Will be Lighted,

The officials of the Michigan Central the first of the week informed the Village President that the company would install electric lights in both the Chelsea passenger station and freight house. This improvement was promised to the village authorities last summer, but seems to have been forgotten by the railroad officials, and not until a vigorous protest was given to the officials, was the subject given an investigation by those in charge.

The passenger station will have one large light placed in front of it on Jackson street, and another on the side facing the tracks. The interior is to beithoroughly illuminated, which will do away with the gloomy appearance that has greeted the public for many years. The freight office and warehouse is to be properly equipped with suitable lights. The work will be started as soon as possible.

Edward Vogel recently called the attention of Mr. Brown, of Jackson, to the deplorable situation at the local station. Mr. Vogel's telegram, followed by a letter, woke up the railroad officials, and they have promised to give Chelsea a well lighted

LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE DE-TROIT REAL ESTATE BOARD PLANS FOR GAMPAIGN.

SAYS LAW SHOULD HAVE MORE THOROUGH TRIAL.

Elaim to Repeal Present Mortgage Tax Law Would Work Hardship to Many People.

Discussion of plans for resisting efforts to repeal the state's mortgage tax law engaged the attention of mempers of the legislative committee of Detroit real estate board.

Definite lines for the campaign were not decided on, but the sentiment expressed indicates the board will make a strong fight in defense of the tax law, on the ground that the interval during which it has been in operation has been too short for a fair test of its merits.

The legislative committee of the board includes C. M. Harmon, chairman; Walter C. Woolley, William E. Roney, Homer Warren and Richard G. Lambrecht. President Judson Bradway, Secretary E. B. Tyrrell and others participated in the conference. In reference to the attitude of the real estate board President Bradway says:

"We feel that the law has not been in operation long enough to be tried and properly. It has worked very satisfactorily in other states and we bedeve the least we can do is to see that It is given a chance in Michigan."

"To repeal the mortgage tax law will simply make a lct of liars and crooks out of people, because no man knows about it," says Thomas H. cheap butter. Welch, of Welch Bros. "It is simply legalized highway robbery when the law requires a full rate of taxation on land and a full rate of taxation on the mortgage covering the same land."

Figures from the auditor general's affice show that since the mortgage tax law has been in operation, about 35 months, the aggregate value of paortgages on which the filing tax is paid has been increased to approxiasstely three times what it was before the law became effective," says Secretary Tyrrell, of the real estate

In the conference, Homer Warren pointed out that since the tax law has een in force, many persons have bought mortgages and that should the taw now be repealed, considerable martiship would be inflicted on widows and others, who have placed their funds in that form of security.

Time for Recall, Says Martindale.

In an address before the members of Capitol Grange, in Lansing, Secretary of State Martindale declared mimself in favor of the initiative, referendum and recall. He said the time has passed in Michigan when the pol-Mician can tell the people what measares are best for them.

"I believe the time has arrived when the electors should have the right to recall any official who is derelict in his trust of conserving their best interests," said Martindale, "and ut any time when the legislative power does not respond to the demand of the people in regard to the enactment of legislation essential to the conservarion of their property and well being then I believe the people should have the right to initiate such legislation.

infiliative should be the usual way of promoting legislation, but it should certainly be a means by which the people can secure desired legislation when their representatives either refuse to act or are ignorant of the people's real needs."

Says State Can't Own Railway. A resolution offered in the house of representatives that a committee of ave he named to confer with the at soruey general as to the steps to be taken for the state of Michigan to awn and operate the Pere Marquette mailroad, caused a furore in the house.

The resolution was offered by Rep. Henry Glasner, of Barry, and followad the statement of Gov. Ferris in The Journal Monday that he would The to see this railroad under state sawnership. The house adopted the resolution first, but Rep. Charles Flowers, of Detroit, moved that it be reconsidered.

Flowers asserted that the state has not the right to own and operate

NEWS OF MICHIGAN.

Teaching Farmers.

