr. Loud said it was the general belief the trip might as well be resumed.

Dr. John A. McGuire of New York, the boat's doctor, said: "The first day out Mr. Wedemeyer came to me and told me of his trouble. He said he could not help but think of his election defeat. He said he was afraid he would lose his mind over it. He had no hallucinations on the going voyage, but talked continually of his trouble. It was a very sad voyage."

Mr. Sweet, Miss Sweet, and the others who saw the tragedy, confirm the story told by the attendant. William W. Wedemeyer was born in Lima, March 22, 1873, and was well

KITTY GORDON

In the Enchantress—First Appearance in Ann Arbor. Theatrical Event of the Season.

In a criticism of the comic opera "The Enchantress" at the Whitney Theatre, Ann Arbor, Saturday, January 11, Amy Leslie says:

"To be confronted by the resplendent beauty of Kitty Gordon and called upon to write about her singing is one of the tragedies of occasional comic opera whirlwinds boasting the incomparable pulchritude of this daughter of Venus, though diplomatic Victor Herbert has tempered the wind to the shorn without upsetting any of his operatic plans and purposes for "The Enchantress," which was written with Miss Gordon's exquisite loveliness as the chief excitement."

"There are few songs given the dazzling star of "The Enchantress" at the Illinois and she carefully refrains from pretending to do other than deliver them religiously and understandingly, with all the voice she owns slipped in unpretentiously with a perfect avalanche of other gifts. She dominates the opera with more secure fascination and vivid personality than any diva picked from three continents could, and, sweltering under the prodigious charm of this singularly sculptural endowment, Victor Herbert's delightful composition stands a magnificent storm of song which enfolds rather than carries the beauty of Kitty the enchantress."

"Miss Gordon's figure is the Milo restored (which is old stuff, but so apt as to be almost irresistible). Miss Gordon's throat is so perfect in contour that nothing vocal matters, though she sings with musical taste and choice expression and speaks that way either in sentiment, drama or comedy. Miss Gordon's profile is a cameo with dusky shadows of intense feeling about the cheek and sweet red lips and the corners of her mouth turn down like the mouth of a child whose feelings have been hurt. Her eyes are fiery wells of infinite beauty and expression and her face is so strong with vital intensity and intelligence that it is almost masculine, could anything mannish be so beautiful. Her mouth is the mouth of an emotional dreamer; not small, feminine and pouting, but large, loose and full of poetry and music, the mouth of genius and tragedy, and hovering over her beauty is the purple shadow of fate and history, though up to date Kitty has had rather an easy time of it, and nothing ever happens her but luck and triumph."

"Mr. Herbert and his librettists have built an opera around a story of a sort of Adrienne or Floria Tosca, who does not come to grief. An opera singer enchants a king. He gives up his throne, much to the comfort of intriguing courtiers, and then all of a sudden the beautiful singer is informed that she is of royal blood and can marry the king and be queen with the best of them. Disappointed princesses sing wonderfully well about this and their own troubles and though there are many stalwart gentlemen hanging about barytoning and tenoring to beat the band none of them marries the unsuccessful ones, so they only happen vocally, not romantically at all."

"Mr. Herbert's songs are memorable and graceful; highly melodious and written with scholarly brilliance and elegance. A fascinating ballad about goldfish is one of Miss Gordon's most attractive efforts. An irresistible melody bringing out the several fine voices in the young women impersonating the princesses made a great success and employed the angelic, golden haired Fitzhugh in her most glittering high notes and pretty airs. It is a madrigal and eloquently delivered. Miss Gehrue appears as an American girl and has evidently been shoved in as an aftermath of grousing dullness in the book. Her big hit was a quarter dash in Herbert's finest Irish swing, with dances which sent the audience home whizzing with haunting new steps. Hattie Arnold does excellent character work and so does Ida Fitzhugh."

"Mr. Herbert came before the curtain and in a pretty brogue, which would hurt Chauncey Olcott's business, declared Chicago both American and courtly, genuine and good to the Irish."

The above criticism is more than appreciated at this time as Kitty Gordon appears in this play at the Whitney Theatre Saturday night, January 11, only one performance given. The Chelsea people will be taken care of if they mail in or phone the Whitney box office, No. 480.

The great importance of bread in your household justifies precaution to insure the utmost nourishment. Only by taking pains in selecting the flour can you be sure that the bread you bake for your family reaches the highest point of food efficiency.

Try this scientific test for quality: Aristos Flour, when pressed in the hands, falls loosely apart. Flour that stays in lumps is too moist. Beware of the flour that feels too smooth and powdery when rubbed between the fingers. In Aristos Flour notice that the individual particles are vaguely distinguishable. Aristos "crunches" a little between your teeth—and the taste is sweet and nutty with no suggestion of acidity.

Aristos is all that a flour should be. It is the sound basis for the perfect loaf—the loaf that repays, restores, rebuilds. A splendid all-around flour for home-baking. Sold with a money-back guarantee. Try a sack—order it from your grocer today.

MANCHESTER

At the annual meeting of the Southern Washtenaw Mutual Fire Insurance Co., all the old officers were elected for the coming year. The company is in fine financial condition.—Enterprise.

JACKSON—Justice Blackman made a good start in office by sending two tough boys to jail for five days for smoking cigarettes. It should prove a lesson to them, and to the pernicious habit. But will it?—Evening Star.

JACKSON—George Howard, a convict at the Michigan State prison, who was employed as a trusty cooking in the kitchen of Warden Simpson's home, made his escape Friday night about 7 o'clock, shortly after the supper hour, and up to a late hour no trace of him had been found.

MANCHESTER—Farm land in this part of Washtenaw county still continues to sell at a good figure. Chas. Paul, who lives three miles east of here, sold his farm of seventy acres—hay, grain, stock and tools—Thursday at public auction. The farm was sold to Fred Frey, of Manchester, for $79.50 per acre, corn stalks at 1 1/2 cents per bundle, corn in the ear at 32 cents, hay at 88 and 89 per ton.

SALINE—George Theurer, jr., had the misfortune to injure his foot Friday by jumping about 12 feet. When he slid from the top of the straw-stacker to the ladder, it slipped from under his feet and he had the choice of jumping or falling, so he jumped and in so doing struck his whole weight on his one foot. For 30 hours he suffered intense pain and is now unable to use the injured member.—Observer.

ANN ARBOR—Gottlob Teufel, an employee of C. A. Sauer & Co., died Monday morning in University hospital from burns inflicted when a can of gasoline exploded a week ago. Mr. Teufel was thawing some gravel to be used in a cement mixer, and was pouring gasoline out of a can on the fire. The wind shifted and blew the blaze against the can and it exploded. He was badly burned about the legs and lower part of the body.

BRIGHTON—Peter Conabey suffered a very painful and critical accident last Thursday. He fell from a load of bean pods striking on his back on the frozen ground, with the result that his spinal column was broken and parts of it pressed against the spinal cord so that an operation was necessary. A doctor from Detroit assisted Dr. Singer in the operation in which twelve pieces of bone were removed. His limbs and lower part of his body are entirely paralyzed and he is in a critical condition.—Argus.

Must Be Open January 25.

Secretary of State Martindale has announced that the present enrollment laws require all enrollment precincts to be open on January 25, so as to afford voters an opportunity of enrolling for the primaries. The law also provides that the first Monday in April shall also be enrollment day in the even years, which will be 1914. Enrollment boards are required to give notice of the coming enrollment in the usual manner.

A PLEA

For Medical Inspection in Our Public Schools.

Appreciation of health, as well as its neglect, is indexed by the physical condition of the school children. Physical examinations will reveal what parents are trying to do as well as what they fail to do because of ignorance, indifference or poverty. In so far as parents are alive to the importance of health, the school examination furnishes the occasion for enlisting them in crusades to protect the public health and to enforce health rights.

Apart from the advantage to the community of locating its health problem, physical examinations are due every child. No matter where his schooling is obtained or at whose expense, every child has the right to advance as fast as his own powers will permit without hindrance from any physical defect which is removable. He has the right to know that simplified breathing is more necessary than simplified spelling, that a nose plus adenoids causes backwardness, that a decayed tooth multiplied by ten is an unbearable nuisance and one of the chief causes of indigestion and that hypertrophied tonsils are even more menacing than hypertrophied playfulness.

If the physical condition of our school children is our best index to community health, who is to read the index? Fortunately the more important signs can easily be read by the average parent or teacher. Fortunately too it is easy to persuade mothers and teachers that they can lighten their own labors, add to their efficiency, and help their children by being on the watch for mouth breathing; for strained, crossed, or inflamed eyes; for decaying teeth; for nervousness and sluggishness.

The indexes to adenoids and large tonsils for the teacher to read at school are:

1. Inability to breathe through the nose.
2. A chronically running nose, accompanied by frequent nosebleeds and a cough to clear the throat.
3. Stuffy speech and delayed learning to talk. "Common" is pronounced "cobbled"; "nose"; "dose"; and "song" "sogg."
4. A narrow upper jaw and an irregular crowding of the teeth.
5. Deafness.
6. Nervousness.
7. Inflamed eyes and conjunctivitis.

Children afflicted as above described are needlessly handicapped in their school work and they are weakened physically so that they succumb to such diseases as whooping cough, measles, scarlet fever, diphtheria and tuberculosis and they become a menace to society.

Reluctance to permit the necessary operation to remove adenoids and enlarged tonsils and the natural shrinking of a parent at seeing a child under the surgeon's knife, require the teacher or school physician to answer fully the following questions of the hesitant mother and father: Is the operation necessary? Will the child not outgrow its adenoids? If he is operated on will the growth recur? Is the operation a dangerous one? Is an anasthetic necessary? Will the operation cure the child permanently of all its troubles? These questions are best answered by the results of such operations.

