BURNED WITH ASPHALT

Roy Leach Met With a Severe Accident Friday Afternoon.

Roy Leach was severely burned with hot asphalt about four o'clock last Friday afternoon. He was assisting with the work of putting the new roof on the town hall. At the kettle where the asphalt was heated a box was placed on two saw horses to enable the men to reach the contents. Mr. Leach had filled a pail with the boiling asphalt and as he stepped back his feet stuck to the platform and it was upended and he was thrown to the ground. The pail of hot material landed on him and his left arm was burned from the shoulder to the tips of his fingers, and the palm of his right hand was also severely burned. Dr. Schmidt was called to the scene of the accident and the injured man was removed to the store of Holmes & Walker where he was given the treatment usually applied to such cases. In the evening he was removed to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Leach and on Saturday he was taken to the U. of M. hospital at Ann Arbor.

It will probably be fully three months before he will be able to return to his usual work. The burns in some places are deep seated. Roy had but recently left the hospital where he had been taking treatment for blood poisoning. At last reports his arm was badly swollen but no serious trouble is looked for by the attendants at the hospital.

Chelsea Second in Tri-County Meet.

The students of the high school journeyed to Wayne, last Friday, in a special car, where they engaged in the annual athletic contest with the schools of Plymouth and Wayne. The events were very keenly contested from start to finish, with Chelsea winning in the sprints and field events while Plymouth was strong in the distance runs. Wayne made a very poor showing and won but 9 points. The Chelsea boys placed as follows: J. Dunn, third in the 100-yard dash, second in the 220, first in hammer-throw, first in discus, third in shot put; R. Kalmbach, first in 100-yard dash, first in 220, tied for first in high jump, third in broad jump; E. Wagner, first in shot put; L. Kalmbach, first in pole vault, tied for first in high jump, third in hurdles; O. Schettler, fourth in 1 mile; S. Emmett, fourth in shot; H. Freeman, tied for second in pole vault; C. Stipe, third in 440 dash.

The relay team consisting of R. Kalmbach, O. Schettler, L. Kalmbach and J. Dunn took second place. J. Dunn was the highest point winner in the meet, having won 4 points. Springer of Plymouth, second with 12, and R. Kalmbach, third with 16. The cup, having been won by Plymouth during three successive years, becomes their private property.

Catholic Order of Foresters.

A court of the Catholic Order of Foresters was instituted in St. Mary's hall of this place, last Sunday afternoon. The work was done under the supervision of D. C. Grobelle, chief of state ranger. There were about thirty-five members of the order from Detroit present who took part in the work of instituting the court, installing the recently elected officers and initiating a class of about twenty candidates.

A chicken pie dinner was served at the Boyd house at one o'clock after which a line was formed and they marched to St. Mary's auditorium. At the close of the work a number of short addresses were made by prominent members of the state organization, Monsignor DeBever, of Dexter, and Rev. Father Considine. The new court starts out with a good member and a large class to be initiated at their next meeting.

Costume choruses and music between scenes will complete the program. The play will be given on Tuesday evening, June 9. Admission 50 cents for adults, 25 cents for children and one ticket is good for both entertainments.

They are Very Greatful.

We, the members of the Chelsea Band take great pleasure in thanking all those who by their generous contributions made it possible for us to purchase new uniforms. We also thank those who contributed their services in various ways. Wirt S. McLaren, who donated the use of his theatre for a uniform benefit; Mrs. Wm. Miller and Thos. Hughes, who rendered beautiful selections most charmingly at the same; Roy Evans, Wm. Hepburn and Myrel Shaver, who did the soliciting, and last but not least, are our thanks due to a former Chelsea citizen, who through many miles away, and unsolicited in a substantial manner kindly remembered the Chelsea Band. The following letter explains itself:

Los Angeles, Cal., May 28, 1914.

"Mr. E. H. Chandler, Chelsea, Michigan—Dear friend: I saw in a recent issue of the Chelsea Standard, that the 'band boys' were to don new suits in the near future. I wish to congratulate them, nothing is too good for the 'band boys' and the town can well afford to feel proud of their band."

"I also saw that a small shortage in the funds to pay for the same existed. I am herewith enclosing a five dollar note ($5.00) to apply on it and trust it may be the last in cleaning up the slight deficit. I deem it a privilege to share in this worthy object, for I feel the boys have given much of their time and money and have been very faithful to an organization which has added greatly in giving pleasure to the people of the town and vicinity whenever there was a gathering of any kind, in rendering a high class of music. Thanking you in advance for the courtesy of handing this my mite to the proper one, with my compliments to every member of the band."

"Kindly and self are unusually well and enjoy California very much, but we often think of our many friends back in good old Chelsea. With kindest regards and best wishes to the good people of Chelsea, and that entire community, I remain as ever, 'Very truly yours,'

"W. J. KNAPP."

"P. S.—We hope to have the pleasure some day to again listen to our band."

"W. J. K."

Princess Theatre.

"THE COURSE OF JUSTICE" This intense melodrama deals with a self-sacrificing woman, who marries a supposedly wealthy mine owner, so that she may help her father lift the mortgage from their modest home. She is quick to realize her grave mistake when she finds her husband is a drunkard and without funds to support her.

After enduring rough treatment from her drunken husband, she deserts him and goes to the city to seek a living, and in the dire straits she finally accepts a position as a scrub-woman. After conscientiously applying herself for some time, a prominent lawyer gives her the opportunity of learning stenography, and later gives her a position in his office.

After seeking her whereabouts for years, her husband entices her younger sister to marry him. Like his first marriage, it has a tragic ending, owing to his non-support and cruel treatment. The father finds the man who has wronged both of his daughters, and in self-defense in a heated argument, mortally wounds him. The older daughter, who is now a prominent lawyer, reads of the tragedy, and locating her father, she acts as his attorney and pleads his case in court. He is acquitted on a verdict of justifiable homicide.

This big three reel feature will be the attraction at the Princess Saturday evening, June 6.

DECORATION DAY

A Good Program was Carried Out and a Large Attendance.

Decoration day was an ideal one and the exercises at the town hall in the afternoon were unusually well attended. The musical numbers rendered by the scholars of the public and St. Mary's schools were exceptionally fine and showed the results of careful training on the part of their instructors.

The various orders were read by Adj. C. E. Bowen. R. B. Waltrous, son of a veteran, read Lincoln's Gettysburg speech and his rendition of the address was a masterly one. The principal address was delivered by U. S. Senator C. E. Townsend and it was a brilliant and interesting one. Comrade Daniels, of Tecumseh, followed Mr. Townsend in a short talk of interest to the veterans of the Civil War. After the exercises a procession was formed, headed by autos which conveyed the members of the G. A. R. and W. R. C., followed by the Chelsea band, school children and citizens which wended its way to the cemeteries where the graves of the soldiers and sailors were decorated. The exercises of the G. A. R. were carried out at the monument.

The decoration day program as carried out this year was one of the best that has been rendered in Chelsea in a number of years and not a single accident happened to mar the day.

DECISIONS OF THE SUPREME COURT

RAILROADS NOT HELD RESPONSIBLE FOR ICE AND SNOW PLATFORMS.

SETTLE SCHOOL BOARD CASE

Deposed President at Bay City Wins Out and Will Resume Position After Standstill in Business for Months.

Lansing, Mich.—The supreme court holds that a railroad company is not negligent for snow and ice collecting on the platform of trains en route. Herman Meyer, of Chicago, boarded a Michigan Central train in 1909, for Three Oaks, Mich. Leaving the smoker, he started to go into another car and slipped on the platform, falling to the ground. He was injured and brought suit against the road. The trial court directed a verdict for the road on the ground that there was no negligence on the part of the railroad company, as testimony showed the steps to have been clear of ice at the starting point and that it snowed while en route. The supreme court affirmed the decision.

Bay City Case Is Settled.

Edward Lichtig, of Bay City, has won his fight against his opponents in the board of education, the supreme court having upheld his right to veto the resolution deposing him from the presidency of the board. A faction of the board opposed to Lichtig adopted a resolution voting him out of the presidency, but Lichtig, as president, vetoed it and the matter was carried to the supreme court, which has now sustained him in his action.

Lichtig says he will call a special meeting of the board to catch up on the business of the board, which has been at a standstill since the fight last winter, and further factional fighting is in prospect.

