say they owe their lives to this wonderful home remedy. Mrs. O. Rhine-the greatest of gifts. I can never forget what it has done for me." Get a bottle

ROMEO AND JULIET.

of "Romeo and Juliet," based on Shakespeare's immortal work of the same title, will be shown at the Princess next Tuesday, May 27. The play is in two reels, and being the sweetest love story of all time there should be a full house.

THE KERRY GOW.

This is a play that the Kalem Company has gone to Ireland for and brought back, with the true atmosphere and every real characteristic of the Irish soil and Irish heart. The plot of the play is a regulation one, wherein the villain's efforts are frustrated at every turn, and the story ends with him on his way to jail and the lovers preparing for the wedding.
The power and charm of the Kalem production lies in the romantic little by-plays so dear to the Irish heart, its humor and pathos. The Irish landscape is produced and the remarkable attention to details makes the picture a really great one. When you see the characters, you see just the kind that you would expect to meet on an Irish road or in an afternoon's journey through the country.
This beautiful Irish drama in three reels will be presented at the Princess Thursday, May 29.

New Line Was Surveyed Several Years Ago and Runs Through Rich Fruit Country—To Cost $1,000,000.

The extension, which has been promised for many years, will cost approximately $1,000,000, and will be built under the direction of A. B. Ziewid, assistant engineer of the company.

The route was surveyed several years ago and runs through a rich fruit country.

It is said the new branch will be completed before next winter and that its construction at this time is the result of the building of a competing line by the Grand Rapids & Northwestern railroad between Ludington and Grand Rapids.

Another Student Is Drowned.

Three times men dove for his body, but were unable to recover it. Finally it was secured by dragging the lake bottom.

Would Make Stronger Anti-Jap Bill.

The Asiatic exclusion league of California instructed its executive committee to draft a petition for a referendum vote on the alien land bill to be circulated immediately after the measure is signed by Gov. Johnson. The objections of the league are based on the clause in the Webb act which permits three-year leases. The organization purposes to circulate at the same time an initiative petition for a law which will exclude Japanese and Chinese from both ownership and lease-holders under any conditions.

VETERANS OF 1898 READY TO GO AGAIN

THIRTY-FIRST MICHIGAN REGIMENT SO DECLARES AT REUNION.

AN ATTEMPT IS MADE TO WRECK FAST TRAIN AT ALBION.

It is Reported That Ann Arbor Railroad Will Purchase Logging Road and Connect Cadillac and Manistee.

If the United States finds it necessary to war with Japan the old Thirty-first Michigan volunteer infantry stands ready to march to the front again, as it did in 1898. At least this was the pledge officers and men made as they gathered around the banquet tables in the armory at Monroe at the close of the fourteenth annual reunion of the regiment.

One of the largest reunions that has attended a reunion in several years turned out. Ann Arbor was selected as the place for the next reunion at the banquet. Speeches were made by Gen. George Spalding and Burton Parker, veterans of the civil war, and by Lieut. Col. Schubel, Maj. C. W. Harrah, Capt. Payne, Capt. Harrington and others, connected with the regiment.

Attempt to Wreck Train.

A double attempt was made at Albion to wreck trains on the Michigan Central. The tracks were blocked on each side of the city, and only the merest chance saved a fast train from being derailed.

When the section hands went to work they discovered that a T rail had been jammed in the point of a switch branching from the eastbound track. Almost at the same time the man at the interlocking tower found the switch of the westbound track just west of the station hammered full of splicing blocks. Slow freights crossing each of the obstructions had pounded the iron down far enough to save the fast trains which passed shortly after from derailment.

Urges Creation of New State Commission to Prepare Single Appropriation Measure.

With state taxes this year more than $2,000,000 higher than the record taxes of 1911, and a 65 per cent increase over last year, Lieut. Gov. Ross urges the creation of a new state commission which shall prepare for each legislature a single, general appropriation bill containing all the appropriations for the running expense of the state.

The multiplicity of appropriation bills going from senate to house and from house to senate, and modified at each interchange, now, makes it impossible while the legislature is in session to determine what the total of appropriations will be, Ross says. For this reason the appropriation bills that go through first contain many items which should be pruned out to keep down state taxes. It was this lack of knowledge on the legislature's part on what the total would be that resulted in the abnormally high state taxes this year, he asserts.

The commission, he says, should include both the governor and auditor general and one or more existing state officers.

Claims to Cure Leprosy.

Assertions of Prof. Raoul Pictet, of Geneva, Switzerland, inventor of liquefied air, that he has discovered a "cold cure" for leprosy, are attracting attention.

He says American doctors in Hawaii are giving his methods a test and have already found them successful. Lepers are subjected to local application of liquefied carbon dioxide at a very low temperature—110 degrees below zero. The intense cold has gradually destroyed the microbes of leprosy and the diseased flesh has regained its original health and color.

Burleson Issues Important Order.

As an emergency measure to relieve conditions in first and second class postoffices where the service has been demoralized by the application of the eight-hour law among clerks and letter carriers, Postmaster General Burleson has directed that until further notice the back stamping of letters be discontinued except on registered and special delivery mail.

Would Take Place of Ruff.

Charles Montgomery, president of the California prison commission, made an offer to Gov. Johnson that he should take the place of Abraham Ruff, convicted political boss, of San Francisco, in a cell at San Quentin prison, for three months, to enable Ruff to visit his dying father, according to a letter made public by Montgomery.

