Pure Refreshing Ginger Ale

No, all ginger ale is not pure, as many of the so-called ginger ales do not contain even the smallest amount of ginger. Vernor's Ginger Ale is the real thing.

It is made of genuine ginger root, sugar, and pure spring water.

You'll notice the difference when you try it.

It's a healthful drink, and is most refreshing and stimulating-just the drink for you when fagged out with the heat.

Always on ice at 5c per bottle.

Took Involuntary Bath.

It is reported that Henry Luick and H. D. Witherell took an involuntary bath in Cavanaugh Lake Monday. The two gentlemen had concluded to go out on the lake to watch the "cork bob," and as the water is low at the landing point that their boat was to start from their craft failed to sail readily. J. G. Adrion was on the shore and observing the difficulty of the hardy fishermen, suggested that the boat be shoved out into deeper water and he would carry them to it. This was done, but the confidence that the two fishermen had placed in their man seems to have been misplaced. Mr. Adrion with a man under each of his arms started for the boat and when almost to it he let go of them, and both men went "ker-plunk" into the lake. The next few moments was devoted to wringing the water out of their clothing. John George says if "Hank" had not poked him in the ribs the accident would not have happened.

Question Authority of P. M. Gen. Concerted opposition has developed as possible. The amount of insurance Burleson's order reducing parcel post received by Mr. Skidmore will hardly rates and increasing the maximum size of packages to be handled in the service. The order was issued Sunday, to become effective August 15, and today the senate postoffice committee requested Mr. Burleson to appear before the committee next Thursday with an explanation of the authority for his action. This was the first step in what promises to be a bitter contest. When the postmaster general has been heard, the committee is expected to undertake to have withdrawn before August 15 any authority he may claim congress had given him to change rates and sizes. It was contended in the committee that the proposed changes would entail an enormous loss to the government, and some of the members complained strenuously that the postoffice department had failed to furnish congress with data concerning the operation of the parcel post.

Apparently there was no difference of opinion in the committee as to whether the postmaster general should change the rates, democrats and republicans agreeing that only congress out to have this power.

The changes ordered by the postmaster-general would affect only the first or second zones, or territory within a radius of 150 miles of the killed in an automobile accident near point of mailing. NEGRO CONVICTS PERISH IN CAGE ON MISSISSIPPI PRISON

GUARDS FAIL IN FRANTIC EFFORTS TO RELEASE THEM

Victims Caught in Second Floor of Structure After Only Stairway is Eaten Away by the Flames

Thirty-five Negro convicts were burned to death when fire destroyed a convicts' cage on the Mississippi prison farm at Oakley, Miss., 20 miles from Jackson.

The prisoners were caught helpless in the cage, and, unable to save themselves, perished.

Frantic efforts made by guards to save the convicts proved unavailing. The prisoners were trapped on the second floor of the cage, which is an antiquated structure.

While the flames rapidly ate away the only stairway leading to the second floor, the prisoners frantically tore at the heavy bars that covered the jail windows, but to no avail. Their screams brought guards and other prison attaches, but the flames. drove back members of the rescue party each time they attempted to liberate the Negroes, who one by one fell back into the flames and perished.

Kalamazoo Judge Is Dead.

Death came to Judge Frank E. Knappen, of Kalamazoo, a week after he had given up work on account of illness. His physician says that keeping up his labors too long hastened his death.

Judge Knappen was appointed judge of that circuit in 1909 by Governor Warner, to succeed Judge John W. Adams, when the latter resigned. He was re-elected in 1910 by the largest majority ever given a judicial candidate in the county. Before becoming judge he was prosecuting attorney for eight years, the longest any man ever held that office in Kalamazoo.

Although it is the second largest county in the state in population, Kent county is far down the list in the number of licensed cars per population. The last census gave Kent county 159,-145, inhabitants and during the first six months of this year 2,633 licenses were granted to Kent county owners. This is at the rate of one for every gress has been made. 60 inhabitants. Branch county has one machine for every 45 inhabitants Secretary Martindale's compilation. Houghton county has one machine for every 370 inhabitants and Marquette son county has one machine for every 66 people.

Up to July 1 Secretary of State Martindale had issued 47,198 automobile licenses which is 13,199 more than for cent of the original reward, this monthe same period in 1912. The num- ey to be used for additional road conber of motor cycle licenses issued up to July 1, was 4,775 or 2,029 in excess of last year. During the first six months of the year 3,900 chauffeur's licenses were issued, which exceeds the number issued during the same period last year by 765.