Settles Point for Detroit.

The supreme court holds that assessment must be made only against real estate in Detroit on account of property condemned for a street opening, and not against both real and personal property. Henry M. Weil, of Detroit, brought the case to the supreme court.

WOMAN WINS IN HIGH COURT

Judge Stewart Is Ordered to Hear Case Against Real Estate Dealer.

Kalamazoo, Mich.—The effort of Mrs. Nellie Merleau to regain property she alleges was taken from her under false pretenses by Fred Merriam, a real estate dealer, has been given assistance by the supreme court. Recently Judge Stewart decided that he could not hear this case, stating there had been no violation of a law. Mrs. Merleau had her attorneys start mandamus proceedings in the supreme court against Judge Stewart, and now comes the order that he must try the case. Meanwhile, the grand jury investigated this case and returned an indictment against Merriam.

Will Not Increase Assessments.

Muskegon, Mich.—The local board of review will not attempt any general increase of the city's assessment roll to bring it up to the strict cash value basis of assessment fixed by expert of the state tax commission. This is the declaration of members of the board now in session in this city. The board recently made by City Assessor William Moore, which sent the totals here over $12,000,000, is considered about 70 per cent of the cash value.

Jackson Brewers Are Sentenced.

Jackson, Mich.—Carl Eberle and Steven H. Carroll, of the Eberle Brewing Co., was sentenced to the Detroit house of correction Monday for 90 days and in addition to each pay a fine of $200 and $45 costs. The respondents were convicted in 1909 of violating the local option law and appealed to the United States supreme court, which affirmed the conviction.

In view of this fact, the postmaster says he will work for an increase in pay for all supervisory officials of the office because of their increased duties.

ARREST OF GUST SAVES HIM FROM DEATH IN SEA

Marquette, Mich.—Gust Pannila of Negaunee is not among the victims of the sunken steamer Empress of Ireland, although his name appears on the passenger list and he was announced as one of the lost. Instead, Gust was reposing safely in the custody of officers the night the Empress went down. Half an hour after he purchased a ticket to Finland an officer arrested him on a warrant sworn out by a Duluth publishing house for which he had worked, charging him with embezzlement. Gust settled soon after his arrest, but the train he was to take was the last that would permit him to reach the Empress before she sailed, and he had to lay over.

LOST OCEAN LINER EMPRESS OF IRELAND

969 PERISH IN SEA DISASTER

Great Liner Goes to Bottom at Mouth of St. Lawrence River Following a Collision With a Collier.

Rimouski, Que., May 31.—Nine hundred and sixty-nine persons lost their lives Friday morning when the great Canadian Pacific twin screw liner Empress of Ireland was rammed amidships in a thick fog off Father Point in the St. Lawrence and sunk by the Norwegian collier Storstad.

Four hundred and eighteen survivors were picked up from floating wreckage and two lifeboats. And only 12 of the saved are women. Gathered piecemeal from survivors the horror of this wreck grows with the telling.

Waters Quickly Engulf Ship.

The doomed ones had little time to pray. They were engulfed by the onrushing waters that swallowed the big ship inside of nineteen minutes from the time she was struck.

The wireless operators on the Empress, sticking to their posts to the last, had time only to send a few "S. O. S." calls for help when the rising waters silenced their instruments. That silence told the rescuers miles away more potentially than a bugle that doom had overtaken the ship.

Only six hours before this fateful collision the passengers sang as a good-night hymn "God Be With You Till We Meet Again," played by the Salvation Army band on board.

The members of that band and most of the 165 Salvationists were among the lost.

Survivors Tell of Fog.

It was foggy, according to survivors, when the Empress of Ireland, a steel-hulled, steel-bulkheaded ship of more than eight thousand tons, left Montreal at 4:30 Thursday afternoon in command of H. G. Kendall of the Royal Naval Reserve, one of the most skilled of transatlantic navigators.

Forest fires also obscured the atmosphere and the big ship, in charge of a pilot, proceeded slowly on her way to sea. At midnight the pilot alid left near Father Point, shouting a merry "Bon Voyage" as he went down their ladder to his waiting boat.

The darkness at this time was intense and the ship under the slowest speed possible with steerageway held her course. Her decks were deserted. The passengers had all sought their berths with no thought of impending death.

Out of the darkness, on the port side, soon after 2:30 in the morning there loomed the little Norwegian collier, not half the size of the Empress, but fated to be her destroyer.

Not until the collier was almost abreast of the big liner was the danger known on either ship. The fog had blotted out the lights, as well as the port and starboard lights of both ships. Quick orders trumpeted on both vessels were heard. But they came all too late.

Strikes Ship Amidships.

The steel-pointed prow of the Storstad struck the liner amidships and then forged aft, ripping and tearing its way through the Empress of Ireland.

that rent the water poured with the force of a Niagara. The bow of the Storstad smashed its way through berths on that side of the ship, killing passengers sleeping in their berths and grinding bodies to pieces.

Reaching the stern of the big liner, the Storstad staggered off in the darkness, her bow crumpled by the impact. Her commander was ready a few minutes later, when he found his ship would float, to aid the crippled and sinking Empress, but he was too late to save the majority of those on board.

Carried to Bottom.

The Empress of Ireland recoiled almost on her starboard beam ends from the blow of the collier and passengers were flung from their berths against the walls of their staterooms.

Many were stunned and before they had time to recover were carried to the bottom with the ship.

The vast torrents pouring into the great gash on the port side, aft, filled the corridors and flooded every state-room about the midship section inside of four minutes.

There was never a chance for the helpless ones in the after cabins and staterooms of the liner. With her port side laid open for half its length from the midship section to the stern, a solve had more chance to float than the Empress of Ireland, and the trapped passengers in that after section were doomed from the moment the Storstad struck.

Reeling from the blow the ship began to settle almost immediately as the water rushed into the big rent.

From the forward cabins, however, men and women in night attire stumbled along the corridors and up the companion way to the promenade deck—the deck below, the one on which the boats rested.

Swarm to Deck.

Up they swarmed on deck in their night clothing to find the ship heeling away to port and the deck slanting at a degree that made it almost impossible to stand even clinging to railings.

Men and women, shrieking, praying, crying for aid that was fated to arrive too late, fell over one another in that last struggle for life on board the doomed Empress of Ireland.

Frenzied mothers leaped overboard with their babies in their arms. Others knelt on deck and tried to pray in the few moments left to them. Some were flung overboard by the heeling of the sinking ship and some broke their legs or arms in trying to reach the lifeboats.

Above the din of the struggle on the great promenade deck could be heard Captain Kendall shouting commands for the launching of the lifeboats. Several were launched in the 19 minutes that the ship floated.

"The collier, being only something over 3,000 tons, did not reach up even to the upper or topmost deck of our hull. Her bow cut under the upper deck and took a peeling off the side of our ship that allowed the water to rush into the lower decks. Then the liner heeled over, and even those in the superstructure deck rooms had no chance to save themselves. Hundreds of them must have been dumped out of their berths and slammed against the walls with stunning force."

Kendall Blames Collier.

Rimouski, Que., June 1.—Capt. Harry G. Kendall of the Empress of Ireland blames the commander of the collier Storstad for the sinking of the liner. Before the coroner's jury Saturday he told how the Empress dropped its pilot Thursday night at Father Point, near which the disaster occurred.

"We then proceeded full speed," continued Capt. Kendall. After passing Rock point gas buoy I sighted the steamer Storstad, it then being clear.

"The Storstad was then about one point, twelve degrees, on my starboard bow. At that time I saw a slight fog bank coming gradually from the land and knew it was going to pass between the Storstad and myself. The Storstad was about two miles away at that time.

Blows Whistle as Warning.

"Then the fog came and the Storstad's lights disappeared. I rang full speed astern on my engines and stopped my ship.

"At the same time I blew three short blasts on the steamer's whistle, meaning (I am going full speed astern.) The Storstad answered with the whistle, giving me one prolonged blast.

"I then looked over the side of my ship into the water and I saw my ship was stopped. I stopped my engines and blew two long blasts, meaning 'My ship was underway but stopped and has no way upon her.' He answered me again with one prolonged blast. The sound was then about four points upon by starboard bow.

Lights Appear From Gloom.

