NOT A MIRACLE Just Plain Cause and Effect. There are some quite remarkable things happening every day, which call. The meeting was held at the Congressional club in response to a call by Mrs. Duncan U. Fletcher, its president.

Former Ambassador Henry White, who served on diplomatic missions to London, Paris, Rome and other European capitals, told of social obligations as he had observed them abroad.

Among those in attendance were Mrs. Marshall, wife of the vice-president: Mrs. Bryan, wife of the secretary of state; Mrs. White, wife of the chief justice of the Supreme court, wives of cabinet officers and others. Mrs. Fletcher voiced the sentiment of those present by declaring the accessity for a simpler calling system was imperative. Everybody, she said, wants to return every call that is-made upon them, but there is a limit of hours in the day and days in the week:

"On her first afternoon at home," said Mrs. Fletcher, "Mrs. Marshall had a thousand calls and they have averaged between 300 and 500 each Wednesday since. Her sincere effort to return every call has been the comment and admiration of all Washington society, but how can anybody return in person several thousand calls in one season? Mrs. Marsall's experience is in greater or less degree duplicated by every official hostess in Washington."

The question of simplifying formal calling in Washington has been growing more acute during the last ten years, but this meeting was the first attempt at simplification.

American Youth Scramble for Places in Navy

IT takes a "jimmy" these days to break into the United States navy as a plain, ordinary seaman; a stick of dynamite is necessary to get in as an apprentice or yeoman. The navy department and its recruiting stations have "waiting lists" containing hundreds of names of young, husky youths "hankering" to go to sea.

The full, active membership of the pavy is limited by law to 51,500 men, TO THE and there are that many enlisted men now on the pay rolls. For the first time since the Civil war the full quota of men allowed by law has been en-

The bars as to fitness have not been let down, and no men with physical or mental defects have been enlisted, but there has been good advertising. The tales of the cruises and the details of the chances for obtaining an education, sent out in pamphlet form, have swelled the ranks so that the bars had to be put up.

The greatest number of monthly enlistments, except in war time, was made in the last six months since Secretary Daniels began his revolutionary reforms in the navy. Perhaps the chief cause for the great influx of fine, hardy young men into the naval service in the last few months was the recent Mediterranean cruise of the great Atlantic fleet. This cruise was a regular pleasure trip for the young seamen, and it was intended that it should be such by the navy department. Long stops were made at all the principal cities on the Mediterranean, where shore leave was given. At the different seaports the American sailors were entertained in lavish style by naval and civic organizations, and in every way shown a gen-

For instance, the recruits at the Chicago training station were recently sent overland to Bremerton, Wash. They were allowed a stop-over at Yellowstone park, and other interesting places. Soon after arriving at Bremerton they were assigned to the cruiser New Orleans, which sailed for Mexican waters. On its trip south the cruiser stopped at San Francisco, where shore leave was given to the youngsters. Now it is reported that as soon as the Mexican trouble is

Discuss the Increasing Scarcity of Army Horses

THERE has been recently a discussion going on among the army and navy I men on the increasing scarcity of army horses. The army quartermasters, who have to do with the purchasing of horses for military establishments, say that there is really an alarming scar-

Of course, it is well known that the war department is more or less hampered by the fact that congress has not appropriated sufficient money to enable the quartermaster's department to acquire horses in sufficient number to supply all the mounted commands. Consequently there is a shortage in horses caused by the distribution of troops on the border and elsewhere and by the increase of war strength of troops serving abroad. There are not enough horses now to supply the commands at If there were to come an emergency calling for a large number of horses peace strength. the war department would have great difficulty in getting them. It is said that one reason for the scarcity of horses is the falling off of the product of those who are raising horses. It is unofficially declared that the increased use of automobiles has had its influence on the rearing of horses, despite the The motor trucks also seriously affect the market for draft animals, but that has to do mostly with the mule, so far as the army is concerned. The mule will always be a necessity, despite the improvement which has been made in the motor trucks. The animal must be used with the troops in the field. The trucks will be useful for supplying the column in the rear.

FOOD THE DAIRY COWS LIKE

Necessary All Substances Entering Into Composition of Milk Be in Proper Proportions.

(Copyright, 1914.)

