The Notten Reunion.

The fourth Notten reunion was held Saturday, August 28, 1915, at the very pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred

W. Notten. It was a beautiful day and a very large crowd was present. There were relatives from Woodland, Hastings, Jackson, Munith, Stockbridge, Detroit, Chelsea and the country near-by, including Grass Lake, Francisco and Waterloo. During the early hours of the day buggies, automobiles and wagons brought the many relatives to the meeting place where a large tent had been pitched, under which long tables and seats had been constructed for the dinner. There were one hundred and sixty who helped to eat the dinner which had been so carefully prepared by all. With the dinner lemonade and ice cream were served. Those who wished to smoke were treated to cigars.

The president, Ehlert Notten, called the meeting to order. The minutes of last year's meeting were read, after which a splendid program was rendered, consisting of speeches and songs. There are many good orators and musicians in the relationship who willingly took part in the program. On behalf of all present the secretary wishes to thank all for this aid in having made this reunion such a grand success.

Hon. John Kalmbach addressed the crowd and made many interesting remarks. He having known the most of the family from childhood, the remarks were very much appreciated by all. The band favored us with sever-

The officers for the 1916 reunion were elected as follows: Henry Notten, president; Mrs. Burleigh C. Whitaker, secretary. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lehman gave the invitation for the next meeting which will occur on the last Saturday in August, 1916.

Hoping that we all may be spared to meet again and spend many such days together, and that we all may derive much good from these meetings and thereby become better citizens of the grand old United States.

SYNOPSIS.

Sanford Quest, master criminologist of the world, finds that in bringing to justice Macdougal, the murderer of Lord Ashleigh's daughter, he has but just begun a life-and-death struggle with a mysterious master criminal. In a hidden hut in Professor Ashleigh's garden he has seen an ape skeleton and a living creature, half monkey, half man, destroyed by fire. In his rooms have appeared black boxes containing notes, signed by a pair of armless hands. Laura and Lenora, his assistants. suspect Craig, the professor's servant, of a double murder. The black boxes con-tinue to appear in uncanny fashion. Craig is trapped, but escapes to England, where Quest, Lenora and the professor follow Lord Ashleigh is murdered by the Hands. Craig is captured and escapes to Port Said, where Quest and his party also go, and beyond into the desert. They are captured by Mongars, among whom Craig seems to be in authority, escape with Craig as their captive and are rescued by

'NEATH IRON WHEELS.

Side by side they leaned over the rail of the steamer and gazed shorewards at the slowly unfolding scene before them. For some time they had all preserved an almost ecstatic silence.

"Say, but it's good to see home again!" Laura sighed at last.

"I'm with you," Quest agreed emphatically. "It's the wrong side of to set my foot on American soil again."

"This the wrong side of the continent! I should say not!" Laura exclaimed, pointing to where in the distance the buildings of the exposition gleamed almost snow white in the dazzling sunshine. "Why, I have never seen anything so beautiful in my life." "I guess there's one of us here."

Quest observed, "who is none too pleased to see America again," Lenora shivered a little. They were sudden look of horror in his white face. He started back, but Quest was hurry away, dear! too quick for him. In a moment there was the click of a handcuff, the mate criminologist's cuff.

They stepped along the deck towards the rest of the party. Lenora fessor's lamp handed ner glasses to Quest.

"Do look, Mr. Quest," she begged. "There is Inspector French standing in the front row on the dock, with two enormous bunches of flowers-carnations for me, I expect, and poinsettias for Laura. They're the larger bunch." Quest took the glasses and nodded

Slowly the great steamer drifted nearer and nearer to the docks, hats were waved from the little line of spectators, ropes were drawn taut The inspector was standing at the bottom of the gangway as they all passed down. He shook hands with everyone vigorously. Then he presented Lenora with her carnations and Laura with the poinsettias. Lenora was enthusiastic Even Laura murmured a few words of thanks.

"Some flowers, those poinsettias," the inspector agreed.

Quest gripped him by the arm. 'French,' he said, "I tell you I shall make your hair curl when you hear all that we've been through. Do you feel like having me start in right away, on our way to the cars?"

French withdrew his arm

"Nothing doing," he replied. "I want to talk to Miss Laura. You can stow that criminal stuff. It'll wait all our bargain, professor?" right. You've got the fellow-that's what matters!"

Quest exchanged an amused glance with Lenora. The inspector and Laura fell a little behind. The former took off his hat for a moment and fanned himself.