"It was still foggy. About two minutes afterward I saw his red and green lights. He would then be about one ship's length away from me. I shouted to him through the megaphone to go full speed astern, as I saw that the collision was inevitable; at the same time I put my engine full speed ahead with my helm hard port, with the object of avoiding, if possible, the shock. Almost at the same time he came right in and cut the Empress down in a line between the funnels.

"I shouted to the Storstad to keep full speed ahead to fill the hole he had made. He then backed away. The ship began to fill and listed over rapidly. When the Storstad struck the Empress I had stopped my engines.

Should Have Heard Call.

"What was the cause of the collision?" asked the coroner.

"The Storstad running into the Empress of Ireland, which was stopped," answered Kendall.

Capt. Kendall, in answer to a question by a juror said that when he shouted to the Storstad's captain to stand fast he received no answer. It was impossible for him not to have been heard, he added.

"I shouted five times; I also shouted 'Keep ahead,'" said Capt. Kendall, "and if he did not hear that he should have done it, as a seaman should have known that."

Not His Fault, Says Andersen.

Montreal, Que., June 1.—With its bows crumpled in and twisted around at an acute angle to port, and with a gap showing on the port side only a foot or so above the water line, the Norwegian collier Storstad, which rammed the liner Empress of Ireland, limped into the harbor.

A few minutes later a warrant of arrest, taken out by the Canadian Pacific railway, was nailed to its mainmast by order of W. Simpson Walker, K. C., register of the Quebec admiralty.

Subsequently a statement based on Capt. Andersen's report, as well as the reports of other officers, was given out.

According to the captain and officers, contrary to what has been stated by the captain of the Empress of Ireland, the Storstad did not back away after the collision. On the contrary, it steamed ahead in an effort to keep its bows in the hole it had dug into the side of the Empress.

Denies Vessel Moved Away.

The Empress, however, according to the Storstad's officers, headed away and bent the Storstad's bow over at an acute angle to port. After that the Empress was hidden from the view of the Storstad, and despite the fact that the Storstad kept its whistle blowing, it could not locate the Empress until the cries of some of the victims in the water were heard.

Capt. Andersen denied that he moved a mile or so away from the Empress after his vessel struck the liner. The Storstad had not moved, he said. It was the Empress which had changed position, he declared.

According to the report made by Capt. Andersen to the owners, immediately the collision occurred, he heard Capt. Kendall shout, calling on him not to pull away.

"I won't," shouted the Storstad's captain, as loud as he could. After that the Empress disappeared from the Storstad's view.

SUCCEEDS IN CANADA

An interesting and successful American farmer, Lew Palmer, of Staveland, Alta., passed through the city today. Mr. Palmer came from Duluth, Minn., just ten years ago, and brought with him four cows and three horses—and that was his all. He homesteaded in the Staveland district, and today has 480 acres of land, $3,000 worth of implements, 24 Percheron horses, made $1,000 out of hogs last year, raised 7,000 bushels of wheat, 6,000 bushels of oats, 12 acres of potatoes, and 10 tons of onions. His farm and stock is worth $30,000, and he made it all in ten years.—Exchange.—Advertisement.

"Yes," replied the chairman. "We had to do something to make you seem important. Nobody around here ever heard of you."

Important to Mothers. Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, a safe and sure remedy for infants and children, and see that it bears the Signature of Dr. J. C. Watson. In Use For Over 30 Years. Children Cry for Fletcher's Castoria.

Its Supply.

"The meter furnishes light reading, doesn't it?"

"Yes, in volumes of gas."

Benefit of the Best Light.

We should be as generous with a man as we are with a picture, which we always give the benefit of the best struggle in life.

Trade Secret.

"Where do you get the plot for your stories?"

"I have never had but one plot," declared the popular author, "and I swiped that from 'Romeo and Juliet.' All you have to do is to change the scenery and the dialect."

Dove on Gun of Death Ship.

While the Montana was steaming slowly northward through the fog a white dove, the omen of peace, blown apparently from the Virginia shore, alighted on a ten-inch gun on the deck of the cruiser. More than 100 blue jackets on the Montana, their terms having expired, are glad to be home. A little yellow swallow, blown to sea near Cuba, remained on one of the cruisers all the way to Vera Cruz and is still on the deck of the warship—New York Correspondence Philadelphia Times.

Oldest Welshman.

The oldest Welshman in the world is Mr. Thomas Morris, who lives at Westerville, Neb. Although he is now an American citizen, he was born a subject of George III, at the little village of Berlew, Montgomeryshire, on January 15, 1794. He is therefore one hundred and twenty years old.

His father was an agricultural laborer and died when the boy was three years old. Morris was apprenticed to a cobbler and followed his trade in this country until 1871, when, at the age of seventy-nine, he emigrated to America.

The old man is very proud of the fact that he has lived in three centuries. He remembers the union of Great Britain and Ireland, the assassination of President Lincoln and the laying of the first Atlantic cable.

Morris can still walk with the aid of a stick and see with the aid of spectacles, which he first purchased after passing his hundredth birthday. His hearing is good, and he enjoys a cup of tea or coffee with each meal.—Daily Express.

HER MOTHER-IN-LAW

Proved a Wise, Good Friend.

A young woman out in Ia. found a wise, good friend in her mother-in-law, jokes notwithstanding. She writes: "I was greatly troubled with my stomach, complexion was blotchy and yellow. After meals I often suffered sharp pains and would have to lie down. My mother often told me it was the coffee I drank at meals. But when I'd quit coffee I'd have a severe headache."

"While visiting my mother-in-law I remarked that she always made such good coffee, and asked her to tell me how. She laughed and told me it was easy to make good 'coffee' when you use Postum."

"I began to use Postum as soon as I got home, and now we have the same good 'coffee' (Postum) every day, and I have no more trouble. Indigestion is a thing of the past, and my complexion has cleared up beautifully."

"My grandmother suffered a great deal with her stomach. Her doctor told her to leave off coffee. She then took tea but that was just as bad. She finally was induced to try Postum which she has used for over a year. She traveled during the winter over the greater part of Iowa, visiting, something she had not been able to do for years. She says she owes her present good health to Postum."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Postum now comes in two forms: Regular Postum—must be well boiled. 15c and 25c packages.

Instant Postum—is a soluble powder. A teaspoonful dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water and, with cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly. 30c and 50c tins.

The cost per cup of both kinds is about the same. "There's a Reason" for Postum.—Sold by Grocers.

Her eyes wandered from me, whom she located by voice, toward the Englishman, who remained silent, his scarlet coat conspicuous in the glare. A moment her glances met, his face showing white and drawn, hers I could not see.

"Oh, so it is you, is it?" a metallic ring to the low voice. "I thought you were safely away before this. And you have been hiding here. I ought to have suspected that. Now I remember, you knew of the tunnel."

He did not answer, although I saw his lips move. What was the man afraid of? He had been sharp and snappy enough with me.

"I think you mistake, mademoiselle. I interposed, shocked at the expression of the man's face. "He has told me how it occurred; it was another who killed your father."

"What other?"

"A negro half-breed; I encountered him in the passage; we fought it out there in the dark."

"Alone? Where was this—this man?"

"He was lying unconscious beyond, next to the entrance."

"And—and," the words trembled on her lips, "you—killed the negro?"

"No, mademoiselle, I did not. We struggled together; then he fired at me, and in the flash saw my face. The sight seemed to frighten the man, for he broke away, and endeavored to lively aside. Even by then the treacherous cowardice of him had returned. At sight of his face I cocked my weapon, every nerve taut as a bow string, breathing through clenched teeth. I cannot say that I saw much of what occurred in that first moment—I had no eyes but for the red jacket—and yet I must have perceived it all. I remember now the whole scene, as if it hung painted before me, in all its vivid coloring and rapid movement. I saw the chiefs start up, grasping their weapons, at the first wailing of alarm, a fierce intensity in their eyes. A glance at those two unarmed figures, and they stood still, gazing at them, yet with a shadow upon the dark, scowling faces that chilled my blood. The yelling ceased; there was no sound, but the pressing forward of bodies, and the crackle of flames. The Shawnee chief, a dark, saturnine face showing under his war-bonnet, stood erect with folded arms. Down the lane of warriors, apparently oblivious to their presence, Mademoiselle came, the Englishman slouching behind. The crowd of figures hid for a moment Brady and his guard, and surged in between me and Lappin.