Judge MacDonald, in the case of Orange S. Thomas against the Michigan soldiers' home, at Grand Rapids, ordered the board of control to return to the veterans $5,324.14, which had been held by the board as excess of $12 pensions.

Telephone wires were torn down, two barns destroyed, orchards uprooted and much live stock killed in a cyclone which struck Calhoun county.

Thomas Wilde, a pioneer fruit grower, of western Michigan, and the originator of several varieties of strawberries and other fruits years before Luther Burbank began experimenting, died at his home in Ottawa county. He was 83 years of age.

Disobeying rules by riding on the head end of a yard engine of the G. R. & I., in Kalamazoo, Edward McWhirter, switchman, saved the life of a drunken man who staggered in front of the train as it was crossing Main street. McWhirter reached out and pulled the man up on the pilot.

LETTER FROM THE STATE CAPITOL

IRON PROPERTIES ARE DUE TO BE BOOSTED IN VALUATION BY COMMISSION.

GOV. FERRIS TALKS ABOUT THE BULL MOOSERS.

Michigan Brewers Fear That Fight for State Wide Prohibition Is Imminent and Are Preparing to Meet It.

[By Gurd M. Hayes.]

As a result of investigations made by the geological survey, it is expected that iron properties in the upper peninsula are due for another boost in valuation. Members of the state tax commission are now in the northern section of the state reviewing assessments and it is understood that some of the mines will have several hundred thousand dollars added to their assessment.

By the first of June it is expected that the commission will have completed its work beyond the straits and will be ready to tackle some of the propositions in the lower peninsula. Shortly after the state board was reorganized the first of the year and Thomas Kearney, of Ann Arbor and O. F. Barnes, of Roscommon became members of the commission, it was announced that a new system was to be followed. The plan was that the local assessing officers should place all property on the tax rolls at its actual cash value, the state board will add them in their work. It was thought that by following this system it would obviate the necessity of having the state board review all the rolls.

However, it has been called to the attention of the commission that in certain sections where this plan was being followed out that some officials and newspapers who aided in the work were singled out by the board of review and their property increased, while similar values were decreased. These complaints are being investigated by the state tax commission, and it is said that there is serious trouble in store for some of the local boards of review if these charges are correct. Early in June the members of the state board plan to visit Saginaw and Jackson, and other counties will be visited as fast as the state officials are able to get to them.

There is one phase of the taxation system that is causing the state officials considerable worry and that is the specific tax law relative to mortgages. Under the present plan it is said that millions of dollars worth of mortgages are escaping taxation. Companies issuing trust mortgages to cover bond issues are said to be the principal offenders, as there is no provision whereby a reasonable tax on this class of securities may be collected.

According to a statutory provision the state tax commission must determine the specific tax to be collected in this state where a trust mortgage covers property in Michigan as well as other states. Only a short time ago Commissioner Kearney says the commission was asked to determine this tax on a $3,000,000 mortgage. Inasmuch as the corporation planned to issue but $200,000 of the bonds for which it had security, there was a question as to whether the tax should be levied against the mortgage or the bond issue.

It has been the custom to assess a tax only for the amount of the bond issue and it is the opinion of Attorney General Fellows that this is the only system to be followed. It is claimed that many trust mortgages authorized by the state railroad commission do not specify the amount of bonds to be issued and it is said to be a common practice for some public utilities corporations to issue trust mortgages for $2,000,000 to $6,000,000 and issue bonds for a small percentage of the mortgage as they are needed. This makes taxation extremely difficult and is one of the hardest problems with which the state tax commission is confronted.

Gov. Ferris is convinced that the national progressive party is practically a dead proposition, or will be before another presidential election. He declared today that four months ago he believed there was a future for the bull moose organization, but now he is convinced that the insurgent republicans and wayward democrats are returning to the party of their fathers. It was during a discussion of his own political future that Gov. Ferris ventured the assertion that the bull moose party is losing caste. He was asked whether he intended to be a candidate to succeed himself next year. "I don't know," he replied, "I feel that I have pretty well accomplished what I set out to do and I am not troubling myself about seeking the governorship again. Last fall it was predicted that I could not be elected, but through the fortunes of politics I slipped in. I am what might be called a political mistake. The dopesters didn't figure that I had a chance, and may be I wouldn't if conditions had been different.

"However, I believe that the republicans are returning to the G. O. P. ranks and I believe that 75 per cent of those who strayed away last fall will be voting the republican ticket at the next election. The same applies to the democrats.

"Of course there are many men in the national progressive party who are actuated by honest and sincere principles, but there are many who are purely office-seekers. They got into the bull moose band wagon last fall because they saw a chance to win. No one can tell where this class will go. They are apt to follow the majority."

The governor says he sincerely hopes that the tariff bill which passed the house of representatives, will go through the United States senate without amendment. "The farmers of Michigan will find out that it will not effect the price of sugar beets and the people in general will learn that a scientific tariff revision is not a project to be approached with fear and trembling," said the governor.

Michigan brewers are fortifying themselves for a fight against state wide prohibition, which they believe is imminent and may come within the next two years. The first steps to throw out a strong line of defense were taken at an executive session of the Country Brewers' association held at the Hotel Downey.