The inspector sighed. His face had grown long and the buoyancy had passed from his manner.

They found the others waiting for them at the end of the great wooden shed. Quest turned to French. "Look here, French," he said, "you know I don't want to hurry you off. but I don't know what we're going to do with this fellow about in San Francisco. We don't want to lodge two charges, and we should have to put him in jail tonight. Why don't you take him on right away? There's a limited goes by the southern route in an hour's time."

French assented gloomily. "That suits me," he agreed. "You'll be glad to get rid of the fellow, too," he added.

They drove straight to the depot, found two vacant seats in the train, and Quest, with a little sigh of relief, handed over his charge.

"Now for a little holiday," Quest declared, passing Lenora's arm through his. "We'll just have a look around the city and then get down to San Diego and take a look at the exposition there. No responsibilities, no one to look after, nothing to do but enjoy lot of getting at!"-They found French, already convalescent, comfortably installed in the private ward of a small hospital in the picturesque New Mexico town. Laura almost at once established herself by his side.

"Can you remember anything about the wreck, French?" Quest inquired. The inspector passed his hand wearily over his forehead.

"It seems more like a dream-or rather a nightmare—than anything," he admitted. "I was sitting opposite Craig when the crash came. I was unconscious for a time. When I came to, I was simply pinned down by the side of the car. I could see a man working hard to release me, tugging and straining with all his might. It might have been because I was unconscious myself, for I don't remember anything else until I found myself in bed."

"It would indeed," the professor remarked, "be an interesting circumstance—an interesting psychological circumstance, if I might put it that way-if Craig, the arch-criminal, the man who has seemed to us so utterly devoid of all human feeling, should really have toiled in this manner to set free his captor."

"Interesting or not," Quest observed, "I'd like to know whether it was Craig or not. I understand there were about a dozen unrecognizable bodies found." The nurse, who had left the room

"Gee, boys, he's broken it!" he groaned. "Say, this is hell!" The cook suddenly pushed his way through the fittle crowd. He took Jim's shoulder firmly in one hand and his arm in the other. The cowboy howled with pain. "Let go my arm!" he shouted. "Kill him boys: My God, I'll make holes in you for this!"

He snatched at his gun with his other hand and the cowboys scattered a little. The cook stepped back, the gun flashed out, only to be suddenly lowered. Jim looked incredulously towards his left arm, which hung no longer helplessly by his side. Darkness came early and the little company grew closer and closer to the camp fire, where Craig had once more taken up his violin. The professor had wandered off somewhere into the darkness and the girls were seated a little apart. They had been treated hospitably but coldly.

'Don't seem to cotton to us, these boys," Laura remarked. "They don't like us," Lenora replied, After the Wreck Another Warning because they think we are after Craig. I wonder what Long Jim has been whispering to him, and what that paper is he has been showing Craig. Do you know how far we are from the Mexican border?" "Not more than five or six miles,

I believe," Laura replied. Lenora rose softly to her feet and strolled to the back of the range wagon. In a few moments she reappeared, carrying a piece of paper in her hand. She stooped down.

"Craig's saddling up," she whispered. "Look what he dropped." She held out the paper, on which was traced a roughly drawn map.

ness. Lenora ran to where her horse was tethered. "I'm going after him," she announced. "Listen, Laura. If they arrive soon, send them after me." She galloped off while Laura was still undecided. Almost at that moment she heard from behind the welcome sound of horses' feet in the opposite direction and Quest galloped up. Laura laid her hand upon his rein.

"Don't get off," Laura continued quickly. "Craig has escaped, riding towards the Mexican frontier. Lenora is following him. He's gone in that direction," she added pointing. "When you come to the river you'll have to hunt for the bridge."

Quest frowned as he gathered up his reins.

"I was afraid they'd try something of the sort," he muttered. "Tell the others where I've gone, Laura."

He galloped off into the darkness. Behind, there were some growls from the little group of cowboys, none of whom, however, attempted to interfere with him. Long Jim stood up and gazed sullenly southwards. "Cookie'll make the bridge all right," he remarked. "If the girl catches him, she can't do anything. And that guy'll never make it. Whoop! Here comes the rest of them."

The inspector, with the two deputies, rode suddenly into the camp. The inspector paused to speak to Laura. Long Jim's eyes sparkled as he saw them approach. "It's old Harris and fat Andy,' he whispered. "We'll have some fun with them.' The older of the two deputies ap proached them, frowning. "Been at your games again, Long Jim?" he began. "I hear you declined to hand over a criminal who'd been sheltering on your ranch? You'll get into trouble before you've finished.

