Suddenly Lost His Mind.

William Hiron, of Detroit, who has been working at the home of Otto Weber of Sylvan for some time, suddenly lost his mind Monday and became unmanageable. Mr. Weber and a companion set up with the man Monday night but early Tuesday morning Hiron succeeded in getting away from them and brought up at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Owen McIntee, where he made things rather lively for a time.

Mr. McIntee called Officer Cooper who accompanied by Officer Evans went to the home of Mr. McIntee and brought the man to Chelsea. He was taken before Justice H. D. Witherell for an examination and was given a sentence of ten days in the county jail.

The authorities will notify the Detroit relatives of the man of his condition and it is expected that they will take care of him when his time is up.

Hiron was a member of the Detroit fire department for a number of years and worked with Mr. Weber when he was a member of the same fire department.

Hiron is suffering with a sprained ankle and he is under the impression that he received the injury while getting off a fire truck.

Noah-Boyce Wedding.

The young couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Boyce, of Lyndon.

The ceremony was witnessed by about 150 relatives and friends of the young couple. Following the church services the guests went to the home of the bride's parents where a bountiful wedding dinner was served. The young couple are well known in this vicinity and the bride is a graduate of the Chelsea high school.

After a short wedding trip the couple will be at home to their friends in Anderson, where Mr. Boyce will have charge of the Lyndon cheese factory.

"Human Hearts" an Imp feature in three parts with King Baggett the popular screen hero playing the leading role. "Human Hearts" which has been put into moving picture form and adapted to present day patrons of the drama, was the sensation and talk of the theatre going public of the entire world about fifteen or twenty years ago. It is a meritorious production with splendid realism, pathos and comedy and plenty of exciting action throughout. Many of the scenes in the play were actually taken within the walls of a state prison and show the hundreds of convicts and the life they lead. The Animated Weekly completes the bill. Adv.

Saturday, May 22d, Will be Tag Day in Chelsea.

The Chelsea local advisory board of the Michigan Children's Home Society will conduct a tag day in Chelsea, Saturday, May 22, for the benefit of its work. This board is composed of the following ladies: Mrs. Mary L. Boyd, president; Mrs. Jabez Bacon, vice president; Mrs. E. R. Dancer, secretary; Mrs. J. Nelson Dancer and Mrs. L. G. Palmer.

The system of this society for home finding, in its many important details, is most interesting to those who have investigated. Trained workers are at work in all parts of the state, cooperating with any charitable institution, philanthropic individual, or county court who have children that are homeless or neglected to report to the society for help.

Not the least interesting feature of this system are the temporary private home of the licensed caretakers who work in connection with the Receiving Home at St. Joseph, and the offices in Detroit and Grand Rapids. Thus the boys and girls are saved from the life of an orphan asylum or other large institution, and have from the start the wholesome influences of a real home, cared for individually by a good though temporary mother.

Nearly five thousand homes where children are wanted have been investigated by representatives of this society, and about one third of them have been used as foster homes.

FERRIS VETOES BOXING MEASURE

BELIEVES BOUTS CONSTITUTE STEPPING STONE TO PRIZE FIGHTS.

WILL ATTEND FIGHT SOON

Governor Does Not Believe State Needs Doubtful Form of Amusement and Declines To Sign Bill.

Lansing.—Gov. Ferris Tuesday vetoed Senator Paul's bill to legalize 10-round boxing bouts in the state of Michigan.

The Nelson-White bout at Grand Ledge Monday night was witnessed by a representative of the governor and an unfavorable report was rendered.

The governor says that he will attend a fight personally in the near future, and if all contests are conducted in the same manner as the Grand Ledge bout, the lid will be clamped down all over the state.

In his veto the governor says boxing or sparring exhibitions constitute a stepping-stone to prize-fighting exhibitions.

"Boxing or sparring exhibitions appeal to the lower human instincts and are destitute of any knowledge of manly uplift," said the governor.

"The more wholesome athletic sports that call forth the admiration of both men and women are deserving of enthusiastic encouragement. Such sports do not require legal regulation or protection. As a rule, men almost exclusively are the patrons of boxing or sparring matches. Michigan is not suffering for want of this doubtful form of amusement. I therefore decline to sign this bill."

CLAIM METHODS ARE WRONG

Denton Claims That Calumet & Hecla Do Not Pay Just Share of Taxes.

Houghton.—Characterizing the present method of valuations of the mines in Houghton county as "unfair and illogical," and declaring that the Calumet & Hecla has not been paying its just share of the taxes, F. W. Denton, general manager of the Copper Range Consolidated Mining company, Tuesday morning, as the member from Adams township on the Houghton county board, asked the board to invite the state tax commission to come to Houghton county before June 1, and preside over a meeting for the purpose of changing the assessed valuation of mining properties. General Manager James MacNaughton, of the Calumet & Hecla, supervisor from Calumet township, supported the motion.

