On motion President Belser appointed a committee to confer with the Detroit Trust Co., who have charge of the buildings, and also the officers of the Motor Products Co., and report to an adjourned meeting Thursday evening any plan that would result in the buildings being used for factory purposes. .

The following committee was appointed: Cone Lighthall, D. C. Mc-Laren, H. S. Holmes, John Kalmbach and A. W. Wilkinson.

At the meeting it was suggested that it might be economical for the village to purchase the power plant if possible as the present plant is inadequate for the present needs of the cations the origin of the blaze was Munith was visited with a disasterious fire Monday night. The flames Simon Vetale an Italian Laborer Under started in the north end of the village about 10:30 o'clock and the business section is in ruins. Nine places of business and a warehouse were fuel for the flames.

At eleven o'clock a call for help was sent out by telephone to the farmers factories to locate in Chelsea, it and surrounding towns, and met a ready response. Chief King and four men from No. 1 engine house, of Jackson, left for the scene of the conflagation in the chief's automobile immediately after receiving word. In previous discussions it was made clear that its purpose was to prevent the financing of campaigns in a secret manner by organizations or individuals who did not come directly under the campaign publicity laws.

Last Zulu King Is Dead.

Cape Town-Dinizulu, the last of at 72c. the warrior kings of the former Zulu nation of South Africa, is dead.

He was a son of Cetywayo, the king who led the Zulu nation against the British troops in the war of 1879. Cetywayo was eventually defeated after he had inflicted a crushing blow on the British army at the battle of Isandhlwana, when practically the entire Twenty-fourth infantry regiment was massacred.

Dinizulu led two or three rebellions against the British. He was once captured and exiled to the island of St. $2.45. Helena.

Prospects Bright for Currency Bill. Washington-President Wilson has further cleared the path for currency reform in the senate through conferences opened with the republicans on he senate committee now in charge of the bill. As a result of a conference with Senator Nelson, the president has received assurances that the republican menbers are not holding up legislation, nor trying to impede action on the currency bill in the senate. It is believed that it will not be made a party measure and will be supported by republicans and democrats alike.

Speed and his valet, Larry Glass, trainer at Yale, arrive. Helen Blake asks Speed, who has posed to her as an athlete, to race against the Centipede man. The cowboys join in the appeal to Wally, and fearing that Helen will find him out, he consents. He insist, however, that he shall be entered as an unknown, figuring that Covington will arrive in time to take his place. Fresno, glee club singer from Stanford university and in love with Helen, tries to discredit Speed with the ladies and the cowboys. Speed and Glass put in the time they are supposed to be training playing cards in a secluded spot. The cowboys tell Glass it is up to him to see that Speed wins the race. Willie, the gunman, declares the trainer will go back east packed in ice, if Speed falls. A telegram comes from Covington saying he is in jail at Omaha for ten days. Glass in a panic forces Speed to begin training in earnest. The cowboys force Speed to eat in the training quarters and prepare him a diet of very rare meat. Miss Blake bakes a cake for Speed and is offended when Larry refuses to allow him to eat it. regained his faculties he broke into good enough shape, eh, Larry?" "Great! Barring the one thing." "What's that?" queried Fresno.

"A little trouble with one of his herve-centers, that's all. But even if it got worse during the night, Covington could run the race for him." The Californian started. At last all was plain. He had doubted from the first, now he was certain; but with understanding came also a menace to his own careful plans. If Covington ran in Speed's place, how could he effeet his rival's exposure? On the way back to the house he had to think

"How did you like the jail?" "What in the world are you boys talking about?" queried Miss Blake.

"Mr. Speed seems amused at Culver's accident." Roberta gave him a stinging look. "Now we'd better let Culver go to his room and freshen up BARNS SAID TO HAVE BEEN SET a bit. I want to talk to you, Helen," and Speed drooped at the meaning behind her words. But it was time for a general conference; events were shaping themselves too rapidly for him to cope with. Once the three were alone he lost no time in making his predicament known, the while his friend listened in amazement.

"But is it really so serious?" the latter asked, finally.