"Got the warrant?" Jim asked. The deputy produced it. Long Jim looked at it curiously and nanded it back.

"Guess the only thing you want, then, is the man." "Better produce him quickly," the deputy advised.

Jim turned away. "Can't do it. He's beat it."

"You mean that you've let him go?" some of your party after him, all right."

The hunted man turned round with a little gasp. Before him was the rude mountain bridge, and on the other side-freedom. Scarcely a dozen lengths away was Lenora, and close behind her came Quest. He slackened speed as he walked his horse cautiously on to the planked bridge. Suddenly he gave a little cry. The frail structure, unexpectedly insecure, seemed to sway beneath his weight. Lenora, who was riding fast, was unable to stop herself. She came on to the bridge at a half canter. Craig, who had reached the other

SERVING COLD MEATS.

During the hot months, when the appetite needs a little toning up, the following salmon dish will be especially good: Spiced Salmon.

Liver Pudding (Old Georgia Style). Take a hog's liver, half a hog's head, two red peppers and one onion. Cut the pepper and onion in small pieces and tie in a small cheesecloth with a little sage; season with salt and drop into the kettle with the boiling meat When tender, remove from the kettle and when cool take out the bone and gristle; set aside in a mold. Add two or three hard-cooked eggs at intervals to make it more attractive when Spiced Beef Tongue.-Wash and trim a fresh beef tongue. drop into boiling water with a teaspoonful of salt, a pepper pod, and simmer until the tongue is tender. Cool, peel and put into a clean saucepan; add four tablespoonfuls of sugar, a tablespoon ful each of allspice and cloves, both ground, a cupful of water and half a cupful of cider vinegar. Simmer until the liquor is evaporated, turning the tongue often to season well. Chilf on ice and serve cut in thin slices garnished with lemon and parsley.

Any bits of cold meat, from chicken to mutton, if no more than a cupful, will make a most appetizing dish if these directions are followed: Cut two or three potatoes very thin, put into the bottom of a buttered baking dish, cover with a cupful of meat and any gravy, or, if none, a little water, with beef extract, two tablespoonfuls of shredded onion and a cupful or two of tomatoes over all Bake an hour, or until the potatoes are tender, then sprinkle the top with a few cooked peas and serve from the dish. Add seasonings of salt and pepper.

SOMETHING ABOUT BREADS.

With good bread or rolls for her table the housewife may laugh at unexpected company, for without these nothing, however fine, will make a pleasant meal.

Raisin Bread.-Place a pint of milk and a pint of water in a saucepan and bring to the boiling point; cool until lukewarm, then add a cake of yeast, dissolved in a half cupful of lukewarm water, add four cupfuls of flour and a teaspoonful of sugar, beat well and let stand to rise. When very light add a half cupful of sugar, a teaspoonful of salt, two tablespoonfuls of butter, two eggs and a cupful of raisins. Knead with flour enough to handle well, form into loaves and bake when the loaves are more than double in bulk. Bake 45 minutes.

Coffee Cake .- To make the sponge, take a cupful of milk, two teaspoonfuls of sugar, a half yeast cake, dissolved in a fourth of a cupful of water, two cupfuls of flour. Beat well and let stand until light, or better overnight, then add a half cupful of melted butter, a half cupful of sugar, two beaten eggs, a teaspoonful of salt and a half cupful of milk with three or four cupfuls of flour to make a dough to knead. Let rise again untilight, spread with softened butter sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon, and when light bake in a moderate oven

Tea Rolls.-Add two cupfuls of flour to a cupful of scalded milk when it is lukewarm, beat well and add a yeast cake softened in a quarter of a cupful of water. When well risen, add a fourth of a cupful of melted butter, a teaspoonful of salt, two eggs, a grating of nutmeg, add two more cupfuls of flour. Knerd well and let rise in a warm place. Shape into small rolls, put into a buttered pan and set to rise, well covered. Bake in a hot oven 15 minutes,

Nut Cakes .- Beat two eggs and stir into them a cupful of light brown sugar and two tablesponfuls of flour. Add a cupful of nut meats chopped fine. Spread the mixture in a very thin layer on a well-greased tin and bake ten minutes or until lightly

"TERROR" SATISFIED HE WAS IN WRONG BUSINESS.

Of Course He Had Killed Eleven Men and Never Been Licked, but at That He Had Mistaken His Vocation.

