Spirnagle-Burg Wedding.

A very pretty wedding took place at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday morning, September 16, 1913, at the Church of Our Lady of the Sacred Heart, when Miss Mary Anna, oldest daughter of Conrad Spirnagle, and Mr. J. Vincent Burg, of Detroit, oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Burg of this place, were united in marriage. Rev. Father Considine celebrating the mass. The couple were attended by Miss Adeline Spirnagle, sister of the bride, and Mr. Louis A. Burg, brother of the groom. The ushers were Messrs. William G. Kolb and J. I. Rademacher. The choir rendered a program of choice music and altars in the church were handsomely decorated for the event.

A dainty four course wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride's father to about forty guests. The dining room was decorated with festoons of pink and white and pink and white asters. A massive bridal cake occupied the center of the table, adding materially to the decorative features of the occasion.

The bride was given a number of social functions the past two weeks at which she was the guest of honor. Both the bride and groom have been residents of this place nearly all of their lives and they were the recipients of many handsome pieces of silverware, cut glass and other gifts as a remembrance of the event.

The couple are spending a short time camping at Blind Lake and upon their return will make their home for the present with the bride's father.

The guests from out-of-town were: Jacob Zang, Mrs. Chas. Limpert and daughter Edna, and Mrs. Wm. Exinger and daughter Gertrude, of Ann Arbor; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Eitene and children and Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Loyns and son Joseph, of Jackson; Mrs. Jas. Smith and daughter Pauline, of Elkhart, Indiana.

Another Bigamy Case.

Edward L. Anderson, 27 years old, an engineer who claims Milan as his home, recently obtained a license from the clerk of Monroe county to marry Mosella Lieb, a 19-year-old teacher in the Dundee schools. Justice of the Peace Matthews, of Monroe, performed the ceremony. A few days ago the suspicions of Anderson's father-in-law were aroused and he unearthed Mrs. Anderson No. 1, formerly Ova Waters, together with four children, in Gibson county, Indiana. The first Mrs. Anderson was brought to Monroe and a warrant for Anderson's arrest followed. His name was found to be Elijah and not Edward. The man was arrested at Dundee. When wife No. 1 visited him in jail, he was asked whether she was his wife. "I suppose she is," answered Anderson. Wife No. 1 is the guest of wife No. 2.

Anderson is in jail in default of $1,500 bail. He will be tried at the October term of the circuit court in Monroe at which Judge Chester, of Hillsdale, will preside. Anderson has admitted his guilt. He plans to throw himself on the mercy of the court and promises to support his children when he obtains his release.

Had a Narrow Escape.

William Ryan of this place, who is employed on the night force of the Hoover Steel Ball Co., of Ann Arbor, had a narrow escape from a serious accident last Friday evening. About 5:40 o'clock he was engaged in emptying about twenty gallons of waste oil and gasoline in a pit that is kept for the purpose of burning the waste from the factory.

Before Mr. Ryan threw the contents of the pail, he looked to see if there was a fire in the pit and as he could not see any signs of a flame he emptied one of pails into the pit and a flash of fire followed immediately. In stepping back from the pit he upset the other pail and his clothing almost instantly caught on fire.

Several of his fellow workmen were near him and soon had the burning clothing smothered. Mr. Ryan's right leg was badly burned above the ankle and his right hand was slightly burned. Fortunately he had just put on a clean pair of overalls or else his burns would have been more serious.

North Sylvan Grange.

The next meeting of the North Sylvan Grange will be held with Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Foster on Wednesday evening, September 25. The program will be as follows:

Opening song No. 62.
Roll call, answered by member present, some fruit, grain or vegetable, giving name and yield.
Recitation, Mrs. N. W. Laird.
General discussion, preparing for winter eggs. 1st, preparing the hen-house. 2d, selecting the layers. 3d, feeding for eggs.
Closing song No. 114.

Kolb-Steele Marriage.

The marriage of Miss Mary Katherine, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kolb, and Mr. George Andrew Steele, took place at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday morning, September 17, 1913, in the Church of Our Lady of the Sacred Heart, Rev. Father Considine celebrating the mass. The couple were attended by Miss Frances Steele, sister of the groom and Mr. William Kolb, brother of the bride. Messrs. J. I. Rademacher and Ed. Nordman acted as ushers.

The ceremony was witnessed by a large number of friends and relatives of the contracting parties. Following the church services a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents to the immediate relatives of the young couple, and the home was decorated for the occasion with flowers and paper festoons.

The bride was the guest of honor at a number of social functions that have been given during the last two weeks, the last one being last Thursday evening as a surprise at the home of her parents. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Steele and both the bride and groom are well and favorably known here. They received many handsome presents.

The couple left for a short trip and will make their home in Detroit after November 1st.

School Notes.

A box social will be held by the athletic association, Wednesday, October 1, for the purpose of raising funds to install a lot and cold water shower bath.

John Dunn of Ann Arbor has entered the high school. John is a member of the senior class. His return gives promise of a very successful season in football.

The first game of football will be played at Ahnemann park, Monday, September 22, at 4:30 p. m. between the Chelsea high school team and the high school team from Ypsilanti. Admission 15 and 25 cents.

The mother's meeting held in the primary room, Tuesday afternoon, was well attended. Supt. Hendry spoke upon the work of this department after which the meeting was given over to an informal discussion. It seemed to be the general belief that the children were being sent to school too young.

Two cases of birds were presented to the public school by Mrs. O. C. Burkhart and Mrs. G. W. Palmer. Supt. Hendry on behalf of the school wishes to thank the ladies for these beautiful birds. In the fall and spring, the pupils make a special study of our little winged friends and these cases will be of great help.

Princess Theatre.

The Saturday night program at the Princess promises to be unusually attractive and will be headed by a special two reel feature "The Still Voice." Is a powerful Vitaphone drama in two reels, introducing Sidney Drew, the famous actor, to the motion picture public. Unheeding the still, small voice of his conscience, the vengeance an unfortunate man plans for others is visited upon himself. The cast includes, besides Mr. Drew, Edith Story, Tefft Johnson and Sidney Drew, jr.

In addition to this picture there will be a good comedy picture and especially selected song by Miss Burg.

On next Tuesday evening Manager McLaren announces that he will show one of the latest two reel foreign features at the Princess. The title of this sensational drama is "The Broken Vow" and it was made in Italy by the celebrated Cines company. It abounds in sensational scenes and is a typical foreign drama.

Two Strong Points.

Two strong points of the amendment to the nuisance law made by the legislature last winter are that the property owner alone is responsible to the health department for the abatement of a nuisance, and that if the property owner refuses to pay the expense incurred in abating a nuisance, the same shall be charged against the property. In event that the nuisance is caused by a tenant or person other than the property owner for the expense incurred in the abatement of the nuisance.

"BIG TIM" FOUND DEAD IN MORGUE

CONGRESSMAN SULLIVAN, NEW YORK, KILLED BY TRAIN.

TAMMANY'S GREATEST POLITICIAN GONE.

Picturesque Figure Rose From Newsboy to Great Power—Mind Gone He Escapes From Nurses and Loses Life.

