Grain Prospects Fair.

The average condition of wheat in the state is 91 per cent, according to the crop report issued by Secretary of State Vaughn Monday. Damage by Hessian fly is estimated at 6 per cent, while 2 per cent of the wheat crop will be plowed up because it was winter killed. The condition of rye is 91 per cent and oats 91.
Eighty per cent of the fruit reports throughout the state report serious damage to all varieties of fruit by frost during May.

A Handsome Store.

The workmen have nearly completed all of the work of reconstructing the department store of W. P. Schenk & Company. The show windows have been remodeled and the salesrooms have been entirely rearranged and constructed on the present day plans for the needs of the various lines of goods that are carried by the firm.
The exterior of the second story of the building is not entirely finished.
The store presents a very handsome appearance and compares very favorably with the department stores in the large cities.

Lime Marl Bed in Lyndon.

Allen Skidmore is making arrangements to uncover a bed of lime marl that is located on his farm in Lyndon, better known as the Elnathan Skidmore farm. The lime bed is located on a piece of marsh ground and covers about seven acres. The tests that have been made by experts show that the marl contains 90 per cent of lime.
The average depth of the bed is 18 inches. The vein lies very close to the surface, being covered by a depth of 12 to 18 inches of earth. As soon as a drainage ditch can be dug Mr.
Skidmore will begin uncovering the marl. He will use the output of the marl bed on his farm lands for a fertilizer.

Clean the School Houses.

Some schools have already finished their year's work; others will close in a few days. Many of the buildings will need not only cleaning, but painting, decorating and repairing in general. The time to commence such work is immediately after the close of school. School boards should not procrastinate. When repairing is left until August, the work may be delayed and the first of September will find repairs unfinished and buildings not in readiness for the opening of school.
The movement toward better physical conditions of school surroundings is spreading throughout the state. No better investment can be made than money expended for good school conditions. Every school building should be inspected by school boards and as many improvements as possible made and these should be made without delay. No paint-pails, calcimine brushes, cleaning utensils and tools should be in evidence when school opens.

Lafayette Grange Meeting.

The June meeting of Lafayette Grange will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Kilmer, of Sharon, itations by the children.

Mercury Played Tag.

The exhibition of high and lofty tumbling by the mercury in the thermometers Monday was one which has not been approached by any of the athletes connected with the circus that have been exhibiting this season.
In the morning it could not get high enough in the tube, and those of our fellow citizens who were wearing their "heavies" made a hurried change.
Following the rain after noon the slide was a dizzy one and one could scarcely find the mercury, it had gone so low.
The change in about twelve hours had been forty degrees, which is going some, even for Michigan.

LETTER FROM STATE CAPITOL

STATE AUDITORS AWARD VARIOUS CONTRACTS FOR SUPPLIES.

DRYS PREPARE FOR FIGHT

Governor is Not Pleased With Attitude of Cities That Do Not Wish to Comply With Provisions of Covert Law.

[By Gurd M. Hayes.]

Lansing—No action was taken by the board of state auditors at its special meeting Thursday relative to the lighting contract for the state capitol during the next two years. The Michigan Power company has underbid the municipal lighting plant of Lansing and according to Secretary Matthews of the board of auditors, the bid of the Michigan Power company is about half as high as the bid submitted by the company two years ago.

In 1913 the board of auditors awarded the contract for electricity to the municipal plant of Lansing and took the heating contract away from the power company. However, last year the power company submitted a bid for heating that was satisfactory and during the past winter the boilers in the state house have not been operated.

When the city was awarded the contract for electricity two years ago special machinery was installed for the operation of the capitol elevators and if the bid of the Michigan Power company is accepted, Secretary Matthews says it will be necessary to tear out the machinery. The auditors praise the city service, claiming it has been very satisfactory during the past two years. It is believed that some action will be taken on the lighting bids at the next meeting of the board.

The board of auditors divided the contracts for paper to be used in the state departments between Beecher Peck & Lewis of Detroit, Dudley Paper company of Lansing, Ithing Brothers Everard company of Kalamazoo, and the Union Paper & Twine company of Detroit.

The contracts for stationery supplies were divided between Ithing Brothers Everard company of Kalamazoo, Allen Printing company of Lansing, Northrup Robertson & Carrier company of Lansing, Remington Typewriter company of Detroit and the Dudley Paper company of Lansing.

The lithographing contract was awarded to Dickinson Brothers of Grand Rapids and the embossing contract went to Ithing Brothers Everard company of Kalamazoo.

With plans already under way for the state-wide prohibition fight to be staged in Michigan next year, the Michigan Anti-Saloon League is outlining its campaign for local option in a number of counties next spring and it is the ambition of the league officials to have at least two-thirds of the state in "dry" territory when the prohibition proposition is submitted to a vote at the general election in November, 1916.

At the present time 43 of the 83 counties in the state have adopted local option. At the April election the upper peninsula, where the liquor interests have been strongly entrenched, yielded to some extent before the attacks of the prohibition adherents and Alger and Iron counties swung into the "dry" column. Next year the anti-saloon league forces will stage another battle beyond the straits and the counties of Mackinac, Luce, Baraga, Schoolcraft, Delta and Menominee will be invaded.