An attempt was made to preserve the utmost secrecy regarding the Lansing meeting. The representatives from Grand Rapids, Jackson, Saginaw, Bay City, Kalamazoo and several other cities of the state came to the city quietly and were closeted for several hours in the Hotel Downey, and it is said that plans for a defensive campaign were discussed at considerable length.

None of the Detroit breweries were represented, as it is claimed that there is a bitter feud existing between the beer manufacturers of the metropolis and those who supply the "suds" in the smaller cities of the state. Nevertheless, it is claimed that the Wayne county brewers and the Country Brewers' association will work together for a common good when the time comes for the big fight.

It is not believed by the brewers that it will be possible for the temperance advocates to secure a two-thirds vote of both the house and senate, which is necessary to submit any constitutional amendment to the vote of the people, but they realize that the last legislature placed in the hands of the people the initiative and referendum and from their standpoint they fully appreciate the gravity of this situation.

When the initiative and referendum were under discussion during the last session of the legislature, it was claimed that state wide prohibition would be the first proposition to be fought out under the new section of the constitution, and the brewers believe the fight is coming much sooner than they anticipated. They believe that it will be an easy proposition for the "drys" to secure enough signatures to their petitions to have a state wide prohibition amendment submitted to the people and they are preparing to meet the issue.

However, it is hinted that the brewers are preparing to utilize the initiative and referendum to their own advantage. Although they appreciate the fact that the prohibitionists would give them a hard battle, they are apparently confident that the vote in the various cities and the foreign element in the upper peninsula is sufficiently large to prevent the dry advocates from putting the saloons and breweries out of business. Therefore if state wide prohibition is attempted, it is said that the liquor men will endeavor to use the initiative and referendum to repeal the local option law and wipe out every inch of dry territory in the state.

It was pointed out at the beginning of the last session of the legislature that this might be attempted in case the lawmakers submitted the initiative and referendum and they were approved by the people. Although the brewers are making no open threats that this will be attempted, it is understood that the subject has been discussed. During the session one member stated that the large "wet" vote in Detroit, Grand Rapids, Saginaw, Bay City, Lansing and other principal cities of the state, would be sufficient to accomplish this result if the liquor men started about it in a systematic campaign.

Rep. Weidenfeller, of Van Buren county, who was in Lansing for the final adjournment of the legislature, has evolved a scheme that will enable the state to pay the expenses of the Michigan veterans who attend the Gettysburg reunion, without increasing the appropriation or calling upon the citizens of the state for private subscriptions. Weidenfeller has been commissioned by Gov. Ferris to interview the heads of the various railroads to determine whether or not they will transport all the veterans to Gettysburg who are eligible for the trip, and if the expense exceeds the appropriation of $20,000, to wait until the next session for the balance.

Rep. Weidenfeller believes that the railroad companies will be willing to accept $20,000 and wait until the next session for the remainder. If they turn the proposition down, Weidenfeller will remind them that the people of the state are behind the veterans and favors asked by the transportation companies of succeeding legislatures will not be given a very cordial consideration.

Mean Man Made His Suggestion Departed in Some Haste From Meeting of Indignant Women.

With tense, eager faces, the audience of women leaned forward in their seats, eagerly drinking in the noted speaker's every word. "Here man," she was saying, "I went to belittle woman's ability to enter the fields already usurped by him. As a matter of fact, she is capable of filling any post of public or private office now held by man, and if appointed to it, could even perform man's tasks with greater faithfulness and greater daring.

"Name, if you can, one post for which she cannot fit herself! Name one office to which she would not could not, give the greatest measure of capability, the highest degree of courage, the—"

HER "BEST FRIEND"

A Woman Thus Speaks of Postum.

"We usually consider our best friends those who treat us best. Some persons think coffee a real friend, but watch it carefully awhile and observe that it is one of the meanest of all enemies, for it stabs one while professing friendship. Coffee contains a poisonous drug—caffeine—which injures the delicate nervous system and frequently sets up disease in one or more organs of the body, if its use is persisted in.

"I had heart palpitation and nervousness for four years and the doctor told me the trouble was caused by coffee. He advised me to leave it off, but I thought I could not," writes a Wis. lady.

"On the advice of a friend I tried Postum and it so satisfied me I did not care for coffee after a few days' trial of Postum.

"As weeks went by and I continued to use Postum my weight increased from 98 to 118 pounds, and the heart trouble left me. I have used it a year now and am stronger than I ever was. I can hustle up stairs without any heart palpitation, and I am free from nervousness.

"My children are very fond of Postum and it agrees with them. My sister liked it when she drank it at my house; now she has Postum at home and has become very fond of it. You may use my name if you wish, as I am not ashamed of praising my best friend—Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Postum now comes in new concentrated form called Instant Postum. It is regular Postum, so processed at the factory that only the soluble portions are retained.

A spoonful of Instant Postum with hot water, and sugar and cream to taste, produce instantly a delicious beverage.

SYNOPSIS.

At the beginning of great automobile races the mechanic of the Mercury...

"Jes and I do not tire of our friends," she rebuked. "But beyond that, how can any one tell what will happen? We can just live our best every day and wait to see further, sometimes things get twisted wrong."

She hesitated, then struck a few chords upon the piano. "That?" "Yes. Will you sing it to me, now?"

With her charming trick of prompt obedience, she at once seated herself at the instrument.