"It's life or death. "Time to get busy!" "We'll be right with you!" Glass seized his protege by the arm and bore him away, muttering: "Stick it out, brother, we're nearin' the end!"

Again Speed donned his running-suit and took to the road for his farewell practice. Again Willie followed at a distance on horseback, watching the hills warily. But all hope had fied from the Yale man now, and he returned to his training-quarters disheartened, resigned,

He was not resigned, however, to the visit he received later from Miss Helen Blake. That young lady rushed in upon him like a miniature cyclone, sweeping him off his feet by the fury of her denunciation, allowing him no opportunity to speak, until, with a alf-sob, she demanded:

"Why-why did you deceive me?" "I love you!" Wally said, as if no further explanation were necessary. "That explains nothing. You made sport of me! You couldn't love me and do that!"

"Helen!" "I thought you were so fine, so strong, but you lied-yes, that is what you did! You fibbed to me the first day I met you, and you've been fibbing ever since. I could never, never care for a man who would do that."

"Who has told you these things?" "Roberta, for one. She opened my eyes to your-baseness." "Well, Roberta has a grudge against my sex. She's engaged to all the men she hasn't already married. Marriage is a habit with her. It has made her suspicious-" "But you did deceive me, didn't you"

PREPARING SHELL FISH.

After the rest from oysters during the warm months, one comes back to them with a new relish when the cool days of fall are here. Brolled Oysters With Brown Sauce.

-Dry and season the oysters as for frying. Have ready a wire broiler and a good clear fire; arrange the oysters on the broiler and cook a minute on each side. Put them on a hot dish, add a tablespoonful of butter, one of lemon juice and a sprinkling of salt and red pepper to each oyster. The brown sauce is usually that which is made from the liquor of the oysters that are cooked on a cake griddle, adding flour and butter for thickening.

A delicious bouillon to serve for company is prepared thus: Chop fine fifty oysters, put them in a double boiler and cook slowly for an hour; add a pint of water, a teaspoonful of celery seed, and strain through two thicknesses of cheese cloth. Reheat,

DISHES WORTH TRYING.

When making gravy in a pan in which the meat has been roasted, take out the surplus fat, sift in the flour, and when well blended add milk or water.

Cake From Bread Sponge.-Use twe cups of brown sugar, two tablespoonfuls of butter, two eggs and a teaspoonful each of cloves, cinnamon, nutmeg, ginger and soda. Over this pour a cup of boiling water; when cool add the bread sponge, one cup, flour to make a soft dough, and bake at once as you would any cake.

Cucumber Salad.—Slice cucumbers and an onion together, sprinkle with salt and let stand two hours. Drain and add sour cream, a little vinegar and pepper, and serve.

Ever-Ready Pie Crust-Mix together a half cup of lard to a cup and a half of flour, with a teaspoon of salt; in this proportion double the amount or multiply by four. Mix the flour and lard well together, put into a cov ered bowl and stand away in a cook place until needed. Then take ou the desired amount for a pie or pies, add cold water and the pastry is soon ready. Popcorn Wafers.—Put through s

Prehistoric Man in Belgium Prehistoric man has been traced in several periods in Belgium, and M. Putot, a Belgian geogogist, has made a nevel attempt to estimate the population at different stages, In the lower Aurignacian period five of Belgium's numerous caves seem to have been inhabited, their capacity being 50 to 60 persons. In the Magdalenean period the population was probably 60. Retreat of the ice permitted leaving the shelters at the close of this period, and the settlers on the banks of the lakes may soon have numbered 100 or 150. The coming of the Cervides forests perhaps developed a population of 1,000, which may have increased to 4,000 or 5,000 at the beginning of the polished stone age.

Quaint Critic.

George B. Luks, the painter, said to critic in his New York studio: "Your criticism is at any rate original and amusing, my boy. It reminds me of the colored laundress in the Uffizi Gallery. "When this colored laundress visited the Uffizi, her mistress led her up to Correggio's masterpiece. 'There, Hannah, what do you think of that?' she said. "Hannah, shaking her heod lugubriously, started a long while at the pictured angels whose white robes were all yellowed by time, and then, with a sigh and a disapproving shake of the head, she said: 'De saints is de last folks to put up wiv bad laundry work."