The subject of scientific agriculture as taken such a hold upon the farmers and fruit growers of western Michigan that classes are being organized for the purpose of systematic study. Short courses under the auspices of the agricultural college have been announced for five high schools. But even these courses do not seem to be sufficient, and Supt. A. H. Clark, of the Kingsley school has evolved a plan which, he believes, will help fill the demand. Beginning with February 3, he will conduct a Monday night school for the farmers living close to Kingsley. The course will be made to appeal to practical men and will be arranged to meet their specific needs. To start, stress will be placed upon those parts of chemistry, minerology, zoology, plant life, and physical geography as relate to farming, that the farmer may see the value of these sciences in connection with his vocation. This is the first night school for farmers in the western Michigan territory and the result of the experiment will be closely watched that other schools may be started if this is a success.

The idea of establishing a prison in the northern part of the lower peninsula and developing large tracts of land I believe is a good one, but I don't think it would be good policy to discontinue the Jackson prison for the purpose of locating it in some other section of the state. The closing of the year 1912 h brought out the usual bank statement accompanied by the addresses of the Presidents and General Managers of these institutions. Their reading is interesting as they show in a striking manner the prosperity of the country and deal with economic matters in first hand way. Those who know any thing of Canadian banking method know the stability of these institu tions, and the high character of the men who are placed in charge. I discussing the land situation the Pres ident of the Union Bank of Canada whose branches are to be found in all parts of the Canadian West, said:-

"A good deal has been said abou speculation in land. The increase is land values has added enormously to the assets of Western business, an has to some extent formed a basis for extended credit, but this is not felt to be a drawback when the value is read two week and convertible. LIFE'S STRUGGLE

Mrs. Stewart Tells How She Suffered from 16to 45 years old—How Finally Cured.

Euphemia, Ohio. - "Because of total morance of how to care for myself when verging into womanhood, and from taking cold when going to school, I suffered from a displacement, and each month I had severe pains and nausea which always meant a lay-off from work for two to four days from the time I was 16 years old.

"I went to Kansas to live with my sister and while there a doctor told me of the Pinkham remedies but I did not use them then as my faith in patent medicines was limited. After my sister died I came home to Ohio to live and that has been my home for the last 18 years. "The Change of Life came when I was 47 years old and about this time I saw my physical condition plainly described in one of your advertisements. Then I began using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I cannot tell you or any one the relief it gave me in the Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for it.

"Since the Change of Life is over I have been a maternity nurse and being wholly self-supporting I cannot over estimate the value of good health. I have now earned a comfortable little home just by sewing and nursing since I was 52 years old. I have recommended the Compound to many with good results, as it is excellent to take before and after childbirth."—Miss EVELYN ADELIA STEWART, Euphemia, Ohio.

Professor Thinks Modern Education Has One Bad Effect, and Gives Reasons for Assertion.

Prof. William McAndrew, of the Washington Irving high school, in the World's Work, makes the observation that educators can't talk. "I am appalled at the barrenness of the conversation of school people. We are wretched listeners and poorer talkers We are rarely engaging or entertaining. One might reasonably expect a scholarly professor to converse surpassingly well. He usually disappoints. The immature youth who spend so much time with us fail to gain habits of conversation which are essential to the growth of a social being :12e man. I notice especially at school parties or when I overtake one of our youngsters on the street how pitiably clumsy they are in their talk. Not only has our education failed to bring out their social graces but it has suppressed what they have. . The boys of meager schooling, whom one meets over, and give up their secrets; or, on the city streets or in the Maine woods, show, after you have coaxed ple-surely the most difficult task of away their shyness, a power of sustained conversation that makes their society a delight."

"The reason for this lack is," be says, "that the topics of the schoolroom are isolate. One cannot find an an opportunity to use them in society. That its work might be done intelligently the bureau employed George J. SYNOPSIS.