In the city of New York, at 2:30 p. m., January 15, 1908, seven children were taken into the operating room of the Vanderbilt hospital. The doctor examined the throat of each child, making a record of each examination. He then went into the next room and called the first boy explaining that it would hurt, but that it would be over in a minute. The clinic nurse then tied a large towel about his neck and took him in her lap; with one hand held his clasped hands, while the other held his head back. The doctor then took the little instrument called the curette and pushed it up back of the soft palate, and with one twist brought out the offending spongy lump. In a moment or two the acute pain ceased and the rush of cool air through his nostrils was such a pleasurable sensation that he smiled as the nurses escorted him into the hall to await his companions. At 3:30 p. m. all seven were out in the hall, all seven faces were clothed with sleepy peaceful expressions that came with respite from prolonged labor of trying to get sufficient air. At 4 p. m. the party had returned to school where an ice cream party was awaiting them.

It is worth while to tell mothers stories of the marvelous improvement mentally and morally of the children whose brains had been poisoned and starved by these accursed adenoids and how their bodies fairly bloom when the mysterious and awful incubus is removed. It is worth while to show them the "before" and "after" pictures and the "before" and "after" school marks.

F. HENDRY, Supt.

YPSILANTI—Jay Root, prominent citizen and merchant of this city, died at a private hospital in Ann Arbor Friday after an operation.

THAT THANKLESS JOB

SOMETHING THAT SEEMS TO BE ALWAYS WITH US.

Evidence of its Presence to Be Noted Wherever You May Look—Some Comfort in Remembering Words of Ruskin.

One of the most constant and distressing quantities in everyday life is the thankless job. It is firmly fixed in the established order of things that while we often rebel, we continue to accept. It seems immutably placed, and is illustrated in every circle of friendship or business.

The mother who sacrifices, oh, so much, for her children and is immediately relegated to second place, if not utterly neglected, when Tom, Dick or Mayme decides to marry; the daughter or son who after years of faithful, tender service in the home, is accused of ingratitude when opportunities for a life of wider effort present themselves and are accepted; the generous hearted sister, who, having refused to listen to her own love story and having kept house for years for brother Bill and brother Bill's brood of motherless babies, is told nonchalantly one morning that he, Bill, is to be married and "the boss of that particular ranch" hereafter will be the new wife; the white haired clerk who is either discharged or placed in a position that is an insult to his years of service, not to mention his intellect—these are but a few examples of the little thanks that loyalty commands.

Here's what Ruskin says on this subject:

"Generally, good, useful work, whether of the hand or head, is either ill-paid, or not paid at all. I don't say it should be so, but it always is so. People, as a rule, only pay for being amused or being cheated, not for being served. Five thousand a year to your talker, and a shilling a day to your fighter, digger, and thinker, is the rule. None of the best headwork in art, literature or science is ever paid for. How much do you think Homer got for his Iliad or Dante for his Paradise? Only bitter bread and salt, and going up and down other people's stairs. In science, the man who discovered the telescope and first saw heaven was paid with a dungeon; the man who invented the microscope and first saw earth died of starvation, driven from his home; it is indeed very clear that God means all thoroughly good work and talk to be done for nothing. But, the scribe, did not get a penny a line for writing Jeremiah's second roll for him, I fancy; and St. Stephen did not get bishop's pay for that long sermon of his to the Pharisees; nothing but stones."

True, work earnestly and loyally performed brings to a degree its own reward. The sweetness of doing something for either one's very own or the people out in the great, busy world is real and heart-warming but, even so, it doesn't satisfy any kind of man or woman outside of the ultra-saintly and excessively humble who, by the way, are few and far between. Men and women of everyday life need a tangible evidence of gratitude.

Napoleon at St. Helena.

Describing the food which was placed on his table by his physician, Doctor Antommarchi, he said: "Physicians have the right of regulating the table; it is fit I should give you an account of mine. Behold what it consists of: A basin of soup, two plates of meat, one of vegetables, a salad when I can take it, compose the whole service; half a bottle of claret, which I dilute with a good deal of water, serves me for drink; I drink a little of it pure toward the end of the repast. Sometimes, when I feel fatigued, I substitute champagne for claret; it is a sure means of giving a fillip to the stomach." The doctor having expressed his surprise at this temperate mode of living, he replied: "In my marches with the army of Italy I never failed to put in the bow of my saddle a bottle of wine, some bread and cold fowl. This provision sufficed for the wants of the day; I may even say I often shared it with others. I thus gained time; the economy of my table turned to account on the field of battle. For the rest I eat fast, masticate little; my meals do not consume my hours. This is not what you will approve the most; but in my present situation what signifies it?"

No Amusements in Zanzibar. There would appear to be no present market in Zanzibar for merry-go-rounds and other amusement devices. There are no public resorts in the American sense of the term. On the occasion of the various Mohammedan feasts and festivals and at other times flimsy wheels and merry-go-rounds are set up on the beach near Zanzibar, and perhaps for two days these are well filled by natives who pay one-half cent for a rather long ride. The equipment, however, is of the poorest character, and, while evidently popular, the patronage apparently does not warrant owners in continuing to run them after the day or two of feasting is over. Furthermore, the various tribal dances which obtain all over the district hold first place in the hearts of the natives, and the extreme simplicity of their life and the absence of money are further deterrents to the introduction of up-to-date amusement devices.—From Consul Alexander W. Weddell, Zanzibar.

Former Washtenaw County Resident.

The following was taken from a recent issue of the Sacramento (Cal.) Bee:

"The oldest women voter in Sierra county, and one of the oldest in the state is Mrs. Rebecca Lemmon-Olsen, of Sierraville, 88 years old. She is an ex-army nurse, having served on the Union side in the Civil War at Nashville and Lookout Mountain, Tenn. In the latter place she was presented with a watch, beautifully engraved in appreciation of her services. Mrs. Olsen came to Sierraville in 1871 from Washtenaw county, Michigan, and has made here her home since. She was the first member to be initiated into the order of Eastern Star at Sierraville, and one of the first to join the local Congregational church. This gentle old lady, strong and well preserved for her age, was able to walk to the polling booth and cast her ballots at the last general and primary election.

"Mrs. Olsen is a sister of the late John G. Lemmon, a botanist of state wide reputation, also of Charles H. Lemmon, of Dexter and Kalama-zoo, Mich."

SOME THINGS TO THINK OVER

Worth While Sitting Down Quietly and Reasoning on the Question, "What's the Use?"

That old cry of, "What's the use?" is supposed to be the hallmark of the pessimist, but many a self-satisfied woman would do well to put the test of "What's the use?" in her daily living.

What's the use of sitting so hard for a rainy day that you get no fun out of the passing sunny ones? This was the motto of Edwin Abbey, and the woman who prides herself on her thrift and reviles the spendthrift habits of her friend will do well to ponder it.

What's the use of a charitable purse and an uncharitable tongue? Kind words are infinitely more than coronets or donations on a subscription list.

What's the use of playing the amiable role in society and a snappish role in the family circle? Walls have ears, also neighbors have tongues, and the real you is not unknown.

What's the use of posing as a pedant with a dime novel taste? Mentalty does not need labeling, and you'll never convince the person with brains that you prefer Darwin to the Duchess.

What's the use of being a cat to your best girl friend because of a man? The girl will get even and the man sees through you.

What's the use of ruining your health to gratify your ambition? The quicker a woman learns the unhappiness of life when half ill the bigger chance she stands of success.

What's the use of playing young when the years have you in their grip? Age is not so unlovely that the aging should treat it as a disgrace. Far better a charming old woman than a pitiable mimicry of youth.

What's the use of striving for the big puddle when you would be so much happier in the small one. Learning one's limitations saves heartache. —Pennsylvania Grit.

And the Other Understood.

The man with the bandaged hand gazed long and deliberately at the man in front of him—perhaps for the space of 20 seconds—then:

"Have you ever been to a ticket office and asked for information about some train?" he asked mildly.

"Why, certainly!" replied the one addressed.

"So it may have been your lot to discover the man behind the grille, who is merely there for the pleasure of giving you the said information, curiously unresponsive—not to say impolite or even rude?"

"Umph! Yes, I must say I have had one or two experiences like that."

"Well," replied the other, as he prepared to go on his way, "you now know the cause of my bandaged hand."

His Day of Rest.

Charley Sing, a Chinese gardener, peddles truck in Salt Lake City. One of his best customers is a banker.

One morning Sing drove up to solicit orders for vegetables, and he found the banker working among the flowers in the yard. It was Decoration day and the bank was closed.

"You no work today?" inquired Sing. "I should say not," replied the banker. "This is a holiday."

"Me work all same," said Sing. "Me work all same every day 'cept Sunday afternoon."

"What do you do Sunday afternoon if you don't work?" inquired the banker.

"Me washie plenty shirt last all week!" was the Chinaman's reply. Judge.

Declare for State Pensions.

The Massachusetts Daughters of the American Revolution have passed a resolution in favor of the state pensioning widows with dependent children.

At their recent fall conference Miss Helen M. Winslow made a speech in which she said that there were now upward of 8,000 children in the state dependent on public charity at a cost of from $10 to $12 a month.

"Why not pay the mother something to keep her family together in stead of separating her from her children and paying strangers to care for them?" was the foundation of Miss Winslow's argument.

Clean Living on the Turf.

John Osborne, many years ago the world's premier jockey, is probably the most striking example in the world of clean living associated with sport. Although over eighty years of age, the venerable Englishman retains his love for the turf by training a few good horses, and often gives his charges their early morning gallops his strength and agility being the marvel of his associates.

Winning Both Ways.

Harry Tilden, the famous horse trainer, who died in Brooklyn at the age of ninety-nine, used to impute his success as a trainer to his resourcefulness.

"A horse trainer," he once said, "should be prepared to meet every contingency and every emergency. He should be like the young lady who said:

"I don't intend to be married till I am over twenty-three, and I don't intend, either, to be over twenty-three till I am married."

ACCIDENT BOARD WON'T BE CHANGED

GOV. FERRIS WILL NOT SEND IN NEW NOMINATIONS FOR THIS COMMISSION.

AS NEW BODY, LAW DOES NOT APPLY TO IT AS YET.

Osborn Appointments Must Go to the Senate for Ratification; the Industrial Board is a New Organization.

Governor-elect Ferris will not send to the legislature names for appointment of a new industrial accident board, nor for any member of that board, until after the senate has voted on the proposition of ratification.