It was no ornate classic, no love-song, that the velvet-and-gold contralto voice braided into Stanton's memory, to be in the near future a torture more acute than physical pain and personal grief.

That was the quaint stiff melody of many years before, that Jessica Floyd sang to Stanton before they parted.

On reaching home, an hour later, Stanton found a letter awaiting him from the assistant manager, Green.

"The car is at last ready, and if you see Jess Floyd, tell him that we can not get along without him any longer," ran the concluding sentence.

the trip to Indiana. No more orchids and laurel. He smiled in sardonic relief and went to open a window to the pungent October air. To-morrow he would see Floyd at the course and begin the work which intoxicated him as it does all those who once acquire the fearless mastery of a car at high speeds and taste the strong excitement of the racing game.

CHAPTER XI.

The Last Race.

"Say, Floyd, got a spare tire extinguisher in your camp?" "I guess so," called a gay rippling voice across the gray dawn mist.

"Just throw it into the next pit, then; Jack's whistling again." A tousled head appeared from the third in the row of repair pits.

"Let Floyd alone, he'd rather hear me whistle than you talk," jeered the offender. "Besides, he's working. Is it true, Floyd, that you can make a worn-out taxicab motor run like a new foreign engine? Some one told me so."

"Why, yes, Jack; but I haven't any time to fix your car now," came the sweet reply. "Come crank the Mercury for me, one of you, I want to hear her run."

One of the laughing mechanics ran forward, but paused as a tall figure advanced from the shadow of the stand.

Floyd straightened up from bending over the unhooded motor, shining-eyed and vividly aglow in the raw, salt air that swept across the bare Long Island meadows.

"Stanton!" he gladly welcomed, and stripped off a rubber glove to give greeting; Floyd was glibly careful of his hands and always protected them during work when possible.

"I just arrived here, by train," the other explained. "Do you want to take the car out?"

"When you're ready." "I am ready now. Get some warm things on, it is going to be chilly until the sun is out."

It was not an emotional meeting, but both men were content. Stanton had felt the thrill of relief and pleasure upon seeing his mechanic which surprised him into recognition of how much uneasiness the incident of the night before had caused him.

"You will have to be kind to the tires," Floyd warned, as he complied with the directions. "We have only the ground. On the second time around, the Mercury struck an edged stone and lost a tire with a sharp report. Stanton drew up by the roadside, and Floyd ran back to pitch the mischief-making rock into the fields.

"George and Palmer are out," he observed, returning. "They might come to grief on it, too. Besides, we ourselves might hit it again. I like a track race."

"So do I. How many tires left?" "Three."

They worked rapidly, both for practice and from force of habit. The Duplex roared past at a leisurely gait, while they were busy, its driver waving a hand in sympathetic greeting.

Floyd paused to wave a response, and presently the Mercury sped after its rival.

Before ten o'clock they had lost another tire.

"Those tires in yet?" demanded Stanton, when he again drew up before the repair pit.

The harassed assistant manager shook his head, exhibiting a sheaf of yellow telegrams.

"Not yet. The Ruby Company telegrams that they shipped the order last week by express; the express company telegrams that they sent the carload on from Chicago two days ago and it must be here."

"The freight car must have been left in the New York yards, instead of being sent out here," deduced Stanton exasperatedly.

"New York says it isn't there." "Perhaps they shipped the order to the Mercury factory by mistake," Floyd suggested.

Mr. Green looked at him in scorn. "Of course I phoned there first of all. The chief says they are not there, either, and to telegraph all along the line until we trace the car."

"Have you done it?" Stanton inquired.

"I'm doing it now. We got as far west as Utica and each freight yard denies having them."

"We'll go to lunch, Floyd. The answers will come in meanwhile."

There was a hotel nearby, which Mr. Green made his headquarters, and where Stanton and Floyd chose to stay. A good many of the other drivers and officials also remained for that night.

"I'd run into little old New York," the driver of the Atlanta car explained to Stanton, "only I'm afraid it ain't healthy to go through Brooklyn so often."

To the hotel the answers continued to come all that afternoon, until Mr. Green and the office were snowed over by strips of yellow paper. The larger the city and the more crowded its freight yard, the longer the time re-

GROWING ANNUAL FLOWERS NOT DIFFICULT

An Old-Fashioned Garden.

(By H. F. FEINSTEAD.)
Whether your flower garden is to be a square plot against a city wall, or the ample grounds of the country home, there will always be a place for the annuals. It often happens that one wishes to change the location of the flower beds from year to year, which is impossible with everlasting kinds; then the annuals bring quick results.

Most annuals grow well from seed sown in drills or broadcast where they are to stand, but it is often desirable to have them started early, which can be done by sowing in a hotbed or window box and transplanting to the open ground after all danger from frost has passed.

Well-rotted leaf mold or other vegetable manure is best for flowers.

The aster is one of the most desirable of the annuals, and rivals the most rare and difficult growers in point of beauty and hardiness. It commends itself to general planting with its great variety of color and from the fact that it may be planted close or the tall growing sorts may be given more room.

They are a late bloomer, coming when others have failed. Seed sown in the open ground in May will bloom in October or late in September, while for blooms in July and August the seed must be sown in the hotbed or window box in March.

Cover the seed lightly, and when the plants have three or four leaves transfer them to small pots or another part of the bed, setting them two inches apart each way.