Petitions have already been circulated by the "drys" for the submission of local option in Jackson, Mackinac, Luce and Baraga counties. Other "wet" counties to be tackled by the "drys" next year according to Superintendent Grant Hudson of the Michigan Anti-Saloon League are Clare, Wash-tonaw, Lake, Manistee, Arenac, Iosco, and Ogemaw. There is a possibility that an attempt will be made to submit the question in several other counties.

Elated by their victories in the local option elections last spring the anti-saloon league forces are confident that the April election next year will fortify them to a great extent for the state-wide campaign in the fall.

Superintendent Hudson feels extremely confident that the state-wide prohibition campaign will result in a victory for the "dry" forces. He concedes Wayne, Kent and Bay counties to the liquor forces, but asserts that the remaining 80 counties will return sufficient majorities to eliminate the saloons and breweries.

William R. Oates, of Laurium, will continue as state game, fish and forestry warden for another year at least. At a meeting of the public domain commission today, Oates was re-appointed for a period of one year. His salary will remain at $3,000.

John Baird of Saginaw, former state senator and member of the republican state central committee was appointed chief deputy warden. Baird's salary will be $1,900 per year. Chief Clerk Charles Hoyt of Grand Haven, who is regarded as one of the most valuable men in the department, will remain in his present position and the present chief deputy David Jones of Petoskey, has been appointed license clerk.

Oates was appointed state game warden by former governor Osborn in 1911. However, this year Osborn endorsed Gilman Dams, chairman of the republican state central committee for the appointment.

Warden Oates received the endorsement of 85 of the republican members of the house of representatives, while John Baird of Saginaw, who was a candidate for the wardenship, received the support of many of the old-line republicans of the state.

This is the first appointment of a state game warden by the public domain commission. Heretofore this office has been at the disposal of the governor, but the last legislature decided to take the appointive power away from the chief executive and the department was placed under the jurisdiction of the public domain commission.

Governor Ferris is not pleased with the attitude of many municipalities in refusing to accept the provisions of the Covert bill passed during the last session of the legislature. This bill provides that in all cities having full paid fire departments the firemen shall be entitled to a leave of absence one day out of every twenty-four and shall be given a furlough of twenty days each year.

The police and fire commission of Lansing has announced that it will not abide by the new law and similar boards in other cities have taken the same stand. As there is no penalty for refusal to obey it will be necessary for some fireman to make a test case and attempt to obtain a writ of mandamus.

Governor Ferris says that every city should live up to this law and if it is not satisfactory, have it repealed at the next session of the legislature. He points out that the bill was put through the legislature with practically no opposition and he received less than half a dozen protests against the bill when it was before him for approval.

"The bill certainly has some merit," said the governor. "A married man who is a member of the fire department should be given a few hours with his family."

Before leaving for Philadelphia Governor Ferris issued four paroles to inmates of Ionia and Jackson prisons. The paroles issued are as follows: Steve Bartowick, Michigan State prison, sentenced from Wayne county, August 26, 1910, to serve from seven and one-half to fifteen years on a charge of breaking and entering.

Gerald Cross, sentenced from Clinton county to the Michigan Reformatory, January 24, 1911, from three years and eleven months to seven years and ten months on a statutory charge.

Joseph Hennessey, Michigan Reformatory, sentenced from Kent county, March 18, 1912, for two to five years on a charge of larceny.

Curtis Blosser, Michigan Reformatory, sentenced from Wexford county on a statutory charge September 23, 1913, for a term of two to five years. In each case clemency was recommended by the pardon board.

Application has been made to the state railroad commission by the Detroit Edison company for authority to execute a new first general and refunding mortgage of $75,000,000 and to sell $5,500,000 thereof.

Attorneys for the company in their petition say that the present $10,000,000 Detroit Edison first mortgage was used up a few years ago and that the Eastern Michigan Edison company $10,000,000 mortgage, under which $4,000 has been issued, is about to be closed.

It is said that the new Detroit Edison company mortgage will withhold $14,000,000 of bonds to refund the present outstanding Detroit Edison company $10,000,000 bonds and Eastern Michigan Edison company $14,000,000 bonds, thereby leaving $61,000,000 for future purposes. The officials estimate that these bonds, together with capital stock to be issued in equal amounts with the bonds should enable the company to keep pace with the city's growth.

Secretary of State Coleman C. Vaughan announced that the department has issued 90,000 automobile licenses this year and it is confidently predicted by the state department that more than 100,000 licensed motor cars will be operating in Michigan by January 1, 1916.

In addition to the 90,000 automobile licenses the state department has licensed 4,200 chauffeurs and 6,151 motorcycles. The steady growth of the automobile business in Michigan is shown by the reports of the state department for the past six years.

In 1909 when the automobile license law first took effect the state department issued 11,718 licenses. During that year chauffeurs and motorcycle license owners were not required to take out a license.

In 1910 the department issued 18,355 automobile licenses, 2,868 chauffeurs licenses and 1,041 motorcycle licenses. In 1911 27,796 automobile licenses were delivered and licenses were granted to 3,681 chauffeurs and 1,824 motorcycle owners.

For 1912 the records show 39,579 automobile licenses, 3,898 chauffeurs and 3,821 motorcycle licenses. For 1913, the department issued 54,366 automobile licenses, 4,385 chauffeurs and 5,698 motorcycle licenses. Last year 76,389 automobile licenses were granted, 4,709 chauffeurs licenses and 4,976 motorcycle licenses.

BOY SLAYER OF SHERWOOD

Master Mechanic Victim of Shot From Rifle in Hands of Child.