In a spirit of fun Mayor Bedight, a summer visitor, is chased through the woods by ten laughing girls, one of whom he catches and kisses. The girls form themselves into a court and sentence him to do the bidding of one of their number each day for ten days. A tegislative measure opposing woman suffrage, which dropped from the mayor's pocket, is used to compel him to obey the mandates of the girls. His first day of service is with May Andrews, who takes him fishing. They are threatened by the sheriff with arrest. Miss Vining sees what she considers a clandestine meeting between one of the girls and the mayor. The next day he goes driving with Mabel Arney. They meet with an accident, are arrested and locked up, but escape. The mayor returns to the hotel, finds the sheriff walting for him, and takes refuge in the room of Bess Winters. He plans to get possession of the incriminating bill. With Harriet Brooks the mayor goes to investigate an Indian mound. They are caught in a thunder storm. Returning late, he has rather a stormy interview with "Judge" Vining, who seeks to find out who returned to the hotel with him.

CHAPTER IX.

When Miss Jackie Vining went to her room after her unsatisfactory attempt to wring from Bedight the name of the unconventional young woman who walked with him in the moonlight, she was angry. And it is possible that, knowing his feelings toward her she was angrier still because with this influence she could not secure the confession she sought. It is gripping his arm. likewise true that she felt in her heart that Bedight was right in protecting the name of the girl and should be eulogized rather than scourged for it -and yet, when a man has almost told a woman he loves her, she has a right to expect that he will do almost anything quasi-reasonable that she maks of him. In this mood Jackie Vining seated herself at a small writing desk in her away, supporting her at arm's length room and indited the following letter to the chairman of the woman's elubs in Bedight's district:

Placing the letter and the bill in a long envelope, she laid the package on her dresser and retired.

But with the cool touch of the linen and the luxury of full repose, Jackie's heart smote her.

"Well, anyhow," she mused, as she dropped off to sleep, 'T'll hold the letter a few days longer."

To be in the tolls of a state's attorney is bad enough in any event; but if the aforesaid attorney is a woman, oh, most unfortunate is the man! Thursday was Mayor Bedight's day of attendance upon Margaret Farnsworth, who prosecuted the case lagainst him on the morning of his aririval. She entered the arena after an learnest conference with "Judge" Vining, who seemed unusually distrait and worried.

"Mr. Bedight," began the lady attorney, in a professional tone, "I want to get some balsam for a pillow this morning Do you know the tree when you see it?"

"Yes-I've been in the North Woods on many a vacation and am familiar with the flora and fauna of the country. I am at your service," responded the mayor. They set out on foot along a pathway that led into the wood. Once inside the forest it wound in a trail like that the calf made, through spruce and hemlock, poplar and maple, with this warning was written: "BE CAREFUL, SHE IS TRYING TO TRAP YOU."

Bedight smiled and tucked the note n his pocket.

Miss Farnsworth was sitting upon a fallen monarch of the wood when he caught up with her. In her hands she held a lichen that had taken her fancy. Of the party at Mine Host's hotel, no girl was prettier than Margaret Farnsworth and few as intellectual. Vivacity and spirit predominated and as Bedight looked at her he did not belittle her ability to make things interesting for him.

She sprang to her feet as he drew near, and ran after a big brown butterfly. Bedight sat down on the log and waited. Suddenly he heard a scream, the voice of a woman in pain Miss Farnsworth sat upon the holding her ankle in both hands. Her lips were tightly drawn and her face gave evidence of pain. "What is it?" questioned Bedight, apprehensively, going up to her and taking hold of her arm. "Help me to stand," she directed,

He raised her. She let her foot touch the ground, winced and toppled toward him.

"There's a wood chopper's cabin just ahead," she groaned. "Couldcould you carry me there?" blushing. For answer he picked her up in his arms. She threw her arms about his neck and clung to him, her hair brushing his cheek. In sight of the

SECRETARY OF STATE COMES OUT FOR THE RECALL OF DERELICT OFFICERS.

BILL COMING TO REGULATE PRIVATE BANKS IN STATE.

The Working Men's Compensation Law-Oleomargarine in State Institutions and Other Matters of Note.

[By Gurd M. Hayes.]

Secretary of State Frederick C. Martindale is one of the few republican state officials who favors the initiative, referendum and recall, and he went on record in favor of all these progressive measures in an address before the members of Capitol Grange.