CHAPTER XVIII.

The Fire in the Clearing.

"Go on now," I commanded grimly, "and do not forget. Mademoiselle, do you go first, and show the way. I will keep good guard of the rear."

He climbed the stairs, muttering savagely, with me following so close behind, the muzzle of my gun touched his back.

"I am playing safe," I muttered grimly, "so don't try any tricks in the dark."

We came out on the shore, pausing a moment to gaze out across the water to the gloom of the mainland.

The red and yellow flames lit up the open space fairly well, but all around the black forest wall closed in tightly. It was like a grotesque picture in a frame. Before the fire, mostly with their backs toward us I counted twenty savages on the grass, their red skins and matted hair showing clearly. They were silent, motionless, apparently staring into the flames. The fiendish yelling came from beyond, from the other side of the fire, where I caught furtive glimpses of wildly dancing figures, of arms flung in air, of brandished guns, and streaming hair.

I saw Mademoiselle rise silently to her feet, but my hand only gripped harder on the Englishman's shoulder as I watched. Brady advanced between two Indians, his arms bound behind him, a bloody cloth concealing his jaw. He was bare-headed, his clothing rags, and he staggered slightly as he walked. An Indian struck him with a stick, a vicious blow, and Lappin jerked him forward between the chiefs and the fire. The warriors sat there impassive, emotionless, their eyes cold and merciless. Brady looked into that ring of savage faces without a quiver, throwing back his shoulders, blood trickling down one cheek. It even seemed to me his eyes smiled. Then one of the chiefs spoke without rising, in deep guttural voice. I heard the words, but they were meaningless, a jumble of sound, yet somehow menacing, graft with threat. The discordant yelling ceased, and a dark mass of forms clustered beyond the blaze, drawing together in a half circle behind the prisoner. The light played over dark, sinister faces and sparkled in the wild savage eyes.

The girl stepped backward, noiselessly, until she stood beside me, her hand touching my arm.

"We are here in time," she whispered, "but can delay no longer."

"He is condemned then? They will not spare him?"

"The chief speaks in Shawnee, and I know little of the tongue, but there is no mercy in his words."

"And you mean to go out there, to face those fiends? Are you not afraid?"

She smiled, a sad, brave smile up into my eyes.

"Monsieur, I must," she said pleadingly. "It is not only his life, but my duty. I leave my rifle here, and bear this; with Christ I am not afraid."

And in her clasped hands, reddened by the flames, I saw a crucifix.

"Mademoiselle, if this man speaks a word of treachery; if by look or gesture he attempts to play us false, will you give me a sign?"

"Yes, Monsieur."

"Clasp your hands like this about your head; it will be his death warrant. Now, sir, are you ready?"

There was hate in his eyes, but I was glad of it.

"Oh! but I'll get you for this. Yes, I'm ready, you clod of a Yankee peasant! but you'll pay before ever you get out of these woods—oh, Lord! you'll pay!"

I half thought he would spring at me, and drew back, my rifle lifted. But he only laughed, his lips snarling, and strode past crunching his way through the thicket. I caught the swift upward glance of the girl's eyes—a message of thanks, ay! more—and she had followed him. I sprang aside amid the trunks of trees, confident I could not be seen, that every savage eye would be riveted upon those two advancing figures. The light afforded me sufficient guidance, and I possessed some idea of where I wished to go. I found it with a dozen quick steps, and, even as the first wild scream of discovery burst from the red throats, I crept in behind a decaying log, at the very edge of the opening, and trust my rifle barrel across the rotten bark. Deliberately, coolly, with full determination to act, I drew back on the red jacket.

They were not five yards away, advancing straight toward the startled group of chiefs, the girl slightly in advance, the freight on her uplifted face, the white crucifix gleaming in her hands. The Englishman, a step behind, his first mad anger already dying, walked like a criminal, with lowered head, and eyes glancing furtively aside. Even by then the treacherous cowardice of him had returned. At sight of his face I cocked my weapon, every nerve taut as a bow string, breathing through clenched teeth. I cannot say that I saw much of what occurred in that first moment—I had no eyes but for the red jacket—and yet I must have perceived it all. Down the lane of warriors, apparently oblivious to their presence, Mademoiselle came, the Englishman slouching behind. The crowd of figures hid for a moment Brady and his guard, and surged in between me and Lappin.

There was silence; I could hear the wind in the tree tops, the restless movements, the heavy breathing of the excited savages; somewhere a dog barked. Rene stopped, her hand now touching the soldier's sleeve, her eyes on the dark, savage face confronting her. A moment he stared at her, then at the Englishman, while I held my breath.

"Why you—here—gain?" he asked in halting English, the face, like bronze. "I send you to forest—why come back?"

"Because I am a Wyandot and a Christian," she answered, the words slow and distinct. "We kill warriors in battle, not by torture. Sis-e-te-wah, I come with this that I may beg your prisoner's life. See; it is the cross of the Great God."

"Huh!" he grunted. "Why should we listen to a squaw? The warriors of the Shawnees are men."

"So are the Wyandots, Sis-e-te-wah; they are as the birds of the air. Once they came to the villages of the Shawnees. You know it well—they were warriors, under great chiefs. Yet they listen to words of wisdom from a squaw. I am Running Water; I have sat in the councils of my people; I am the daughter of the White Chief."

She glanced about her proudly, looking into the ring of dark faces. "I am a squaw, but I am a Wyandot—no Shawnee dare place a hand on me."

"Tis so," he answered gravely. "I know—but not my young men! I best you go—I speak true—the white man will die—it has been decided—the Shawnees know not your God—the God of the Long Robes—the white man dies."

"But he came in peace, not war; he was a messenger to the Wyandots."

The chief had stepped back, and lifted his hand, but now he stood statue-like before her.

"He great hunter—he warrior—we have met in battle. He kill warriors—my tribe—now he die—it is spoken. Sis-e-te-wah listen—no more."

"But you must! you shall!" he insisted. "Tis not the Wyandots alone who say this. You may refuse me; you may disregard the cross I bear, but you dare not disobey the word of the English—the great chief across the water. If you will not heed the

HUERTA READY TO QUIT IN MEXICO

PEACE DELEGATES ANNOUNCE HIS WILLINGNESS TO RESIGN.

WHEN PEACE IS RESTORED

Dictator Has Instructed His Representatives That He Will Not Stand in the Way of Any Settlement of Mexican Troubles.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Gen. Huerta is preparing to resign. He Tuesday authorized his representatives at the mediation conference to announce to the world that "neither mistaken pride nor personal interest" would prevent his withdrawal when once Mexico is "politically pacified," and the government succeeding his is so constituted that it can count on the support of public opinion in Mexico.

The Mexican delegates in their formal statement revealed that they had been instructed from the first to inform the mediators that Gen. Huerta's personality would not be an obstacle toward reaching a peaceful settlement. They also stated in unequivocal terms that the internal situation in Mexico was "necessarily bound up with the international questions," and that this spirit had actuated them in coming to the mediation conference.

RULING OF BOARD REVERSED

Supreme Court Finds That Accident Board Erred in P. M. Case.

Lansing, Mich.—The supreme court Monday decided against the industrial accident board in the case of Philip Limron vs. the Pere Marquette railroad. Limron, while employed by the road, suffered the loss of a foot and was badly jammed up. The industrial accident board decided that the road should pay him one-half his weekly wage during the time of his disability caused by injuries other than the loss of his foot and one-half his weekly wage for 115 weeks for the loss of the foot.

The supreme court says that the ruling of the industrial accident board is erroneous and ordered that it be set aside and vacated. The court further says that the workmen's compensation law speaks in terms of disability and that the road shall pay for either one injury or the other and not for both.

M. A. C. Draws All Its Funds.

Lansing, Mich.—The M. A. C. withdrew all funds due from the state treasury Tuesday, amounting of $48,023. This action was taken in line with the recent decision of the supreme court, which gave the college the right to funds to its credit in the state treasury.

This amount, however, will have to tide the college over until July 1, when $50,000 in federal funds become available, and the regular appropriation at the rate of the one-tenth mill tax.

Back salaries to instructors were paid at the college.