He will send in names for the various offices and boards where vacancies have been filled by recess appointments of Governor Osborn.

Governor Ferris and a member of his advisers, including the best legal talent in the party in Michigan, conferred with the result that it was announced the governor would stick to the letter of the law covering appointments and the decisions of the courts in various appointment suits that have been sent to the judiciary for settlement, notably the Haggerty garden board case, brought when Osborn removed the Detroit.

The governor's legal advisers said he would be governed entirely by the statutes and under the acts creating the majority of the boards on which vacancies have been filled by so-called recess appointments, providing such appointments were good until the following session of the legislature, when an appointment to fill a vacancy would have to be made and confirmed by the senate.

The industrial accident board is a new organization and does not come under the rule applying to vacancies created by resignations or otherwise.

According to the legal gentlemen, the industrial accident board appointments made by Osborn go direct to the senate for confirmation, and Governor Ferris can have no appointments to make on the board unless the senate refuses to confirm Osborn's appointments, which would automatically create vacancies for Ferris to fill.

All are speculating on what the senate will do with the industrial board appointments. If it refuses to confirm them Ferris, it is declared on good authority, will reappoint John E. Kinnane, of Bay City, the democratic chairman. A democrat will probably be put in Reeve's place, while Rev. Mr. Kennedy, of the Soo, will stay, it is said, through an understanding between Ferris and Osborn.

Governor Ferris can send to the senate for confirmation the names of men to succeed Messrs. Frensdorff and Barbour on the Jackson prison board of control; Wykes on the state tax commission; Parker on the pardon board, one member of the Ionia prison board of control and many minor appointments.

Will Ask $1,000,000 for Good Highways

Members of the state highway commission are preparing a bill, which they will introduce when the legislature convenes again, asking for an appropriation of $1,000,000 for good roads. The bill provides that $400,000 shall be appropriated in 1914 and $600,000 in 1915.

It is stated, however, that if the bill providing for a special tax on automobiles is passed and the money derived from this source is turned into the highway fund, the appropriation bill will be withdrawn.

Since Gov. Ferris has endorsed a plan to improve the condition of roads with auto license money it is thought that the state highway department will receive a liberal treatment.

$250,000,000 in Stocks During 1912.

During 1912 Secretary of State Martindale's department accepted articles of association of new corporations representing an authorized capitalization of approximately $250,000,000. The franchise fees amounted to $74,000. The department accepted articles of association of 1,550 new corporations; 1,146 manufacturing or mercantile business; 351 incorporated for profit, 530 dissolutions, 41 mining companies, five railroads and seven limited partnerships.

The Saginaw board of trade has elected President J. A. Glimmer, M. W. Tanner and Edward Schust to attend the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States in Washington, Jan. 21-23.

While its mother was visiting a neighbor, the 8-month-old baby of Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Sherman, of Cadillac, was burned to death. Coals dropped from a stove caught fire to the floor of the room where the child was sleeping.

Grinnell Harrington, 16, was shot and instantly killed by his 16-year-old brother, Vernon, at Disco, four miles north of Utica, while hunting rabbits. The trigger of the elder brother's gun caught in his clothing as he raised it to shoot at a rabbit.

CHANGES IN GAME LAWS.

Warden Oates Also Asks Increase of Number of Deputies.

Civil service for employees, a hunters' license bill that the time of opening the deer season be changed to Nov. 10, with the "limit of killing" a male deer with horns, abolishment of spring shooting of water fowl and shore birds, requirement for a non-resident rod license and an increase of deputies from ten to twenty, are recommendations to the legislature by William R. Oates, state game, fish and forestry warden, in the biennial report of the department. In the forestry report of the same department, transmitted to the public domain commission, railway locomotive inspection in regard to forest fire risk and the school boy auxiliary fire wardens, "Michigan forest scouts," brought to practical working in 1912, are featured and recommendation made for creation of two special wardenships for field forestry and railway supervision. General plans for the positive beginning or reforestation and provision for the annual clearing of timber "slash" on not to exceed ten per cent of such state lands as may be condemned as dangerous fire risk by the department are recommended.

The passage of a bill providing that each resident hunter shall pay a license fee of $1, which license shall be issued and used only during the open season, would supply an annual revenue of $100,000 it is estimated by the department.

City to Test Home Rule Law.

Wishing to determine to what length a city may go in an interpretation of that clause of the home rule bill which provides for the bonding of a city in case of fire, flood or other calamity, the city commissioners of Port Huron are forcing into the supreme court a test case, a decision upon which will insure them against possible difficulties in the sale of bonds for the proposed water main extension.

The case is the first of the kind ever to be taken to the supreme court and will serve as a guide to all cities of the state which have elected to come under the provisions of the home rule act passed in 1909.

STATE BRIEFS.

Jackson will place before the legislature a bill of $8,000 for water consumed at Jackson prison.

A suitable site has been offered the city of Alpena for a Carnegie library building by Frank W. Fletcher.

By the will of the late Mrs. Charlotte M. Rogers, the charitable union of Battle Creek, receives $23,557.

The matter of hiring a crop expert for St. Clair county will probably be put up to the supervisors at their January meeting.

George Howard, 28, sentenced to Jackson prison for wife desertion from Lenawee county last October to three years, escaped from the prison.

Gov. Ferris issued his first parole to Joseph Filschman and brother, inmates of Jackson prison, to attend the funeral of their mother in Detroit.

The board of supervisors of Jackson county have voted to renew contracts with the Detroit house of correction to care for short-term prisoners. The contracts had been allowed to lapse.

The combination of democrats and republicans selected the city officers of Saginaw at the meeting of the common council two of the important positions going to republicans, although the council is democratic.

Three women claiming to be wives of a Detroit man killed at work, have put in claims for compensation under the liability law. He had married two of the women and lived with the third as his common-law wife.

Jos. Smith, Wm. Krause, Bay City; Harry Elliott, Roger Quinn and Charles Wade, St. Charles, appointed by the Michigan district of the United Mine Workers, have drafted a state mining law which will be presented to the legislature.

It was announced at the prison Monday that in future all prisoners paroled will be ordered to return to the counties from which they were sentenced. This step is taken because of the large number of paroled prisoners who remain in Jackson.

Proceedings against the state to reimburse Jackson county for the expense of the grand jury, which was called in connection with the case of Warden Allen N. Armstrong at Jackson four years ago, and for the expense of the convicts John Van Vleet and James Murphy, will be started according to Prosecuting Attorney Rossman. It is expected the bill will amount to $10,000. The state will also be asked to pay for the Davison arson case.

Joel Cross, 10, of Cadillac, may lose the sight of his left eye as the result of striking a match on a can of gasoline, which exploded.

Geo. H. Gardner has resigned as general manager of the Flint Journal and will be succeeded by Chas. M. Greenway of the Saginaw News.

It is thought that Mrs. Fred Hollister, of Saginaw, will lose her sight as the result of a bullet striking her left eye. The gun was in the hands of her son, who received it for a Christmas present.

A bill for presentation to the legislature has been prepared by a committee of the Michigan district of the United Iron Workers of America. It is stated that all of the features of the good mining laws in the various states have been embodied in the bill.

HEIR PRESUMPTIVE OF AUSTRIA, AND FAMILY

This is a new photograph of Archduke Francis Ferdinand, heir presumptive to the throne of Austria-Hungary, and his family. The archduke is the son of the emperor's eldest brother, Charles Louis, who died in 1896. He is forty-nine years old, and was married morganatically to the Countess Sophia Chotek in 1900. The archduke renounced the claim of their issue to the throne.

Applauds Words of Ferris and Osborn.

Governor Woodbridge N. Ferris made his initial bow to the legislature of the state of Michigan Thursday. The retiring governor, Chase S. Osborn, in the same hour faced the legislature in the administration of his office, yet for the last time by right of his office, and delivered his final official word to the people of Michigan.

The occasion was impressive chiefly in the harmony which was shown in the views of the two progressive governors of opposite political allegiance, and in the non-partisan spirit with which each was applauded by the crowd which packed the legislative chamber to hear them. Gov. Ferris repeated almost verbatim one of the paragraphs in the inaugural message of his predecessor and commented on the fact. Mr. Osborn, with delicate ethical restraint, refrained from making any detailed recommendations because, he said, if heeded, his views might embarrass the new governor and because, he declared, he had abiding faith that the new governor will view public questions as he views them.

March 15 for Extra Session.

As the result of the conferences between President-elect Wilson and democratic leaders in congress during the holidays, these features of the democratic legislative program have been tentatively agreed upon:

Congress will be called in extraordinary session March 15 to revise the tariff. A complete scheme of tariff revision will be laid before a caucus of the democratic members of the new house early next March by the democratic members of the ways and means committee.

This will include an income tax if the constitutional amendment on this subject has been ratified by three-fourths of the states, and an excise tax if it has not. It will also include the administrative features of the new law embracing a substitute for the present maximum and minimum clause. Any changes in the internal revenue taxes made necessary by reductions in the customs tariff also will be laid before the caucus.

The democratic caucus will decide whether the schedules will be reported and passed by the house separately or as one bill.

Jas. A. Patten Held to Trial.

By upholding certain disputed counts against James A. Patten and others, charged with a violation of the Sherman anti-trust law in running a so-called cotton corner, the supreme court of the United States sent the case against the men to trial in the lower courts.

The decision of the court is to the effect that a "corner" in any commodity is a violation of the Sherman law.

Patten is the former wheat king. He was a broker in the Chicago market when he obtained a corner in wheat.

The Central Savings bank of Detroit has filed with the state banking department amended articles of incorporation increasing its capital stock from $100,000 to $500,000, with a surplus of $100,000.

A bill for presentation to the legislature has been prepared by a committee of the Michigan district of the United Iron Workers of America. It is stated that all of the features of the good mining laws in the various states have been embodied in the bill.

Senator Jeff Davis Is Dead.

United States Senator Jeff Davis was stricken with apoplexy at his home in Little Rock, Ark. He died before doctors who had been hurriedly summoned could do anything to aid him. He was born in Little Rock county, May 6, 1862, and served as district attorney, attorney general and governor, and was elected U. S. senator in 1890. He was married in October, 1911, to Miss Lella Carter. At the time he was a widower. He is survived by three sons and four daughters by his first wife.