The number of automobile licenses issued in the 22 principal motor car counties of the state up to July 1, are as follows: Wayne 10,941, Saginaw 1,070, Houghton 238, St. Clair 513, Genesee 865, Oakland 817, Lenawee 920, Muskegon 389, Jackson 808, among the various school quarricts Branch 571, Ionia 514, Kent 2,633, Bay this month. 683, Ingham 1,295, Calhoun 953, Kalamazoo 878, Washtenaw 942, Newaygo 113, Allegan 435, Tuscola 479, Hillsdale 482, Marquette 188.

"We are particularly desirous that the managers of regular theaters, opera houses and academies of music should understand that they come under the Vaudette law, regulating the operation of moving picture shows, if they have any bookings, or contemplate making any bookings, by which they present to the public any entertainment involving the use of moving picture machines, using celluloid films, either as a whole program or any part of it," said Insurance Commissioner John T. Winship.

"This is true even if the theater, opera house or academy does not furnish the booth in which the picture machine is operated, or does not own one, and the pictures are shown from a portable booth that has already passed inspection and is licensed. The provisions of this law which regulates the arrangement of seats, aisles, and exists will operate to cause the building to be inspected for license. In other words, theaters and opera houses not engaged in the regular business of showing moving pictures, must hold a license before they can permit a traveling exhibition, showing moving pictures of any kind, even as a part of a travelogue, notwithstanding the fact that the exhibitor may have a license for the portable booth that complies with the law, does not obviate the necessity of causing the building to measure up to requirements. Managers themselves. making bookings should bear this in mind. The fire marshal bureau is making every effort to get a complete list of every theater, vaudette or show house, in which pictures are shown. If managers will of their own accord. meet the requirements before an inspector appears, they will save the necessity of a subsequent inspection out the instruction. Copies of the law have been sent out to all known managers of vaudettes or theaters but they can also be obtained by addressing the fire marshal's bureau.

As the result of the establishment of the big farm at Jackson prison, Edward Frensdorf of Hudson, one of the members of the board of control believes that in the course of a few years the big penal institution at Jackson will be almost self-sustaining and he points out that the influence on the prisoners is of inestimable

At the present time, according to Frensdorf, there are about 90 men, all of whom are "trusties" employed on the farm of 1.140 acres. This is approximately nine per cent of the total population of the prison. Frensdorf says that nearly every "trusy" in the prison would like to secure a place on the farm crew, but it is impossible to utilize all the would be agriculturalists on 1,140 acres of land.

> State Librarian Mrs. Mary G. Spencer is particularly pleased with the success of the library summer training schools now in operation at Marquette, Big Rapids, Kalamazoo and Bay View. Mrs. Spencer says that the display of pictures and books at Bay View is one of the best ever sent out by the state library and has attracted a great deal of attention.

> The prime object of these library summer schools is to instruct rural school teachers how to catalogue their books and gives them an excellent elimentary training in library work Mrs. Spencer says these courses are not intended for the professional training of librarians, but make the teachers more efficient through an intelligent use of books. A model library of 500 books for children is available in each city where the work is being carried on and these books are being used in the practice work of the students. .

TERRIBLE CATASTROPHE CLOTHING FACTORY IN BINGHAMTON.

FIRST ALARM IS NOT RESPOND ED TO PROMPTLY.

Terrible Toll of Lives Results When Employes Find Themselves Cut Off From Stairways and Be-Come Panic Stricken.

Fifty-two persons, most of them women and girls, and all employed in the frame tender-box factory of the Binghamton, (N. Y.) Clothing Co. died in a fire which swept that build ing. Fifty more persons are injured a dozen of them mortally.

While many girls lost thier lives because they did not heed the alarm of fire, it seems certain that the narrow stairway and inadequate fire escapes would not have furnished sufficient arteries of egress in such a fire had the 125 employes responded promptly to the call.

When the fire alarm throughout the factory sounded the girls on the third and fourth floors, one hundred in number, turned leisurely in their seats and at the signal to rise stopped to adjust their clothing and proceeded slowly towards the stairs.

On a landing stood a man clapping his hands, saying "Move faster, girls!" This man is believed to be Sidney Dimmock, a foreman in the factory. who is missing and who sacrificed his life in an attempt to save the scores of employes. The girls passed down to the third floor to find the stairway filled with smoke and flames; they turned and ran back to the fourth floor, in their panic trampling down and crushing each other.

At the rear of the building was a fire escape. Twenty-five girls crowded to this and clung to the iron rods screaming for help paralyzed with fear and unable to descend or even drop to the ground. At the south side of the building was another fire escape. Soon this was crowded with a struggling mass of humanity shricking for aid. The first fire company to arrive was attracted to the scene as it was passing down an adjacent street to the first alarm by seeing girls jumpng from the upper windows.