"The time has passed by in our state when the politician can tell the people what legislation it is best for them to have, and what legislation he wood choppers' cabins in general and in his profound wisdom, will withold this one in particular were built with from them," said Secretary Martin-

> "I do believe the time has arrived when the electors should have the right to recall any official who is derelict in his trust of conserving their best interests. The private employer has the right to conserve his own welfare by dispensing with the services of an employe who is recreant to his trust. The public are entitled to the same right.

> "And at any time when the legis lative power does not respond to the demand of the people in regard to the enactment of legislation, that is essential to the conservation of their property and well being, then I believe the people should have the right to initiate such legislation. I do not think the initiative should be the usual way of promoting legislation, but it should certainly be the means by which the people can secure desired legislation when their representatives either refuse to act or are ignorant of the people's real needs. The right to depose faithless officials must work out as a panacea for many of the ills of misgovernment."

The Private Banks.

It is expected that a bill will be in troduced very soon to place private banking concerns under the jurisdicand word has reached Lansing that referendum as an instrument to rethe small capitalists are preparing to fight this measure with all the power at their command,

The argument is put forth in favor of the private banks as operated in this state, that they are an absolute necessity in the business of small given the initiative and referendum. towns and if these banks were required to capitalize for the amount prescribed for state banks, it would be prohibitive because the business is too small for such capitalization. The suggestion has been made by a pick, nothing to do but relax and business man familiar with both state and private banking in Michigan that the private banks could be placed upder one form of regulation which that he can add another north and would accomplish to a fair degree the south line to the original proposal purpose without being a burden ments are about due. Wouldn't it be burden or hardship to them. His suggestion is that a law be enacted requiring the bankers of this class to go before the circuit judge and make a showing as to their assets and then furnish a bond for the security of their depositors.

It is pointed out that in this way the security companies would have a reason to watch these institutions, and in addition they might be required to file annual reports with the secretary of state. In all probability a bill of "You know very well you would de this character will be proposed before Workingmen's Compensation Law.

Senator Ogg says the present law is unconstitutional in that it violates the He watched her lithe form as she federal constitution which provides: "No state shall deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws. This provision is violated, Ogg says, in classifying the various employes in a way which gives one class a distinct advantage over others.

Although the present law has been in operation only four months it has been of untold advantage to the working men and another attempt on the part of the legislature to impair its usefulness, will bring on one of the $100,000 for the purchase of farm land biggest battles in years.

What Butter Costs State.

Secretary Murl T. Murray of the state board of corrections and charities, favors a repeal of the present law which prohibits the use of oleomargarine in state institutions, as Murray contends, and most of the authorities agree with him, that a good grade of oleomargarine is superior to a cheap grade of butter.

Murry has compiled statistics showing that a total of 383,862 pounds of butter are used annually in the state institutions at an average cost of 27.3 cents per pound, making the butter bill for the year $104,862.73. On this basis, Secretary Murry says the state would save $58,000 annually if oleomargarine could be used instead of butter. At the present time there are only six states, including Michigan, where the substitute is barred from the state institutions.

Verdier's Civil Service Bill.

Senator Leonard Verdier of Grand Rapids, who introduced the bill placing all state employes under civil service, has the hearty co-operation and support of every man and woman now on the state pay roll. Whether it is a commendable bit of legislation seems to depend on one's position and political affiliations in Lansing. The father of this bill realizes that he has a vast army of volunteer lobbyists right on the job and this influence is bound to be felt. Whether it is given immediate effect involves some question, but the passage of a civil service bill is conceded by every one in the legislature.

"I am for civil service, but it should be made broad enough to eliminate parasites and dead ones at any time," said Governor Ferris.

"I haven't seen the bill," continued the governor in speaking of Senator Verdier's measure, "but I am for civil service. But at the same time I do not believe that it should be so drawn nor construed as to offer protection to political soft shelled crabs. It must be based on efficiency and political expediency should not be consider-

The Liquor Question.

Some of the so-called "dry" leaders in the legislature are wondering whether the initiative and referendum will militate in favor of the liquor interests of the state if this constitutional amendment is passed by the legislature and adopted by the people at the general election in 1914.