New York—"Big Tim" Sullivan, the New York politician who rose from newsboy to congressman, is dead.

His mangled body was identified by his step-brother, Larry Mulligan, after it had lain for 13 days in a local morgue.

Sullivan, who was ill, eluded his nurses August 31, and a few hours after was struck and killed by a train at Pelham parkway.

"Dry Dollar," "The Big Feller," "Big Tim" was a shrunken figure physically, financially and politically compared with what he was a few years ago. When he was in robust health he was a fine-looking, upstanding man of some 210 pounds weight. Illness robbed his form and reduced it to its youthful slenderness. He weighed scarce 140 pounds at the time of his death. He was only 50, and never touched liquor or tobacco, but an attack of diabetes and an ever-growing burden of worry and care dragged him down.

Big Tim, the idol of the Bowery, has been one of the most picturesque figures in American politics. He loomed large in the dusky background of the city's life, the strongest politician in Tammany Hall. His word was law to many thousands. He had the largest personal following any man in New York politics ever could command. No man ever has been more generous to the legion of the hopeless, the army of the down and out. Twice or thrice a year he fed 8,000 or 10,000 homeless men, and once or twice a year he supplied shoes to equal number of waste men of the Bowery. He made millions of dollars, and no one accused him of being stingy or mean.

Congressman Sullivan's mind weakened in the spring of 1912. He had suffered from diabetes, but a year and a half ago symptoms of paresis developed. Last January he became the victim of hallucinations. He was extremely melancholy. His friends took him abroad hoping that rest and quiet in England would restore him. Sullivan yearned for New York and finally, July 16 last, he was brought back only a shadow of himself.

He had few close relations. Larry Mulligan, a half brother, and Patrick H. Sullivan, a brother, Mrs. Eugene Hickey, a half sister, and two nephews and two nieces, the children of Mrs. Michael C. Summers, who died several years ago survive him.

Appointments By the Governor.

Lansing, Mich.—Acting on the recommendation of Judge Clement Smith of the fifth judicial circuit, Governor Ferris has appointed Chas. H. Bauer, of Hastings probation officer for Barry county, and James H. Brown, of Charlotte, probation officer for Eaton county.

Judge Peter F. Dodds, of the twenty-fifth circuit recommended the following appointments, which the governor confirmed: Wilbert E. Preston, Mt. Pleasant, chief probation officer for the circuit; William Murphy, Harrison, assistant probation officer for Clare county; James Lamy, Midland, assistant probation officer for Midland county.

Tallest Man Is Insane.

Houghton, Mich.—Louis Mollanen, believed to be the tallest man in the world, living on a farm with his parents north of Houghton, became violently insane and had to be taken to the insane ward of the county jail. His condition is caused by illness.

Mollanen is a Finn. He is seven feet, eight inches tall. For several seasons he traveled with a circus, but found the "freak" business unpleasant. Though perfectly proportioned Mollanen always has been weak physically.

Only Woman Lightkeeper Resigns.

Petoskey, Mich.—Mrs. Daniel Williams, for 29 years keeper of the Harbor Point light on Little Traverse Bay, said to be the only woman lightkeeper on Lake Michigan, has resigned. For 15 years prior to assuming charge of the Harbor Point light she served in a similar capacity on Beaver Island. She is author of a book, "Out of the Sea," which deals with her life among the Mormons under the reign of King Strang on Beaver Island. She and her husband will reside at Charlevoix after November 1.

At the annual reunion of the Soldiers' and Sailors' association of Macomb, Sanilac and St. Clair counties, held at Lexington, Oliver Yates, of Lexington, was elected president, and W. Lee, of Port Huron, vice-president.

The engine exploding in a $3,500 motor boat belonging to John Spicer of Alpena, knocked him senseless and caused a fire which burned the boat to the water's edge. Spicer recovered consciousness just in time to leap from the larger boat to a yawl, saving himself from the flames.

SIMPLE FUNERAL FOR GAYNOR

WIDOW OF MAYOR SAYS HE WOULD NOT WISH MILITARY DISPLAY NOR OSTENTATION

New York—The funeral of William J. Gaynor on Monday, September 22, will be without military display. The mayor would have wished it so, Mrs. Gaynor said at a conference in the Gaynor home.

With Mayor Kline and other officials she approved the plans for the obsequies that had been arranged. Ostentation was not to the mayor's liking. He was a lover of simplicity and during the public tribute to the dead executive of the city that will be begun on the arrival of the Lusitania the only escort of his coffin will be mounted police.

Carrying out the idea of simplicity at the funeral it has been decided that the officers of many orchestras to render the music at Old Trinity shall be declined and that the musical part of the service be carried out only by the Trinity choir and organ. Mrs. Gaynor has chosen only one number, the Bach-Gounod "Ave Maria," of which the mayor was very fond.

San Antonio, Tex.—Mexican ammunition smugglers, captured after a battle with United States cavalrymen near Alamo crossing at the Rio Grande river, were led by an American, Barney Cline, an automobile driver of El Paso, as he described himself to military authorities.

Cline and the other prisoners were taken to Carrizo Springs, near where Deputy Sheriff Ortiz was killed Thursday in the first engagement with the band.

Further details of the battle given by the returning soldiers, placed the number of Mexican dead at two, with three seriously wounded and 14 captured.

Report of State Sanatorium.

Howell, Mich.—The annual report for the State Sanatorium for Tuberculosis, located at Howell, has been made by Dr. Eugene B. Pierce, the superintendent. It shows that during last year the average number of patients has been 78, and average weekly cost for each patient was $11.27. The patients stay so long that it is difficult to estimate the total number during the year, but the records show that 144 were admitted who came from 43 counties. Forty-seven per cent of the patients were discharged as cured. Wayne county furnished the largest number from any county last year, 25 persons being admitted. Treatment cost the 43 counties $21,194.

McAneny Named for Mayor.

New York—George McAneny, president of the borough of Manhattan, was designated by the Gaynor campaign managers as their candidate for mayor, to take the place made vacant by the death of Mayor Gaynor, whom the whole city mourns. McAneny at present is on the Fusion ticket for the presidency of the board of aldermen. He is a Roosevelt.

Manual training classes of the public schools, of Grand Rapids, will be opened for the students of the parochial schools of this city if plans of Supt. Gleason are carried out.

Acting under instructions from the board of police and fire commissioners, every patrolman in Grand Rapids must learn how to operate an automobile. The order is the result of the experience of Patrolman Edward Janenga, who was taken on a wild ride by auto thieves two weeks ago, in which he was nearly killed, and which could have been avoided had he known how to operate the car.

At the annual meeting of the Calhoun County Rural Route Letter Carriers' association, B. E. Williams, of Tekonsha was elected president; Al best Adams of Eckford, vice-president, and C. B. Newland, of Marshall secretary-treasurer.

Robert Kane, an employee of the Lake Shore railroad, was crushed to death when he was caught under many pounds of steel in a gond car. Kane got aboard at Lenawee Junction, and when the train started the load of steel shifted and crushed him against the side of the car.

LETTER FROM THE STATE CAPITOL

ATTORNEY GENERAL PASSES ON A NUMBER OF QUESTIONS.