As governor "Jeff" was unwise and extravagant and at times sensational his popularity never failed him.

Portugal Uneasy.

The political situation in Portugal daily becomes worse and more threatening. Rumors are current every hour that one side or the other intends to overturn the government and force either the proclamation of a dictatorship or the appointment of a provisional cabinet.

The secret society of the Carbineros is increasing in strength. It now numbers 30,000 members, virtually all of whom are socialists.

MRS. WHITELAW REID

Mrs. Reid is the widow of the late American ambassador to England.

A piston in the turbine engine of the electric light plant at Bay City broke and such damage was caused that it will take $1,000 to fix it. The streets and many homes are without light. Manufacturing plants are idle.

The supreme court affirmed the conviction of Theodore Sauerbeur, who was convicted on a charge of murder in the circuit court of Berrien county.

Oxford F. and A. M. are nearing the completion of a new three-story $20,000 Masonic temple, which will be equal in finish and equipment of any Masonic temple in the state.

At a meeting of the Business Men's association it was reported that nearly a half million dollars was spent on new buildings and improvements in Port Huron last year.

STEAMER RAMMED; FOURTEEN DROWN

THE JULIA LUCKENBACH PRAGMATICALLY SPLIT IN TWO IN CHESAPEAKE BAY; FOURTEEN SAVED.

BRITISH STEAMER INDRAKULA, WAS GOING FAST DURING FOG.

The Indrakula, With a Big Hole in Her Side, Headed for the Beach and Grounded in Time to Save Her Crew.

After being rammed by the British steamer Indrakula off Tangier bar in the Chesapeake bay, the tramp steamer ship Julia Luckenbach was practically split in twain and foundered.

Though within easy wireless reach of 10 steamers, 14 lives were lost after a desperate battle with the seas. Among the drowned are Captain H. A. Gilbert and Mrs. Gilbert.

Captain Gilbert and Mrs. Gilbert lived at Rappahannock, near Baltimore. Nineteen of the crew, were lost. Eight were saved by the steamer Pennsylvania, and six others were rescued by the Indrakula according to a wireless message received at Newport News from the revenue cutter Apache, which went to the Indrakula's assistance.

First Officer Hunt, half crazed by his terrible fight for life, and by the remembrance of the tragedy through which he had passed, at first said that 22 persons had gone down with the ship, but subsequently it was learned that only 28 in all were on board the Luckenbach including the crippled wife of Captain Gilbert.

The Luckenbach sank five minutes after the Indrakula, coming out of the fog, dealt her a death blow.

Only those on the top deck had time to escape. First Officer Frederick Hunt and seven members of the crew climbed into the rigging and hung there for six hours in the terrible cold until the Danish liner Pennsylvania rescued them. The others, caught below decks, died without knowing what had happened.

The Indrakula, with a big hole in her side, backed away from the sinking ship and headed for the beach. She was grounded in time for all of her crew to be saved.

The Luckenbach reached the capes late Thursday. She ran into the gale blowing but was able to make the passage into the Chesapeake bay. She was slowly working her way up the bay when the Indrakula, driven at a high rate of speed by the gale, bore down on the Luckenbach and the collision occurred.

U. S. Fleet to Seek Panther.

Increasing anxiety is felt by navy department officials for the safety of the supply ship Panther and the naval tug Sonoma, as the hours pass and the long arm of the wireless is unable to locate the missing vessel, which left Brooklyn navy yard last Thursday for Guantanamo.

Secretary of the Navy Meyer, on being informed that no word has been received from the Panther, ordered the entire Atlantic fleet, now on its way to Guantanamo, to watch for missing vessels, and added that if the squadron does not report on its arrival at Guantanamo he will send every vessel available to search for the ships. The Panther and Sonoma, the former carrying 120 and the latter 30 men, left the Brooklyn navy yard just previous to the beginning of the terrible storm which swept the Atlantic last Thursday night and all day Friday.

Military Reserve Favored by Wood.

That a reasonable strong reserve may be established in the United States with the least possible delay, all men who have served in the regular army, marine corps, or militia, and are of proper age and physically fit, should be authorized to enlist at once in the reserve and receive pay, in the opinion of Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, chief of staff of the army. Gen. Wood endorsed the bill introduced by Rep. Tilden, of Connecticut, providing for a national military reserve.

The State Association of Master Plumbers will meet in Saginaw March 18 and 19.

Solicitation for the $280,000 bonus of the proposed Muskegon to Manistee interurban road began in all the nine cities and towns as well as the 24 townships along the line, the blank subscriptions made in the form of notes, having been sent out to the various boards appointed to collect pledges to aid the new venture.

Saginaw's fire loss during 1912 was $60,734, or about $1 per capita, practically the same as last year. This is the lowest fire loss of any city in Michigan.

Lumber importations at Saginaw and Bay City for the navigation season of 1912 amounted to 86,737,741 feet, or approximately 2,000,000 feet less than in 1911.

Grief-stricken over his wife's death four years ago, Richard Wybenga, 30 years old, hung himself in the barn on his farm in Cannon township, near Grand Rapids.

WEDEMAYER A SUICIDE.

Ann Arbor Congressman Leaps into Ocean While Insane.

Representative William W. Wedemeyer, of Ann Arbor, Mich., who suddenly went insane at Colon, Panama, at the time of President Taft's recent visit to the isthmus, jumped overboard from a ship on which he had been taken at Colon.

The vessel was the Panama of the Panama line.

The news was received by the war department by wireless.

At the same time that news was received of Wedemeyer's death his colleagues in the house received a cable from Panama that he was en route to Washington in charge of an attendant. He was reported as having suicidal mania.

Wedemeyer's close friends say that a few days before leaving for the isthmus he fell and struck his head on an icy sidewalk. It was not regarded as serious and did not deter him from going with the congressional party.

The Lake Carriers' association club house in Port Huron, has been completed. The structure is one of the finest of the kind on the great lakes. The association membership consists of masters, first and second mates and engineers on great lakes vessels.

Supervisors Meet.

The board of supervisors Monday morning began its annual January session.

The credentials of James Taylor of Chelsea were accepted as supervisor from Sylvan to succeed George Beckwith, who is now county clerk.

Mr. Taylor was placed on all committees of which Mr. Beckwith had been a member except on the building committee on which John Lutz was appointed.

Supervisor Finnell, Madden and Dresselhouse were appointed as a committee to arrange with the sheriff for boarding prisoners at the county jail.

Sunday School Officers.

The annual meeting of St. Paul's Sunday school was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Parker, of Lima, last Thursday evening and the following officers were elected for the coming year:

Superintendent—Oscar Schneider.

Asst. Superintendent—John Pelemier.

Treasurer—Miss Marie Koch.

Secretary—Miss Alwina Lambrecht.

Asst. Secretary—Miss Amanda Koch.

Organist—Miss Olga Hoffman.

Issued An Appeal.

The department of agriculture has issued an appeal to the American farmer to go in for the cultivation of the sugar beet.

There are 2,000,000 short tons of beets now imported annually, says the department, which should be raised at home.

The average American consumes 82 pounds of sugar each year, says the report, "and only ten pounds of that is produced in this country. The farmer of this country should keep that money at home."

Princess Theatre.

The Princess offers an unusual feature picture this Thursday evening "John Sterling, Alderman" a gripping heart-story with popular King Bogott and Jane Fearnley in the principal roles. It's a two reel feature dealing with true American life in our cities of today and is said to be an exceedingly fine picture.

Couldn't Stand for Wager.

Baylis Steele, capitalist and promoter, one day became involved in a dispute over a question of Biblical history.

"Elijah was a lucky man," he remarked. "Instead of being compelled to linger and die of some unpleasant disease, he was carried to heaven in a whirlwind."

"You're wrong," protested the party of the second part, who happened to be afflicted with an impediment in his speech. "Bay-Bay-lla, you're r-r-r-wrong. Elijah went to heaven in a chariot of fire."

"You can't convince me that that good old man was struck by lightning," retorted Steele, and the dispute waxed warm. After it had raged for some three minutes it reached the betting stage.

"Bet you I'm right," said Steele.

"T-t-t-taken," said the party of the second part.

"What'll we bet?" asked Steele.

"W-w-w-well," stuttered the other, "feeling that you d-d-d-don't know any m-m-m-more about Scripture than you do, I g-g-g-guess it had b-b-b-better be a-a-a Bible." And Steele admits that right there he backed out.

Hubby Was Stingy.

"Hubby, we must give a reception." "It will cost too much."

"Oh, no. I can rent some plants and some dishes and some palms."

"But you can't rent the sandwiches and the ice cream."

Insect Bite Costs Leg.

A Boston man lost his leg from the bite of an insect two years before.

To avert such calamities from stings and bites of insects use Bucklen's Arnica Salve promptly to kill the poison and prevent inflammation, swelling and pain. Heals burns, boils, sores, piles, eczema, cuts, bruises.

THIEVES AT WORK.

O. A. Burgess, Fred Wellhoff and H. L. Wood Flundered.

An outbreak of petty thieving occurred in this vicinity during the past week, and so far the officers have been unable to secure any particular clue as to who is committing the acts.

O. A. Burgess, of Sylvan, reports that the last of the past week someone entered the grain house at his home and stole six bushels of red kidney beans that he had saved for seed.

Fred Wellhoff, who resides on the Cummings farm in Sylvan, had two sheep stolen from the farm last Friday.

Last Saturday night about 8 o'clock a man entered the hen house at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Wood and stole three chickens. The thief was seen by Mrs. Wood. One of the amusing features of the theft is that one of the birds he appropriated had the chicken cholera and would have died in the course of a few days.

Society Officers Elected.

Sunday, January 5, the annual election of officers of St. Joseph's Sodality took place and the following were chosen for the year 1933:

Prefect—Franklin Gieske.

First Assistant—John Walsh, sr.

Second Assistant—Matthias Schwik-erath.

Secretary—Max Kelly.

Asst. Secretary—George Steele.

Treasurer—William Kolb.

Standard Bearer—Arthur Forner.