Two Brothers Drowned at Lansing.

Lansing, Mich.—Locked in each others arms as they embraced death together, Albert and Arthur Lietzau, brothers, drowned in Grand river Tuesday, after the boat they were fishing from had sprung a leak and filled before either of the lads realized their danger. Their bodies were recovered almost immediately, and it was thought for a time that Albert's life could be saved, but all efforts were in vain.

Early in the evening the boys, who worked in local factories, had gone on the river for a few hours' fishing.

Grand Rapids P. M. Ousted.

Washington—The postoffice department Tuesday ordered the bondsmen of W. Millard Palmer, postmaster at Grand Rapids, to take over that office. The bondsmen will designate a successor to Mr. Palmer, but Senator William Alden Smith will not consent to the confirmation of Charles Hogadone, who has been named by President Wilson as the administration choice for postmaster.

MICHIGAN NEWS IN BRIEF

Hiram Still, a Detroit ship owner and Mason, and for years associated with the Loud interests, was remembered at Saginaw Memorial day by the unveiling of a handsome drinking fountain which his wife has dedicated to him. It stands in Rust park and has a trough for horses and dogs. Mr. Still died May 30, 1913.

One of the features of Memorial day at Lansing was the presentation of a $500 diamond-studded badge to United States Marshal Henry Behrendt by a number of citizens and his friends.

Director Raymond Weyer, of the Hackley Art gallery, at Muskegon, head of the exhibit department of the Michigan State Art federation, has been signally honored by an invitation to become judge of exhibits in the fine arts section of the twenty-fourth annual Canadian industrial exposition at Winnipeg, Manitoba, July 10 to 18.

Patience—I see a London railroad station has been equipped with penny-in-the-slot machines for the sale of tickets to persons who wish to accompany friends to the train platforms.

Patience—That's too cheap. I know I'd give more than a penny to see some of my friends leave the town.

SCALP ITCHED AND BURNED

833 South Selos St., Circleville, Ohio.—"My little girl's trouble first started on her head in a bunch of little pimples full of yellow-looking matter and they would spread in large places. In a short time they would open. Her scalp was awfully red and inflamed and the burning and itching were so intense that she would scratch and rub till it would leave ugly sores. The sores also appeared on her body, and her clothing irritated them so that I had to put real soft cloth next to her body. She would lie awake of nights and was very worrisome. At times she was tortured with itching and burning."

"I tried different remedies with no benefit for months. I had given up all hope of her ever getting rid of it, then I concluded to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. The second application gave relief. In

A Bumper Crop.

The following is given out by the department of agriculture at Washington, D. C.

Estimates are given out by the department on the bumper wheat crop show that the total 1914 production, winter and spring wheat combined may reach 880,000,000 bushels.

This is a result of a combination of the largest acreage ever recorded with the promise of the largest yield per acre in years. There is not a single state in which the winter wheat prospect is unfavorable. The department of agriculture is figuring that the spring wheat crop will be about 250,000,000 bushels.

The amount of spring ploughing was above the average this year, despite the tardiness of spring.

Michigan Ranks High.

Did you know that Michigan ranks high among the states in value of her agricultural products, standing first, second or third in many important crops? The state is notable because of its enormous annual production and the unsurpassed variety of its products. The horticultural interest have long given her a position of national importance. In addition to this it is important fact that the possibilities for future development within the state are very great, for as yet 51.5 per cent of the total land area is included in farms, with enormous area of good soil remaining to be reclaimed. Much interesting and surprising information about "Michigan Agriculture" is contained in a new bulletin (Special Bulletin No. 70) which can be procured by writing to Michigan Experiment Station, East Lansing, Michigan.

County Rights in Roads.

Attorney General Fellows has decided a peculiar case in road law which has been bothering the authorities of Dickinson county. That county several years ago purchased direct the right of way for a road. Not long ago it was decided to change the road and made a trade with the owner of the property through which the road passed in which the county gave him the old right of way in exchange for a new one through the same tract. The township in which the property was situated put in the claim that the right of way reverted to it under the law.

Attorney General Fellows decides that the original right of way reverts to the property owner, and not to the township for the reason that the township never had control of the road.

He also said that the county has a perfect right to change the course of a road.

"What is so rare as a day in June? Then, if ever, come perfect days"

Yes, and the perfection of June days inspires many people to render more nearly perfect their work in life.

The man in town is making every effort to have his home surroundings, lawn, garden, and house, at their best. The farmer is putting in long days in assisting his acres to produce their bountiful crops. The ladies are attractively gowned and their homes in fine order as though to keep up with the pace set by nature. We all feel inspired to work for results.

Speaking of results, one definite aim which every individual should work towards is the gradual but steady building up of a bank account. It adds to the all-round satisfaction of a person's life to see the tangible results of his labor.

CARRANZA SENDS NOTE TO U.S. PRESS

REBEL LEADER DOESN'T SEE HOW MEDIATORS CAN FORCE SETTLEMENT.

HAS 50,000 MEN IN THE FIELD

Says Occupation of Mexico City is Matter of Only Few Months and That Huerta is to Be Eliminated.

El Paso, Texas.—A semi-official statement from Gen. Carranza's headquarters at Durango, criticising the actions of the A. B. C. mediators at Niagara Falls, and an announcement from General Villa reiterating his allegiance as a military leader to Carranza, were developments Monday of the Mexican situation here. Villa arrived at Chihuahua city from Torreon on his way for a visit to Juarez. Carranza was reported as having begun preparations to move by way of Torreon to Saltillo, where he will perfect his provisional government.

The statement from Durango, where Carranza's provisional government was addressed to the press of the United States, with a note to the effect that it had official sanction, although it was not a formal declaration. The telegram, in English, arrived here over the National Telegraph wires.

A copy follows, in part: "The dominant sentiment of the constitutionalists regarding the proceedings of the mediation commission at Niagara Falls is one of astonishment that there should be such an apparent lack of understanding on the part of that body not only with regard to conditions in Mexico, but as to the attitude of the constitutionalists regarding the mediators. This lack of understanding is not confined to the commissioners themselves, but seems to be shared by a large portion of the American press as well as by the Washington government."

The constitutionalists are especially caustic in their comment on the proposal of the commission to take up the agrarian question and propose some form of settlement. They declare this is a purely internal problem and that they will tolerate no outside interference. Indeed, this is their attitude with regard to the entire proceedings of the mediation commission.

The constitutionalist leaders are wondering how they are to be forced to do this in view of their present accomplishments and by whom they are to be crushed if they decline to obey the commission.

The constitutionalist leaders assert that with an army of approximately 50,000 men in the field, the occupation of the remainder of Mexico, the capture of the capitol and the elimination of Huerta and his followers is a matter of not more than two months.

"The inference that Huerta might become a candidate for president at a future election is regarded as impossible. He is regarded as a criminal by the constitutionalists and that he should be a candidate for anything, except the guillotine or the electric chair, is not considered seriously by them."

BOY DROWNS AT MT. CLEMENS

Little Fellow Loses Life Trying to Learn to Swim.

Mt. Clemens, Mich.—Adolph Plomgren, 9 years old, was drowned here Saturday afternoon in the Clinton river.

He with other boys was in the water for the first time and was trying to learn to swim. Several of his companions heard his cry for help as he became stuck in the mud, but were unable to get to him before he was drowned.

The boy with his mother and sister came here from Philadelphia six weeks ago to visit Mrs. Peterson, of Welts street, his grandmother, and were to leave for home this week. The mother collapsed when informed of the death of her child.

TELEGRAPHIC FLASHES

The senior girls of the University of Michigan have selected "Prunella" for their annual play. Miss Marjory Nicholson, of Detroit, and Harold Nutting, of McConellsville, O., are in charge of the rehearsal.

Miss Marian White, who graduated from the University of Michigan, has been named dean of women for the summer session. She has been mentioned as a successor to Dean Grace Fuller, of the state normal, at Ypsilanti, who has resigned.

Authority has been received from Washington for the establishment of a branch local postoffice at Hurenia Beach, near Port Huron for the accommodation of summer resorters.

The city of Battle Creek has selected a week in which to learn to swim. An expert, George H. Coraan, of Toronto, will be hired, from funds raised by the school board, sanitarian, Chamber of Commerce, and other subscribers, to teach "all comers"—probably at the sanitarian pools, since the "lid" on bathing at Lake Gogswic has not been removed.