FLAW IS FOUND IN MOTHERS' PENSION BILL.

Excerpts From Address of Secretary of State On Desirability of Building and Loan Associations in Every Town.

[By Gurd M. Hayes.]

Lansing, Mich.—Attorney General Fellows holds that the bill passed at the last session of the legislature providing that oleomargarine may be used as a substitute for butter in the various penal institutions, does not apply to the Industrial School for Boys at Lansing and the Industrial School for Girls at Adrian. Fellows says that these two schools are regarded more as educational institutions and he does not think that the legislature intended that oleomargarine should be used as a butter substitute in these places.

In an opinion rendered to Warden Simpson of Jackson prison, Attorney General Fellows says that the semi-monthly pay bill placed on the statute books does not apply to state departments or state institutions. However, it has been the practice in the state departments to pay the employees every two weeks.

It is Fellows' contention that the governor cannot appoint probation officers or their assistants in the various judicial circuits, except on the recommendation of the court and Executive Clerk Austin was notified of this in an opinion today.

Solicitors who go from house to house taking orders for a foreign corporation, cannot be compelled to take out a hawkers' and peddlers' license under a village or city charter, says Fellows. Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Brown of Ingham county, inquired whether a solicitor who was simply an order taker and neither received money or delivered the goods could be forced to take out a local license.

That there is a flaw in the mothers' pension law, so-called, which was passed at the last session, developed as the result of a ruling by Attorney General Fellows. Where a mother ceases to be the legal guardian of a child there is no way that the child can be benefited under the act as the money must be paid directly to the mother.

This decision from the state's legal department arises as the result of a case in Cass county. Probate Judge S. S. Eby referred to a case where the mother of a dependent child had been committed to an insane asylum. The child was placed in the care of the grandmother and funds were needed for the child's education. Fellows informed Judge Eby that he had no legal right to enter an order fixing the amount to be paid to the grandmother for the support of the child.

Although the baseball season for this year is practically closed, Fellows received a request from Sheriff William F. Shell, of Gladwin county, for information as to whether it is possible to stop Sunday games.

"In the case of Yerkes vs. Smith, which was an action brought to compel the police commissioner of Detroit, to take action to prevent a game of the supreme court held that the mere assembling of persons to play and witness any Sunday game is not sufficient without overt acts of violence or disorder, to authorize an officer to make a summary arrest," said Fellows.

"Under this decision of the supreme court it follows that a crowd exceeding thirty persons assembled on Sunday to witness a ball game or for any other similar purposes, if riotous or tumultuous within the meaning of the act, may be ordered by you as sheriff of the county to disperse. A refusal to obey your orders renders such persons so assembled liable to arrest and prosecution. In other words, persons present at and participating in such game may not under the general laws of the state be summarily arrested and prosecuted unless the conduct of the assemblage is such as to warrant an officer to command its dispersal and then arrests may be made only upon refusal to comply with such order. Of course, as stated in the opinion of the court in the case of Yerkes vs. Smith, any person participating in such a game is liable to the penalty of $10 to be enforced in a civil action brought for that purpose."

"Building and loan associations properly conducted are ideal institutions of mutual co-operation," said Secretary of State Frederick C. Martindale in an address at the annual meeting of the Michigan Building and Loan Associations' League. The supervision of these associations is placed in charge of the state department and Secretary Martindale has had abundant opportunity to observe their workings during the years that he has been in office.

"They have ceased to be an experiment and are now recognized as an economic factor and play an important part in the progress and welfare of the state and nation," continued Martindale. "By their plan of operation they have encouraged thrift and economy and have developed a system matic saving to the extent not accomplished by any other financial institution.

"Michigan associations have, during the past decade, more than doubled their assets and, at the present time are in a prosperous and flourishing condition. This growing popularity is due to various reasons; state supervision, conservative and skillful management and high business integrity of the men directly in charge. The most important factor to my mind has been the reduction of interest to the borrower and the elimination of complex fees and premiums. Without new borrowers, an association must necessarily decline and an association that intends to advance and be of benefit must treat the borrower, the source of its income and the cause for its existence, well. A simple mortgage and a low and uniform rate of interest provides the best security. Under a high rate the association becomes the last resort of the borrower.

"There is probably no city or town in the state of any consequence in which a properly conducted association could not be organized and operated to the mutual advantage of all concerned and also be of inestimable value to the community. I believe it would be a benefit to this league if an educational campaign should be started to popularize the building and loan movement in these localities, in view of future legislation and protection. As the times change so must methods, consequently new laws and regulations.

"During the past few years many changes have come up for discussion and consequently among those have been the 'borrowing of money.' Borrowing where it is cheap and loaning where it is dear does not fall within the object contemplated by building and loan associations. It should at best be only a temporary arrangement and should not be carried in large amounts from year to year, as it is sometimes done in some associations. It does not as a rule increase the dividends to members, but only increases the risk. In most cases the only investment is derived from real estate promoters or contractors and I question the advisability of making too many loans to contractors, who in turn sell on contract. This is more or less speculative and in case of a slump, unless the builder be a man of means, is apt to saddle the association with burdensome real estate.

"The law provides that at least one per cent of the net earnings should be set aside annually and some are very loath to do this. In my estimation one per cent is not enough. It should at least be five per cent until it reaches the required five per cent of outstanding loans. This is provided in the laws governing building and loan associations in many of the other states. In Ohio especially, where building and loan associations thrive in great numbers, thousands of small houses were destroyed by fire and flood, but thanks to the reserve fund, not a dollar was lost to the depositors. The argument advanced—'we never had any losses'—is not a safeguard against the elements."

Secretary of State Martindale says that the assets of the various building and loan associations in Michigan at the close of the fiscal year amounted to $24,008,662.40, and increase of $1,978,223.08 over the previous year. Loans on mortgage security and on association stock increased $2,159,339.32 or 11.4 per cent.

The amount to the credit of members on stock and dividends is $22,198,594.04 while the reserve fund has been increased to $338,947.68 which is 1.6 per cent of the loans in force. The total receipts for the year were $15,015,488.99. Approximately $4,493,000 by way of installments withdrawn and $647.00 in profits were distributed to the shareholders. Through the co-operations of the members of the local associations 1195 new homes were built last year with an estimated value of $1,500,000. New earnings were $1,210,030.06 which was 6.1 per cent of the dues and dividends credited. The operating expense was one per cent of the assets. The accident board affirmed the decision of the arbitration committee in the case of Hills vs. The Pere Marquette. A fine legal point is involved in this case and it will probably reach the supreme court. Erwin Hills, an employee of the Pere Marquette was killed on the company's property at Williamson several months ago. He was on his way home for lunch and taking a short cut down the tracks was hit by a switch engine and killed. Owing to the fact that Hills had not left the company's property the accident board awarded the widow $4.95 per week for a period of 300 weeks. It is expected that the railroad will carry the case to the supreme court.