State Free of H. and M. Disease.

Lansing.—With the exception of the Detroit stockyards, the state of Michigan is free from the hoof and mouth disease, the state live stock commission has been notified by department of agriculture officials at Washington. The Detroit yards probably will be given a clean bill of health as soon as certain tests are completed. The yards are declared to be free of the disease at the present time.

To Put Lid On Divorces.

Battle Creek.—Many important marriage unions will have to continue to exist in Calhoun county, at least during Circuit Judge Walter H. North's regime, for he announced Saturday that hereafter he will grant no divorces unless one of the contesting parties can show himself or herself free from blame.

In giving his decision, Judge North said he finds some couples take less time getting mated than a man takes to buy an automobile.

CAPTAIN TURNER TELLS STORY OF LOSS OF SKIP

Bnt One Torpedo Struck The Lusitania Hitting Vital Spot Says Commander

JURY CHARGES GERMANY WITH WHOLESALE MURDER

Experts Declare That Second Explosion Heard By Passengers Was An Internal One and Many Passengers Were Killed By Fumes.

London.—Captain Turner of the Cunard liner, Lusitania, which was sunk last Friday off Old Head of Kinsale by a German submarine, testified before the coroner on Monday that the ship was struck by only one torpedo. But this deadly missile found a vital spot and sent the liner to the bottom in less than 20 minutes, carrying with her more than 1,000 souls.

At the conclusion of his testimony the jury brought in the following verdict:

"We find that the deceased met death from prolonged immersion and exhaustion in the sea eight miles south southwest of Old Head of Kinsale, Friday, May 7, 1915, owing to the sinking of the Lusitania by torpedoes fired by a German submarine."

"We find that this appalling crime was committed contrary to international law and the conventions of all civilized nations."

"We also charge the officers of said submarine and the emperor and government of Germany under whose order

ders they acted, with the crime of wholesale murder before the tribunal of the civilized world.

"We desire to express sincere condolences and sympathy with the relatives of the deceased, the Cunard company and the United States, many of whose citizens perished in this murderous attack on an unarmed liner."

Captain Turner, in declaring that one torpedo did all the damage said the second explosion which the passengers heard was an internal one, and that the engines, having been put out of commission, it was impossible to stop the Lusitania and permit of her boats being lowered properly.

This idea of an internal explosion is supported by naval experts who point out that if the torpedo had exploded on contact the steamer would have only been disabled or had one or two of her compartments flooded.

It is evident, however, they say, that if the torpedo penetrated the hull and the charge of 420 pounds of explosive was detonated it would have created an effect similar to the explosion of a magazine within a ship.

There is little wonder therefore, they say, that the Lusitania sank so rapidly or that so many persons were killed by the fumes of the explosive.

Warned By German Embassy.

New York.—The Lusitania, with a total of 1,251 passengers aboard, of whom 179 were Americans, and with a crew of 816, sailed from here last Saturday in the face of a warning published on the day of her departure by the German embassy, which stated that travelers intending to embark on British ships did so at the risk of the ship's being destroyed in accordance with the German zone decree.

This warning, published in the form of an advertisement, did not result in the cancellation of a single passage.

TAFT PLEADS FOR LOYALTY

Former President Urges Calmness and Asks That Wilson Be Supported.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Former President William H. Taft urged patience and calmness in the present international situation and called upon the citizens of the country to stand by President Wilson, in an address at the Union league here Tuesday night.

Referring to the sinking of the Lusitania, Professor Taft said the "inhumanity of the circumstances in the case urges us on, but in the heat of just indignation is not the best time to act, when action involves such momentous consequences and means untold loss of life and treasure."

"There are things worse than war," Mr. Taft declared, "but delay due to calm deliberation cannot change the situation or minimize the effect of what we finally conclude to do. With the present condition of the war in Europe, our action, if it is to be extreme, will not lose efficacy by giving time to people, whose war it would be, to know what they are facing."

"Now it may be that a series of acts of inhumanity and violations of the laws of war, to our national detriment and against our citizens, may force us on and lead our people to believe that whatever the cost no other course is open to us."

"But we must bear in mind that if we have a war it is the people who must pay with lives and money the cost of it, and therefore they should not be hurried into the sacrifice."

"A demand for war that cannot survive the passion of the first days of public indignation, and which will not endure the test of delay and deliberation by all the people, is not one that should be yielded to."

nor did anonymous notes of warning, said to have been received by some passengers just before the big liner left her pier, deter anyone from sailing.

Reports from Washington that it was privately known in official quarters that the Lusitania was to be torpedoed at the first opportunity, gave color to the opinion expressed in shipping circles Friday night that the embassy's warning was intended to apply particularly to the Lusitania.