After all danger of frost is past they may be transplanted to the open ground to stand 18 inches apart. Well-rotted manure should be mixed with a small quantity of ashes used in with the soil.

The California poppy, or Escholtzia, is one of the comparatively new creations, and is surely one of the most beautiful. The seed are small and should be scattered on the surface of the soil and covered very little by having loose soil sifted over them.

When they are allowed to seed they will come every year in the same place without further seeding. They are also desirable pot plants.

Candytuft is easily grown by sowing the seed in the open and thinning later in the season. This annual is more desirable for edging and borders, and a succession of bloom may be had by making later sowings.

Long rows of marigold are beautiful, the range of color being great, and the size differing greatly from the dwarf to the tall African varieties. The French marigold does better and comes much earlier if the plants are grown in boxes and later transplanted once or twice before being set out of doors.

A foot apart is none too far for the marigold to stand.

Mignonette is so easily grown that every garden must have it. The flowers are modest and very fragrant. While the average size of the plant is less than a foot in height, it is of compact growth and a mass of bloom till November.

The Zinnia is hardy, like the marigold, and does best in rich soil, and the plants will be more stocky and better bloomers if the seed are sown in the house and later transplanted once or twice. There is a great variety of color as well as form in the blossoms.

"It did." Floyd stopped in the act of ascending to his seat.

"You didn't tell Jessica," he reproached.

"How do you know?" queried Stanton, astonished.

"I saw her late last night, on my way here. What did they do to you?" "Fined me all the law allowed."

"Fined me? The Mercury Company paid—and suggested the wisdom of not doing it again. I didn't suppose Miss Floyd would be interested in police court details. Get in."

The morning's work had begun. It was always a course race, the Cup event, and in many places the way lay over hastily prepared country roads. Here and there men were still at work, banking turns or smoothing to mildew. The removal of the flowers and prevention of seed pots lengthens the blooming period.

The pansy is a favorite with all, but is not so easily grown as some of the annuals. For early bloom the seed should be sown in the fall in beds and transplanted to pots as winter approaches.

The spring these little plants may be set in beds and will bloom in profusion early in the summer. Except in the far north it is possible to winter the plants by leaving in outdoor beds and covering with mulch, which should be raked off in the spring.

Seed sown in rich soil in July will produce blooming plants for the fall months.

The best of the annual climbers are Moonflower, Morning Glory, Cypress, Canary-Bird flower and Dolchosa. Moonflower seed should be soaked in warm water over night, and the seed of all should be sown in boxes and later transplanted in rich soil when it is warm.

MEANS TO PREVENT EGG-EATING HABIT

Fowls That Are Given Free Range Usually Find Plenty of Employment.

One of the most annoying things the poultryman has to contend with is the egg-eating hen. It is usually supposed to be caused by the hen craving some element that is contained in her ration, but I hardly think this is correct. I believe the lack of food and idleness is the cause, says a writer in the Farm Progress.

But, no matter what the cause, it is a good idea to use means to prevent the hens from forming the habit, for prevention is always the cheapest cure. If the nests are placed at a height that will prevent the hens standing on the ground and reaching into them, the danger of egg-eating will be lessened; for if nests are made so small that the hens cannot stand erect in them, they will not eat the eggs, for the hen demands some comfort while making her meal.

I once noticed a number of China eggs lying around the floor of a poultry house, and, upon asking the keeper the reason, was informed that this was the plan to prevent the egg-eating habit.

It will be very seldom that the hens will contract the habit if they are kept busy. Hens that are given free range usually find plenty of employment, but those that are confined should be given plenty of litter with grain scattered through it, that they may be kept working all the time through the day.

When a number of the flock contract the habit it will take considerable effort to break them, hence the necessity of taking all means to prevent the practice. When only one or two of the hens have learned the habit it is best to dispose of them unless very valuable.

Breakfast for Laying Hens. There is nothing to excel vegetables for breakfast for the laying hens. Baked potatoes, mashed, and corn meal, and just enough skim milk to make a stiff mush is the best kind of a ration. Also boiled potatoes, onions, cabbage, squash, carrots, or, in fact, anything in the vegetable line. They supply just the nourishment necessary for the general health and vitality of the hen in the winter when she would otherwise be unable to obtain such food.

For a Sleek Horse. If you want a sleek horse give him some oil meal once in a while in his feed.

Feed for Sows. Feed the sow after farrowing upon foods calculated to produce a large flow of rich milk.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

ALL the horrid, hideous notes of woe, sadder than owl-songs or the midnight blast, is that portentous phrase, "I told you so."

MUTTON DISHES WITH SAUCES.

Boiled mutton with parsley sauce is a best favorite with mutton lovers. Cook until tender, and serve with the following sauce: Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter or mutton fat, add two tablespoonfuls of flour and cook for six minutes, stirring constantly.

Then add a cup of milk or the mutton broth, and cook until the liquid is thickened. Season with salt, and just before serving add the juice of half a lemon and a tablespoonful of chopped parsley.

Horse Radish Sauce—This is nice to serve with cold boiled mutton: Cook together two tablespoonfuls each of cracker crumbs, better or mutton fat; add a fourth of a cup of fresh-grated horse radish, a half teaspoonful of salt and a cup of milk. Cook for twenty minutes before the horse-radish is added. Serve hot or cold.