THE FACTORY PROPOSITION

In the negotiations between the Business Men's Association and the Motor Products Co. on the factory proposition here, one fact sticks out like a sore thumb, and that is that no manufacturer will invest a dollar in real estate or buildings in Chelsea. If Chelsea is to have any factories they will have to be operated by her local capital and present inhabitants or else the buildings will have to be acquired by local people and leased to anyone who may be induced to come in and use them.

Inasmuch as the buildings can be bought for fifty per cent of amount at which they are assessed, it might not be a bad plan for local business men to purchase the same, provided fair arrangements could be made with responsible parties to occupy them for manufacturing purpose for a term of years.

The Standard advised caution and judgement along lines of increased taxation when the boards of review were in session last June, and the course of Harris Brothers in buying the machinery at both Pontiac and Chelsea and buildings in Pontiac, but not in Chelsea, demonstrates that the raise in assessments on the buildings was not conducive to acquiring of factories, however it might depreciate value of buildings so that same could be bought in for storage and warehouse purposes.

Script and Print.

The differences between script and print are to be referred to a date long before the invention of printing. We must not suppose that the ancient scribes, in writing papers of but temporary value, would labor to follow the same alphabet that the carver employed upon the monuments of stone destined for all time. As far back as records have been preserved there was in existence a cursive style of writing. instances have been preserved abundantly in Pompeil of random remarks by the ordinary citizen scribbling idle sentiments upon the walls. The alphatbet of the monuments was commonly the model for the writers of formal literature, professional penmen who looked forward to the library preservation of the works upon which they were engaged. Business men used the cursive script, which was far more readily and correspondingly more rapidly writen. The monumental and manuscript hand has served as the parent of the printed letter; the cursive hand is the ancestor of pen-

HONORED HIS CANARY BIRD

Resident of Atlantic City Buries Dead Pet in Style Accorded Human Beings.

An Atlantic City resident recently buried a pet canary in a style seldom accorded either bird or beast. The little body was placed in a silk lined metallic coffin. Then a burial service was read over the bird, setting forth how the songster had brought happiness and good cheer into the home of the owner through the influence of his silvery notes. There were tears shed at the funeral and at the little grave. A complacent sort of an attendant at the obsequies was the family cat, who listened to the solemn words and watched the little bundle of feathers as he ruminatively stroked his whiskers. He had been the death of the canary and would have had it eaten after his first spring brought it down to the floor had not the owner intervened A Cincinnati woman not long ago buried her pet poll parrot with unique honors. She had had the bird, who was a great talker, speak into a graphophone, and although to visitors the result was nothing but a lot of squawkings the owner insisted that it was a faithful reproduction of the afnot care for light reading." A bittern | fectionate words uttered now and then bird the woman had this record put in the graphophone and turned out to several listeners called in to take part in the obsequies. Then the record was placed alongside the bird's body and buried with it, for the owner declared you've been a good little girl all she could never bear to hear her pet's RED, ROUGH HANDS MADE voice again if she could not see the In Philadelphia some time ago a boy

This model is the result of years of investigation of the mechanics of bird flight, and, in particular, of the shape of the body and wings of soaring birds, the object being to develop a type of aeroplane that would automatically right itself and maintain its balance in varying air currents without the use of stabilizing devices of any kind and without the necessity of any attention from the airman. If the full-sized machines work out as successfully as this model, it means that one of the greatest dangers in aviation has been practically eliminated. With an aeroplane of this type the airman would be free to devote all his attention to steering and running his machine, as there would be no necessity for warping the wings or changing the position of the ailerons to maintain his balance, as at present. -Popular Mechanics Magazine:

He is impelled by nearly the same motives as the lower animals when they are left to their own free choice, though he is in so far superior to them that he highly values mental charms and virtues. On the other hand, he is strongly attracted by mere wealth of rank. Yet he might by selection do something not only for the bodily constitution and frame of his offspring, but for their intellectual and moral qualities. Both sexes ought to refrain from marriage if they are in any marked degree inferior in body or mind; but such hopes are Utopian and will never be even partially realized until the laws of inheritance are thoroughly known Everyone does good service who aids toward this end."-New York Evening

New Tribe in New Guinea. Having returned to England after an expedition into the heart of New Guinea, Rev. Cecil Hall, formerly of Jamaica, described to a reporter some of his discoveries in a hitherto unexplored country.