Many of the employes were of Slavonic and Italian origin and highly excitable. The flames fed by bits of cotton, shreds of cloths and the usual debris of an overall factory swept through the four stories with a cyclonc velocity and whipped out of the windows in huge sheets, licking up the fire escapes, shrivelling the clingng human forms like withered leaves, sending them tumbling to the earth. Vain efforts were made to drag the dying and dead from beneath the rain

When the firemen got to work it was feared the entire business section of the city would go. Help was sent from Lestershire and the Erie fire companies between Chicago and New York, which are holding an interstate tournament in Binghamton, donned their fighting clothes and rendered essential aid.

Rioting at the Vatican After 24 hours of wild rioting on the part of the pope's Swiss guards. during which the men were shorn of their military powers at the vatican, order was restored.

The demands of the soldiers which caused the mutiny will not be granted. The soldiers had asked concessions raising the embargo against them visiting wine shops and other stores along the Tiber, the right to choose their own commander, the increase of the guards quota, and a demand that no punishment be meted out to them for their mutinous conduct.

Great alarm was felt among the vatican officials for fear that the soldiers would force their way into the pope's presence. It is stated, unofficially, that severe penalties will be meted out to the guard.

Silk Mill Partly Wrecked

The explosion of a bomb partly wrecked the Helvetia silk mills at Paterson, N. J., the resultant excitement bringing hundreds of workers who have recently been on strike, from their beds to the streets.

Great damage was done to the machinery and other fittings of the factory, many windows were broken and one wall crushed in.

The Helvetia mills constitute one of the largest plants among the several affected by the past four months' strike of the Paterson silk workers. Several thousand of the strikers have reecutly been returning to their work without having won their demands.

TAKING THEIR OWN MEDICINE

Like Many Other Schemes for Revenge, This One Recolled on Heads of Angry Hunters.

Frank Chance, captain-manager of the New York American baseball team, has a hobby for hunting when he is not otherwise engaged in shaping the destinies of his baseball squad. He spends his winters in California. When Chance makes a bunting trip he is accompanied by his guests and a Chinese cook. The guests like a little dram now and then, and the cook's specialty is pastry.

These facts established, let it be narrated that the last time they went hunting the boys took a large jug of good whisky with them. They had been out three days before anyone thought to take a swig of the nectar. And then-lo and behold! - two-thirds of the red ambrosia had disappeared. Investigation proved that none of the boys had been beating the others to it, so suspicion fell upon the Chinese cook. Not one of the bunch was a regular whisky drinker, so there seemed to be nothing else to it but that the Chinese had been visiting the jug himself.

Chance decided definitely that this was the status of the case, so he gathered a lot of green persimmons, boiled them up into a puckering juice, and filled the jug with them. It was such a concoction as no mouth could stand without an emphatic protest.

"That will fix him," said Chance, and he awaited developments. Next day an inspection of the jug showed that a considerable portion had disappeared. Chance immediately called in the Chinese cook. With a smile that was childlike and bland, Ah Sin protested his innocence. Ho liked tea, but he wouldn't drink boozs -not he!

"Well, where did that stuff in the jug go to?" asked Chance.

"Oh, me use him, alle right," admitted the Celestial. "Every day me makem mince pies."

Time to Change the Subject.

They were telling hard-luck stories. A sad-looking, middle-aged man, who had listened to the others while each tried in his turn to prove that he was the unluckiest human being extant, finally said:

"You fellows have had some bad! luck. I admit, but I claim that I'm actually the unluckiest man in the world. When I was a young fellow I lived in a city that had a population of about 250,000. There was in that town a certain girl who was destined to become a regular shrew-a vixen with a hatchet face, a sharp tongue, and a temper that would make it impossible for a saint to live with her. Out of all the thousands of young fellows who might have married her, which one do you suppose did: When the silence had begun to be oppressive, one of the other victims of hard luck said:

"I propose that we tender our sympathy to the gentleman and return now to the question whether Honus Wagner or Tyrus Cobb is the greatest ball player who ever lived."

Reason for Reconciliation.

The newly married young woman rushed into her father's presence and threw herself on her knees before

"Oh, papa!" she sobbed. "I have come to you for forgiveness and blessing! It was wrong and undutiful of me, but I loved Richard so that I just had to elope with him. But I couldn't be happy till I had been reconciled with: you, so here I am at your feet."

"Well, well," growled the old man, much affected in spite of himself, "I suppose I'll have to. But you are alone-where is-er Richard?"

"He's just outside, papa dear, with the cabman. And now that you have pay the horrid brute so that he'll go away. You see, we only had enough ister."