"Travelers intending to embark on the Atlantic voyage," read the advertisement, "are reminded that a state of war exists between Germany and her allies and Great Britain and her allies; that the zone of war includes the waters adjacent to the British Isles; that, in accordance with formal notice given by the imperial government, vessels flying the flag of Great Britain or any of her allies are liable to destruction in those waters, and that travelers sailing in the war zone on ships of Great Britain or her allies do so at their own risk."

The number of persons killed when the ship was sunk numbers about eleven hundred. Of these 115 were American citizens.

The Lusitania's cargo was valued at about $750,000 and contained a large quantity of war supplies. Her manifest included 280,000 pounds of brass and copper wire, $66,000 worth of military goods, and 5,471 cases of ammunition valued at $200,000, all of which was contraband of war.

The ship itself, Cunard officials said Friday, was covered by $5,000,000 war risk insurance.

President to Act Carefully.

Washington.—The first word from President Wilson on the sinking of the Lusitania came Saturday night. It amounted to an assurance to the country that the president would deal with the situation deliberately, but with firmness.

This was the statement given out at 9 o'clock by Secretary Tumulty, after a conference with the President at the White House.

"Of course the president feels the distress and the gravity of the situation to the utmost and is considering very earnestly, but very calmly, the right course of action to pursue."

"He knows that the people of the country wish and expect him to act with deliberation as well as with firmness."

To those who are familiar with President Wilson's character of mind and his extreme conservatism as regards foreign affairs, the brief White House statement was significant. The fact that the statement was an acknowledgment that strong pressure already is being felt at the White House from the general public for vigorous action on the Lusitania outrage.

Prominent Americans Are Lost.

Among the well known Americans who lost their lives in the great disaster were Charles Frohman, the New York theatrical producer; Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, the capitalist; Charles Klein, the playwright, and Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Hubbard.

Charles Rosenbluth and Albert Fisher, confessed "key burglars," attempted a delivery from the county jail at Saginaw Sunday night. It failed and Rosenbluth was sentenced Monday to five years in Marquette. Fisher has not been sentenced.

The plant of the Portland Manufacturing Co. at Portland was destroyed by fire early Wednesday morning, causing a loss of $40,000, on which there is $10,000 insurance. The plant manufactured washing machine, and a number of men will be out of employment until it is rebuilt.

So great has been the flood of old metal for melting purposes, that the war ministry has had to issue a statement, thanking the donors but declaring the lack of metal is not sufficient to necessitate such sacrifice.

BLAME FOR LOSS OF AMERICANS IS LAID ON ENGLAND

Germany Sends Note To United States Explaining Position In Lusitania Affair

EXPRESSES DEEP REGRET THAT NEUTRALS ARE LOST

Diplomatic Communication Points Out That Submarine Was Justified In Considering Lusitania As An Armed Vessel Carrying Munitions.

Berlin, via London.—The following dispatch has been sent by the German foreign office to the German embassy at Washington:

"Please communicate the following to the state department: The German government desires to express its deepest sympathy at the loss of lives on board the Lusitania. The responsibility rests, however, with the British government, which, through its plan of starving the civilian population of Germany, has forced Germany to resort to retaliatory measures."

"In spite of the German offer to stop the submarine war in case, the starvation plan was given up, British merchant vessels are being generally armed with guns, and have repeatedly tried to ram submarines, so that a previous search was impossible."

Not Ordinary Merchant Ships.

"They cannot, therefore be treated as ordinary merchant vessels. A recent declaration made to the British parliament by the parliamentary secretary, in answer to a question by

AMBASSADOR GERARD.

The German government transmitted through the American ambassador, James W. Gerard, a statement to the United States in which it sets forth its future policy in regard to neutrals on the sea. The substance of the promise is that no attack will be made on neutral ships unless they are carrying contraband and that full damages will be paid without prize court proceedings in case of attack where no contraband is found. The statement affects in no way the Lusitania affair.

Lord Charles Beresford, said that, at the present, practically all British merchant vessels were armed and provided with hand grenades.

"Besides, it has been openly admitted by the English press that the Lusitania, on previous voyages, repeatedly carried large quantities of war material. On the present voyage the Lusitania carried 5,400 cases of ammunition, while the rest of the cargo also consisted chiefly of contraband."

Regret American Trust.

"If England, after repeated official and unofficial warnings, considered herself able to declare that that boat ran no risk and thus lightly assumed responsibility for the human life on board a steamer, which, owing to its armament and cargo, was liable to destruction, the German government, in spite of its heartfelt sympathy for the loss of American lives, cannot but regret that Americans felt more inclined to trust to English promise rather than to pay attention to the warnings from the German side."

LETTER FROM STATE CAPITOL

GOVERNOR FERRIS SENDS LETTER TO LEGISLATORS ASKING THEM TO RETURN MAY 20.