Jackson—Mott E. Sherwood, master mechanic of the Michigan Central railroad, was shot and killed Friday night while riding in his automobile at the fair grounds.

Norman Davenport, a boy of nine years, is the slayer of Sherwood, and he does not seem to realize what a terrible thing it is to kill a man, even though the killing was accidental, and there is no doubt that it was accidental.

Since the shooting the officers have searched high and low for the person who fired the shot, and Monday the search was ended when young Davenport confessed to Detectives Henry Decker and Ben Phelps, of the Michigan Central railroad, that he fired the shot which killed Sherwood.

The lad is not a bad boy, but says he was trying to hit a tire to hear it pop.

MINE APPRAISAL IS UPHELD

Tax Commissioner is Vindicated by Decision of Supreme Court.

Lansing—The Finlay appraisal of the iron mines of the upper peninsula of 1911 has been upheld by the supreme court, in a decision rendered Monday in the case of the Newport Mining Co. against the city of Ironwood, in which the city wins out in its contention, and the mining company cannot recover $98,996 from the city, which was the amount of tax paid by them under protest.

In the lower court the city won its point, and the supreme court Monday affirmed that decision. Not only is it a victory for the Finlay appraisal, but is a decided victory for the state tax commission, which made the assessments of the mining properties which it was claimed had not, for a term of years, been paying anywhere near the taxes they should.

Three Killed By Motor Car. Mt. Pleasant—Eva Black, 12 years old, and Bessie Black, 7, daughters of Henry Black, of Nottawa, were instantly killed and their older sister, Helen, was fatally injured when the wagon in which they were driving home from the Isabella eighth grade graduation exercises here was struck by an Ann Arbor railroad motor car at the depot crossing Saturday afternoon.

BRYAN QUILTS CABINET OVER GERMAN NOTE

Secretary of State And The President Differ on Policy in Lusitania Case

WARM FRIENDSHIP OF TWO MEN EXPRESSED IN NOTES

Proposed Letter to Germany Too Strong for Indorsement of Secretary and He Decides to Quit Post Rather Than Sign It.

Washington—William Jennings Bryan, three-times Democratic candidate for the presidency of the United States, and author of nearly 30 peace treaties with the principal nations of the world, resigned Tuesday as secretary of state, as a dramatic sequel to his disagreement with President Wilson over the government's policy toward Germany.

The resignation was accepted by the president. The cabinet then approved the response which had been prepared, to the German reply to the Lusitania note.

Secretary Bryan returns to private life, when his resignation takes effect. It was learned that he intends to continue his political support of the president.

Unfair to Remain in Cabinet

Rather than sign the document which he believed might possibly draw the United States into war Mr. Bryan submitted his resignation in a letter declaring that "the issue involved is of such moment that to remain a member of the cabinet would be as unfair to you as it would be to the cause which is nearest my heart, namely, the prevention of war."

The president accepted the resignation in a letter of regret, tinged with deep personal feeling of affection. The letters constituting the official announcement of Mr. Bryan's departure from the cabinet to private life, were made public at the White House at 6 o'clock Tuesday night.

Dramatically the official relation of Mr. Bryan with the administration of the man whose nomination he assisted so materially in bringing about at the Baltimore convention of 1912 came to an end. It caused a sensation in the national capital scarcely paralleled in recent years.

Ambassadors, ministers and diplomats from foreign lands, officials of every rank and station, heard the news as it was flashed by newspaper extras. They interpreted variously its effect on the delicate situation that had arisen between Germany and the United States.

Warm Regard for Mr. Bryan

Officials of the administration were unanimous in their expressions of personal regret. Secretary Tumulty issued a statement to that effect, and the president reflected the same sentiment in his letter. "Admiration and praise for the courageous manner in which Mr. Bryan had fought for and held to his convictions were expressed by officials on every side, including those who had been most vigorous in their opposition to his policies."

The strong personal attachment of the president and Mr. Bryan has long been noticeable in their everyday conferences. Even Tuesday as they met in the cabinet room their greeting was one of affection and regard.

It became known that twice before in the two years and three months of his term Mr. Bryan had offered to resign so as to save the president from embarrassment, and each time the president refused to accept the resignation.

In domestic affairs the two men who were at the helm of the Democratic party in its first ascendancy into power in 16 years, co-operated most harmoniously. Often Mr. Bryan yielded some of his own views, as on the currency bill, and used his influence to assist the president's program in congress.

Robert Lansing, counselor for the department of state, becomes Mr. Bryan's temporary successor.

IDEAS FOR THE GENEROUS

Writer Gives His Views as to How to Do the Most Good in the Best Directions.

The best charity cannot be organized, cannot, indeed, be called charity, in the usual sense of the word. Some of the men whose gifts in various public directions have been most munificent are in themselves not generous men, and some whose gifts are never heard of are the most generous men in the world. To do the most good in the best directions one would need to be much more than wealthy; one would need to be wise, widely acquainted, ubiquitous and invisible. The rich man who will stand highest in the world's esteem will be he who devises some way of reaching, by direct and quite unmechanized ways, the lives, not counted among the needy, to whom special gifts for benefits of worth would bring to themselves and others the greatest blessings. We should like to have a secret service for bringing good to those who will never get it otherwise. An unknown board with unknown agents to distribute planes to persons who desire to play them rather than to hear them played, college training to those who will go to college to get it rather than everything but training, and trips to Europe for school-teachers and ministers to whom and through whom they will bring considerable heaven to earth, would be the world's first best charity.—Christian Register.