Counterfeit Dog. "Does you 'member dat dawg I used to have." asked Erastus Pinkley. "Yes," replied Uncle Rasberry. "You means dat mixed dog?"

"He was kind o' mixed; he was what calls a black-an'-tan-dale terrier. Well, suh, dat dwag ain' brought me nuffin' but bad luck. I sold 'im to a man foh two dollars, an' de two dollahs he slipped me were counterfeit." -

"Whut you gineter do?" "Wut kin I de? If I shows 'im any way to prove the transaction wus unlegal, he's ginter make me take the dwag back.

Matter of Color.

"Funny things happened in my town last week," said the chatty man in the

"What was that?" asked the interested individual.

"Black, a white man, and White, a black man, thought a fellow named Brown was pretty green and tried to sell him a white horse. But Brown was well read and he deceived them they had." "And now?"

"And now Black and White are

MERRY SPINSTER NOT SENSITIVE AS TO HER AVOIRDUPOIS.

Thereby Her Friends Have Been Regaled With Two Really Funny Stories Connected With Physi-Cal Help She Received.

Most stout women are sensitive about their weight. A certain large and merry spinster, to whom an accident resulting in a permanently weakened ankle has for some years forbidden her to take the exercise that used to keep her comparatively slender, is a fortunate exception. Her weight is well over 200 pounds, but she neither worries nor repines, and often entertains her friends with jokes at her own expense. It is very difficult for her to get on and off a his tears. "That's all right, ma'am," a roughlooking man, who had jumped down and almost lifted her aboard, recently replied to her thanks. "Me and Bill have to carry ma upstairs every night, and ma's heftier'n you be."

"Bat Bill wasn't here to help, and I'm very, very hefty," she answered,

"Oh, well, I've tackled ma alone, sometimes," he admitted, "though I ain't saying that half-way up the stairs one-half my brains wasn't inventing passenger derrick, and the other half wondering if she'd smother me, falling on top. Boosting you was nothing to that, ma'am; and there's only one step to a car."

She chuckles most delightedly, however, when she relates that, last summer, after having traveled all night, she reached, very early in the morning, a small country town, whence she was to take the stage for a 20mile drive to a friend's mountain cottage. The station was deserted, and she was glad to accept the help of a small boy, who, with great difficulty, got her, with all her bags and bundles, into the empty stage, to which the horses had not yet been attached.

"I don't know what I should have done," she told the freckled little fellow, gratefully, "if I hadn't happened to find such an obliging cavalier, waiting to help me when most everybody is still abed."

"Yes'm," he assented, with a wide, ingenuous smile. "I was down to see 'em unload the circus, and they let me help with the elephants and the baby hippopotamus. That's how it happened I could help you, ma'am."-Youth's Companion.

Sometimes "Place Makes Right." Sir Johnston Forbes Robertson, the famous London actor, who was knighted by the king the other day, has pressmen of the capital of the empire. One relates to John Davidson, the Scottish poet, whose death took place under tragic circumstances two or three years ago. The knight was producing a play by the poet, and the latter was attending a rehearsal. "Presently a well-known actor came on the scene waving his arms like a windmill," says Sir Johnston. "Davidson edged up quietly to me and said: "I suppose that will be a verra wellknown actor?"

'Yes,' I agreed. "'And I presume he will be in receipt of a verra considerable 'honorarium?

"I confessed he was right.

"Then why does he wave his arms about in that extraordinary manner?' inquired Davidson, in his broad Scotch accent, adding, humorously: 'If he did that in Piccadilly he would render himself liable to be arrested!"

light. At the end of a srouth Joe had enough ready cash to provide for his limited living needs. Then he started in on what he called his "grand idea!" He spent several evenings going over the plans for the new house. He measured and calculated. With the aid of a builder's book he had picked up, Joe was able to figure out just what kind and how much of lumber, brick, stone and the like was needed. He even got so far as to actually estimate the number of nails in the anticipated construction!

Every week he wrote to Walter in the city. Three times a week he drove around to see Mercy. She had no time to visit him, for she had to slave hard to please her narrow-minded, complaining sister. Joe was so cheery and courageous that he brightened up her spirits considerably, despite the fact that her lover did not write the most hopeful letters in the world.

With the end of the year Walter Rose wrote that he had not done as well in the city as he had anticipated. He was homesick, however, and was coming back to Riverdale, to be among friends, even if he had to work a little harder and wait a little longer for that new house.

Walter was puzzled at the gaiety and suppressed excitement of little Joe as the latter met him at the depot with old Dobbin and the wagon. The animal looked well kept, the vehicle was freshly painted. Walter sighed as they came in sight of the old house. It was a discouraging home-coming.