When we opened the old "Four X" in Nevada, it was no time at all before a lively town was founded and hundreds of people came pouring in. In those days every community had its terror. He was supposed to be able to outdrink, outyell, outshoot and outfight everything on legs in his jurisdiction. Sometimes he was a freelance and again he was employed as a sort of policeman. We wanted a man to protect company property and one day a giant of a chap weighing 205 pounds and six feet tall applied for

"Are you a fighter?" was the first question asked of him. "I am," replied he. "I've had 29 fights in seven weeks." "Afraid of anything mortal?" "Nothing mortal or immortal."

"Shoot both handed?" "I do." "Use the bowie knife?" "Perfectly at home with it, sir." "How many men have you killed this last year?" "Well, this has been an off year with me, as I was sick in bed for six weeks and so I haven't got but 'leven."

"Suppose, now, that a terror from some other camp should come over here to clean you out? Have you ever met any other terror and downed him -a genuine terror, from the headwaters of Fighting creek?"

"I can't say that I ever have, sirnot a regular terror, sir." "Then you can't tell how you would

"Why, I should probably fight him." "But you can't say for sure. However, come back at four o'clock this afternoon.'

We sent over to Cedar Flats, five miles away, for their terror. We knew him to be the genuine stuff, and when he arrived we posted him as to what was wanted. At four o'clock when our alleged terror returned to the shaft, the Cedar Flats terror suddenly waltzed out on him with a hair-raising whoop and called out:

"Whar's the bloody, bloomin' hyena who has been passing hisself off around here as a fighter? Whoop! Maugh, Ugh! Somebody p'int him out to me and then tie my hands and legs while I bite his ears off!"

Our alleged terror turned pale and looked nervous and the Cedar Flats man pranced around cracking his heels together and shouting:

"Whoop! Put him out! Let him stand before me! Tie me all up in knots, head me up in that bar'l, and then I'll lick him or go over the cliff! Great snakes, but won't somebody show me the fellow who says-"

I pointed to our terror and the Cedar Flats man let out a scream and rushed for him. The chap who had only killed 'leven men just fell right down in a heap, and it was five minutes before we could bring him to. He was whiter than ffour, and limpsy as a rag, and it was all of half an hour before he could walk away. "How do you account for it?" I asked him as he was ready to go. "I must have gone in the wrong business," he gloomily replied. "How do you mean?" "I ought to have been a preacher." -Chicago Daily News.

Drowning Season Here.

Don't rock the boat! It is not merely a foolish sort of joke to do it; it is very frequently a murderous or suicidal joke. If you cannot swim do not wade out where the water is up to your chin. If you do, you may suddenly step into a hole that lifts the water above your mouth and nose, and when that happens the chances are large that it will be your funeral the next day or as soon as your remains can be found. Don't dive from a high place without being sure the water is not so shallow as to result in your head striking bottom. Don't crowd five people into a boat made for three, or three people into a boat made for two. Don't play foolish pranks such as pushing a boy who cannot swim into deep water. Don't go out on the bay in a small motor boat. A storm may come up and your small ship be capsized.

The drowning season is here. There has never been a summer within the memory of the oldest citizen of the city that has not been marked by drowning tragedies.

Considerate Wife.

Senator John W. Weeks of Massa chusetts smiled when one of a party in a Boston club alluded to henpecked husbands, and said that he was reminded of a man named Bates. One afternoon Bates was having a little gabfest with an old acquaintance, when the latter spoke of married life and the beauty of having a "That's where I have a whole lot to be thankful for," said Bates. "I have a wife who looks after me constantly.

when she even takes off my shoes "I see," thoughtfully mused the acquaintance. "I suppose that is when you come home tired at night."

As a matter of fact, there are time

"No, no," smilingly corrected Bates. "It is when she thinks that I am about to slide out early in the evening." Philadelphia Telegraph.

Michigan State Fair Detroit, Sept. 6-15,1915

Bigger and Better Than Ever"

Battle in Clouds

The Patterson Aviators will give a thrilling demonstration in armored aeroplanes of this new and terrifying warfare. This battle will be produced nowhere else in Michigan this year.

Automobile Races

Noted drivers of space eating vehicles will attempt to shatter dirt track records. Night automobile racing, an innovation which is attracting thousands to the racing courses in the east, will be inaugurated at the 1915 State Fair. Auto races for women drivers will be featured.

Harness Horse Races

Michigan's best trotters and pacers are entered in the 20 events on the race program. Purses totaling over $14,000 are offered by the State Fair.