Roast Leg of Mutton—Sprinkle the meat with salt and pepper and place upon the roasting rack, dredge with flour and bake in a hot oven, basting frequently; allow ten to fifteen minutes to the pound, depending upon the taste of those served, as some like mutton underdone. In making the gravy for roast mutton, allow two tablespoonfuls of fat for each cup of gravy desired, pouring off any excess of this amount. To the fat add three tablespoonfuls of flour and cook thoroughly to brown; add boiling water and stir constantly, season with salt and pepper. If the flour is not browned equal parts of fat and flour are sufficient for thickening.

Many like a jelly made by adding a glass of currant jelly, or less, to each cup of the brown gravy. This is especially good when cold mutton is to be warmed up in it.

Mint Sauce—Chop a fourth of a cup of fresh mint, add a tablespoonful of powdered sugar and a half cup of hot vinegar, a half teaspoonful of salt. Let it stand in a warm place to draw out the flavor of the mint. Mint jelly may be made by using gelatin to stiffen it.

FRESH VEGETABLES. During the early summer vegetables are the much relished food; meats have their place, but the vegetables, with their mineral salts, are needed in the body to restore the blood and purify it.

Bermuda Onions.—Peel uniform sized onions and boil for half an hour in water to cover. Drain, rinse in cold water, remove the centers, which may be preserved to serve the following day in a white sauce. Season finely chopped cooked veal with a bit of green pepper, mix with buttered bread crumbs and stuff the onion cases. Set the onion in a buttered baking dish and pour around a cup or two of veal broth, with a tablespoonful of butter and a teaspoonful of kitchen bouquet. Bake and cook three-quarters of an hour.

Cauliflower which has been cooked until tender, separated into flowerets, then dipped in a fritter batter and fried are delicious served with a meat course.

Mushrooms.—The delicious field mushrooms are now in the market or may be gathered by one who has the knowledge of the edible varieties. In gathering mushrooms a "little knowledge is a dangerous thing," so one should be sure before going ahead. The fresh mushroom is especially delicious broiled. Peel the caps and then put a bit of butter in each, season with salt and serve piping hot.

Mushrooms are also most appetizing cooked in a little butter and then a thin sauce of cream added.

Swiss Chard.—This delicate and succulent vegetable green is not well known. It belongs to the green family and is most delicious when cooked until tender in boiling water, drained and seasoned with butter, pepper and salt. The addition of a little lemon juice or vinegar is an improvement.

New beets are cooked until tender then chopped and seasoned with butter, pepper and salt and a touch of lemon juice.

1,000 SETTLERS A DAY

WESTERN CANADA MAKING REMARKABLE PROGRESS.

Settlers from the United Kingdom and other countries of Europe landed in Winnipeg last week at the rate of one thousand a day. The predicted boom in the populating of the prairie provinces this spring has materialized, as it did last year, and today the busiest city in America is probably the Manitoba metropolis.

The sturdy nations of Europe are all contributing to the rapid growth of Canada West. Two of the largest contingents reaching Winnipeg last week were from Germany and Scandinavia.

The British Isles are sending out larger contingents than ever before. The old land newspapers are filled with accounts of send-offs and farewells being given to popular town-folk on the eve of departure for Canada.

Numerous editorials record the sentiments, bordering on despair, of the Britons who see their towns and villages desolated by the desertion of favorite sons and daughters. We can sympathize with those left behind while felicitating the young people who have their own way to make in the world, on their new opportunities in the country of mammoth crops.

Scotland lost 5,000 of her best blood and brain in a single week this month. No wonder the young, aspiring Scots take so quickly to Canada. They have been reading of the triumphs and wonder working of Scottish pioneers in the Dominion ever since they were "bairns." A great part of Canada's success was wrought by Canadians from Caledonia, and the young Caledonians of today are eager to demonstrate that they can do as well out west as their forebears.

In addition to those from the old countries, the United States still keeps up in a strenuous manner, and is sending its thousands into that new country of the north. They take up the free homesteads of 160 acres on which they live for six months of each year for three years, and then get a deed or patent for a farm that is worth anywhere from $15 to $20 per acre, or they may purchase lands at from $15 to $18 per acre that will yield with proper care in cultivation, excellent returns for the time, work and money expended.—Advertisement.

Electricity and Plant Life. The theory has been advanced and backed up by experiments which are at least interesting, that pointed leaves standing up at the top of growing plants attract electricity from the atmosphere and that such electric forces aid materially in the growth of plants so equipped by nature. One investigator, R. E. Dimick of Almena, Wis., reports that vegetables which were well cultivated have shown a smaller growth than the normal when they had pointed wires stuck up among them to act like lightning rods in drawing off the electricity which Mr. Dimick believes to be attracted by points and needful to plant life.

RASH SPREAD TO ARMS. 759 Roach Ave., Indianapolis, Ind.—"At first I noticed small eruptions on my face. The trouble began as a rash. It looked like red pimples. In a few days they spread to my arms and back. They itched and burned so badly that I scratched them and of course the result was blood and matter. The eruptions festered, broke, opened and dried up, leaving the skin dry and scaly. I spent many sleepless nights, my back, arms and face burning and itching; sleep was purely and simply out of the question. The trouble also caused disfigurement. My clothing irritated the breaking out."