Weld T. Burdick, one of the inspectors of the state fire marshal's department says that women have been the chief offenders in the arson cases that have been investigated by the department recently. "Several cases are being investigated at the present time in which women are suspected of having started fires in order to secure insurance on their property and warrants will be issued in some of the cases within a few days," said Burdick. Recently the department has spent considerable time investigating alleged arson cases and in several cities sufficient evidence has been secured to bring about convictions, it is claimed.

COMMISSIONER SCULLY IS DEAD

A HEAVY COLD RESULTING IN PNEUMONIA CAUSES DEATH OF STATE OFFICIAL.

WAS PROMINENT IN POLITICS OF MICHIGAN.

Declined Democratic Nomination for Governor in 1912 and Gave Support to Ferris Who Honored Him With Appointment.

Ionia, Mich.—James Scully, state railroad commissioner, died at his home here at 5:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon. His death was the direct result of a heavy cold which he contracted while at work in Saginaw the latter part of August. Pneumonia developed and he took to his bed on September 1. For several days his life was prolonged by the use of oxygen. He was 51 years old.

Mr. Scully was one of the best known democrats in Michigan. He refused an offer of the nomination for governor on the democrat ticket in 1912, supporting Gov. Ferris. He was appointed railroad commissioner by the latter January 1 for a six-year term. Many of his friends already were booing him for the democrat nomination for governor in 1916.

He first attracted state-wide attention in 1907, when as a member of the legislature he waged a battle for progressive legislation and carried on a brilliant fight against the men in control of the lower branch of the legislature.

Mr. Scully was born in Oscoda township, near Howell, January 13, 1862. He was educated in the Howell schools and the Fenton Normal, and taught in the Oscoda county schools until he came to Ionia and entered the law office of A. A. Ellis. He was admitted to the Ionia bar and in 1890 formed the law partnership with John B. Chadcock, now of Detroit. In 1894 Mr. Chadcock withdrew and the firm was Davis & Scully until last September, when E. M. Davis moved to Grand Rapids and F. O. Eldred became a member of the firm. Mr. Scully was an Elk and Knight of Columbus.

Village of Hooper Burned.

Kalamazoo, Mich.—Only one house and a saw mill remain standing in Hooper, a little settlement 20 miles north of this city in Allegan county, flames having destroyed the general store, the depot, a crate factory, the freight house and nine homes.

The fire started, it is said, from sparks from a freight engine and set fire to dry grass. Driven by a strong wind that was blowing, it rapidly crept to a small shed, then leaped to a small lumber yard owned by the railroad. Railway laborers, women and farmers fought the fire by hand, but could not stop its progress and by midnight only a smoldering mass marked the place where the little place had once stood. The loss will probably reach $12,000.

Webster Appointed Bank Receiver.

Pontiac, Mich.—Elmer R. Webster was appointed receiver of the E. Jossman state bank at Clarkston by Judge George W. Smith in the circuit court here. The receiver was directed to file a bond for $25,000 within five days. Mr. Webster's appointment was unanimously indorsed Saturday afternoon at a meeting of creditors and depositors of the bank, held at Clarkston. E. R. Webster is one of the oldest and best known members of the Oakland county bar association, having been admitted to the practice of law in 1889.

Will Try to End Copper Strike.

Calumet, Mich.—The Copper Country Commercial club, with a membership of 500 business and professional men of the copper mines strike district, decided at a meeting Monday to offer mediation to the strikers and operators in an effort to settle the strike, which is seriously threatening business interests. A committee of three was appointed to investigate the contentions of both factions, providing its offer is accepted. The club's proposition is understood to have the backing of Gov. Ferris.

Dr. Hattie G. Schwendener, one of the best known women physicians in southeastern Michigan, and prominently identified with social welfare work, was struck by an interurban car near St. Joseph and fatally injured.

CORONER BLAMES ROAD'S EMPLOYEES

RESULT OF PRIVATE INQUEST IS ANNOUNCED AT NEW HAVEN.

WRECK OF SEPT. 2ND CAUSED BY DISOBEYING RULES.

Railroad Company Is Neither Blamed Nor Absolved—Signals Were Found to Be Working Perfectly.

New Haven, Conn.—Three employees of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, are held by Coroner EM Mix to be criminally responsible for the disastrous wreck at New Haven, on September 2, when the White Mountain express plunged through the second section of the standing Bar Harbor express, exacting a toll of 21 lives. The coroner's findings was filed after he had conducted a "private" inquest.

Those held to be responsible are Augustus B. Miller, engineer of the White Mountain express, the Bruce C. Adams, and Charles H. Murray, conductor and flagman, respectively of the Bar Harbor train.

The coroner neither blames nor absolves the New Haven road. He finds the signals were in perfect working order "and whether the banjo signals are obsolete or not," the accident would have been prevented if the company's rules had not been violated. He declares the number of violations of rules by employees "makes a sorry record."

SYNOPSIS.

Cowboys of the Flying Heart ranch are heartbroken over the loss of their much-prized photograph by the defeat of their champion in a foot-race with the cook of the Centipede ranch. A house party at the Flying Heart. J. Wallingford, Speed, cheer leader at Yale, and Culver Covington, inter-collegiate champion runner, are expected. Helen Blake, Speed's sweetheart, becomes interested in the lost photograph. She suggests to Jean Speed, sister of the owner of the ranch, that she induce Covington to help her find it. The cowboys are hilarious over the prospect. Speed and his valet, Larry Glass, trainer at Yale, arrive. Helen Blake asks Speed, who has posed to her as an athlete, to race against the Centipede man. The cowboys join in the appeal to Wally, and fearing that Helen will find him out, he consents. He insists, however, that he shall be entered as an unknown, figuring that Covington will arrive in time to take his place. Fresno, glue club singer from Stanford university and in love with Helen, tries to discredit Speed with the ladies and the cowboys. Speed and Glass put in the time they are supposed to be training playing cards in a secluded spot. The cowboys explain to Speed how much the race means to them. Speed assures them he will do his best. The cowboys tell Glass it is up to him to see that Speed wins the race. While the gunman, de la Cruz, the trainer will go back east packed in ice, if Speed fails, a telegram comes from Covington saying he is in jail at Omaha for ten days. Glass in a panic forces Speed to begin training in earnest.

"We are ready!" called Jean gayly. "What in the world—" Helen paused at sight of the swathed figure. "Are you cold, Mr. Speed?" "Climb on your horses and get a start," panted the burly trainer; "he's going to race you ten miles." "I'm going to do nothing of the sort. I'm going to—" But Glass jerked him violently, crying: "And no talkin' to gals, neither. You're trainin'. Now, get a move!" Speed halted stubbornly. "Hit her up, Wally! Gwan, now—faster! No loafing, Bo, or I'll wallop you!" Nor did he cease until they both paused from exhaustion. Even then he would not allow his charge to do more than regain his breath before urging him onward. "See here," Wally stormed at last, "what's the use? I can't—" "What's the use? That's the use!" Glass pointed to the north, where a lone horseman was watching them from a knoll. "D'you know who that is?"