Mrs. Styles—You don't like dogs, do you, dear?
Mr. Styles—No.
"Don't you like any animal, dear?"
"Oh, yes."

METHODS IN MANAGEMENT OF ORCHARDS

Sled for Hauling Brush From an Orchard.

There are a few special methods and practices in the management of peach orchards which are of sufficient importance in some sections to justify brief reference to them.

The Ohio agricultural experiment station has called attention to the efficacy of slightly mounding up the soil about the base of the trees in preventing injury during periods of excessively low winter temperatures. In the same connection it has been shown that various other factors relating to the soil may greatly influence the amount of damage which peach trees suffer during such periods.

The winter of 1903-4 was characterized in the Lake Erie peach district of Ohio by periods of severe and prolonged cold. Great number of peach trees were killed. The prevailing conditions and their attendant results on the peach trees are summarized as follows:

Exceptional causes of susceptibility to cold in rare cases of apparently healthy, vigorous trees: Low, moist, rich black soil which favored an extreme growth of soft, poorly ripened, or matured wood; or high culture upon soil rich in plant food which brought about similar results.

The unusually deep, hard freezing of the earth's crust was due, directly, to the continued, steady cold, but was intensified, in many instances, by a lack of humus or vegetable matter in the soil, which constitutes nature's insulation of the surface of the earth from cold and heat.

Providing that the orchards had been kept free from fungous disease and the San Jose scale by timely and thorough spraying, no injury of trees was found where stable or barnyard manure had been used upon the ground within the last year or two previous to the winter of 1903-4; rarely was an injured tree found standing in soil; no injury was done where the surface of the soil beneath the trees had been covered with even a very slight mulch; little injury was done where the trees stood in fairly well drained soil containing a moderate amount of fertility and humus; no injury was found where the trees were under the grass-mulch methods of culture; no injury was observed in any case where the stems of the trees had been slightly banked or mounded with a few shovelfuls or forkfuls of soil, peat, or manure.

Very few trees which, within the past years, had been affected with leaf-curl or infested with San Jose scale or borers remained alive or uninjured; and very few trees existing upon infertile or exhausted soil, depleted of humus, escaped uninjured.

The usefulness of a cover crop in preventing the washing of the soil during the dormant period of the trees is frequently well demonstrated. Moreover, in some regions where the winters are rather severe and there is a very limited snowfall, a cover crop prevents the snow from blowing away, thus affording additional protection against the extreme freezing of the roots.

Another practice which is entirely regional, but which may be of considerable advantage at times, is the shading of the trunks of the trees with board protectors, lath screens, or in some other equally effective manner. This method is of use particularly in regions in which long periods of extremely hot weather usually occur and where the trees are not well shaded on the south and southwest sides. Shading in the manner suggested sometimes affords a measure of protection against the form of winter injury commonly called "sun scald."

In nearly all of the experiment station bulletins on peach culture, in current horticultural literature, and in the standard works in which peach growing is discussed in detail, emphasis is habitually placed upon the necessity of so managing the orchard that the trees will cease growing and the wood will become fully mature before the advent of cold weather. Otherwise, serious winter injury is anticipated. To accomplish this end it is generally advised to cease tillage in July or early August, to withhold fertilizers rich in nitrogen, and to avoid excessive fertile soil in selecting sites for peach orchards.

Undoubtedly such advice is perfectly sound and applicable to a large proportion of the peach-growing districts, but there appear to be some rather marked exceptions that are applicable to important peach-growing sections, to which the reader's attention may well be directed.

These exceptions to the general practices have been brought to light largely through investigations carried on by the Missouri agricultural experiment station. They consist primarily in so managing the orchard as to maintain the trees in active growth until rather late in the season. This may be accomplished by continuing the tillage later than is ordinarily advised, by using a nitrogenous fertilizer, or by heavy pruning, which results in a vigorous growth of new wood. Any condition that seriously reduces the vitality of the tree tends to make the tree, especially the fruit buds, susceptible to injury by winter temperatures. The production of an excessive crop of fruit is a common cause of depleted vitality. The conclusions of the Missouri experiment station tentatively summarized are as follows:

Where nitrogen was applied to peach trees a good crop was produced and harvested. On plots receiving no fertilizer there was practically no crop. There was likewise a failure of peaches in the surrounding region where no fertilizer was applied. The cold winter of 1911-12 was disastrous to peach trees in Missouri. Injury to peach trees caused by the cold so weakened their vitality that disease like the bacterial shot-hole leaf disease was common. On the plots fertilized with nitrogen there was little bacterial disease. On adjacent unfertilized plots the injury from this cause was very great. The trees in the plots fertilized with nitrogen also recovered from winter injury much more successfully and quickly than unfertilized trees in the same locality.

The application of phosphorus and potassium either singly or in combination did not result in increased yields. The results of the investigations on fertilizers for peaches seem to indicate clearly that a nitrogenous fertilizer or a method of cultivation and management which favors a vigorous tree growth when combined with pruning, spraying, and thinning fruit on overloaded trees will increase the crop. The above treatment tends to make them carry their fruit buds through winter and frosts of spring much more safely than where an average or weak growth only is secured. Our results seem to disprove the theory that trees must make their main growth early in the season and then be checked or retarded in their growth in August or September in order to ripen their wood before going into winter. In some experiments at this station where the trees have been encouraged to grow vigorously right up until some of the green leaves froze on the trees, either by the use of fertilizer or by severely pruning back the winter before or by thinning the fruit, they have uniformly carried their fruit buds through the winter much more safely than with trees that shed their leaves and ripened their wood early.