SIGNS SOME MORE NEW LAWS

A Mistake in Senate Bill No. 95 Making Appropriation for State Highway Department Must Be Corrected.

[By Gurd M. Hayes.]

Lansing.—Governor Ferris has sent out 131 letters urging the members of the legislature to return to Lansing, May 19, the day before the final adjournment of the 1915 legislature and amend the bill making an appropriation for the state highway department so that the money will be available this year.

The letter sent the individual members of the legislature is as follows: "I call your attention to a mistake which occurs in senate bill number 96 file number 69 entitled 'A bill making an appropriation for the state highway department for the payment of the additional state reward on trunk line highways, the building or repairing of bridges on such highways, making necessary repairs on such highways, and paying the salaries and expenses incurred under the provisions of act number 334 of the public acts of 1914, for the fiscal years ending June 30, 1917, and to provide a tax therefor.'"

"In section two of this act it is provided: 'The auditor general shall incorporate in the state tax for the year 1916 the sum of $350,000, and for the year 1917 the sum of $550,000, which amounts when collected shall be credited to the general fund to reimburse the same for the money's hereby appropriated.' These years should have been 1915 and 1916, respectively. The appropriation will fail for want of funds unless this mistake is corrected."

"I therefore most respectfully urge you to return at the date to which you adjourned, May 19, at 2 o'clock p. m. in order that this mistake may be corrected."

This is the first time in years that the governor has requested the legislature to return and transact business after the formal suspension of business. If the members return they will have to pay their own railroad fare as they have already received all the mileage that is coming to them for the present session.

When the proposition of asking the lawmakers to return and rectify their error was first suggested to him, Governor Ferris was of the opinion that it was a scheme to pass some of the bills over his veto. While it is possible that this may be done, it is not at all likely. Fifty one representatives and 17 senators must return in order to have a majority, while two-thirds of the members elect would have to vote as a unit in order to pass any bills over the veto of the chief executive.

In addition to the large number of bills signed by the governor immediately following adjournment of the legislature, he has since signed the following:

AROUND the DEAD SEA

GORGE OF THE RIVER ARNON

I RECENTLY spent a week upon the Dead sea, that historic but little known sheet of water in Palestine, in a motor boat, writes Harold J. Shepherson in the Quiver. Starting at the northern end of the sea, we skirted along the western shore, visiting Engedi, Masada, the great salt cave at Jebel Uduim, explored the wonderful gorges, and tramped over the delightful little fertile oases that dot its banks, and then up the eastern shore to our starting point. The Dead sea is some forty-seven miles long and about ten miles wide at its greatest breadth. Curiously enough, it lies no less than 1,300 feet below the level of the Mediterranean. Many ridiculous stories are told about this sheet of water, even in Palestine itself. For instance, people will tell you in Jerusalem that it is impossible to swim in its waters, and that no animals or vegetables can exist near its shores. While it is true that fish cannot live in the lake, birds may frequently be seen, in certain places, flying over its surface.

As for swimming, the excessive buoyancy of the water merely renders it difficult to make much headway, but swimming is both feasible and refreshing. Among the party on our vessel there were several who could not swim, yet in the evening they often ventured into the water and floated on their backs. What one has to be careful about is not to get the water into the eyes.

Sea Increasing in Size.
It has generally been believed that this famous inland sea is decreasing in size, but the reverse is the case. Some twenty years ago there was a small island about half a mile from the north shore. This has now entirely disappeared; whilst on the west, east, and south shores evidences of the encroachment of the waters upon the land were noticeable in the presence of partially submerged forests of large trees still standing in the death-dealing waters.

In circumnavigating the lake four or five very fertile little plains, abundantly well watered, and capable of untold development, were discovered. They are so hot and so well watered that as soon as one crop is harvested another can be put in, it not being necessary to wait for seasons or sunshine. The choicest grapes and other fruit can be gathered several times a year. A harvest of millet can be gathered in two or three months at almost any period of the year.

Sailing from the northern end of the lake, Engedi, on the west side, was our first stopping place. This must have been a little paradise in the time of Solomon, and is frequently mentioned in the Old Testament. The name Engedi (the spring of the wild goat, ibex) evidently was given to it because these creatures came here for the water. The cliffs rise to a height of 1,900 feet, and the crags, no doubt, afforded a natural home for them.

Fortress of Masada.
About ten miles south of Engedi is the peerless natural fortress of Masada (Sebbeh), first fortified by the Maccabees, then used as a place of refuge by Herod, and finally immortalized by the flight thither and stand made by the Sicarii, or Zealots—when the country was subjugated by Titus. In the vain hope of escaping enslavement by the Romans.