The rider was small and stoop-shouldered. "Willie!" "That's who." "He's following us!" With knees trembling beneath him Speed jogged feebly on down the road, Glass puffing at his heels. When, after covering five miles, they finally returned to the Flying Heart, it was with difficulty that they could drag one foot after another. Wally Speed was drenched with perspiration, and Glass resembled nothing so much as a steaming pudding; rivulets of sweat ran down his neck, his face was purple, his lips swollen. "You'll have to run alone—this afternoon," panted the tormentor. "This afternoon? Haven't I run enough for one day?" the victim pleaded. "Glass, old man, I—I'm all in, I tell you; I'm ready to die."

"Got to—try off some more—leaf-lard," declared the trainer with vulgarly. He lumbered into the cook-house, radiating heat waves, puffing like a traction-engine, while his companion staggered to the gymnasium, and sank into a chair. A moment later he appeared with two bottles of beer, one glued to his lips. Both were evidently ice cold, judging from the fog that covered them. Speed rose with a cry. "Gee! That looks good!" But the other, thrusting him aside without removing the neck of the bottle from his lips, gurgled: "No booze, Wally! You're trainin'!" "But I'm thirsty!" shouted the athlete, laying hands upon the full bottle, and trying to wrench it free.

"Have a little sense. If you're thirsty hit the sink." Glass still maintained his hold, mumbling indistinctly: "Water's the worst thing in the world. Wait! I'll get you some." He stepped into the bunk-room, to return an instant later with a cup half full. "Rinse out your mouth, and don't swallow it all." "All! There isn't that much. Ugh! It's lukewarm. I want a bucket of ice-water—ice-water!" "Nothing doing! I won't stand to have your epictetus chilled."

"My what?" "Never mind now. Off with them clothes, and get under that shower. I guess it'll feel pretty good to-day." Speed obeyed instructions sullenly, while his trainer, reclining in the cosy-corner, uncorked the second bottle. From behind the blanket curtains where the barrel stood, the former demanded: "What did you mean by saying I'd have to run again this afternoon?" "Starts!" said Glass, shortly. "Starts!" "Fast work. We been loafing so far, you got to get some ginger."

"Hate! What's the use?" "Hurry up, it's daylight!" "Where?" "Come, now, you got to run five miles before breakfast!" Speed sat up with a groan. "If I run five miles," he said, "I won't want any breakfast," and he laid himself down again gratefully—he was very sore—whereas his companion fairly dragged him out of bed. As yet the room was black, although the windows were grayed by the first faint streaks of dawn. From the adjoining room came a chorus of distress: snores of every size, volume, and degree of intensity, from the last hawking gasp of strangulation to the bold trumpeting of a bull moose. There were, rumbling sighs, groans of torture, lunging blasts. Speed shuddered. "They sound like a troop of trained sea-lions," he said. "Don't wake 'em up. Here!" Glass yawned widely, and tossed a bundle of sweaters at his companion. "Ugh! These clothes are all wet and cold, and—it feels like blood!" "Nothin' but the mornin' dew."

"It's perspiration." "Well, a little sweat won't hurt you." "Nasty word." Speed yawned in turn. "Perspiration! I can't wear wet clothes," and would have crept back into his bed. This time Glass deposited him upon a stool beside the table, and then lighted a candle, by the sickly glare of which he selected a pair of running-shoes. "Why didn't you leave me alone?" grumbled the younger man. "The only pleasure I get is in sleep—I forget things then."

"Yes," retorted the former, sarcastically, "and you also seem to forget that these are our last days among the living. Saturday the big thing comes off."

"Forget! I dreamed about it!" The boy sighed heavily. It was the hour in which hope reaches its lowest ebb and vitality is weakest. He was very cold and very miserable. "You ain't got no edge on me," the other acknowledged, mournfully. "I'm too young to die, and that's a bet."

Suddenly the pandemonium in the bunk-house was pierced by the brazen jangle of an alarm-clock, whereat a sleepy voice cried: "Cloudy, kill that clock!" "The Indian uttered some indistinguishable epithet, and the next instant there came a crash as the offending timepiece was hurled violently against the wall. In silence Glass shoved his unsteady victim ahead of him out into the dawn. In the east the sun was rising amid a riotous splendor. At any other time, under any other circumstances, Speed could not have restrained his admiration for the whole world was a glorious sparkling panoply of color. But to the stiff and wearied Eastern lad it was all cruelly mocking. When he halted listlessly to view its beauties he was goaded forward, ever forward, faster and faster, until finally, amid protests and sighs and complaining joints, he broke into a heavy, flat-footed jog-trot that jolted the artistic sense entirely out of him.

CHAPTER XII.

IT WAS usually a procedure not alone of difficulty but of diplomacy as well, to rout out the ranch-hands of the Flying Heart without engendering hostile relations that might bear fruit during the day. This morning Still Bill Stover had more than his customary share of trouble, for they seemed pessimistic. Carara, for instance, breathed a Spanish oath as he combed his hair, and when the foreman inquired the reason, replied: "I don't sleep good. I been tink mebbe I lose my saddle on this foot-race."

Cloudy, whose toilet was much less intricate, grunted from the shadows: "I thought I heard that photograph all night."

"It was the Natif Son singin' to his gal," explained one of the hands. "He's gettin' on my nerves, too. If he wasn't a friend of the boss, I'd sure take a surenigle and abate him considerable."

"Vat you t'ank? I dream' Mr. Speed is run away an' broke his leg," volunteered Murphy, the Swede, whose name New Mexico had shortened from Bjorth Kjelliser.

"Run away?" "Ya-as! I dream' he's out for little ron ven piece of noosepaper blow up in his face an' mak' him ron away, just same as horse. He snort an' yump, an' ron till he step in prairie-dog hole and broke his leg."

No Sun Here. In the valley of the Lyn, near Lynmouth, North Devon, there is a quaint little hamlet called Middleham, where for three months in the year the sun is not seen.

The cluster of houses forming the hamlet is surrounded on all sides by hills so steep and high that from November until February the sun does not rise high enough to be seen over their tops. The first appearance of the sun is eagerly looked for, and it is first seen on February 14, the inhabitants call it their valentine.

If the day should be foggy or cloudy so that it cannot be seen, there is great disappointment, especially among the children. For the first few days after the fourteenth the sun is only seen for a very short time, but as the sun rises higher in the heavens the time it is in sight increases daily until its height is reached, when it gradually begins to fade from view again until in November it entirely vanishes from sight for another three months.

The ONLOOKER

HENRY HOWLAND

The TOILERS

We work when the dawn is gray, And we toil when the sun has set, And few are the spoils that we take away.

And small is the praise we get; And often our backs are bent And often we wall at things And daily babble with discontent At the gains which our toiling brings.

We grumble at those who drive, We wearily pause to sigh; With little enough to keep hope alive, We labor until we die.

We potter and patch and fret, We hammer and plow and grind, And, coveting more than the pay we get, Are stunted of heart and mind.

We work when the thunder rolls, And we toil when the day is bright, And wearily sigh that we give our souls For the pitiful bodman's right: Our duties are sadly met, And we grumble about our pay, Forgetting that we would be worse off yet If our tasks were taken away.

Beyond the Reach of Help. "Try to cheer up Mrs. Widdierly," said the lady who had gone in to sympathize with the stricken woman.