AGRICULTURE TO BE TAUGHT

Forty Michigan High Schools Will Have Courses by Specially Trained Teachers in Farming.

East Lansing, Mich.—When the school year opens next September, about 40 high schools in Michigan will offer regular courses in agriculture, taught by specially trained teachers. This number includes 10 schools which will take up the new work for the first time. According to Prof. W. H. French, of M. A. C., progress in the agricultural work among the high schools has been most encouraging, considering the fact that it has been accomplished without state aid or state bonus of any kind. This extension, it is said, has been brought about solely through the interest of school superintendents, farmers and others.

The introduction of agriculture as a subject of study into high school courses was begun in the fall of 1908, with one high school experimenting as to the development of the course of study, its scope, arrangement as related to other high school work and probable aims for future development. The result of the experiment was very satisfactory, and the development of agriculture in the public high schools has become a part of the extension service of the agricultural college.

The general receipts for May were $1,250,577.82, and the disbursements $740,319.30.

D. U. R. Loses in Supreme Court.

Lansing, Mich.—The Detroit United Railway and Henry Mince, Detroit coal dealer, must pay $5,500 to Rosa Purulewski, the supreme court having Monday affirmed the judgment for that amount granted in the Wayne circuit court.

In March, 1912, D. U. R. car struck a coal wagon belonging to Mince and a heavy board on the wagon flew off and struck Rosa, breaking one of her legs and inflicting other injuries.

The ONLOOKER

HENRY HOWLAND

PRINTER'S INK

Why does the maiden day by day So eagerly keep practicing? From all things else she turns away And tries her best to learn to sing. Is it because she hopes some time To cause her hearers to rejoice? Will she regard it as sublime? To merely gladden with her voice? Nay, there is one thought in her mind What time she warbles without stint; It is that she may some day find Her name in print.

Why does the young man daily daub And live upon a crust of bread? Is it because he loves his job, And has he taken Art to wed? Does he believe, down in his heart, That commerce and that trade are vile? Has he convinced himself that art And art alone is worth his while? Nay, though he labors eagerly In laying on each shade and tint, It is that he may some day see His name in print.

Why does the man who sells or buys While lines are forming on his face Crowd back the weaker one who tries To be a winner in the race? Is it because he thinks the rich Alone may sit among the high? Or is he made for pleasures which The money that he seeks will buy? Nay, wet and dry and warm and cold, He keeps on with a heart of fire So that some day he may behold His name in print.

Why He Hesitated. "Why don't you jump in and try to save him?" asked one of the people who had hurried to the spot where efforts were being made to resuscitate the drowned man. "They say you were standing here on the shore at the time and saw him struggling."

"Yes, I was here."

"Well, did you suppose he was merely fooling in the water?"

"No, I could see from the first that he was in danger."

"Why in the world, then, did you do nothing to save him? Can't you swim?"

"Oh, yes, I'm a good swimmer; but—"

"Then it must have been cowardice that kept you from going to his rescue."

"No, sir! I resent any such insinuation. I didn't go to his assistance because I could not get satisfactory answers from him when I asked whether he subscribed to the articles of my religious faith or belonged to the political party whose ticket I have always voted straight."

WHAT HE SAID.

"Did I understand you to say that you considered a common school education sufficient for your son?"

"No, I didn't say that exactly. I said I wanted him to learn to spell and write, even if he had to stay in the grammar grades until he was grown up."

Wise Father.

Father has to wear his whiskers just as mother tells him to; Father's can't buy clothes while mother thinks his last year's suit will do; Not till ma consents can father have a necktie that is new.

Mother never thinks of asking father how she gets dresses when she wants them and decides what kind to wear; Dad is wise and knows it wouldn't do him any good to care.

What He Would Do.

"What would you do," asked the lieutenant who was instructing the class in aviation, "if you were up a thousand feet in the air and the steering gear should go wrong or the engine should fail?"

"I'd hit the earth in about twenty seconds, I'm thinkin'," replied Sergeant McManus.

Generous of Father.

"Has your father said anything about the wedding present he intends to give us?"

"Yes, I heard him telling mother yesterday that he thought it would be nice to give us the piano he bought for me a couple of months ago on the installment plan, and let you make the future payments."

Reasonable Suspicion.

"I don't know what to think of my husband."

"Why?"

"He seems almost too good lately to be true. When I got him to help me rearrange some of the furniture yesterday he skinned his knuckles and didn't blame it on me."

Wise Precaution.

"Have you ever found that New York was impolite?"

"No; I've always made it a rule to get out of the town before all of my money was gone."

MONEY IN BASKET WILLOW

By E. VAN BENTHUYSEN.

There is an uncommonly high margin of profit in willow-growing. A large demand for willow is now supplied by import, though American grown rods are of good quality when proper care is taken in their culture.

Of late years willow furniture has sprung into fashion, and today no minor industry is more prosperous than that devoted to its supply. Manufacturers demand a steady supply of superior willow and if more American farmers could be convinced of its practicability there is no reason why the further development of the industry should not be possible.

Experiments show that the commercial quality of the rods grown in this as manufacturers of willow ware have been encouraged to plant willows for profit on lands hitherto considered entirely useless.

Poor soil produces paying crops where there is a market for short rods. Land on which water is stagnant during the summer should be avoided. If by drainage the water level can be lowered at least six feet below the surface, the ground will be appropriate.

In the fall plow 10 or 12 inches deep for planting in the spring. This turns the top soil so deep that seeds cannot spring up.

Where there is insufficient rain the willow bed must be irrigated, though they are often unfit for peeled stock. A good basket-willow possesses the following characteristics: ability to yield an annual and uniformly paying crop of rods; flexibility; productive-ness, many shoots to each stool; slender and branchless rods; smooth and white wood after peeling.

Cuttings should be made from one-year-old shoots. Generally they are made eight inches long for moist, rich soil, and 12 inches for dry, sandy soil.

The experimental planting has proved that close spacing in and between the rows is a matter of paramount importance to basket-willow growers.

The tests on wide and close spacing were made by setting the cuttings of all the varieties propagated at a distance of six inches apart in the row by 18 inches between the rows, 8x21 inches and 12x36 inches.

The form and quality of the rods produced under these different systems of spacing show decidedly the advantage of close planting.

It was found that the average number of rods per stool and average weight per rod increased proportionately as the spacing distance increased.

Cultivate early in summer and as often as necessary to remove all weeds and to keep the soil loose. If this is done well for the first two or three years, there will be very little trouble with weeds thereafter, because the dense leaf development will shade out the weeds. Bind weed and morning glory are very troublesome in most soils and have to be removed.

The best time for cutting the rods is between November 15 and February 15. During the first year the root-system is small, and care must be taken in cutting not to pull up the roots.

Rods to be peeled are stood on end in a pit containing water from four to six inches deep and kept there until the sap rises, when the bark can be removed.

The peeled rods are quickly bleached and dried when exposed to the sun, after which they are sorted, tied in bundles, and stored in a dry, dark place.

Rods are peeled by drawing them through a springy wooden or steel fork, shaped like a clothes-pin, but much larger. This loosens the bark by strands so that it can be easily removed by the hands.

The Use of Willow Furniture in the Homes of America Today Makes the Raising of Basket Willow a Profitable Enterprise.

country under proper care and management is equal, or superior, to the finest of those imported from France or Germany.

The management ordinarily employed by American growers does not yield rods with the proper requirements for high-grade wicker work. The gratifying results obtained by the government at an experimental plot at Arlington, Virginia, just across the river from Washington, will unquestionably revolutionize the basket-willow industry in this country.

Perhaps the best evidence of how signally the government has succeeded in its endeavors is shown by the fact that a great many farmers as well drainage must be provided. During the winter it is best to keep the land well drained.

Returns depend very largely upon the method of culture, but more upon the variety of willow planted, because the shoots of even the best varieties and in the most suitable soil grow brittle after the stools become old.

The American green and Welsh willows are most generally planted. The rods of the former peel readily, split easily, are snow-white, hard, flexible and heavy.

They have a tendency to branch, however, and unless the stools are planted close together a large percentage of the rods branch so much that

GET AFTER SUMMER PESTS

This is the Time to Wage War Against the Deadly Fly and the Annoying Mosquito.