The fortress, which is 1,700 feet above the sea, has steep sides at an angle of about 75 degrees, and cannot be approached except from a connecting neck, called the Serpentine, at the southwestern angle. It was at this point that the besiegers concentrated their forces. A more inhospitable place, or one more disadvantageous to besiegers, could not be imagined. Here was extinguished the last spark of Jewish independence.

An eight-mile journey along the coast from here, and Jebel Uduim comes into view. This is nothing less than a mountain of rock salt, six miles long, rising at one point to a height of 500 feet. In this mountain is a large cave which was explored to the extent of about two hundred yards. It is dimly lighted up to this point by a natural shaft in the rock salt, which admits the sunlight from above. The shaft is 80 feet high and 20 feet in diameter.

From the ceiling of this cave hang great snow-white stalactites, very salty and bitter to the taste. The approach to this mountain presents most fantastic appearances of walls, buttresses, parapets, projecting towers, etc., caused by the stratification and lay of the salt boulders.

Canyons of Palestine.

Going northward, the magnificent gorge of the river Arnon was reached. This certainly contains the finest natural scenery in Palestine. The sides of the canyon rise perpendicularly about three hundred feet, and are only about two hundred feet apart, here overhanging, there overlapping or dovetailing into one another, as though this mighty mass had been violently rent asunder to allow the seething stream of the Arnon, with its cascades and whirlpools, access to the sea. The gorge was explored for a distance of half a mile, probably farther than anyone had before penetrated.

Here one is afforded a striking picture of the difference between the western and the eastern sides of this wonderful sheet of water. The cliffs along the former are of limestone, while those on the eastern shore are of sandstone of exquisite hues. Words cannot describe, nor can the painter depict, much less the camera portray, the exhaustless variety and beauty of the veining and tracery in the richly shaded sandstone forming the cliffs of this wonderful gorge.

About eight miles farther north lie the hot baths of Callirhoe. Here Herod came, when stricken with his last sickness, in the hope of finding that recovery which he sought in vain, and here the remains of his buildings can be seen. Several miles higher up lies the castle of Machaerus, where John the Baptist was beheaded. This is evidently a very volcanic region. From great clefts in the mountain-sides, where one can distinctly hear the bubbling of the flowing hot waters, clouds of steam rise up.

The Zerk—a stream almost as great as the Arnon, and amidst surroundings of much the same character, but having a small plain on the seashore that might very well be cultivated—flows into the sea some fifteen minutes' journey farther north from Callirhoe.

Here, as elsewhere, the wild oleander, with its beautiful pink flower, is abundant, also the reed, with its feathery tuft or bloom, "shaken by the wind," and referred to by Christ; also the willow, the tamarisk, and the "gharraf," a pretty-looking wild fruit much like a cherry, as well as that strange plant, the apple of Sodom. This, though looking like a beautiful fruit, collapses at the touch, and contains nothing but a little smoke-like dust and some silk-like fiber. Mount Nebo, from which Moses viewed the Promised Land, is about opposite the north end of the sea, on the tablelands, and Medaba about ten miles inland, in a straight line. Between Medaba and Kerak, before crossing the River Arnon, lies the ancient Dibon, where was discovered the historic Moabite Stone.

DAINTY COMPANY DISHES.

Take sponge cake cut in neat slices and line the sides of sherbet cups, pour over the juice from canned or preserved peaches, place a half peach in each cup decorated with whipped cream and a few shredded almonds. The cream should be sweetened and flavored with almond if that flavoring is liked.

When making a plain loaf cake cover with the following delicious frosting: Take a pound and a half of maple sugar, a cup of boiling water and cook together until the sirup hairs, beat the whites of two eggs until stiff and pour over the boiling sirup. Beat until the icing is thick, add one cupful of chopped walnuts and cover the cake.

Potato Souffle.—Boil and mash ten potatoes, press through a sieve, add two onions and three tablespoonfuls of bacon, chopped fine, yolks of four eggs, well beaten, two tablespoonfuls of chopped parsley. Add a cupful of milk and cover with well buttered bread crumbs. Bake a half hour in a moderate oven.

Pear Salad.—Take halves of canned pears, sprinkle with a few drops of lemon juice and place balls of cream cheese or cubes of Roquefort in the center. Place on leaves of lettuce and add dressing made from the pear juice, olive oil, catchup, vinegar and any desired seasonings. Red pepper, paprika and salt will be sufficient.

Cheese Puffs.—Take a cupful of grated cheese, mix carefully with two tablespoonfuls of flour, add two well beaten eggs, a dash of salt and pepper and one and a half cupfuls of milk. Mix well and place in hot muffin pans, bake ten minutes in a moderate oven. These are very nice to serve with salads.

Figs and almonds pounded to a paste and well mixed make a delicious sandwich filling. To add to any vegetable salad rub the salad bowl or plate with the cut side of a clove of garlic. The tempting flavor adds greatly to the salad.