"By this time I had used several well-known remedies without success. The trouble continued. Then I began to use the sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Within seven or eight days I noticed gratifying results. I purchased a full-sized cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment and in about eighteen or twenty days my cure was complete." (Signed) Miss Katherine McCallister, Apr. 12, 1912.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 82-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston." Adv.

Backache Is a Warning

Thousands suffer kidney ills unawares—not knowing that the backache, headaches, dizziness, and all these conditions are often due to kidney weakness alone.

Anybody who suffers constantly from backaches should suspect the kidneys. Some irregularity of the secretions may give just the needed proof.

Doan's Kidney Pills have been curing backache and sick kidneys for over fifty years.

A Minnesota Case. Mrs. Anna Rossard, 71 Synamore St., St. Paul, Minn., says: "I suffered terribly and incessantly with backache and kidney trouble. I was so helpless with the pain in my back I couldn't turn in bed. I grew thin and had terrible dizzy spells. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me and today I am in perfect health."

Mrs. Fairchild's Distinction. Mrs. George W. Fairchild is among the best gowned women in the congressional set in Washington.

One of her dinner gowns is a model on which the ceremonial robes of the summer will be built. It is a trapezoid robe of heavy cream satin, with panels of blue chiffon extending back, front and on the sides from the low-cut bodice and ending at the hem in tassels of crystal and cut steel beads.

The diamond necklace which Mrs. Fairchild wears with many of her ceremonial gowns follows the prevailing style in resembling a delicate pattern of lace. It is about three inches in width and fits as snugly as a glove.

TAPS

The muffled drum's sad roll has beat
The soldier's last tattoo;
No more on Life's parade shall meet
The brave and fallen few.

On Fame's eternal camping-ground
Their silent tents are spread,
And Glory guards, with solemn round,
The bivouac of the dead.

Lincoln's Gettysburg Address

FOURSCORE and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.

NATION'S TRIBUTE

Decoration Day in the United States Sprang From Spontaneous Desire to Do Honor to the Heroes Who Had Fallen.

It is not difficult to understand just what that means. Here was a determined war that had sent to their graves brave men from every part of the country. That meant that in every large town and in many a village there were men who went to the front who never returned; many who did return, only to soon be borne to their graves at home.

Heritage of Glory

MEMORIAL DAY is an annual baptism of patriotism that makes the heart throb with pity for the tragic sacrifice of precious lives in the awful strife of 50 years ago.

Young girls are very fond of all-night parties, and among a set who are from fifteen to seventeen years of age these kimono slumber gatherings have been quite a fad.

Social Forms and Entertainment

Fun With Buttons. "But we don't know how to play cards," wailed the fourteen-year-old, "and we do want a progressive party with prizes and score cards."

There were sixteen guests, so four card tables were arranged with a pile of assorted buttons in the middle of each. Cloth-covered buttons and shank ones were barred. Partners were chosen by matching four buttons of a kind which were passed on trays.

Very cute score cards may be made by gluing bone buttons such as are used on underwaists to the card, they have only eyes and the nose, mouth, hair and eyelashes are painted on.

Japanese Tag. Observing a bunch of children going through all sorts of comical stunts, I asked what the game might be and was told it was Japanese tag.

CONSIDER ONLY DUTY

LABRADOR PHYSICIANS NEVER FLING FROM DANGER.

Answering Call at Night Seems Hardship to Doctors in Civilized Countries, but Read These Experiences in the North.

An urgent call in Labrador means not only inconvenience and hardship to the doctor and his sledge drivers, but actual danger. Nevertheless, no one ever flinches from his duty.

It was pitchy black when we started. A raw air came moaning from the east; it chilled us through our sealings and made our cheeks and noses ache. When I tried to warm my stiffening toes by an occasional trot alongside the sledge I kept stumbling over jagged points of ice until one of the men shouted: "Sit still, or we shall be losing you!"

"After that I sat still and hoped for morning. For two solid hours the agony went on, and then a faint glimmer of gray began to show in the east: it changed to a dull red, sullen and lurid in the morning haze, and we began to see the wide stretch of white ice beside us, and a black and awful sea ahead of us. The ice in the bay had broken with the storm!

"There is no road," the men said; "the ice is all broken there round the headland. Let us turn homeward." "I know a track over the headland," said Johannes. "Let me see if we can do it."

"I think that of all my memories of Labrador, the most vivid is the memory of that race along the fringe of ice at the foot of the cliffs. On the left the wall of rock rose steep; on the right the black water churned and tumbled and ground the floating ice-pans together; beneath us the thick sea ice rocked and heaved, and here and there the water came swirling through.

"Sit tight, sit tight!" said the drivers, and there we sat, bowling along over the heavy ice. Sometimes one of the men pushed out a leg to guide the sledge around a bend, or to check its speed. At the place where the guide led us to the headland the ice was broken away from the rock, and was rising and falling with the swell. One moment it came groaning up to the level of the land; the next it sank away again. The dogs went scrambling over, glad to get on to something firm; but the drivers held the sledge back until the ice began to rise, and then with a yell they started the dogs again, and bumped across the crack just as it came up level. A second too soon or too late would have meant smashing the front of the sledge to splinters.

Finally, in the dark of night, we got to Hebron—71 miles over sea ice and snow-covered hills.—Among the Eskimos of Labrador.

"Suffered."

The eleven-year-old daughter of a member of a woman's franchise association, produced the following essay: "I have been asked by a lady friend to write what I know about Women Suffered. It is a very difficult thing to be asked to write about, as I hardly know anything at all of it.