A very careful correlation of these results with the conditions which are generally considered essential in the growth of peach trees in the northern districts is necessary in order to understand their significance. There is no real conflict or lack of harmony in the methods advised for the different regions, though in the abstract they may appear to be directly incompatible.

In the northern districts, the normal winter is continuously cold and without any warm spells of sufficient duration to affect the dormancy of the trees. It usually remains cold until winter finally breaks. When it warms up enough to start the trees into activity and cause the buds to swell, there is comparatively little danger thereafter of serious frosts or freezes. Moreover, the critical factor—the one which largely governs the management of the orchard in the present connection—is low winter temperatures which are sufficient to kill the buds or injure the trees even when they are perfectly dormant. To best meet this low-temperature factor, it is recognized that the trees must be thoroughly dormant and the current season's growth well ripened.

The United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., will send interested fruit growers, free of charge, its Farmers' Bulletin (No. 632) on "Growing Peaches," which gives in detail much information on the pruning of trees, renewal of tops, thinning, interplanted crops and special practices.

DAIRY

INVESTMENT IN POOR COWS

Milk Producer Must Stop Guessing and Be Certain of Results—Much Money is Wasted.

Chief obstacles in successful dairying are lack of well balanced, intensive methods and not applying business principles. The milk producer must stop guessing and know for sure what the results will be and adopt the ways of most profit.

Large sums of money are invested in many acres of land, extensive and expensive buildings, costly, horses, tools and machinery, high-priced feed and labor, and all of this outlay turned to raising crops that do not yield anything like the amount of digestible nutrients per acre that should and could be obtained, and to feeding and poorly caring for a herd of poor cows utterly unable to return a profit.

The same expenditure of money and labor bestowed in an intelligent manner upon the same farm and an efficient dairy herd would return a handsome profit.

BEST SIZE OF SILO TO BUILD

Not Advisable to Construct Rectangular With Diameter Over Twenty Feet—Right Height.

In building a silo one should plan well the width of the silo. If the silo is too wide for the number of stock to be fed from it daily, there will not be a sufficient amount of silage taken from the silo per day, especially in warm weather, to keep the silage from spoiling.

A depth of 2 to 2½ inches of silage should be taken from the silo per day during the winter months, and a depth of three inches per day during the warm summer months.

If the stock on a farm is equivalent to from ten to fifteen cows, the silo should have a diameter of about ten feet; if equivalent to fifteen to twenty-five cows, a diameter of about twelve feet; if equivalent to twenty-five to forty-five cows, a diameter of about fifteen feet; if equivalent to forty-five to sixty-five cows, a diameter of about eighteen feet; if equivalent to sixty-five to seventy-five cows, a diameter of about twenty feet. For a herd of seventy-five cows or over the diameter can be from eighteen to twenty feet.

It is not advisable to build a silo with the diameter over twenty feet. It is a general rule not to make the height of the silo less than twice or more than three times the diameter.

PLAN FOR DEHORNING CATTLE

Illustration Shows How the Head of Animal is Held While Operation is Being Performed.

In reply to an inquiry as to the best method for dehorning a cow a subscriber of Hoard's Dairymen submits the following plan:

"I inclose you a tie for holding cow's head at station while dehorning. I think it the best tie I know. I send you a small model to show how to use it. When cow's head is fast in station, the rope is dropped over cow's neck, the loop is caught on the under side and the rope doubled is put through loop and placed around the nose up far enough to not shut off her breathing, and then pull the rope back to a post at side of station, and one turn around post. A man can hold the end, and by placing his weight on rope hold the cow's head quite solid while her horns are removed. The rope is quickly removed by taking off nose and pulling same."

Yes, waiting for every farmer or farmer's son—an industrious American who is anxious to establish for himself a happy home and prosperity. Canada's hearty invitation this year is more attractive than ever. Wheat is higher but her farm land just as cheap and in the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta

160 Acre Homesteads are Actually Free to Settlers and Other Land at From $15 to $20 per Acre

The people of European countries as well as the American continent must be fed—thus an even greater demand for Canadian Wheat will keep up the price. Any farmer who can buy land at $15.00 to $20.00 per acre—get a dollar for wheat and raise 20 to 45 bushels to the acre is bound to make money—that's what you can expect in Western Canada. Wonderful yields also of Oats, Barley and Flax. Mixed Farming is fully as profitable an industry as grain raising. The excellent grasses, full of nutrition, are the only food required either for beef or dairy purposes. Good schools, markets convenient, climate excellent.

BIG REWARD FOR INVENTIONS

British Government is Encouraging Ideas Tending to Improve Development of Army Equipment.

That there are handsome rewards for those who are able to devise improvements in guns and machinery is shown in sums that have been paid in fees to inventors at army ordnance factories for the year ending March, 1914. No less than £4,000, for instance, was paid to Col. C. L. Holden, late superintendent of the royal gun and carriage factories, for various inventions and improvements connected with ordnance mountings, machine tools, etc., in addition to £500 paid on another account; while £2,850 was paid to Mr. W. T. Thomson, chemist and manager, respectively, of the Royal Gunpowder factory, for improvements in the manufacture of nitrocellulose and accompanying apparatus, in addition to a previous £1,150.