(By JAMES B. MORMON.) A dairy cow giving large quantities of milk consumes much feed. Milk is formed from feeding stuffs digested and assimilated by cows, so it is necessary all substances entering into the composition of milk be supplied to dairy stock in proper proportion to get good results. For production of milk there are required water, carbohydrates, protein, fat and mineral ash. High quality milk contains about 87 per cent. water, 5 per cent. sugar, 4 of fat, 2.5 of casein, 0.8 cf albumen Jackzie with her, housed him in the barn, fed him and attended to his and 0.7 of ash. Feeding stuffs contain necessary elements in varying amounts. Water, for instance, is contained in all feeds, but not enough to produce milk, so cows should be given plenty of fresh, pure water. Carbohydrates are of two kinds-those without nitrogen, such as starch, sugar, etc., and fiber or cellulose, which forms the greater part of plant cells, which are converted by cows into fat. Since carbohydrates form the largest part c7 feeds they are made the basis of calculating rations. Protein is the flesh producing substance, containing nitrogen derived from plants, an important part of milk, and nothing can replace it. Fat fed to dairy cows in feeds is stored in the body and changed into milk fat. The ash is what is left of feeding stuffs after being burned and goes to form bone and digestive juices.

Now a balanced ration is one in which the proportion of protein, carbohydrates and fat is such as to give the best results in the quantity and quality of milk produced, which varies with different cows in different climates. For a cow giving 25 pounds of milk a day the German standard fixes a ratio of one protein to 4.5 of carbohydrates and fat; the Wisconsin and other standards a ratio of one to six. The latter is regarded as corhuman being who in years has done rect.

A cow weighing from 850 to 1,000 pounds receives a daily balanced ration as follows: Roughage, 35 pounds of corn silage and 12 pounds of mixed hay. Concentrates, two pounds of gluten meal, two pounds of wheat bran and one pound of cottonseed meal, oilmeal, ground oats and wheat middlings. If the cow gives less than twenty-five pounds of milk daily dess Eugenie Has Done Well in duct one pound of concentrates for every three pounds less of milk. On the other hand, for every three pounds of milk above 25 pounds a day, give an additional pound of concentrates. Cows fed entirely on hay for roughage should be given about 20 pounds a day and about two pounds of oilmeal instead of one pound.

Reticence, in any sense of the word, had never been Grace's long suit. In fact, if there was a principal part to in the class play, Grace had never known from a near view what the background looked like. And when she came back from her vacation and began to fulfill her social duties her friends sat back in amazement, for something had assuredly happened to Grace.

The whole set had begun to grow rather impatient for Grace to open up the season with her usual party. No one dreamed of taking from her heretofore she had been so prompt, but time was flying and there had not been the ghost of an announcement.

It grew so bad that finally one of the girls decided that she'd give a small luncheon and invite Grace and a few of Grace's most intimate friends and try to find the trouble.

Grace arrived at the luncheon, and after quietly greeting the girls, settled back in a chair in complete si-

"My, isn't it late in the season! exclaimed Frances, adding with wonderful originality: "How time does fly!" Then she went on: "Nearly two months have passed and nothing exciting has happened yet!" paused and glanced covertly at Grace. But Grace made no reply, though she had leaned forward attentively as Frances spoke.

"We ought to begin things pretty soon," declared Viola, daringly, speaking almost directly to Grace, who thereupon turned her whole attention to Viola, with so eager an expression that that young woman relapsed into silence in sheer astonishment. To have Grace listen to you in that intense way was disconcerting, to say the least, and Viola was naturally a piece of the background, and preferred its safe obscurity.

Several others offered their conversational contributions to the general cause. But it was difficult to talk at Grace-to hint gently-when Grace herself sat with her eyes fastened unblinkingly on the speaker, as though her very soul thirsted for every spoken

"Don't you think" began Bessie, glancing around in a general sort of way until her gaze fell on Grace's rapt countenance, turned full upon her. Then the carefully thought up sentence flew from her mind and she stopped.

For some seconds every one sat still, each waiting for some one else to speak and all glancing wondering ly at Grace.

"Finally Grace spoke: "Do tell us about your vacation!" she urged Viola. Viola colored and stammered. Then she laughted. "What on earth is the matter?" she demanded of Grace. "You know I didn't go away at all scalp, prevent dry, thin and falling -and if I had gone away it would be hair, remove crusts, scales and danrather late to inquire so solicitously druff, and promote the growth and about a summer vacation two months after it was over."

"Are you going to give the first party, or can I?" inquired Bessie, with a show of impatience.

Her impatience passed into amazement as Grace resumed her smile of interest and replied: "Oh, Bessie, you give such charming luncheons! give the first one, won't you?"

Then it was that Sally rose to the occasion. "For goodness' sake!" she exclaimed, and standing before Grace, "I implore you to deliver us from this mystery. What on earth has happened?"

Grace wilted. "Oh, girls," she said from the depths of her handkerchief, "you've got to help me. I-I didn't know I was so dreadful. But it's perfect agony-and you make it so much harder. I've got to overcome-myself -I've got to forget myself-to be interested in every one else, and not to talk a bit around me. And here you won't talk at all! When I want to follow, you all stand still for me to "You see, I'm-I'm-going to marry a minister, and you know how ministers' wives have to be-and I'm learning how. It'll be wonderful, the result, he says-but oh, it's awful!"