Material for Matches.

The body contains nearly two pounds of phosphorus—enough really, if extracted, to make about 5,000 packages of friction matches. This phosphorus is claimed by scientists to be essential to our health and vigor. Our bones are much stronger and break less easily for its existence, and our minds are much keener and able to work more rapidly and cleverly than they could without it. Besides phosphorus our body holds a number of ounces of sodium and nearly three fourths of an ounce of potassium—quite enough of the latter to conduct a good many classes in experimental chemistry at a good-sized university. We are also carrying about with us quite a few grains of magnesium. If we turned it all into use we could make a splendid "silver rain" for our family on the fourth of July evening, or we could create a brilliant light so strong that it could be seen and admired for a considerable distance.

Unsympathetic.

A man lost his life in a great flood. He was dead, but in the spirit world he lived over and over again the appalling scenes and incidents through which he had just passed. It seemed to him that he must talk it over with some one.

"Don't you know who I am?" asked the other.

"Why, no, I don't," was the answer. "I've just arrived."

"Well," said the other, "I am Noah."

JUDGE CURED, HEART TROUBLE.

I took about 6 boxes of Dodds Kidney Pills for Heart Trouble from which I had suffered for 5 years. I had dizzy spells, my eyes puffed, my breath was short and I had chills and back-ache. I took the pills about a year ago and have had no return of the palpitations. Am now 63 years old, able to do lots of manual labor, am well and hearty and weigh about 200 pounds. I feel very grateful that I found Dodds Kidney Pills and you may publish this letter if you wish. I am serving my third term as Probate Judge of Gray Co. Yours truly, PHILIP MILLER, Cimarron, Kan.

"Sudden Willy."

A late professor was wont to relate a rather characteristic story of the boyhood of the present German emperor. The professor was conversing with Empress Frederick concerning her son, when her majesty remarked deprecatingly respecting her eldest born: "Mein Willy ist so plotzlich." ("My Willy is so sudden.")

Commercial Notation.

It gives an impressive idea of the immensity of the international trade carried on in vessels to read that 55,000,000 tons of coal are consumed in a year in the furnaces of ships employed in international commerce. And there are certain modern freighters which transport a ton of cargo a mile by burning half an ounce of fuel, which means moving ten barrels of flour a mile with a piece of coal the size of a hickory nut.

Time Is Sometimes Kind.

Father Time is not always a hard parent, and, though he carries for none of his children, often lays his hand lightly upon those who have used him well, making them old men and women inexorably enough, but leaving their hearts and spirits young and in full vigor. With such people the gray head is but the impression of the old fellow's hand in giving them his blessing, and every wrinkle but a notch in the quiet calendar of a well-spent life.—From Barnaby Rudge.

Women Are Constantly Being Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"Worth mountains of gold," says one woman. Another says, "I would not give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for all the other medicines for women in the world." Still another writes, "I should like to have the merits of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound thrown on the sky with a searchlight so that all suffering women could read and be convinced that there is a remedy for their ills."

We could fill a newspaper ten times the size of this with such quotations taken from the letters we have received from grateful women whose health has been restored and suffering banished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Why has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound accomplished such a universal success? Why has it lived and thrived and kept on doing its glorious work among the sick women of the world for more than 30 years?

Simply and surely because of its sterling worth. The reason no other medicine has ever approached its success is plainly and simply because there is no other medicine so good for women's ills. Here are two letters that just came to the writer's desk—only two of thousands, but both tell a comforting story to every suffering woman who will read them—and be guided by them.

FROM MRS. D. H. BROWN.

Iola, Kansas.—"During the Change of Life I was sick for two years. Before I took your medicine I could not bear the weight of my clothes and was bloated very badly. I doctored with three doctors but they did me no good. They said nature must have its way. My sister advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I purchased a bottle. Before it was gone the bloating left me and I was not so sore. I continued taking it until I had taken 12 bottles. Now I am stronger than I have been for years and can do all my work, even the washing. Your medicine is worth its weight in gold. I cannot praise it enough. If more women would take your medicine there would be more healthy women. You may use this letter for the good of others."—Mrs. D. H. BROWN, 808 North Walnut Street, Iola, Kan.

MRS. WILLIAMS SAYS:

Elkhart, Ind.—"I suffered for 14 years from organic inflammation, feeble weakness, pain and irregularity. The pains in my sides were increased by walking or standing on my feet and I had such awful bearing down feelings, was depressed in spirits and became thin and pale with dull, heavy eyes. I had six doctors from whom I received only temporary relief. I decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial and also the Sanitary Wash. I have now used the remedies for four months and cannot express my thanks for what they have done for me.—Mrs. SADIE WILSON, 455 James Street, Elkhart, Indiana.

“When I invest in a wagon I buy a Studebaker, then it's a safe investment”

Of course it is! Studebaker wagons are built on honor, with sixty years of wagon-building experience—and with every wagon goes a Studebaker guarantee.

You can't afford to have a dealer sell you some other wagon represented to be “just as good.” If you want a wagon that will last, run easily and stand up to its work, there is only one wagon to buy—and that's a Studebaker.

Don't trade ten extra years of service for a few dollars difference in price. Studebaker wagons are made to fit every requirement of business or pleasure, in city, town or country.