"After several days' journey," he said. "I came into the region of the cannibal tribes, who seemed very fierce. Particularly was this the case with the Ki-ki tribe, who make a practice of preserving their enemies heads. After this we came to mountain slopes, and after climbing some distance we estimated it at about three thousand feet-we came upon a tribe, the men of which were more fully clad than the ordinary native of the country, while the women were completely clothed in a texture woven from cocoanut fiber."

Mr. Hall added that the completely clad tribe was found about three hundred miles inland from Monorki. No one in the lowlands knew of their ex-

The whites do not need educated natives. It is all wonderful, but not of value to him. One native said: "I will teach my children to catch fish, fox, bear and birds, and when old they will keep me; but the one taken to school left me. He cannot work. He cannot hunt. The white man says: 'He no savvy white man work and he no savvy native kind any more." There is more than one crude native that does not send his child to school because he sees no gain by doing so and he does see the separation of the child from him.

PLAN NOW FOR THE CHRISTMAS GIFTS

A way for Christman by those who this cushion. wish to save themselves, as well as others, the strain of the hurry and worry that comes each year at the silk or ribbon. Squares of scrim emlast hour. It has grown so strenuous in the large cities that there is a revolt coming. The barbarous crowding, and the merciless overwork with which we tax ourselves, the postmen, the expressmen and, most of all, the shop girls, at what should be the merriest time of the year, are utterly inconsistent. But give gifts we will, so make up your mind to begin early and to give simple ones.

The humble ten-cent store is immensely useful in providing the beginnings of some pretty and useful little gifts. Take to it early. Here is a pin cushion and a hairpin holder that migrated from the ten-cent store to the clever and tasteful fingers that fashioned them into things worth while. For the hairpin holder is a bisque doll's head, with flaxen hair, which by means of narrow ribbon and crochet yarn has been converted into this pretty and convenient affair for the dressing table. The hair at each side is tied with a little bow of ribbon. There is a hole in the top of the head into which a small hairpin is thrust and bent so that it stays in place. Ribbon, fastened through this, serves to suspend the head. The small holes provided for sewing the head to a body serve to hold ribbon in place, and it is run through them, across the front of the neck, over the shoulders and across the back.

Using a chain stitch the heavy yarn loops of crocheted chain are fastened to the ribbon over the shoulders and venience and is attractive.

DRAPERY FOR THE WINDOWS Color Scheme Always the Most Impor tant of Highly Essential Ornamentation.

Silk of a color that harmonizes with the room and is of a light quality makes a charming finish as side drapery on the windows, but is not essential, unless the room is very plain and hard looking, and the silk should not be extended over the window to exclude the light. The old style of having the drapery meet across the window at the top and held back half way down by loops is out of date. There are excellent designs also in a thin, silky madras that looks well in on the windows, and many other cotton draperies that are suitable and will not keep out too much light cost a great deal less than real silk. Bought by the yard these are far less expensive than when bought made up in curtain form, and, as the modern and very sensible fad is to have the curtains reach only to the sill of the window, you do not have to buy very many yards.

Popularity of Amber. Amber is at the topnotch of popularity. This is significant in view of the fact that champagne is the popular spring color in Paris for gowns, suits, etc., and that tan is so well thought of in this country.

In point of fact, however, amber has been slowly but surely winning public favor for a year or more. Starting with a mere spark, this favor has increased to a flame, then become a blaze and now bids fair to finally amount to a positive conflagration.