She wiped her eyes sheepishly and turned to Sally, "Sally, dear," she egged, trying to smile, "won't you tell us tell us about that cunning nephew of yours?"

CANADA WINNING CHAMPIONSHIPS IN AGRICULTURE

The Latest Is Winning Championship for Oats a Third Time.

Recently was published the fact of remarkable winnings by Canadian farmers in several events during the past three or four years. The latest is that of Messrs. J. C. Hill & Sons of Lloydminster, Saskatchewan, who won in a hard contest for the oat championship over Montana. At the National Corn Exposition at Dallas during February, Montana oats were awarded the championship for the United States. Waiting for the winner of this to be announced was a peck of oats belonging to the Canadian growers above mentioned, and alongside of these was a like quantity belonging to a Minnesota grower, who was barred from the regular competition because he was at one time the winner of the trophy—the prize. The three entries were side by side on the judge's bench. It would not be possible to bring together three more likely samples. The Montana and Saskatchewan entries were of equal weight-50 pounds to the bushel. The Minnesota sample was some three pounds lighter. The award was unanimous in favor of the Saskatchewan oats. A remarkable feature and one greatly to the credit of the Canadian product was that the oats, grown in 1913, were grown and shown the glory of the first function, for by those who had competed during the past two years, winning on each occasion. This, the third winning, gave them for the third time the world's championship and full possession of the splendid $1,500 silver trophy contributed by the state of Colorado.

The oats which have thus given to Western Canada another splendid advertising card, were grown 300 miles north of the international boundary line, proving that in this latitude, all the smaller grains can be grown with greater perfection and with more abundant yield than further south. In all this country are to be found farmers who produce oats running from 42 to 48 pounds to the bushel, and with yields of from 60 to 100 bushels per acre. Wheat also does well, grades high, and yields from 30 to 40 bushels per acre. The same may be said of any portion of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, famed over the world not only as a country where championship grains are grown, but where cattle and horses are raised that also carry off championships and where wild grasses are abundant yielders, cultivated hay and alfalfa are grown, thus giving plenty of feed, and with a good climate, sufficient shelter and plenty of water, bring about results such as western Canada has been able to record. Thousands of farmers from the United States who have their homes in Canada-bear ample testimony to the benefits they have derived from farming in western Canada.—Advertisement.

THE BEST TREATMENT FOR ITCHING SCALPS, DANDRUFF AND FALLING HAIR

To allay itching and irritation of the beauty of the hair, the following special treatment is most effective, agree-"I should say so!" exclaimed able and economical. On retiring, Frances, gaining courage from the comb the hair out straight all around, then begin at the side and make a parting, gently rubbing Cuticura Ointment into the parting with a bit of soft flannel held over the end of the finger. Anoint additional partings about half an inch apart until the whole scalp has been treated, the purpose being to get the Cuticura Ointment on the scalp skin rather than on the hair. It is well to place a light covering over the hair to protect the pillow from possible stain. The next morning, shampoo with Cuticura Soap and hot water. Shampoos alone may be used as often as agreeable, but once or twice a month is generally sufficient for this special treatment for women's hair.

Black Silk Stove Polish

Don't get the idea that to keep a nice glossy shine on your stove you must black it every few days. It's not a question of oft-repeated application. It's a question of the stove polish to use. Black Silk Stove Polish is so much better than other stove polishes that there is absolutely no comparison—it's in a class all by itself.

It makes a brilliant glossy shine that does not rub or dust off. It anneals to the iron—becomes a part of the stove. It makes old stoves look like new and lasts four times as long as any other shine. Get a can and give it a trial. Try it on your parlor stove, your cook stove, or your gas range. If you do not find it the best stove pelish you ever used, your dealer is authorized to refund your money. Black Silk Stove Pelish has been made by the same formula and sold under one name for 30 years.

"I sent to you for a can of Black Silk Stove Polish and found it so much better than and is now selling nearly everyone in the place your polish. I had no idea there could be such a difference in stove polishes."

"I was visiting friends and they used Black Silk Stove Polish on their stoves. It made the best shine I ever saw, and after blacking, the polish did not rub or dust off. It is way ahead of any polish I have ever used." Ask Your Dealer for Black Silk Stove Polish and refuse a counterfeit brand not have the best. Made in liquid or paste—one quality.

Land Is the Foundation of the Country's Greatest Fortunes BUY IT—WISELY.

When everything is at high pressure, and the Country and Village having a boom, it is no trouble to sell either houses or lots. Money is then cheap and property high. Then all the foolish buy, and at the top of the market.