Marshals—Leo McQuillan, J. Louis Burg, jr.

Consulters—John Steele, Charles Neuburger, John Kelly, Wm. Wheeler, Peter Merkel, Philip Keusch.

The annual report of the society was read, and was very gratifying. A substantial balance is in the treasury.

The retiring Prefect, John Steele, declined a re-election and goes out of office with an admirable record.

The corn crop from start to finish. Led by Alvin Baldwin.

Music, Mrs. M. Lowry and F. Gentner.

Few Losses.

The annual meeting of the Washtenaw Mutual Fire Insurance company was held at the court house Wednesday afternoon and resulted in the re-election of John S. Spaffard, Manchester; W. W. Miller, Ypsilanti, and W. M. Fowler, Saline, as directors for two years, and of Arthur C. Coe, Ypsilanti; Ennis Twist, Superior, and E. Beach, Lima, as auditors. W. M. Fowler was elected president to succeed J. B. Laraway of Ann Arbor town and W. K. Childs was re-elected secretary.

Two losses were allowed one for $27 to W. H. Arnold of Dexter for damage to a barn from lightning and one of $4.34 to F. Turnbull of Pittsfield for house personal.

During the past year the company paid 42 fire and lightning claims amounting to $13,000. It has 3,093 members and the capital stock amounts to $5,000,000.

A Slight Difference.

From a policeman: When a man goes to jail some woman will carry flowers and roll jelly cake to him and add a few words to cheer him up, but when a woman goes to jail she is going to be lonesome. No flowers, no appetizing provender, no member of the sob squad will visit her, and the man who sent her there will forget her. It is up to the woman to be good or take the consequences in full.

Luxury of Being Rich.
When the Emperor Joseph II. was in Paris in the reign of Louis XVI. he was in the habit of walking about the city incognito. One morning he went into an elegant coffee house and asked for a cup of chocolate. He was plainly dressed, and the waiters insolently refused it, saying it was too early. Without making any reply, he walked out, and went into a little coffee house.
He asked for a cup of chocolate, and the landlord politely answered that it should be ready in a moment. While he waited for it, as the coffee house was empty, he walked up and down, and was conversing on different subjects, when the landlord's daughter, a very pretty girl, made her appearance.
The emperor wished her a good day, according to the French mode; and observed to her father that it was time she should be married. "Ah!" replied the old man; "if I had but a thousand crowns, I could marry her to a man who is very fond of her—but, sir—the chocolate is ready." The emperor called for pen, ink and paper; the girl ran to fetch them; and he gave her an order on his banker for 6,000 livres.

Verlaine's First Book
A letter fished out of the collection of an autograph hunter reveals the occasion on which Verlaine's work first attracted the attention of a critic. It was written in 1867 by Eugene Vermersch to the editor of an ephemeral review entitled L'Esprit Nouveau, and it runs as follows:
"My Dear Editor—I owe you every apology for not responding sooner to your kind invitation to contribute to L'Esprit Nouveau, but I had not an idea in my head, and I did not like to send you any rubbish, as that would have been impolite and ungrateful. If your columns are still open to me, I will ask for space for a review—an appreciation of the 'Poemes Saturniens,' by Paul Verlaine, the unknown work of an unknown poet, which has fallen into my hands by accident. Will you allow it to pass unobserved like a star in the daytime or a flower by night, as Monselet puts it? No you will not, you who style yourself L'Esprit Nouveau."
That was Verlaine's first review, but few people read it, and it failed to make him famous.

Power From Sea Waves.
At a recent meeting of the British association the question of economical production of power from tides and winds was under discussion, and it has been taken up widely by scientific journals in Europe. In France attention has been called to a system of utilizing the power of sea waves to actuate a dynamo which has been employed for some time past at the mouth of the River Gironda. An airchamber is connected with a well which communicates with the sea at a depth below the level of the lowest tides. By the advance and recession of the waves changes of pressure are produced in the airchamber, and a system of valves enables the resulting air currents to be applied to rotating a kind of turbine. It is reported that the apparatus works equally well in calm and stormy weather.—Harper's Weekly.

When Miss Kitty returned from school there had been admiration, love, an engagement and a quarrel. There are forty different things lovers can do and quarrel about, and so they specify the one thing in this case? It is sufficient to say that both were agreed they had made a great mistake in thinking they were for each other, and all the time they knew they were making a great mistake in saying so.
"You will find the right man and be happy with him," sighed the young man as he left the house.
"And you the right girl?"
It was very sad. It was so sad that Miss Kitty went into the house and kicked the cat, and the young lover stubbed the two long miles down to the village through the dust and wished a tramp were at hand to kick him. Pa Remsen's curiosity was not half satisfied, but ma bossed the roost and had a sharp tongue, and he kept hands off. It was a hard task for him, and when the spotted cow kicked him he kicked back with great vigor.
One day there was a report in the village that Miss Kitty Remsen was going to Arizona to teach school at $75 a month, and there were those who said that she would marry some rich cattleman within a year.

Following on the heels of the first report came one that Miss Kitty had had an offer of $50 a week to go on the stage and play the part of little Eva in "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Her good looks and her talent would insure her marriage to a millionaire before the end of the second season.
The third report was to the effect that Miss Kitty was to accompany a rich Boston lady as companion on a trip around the world, to be gone two years, and that in Paris she would surely find a count to fall in love and propose to her.
The three reports were rather indefinite, but the fourth was vouched for by the county paper. It could state on the best of authority, it said, that Miss Kitty Remsen, daughter of the well-known and highly esteemed farmer Remsen, had been knocked down by a running hog and had her left leg broken. The bone had been set by D. Cummings, the popular medico, and the patient was doing well.

Earl Andrews' father had given him a start in life by buying him a flouring mill. As the sad-hearted young man ground the wheat into flour the gossip of the village reached his ears and gave him cold chills. He had loved and lost. He had meant to love, but the lost was a different matter. He had rather picked the fuss for the sake of making up. He even knew just what he would reply when a penitence note from Kitty brought him back to the farm house, and with tears in her eyes she asked forgiveness. He would pretend to think the matter over for a couple of minutes and then say:
"Very well, but don't let it happen again."
The sum of money which that young man would have given to put things back two weeks he figured out on one of his paper flour sacks at $3,850,224.85. He figured it three times, so there could be no mistake about it. The words "loved and lost!" rang in his ears above the grinding of the mill.
Pa Remsen had heard all the reports as they came out, and at length the time came when he must talk. "Ma, what does it all mean?" he asked.
"Oh, it's you, is it?" was answered. "Didn't I tell you to keep your nose out?"
"Yes; but—"
"And you do it?"
"But what's Kitty doing out in the orchard? Some tramp may come along and yell at her. I guess I'll—"
"You guess nothing! Don't you go near the orchard, and don't you call her!"
He went off to work in the cornfield, but an hour later came tiptoeing back to the house to say:
"Martha, there's a tramp skulking in the orchard!"
"Tramp nothing, you old hen. I really believe you are getting blind! Go back to your work!"
It was only half an hour this time before Pa returned to say:
"There's a tramp right up to Kitty and talkin' with her! I'm goin' out and—"
He was whirled around and flung down on a chair, and it was two or three minutes before the wife said:
"Now you can get ready to ask Earl Andrews to stay to supper. It's him out there with Kitty!"
"Gosh all hemlock!"
"And you'd have split the hull thing!"
"Then—then—"
"Then you shut up! I never did see what cabbage heads men are over makin' up lovers' quarrels! Jest go out and hang around the back door in a keeless way, and when they come up you ask Earl to have a glass of buttermilk to stay his stomach 'till I can get the love-feast ready!"

Comparatively Well-to-Do Residents of Yokohama Got Rice Intended For the Poor.
The nearest Japan has yet come to the "free soup kitchen" idea, so common in the western countries in times of scarcity, says the Japanese Advertiser, was the "poor man's rice market" at Toeb and Motomachi in Yokohama Sunday. This market opened Sunday morning and will continue for a week, during which the needy can purchase Rangoon rice at the cost of 16 sen a cho.
The opening of the market was a signal for considerable disorder, sharp trading and deceit. The promoters of the sale, Mr. Abe, a director of the Yokohama Rice Exchange, and his associates were disconcerted at the close of the day's business to learn that many well to do persons had visited one or the other of the stores and had purchased five cho of Rangoon rice, which was the maximum limit for the purchaser.
In fact the number of those who were sufficiently well to do to purchase rice at the outside market price was so numerous that many of the deserving poor who came to the sale were crowded out and returned to their homes at the close of business for the day with empty baskets.
The miscarriage of plans in this way led the promoters to seek the aid of the police and yesterday the storekeepers were instructed to sell rice to no person unless he or she produced a certificate from the city office that he was poor and deserving.
The scenes at the two stores were boisterous and caused the police to be called in on several occasions to get the crowds in order. The would-be purchasers came from all parts of Kanagawa prefecture.

SHOWING PA HOW TO BRING PEACE Mrs. Remsen Knew Proper Way to Manage Lovers' Quarrels.

By CLARA INEZ DEACON.
(Copyright, 1912, by Associated Literary Press.)

After farmer Remsen's wife had strained the evening milk and got things ready for an early breakfast she came out on the veranda where her husband sat smoking and sat down with a bump and a sigh. Two or three minutes passed and then the husband remarked:
"I'm gittin' riled up."
"You don't mean mad?" was asked.
"Yes, I do."
"But what in beeswax has riled you? The spotted cow didn't kick you again tonight, did she?"
"No, it ain't the spotted cow. It's the way things are goin' around this house and the time has come when I want to know all about it."
"I didn't know as anything dreadful had happened," replied the wife after a moment. "The meals are being cooked and the beds made the same as usual. I guess you've got prickly heat."

"And I guess you'n Kitty take me for a fool!"
"Look here, pa," said the wife in a soothing way, "it would be better for you to tend to the outdoor work and leave me to manage inside. But if you won't do it I s'pose I'll have to tell you something. It don't amount to shucks, but you've got to know or bust. Our Kitty and Earl Andrews have quarreled."
"You don't say!" exclaimed pa with such vigor that he bit off the stem of his pipe.
"There you go! You'll be falling off your chair next!"
"But they've quarreled! Bless my cats, but I thought something was up. I asked about Earl three or four days ago and you turned me off. So they've had a row and won't get married!"
"What a man you are, pa! S'pose they have quarreled? Young folks in love always quarrel. You'n me quarreled."
"But we made it up."
"So will they if some idiot don't spile everything."