Let us bear in mind that the prime objects of a spring clean-up is to eliminate the fly and the mosquito. When we are exercising muscles and our ingenuity rid our dwellings and neighborhoods of dust and filth, it will be worth while to give these twin winged pests serious attention.

The first spring fly, of course, some time ago, though she is pleasantly modest and retiring, is not reassuring, however, to find that the little insect is keeping fully out of our sight and the of our swatters while she lays a myriads of eggs, which presently hatch out into a whole flying regiment of nuisances and disease-carriers.

The shy and unobtrusive mosquito is making the best use of her for the same purpose. When the season on human beings arrives, she hopes to have a whole army corps her progeny to lead to the attack. Now is the time to get busy if we want to preserve ourselves from pests a few months hence. The water and the kerosene can be fully important household implements this season as the broom and scrubbing brush.

A Century Ago.

One hundred years ago Dr. Thomas Panshaw Middleton was consecrated first bishop of Calcutta. The consecration took place in London, and afterward the new bishop sailed for India. In Calcutta, he laid the foundation for the Bishops' college in 1840 and established a consistory court that city. While zealously engaged in his duties he was attacked with fever, of which he died in 1852. More than a century the efforts spread the Christian faith in India have continued. Numerically the Christian population in the great eastern empire is still insignificant, amounting to only about one per cent of the population, but it is generally admitted to have an influence out all proportion to its numbers.

Terre Hill, Pa.—"Kindly permit me to give you my testimonial in favor of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. When I first began taking it I was suffering from female troubles for some time and had almost all kinds of aches—pains in lower part of back and in sides, and pressing down pains. I could not sleep and no appetite. Since I have taken the E. Pinkham's Vegetable Com-

MURRAY LYON, Terre Hill, Pa.

It is true that nature and a woman's body has produced the grandest remedy woman's ills that the world has known. From the roots and of the field, Lydia E. Pinkham, years ago, gave to womankind remedy for their peculiar ills which proved more efficacious than any combination of drugs ever compounded, and today Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is recognized as the standard remedy for women's ills.

The Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., are files containing hundreds of hundreds of letters from women seeking health—many of them openly state their own signatures that they have restored their health by taking Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; in some cases that it has saved their lives in surgical operations.

WASHINGTON GOSSIP

U. S. Army Has Ten Officers Training in France

WASHINGTON.—The movement of American troops to Mexico brings to notice the fact that ten United States army officers, representing all branches of the service, are on duty in France for instruction in French military training. They are there by permission of the French government, given upon request of the United States, and are welcomed in the friendliest spirit. It appears to be the intention of the war department at Washington to have six officers continuously on service in France, so that French experience and French military science may from year to year be available for the United States army. Occasionally an English officer or officers from the Balkan and the French regiments, but it would seem that no foreign army, not even the French military system as the Americans now have.

Capt. W. A. Castle is in an infantry regiment at Orleans; Capt. N. Mar-gettes and Lieut. A. T. Bishop with other regiments at Chalons, Surgeon T.
Marne and T. Martin at the cavalry school at Saumur, Capt. F. H. Pope in the French quartermaster's school and Capt. Frank Parker at the war college. Capt. Morton Henry of the American quartermaster's division and Lieut. E. S. Greble and Honeycutt of the artillery have just arrived to replace three other American officers and three others are expected. The three latter do not get into the French service until October. In the meantime they are required to live in French families and perfect their knowledge of French.
Captain Parker, in the war college, the exclusive school of higher strategy, has probably the rarest opportunity and one not shared by any other foreign officer. Eighty French officers are admitted annually out of from 400 to 500 applicants who take the severe competitive examination. Years of study are devoted by the French officer in preparation for this examination, because all selections for the general staff are made from graduates of the war college, and no French officer need expect a high command unless he has gone successfully through this training in the deeper problems of strategy.

An armchair has been placed for Captain Parker apart from the other officers and nearest the lecturer's platform, so that the American guest may have a better chance than any one else to follow the exposition of a subject and see the diagrams. The work in the war college is severe and is from 6 a. m. to 6 p. m. Part of it consists in hard riding over battlefields of France, the lecturer of the day explaining the operations of the troops that took part.

Pigeons at Washington Know the Market Days

IF YOU stand on the steps of the new National museum you will notice many pigeons on a street. The street divides the museum from the market, and on the far side there are rickety wagons, hitched to droopy horses—mostly white—and many chickens in crates. And if you are lucky enough to meet on the steps a little, old man, who looks like a dried apple that had a soul to it, he will tell you something like this:

"Yes'm, those pigeons know market days as well as the hucksters do.
They come from all over the city for the bits of grain and green stuff that get spilled or thrown away. And every pigeon strikes it on time, like gulls follow a train at meal times on the Salt Lake desert. How they get from the seashore precisely in time for the cooks to fling garbage from the diners is something I can't tell you. All I know is they are there. Some folks mislead angels on account of their feather wings, but the way I look at it is that the one who put all that cleverness into bird creatures can be safely relied on to run this world and the next without any advice from me."

"Hear them roosters crowing! It's curious the way a rooster can put his state of mind into a crow. Now you listen to that one. That ain't the cockadoodle of a free rooster on his own walk. He's calling out in the only way God gave him for somebody to come and free him from that wire crate.
Maybe he don't know what's going to happen to him between this and somebody's Sunday dinner, but he don't need any telling that he's in trouble."

"And did you ever figure out about white horses? Now, you take that lot alongside the curb over yonder. The biggest half of those horses are white. That's because white horses don't take with rich people. You scarcely ever see a white team in a fine carriage, but they are always pulling country wagons and dump carts."

Uncle Sam Has a Veritable Mountain of Money

ABLE writers have pictured money growing on trees. And the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow has been the traditional will-o'-the-wisp for generations. But never before has there been a veritable mountain of money.

Nature has produced mountains whose buried wealth has entitled them to be called mountains of silver and gold, but it has remained for man to produce a mountain of greenbacks.

Three departments of the United States government have co-operated in this project, which required the united efforts of eleven experts for a period of three months, and, in addition, a cool million of Uncle Sam's macerated greenbacks for its surface.

The interior department, the agriculture and the treasury all joined forces over the arrangements for the million-dollar mountain, which is a model—a carefully made, perfectly detailed and topographically correct working model—of Yosemite park, the government reservation in Mariposa county, California, on the western side of the Sierra Nevada, which is the mecca for all westward-bound tourists who wish to feast their eyes upon its unequalled scenic grandeur.

This is the largest working model of its kind in the United States today, since it is five feet by twelve and weighs 600 pounds. Some of the great difficulties involved in its construction may be appreciated when it is remembered that it is a perfect reproduction in miniature of a tract of meadows, mountains, chasms, lakes, streams, falls, precipices, forests, vast gorges and huge boulders that cover an area of about the proportions of the state of Rhode Island, for the Yosemite park comprises no less than 1,124 square miles.

United States to Take Census of National Bird Life

A CENSUS of all the birds of the United States is to be taken this summer by the federal government. In announcing this fact the other day the department of agriculture, which will supervise the work, urges co-operation of all bird lovers. The primary object of the census is the preservation of this important game.

The count of the bird population is to begin about May 30, and the department hopes to have the final results in hand by June 30. As a beginning 250 correspondents in all parts of the country will assist in taking the census, but voluntary observers are expected to furnish most of the data for this undertaking.

In the enumeration an effort is to be made to determine how many pairs of birds of each species breed within definite areas. By comparing these figures with those of subsequent censuses it will be possible to ascertain if state and federal laws are effective and game and insectivorous birds increasing or decreasing.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

Still one thing remains to furnish the House Beautiful without which guests and books and flowers only emphasize the fact that the house is not a home. I mean the warm light in the rooms that comes from kind eyes, from quick unconscious smiles, from sentences in tones, from unpredic-tated courtesies of manner, from habits of forethoughtfulness for one another —all that happy illumination which, in the inside of a house corresponds to morning sunlight outside falling on quiet dewy fields.—William Channing Gannett.

HINTS WORTH REMEMBERING.