However, when things are quiet, money is high and land and houses cheap, then only the wise buy and sales are slow. NOW is the time to buy in Chelsea when your dollar will go twice as far as in boom times. Buy with the wise.

But north of the Ohio are of a different breed; they have brought wives and children with them, and have come to till the land. Almost all of the beet sugar companies have been in the habit of estimating their profits on a 41/2 cent rate for sugar. APPLIES TO CANDIDATES FOR MUNICIPAL OFFICES.

Speakers at Country Life Conference at East Lansing Discuss Farmers' Clubs, Rural Credits and Kindred Topics.

[By Gurd M. Hayes.]

Lansing, Mich.-Although it has been commonly supposed that the corrupt practices act passed at the last session of the legislature applied only to state and county elections, this measure covers municipal elections as well, and Deputy Secretary, of State Mills has prepared blanks for the filing of expense accounts which will be printed and forwarded to the various county clerks.

No sums of money shall be paid and no expense authorized or incurred by or on behalf of any candidate who has received the nomination to any public office or position in this state, in excess of twenty-five per cent of year's salary or compensation of the office for which he is nominated, provided, that no candidate shall be re-

In Lansing the salary of the mayor is $2,000 per year and the candidates will be entitled to spend $500 for their campaign expenses if they so desire. The candidates for places in the city council will be entitled to expend $100, but owing to the fact that the city treasurer receives fees instead of a straight salary, some difficulty will probably arise in determining the amount that the candidates for that office can use in their campaigns.

Every candidate and every treasurer of a political committee shall within twenty days after any general, whether state, county, municipal, township, or district election, in or concerning which he had received or disbursed any money, prepare and file with the county clerk a true copy signed and sworn to before notory public. The exact date of each receipt and expenditure must be set forth giving the name of the person to whom the money was paid or from whom it was received. Failure to file the required report makes the candidate liable to prosecution. Money received from any anonymous source and directors, officers or stockholders are prevented from contributing to

At the country life conference, held mers' round-up at M. A. C., Representative J. N. McBride declared that the farmers' clubs were not only the most democratic institutions in the country, but that they were also the largest factor in development of a community. He declared it was the social labatory where ideas were originated and tried out. He maintained that the farmer's club was the one big thing in any community that developed the boy and girl and gave each a chance to show what talent they might possess.

Mrs. Dora Stockman, of Lansing, declared that joy in housework waz not only the solution of the servant problem but a cure for the divorce evil. She declared that farmers' wives should be instructed in the science of saving as she spent 75 per cent of all the farmer earned and, therefore, needed this training. Mrs. Stockham also declared that an elimination of the credit system and delivery would reduce the price of goods and the cost of living. She declared further that the elimination of these two factors in the commercial world was enabled the mail-order house to undersell all retail competitors and it was the cheapness of their goods that drove farmers to buy from them, Prof. Charles McKeen, C. J. Galpin, department of rural sociology, University of Wisconsin, took up the stricted to less than $100, according talk. He contended that rural surveys were necessary in order to ascertain just what each community needed socially, commercially and otherwise.

> When the matter of rural credits was discussed informally, the idea of the farmer being a "poor business man" was resented and the ideas of W. K. Prudden relatives to the relation of the farmer to a bank and the matter of rural credit, were given a decided jolt by J. C. Ketcham. The question of rural credits and the denial of bankers that the farmer is overcharged for money, was a subject of some little heated discussion at all the rural life conferences.

amusing the country child and declared for a community playground not less than three acres in extent. Lindemann also declared that the place to teach the much agitated proposition of co-operation was at the country school and in rural communi ties. He asserted that if the child was taught to co-operate in play and other amusements it would naturally co-operate, with its playfellows or others in any community movement and in sowing, reaping and marketing farm products.

The tuberculin test and vaccination of hogs for hog cholera attracted much attention among the breeders attending the round-up. Demonstrations were given by doctors and others connected with the veterinary and bacteriological departments.

The state's legal department has informed Labor Commissioner Cunning- | Puck. ham that the fifty-four hour law for women does not apply to restaurants or telephone offices. Cunningham wants to start proceedings against certain restaurants and telephone companies to prevent them from working their female employes more than fifty-four hours per week, but Fellows advises that Cunningham secure relief through the legislature. According to information received by the attorney general a candidate for city treasurer on the democratic ticket was defeated, but there was a vacancy on the ticket for supervisor and he secured eight votes for that office and was nominated. However, his nomination was not legal, as Fellows holds that a man cannot run for two offices on the same ticket.

A political party cannot hold its carcuses in two sections of a township at the same time. This question arose at Northport where it was customary to hold a caucus at that place while others of the party were participating in the same caucus at Owena five miles away, the two factions keeping in touch by telephone. Fellows says they must all meet in one place and at the same time.