"Oh, I can't I can't," sobbed the bereaved one. "It is kind of you to come to me—but but you can't help me. You don't know what I have to bear."

"I know, dear, that I can't realize the depth of your sorrow. Still, won't you let me do what I can to make it easier for you?"

"It's no use—it's no use. Oh, if I could only quit thinking of it. But I can't. There is the receipt. I told him to wait a few days. The premium wasn't due for nearly two weeks, and if he'd only have listened to me and held off three days longer I'd be nearly $800 ahead. I suppose I oughtn't to blame him now that he's gone, but he always was so headstrong."

The Rich Man's Envy. A rich man looked upon a poor man, And there was envy in his breast; The lucky rich man wore fine raiment, And the poor man's fingers blazed with jewels.

Ten thousand men his will obeyed; The poor man's hands were big and knotted And marked with bruises toll had made.

The rich man, as he stood there gazing, Forgot the power the poor man had, For he could shave with either hand.

A GRAND PART. "I should think," said the lady who had never acted, "that you would hate to play the part of such a wicked, disreputable person."

"Oh," replied the new star, "you have no idea what opportunities the character affords for splendid costumes."

He Married Her. He used to want to crawl At her feet, He used to kiss her hand, Which was sweet; He was gallant then, but that was five years or so ago; Now he doesn't lift his hat, All he does is grunt "Hello, When they meet In the street."

Meanest of Them All. "Senator, who was the meanest man you ever knew?" "He was an editor out in my state. During one of my campaigns he botched the opposition ticket and came out for me and then charged me 20 cents a line for publishing a card of thanks. I wrote him about it."

Not for Her. "Gracious! I don't want to go there." "Why not? I hear it's an excellent place."

"But look at their advertisement. Instead of saying 'cuisine unsurpassed' they merely say they set a good table."

As It Frequently Happens. "Yes, he married to get revenge on a girl who had jilted him." "Did he get it?" "No, she did."

NOT WORKING FOR ART'S SAKE

Violinist Certainly Had No Mistaken Idea as to His Ear for the Melody.

The Blue Forest orchestra had just finished an ear-piercing melody on the front lawn of "Berry Inn."

One of the guests approached the violinist and somberly inquired: "Did you play by note?"

"Never a note do I play, sir," replied Mr. Hennessey, mopping his fevered brow with a handkerchief of sanguinary hue. "Ah, by ear, then?" said the summer boarder, with a smile of gracious interest.

"Never an ear helps me," responded the other, returning his handkerchief to his capacious pocket.

"Indeed! May I ask how you—what you do play by, then?" persisted the inquirer.

"By main strin'th, be gorry!" said Mr. Hennessey, with a weary air, as he plunged his ancient instrument into its green bag; "an' it's mighty dry wurk an' that's no mistake."

Rational Love.

"The rational love than the romantic view of marriage is the one most in favor with the young people of the twentieth century," said Dr. H. Lucas Wentworth, the well known eugenics expert, in an address in Cleveland.

"The rational view will make for happier marriages. And this rational view is beautifully illustrated in two questions—a little dialogue—running thus: "Will you always love me?" "Will you always be lovable?"

Very Warm.

A party of commercial travelers were drawing the long-bow and spinning yarns of wonderful adventures on sea and land. A silent listener sat in the corner. Presently one of the company addressed him.

"Have you traveled much, sir?"

"A little. I've been round the world seven times."

"Then you must have had some striking experiences. Perhaps you would like to tell us one or two."

"Well," said the stranger, "perhaps the most remarkable was on my last voyage. At one time we found the heat so terrific that we used to take it in turns to go down into the stokehold to get a cooler."

No more yarns were related that evening.

Perfectly Safe.

"Better lap up that spilt milk," said the first cat. "If the missus sees the mess you'll catch fits."

"Not me," said the second feline. "The woman I live with blames everything on her husband."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Everything Relative.

Madge—This summer seems to be much cooler than last. Marjorie—You must remember, dear, that you're not wearing so many clothes.—Judge.

At Last.

"I have just taken a parting look at Mrs. Gadders, who died yesterday." "Did she look natural?" "No, her chin was still."

Some girls fall in love, and some others are pushed in by anxious mothers.

A Suggestion for Digestion

Many persons suffer more or less from headache, dizziness, biliousness, and symptoms common to indigestion. There are various causes, such as over-starchy or greasy foods, improper mastication, or bad cooking.

Grape-Nuts

Solves the digestion problem.

This food, made from prime whole wheat and barley, is perfectly baked until the starch cells are either converted into easily digested grape sugar, or thoroughly broken down for quick digestion—generally in about one hour.

There is no animal fat in Grape-Nuts.

The crisp granules of Grape-Nuts come to your table ready-to-eat direct from package, invite thorough mastication and have a peculiarly sweet, nut-like flavor.

Grape-Nuts, containing all the rich elements of wheat and barley, including the vital mineral salts, is a perfectly balanced food for building muscle, bone, brain and nerve.

Grape-Nuts is probably the longest baked, the best balanced, and the most easily digested of all cereal foods. Won't derfully appetizing with cream and sugar.

"There's a Reason" for Grape-Nuts

ADDISON—Harley Dewey, who is a clerk in J. O. Power's store is very suspicious of bunches of bananas just now, in fact, he is seriously considering handling them with tongs hereafter. While picking from a bunch last Thursday a big tarantula jumped from the bunch onto his hand, and it didn't take him long to shake it off onto the counter. Mr. Powers and he captured the ugly-looking big spider and have had it on exhibition in a glass case since. When spread out it will measure about five inches, it has a large collection of eggs attached to its body which it seems intent on hatching.—Courier.

Known to be the best product of the farm, the idea is meeting with much favor and the babies will undoubtedly be taken up.—Exponent.

JACKSON—Unable to earn enough money to supply their girl friends the pleasure they demanded is said to have caused Gibbs White, 17, of Parma, and Clayton Berry, of Jackson, to burglarize several store here. They were arrested here Sunday and are said to have admitted the thefts. White was shot in the right arm while attempting to escape from Patrolman Phelps.

YPSILANTI—While Rev. O. Lloyd Morris and family of the Congregational church were eating breakfast with their Methodist minister guests Saturday morning they heard a cracking sound like a bonfire and discovered the back part of their house was ablaze, the flames pouring out of the roof. The firemen saved the front part of the house after a hard fight. The cause of the fire is unknown.

GRASS LAKE—Burglars attempted to enter Mrs. Anna Goodband's house on Portage street last Monday night. They endeavored to open a rear door but finding they had roused Mrs. Goodband, went away. The lure is probably the thousand dollars the lady received from a beneficiary society on her late husband's life but the money is in the bank where it was properly deposited as soon as possible.—News.

JACKSON—Frank Jewel, who a year ago escaped from an officer as he was being unloaded from the patrol wagon at the county jail to serve a ten days' sentence for being drunk, was taken into custody Monday afternoon by Patrolman McInerney and is held on a charge of resisting an officer. Jewel at the time of his escape fled up the alley and as the officer had several other prisoners in charge he could not give chase, with the result Jewel made good in his flight.

Laws Enacted.