ANN ARBOR-Miss Mildred Everst formerly a Ypsilanti Normal school girl, was awarded $400 damages after the jury had deliberated seven hours in her case against Edwin Chapman, superintendent of Pinconning schools. Miss Everest charged that Chapman had dismissed her from the Normal school and circulated slanderous statements, including that of using profane language, about her. She was allowed $150 for injured feelings and $250 for expectations based upon what the jury determined she might have earned in a lifetime of teaching had her career not been cut short.

SALEM-When Frank Van Atta, a butcher at South Lyon had two valuable steers stolen from his pasture, one mile south of South Lyon, he notified Sheriff Stark. The beef was found in cold storage in Detroit. Suspicion pointed to a prominent farmer of West Salem, Merle Van Vorce. He was seen with the beef in his auto truck on his way to Detroit. Mr. Van Vorce and his brother, Burt, were arrested in South Lyon on a clue furnished by Deputy Sheriff school—"His Father's Son." ### A Dangerous Habit.

The boy who has the freedom of the streets after nightfall, without business or permission, is cultivating a very dangerous habit. Any place where a boy has no business is a very dangerous place for him, whether it is on the street, in the store or elsewhere. A boy that is all right likes his home, friends, books or newspaper in preference to the class found on the streets without business. Busimen of all kinds look upon the boy loafer as a dead beat of the future.-

English Men and Women of Times Past Wore Wonderful and Imposing Headgear.

Ladies probably did not begin to wear hats until about the tenth century, if so early, and then it was the lofty headdress draped with some material, which it must have been most trying to keep on indoors, and quite impossible to wear in a wind.

According to the "Anatomy of Abuses," written in Queen Elizabeth's time, ladies' hats were very nearly as perplexing then as they are to-

"These fashions be rare and strange, so is the stuff whereof the hats be made divers also; for some are of silke, some of velvet, some of taffeta and some of wool, and which is more curious, some of a certain kind of fine haire, these they call beaver hats."

In the reign of Henry VIII., hats assumed a "great richnesse and beautie," but in the time of the first James they became even more ornate, jewels grounds, some of them wintry scenes, of price and occasionally small mirrors being used in their adornment. At times of revelry the gallants wore tude-all splendidly photographed and feathers in their hats, which were said tinted. One of the situations of susto be one of the "fairest ensigns of their braverie."

But for adornment men's hats were in their zenith in the days of Charles. The big felt hats with the long feather saucily curled around them, fastened with a buckle often of great value, gave a dashing air to the cava- caping family. liers, which absolutely cast the tall solemn hats of the Puritans and "Psalm singers" into the shade.

The monster hats of the time of the empire were almost as big as "the Merry Widow" of modern fame, and in shape today they were positively unique. Men's hats have suffered great changes since the time of Charles, and it is more than doubtful if they will ever again become ornate.

Indeed, save in very remote parts of Wales where the old women stillsome of them-wear the high-crowned steeple hat, there is nothing especially peculiar about the headgear of the English peasantry.

French Cinema and Actors. Rough seas were sweeping over the beach at a Normandy resort, as they did all last summer. Into the break ers plunged two men and a woman, and lookers-on were aghast at their temerity. They swam in the huge waves safely until the lady suddenly sank. The beach cried with horror. The two men dived for the drowning woman. The beach watched the res cue breathlessly. At last the lady was brought ashore by her two saviors, and, first aid having been applied, she revived and went to her not far away-it is almost at your box to dress. The names of the he door. Chinese River Boats.

The rivers of China are notable for the queer unrigged craft that throng their reaches in the neighborhood of towns. The handsomest of these is the Hwa Ting, or flower boat. Many Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y. These are propelled by long oars, or poles, in the our farms. hands of servants who tread a narrow gangway running along their length.

These river boats are the homes, offices and shops of those whose lives are spent aboard them. Moored along the bank with the bow fastened to a long hawser, extending for perhaps a thousand feet up or down the stream they rise and fall with the tide or with the swell of some passing steamer, year in and out. They only leave for the time necessary to pursue some call of trade in another part of the harbor, then return again to fit into their accustomed place. In Canton, alone, the boat city of China, there are said to be 84,000 of these "chop-boats," as they are called.