Smaller amounts, such as £250 to Mr. W. H. Turton, manager of the Royal Gun factory, for improved machines for the manufacture of ordnance; £100 to Mr. W. Lambert for a process for testing steel bullets; £25 each to William Rogers and E. F. Pullar for labor-saving and improved tools for use at the Royal Carriage department, and £20 to Assistant Foreman S. Capon, Royal Gun Factory forges, for improved muffle for use in forges, have also been paid.—Tit-Bits.

Russia Becomes Temperate.

The prohibition of selling brandy in the government monopoly shops was introduced throughout the Russian empire from the beginning of the war, on the day of mobilization, and has now been in force for more than eight months. One of the Russian papers has made inquiries concerning the results of this measure, and has published some of the statistical data that were collected. The following list shows the consumption of vodka in the city of Moscow in 1914 compared with the preceding year: July, 612,686 gallons in 1913 and 359,124 gallons in 1914; August, 667,926 gallons in 1913 and 23,373 gallons in 1914; October, 707,688 gallons in 1913 and 2,913 gallons in 1914. During the first three months vodka could be obtained at the first-class restaurants for consumption in the same, the selling of vodka in bottles being prohibited under a heavy fine.

The Direct Relation

Between What We Eat and What We Are Is Well Established

This is both reasonable and scientific, for activity uses up tissue cells of body and brain which must be replaced daily from proper food.

SHOE TOKEN OF SUBJECTION

Ancient Significance of Custom Which Is Not Looked Upon as Merely a Joke.

As specially applied to weddings, there is a suspicion that the throwing of old shoes—or new slippers, for all that—had at first a significance which would surely be most objectionable to twentieth-century brides. It seems to have been a token of the complete subjection of the bride to her lord and master. In the East a shoe or a slipper was publicly borne at the head of the bridal procession in indication of the bride's subjection, and at some Jewish weddings the bridegroom used to strike the bride a blow with his shoe as a sign that she was thereafter to be submissive to his will. Among the Nestorians it was the custom for the bridegroom to kick the bride, and for her to remove from his foot the shoe with which he had kicked her. To this day there is a common custom in Russia for the bridegroom on his wedding night to require the bride to pull off his boots. In one of them is a whip, and in the other a gift. If she pulls off first the one containing the whip, she gets a stroke from the lash, and is to expect floggings thereafter, but if the gift is first disclosed her married life will be happy. It is related of Martin Luther that once, after performing the wedding ceremony for a couple, he took off the bridegroom's shoe and placed it upon the bride's pillow, as a sign that she should in all things and at all times be subservient to her husband.

Earmarks.
Alexander Powell, war correspondent and lecturer, said at a tea in New York:

"The English volunteer troops are splendid. You can tell by certain earmarks where they come from. You can tell the miners of the Midlands, the mill hands of Manchester, the bookkeepers of London, the—"

"How do you tell them?" a young lady asked.

"Well," said Mr. Powell, "it's easy enough to tell, for example, the bookkeepers. Every time the bookkeepers are commanded to stand at ease they try to put their rifles behind their ears."

Too Sour.
Professor Copeland of Harvard, as the story goes, reproved his students for coming late to class.

"This is a class in English composition," he remarked with sarcasm, "not an afternoon tea."

At the next meeting one girl was twenty minutes late. Professor Copeland waited until she had taken her seat. Then he remarked bitingly:

"How will you have your tea, Miss Brown?"

"Without the lemon, please," Miss Brown answered quite gently.—Christian Register.

Liberal Juries.
Based on verdicts by Mississippi juries Law Notes recommends that state as a place where money is easy. The case of Illinois Central railroad vs. Dacus resulted in a verdict for $500 to a prospective passenger because a ticket agent said "d—n" to him; while in Alabama, etc., Railroad company vs. Morris, it appeared that a liberal jury gave $15,000 to a white woman who was compelled to ride a short distance with three negroes, although the stipulated court cut the verdict to $2,000.

TWO CENT FARE TO REMAIN IN FORCE

FEDERAL COURT DOES NOT ALLOW INCREASE DURING TEST OF LAW.

ANN ARBOR CASE DECISION

Railroads Denied Right to Charge More Than Law Allows Pending Decision On Constitutionality of Act.

Detroit—Refusing either to grant or deny the petition of the Ann Arbor Railroad company vs. Cassius L. Glasgow, Grant Fellows and others, in which a temporary injunction restraining the Michigan railroad commission and the attorney-general from taking steps for the enforcement of the present 2-cent passenger fare law, a decision was handed down Monday by the United States court of appeals, holding the application open without prejudice for the present.

The decision was filed with the clerk of the United States district court in Detroit, although the petition was heard in Grand Rapids before Judges Knappen and Dennison, of the circuit court of appeals, and United States district Judge Sessions.

In substance, the effect of the decision in the Ann Arbor case, just handed down, will be the denying to the roads the right to charge higher rates of fare while preparing to test the constitutionality of the Michigan two-cent passenger rate law in the courts.

SUGAR BEET GROWERS LOSE

Supreme Court Upholds Right of Manufacturer to Enforce Contract.

Lansing—The right of sugar manufacturing companies to dictate when sugar beets, which have been raised for them under contract, shall be delivered to their factories was upheld absolutely by the Michigan supreme court Monday.