Auto vs. Aeroplane

The most daring of the aviators at the State Fair will compete with the driver of the fastest auto. A woman driver also will race with the aviator.

Better Babies' Contest

In addition to the speed contests there will be numerous other noteworthy attractions including a large tractor demonstration, four-day test for dairy cows, builders' exposition, Boy Scouts' congress, fireworks, night horse show, a bigger and better midway, and superb displays of the products of Michigan's farms and factories.

Building Auto in Ten Minutes

Autos will be made on the Fair Grounds. This exhibit will show actual factory scenes, demonstrating how Michigan's industrial plants keep up with the great demand for automobiles.

Machinery Displays

Most modern types of farm machinery, including gasoline engines, cream separators, silo fillers, and other time saving inventions of mechanical experts will attract the attention of Michigan rural residents especially. The display in the machinery building will set a new record for size and the interest it will create.

Automobile Show

The State Fair automobile show will be larger than a year ago when the automobile building was almost filled with the latest models of cars of all sizes, power and prices. The 1916 models of all the leading automobile companies will be exhibited.

DRILLS AT THE MICHIGAN STATE FAIR, SEPT. 6-15

ETROIT mounted police, one of the best drilled organizations of its kind in the United States, will give exhibitions of rough riding as well as cavalry drills during the State Fair, which will be held at Detroit Sept. 6 to 15. The Detroit police have been one of the most popular attractions at the Fair for several years, and in addition to the exhibition drills every afternoon the mounted officers will participate in the afternoon and evening horse show.

WILD FOWL AND FISH ARE TO BE SHOWN AT FAIR

Various Kinds of Game Birds Will Be Exhibited.

COMMISSION TAKES ACTION.

State Board Decides to Allow Fish to Be Displayed In Aquariums at Big Exposition, Which Will Be Held at Detroit, Sept. 6 to 15.

Two exhibits which will be of special interest to sportsmen will be features at the Michigan State Fair, which will be held at Detroit Sept. 6 to 15.

G. W. Dickinson, general manager of the big exposition, announces that the Michigan Fish Commission will have a big display at/the Fair, while an exhibit of live wildfowl has been obtained from New Jersey.

To Display Fish In Aquariums. The fish will be displayed in large aquariums through which water will be flowing at all imes. There will be nearly fifty varieties or species of fish, including the beautiful speckled trout, several kinds of bass, pike, sunfish, perch and other fish found in Michigan

A feature of the exhibit will be a display showing 'he various stages in the life of a trout from the egg to the full grown fish. The Fish Commission has many beautiful specimens of rainbow trout.

The fish exhibit will be shown under the grand stand, and carpenters and plumbers are now arranging the aquariums in which the fish will be placed. Members of the Michigan Fish Commission who decided to make an exhibit at the State Fair are W. J. Hunsaker, Saginaw, chairman; Fred Postal, Detroit, and John C. Mann, Hough-Cement Pond For Water Fowl.

Swans, storks, mudhens, ducks, geese, pheasants and various other varieties of wildfowl and game birds found in North America as well as Europe and Asia will be displayed in an inclosure near the Dairy building. A similar exhibit attracted considerable attention a year ago at the Fair, but will be much larger/this year. A cement pond 10 by 20 feet is being constructed for the water fowl which will be brought to Detroit by William Cook & Sons of Scotch Plains, N. J.

STATE FAIR AUTO SHOW TO BE GREAT SUCCESS.

Practically All Companies to Be Represented at Exposition.

G. W. Dickinson, general manager of the Michigan State Fair, asserts that practically every company in the United States which builds motorcars will be represented at the auto show to be held in connection with the big exposition at Detroit Sept. 6 to 15. "The latest models will be on exhibition, and prospective purchasers will have an opportunity to get a line on all the new creations of the manufacturers several months before the auto shows in New York and Chicago," said Mr. Dickinson.

"Building of autos on the grounds will be another feature which will attract attention: The Ford Motor Company Band will render concerts in the automobile building. V believe that the auto show will be one of the big attractions of the Fair."

Features For Midway. The State Fair Midway will be bigger and better than ever this year, according to General Manager Dickinson, who has already completed ar-

MANY ENTRIES IN THE DAIRY DEPARTMENT OF MICHIGAN STATE FAIR

Assistant Superintendent Asserts Farmers Are Greatly Interested In the 1915 Exposition.