If every tree in all the wood could take some mortal form And leave the ground where it has stood through sunshine and through storm, The lofty pine would be a knight in armor strong and rare The slender birch with dress so white would be his lady fair.

BREAKFAST, WHAT TO HAVE.

It would seem that the ubiquitous potato might be dispensed with at the morning meal as it is dragged in at every other in some form. Hash is a time honored breakfast dish and should be admitted without criticism at the first meal of the day, but in any other form let us not call the potato to breakfast.

Rice Pan Cakes.—These are a most appetizing cake to serve for a hot dish at breakfast time. Mix two cupfuls of boiled rice with two cupfuls of milk and let it stand over night. In the morning add three cupfuls of flour, sifted, with a teaspoonful of salt, a tablespoonful of baking powder and a tablespoonful of sugar and one of melted butter. Beat until well mixed and fold in three well beaten eggs, the whites added last. Drop by spoonfuls on a well greased griddle.

Omelet.—The omelet is the favorite breakfast dish and when well prepared and properly cooked is a most delicate dish. Take as many eggs as there are people to serve. Break the yolks into a bowl, add a tablespoonful of cold water for every egg, beat the yolks until thick, add the cold water, salt and seasoning, then fold in the well beaten whites. Have the omelet pan smoking hot and greased with a tablespoonful of butter added just as the omelet is to be poured in. Lift the sides of the omelet with a spatula while cooking, so that it will cook all the way through, after it is well browned on the bottom set into the oven to finish on top. To fold, cut the sides and lift the pan high with one hand gently folding with a spatula in the other. Turn at once on a hot platter. The family should never keep an omelet waiting as it loses its fluffiness in a few minutes.

The Power of Toxins.

One thousandth of a gram of tetanus (lockjaw) toxin is enough to kill a horse weighing 1,300 pounds or six hundred million times its weight. More remarkable still, one-thousandth of a milligram of tubercular toxin will produce action on a man weighing 132 pounds—sixty trillion times its weight.

Daily Thought.

He who recovers a good turn should never forget it; he who does one should never remember it.—Charron.

Retrimming Leghorn Hat

Among the most beautiful of hats, the big leghorn never fails to be a strong temptation to the buyer of millinery. As hats go, it is considered expensive; the initial investment required is somewhat greater than for some other popular braids. But, like the Panama hat, the leghorn is not bought for a single season's wear. Well cared for, a good grade will do duty for several summers.

There is every opportunity for remodeling and rettrimming leghorns this season. They are in great demand and appear in large and small shapes. The big leghorn hat for younger women has few rivals in point of beauty and becomingness, and just now everyone wants one. They are woven in the natural straw color and therefore not easily discolored by sunlight, and they are among the hats that can be cleaned successfully. One of the cleaning methods is simply that of scrubbing the shape, without getting it very wet, with a heavy suds and with water in which soda has been dissolved. The shape is wiped as dry as possible quickly and pressed under a clean cloth. This yellows the straw but the color is still beautiful.

The midsummer hats of leghorn pictured here suggest successful rettrimming to anyone who may wish to copy them. At the left a large shape is shown with an insert of heavy lace in the brim. This is outlined with a fold of velvet, and is a piece of work which taxes the skill of the milliner, but gives an exquisite result. Black velvet ribbon and half-blown pink roses with dark green foliage are used for trimming.

At the right a leghorn is shown having the crown covered with black-and-white striped silk and a narrow binding of this silk about the edge of the brim. It is trimmed with a crushed collar and knot of white satin ribbon and a big black quill which sweeps across the front.

The third hat shows a brim faced with pale pink Georgeette crepe and flaring slightly upward at the left. There is a wreath and standing spray of roses about the crown.

Among the new summer models

there are brimmed hats having crepe or silk cut to fit the upper brim and stretched over a part of its width. The edge of the silk is finished with a narrow piping and is often cut in shallow scallops or points. This is another difficult task for the milliner, but solves the problem of covering discolorations on the brim, as blindings solve that of frayed brim-edges.

SMALL THINGS THAT COUNT

New Method of Lacing a Bodice Up the Back With Velvet Cords—Hooks and Eyes.

There are so many tricks in the trade of clothes that one sees and tries to remember to pass on. Sometimes they interest women more than the important features. There is that new method of lacing up a frock in the middle of the back. It is done by a velvet cord through large round buttonholes that are heavily overcast. At the end of the cord are short spikes of cut jet.

The idea was brought out in a black taffeta afternoon gown, but it has been copied in all kinds of materials. It is especially effective on the bodice that has that new turtle-tail in the back that goes outside the skirt and drops down for a space of five inches. It is a good feature for linen frocks and one such gown in oyster white is laced with blue velvet ribbon through small silver spikes.