Conversely, the condition of the beets after harvest and before delivery is up to the grower. No matter what happens, if his beets rot and spoil before the sugar manufacturing company takes them to deliver them and takes them off his hands, he is responsible and must stand the loss.

In a sweeping decision, the supreme court construes the regular sugar beet contract made between the farmer and the sugar plant man so that hereafter the burden of the entire transaction will fall upon the grower. He must obey the delivery orders of the plant head and must be controlled absolutely by them.

Temperance Postoffice Robbed.
Monroe yeggmen visited the village of Temperance, Mich., early Sunday morning, carried the 500-pound postoffice safe away and left no trace of their identity.

Local officials found the same at the side of the road a mile and a half southeast of the village, where it had been blown to atoms and $70.36 in cash and $40 in stamps taken.

The robbers used a skeleton key and gained entrance through the front door. Their visit was not discovered until morning, when the office was opened.

Theatre Fire Kills One.
Calumet—Bernard Ohman, 17, was burned to death, and Alphonse Ruttenberg was badly burned while trying to save Ohman from a fire in the film room of the Savoy motion picture theatre at Hancock Thursday night.

Adolph Boemer, a fireman, also was injured.

Panic was averted by theatre employees. Ohman is believed to have caused the fire by placing a roll of films against a live electric wire.

Boy Killed By Colt.

Adrian—While the parents of Johnnie Moore, 14 years old, living near Britton, were attending the funeral of a relative, the lad attempted to ride a colt. When they returned they found his body in a lane, terribly mangled and his neck was broken. The accident was witnessed by no one. It is believed the long tie rope was wound about the boy's neck and that he was dragged about the farm by the colt.

NEWS BRIEFS.

Oliver, 30 years old, a farmer three miles from Cheaning, was killed Saturday when a boulder he was burying in a field split and half of it fell on him. His son, 10 years old, found his body. His widow and three children survive.

State Fire Marshal Winship reports that eight persons lost their lives by fire in Michigan during May, and six others were seriously burned. Three hotels and two theatres were destroyed by fire.

The monthly report of the state treasurer shows $9,072,738 in the treasury June 1, of which $6,093,839 is in the primary school fund and $2,688,898 in the general fund. The indications are that the general fund will be depleted by October, two months before the state taxes begin to come in.

WILL NOT OPPOSE SALE

Bondholders of Pere Marquette Assure Judge Tuttle That They Will Assist Reorganization.

Detroit—All opposition to the sale of the Pere Marquette railroad has now disappeared and the bondholders will do their utmost to assist the United States court in disposing of the property this fall. The consolidated bondholders, holding mortgages on the road for $8,000,000 and coming second to the senior bondholders, have assured Judge Tuttle that they will do all in their power to formulate a re-organization plan.

As a result of this assurance, the hearing set for the morning, when the receivers were to present a petition asking the court to sell the road, October 1, subject to the receiver's debts of $9,000,000, was postponed until June 28. On that date the various mortgage holders will file answers to the petitions for the sale of the system and will thresh out their objections then, instead of after the final decree ordering the sale is made.

Little hope is held that the junior bondholders, with a mortgage of about $30,000,000, will get anything whatever out of the road. It will be necessary for the consolidated or second mortgage holders to raise $40,000,000 new money to take the road over and it would be necessary for the junior bondholders to bid in $46,000,000 to provide for the receivers' debts, the senior and consolidated bondholders' mortgages.

Valuable Drugs Are Stolen.

Chicago—A band of expert safe blowers believed to be in the employ of dealers engaged in illegal traffic in narcotics for drug fends, climbed on the fire escapes to the fifth floor of the branch plant of Parke, Davis & Co., manufacturing chemists, 162 North Franklin street, early Saturday, blew a safe and escaped with loot valued at $10,000, practically all of which consisted of various opiates.

Government agents who have joined in the search for the yeggmen, declare the drugs stolen are worth their weight in gold.

Loss Passports by Critics.

Berlin—The United States embassy Sunday ordered revoked the passports of Leon Raines and Rare Recknagel, American citizens living at Dresden, who have been criticizing the action of their government in the present crisis, and who are said to have declared they were ashamed of their citizenship. The two men are charged with having violently attacked the policies of the present administration.

Michigan Foresters of America will meet in Pontiac in 1917. This was decided at the convention at Calumet.

The University of Michigan aero club's new hydroplane was wrecked near Barton dam Friday afternoon, in a trial flight, and the pilot, F. Earl Lundy, senior engineer from Hancock, was in grave danger of losing his life when the machine turned turtle on the surface of the pond.

For a second time in the last few months Onaway was terrorized Wednesday morning by a masked bandit who entered the Chandler hotel, held up the clerk at the point of a revolver and compelled him to deliver the contents of the cash register, $3.

Veterans of the civil war Saturday dedicated the soldiers' monument recently erected by them on the northwest corner of court house square at Ann Arbor with appropriate ceremonies. The monument was erected at a cost of $2,500, the funds for which were raised by subscription.

Steep the Sassafras.
A St. Louis clergyman gloomily informs us:

Why She Went to Church.

A devout old lady had become very deaf, and, as her church was some distance from her home, decided to attend another one, which was nearer. She spoke to the minister of the second church about it, and was cordially received and urged to come whenever possible.

"Ah, well," she said, "all churches lead to heaven, and as I have grown deaf and cannot hear any of the sermon I thought I would attend your church."