Out of forty-one state legislatures in session during the session of 1913, laws dealing with tuberculosis were enacted in thirty states, while in thirty-four states consideration was given to bills dealing with the prevention of this disease. This is a summary of the legislative campaign for 1913, issued by The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis today.

Appropriations to the amount of over $5,000,000 have been set aside for the treatment and prevention of tuberculosis by the various state legislatures in session this year. Most of this money is for the maintenance of state sanatoria. There are at the present time 39 such institutions in 31 different states, Connecticut, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania, each having more than one sanatorium. Delaware is the only state which has made provision for a state sanatorium for tuberculous negroes. In addition to the amounts appropriated by the various state governments, Congress will be obliged to set aside nearly $1,000,000 for the maintenance of the United States Public Health, the Army and the Navy sanatoria, and the tuberculosis hospital of the District of Columbia.

Good Old Days

The "Good old day" you hear so much about, were no doubt good because people then didn't know any better.

But how would you like to go back to the days of the stage coach, the tallow dip, the flintlock and the spinning wheel? It wouldn't do now. Neither would you care to use coon skins for money. A check book is much handier. In no way is the change greater from the good old days than in financial affairs. You will find every modern convenience in this line at our bank.

NEWS and GOSSIP of WASHINGTON

Combine the Qualities of Professions in Alaska

WASHINGTON.—School teachers in Alaska must have a thorough knowledge of medicine as well as pedagogy. The Alaska school service is the only system of education in the United States or any of its possessions which is under the direct control of the federal bureau of education. In the northwest territory there are large areas in which the services of regular physicians are not obtainable. It often becomes the duty of the public school teachers not only to render first aid to the injured or sick native, but to care for him throughout the entire course of a severe illness without the aid of a physician.

For the assistance of men working in Uncle Sam's Alaska school service Dr. Emil Krulish of the United States public health service and Dr. Daniel S. Neumann of the United States bureau of education have together written a medical handbook which has just been published and sent to every school teacher working for the government in Alaska. The authors have taken particular pains to describe the symptoms and outline the methods of treatment of the common diseases of the natives in simple, plain language. In a word of instructions to the teachers who will receive the book the authors say:

A little learning is a dangerous thing, and this is especially true in medicine. Teachers are warned to be careful in prescribing. It is often difficult to make a diagnosis of the disease which the patient is suffering. To lessen this difficulty symptoms of all of the common diseases are thoroughly described so that the teacher may have assistance in determining any case. Remember, this handbook is not intended to replace the services of a physician and all cases should be referred to one whenever possible.

Agents of the government have found that outside of performing their educational duties Alaska school teachers are called on most frequently to assist the natives in solving their health problems. The new medical handbook instructs the school teachers on every phase of medical practice through which it might be possible for the agents of the bureau of education to help the natives.

Smithsonian Institution Has a Large Plaster Cast

THE Smithsonian Institution presents to visitors within its grim brown walls and quiet halls an attractive Zoological Park exhibit. Many spectators, hat in hand, gather to study the pictures of wild life in the zoo which are displayed here. In the central aisle of the main hall to the right on entering is a large topographic plaster cast, the legend on which reads: "Modeled under the direction of Mr. S. P. Langley, secretary of the Smithsonian Institution." It is a number of years old, but always a thing of freshness and interest to the streams of strangers that pass the portals of the building.

On the topographic model Rock creek is represented by a strip of mirror, and the curving winding line is as bright and shimmering as the waters of the creek in their happiest mood. The hills and vales and lawns and the shady groves and woodland stretches are all shown. In a big glass case on the right hand of the entrance there hangs a fine map of the Zoological Park, indicating many of the familiar things in that popular, educational resort.

City Hall Girls Rise in Honor of a Visiting Rat

In a dark corner of the dim corridor leading through the floor of the city hall to the room where papers and documents are kept typewritten and compared by the young ladies of that department, stands a seductively baited trap. And thereby hangs a tale a rat tale.

A few days ago, when the ladies were all terribly busy, a great, big, audacious old rat scuttled across the room, disappearing behind some shelves. The ladies honored his appearance by courteously rising. It is said that they kept right on rising till they had risen as high as the tops of the tables and chairs in the room. Be that as it may, the rat didn't tarry to receive the homage intended for him, but he got around that way a day or so later, and that was the limit. There just had to be a trap, and without another day's delay, at that.

The negro keeper of the files was summoned and told of the impending trouble, and a trap was installed the next day and temptingly baited. But it seems that he is a wise old rodent, for nary a nibble has he taken at the bait. And in the meantime the girls are declaring they are not the least bit afraid of an old rat.

Miss Elizabeth Wilson, in charge of the department, says rats are nothing to be scared of, and that she can't see why the others are scared. Miss Mary Greer says she knows well enough that rats are not dangerous, but she just doesn't care to have them around. Miss Lydia Gardner says she can't understand what's the matter with the city hall cat.

Iron Watchdog Is Not Yet Extinct in Washington

THE iron watchdog is not extinct in Washington. He may not be so numerous as he used to be. Time was when it was not unusual for the owner of a city home to have a pair of iron dogs before his house, one on each side of the entrance. From time to time the writer has reported the presence of dogs and lions as aids to architecture or as guards of portals in Washington. The list of these things has not been exhausted.

There is an iron watch dog, freshly painted black, with a very glossy coat, on the north side of H street between Tenth and Eleventh streets. There is only one of him. Usually these iron dog doorkeepers come in pairs, and there probably was a pair here, but the other dog is missing—strayed or stolen. The remaining dog is a Newfoundland, or it may be that he is a setter.

It is a big, red pressed brick double house three stories high and four windows wide, and its number 1005

H street. Brownstone steps lead to the doorway from the Herringbone brick sidewalk. On one side of the step is a bit of grass that grows between the brick pavement close up to the iron fence on the east side of the entrance. He looks toward the west.

In front of the iron fence and grassy strip on the west side of the entrance, presumably where the companion dog was wont to rest, is a green slat bench, where dwellers in that house rest in the cool of the evening, when it is cool, or the heat of the evening, when it is not cool.

GOOD JOKE

QUITE CORRECT.

A showman issued an announcement stating, "Come and see the great sawed fish!"

A learned gentleman read it, and informed the showman that he had made a mistake in the word "sawed," that it ought to be "sawd."

"Yer'd better come in an' see fer yerself; the admision is only tuppence," said the showman.

So the learned man paid his "tuppence," went in and was shown a large cod-fish sawed in half.

"Yes ain't the fust gentleman wot nas tried to teach me 'ow to spell, but I tell yer I've 'ad a good eddication, an' I'm runnin' this show jist to show people I ave," grinned the showman.

The learned gentleman left, deeply indignant with the world in general, and the showman in particular.

Post Loses Time.

"How long does Fegelson spend on one of his poems?"

Constant Reader.

"What is your favorite diversion in summer?" asked the serious girl.

"Reading," replied the young man who was trying to make an impression.

"But don't you need outdoor recreation?"

"Yes, I stand outdoors and read the baseball bulletins."

"Not for awhile," answered Paw Hoptoad. "A congressman sent me a Patent Office report in 1890. I ain't finished reading that yet."