"And that's the reason Kitty is moonin' around and eatin' nuthin' but tea and toast!" he asked after hitching around for a while.
"She ain't goin' to die over it. I don't want you to say a word or to pretend to notice anything. It's not for the girl's father to mix in such things. You jest leave it to me."
"But women ain't got heads for business."
"Is this business, you old sunflower?"

NATURE TELLS YOU As Many a Standard Reader Knows Too Well.

When the kidneys are weak, Nature tells you about it. The urine is nature's index. Infrequent or too frequent passage. Other disorders suggest kidney ills. Doan's Kidney Pills are for disordered kidneys. Chelsea people testify to their worth.
B. F. Hawley, retired farmer, Park St., Chelsea, Mich., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are by no means a new remedy to me. I have used them on several occasions and they have always had a beneficial effect. I was subject to attacks of backache and also had acute pains through my kidneys. The kidney secretions were highly colored and there was sediment in them. Doan's Kidney Pills gave me prompt relief from these difficulties and I have had no serious trouble since. I willingly give this excellent preparation my endorsement."

The Kempf Commercial & Savings Bank

We would like to do more business with our prosperous farmers. There is not a farmer in the county that should not have a bank account. Your business is just as carefully looked after in this bank as the business of the successful business man. It is to your interest to conduct your business on safe methods the same as a New York millionaire. The amount of money you have, whether it be great or small, is worthy of your most careful consideration. If you have bills to pay, whether they be large or small, pay them by check, for future reference, and then there can be no disputes of unpaid bills. The next produce from your farm you sell deposit your check in this bank and start out on the right method.

SYNOPSIS.

In a spirit of fun Mayor Bedight, a summer visitor to Chelsea, through the woods by ten laughing girls, one of whom he catches and kisses. The girls form themselves into a court and sentence him each day for ten days. A legislative measure opposing woman suffrage, which was the mayor's pocket, is used to compel him to obey the mandates of the girls. His first day of service is with Miss Arney, who takes him fishing. They are threatened by the sheriff with arrest.

CHAPTER V.

Eleven o'clock on a moonlight night in July is a bewitching time to sit alone on a balcony and dream, and if the dream be staged at Squirrel Inn, where the scene of perennial stock and the rich, salubrious tang of the homelocks wait up to meet the nostrils, if it be in the midst of towering trees with a lake lullaby chanting and crooning on the beach and if the spirit of wanderlust is abroad to charm and inspire, ah, then the time and place and the girl are in harmony sublime!

Judge Jackie Vining, clothed in a loose, clinging house gown, sat alone and gave her fancy free rein, enjoying the serenity of the night and the alluring promises of her air castles. And over and anon as she mused there crept into her thoughts with suffusion of blood to her cheeks, the scene of the dogwood swamp, the face of the man who had held her close against her will and slipped the vector of her life.

"A perfect gentleman!" Somehow she felt a thrill of gratification at the verdict as rendered by Mae Andrews, for Mae was one of the most charming of the ten girls who dined at Squirrel Inn and her approval of the prisoner promised well for the remaining nine. And, too, it relieved her mind, somewhat, for the responsibility rested heavily on her fair head. As the accepted leader of the vacationists she felt her accountability—besides, if one is kissed by a man one likes to know that after all he is a gentleman, though bold. Confession is good for the soul, and Jackie rejoiced that if she must be her own father confessor, she at least need not blush for the character of the man who made the confession necessary.

Her rejoicing was broken in upon by the redolent odor of tobacco blending pungently with the perfume of the stock. She drew back into the shadows. As she did so, a white-clothed form sped lightly across the lawn toward the house.

Miss Vining's heart thumped strangely. The scolding figure was that of a woman and in the moonlight her hair was fair. The apparition in white flitted up the hotel stairs and disappeared.

The "judge" waited furtively, watching the summer house—from which there soon emerged the figure of a man—and in the night the red coal of his cigar glowed in the darkness!

Jackie's indignation sprang into monstrous being. Who of the ten young ladies was holding a clandestine meeting with his honor, the mayor?

Could it be Mae Andrews? Hastily slipping down the hotel corridor, Judge Vining gently tried the door of Miss Andrews' room. It was locked. With a heavy heart Jackie returned to her apartment; but as she lay tossing in dainty negligence upon her bed, a new worry was harassing her.

Any married woman will bear me out when I say that if there is anything a man dislikes it is to go shopping. When Mabel Arney, the Tuesday girl, apprised Bedight that she desired his protection on an expedition to Lakeville, he was ungracious enough to deplore the fate that bound him to do as directed—and, besides, there was double reason why he should not go to Lakeville. The game warden and his company of quick arrows undoubtedly loomed at the village grocery store and would bag him hatter. He suggested Hornby as a smiling post, dwelling entirely upon the advantages offered by the enterprising merchants of that four-cornered community. But Miss Arney smiled coldly and commanded him to turn north the two saddle horses owned by Miss Host.

The mayor went away with misgivings—but as the pair cantered off down the wood road, his spirits rose with the sun. Who could be so distrustful and solitary with such a bewitching smile as Miss Mabel Arney smiling upon him from the saddle opposite?

Miss Arney was petite, with hair of that violet black color, big, laughing eyes and the blainest red-lipped mouth imaginable. Vivacity and mischief lurked in her horizon like the rosy petals in the sunset's glow.

"I love horses," she bubbled, patting the sleek neck of her mottled black mount. "I have an Arabian at home—and he's simply perfect."

"I go in for bulldogs myself," crossed the mayor, taciturnly. "Nothing beats a bulldog on the front seat of an automobile."

"With the man under it on his back," rippled the girl, curbing her horse as a pig wool-wooled from the highway into the weedy roadside.

The mayor laughed. "And with a woman in the back seat pouting at Chawles and telling him every five minutes in a shrill voice that isn't what's the matter with the machine at all!" he scoffed. The girl shrugged her shoulders.

"Your wife?"

"No, my bulldog."

Striking her horse with the whip, the girl dashed off ahead. "I'll race you to Lakeville!" she cried over her shoulder.

Bedight's face clouded as he followed. The horse Miss Arney rode was a nervous, long-limbed beast with a wicked eye. She had chosen him of the pair against the mayor's suggestion that she ride the mare he bestrode.

Around a turn in the road she flew on the black, his ears back, the bit in his teeth. Bedight spurred after her, but the mare was no match for her mate. The twisting road kept the girl from view, but ahead he could hear the rapid hoof-beats of the flying animal.

Then, above the noise of the race, there came piercingly a sharp whistle followed by a woman's scream!

The mayor urged the mare forward. At the turn he saw ahead a traction engine on the turnpike. In the wood beside the road two grimy workmen stood over a woman lying upon the leaf mold. The mayor rode up and dismounted. As he approached the girl sat up, bewildered. An ugly scratch on her forehead was bleeding freely.

"He—he shied at the engine," she explained, gamely, "and scraped me off under this tree."

Bedight's relief was plainly depicted in his face.

"You are not seriously hurt?" he inquired, soberly.

"No," she laughed. "In the words of Richard III, 'Give me another horse and bind up my wounds.'"

He tore a linen handkerchief into strips, knelt before her and carefully bound up her hand.

"Thank you," she said, gayly, "and now if you will catch my horse we will proceed."

One of the workmen came forward leading the runaway.

"You were lucky," congratulated the mayor as they set out on the road. "But be careful of that animal. He's a fretter."

"A nervous horse and a nervous woman always fret themselves into trouble," she said, laughing, "but really he wouldn't have thrown me if I had had a clear field."

"I'm not so sure," admonished the man.

"I'll prove it," cried the girl, spiritedly, giving the black full rein and dashing off again, like a madcap.

The mayor, raging, set out as the tail to the kite. They were near the village now. Down the hill the black went like a race horse in a swirl of dust. Across the bridge and through the main street they tore like two leaders on the county-fair course.

And then a baby-car, propelled by a small boy, rolled directly in the path of the mare. Bedight tried to guide free, but the mare was heavy on her feet. There was a crash, a cry from the boy, a wall from the babe—and the devil to pay.

The girl came back trying to hold her reining horse. Some one grasped the rein of the animal.

"Get off, lady!" ordered the stolid individual, who looked like the village blacksmith. "You're arrested!"

The mayor in the clutches of the village marshal, a burly native, red-faced, thick-necked, stern, looked at the girl blankly. Here was a pretty mess!

And thus they went up the main won't mind associating with the gent until I kin arrange with the sheriff's wife to take her of her," with a grin on his florid face.

"Not at all!" snuffed the girl, her chin elevated to a degree of high dignity.

When the key had turned in the lock, Bedight thrust his hands deep into his coat pockets and said:

"Damn!"

"If you don't mind," commented the girl, her face serious in spite of herself, "you may repeat that again—for me!"

The mayor, restrained, but he liked the girl for her genuineness.

"Was the 'baby hurt'?" she asked anxiously.

"Crowled like a young rooster when they picked him up," replied Bedight, "but the peace and the dignity of Lakeville is shattered to splinters. We're in for it, I'm afraid."

The girl looked up bravely.

"Are you still my prisoner—under parole?"

"Under lock and key," he replied, looking at his watch.

"Then try that window," pointing to a grated aperture through which he went over and peered through the grimy glass.

"This bandbox is on the river bank," he said, "and—yes, there's a boat down there. If we could get these bars loose—"

"Try the leg of this chair," suggested the girl.

"These village lockups are easy to get into—and not—very—hard—" working—"to get out of," as the rotting casing let go its hold upon the bar.

"Hurry," urged Miss Arney. "They'll be back before we can get out."