Another new trick in fashions in fastening a gown is the use of immense hooks and eyes covered with a material in the same color as the frock, or to contrast with it. These are used in front or back, preferably in front. On a gown of black silk they are covered with white satin, and there are white satin collar and cuffs to carry out the color scheme. The smart woman who wore this frock completed the idea by oblong turban of white satin with a jet ornament and white uppers to her black slippers.

Trimming for Cotton Dresses.

Cotton dresses will be trimmed with cluny, valenciennes and filet laces.

Nightrobe for Home Sewing

To be made either of batiste or crepe de chine, this pretty nightdress is a good model for those who sew at home. It is very dainty and very graceful and might be made in nainsook, cotton crepe, indian linen, or any of the figured crepes that are coming into use for nightdresses. The body of the gown is simply two lengths of the material long enough to extend from the neck, at the shoulder, to the feet, with an allowance for a narrow hem. The bottom is cut in shallow scallops hemmed up a half inch and edged with a frill of val lace such as appears on the sleeves.

The yoke is formed of a row of insertion sewed to a narrow banding and finished at the top with narrow val edging. Each length of material is decorated with a group of fine tucks at the top and cut out to shape the neck. The short sleeves are cut separately and set in with the insertion.

The sleeves are gathered into a band of beading at the bottom, and this is finished with two rows of lace edging ruffled on. Ribbons are to be run through the beading at the neck and sleeves and through an insertion of it let into the body of the gown at each side near the arm's eye. Ribbons play a prominent part in the designing of lingerie, and particularly in the making of nightdresses, which depend upon them for the introduction of pretty color.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

Hats and Parasols Match.
Throughout the last winter we have become accustomed to the sets consisting of matching toque, muff and collar—of fur, chiffon, velvet and satin. Now we shall see matching hats and parasols, to use with thin frocks. They are very pretty and often figured chiffon is employed in their making—over silk for the parasol, over straw for the hat.

Combs will soon warp and break if washed in water. They can be cleaned with a stiff old tooth brush or nail brush in soap and water, to which a few drops of ammonia have been added.

Lubricating Troubles—and their cure!

The Standard Oil Company is making a motor oil that has done away with all common lubricating troubles. Seven years ago their experts placed this new but tested oil on the market. 1,100 gallons were sold the first year. Then motorists found it out. 1909's demand was for 335,000 gallons—1910's was for 1,118,400. In 1914 nearly 7,000,000 gallons were used in the Middle West alone.

Polarine has gained in sales an average of a million gallons yearly simply because its use eliminated the annoyance and delays incident to unsuitable lubricating oils. Hundreds of thousands of good cars have been saved from the scrap heap by its use. Use it in your motor. See what it does. Polarine maintains the correct lubricating body at every motor speed and temperature.

It is produced by experts with the help of perfect facilities, in the largest plant of its kind in the world.

Building Up Her Words.

A certain little Columbus schoolgirl is learning things, both at school and on the street, as a recent happening demonstrates. The knowledge she picked up at school; the phrase regarding the cat she heard either from some other child or from some careless elder.

"Mother, what does f-a-t spell?" she asked the other night, on coming home from school.

"Why, 'fat,' my dear," replied the mother.

"And what does h-e-r spell?" came the second inquiry.

"Her," again vouchsafed the informant.

"Now I knew I was right, and that old cat of a teacher tried to make me believe that those letters spelled father," exclaimed the child with not a little indignation.—Columbus Dispatch.

Couldn't Part.

Louis Halle was a colonel on Governor Yates' staff, and in that capacity accompanied him to Washington to be a part of an inaugural parade. All the colonels had uniforms a-plenty, but it was decided to rely upon the Washington supply of horses instead of taking the mounts along.

The governor sat on his horse awaiting the parade formation, and from time to time an orderly would gallop up with an official communication. On each occasion Colonel Halle was by his side. At last the governor observed:

"Colonel Halle, I see no necessity for your sticking to this orderly in the performance of his duties."

"There isn't any," admitted Halle.

"But, you see, our horses are a life-long team."

"So your uncle has gone to the war, has he?"

"Yes, sir."

"And don't everybody miss him?"

"Why, yes, they have so far. He hasn't been wounded yet."

Had Made a Start.

Pete, the hired man, was known for his prodigious appetite. One morning he had eaten a normal breakfast of oatmeal, buckwheat cakes, toast, fried potatoes, ham, eggs, doughnuts, coffee and the usual trimmings, and gone to a neighbor's to help with extra work. Pete arrived before the family had risen from the morning meal.

"Well, Pete," hospitably inquired the farmer, "had breakfast yet?"

"Aw," drawled Pete in a wheedling tone, "kinda."—Everybody's Magazine.

Had Him Guessing.

Walter Roberts, the theatrical man, is usually ready with a quick answer to any question that is put to him, but once upon a time he was clearly non-plussed. A woman had approached the ticket window and said:

"I would very much like to know if the show which is now going on is moral and proper?"