"I had hoped when I came back here," he told his companion, "that I would surely have earned and saved enough to provide a neat home nest for Mercy and the old folks. Instead of that I have less than $300, a mere beginning. Why, what's that?"

Well might Walter stare! The old place looked like a lumber yard. Piled up symetrically were old boards, laths, shingles, rubble stone and dimension stone sufficient to lay a pretentious foundation, and heap after heap of bricks.

"It's the result of my grand idea!" cried Joe proudly. "You know they are doing a lot of tearing down and rebuilding in the new factory town of Blairsville, eight miles away. What you see yonder is waste stuff thrown away-nails that they let drop to the ground, stone, brick and lumber that the wrecking crews bury or burn up. I've picked up over two hundred loads that they were glad to give me to get hands. TRUTH ABOUT PATRIARCHS

Scientific Analysis Has Reduced the Number of Their Years on Earth to a Reasonable Point.

How old was Methuselah? Nine hundred and sixty-one years is the age which, from our earliest youth, we have been accustomed to assign the patriarch. Scientific research abroad, however, has reduced these imposing figures to 78% years!

The experts point out that there has always existed a certain amount of doubt, even among orthodox bedown by an automobile and crip- lievers, in the literal truth of the Bible concerning the great age to which the ess little fellow was kept in the patriarchs attained. Many theories have been evolved to reduce the biblical records of this kind to something near the allotted span of man.

It has been surmised that, in the earliest times, the monther-the period of a moon cycle-was called a Mercy spoke to Walter about year. Thus, Adam's 930 years of life, friendless outcast. > Ground for this rearrangement is alleged to be given in the psalmist's limit of life of three-score and ten years. Furthermore, it is maintained that, between the times of Noah and of David, no such extraordinary change could have taken place as to reduce the life of man by eleventwelfths. On the five-month-year basis Abraham's 175 years shrink to 72 and Isaac's 180 to 74. It may be, it is also pointed out, that there intervened a six-month year, discovered by Jacob while watching Laban's flocks. Thus Jacob's 147 years work out at about 73. The 12month year began with the Egyptians, who saw that a complete period was made up of the two "years," in one of which the days were longer than the nights, and in the other of which the nights were longer than the days. It is a curious fact that the Christians and the Jewish years will not forever be separated, for, in due course of time, Rosh Hashona will fall at Christmas time and then catch up the Christian year. This, however, will not occur for 30,000 years.

Eaton Rapids.—Two members of the state pardon board have been investigating the appeal for a pardon for Charles Smith, who was sent to Jackson penitentiary for life eight years ago for the murder of Martin Kime. The shooting took place at Smith's home as the result of a quarrel which arose over Kime's alleged attentions to Mrs. Smith. Since Smith has been in the penitentiary his wife, his father and his mother have died. Smith has taken advantage of the educational facilities at the prison, studying until he has become well educated. He was born on a farm near this city and bore a good reputation before his trouble with Kime.

Negligence Called Manslaughter. The case of Stehr vs. State before the Supreme Court of Nebraska, involved the sentence of a father for from one to ten years in the penitentiary for criminal negligence, because during a blizzard in Nebraska, when the weather was bitter cold, he permitted the fire to go out, snow drifted through a crack in the door and a broken windowpane, and the bedding of all the members of the family was frozen stiff. The feet of one of the children were frozen, and although such fact was apparent to the father no physician was called in for 16 days, when amputation was found to be necnight, and he yowls and yowls and essary and the child died of blood polsyowls. JACKSON-Charles Longstreet, a local grocer, thinks he has been uncalled at his store and found therein a quantity of lard compound unstamped. Mr. Longstreet asserts that he did not know a stamp was needed. and asked the inspector if he might continue to sell until the stamps arrived, and says he was given this permission. A day or so later the inspector returned, and when he found the compound still unstamped, had Mr. Longstreet arrested, and the latter is aggrieved thereat.

GRASS LAKE-Wm. Coppernoll, who swallowed his false teeth, found the accident to be a very serious, matter. He went to Jackson and the physicians there found they could do nothing for him and declared the teeth had passed into the stomach. He was advised, however, to go to Ann Arbor, which he did Saturday. The physicians there found the teeth lodged in the tube which leads to the stomach about an inch below the Adam's apple and after working on him for an hour they fished them out. Mr. Coppernoll is doing well and expects to be all right in a few days .-

JACKSON-Mrs. Ella G. Platt, who was arrested at Valparaiso, Ind., for bigamy committed here, pleaded guilty in circuit court Friday mornng, and was sentenced to the Detroit house of correction for ninety days.