NEWS FROM THE
STATE CAPITOLTHE SENATE DEMOCRATS WILL NOT PUSH THROUGH ANY PARTISAN MEASURES.THE HOUSE REFUSES RECOUNT
TO CONTESTANTS FOR SEAT.The Governor Does Not Believe in Prize Fighting—Bills, Election of U. S. Senator and other Matters of Interest.

(By Gurd M. Hayes.)

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 5. It is not the intention of the democrats, just because of the fact that they have a governor in the executive office, to get cocky and endeavor to push through any partisan measures. At least this is the declaration made by Senator James H. Murtha, chairman of the senate committee on executive business and democratic floor leader in the upper house.

"Because we are fortunate enough to have a governor just across the hall who is of our political faith, the democratic members of the senate are not going to try to slip anything over," said Murtha. "We are going to stand for everything in the democratic platform and in this we are not going to confine ourselves to bills introduced by democratic members."

Governor Ferris made a plea for party loyalty and harmony and good government. That is to be the plan for us in the senate. Just to show you how determined I am to carry out this plan let me say that in spite of the fact that I do not and never have believed in the initiative and referendum and in spite of the fact that there is a total absence of sentiment for this so called progressive measure among my constituents will vote and work for it as it is in our platform."

Election of U. S. Senator.

Apparently the lieutenant of United States Senator William Alden Smith, are satisfied that he will have the required number of votes on the joint ballot January 14. State salt inspector John Baird, who has been looking after the senator's interests, has left for his home and Alfred Lucking's supporters have withdrawn from the scene of action.

House Refuses Recount.

Under cover of a plea for economy the house has refused to conduct any recounts or give any of the defeated candidates a chance to contest the seats of the members who have been admitted to the legislature. This is the first time in the history of the state that the house has refused to conduct recounts and the members who voted for Rep. Farmer's resolution are coming in for considerable criticism.

The matter has stirred up considerable feeling and indicates that the house will be as noisy and belligerent as last session. Representative Taylor of Kent, Burke of Wayne, Neller of Lansing, McNitt of Wexford and Weidenfeller of Van Buren and McBride of Holland, all of whom were confronted with contests, voted with Rep. Farmer to prevent recounts.

Reduce force of Employees.

In the interests of economy Lieut. Governor Ross plans to cut down the working force of the senate and thus limit expenses. The plan of the presiding officer of the senate is based upon the proposal to combine committee clerks and stenographers. Ross says six appointments may be saved in this manner. Clerks and messengers will be cut down at every possible point and the total employees of the senate will be reduced to less than 40. There were 54 last session and more than 70 four years ago.

The Introduction of Bills.

It is evident that there are few standpatters in the house and senate this year. Hardly had the cheers which followed Governor Ferris's members died away, when republicans members of the legislature poured in a mass of bills covering practically every progressive measure advocated. Senator Fred L. Woodworth of Huron introduced a bill providing for the submission of a constitutional amendment to give the people of the state the initiative and referendum. Senator O'Dell of Oceana came through with two dairy and food department measures, one of which calls for the registration with the dairy and food department of all cheese factories, milk condensaries and creameries.

Banking Bills.

Senator Rosenkrans of Shiawassee introduced a batch of banking law amendment bills. The most important of these calls for the examination and O. K. by the banking department of banks which desire to liquidate for the purpose of consolidation. Senator Amberson introduced a bill providing that every man to be admitted to law practice, must first take the examination, regardless of the fact that he had graduated from the University of Michigan or a recognized law school.

Revise Election Law.

Michigan's entire list of election laws is to be revised by the present legislature. The progressive element among the republicans in the state senate took up the matter of a revision of the primary and decided that not only the primary, but the general election law too, should be completely revised.

Senator James called the elections committee together for a consideration of the election law questions and it was voted to draw up bills which should be submitted to the senate following the ten day recess. It will be known as the elections committee bill and will not bear the name of any individual member. The committee is unanimous on this score and all of the senators will take a hand in making it the most progressive and workable bill possible.

Opposes Prize Fighting.

"I do not favor the licensing of anything that is a compromise between brutality and kindergarten methods," said Gov. Ferris when the proposal for a state boxing commission was submitted to him. "I am opposed to prize fighting; unutterably opposed to it. I stand for every clean manly sport and for all real athletics. But prize fighting is not to be included under either of these heads. When you attempt to license boxing contests and eliminate prize fights you are attempting more than can be worked out at least by political or governmental regulation. I believe in boxing as a gymnasium sport but boxing such as men pay their money to see is not of this character."

The Governor's Appointments.

James W. Helme's appointment as dairy and food commissioner has been confirmed by the senate, and Helme will assume charge of the office January 15. In sending to the senate for confirmation recess appointments by ex-governor Osborn, Governor Ferris said he was treating his predecessor as he hoped to be treated at the end of his term. Practically all of Osborn's recess appointments are republicans and the action of Governor Ferris shows conclusively that he intends to pick men who will serve the best interests of the state regardless of their political affiliations. Following is the list of recess appointments:

Nelson C. Rice, St. Joe, pardon board.

Morgan W. Joplin, Marquette, state board corrections and charities.

Edward Frensdorf, Hudson, board of control state prison at Jackson.

Levi L. Barbour, Detroit, Jackson prison board.

Ora S. Reaves, Jackson, industrial accident board.

John E. Kinnane, Bay City, industrial accident board.

James A. Kennedy, Sault Ste. Marie, industrial accident board.

Susan Fisher Apter, Grand Rapids, state board of nurses' registration.

Mary S. Foy, Battle Creek, state board of nurses' registration.

Robert E. McGavock, Saginaw, board of osteopathic registration.

O. B. Gates, Bay City, board osteopathic registration.

Other appointments which Governor Ferris sent to the senate are as follows:

Charles S. Koon, Muskegon, member state board of pharmacy.

Ford F. Rowe, Kalamazoo, board control industrial school for boys at Lansing.

Curtiss T. Allway, Traverse City, board control state hospital for the insane at Traverse City.

Dr. E. O. Gillespie Stephenson, board dental examiners.

A. C. Graham, Sandusky, salt inspector.

F. H. Rankin, Flint, reapportioned board control for the state school for the deaf at Flint.

William A. Comstock, Alpena, board control school for blind, Lansing.

Dr. D. L. Treat, Adrian, board control state public school at Coldwater.

John C. Mann, Houghton, board of fish commissioners.

John T. Winship, Saginaw, insurance commissioner.

Thomas D. Carney, Ann Arbor, state tax commission.

James Scully, Ionia, state railroad commission.

John N. McCormick, Grand Rapids, state board of corrections and charities.

Efforts to bring about a fusion of progressives, democrats and republicans who opposed the election of Rep. Gilbert M. Currie, of Midland, as speaker of the house, in an effort to make Rep. Noble Ashley, of Detroit, presiding officer, did not materialize and when the roll was called: Currie received all of the 54 republican votes. The democrats turned their votes over to Rep. Farmer, of Livingston county, while Rep. McBride, of Shiawassee, received the votes of the 12 progressives in the lower house.

Wanted Only $20,000,000 of Uncle Sam's Money

When a Chicago attorney walked into the office of the secretary of the treasury the other day Francis W. Taylor, Secretary MacVeagh's private secretary, was prepared to do anything in his power for him. Chicago is Mr. MacVeagh's home town, and, besides, Mr. Taylor had heard of the caller as a prominent attorney.

The private secretary managed to keep from showing his alarm, however, when the visitor said in a matter of fact way that he wanted a check for $20,000,000, which he declared the government owed him.

"The secretary is very busy and I would not dare act on a big affair like this," Mr. Taylor said. "If you will call later in the day I will have the check ready for you."

The man promised to do so and departed. He did not return. Mr. Taylor telegraphed friends in Chicago and was informed that his visitor was mentally deficient.

"That is only one of many queer experiences I have had since I have been with Mr. MacVeagh," Mr. Taylor said. "The 'conscience fund' turns up some odd episodes. One day a Catholic priest came in and handed me $1,500 in bills. 'This is for the conscience fund,' he said. 'I can give no other details.'"

"On another occasion we received a money order for $32,000. No word of explanation accompanied this contribution. Only the other morning I received a letter with ten cents in stamps. The writer, a woman, said she had used five two-cent stamps which had not been cancelled and wished to make restitution. We often get letters inclosing a penny. Most of these, I believe, are from jokesters."

"There is one man who faithfully sends $10 on the first of every month. He is evidently employed in the Portsmouth (N. H.) navy yard. He wrote saying he had misused several hundred dollars of the government's money and would send $10 monthly until it was squared and his conscience cleared."

As Mr. Taylor was talking a special delivery letter was handed him. Slitting the envelope, he drew out a new, crisp $10 yellow back. On a slip of paper, in a business hand, was written "For the conscience fund." Nothing more. The cancellation stamp showed the letter was from Washington.

Society Women Roll and Crawl for Good Figures

PROMINENT women rolling on the floor to add the suppleness and beauty of their figure; prominent government officials seeking to reduce their weight by the same means, can be seen daily in many of the best homes of the national capital, if one could only see some of the prominent society folk within the sanctity of their private lives, according to Dr. William C. Woodward, health officer of the district.

Not only do many of the people do this, Doctor Woodward said, but they likewise derive much of the benefit which they seek by this strange method and it is this habit which does much to give Washington women the name they have for graceful, well-formed figures.

Another prominent physician of Washington, whose large practice among society folk gives him a great insight into their private lives, differs with Doctor Woodward. Dr. Harry A. Sellhausen, attending physician at many of the embassies and legations, who was recently decorated by Francis Joseph, emperor of Austria, for his services to Baron Hengel-müller, the retiring dean of the diplomatic corps, is opposed to the rolling method of developing the grace of the figure. He favors crawling on hands and knees. This method may not reduce the weight as well as rolling on the floor, but it tends to strengthen the muscles of the back and to add grace to the lines of the waist.

"Owing to the many rounds of social duties, the teas and receptions, the dinners and the theater parties, Washington society folk are seldom at leisure long enough to do a sufficient amount of exercise."

Beyond the exertion of rising in the morning, stepping into their carriages or automobiles, and of climbing the steps of some friend's residence to attend some social function, the society women are not able to indulge in any other exercise because of lack of time.