Many of the statesmen who are apparently in favor of the initiative and referendum are opposed to the domination of the liquor men in state affairs, but the rumor has reached Lansing to the effect that the liquor men tion of the state banking department, are preparing to use the initiative and peal the local option law, has caused some of the hearty advocates of this measure to stop and think.

One man who is known to be in close touch with the liquor interests of the state is reported as saying that, the people will be given an opportunity to repeal the local option law that makes the county the unit on the wet and dry question, and that the foreign element in the cities would be sufficient to swing the question in favor of the wets.

The Trunk Line Roads.

Going deeper into the idea of trunk line state roads, Senator Alswede, of Bay county, finds that such a large proportion of the original trunk line highway route is already improved and and still remain in the $',000,000 appropriation

To this end, he has outlined a third or east coast line road from Detroit through Flint, Saginaw, Tawas, Alpena, Cheboygan to Mackinac. With this road he will have three north and south lines, one on the central meridan and another on the west shore starting at Niles and following the Lake Michigan coast. The cross state line is from Detroit to St. Jospeh.

The proposal calls for a total of 1,300 miles, of which 300 already is improved. Allowing $2,000 per mile and using convict labor Senator Alswede says the work can be kept within the $2,000,000 appropriation that represents one-half of the automobile tax over a period of three or four

APPLE POSSIBILITIES.

Apples with the rich, red skin may be cooked to make a most beautiful dish. Core, but do not peel, cook gently in a little boiling water until the peel cracks and can be carefully emoved, scraping out the inner red coloring and painting it back on the cheek of the apple. Pour around a thick sirup of sugar and water and simmer until the apple is cooked. Serve with sweetened whipped cream. These are called Blushing Apples.

Apple Trifle.-Place a thick layer of apple sauce in the bottom of a dish. add sugar and lemon rind to taste. Mix a pint of milk, the yolk of an egg. Cook until a smooth custard is formed; add a little sugar and nutmeg and chill and pour over the ap ple. Whip a cup of cream and serve Apples and Almonds.-Core and peel some good flavored apples which will cook tender without losing their shape. Cook in boiling water until tender enough to pierce with blanched, quartered almonds. Decorate thickly with the almonds until the apple resembles a porcupine Place them in a baking dish and pour around them a thick sirup made with the water they were cooked in and sugar. Cook until soft but not broken, in the oven. Remove, sprinkle with powdered sugar and chill. Serve with whipped cream sweetened.

RHEUMATIC ADVICE Prominent Doctor's Best Prescription Easily Mixed at Home.

"From your druggist get one ounce of Toris compound (in original sealed package) and one ounce of syrup of Sarsaparilla compound. Take these two ingredients home and put them into a half pint of good whiskey. Shake the bottle and take a table-spoonful before each meal and at bed-time." This is said to be the quickest and best remedy known to the medical profession for rheumatism and backache. Good results come after the first dose. If your druggist does not have Toris compound in stock he will get it for you in a few hours from his wholesale house. Don't be influenced to take a patent medicine instead of this. Insist on having the genuine Toris compound in the original one-ounce, sealed, yellow package. Hundreds of the worst cases were cured here by this prescription last winter. MYSTERIOUS MISS BELL

By JANE OSBORN.

If being a mystery makes a woma fascinating to the man she mystifles then it is not hard to see why Clarence Banks, who had never before met the girl he cared to marry, had fallen very much in love with the new stenographer. For this new stenographer, Miss Bell, was from first to last an unsolved mystery. She was baffling from the first day she stepped into Varnum's office to this memora ble day when her actions seemed to shatter every foregone conclusion that Clarence Banks had on the subject of

But besides being a mystery, Miss Bell was fascinating enough to charm a more strongly fortified heart than that of Clarence Banks. She was one of those tantalizing quiet young women that countless years ago occasioned the sage remark that "still waters run deep." She was, in her work in the office, very friendly, to a certain point, but beyond that point there seemed to be a barrier. There was one exception and this contradiction added to the mystery and made a certain Monday after Miss Bell had been in the office about two months one of the most memorable in Clarence Banks'

"I say, Miss Bell," he said. "How about staying down to dinner with me tonight. You give a fellow so little chance in the office, and I am naturally a friendly sort."