THE BEST TREATMENT FOR ITCHING SCALPS, DANDRUFF AND FALLING HAIR

To allay itching and irritation of the scalp, prevent dry, thin and falling hair, remove crusts, scales and dandruff, and promote the growth and beauty of the hair, the following special treatment is most effective, agreeable and economical. On retiring, comb the hair out straight all around, then begin at the side and make a parting, gently rubbing Cuticura Ointment to the parting with a bit of soft flannel held over the end of the finger. Anoint additional partings about half an inch apart until the whole scalp has been treated, the purpose being to get the Cuticura Ointment on the scalp skin rather than on the hair. It is well to place a light covering over the hair to protect the pillow from possible stain. The next morning, shampoo with Cuticura Soap and hot water. Shampoos alone may be used as often as agreeable, but once or twice a month is generally sufficient for this special treatment for women's hair.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston."—Adv.

Physicians Recommend Castoria

CASTORIA has met with pronounced favor on the part of physicians, pharmaceutical societies and medical authorities. It is used by physicians with results most gratifying. The extended use of Castoria is unquestionably the result of three facts: First—The indisputable evidence that it is harmless. Second—That it not only allays stomach pains and quiets the nerves, but assimilates the food. Third—It is an agreeable and perfect substitute for Castor Oil. It is absolutely safe. It does not contain any Opium, Morphine, or other narcotic and does not stupefy. It is unlike Soothing Syrups, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, etc. This is a good deal for a Medical Journal to say. Our duty, however, is to expose danger and record the means of advancing health. The day for poisoning innocent children through greed or ignorance ought to end. To our knowledge, Castoria is a remedy which produces composure and health, by regulating the system—not by stupefying it—and our readers are entitled to the information.—Hall's Journal of Health.

PECULIAR LIVE STOCK FARM

Canadian Has Pleasant Possibilities in His Proposed Raising of Black Foxes.

Probably few, if any, men in this province have started a black fox farm at less cost than Robert Rowley, proprietor of the Laurentide preserves at Lake Edward, says a Quebec correspondent of the Montreal Gazette. While up at Roberval Mr. Rowley heard that a man there had four young pups, part red and part black. It is said that nobody wanted to buy the animals, though the price was about $10 or so a head. Mr. Rowley gave the man his price. The next morning Mr. Pridman, manager of the black fox ranch of Lieutenant Governor Wood of New Brunswick, who had been scouring the country for young stock, saw the foxes and immediately went into the hotel and in front of every one present offered Mr. Rowley several thousand dollars, but was refused. When the villagers realized the offer some of them almost collapsed on the spot and the place has been for some time since. Mr. Rowley is also purchasing a pure black dog fox at a very small sum and will cross it with the litter which he got so cheaply. He expects to have a litter of pure black foxes next spring.

Quaint Critic.

George B. Lucks, the painter, said to a critic in his New York studio: "Your criticism is at any rate original and amusing, my boy. It reminds me of the colored laundress in the Uffizi Gallery." "When this colored laundress visited the Uffizi, her mistress led her up to Correggio's masterpiece. 'There, Hannah, what do you think of that?' she said. Hannah, shaking her head lugubriously, stared a long while at the pictured angels whose white robes were all yellowed by time, and then, with a sigh and a disapproving shake of the head, she said: 'De saints is de last folks to put up wiv bad laundry work.'"

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. B. Halstead Scott, of Chicago, Ill., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria often for infants during my practice, and find it very satisfactory."

Dr. William Belmont, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: "Your Castoria stands first in its class. In my thirty years of practice I can say I never have found anything that so filled the place."

Dr. J. H. Taft, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I have used your Castoria and found it an excellent remedy in my household and private practice for many years. The formula is excellent."

Dr. R. J. Hamlen, of Detroit, Mich., says: "I prescribe your Castoria extensively, as I have never found anything to equal it for children's troubles. I am aware that there are imitations in the field, but I always see that my patients get Fletcher's."

Dr. Wm. J. McCann, of Omaha, Neb., says: "As the father of thirteen children I certainly know something about your great medicine, and aside from my own family experience I have in my years of practice found Castoria a popular and efficient remedy in almost every home."

Dr. J. R. Clausen, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "The name that your Castoria has made for itself in the tens of thousands of homes blessed by the presence of children, scarcely needs to be supplemented by the endorsement of the medical profession, but I, for one, most heartily endorse it and believe it an excellent remedy."

Dr. R. M. Ward, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Physicians generally do not prescribe proprietary preparations, but in the case of Castoria my experience, like that of many other physicians, has taught me to make an exception. I prescribe your Castoria in my practice because I have found it to be a thoroughly reliable remedy for children's complaints. Any physician who has raised a family, as I have, will join me in heartiest recommendation of Castoria."

MANCHESTER—The annual mission of Emanuel German Evangelical Lutheran church of this place will be held on Sunday, September 21.

Mrs. Fiske.

Mrs. Fiske and the Manhattan Company, under the direction of Harrison Grey Fiske, are to come to the Whittey Theatre, Ann Arbor, in "The High Road" on Wednesday, September 24. Seat sale opens Monday, September 22.

In "The High Road" his most important work, Edward Sheldon, author of Mrs. Fiske's former graphic success, "Salvation Nell," is said to have felt the pulse of the moment and to have written a play with a purpose but without a preachment. It is a story, so to speak, of soul progression. From the ignorance and cordiness of her early surroundings, Mary Page starts upon an uphill journey and educates, broadens and develops a naturally great mind and heart. After a material experience of the beauties and luxuries of the world, there comes, not a moral awakening exactly, but a stage in her moral development when these things can no longer satisfy, and when her broadened vision and augmented understanding show her a great field of usefulness to humanity. This she enters and in it rapidly attains, through her ability, her zeal and her self-sacrifice, the devotion of hundreds of thousands of the overworked, underfed and down trodden for whom she has fought for better material condition and a happier outlook on life. In the course of her work for others, there comes into her life a great love which finally leads her to her woman's crown of happiness, but she achieves it only after it seems to have been placed forever beyond her reach.

The background upon which the theme of spiritual development is thrown is one in which are concerned political conditions of the moment; the higher morality; woman's position in the factory and in social life; child labor; the extent to which a woman who is childish ignorance has transgressed morally, can aspire; and in which lies the argumentative crux of the play, the balance of unrighteousness and justice between an unwitting wrong and years of unselfish labor in the cause of human righteousness. This latter aspect has made the play one of the most widely discussed that the stage has known in years.

Dramatically, the greatest interest in "The High Road" lies in the triumphant battle waged by one woman against powerful men and powerful interests, with her own happiness and the political future of her husband as the issues that hang in the balance.

Mrs. Fiske has probably never had a more wonderfully human or more appealing role than Mary Page and her presentment of it is conceded to be one of the most brilliant triumphs of her brilliant career.

An admirable company, will of course be found in Mrs. Fiske's support, including in the principal roles, Arthur Byron, Eugene Ormonde and Kenneth Hunter. The production is said to be a notable one, even in these days of stage opulence and beauty.