REPORT OF MIGRATION OF WOOLLY APHID FROM THE ELM LEAF CURL TO THE APPLE

Special Reference to the Economic Significance of This Discovery for Nursery Stock and Young Orchards. With General Account of This Serious and Widespread Pest.

Seedling Apple Showing Colony of Woolly Aphids Which Are the Progeny of Migrants from Elm Leaf Curl.

Bulletin 203, just issued by the Maine Agricultural Experiment Station, contains a report of the migration of the woolly aphid from elm leaf curl to apple, with special reference to the economic significance of this discovery for nursery stock and young orchards. A general account of this serious and widespread apple pest is included.

For more than 100 years the woolly aphid has had world-wide recognition as one of the most serious insect enemies of young apple trees. Statistics for 1911 on two-year-old nursery stock based on observations made at three nurseries containing respectively about 30,000, 45,000 and 300,000 trees, showed that from 20 per cent. to 25 per cent. of the trees were infested by the woolly aphid. As from twenty to forty million of American-grown apple seedlings are used in this country every year, the significance of so high a per cent. of infestation is at once apparent.

It is, therefore, with no slight interest that the entomologists of the Maine Agricultural Experiment Station have been seeking to ascertain a previously unknown point in the life cycle of this pest, and have made the discovery that this cycle includes three generations which are passed in what is known as the "elm leaf curl." The disfigured and curled leaves of the elm in the spring are everywhere as familiar as the woolly masses on the apple bark, but the elm generations have not previously been known to have any connection with the apple pest and it has all along borne a distinct name.

It is a fact familiar to students of this family of insects that certain aphids live for a few generations (usually wingless) upon one food plant and then produce a winged generation that migrates to an entirely different species of plant for the summer, where it establishes a series of summer generations and by fall produces a second migrant generation that flies back to the original food plant. It is here the true sexes occur and that the winter egg is deposited—stages absolutely essential to the continuation of the species.

The woolly aphid of the apple is such a migratory species with two distinct types of food plants—the elm, or "original food plant," on which the true sexes occur in the fall and deposit the over-wintering egg, and on which it lives in the curled leaves in the spring; and the apple to which it migrates from the elm-leaf curl and where it establishes itself as a bark feeder during the summer. This species, in addition, produces in the fall a generation that passes the winter at the roots of the apple, a circumstance which has led to the assumption that the apple alone was concerned in the life cycle of this pest, and the elm-leaf curl which shelters the woolly aphid's clothing has been previously unsuspected of other danger than that threatened the elm itself, except in the case of young trees, is not usually great. But the discovery of the annual migration of a fresh infestation from the elm to the apple and the knowledge that the elm generations are an essential portion of the life cycle of the woolly aphid of the apple and that this species cannot continue without access to the elm, put a new significance upon the economic status of the elm curl.

Filling the Gullies.

If you have any gullies or ditches in your fields, now is the time to mow out all of the brushy weeds and fence rows or other brushy and weedy places and fill the gullies with the trash. This will prevent such gullies and ditches from further washing, and it will catch and hold other soil into them. No farmer can be counted a success who allows his best soil to be washed out of his fields, or who allows sterile and waste places to remain as such for any length of time. These can be remedied and made to become rich and productive spots, making the farm more beautiful and more profitable.

Electrocuting Moth.

An orchardist in the state of Washington has devised a method of electrocuting the codling moth. Electric lights encased in fine wires, alternately coated with copper and tin are hung in the trees. The light attracts the moths which fly against the wires and the contact sends an electric current through them.

ANIMAL WAS A BEAUTY

Joseph, a Negro, Who Aids the Valiant Hunter in Chase, Is Sore and Angry, and Now Eats Meals From Mantelpiece.

East Orange, N. J.—Things were quite here the other evening. Thomas and John Dukes couldn't see anything that was interesting, and they didn't feel in the least sleepy. There weren't enough persons in town who were willing to make up a six or a seven hand poker game. The moving picture show was not open and the night was still, creepy and chilly—a sort of Eliza-crossing-the-ice night. The snow was on the ground, dirty and smudgy. So Tom and John just sat and looked at each other and were wishing they were in some noisy place like Red Bank, when John's eyes brightened.

"Let's go after 'coons," said he. "Just the thing," said Tom. So off they went, ready to catch and take the life of any 'coon they could find.

And as luck would have it they spotted a 'coon. They set the dogs on the frisky animal. But those hollow trees are a boon to the 'coon. There was a lively chase, in which the Dukes, brothers forgot the stillness and the chilliness of the night. The 'coon seemed to know that vicinity pretty well, and he knew just where there was a fine hollow tree that would baffle any dogs to get after him.

John Dukes climbed up the tree after the raccoon had disappeared. He couldn't just see how they were going to get that 'coon that night. The dogs were not able to get after the animal. So the two men crept around the tree and stuffed up all the holes in the bark with anything they could find.

So back they came to East Orange, having marked the tree so they could find it easily the next morning. John and Tom are said to have slept beautifully. Soon after sunrise, accompanied by a negro, who for the sake of convenience and because he is mentally and physically sane shall be known only as Joseph, and the two dogs, the hunt was resumed.

The tree was found. Joseph was instructed to chop it down. He worked until the perspiration poured from his dusky face. The tree fell, and then the negro really became intent on the work. The 'coon was buried pretty deep in the stump hollow. But not so deep that Joseph couldn't get that precious animal out.

The 'coon weighed about thirty pounds. He was a beauty and he had the usual set of fine, sharp teeth. Not until Joseph was sitting on the animal did he suddenly realize that the Dukes brothers had left him.

Now, a 'coon isn't quite as comfortable as a cushion, especially if he is sat on by a somewhat heavy negro boy. The 'coon wanted to get away. He heard the cries of Joseph calling for the Dukes brothers.

The 'coon's teeth sank deep into Joseph's thighs. And squirm and wriggle as he did, the 'coon always found that there was one of the negro's legs that he could pierce with his ivory. It was getting unbearable for the negro, who was about to perform the unheard of cowardly trick of leaving the 'coon to take care of himself, when Tom and John sauntered along.

Joseph was not calm. He said many things, and to get even with those Dukes brothers set the 'coon up on exhibition in the Dukes' bicycle shop. Joseph is eating meals as if he had been riding horseback for the first time—from the mantelpiece.

Surprised Him.
There was a fellow who proposed to all the girls just for fun. He had no idea of getting himself engaged, but he enjoyed the preliminaries. So he was disagreeably surprised once and served him right.

"Yes, darling," she cried.

Fire in Bank of England.
The first fire within memory occurred at the Bank of England, London, a few days ago. The fire broke out in the southeastern portion of the building. The flooring and joisting were considerably damaged. The outbreak was discovered by the Bank of England authorities, and subdued by their own appliances in 30 minutes. A lieutenant and a dozen men of the Irish Guards on duty at the bank, with fixed bayonets, assisted the police in keeping the crowd back from the building.

Geography of Liqueur.
Mayor Gaynor, discussing city government in his wonted illuminating and brilliant way, said in New York: "We must not have one reform law for the rich and another for the poor. It is as bad for the millionaire to gamble in his club as for the laborer to gamble in a stuss joint. It is as bad to become intoxicated on champagne as on mixed ale."
"Too many reformers, so-called, think that when a man is drunk on Fifth avenue he is ill, and when a man is ill on Third avenue he is drunk."

Our Discontent.
Brand Whitlock, the mayor of Toledo, was talking about discontent. "It is our discontent, our divine discontent," he said, "that will make a great nation of us."
"I believe in discontent. I can sympathize even with the discontented old farmer, who said:
"Contented? When'll I be contented? Wall, I'll be contented when I own all the land adjoining mine—and not be fur, be gum!"

THE BEST TEACHER.
Old Experience Still Holds the Palm.

For real practical reliability and something to swear by, experience—plain old experience—is able to carry a big load yet without getting away-backed.

A So. Dak. woman found some things about food from Old Experience a good, reliable teacher.

She writes:
"I think I have used almost every breakfast food manufactured, but none equal Grape-Nuts in my estimation. I was greatly bothered with weak stomach and indigestion, with formation of gas after eating, and tried many remedies for it but did not find relief."

"Then I decided I must diet and see if I could overcome the difficulty that way. My choice of food was Grape-Nuts because the doctor told me I could not digest starchy food. Grape-Nuts food has been a great benefit to me for I feel like a different person since I began to eat it. It is wonderful to me how strong my nerves have become. I advise everyone to try it, for experience is the best teacher."

"If you have any stomach trouble—can't digest your food, use Grape-Nuts food for breakfast at least, and you won't be able to praise it enough when you see how different you feel." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in place of a Reason."

Self-Appreciation.
"How do you know your speech made such a profound impression?" asked the doubting friend. "There wasn't very much cheering."
"That's just the point," replied Senator Sorghum. "I am one of the orators to whom my constituents would rather listen than hear themselves applaud."

Crushing Rejoinder.
A workman sat on a curb nursing an injured foot which had been struck by an iron casting which had fallen from the top of a building.
"Did that big thing hit you?" asked a sympathizing bystander.
The workman nodded.
"And is it solid iron?"
"No," replied the victim. "Half of it is only lead."

Resinol

cured terrible humor on face

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 6, 1912.
"In December 1908, my face became so sore. I tried everything that was recommended, and my face got worse instead of better. I spent over $100 and got no benefit. The face and nose were very red and the eruption had the appearance of small boils, which itched me terribly. I cannot tell you how terrible my face looked—all I can say is, it was dreadful, and I suffered beyond description. I have not gone on the street any time since 1908 without a trial, until now. Just four months ago a friend persuaded me to give Resinol a trial. I have used three cakes of Resinol Soap and less than a jar of Resinol Ointment, and my face is perfectly free from any eruption, and my skin is as clear and clean as any child's. It is about four weeks since the last pimple disappeared." (Signed) Mrs. M. J. Bateman, 4256 Viola Street.
For over eighteen years Resinol has been a doctor's prescription and household remedy for skin troubles, pimples, wens, warts, piles, etc. Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment sold by all druggists. For sample of each, write to Resinol, 17-19, Resinol Chem. Co., Baltimore, Md.