Walter cast a scrutinizing glance at his questioner, but that was all. "Why don't you answer my question, young man?" demanded the lady at the window.

"Because, madam, frankly speaking," said Walter, hesitating, "I'm not a good enough judge of human nature to know which way to answer without losing a patron."—Louisville Times.

Self-Betrayed.

A sentry was giving close attention to his post in the neighborhood of a British army camp in England, challenging stragglers late after dark. The following is reported as an incident of his vigil:

"Who goes there?" called the sentry at the sound of approaching footsteps. "Coldstream guards!" was the response.

"Pass Coldstream guards!" rejoined the sentry.

"Who goes there?" again challenged the sentry.

"Forty-ninth Highlanders!" returned the unseen pedestrian.

"Pass, Forty-ninth Highlanders!"

"Who goes there?" sounded a third challenge.

"None of your internal business!" was the husky reply.

"Pass, Canadians!" acquiesced the sentry.—Omaha World-Herald.

After a woman has told a third of the story men can guess the rest.

BREVITIES

BLISSFIELD—The Blissfield township board met Tuesday evening and acting upon the petition of a large number of the taxpayers of the township, called a special election for Monday, June 7 next, for the purpose of voting on the question of authorizing the issuing of township bonds for the purpose of constructing stone roads in the township eligible to state reward.—Advance.

BROOKLYN—Work was started on the new Martin block Monday, the building to occupy the foundation of the old brick block built years ago by Frank North and which was destroyed by fire last May. The new block joins the postoffice on the north. It will be a two story of brick, the front being of cream glazed brick, modern in every detail.—Exponent.

PLYMOUTH—At the meeting of the village council Monday evening it was decided to install a new system of book keeping for the village and employ someone to keep the books. Winn B. Hubbell, village treasurer, was given the position at a salary of $60 per month. Mr. Hubbell, under this arrangement will not draw any additional salary as treasurer.—Mail.

BELLEVILLE—The horses in this locality are being tormented with a sort of fly which gets into the ears by hundreds, and in a short time, if the animal is not taken care of, the ears become all sore on the inside. A rag saturated with kerosene and rubbed around in the ears of the animal a couple of times a day will prevent the flies from tormenting the beast. Care should be exercised with the oil and not get too much, as this will make the hair come out.—Enterprise.

MANCHESTER—A part of the duties of the night watch has been to keep the grass cut on the public square. That is, during the summer. In the winter he allows the fellows who pass that way, to throw the empty bottles, tin cans, etc., as far as they can out across the broad expanse of the snow covered waste. Just a few days ago a question arose as to whose duty it was to assemble those cast off clutter holders before the lawn mower is brought into recognition. We fear the president and village attorney will have to shake dice to determine whether the street commissioner or night watch does the job.—Enterprise.

HOWELL—From time to time many strange things creep into the business of the probate office but it is doubtful if there has ever been a stranger occurrence than that which took place before Judge E. A. Stowe of this city Tuesday. Betsy Alderman of Green Oak was born in the year of 1810 and is now 99 years old. She has a life lease of a farm in that township and has been totally blind for the past fifteen years. The petition for a guardian is filed with the court by a grandson of the old lady, Firman Alderman, of Green Oak, and the petition is opposed by a great grandson, Bert Lombard of the same place. Proofs were taken in the case from five generations of the old lady among the Alderman and Lombard families, and the matter was taken under advisement by the judge.—Tidings.

The heavy frost Sunday night did some damage to small fruits, especially strawberries, according to reports, but just how much damage was done to the other varieties of fruit is hard to estimate. The frost covered the entire state and was the heaviest in the vicinity of Lansing.

IF HORSES TALKED

If Michigan horses could talk, some might say to their owners what Chauncey Botton's (of Chittanooga, N. Y.) horse would say, if it could speak, namely, that a simple liniment "re-moved some mighty bad galls." And thousands of other grateful animals all over the world could testify that Hanford's Balsam of Myrrh often cures when all other liniments have failed. It's good for human wounds, burns, etc., too. THE BEST PROOF

Given by a Chelsea Citizen.

Doan's Kidney Pills were used— they brought benefit.

The story was told to Chelsea residents.

Time has strengthened the evidence.

Has proven the result lasting. The testimony is home testimony— The proof convincing.

It can be investigated by Chelsea residents.

Mrs. W. D. Arnold, E. Middle St., Chelsea, says: "I suffered greatly from dull, nagging backaches and distressing pains in the region of my kidneys. My kidneys gave me a great deal of annoyance. I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Fenn's Drug store and they helped me wonderfully. They removed the pains in my back and corrected the action of my kidneys." (Statement given July 7, 1909.)

Over three years later, Mrs. Arnold said: "My cure has been permanent and I give Doan's Kidney Pills the credit."