Miss Bell only shook her head and said, "No, thank you."

Eventually, however, she did with reluctance consent to go to luncheon with him and Banks could not help noticing the apparent-or was it feigned?-enjoyment she derived from their chat, nor could he hide from her his admiration for her.

Then for a few weeks they drifted into a delightful friendship. She was aware of his admiration for her but in her consciousness of it she kept him at bay. Still Banks could not help the gleam of easy friendliness that came over Varnum's face when she was with him.

One day-Miss Bell's last day in the office - something happened to strengthen Banks' suspicions. Mrs. Varnum, a kind-hearted, gray-haired woman whom Banks had heard his senior partner speak of with the greatest admiration, called at the office on her unexpected arrival in the city after several months' absence from home. She went unannounced into her husband's office. Banks saw her through his half open door and then in frantic haste Miss Bell rushed upon him through the door that connected his office with that of his senior partner. She regained her composure quickly but on some absurd excuse remained in his room till Mrs. Varnum had gone. The next night, the eve of a holiday, Varnum and Miss Bell had work to do after dinner and in a mood the guardian angels of vulgarity. of anger and disappointment Banks "For Love of Beasts," by John Galsquietly returned also. "Say, you just got out in time, Betty. She almost caught you," Banks heard Varnum saying in the next room with a jovial laugh and then the young man moved towards the door to listen.

"I think Mr. Banks was surprised when I came into his room," said Betty. "Do you think he is suspicious? Of course we will have to let him know some time."

There was a silence and then Varnum said: "I have arranged with the agent to get the car day after tomorrow and you are to pick it out. Do you think you can learn to run it?" "Of course' I can," said Miss Bell joyfully. "How wonderful of you!" "But it is only in honest payment. You have earned every cent it cost. You have been here six months and you are worth two of the usual sort. I don't know how I will do without you, little girl, but you have had enough and now you and your mother must enjoy the car together. Come Betty give me a kiss and skip home.

general joy of the situation. Then she went up to him to explain. "Don't you mother, and all the time she was away she thought I was just staying home doing nothing. She didn't want me to work, but Dad couldn't afford somehow, and she was so crazy to have one. Now she sees that it hasn't hurt me she won't care. You didn't really think I was Miss Bell, did you?" "Hev ye got ony postal cards?" "Yes," the postmaster replies. "Haow much be they t'day?" "A cent apiece."

> No one who has any delight inmoved that the stork has fallon upon evil times. Four years ago it was noticed that they were building less on Turkish house-tops and their diminishing numbers were regarded by the superstitious Ottonans as an evil omen for the future of the race in Europe, On leaving Europe at the end of summer, they eem to penetrate far down the interior of Africa. One that had been caught and marked in Prussia was captured in Natal, near Colenso. Whether the disappearance of wild imals from South Africa before the ice of the settlers also affects the orks is a question not yet settled.

However that may be, attention is being drawn anew to their dwindling numbers in Alsace, now that they are setting ready to leave for the south. German scientists have ascertained that they are also getting fewer in the Palatinate, Hesse, and Franconia. The country people are making va-liant efforts to maintain the numbers of their visitors by placing artificial nests on the roofs of their houses, and even by feeding them artificially.

But the storks in Germany have to contend with a prejudice most difficult to eradicate. They are looked upon as enemies of sport. It is true that they sometimes raid the families of hares or find their food in ponds well stocked with fish. But the damage they do in this way is negligible in comparision with the great boon they confer on farmers by destroying mice and moles.

If we we are to believe the German ornithological paper. "Mitteilungen uber die Vogelwelt," a bad example in the treatment of this useful bird has been set in high places. The Grand Duke of Oldenburg is said to have given orders for the curtailing of the number of storks in his state. Fifty per cent. of them are to be shot down. By depriving the female birds of their male admirers, the Grand Duke hopes to "cut down the birthrate." The German paper containing this announcement protests against a barbarity which deprives villages of their old-established guests, but it adds that similar cases are reported