Aviators' Safety Parachutes.
The energies of practically all the inventors of parachutes for airmen have been directed towards the development of a device for the airman alone, the aeroplane itself being allowed to drop to earth unhindered.

Parachutes, for the whole aeroplane have just been designed by a French inventor. Two folded parachutes, contained in cone-shaped receptacles, are attached to the wings as near the ends as possible. By means of a simple mechanism, operated by the movement of a small hand lever, these parachutes are pushed out of the containers, after which they are claimed to open freely, no matter in what manner the aeroplane may be falling. All the airman has to do is to hang on to the aeroplane.

WAR RAISES HORSES

Many Michigan people have found that the European war has raised the value of livestock, particularly horses. Therefore, it is now more necessary than ever to keep domestic animals in A-1 shape. To do this, a bully liniment to use is the same kind that George Wells, of Syracuse, N. Y., used. He says: "And the only medicine used on the foot after the horse had been given up to die by the veterinary surgeon, was Hanford's Balsam of Myrrh. This horse, which the doctor said should be killed after it had run a nail in its foot, lived to do many more hours of labor."

The First Principle

of Good Health

One great medical authority declares that sluggish bowels are the cause of more than half the ills that afflict mankind. A constipated condition quickly affects the liver and other organs, so that indigestion and constipation are soon followed by biliousness, headaches, chronic bad breath and a generally disarranged condition of the system. Foley Cathartic Tablets are an ideal physic, for their action is wholesome and thoroughly cleansing, without griping, nausea or inconvenience. They invigorate and strengthen the bowels and have a good effect on the stomach and liver.

L. L. Levey, Great Bay, Wis. writes: "For a long time I suffered from constipation and liver trouble. Nothing seemed to help me. I finally secured Foley Cathartic Tablets and am pleased to state they have cured me. They are the finest cathartic to take I have ever used and their effect is quick and sure."

CLINTON—Many of our citizens and the farmers west of town especially, are of the opinion that the township is liable in not erecting a railing on both sides of the Chicago pike between the two river bridges. It is a bad place to meet machines with a horse that is the least bit afraid—Local.

ANN ARBOR—The Y. M. C. A. camp for boys between the ages of 11 and 16 years will open at Camp Birkett, Silver Lake, June 20. This is earlier than usual and is done so that the boys in different parts of the county can have an opportunity to go to the camp later in the season if they care to do so.

HOWELL—Word has been received here that the Detroit Foundry company which had made partial plans to come to this city and start a foundry have received tempting offers from Detroit of sufficient size to cause them to abandon their plan of locating a foundry in this city. The slogan Howell wants a foundry still stands—Tidings.

HOWELL—The State Veterinarian was called here yesterday to look after some valuable cattle belonging to John Haas near this city that have died recently very mysteriously. At first it was thought that the cattle had been poisoned by paint on the buildings but the veterinarian thinks the deaths due to a poison of a vegetable nature of some kind—Tidings.

PLYMOUTH—Marshal Springer discovered a man at the rear door of E. R. Daggett's store in north village at an early hour last Sunday morning. Upon seeing the officer the man started to run whereupon the marshal called upon him to halt. He refused to do so and the officer sent several shots from his revolver after the fleeing man, but he made good his escape—Mail.

ENDORSED AT HOME.

Such Proof as This Should Convince Any Chelsea Citizen.

The public endorsement of a local citizen is the best proof that can be produced. None better, none stronger can be had. When a man comes forward and testifies to his fellow-citizens, addresses his friends and neighbors, you may be sure he is thoroughly convinced or he would not do so. Telling one's experience when it is for the public good is an act of kindness that should be appreciated. The following statement given by a resident of Chelsea adds one more to the many cases of home endorsement which are being published about Doan's Kidney Pills. Read it.

C. H. Stephenson, painter, 548 N. Main St., Chelsea, says: "The secretions from my kidneys were irregular in passage and contained sediment. I had soreness and lameness across my back. Hearing what Doan's Kidney Pills had done for others, I tried them and they helped me right away. The lameness and soreness in my back soon left and my kidneys became normal."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Stephenson had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y. Adv.

EPICRAMS OR OTHERWISE

If we do not squander time and opportunity in youth, we will not find bankruptcy in old age.

Character can be expressed by what one says, what one does and by what one really is.

It is much easier to tell how the world is wicked, than to tell why the world is wicked.

Even one's best friends may tire and yawn at a prolonged story of misfortune and make an excuse to get away.

All have mountains to climb in life and it isn't easy work either. It needs perseverance, strength and a great desire to reach the summit. We must have a goal in view if we reach the heights. The effort put forth to reach one hill only strengthens our muscles for another climb. And so on until the view at the top makes us forget the climb.

In my younger years I was wont to collect for a scrap book anything that seemed to meet my eyes in the daily papers. Speeches made by distinguished people that I saw needed more than a passing glance. One address in particular, given by Henry D. Estabrook before a graduating class in a Detroit high school. He was introduced by Hon. Thomas W. Palmer of cherished memory. The noted speech of Mr. Estabrook was an eloquent tribute to the martyred president, Lincoln, in which he dwelt on the "vengeance of the flag" and the assassination. A few days ago I read in the Detroit Journal that Henry D. Estabrook was to be in that city; I immediately turned to my scrap book and read the old speech and wondered if that young man had attained to the heights that bid fair to be opened to him. That speech was certainly magnificent.