When traveling carry with you a small apron made of toweling with two or three pockets made by turning up the hem, and stitching the pockets in the hem.
When you remove your hairpins at night put them in one of the pocket-ets and keep the others for comb and brush and other toilet articles. For those who have had this convenience, nothing can take its place.

When washing gingham dresses
there are four things to remember:
Avoid hot water, strong soap, hard rubbing and hot starch. A little salt added to the water will brighten the colors. Delicate fabrics not much soiled should be washed in this starch water.

An excellent thing for insomnia is a buttered cracker sprinkled generously with cayenne pepper. The hot sandwich will draw the blood from the brain to the stomach and sleep will be the result.

Two strong tapes sewed to the sides of a mattress will be a great help in turning and lifting it.

An old wash broom is a good dish washer for kettles and pans, and it is easily kept clean by scalding in boiling water.

To save splitting shortcake put a layer of the biscuit mixture in a pan, butter the top and lay on another layer of biscuit dough. When baked, the shortcake will be easily separated without any ragged edges.

Save all circular envelopes that come unsealed. Then when you want a label or a piece of glued paper, cut off the edge that has the mucilage on it and it is all ready to stick wherever it is wanted.

They are slaves who fear to speak
For the fallen and the weak;
They are slaves who will not choose Hatred, scolding and abuse.
They are slaves who dare not be In the right with two or three.
—Lowell.

MORE GOOD THINGS TO EAT.

There are various methods of cooking and serving asparagus, but it should be cooked until tender whatever may be the after methods of serving.

When it is desired to serve the whole stalk in white sauce or on toast with drawn butter, tie the stalks so that the lower tougher portions will have the hard cooking, while the tips are steamed. Let the bunch stand upright in the saucepan while cooking.

When the tough portion will not cook tender save those to flavor soup.
Lay the cooked stalks, tips all one way, on thin, well-buttered toast, and pour over the sauce. Add but little sauce, for this is not to be milk toast.
If more sauce is desired it may be passed in a sauce boat.

Asparagus Cream Soup.—Boil the hard ends of two bunches of asparagus, add a slice of onion and cook until tender. Drain and rub the pulp through a pure sieve or colander and return the water in which it was cooked, adding a half-teaspoonful of salt.

Scald three cups of milk, cook together two tablespoonfuls each of butter and flour, cook in the asparagus stock and then add the milk. Just when ready to serve beat an egg and add a quarter of a cup of cream; add this to the soup and serve at once.

Mock Duck en Casserole.—Place on a round steak a filling of a pint of bread crumbs seasoned with salt, pepper, onion, butter and sage. Roll up the steak and tie or skewer with toothpicks. Place in a casserole, add a cupful of stock or water and bake well covered 45 minutes. The meat may be browned first before baking in a little hot fat; this improves it and gives it a different flavor.

New Beets.—Beets are most delectable if baked. They seem to be sweeter and have a different flavor from those which are boiled. Wash and place them in a saucepan and bake in a hot oven. Slice, after peeling, and serve with butter and a dash of lemon juice, salt and pepper.

"Traffic in Souls."

Manager McLaren of the Princess is greatly pleased over the fact that he has been able to book the most sensational picture of the day "Traffic in Souls" produced by the Universal Film Co. and which recently ran on Broadway for over 500 performances. This wonderful picture will be shown at the Princess on Monday evening, June 8th. The picture is in six reels, running two hours.

All crimes the worst is the White Slave Traffic. The agents of this traffic have gone about their deadly work, so that nowhere are our daughters and sisters safe.

The story opens on a peaceful morning in New York. Jane Baring (Miss Jane Gail) is ready to go to her employment at Schumayer's Candy Store, where she works with her sister Lorna (Miss Ethel Grandin). Lorna is a good, loving girl.

Jane's sweetheart is Officer 4434, (Mr. Matt Moore) who is keeping an active watch over all suspicious houses on his beat.

We next see the home of Wm. Trubus, philanthropist and reformer, who is head of the Citizens League to Fight the System. His daughter Flora (Miss Irene Wallace) is engaged to "Bobby" Gresham, a rich society man. Our story now moves rapidly showing the System in all its ramifications. We see the cadets at their work at railroad depot and immigrant ship. We see the money daily being poured into their coffers. Officer 4434 sees two poor immigrant girls lured into a house on his beat and his suspicions are aroused.

He determines to make inquiries. The manager of the place tries to bribe him and the bullies of the house set on him, but he fights them single handed. He whips out his gun and covers all the bullies, releases the girls and puts the whole of the gang under arrest. On the same day Jane's little sister, Lorna, has been marked out as one of the gang's victims. Bill Bradshaw (Mr. William Cavanaugh), a well dressed scoundrel, has already turned her head with flattering tales of her beauty. He has invited her to dinner and she decides to go.

Jane tells Officer 4434 of her fears and they decide to watch Lorna. Jane begs Officer 4434 to find her little sister. Lorna and Bradshaw go to a fashionable restaurant. Bradshaw then takes her to a dance hall. While she dances with one of Bradshaw's accomplices he arranges with another to have a taxi to take her away. He then puts some powder into her hair. Lorna returns with her partner. Bradshaw hands her the lemonade which she drinks. Shortly after, she feels drowsy, and Bradshaw offers to take her home. The taxi pulls up at a house and he and the chauffeur, another accomplice, carry her inside. She is put into a room, the door locked, and she is left alone. In the meanwhile her partner is keeping her lonely vigil, fearing the worst. She tells her fears to her father. Officer 4434 is searching the city for some clue to Lorna. At daylight Lorna wakes up and finds to her horror that she is a prisoner in a room with iron barred windows. She screams for help, but is met with the cynical laughter of the inhuman monster of a woman, who runs the place.

We return to Mr. Trubus, the reformer, follow him to his office which is a floor above the secret meeting place, where the denizens of the half-world pay their tribute to the System. Here by the aid of a dictagraph he hears all that is going on underneath. His wife comes with him to the office and has the switchboard girl discharged, and Mrs. Trubus gets Jane the position. Jane is called into Mr. Trubus' office. He tells Jane to wipe up some ink he has split. He leaves her alone and she finds the receiver of the dictagraph, which out of curiosity, she puts to her ear. She is astounded when she hears the voice of the man who stole her sister away. She traces the wire to the window and follows it down the fire-escape to the next floor. She sees Bradshaw receiving money from her employer's secretary. Jane then realizes that Trubus, the so-called reformer, is none other than the head of the Vice-Trust. She then puts Officer 4434 on the trail of Bradshaw. They place her father's sound intensifier into Trubus' private office and connect it with a dictophone, which they hide in Jane's waste paper basket.

In the meanwhile little sister Lorna has bravely resisted all her captors' efforts with indomitable spirits. The next day Officer 4434 locates Bradshaw, and tells his chief he is almost sure he has found Lorna. The chief decides to raid the house that night. Jane has secured the necessary evidence in the photographic records of the dictagraph and has deposited them with the chief. That night Trubus is arrested at a reception he has given to celebrate his daughter's engagement to "Bobby" Gresham. His guests desert him. Gresham throws over Flora, Trubus' secretary and the books are also seized. Bradshaw is about to beat Lorna with a whip when the house is attacked on all sides by the police. They break into the house and Bradshaw fires at Officer 4434. The bullet smashes the water pitcher in his hands. Then follows a terrible fight between Bradshaw and Officer 4434. Bradshaw, with a bullet through his brain, falls from the house top to the ground below. Trubus and the whole of the gang are lodged behind prison bars, waiting for Justice to decree their fate.

Coughs and Colds Weaken the System

Continued coughs, colds and bronchial troubles are depressing and weaken the system. Loss of weight and appetite generally follow. Get a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery today. It will stop your cough. The first dose helps. The best medicine for stubborn coughs, colds and all throat and lung troubles. Mr. O. H. Brown, Muscatine, Ala., writes: "My wife was sick during the hot summer months and I honestly believe Dr. King's New Discovery saved her life." Good for children. 50c and $1.00. Recommended by L. P. Vogel, H. H. Penn Co., L. T. Freeman Co. Adv.

ADDISON—Now that the leaves are not out on peach trees, it is easily seen that the loss by warm days followed by severe cold weather in January this year killed thousands of peach trees in this section. The peach crop will be small this year. One grower who usually has from 600 to 1,000 bushels each year thinks he will not have enough for family use this year.—Courier.