George H. Brownell, editor of Brownell's Dairy Farmer and assistant superintendent of the dairy department of the Michigan State Fair, declares that entries in his department surpass all previous records.

"Dairymen from throughout the state, as well as manufacturers of dairy machinery, are displaying unusual interest in the 1915 State Fair," as erted Mr. Brownell while discussing the plans which are being made to make the State Fair the greatest exposition of its kind ever held in the middle west. "There will be features this year which will attract the attention of all farmers, and dairymen especially. Every man who has a few dairy cows should attend the Fair, which will be held at Detroit Sept. 6 to 15. if he wants to become acquainted with the latest improved methods for conducting the dairy business."

SIX NATIONAL CATTLE CLUBS OFFER PRIZES.

Special Awards Will Be Made at Michigan State Fair.

The importance of the Michigan State Fair cattle exhibit is revealed by the fact that six national cattle breeders' associations have offered special premiums and awards for prize win ning cattle at the big exposition which will be held at Detroit Sept. 6 to 15. The American Shorthorn Breeders' association offers nearly $400 in specials in twenty-six different classes. These prizes are included with the premiums which will be awarded by the State Fair, making a total of more than $1,000 that will be distributed among the prize winners in the Shorthorn class. In addition special prizes, including silver cups, are awarded by the American Shorthorn Breeders' association to the owners of the best bull and heifer calves less than a year' old and owned by exhibitors who have the State Fair.

In Speech of Acceptance Present Governor Declares That Ideals of This Great Man Are Highest Inspiration.

Mackinac Island-Paying tribute to the memory of General Lewis Cass, Michigan's first governor, the Michigan state historical commission and Mackinac Island park commission in the presence of Governor Ferris and his staff Saturday unveiled the tablet that is to mark "Cass Cliff," the bluff behind historic Fort Mackinac.

The presentation speech was delivered by Rt. Rev. Monsignor O'Brien, of Kalamazoo, and the tablet was accepted on behalf of the state by Governor Ferris. A stirring eulogy of Lewis Cass was delivered by Edwin Henderson, of Detroit, in a plea for "hyphenless Américanism" in the present world crisis.

Two Are Rescued and Tell Story of How Pleasure Ride in Speed Craft Was Turned Into Tragedy.

Grand Rapids-Three members of the Grand Rapids Press editorial staff. Perris Jameson, city editor; Arthur G. Hunter, assistant city editor; Paul Weston, court house reporter, and J. Harvey Smith, of the Grand Rapids Street Railway company, were drowned late Tuesday at Reed's lake amusement resort suburb of this city when they plunged into the water as the power boat Edna II. careened in making a turn.

Henry H. Tinkham, political writer for the Press, and Louis Delamarter, secretary of the Grand Rapids Street Railway company, members of the party, were saved. The newspapermen had accepted an invitation from DeLamarter to take a ride in the new power boat, which had a speed of 30 miles an hour. According to Tinkham the party left the main landing at the lake with De Lamarter handling the engine and Smith at the wheel. "De Lamarter was crowding the throttle as far as he could and the craft was making terrific speed when Smith attempted to make a sharp turn," Tinkham said. "In doing so the occupants; thinking it was about to capsize, all stood up and plunged into the water. The boat continued on its way. As the six reappeared all were laughing and several joked lightly about the antics the boat was at least two hundred yards from shore and that the water was fully 50 feet deep under them. That remark proved fatal because Smith, a moment later sank from sight.

Children Who Insist on Being Real Americans

WASHINGTON.—While the new "Americanization day" idea, for instilling the spirit and ideals of the United States into naturalized citizens, will undoubtedly appeal to many in Washington, a large number of the foreign-born of the city are already devoting much time and thought to becoming SABES TU' real Americans. Particularly is this true of the younger generation, which (ESPANOL? has no doubt suffered from appellations affixed to them by children born in this country because of their foreign descent.

The foreign-born children are "all Americans," despite their foreign origin. It is doubtful if the much-discussed hyphen will ever be attached to them. An incident which recently happened when a teacher of a kindergarten had her pupils out for a walk may give an understanding of this spirit. A woman approached the party and, pointing to a bright-appearing boy near the teacher, asked his nation-

"No, I am not," quickly retorted the five-year-old; "I am American." "I did not mean you were Russian," explained the teacher. "I meant that your mother and father are Russians."

"No, they are not, either. They are Americans, too," came back the answer, quickly.

Another incident may serve to show the diligence with which the foreign born are seeking to become "true Americans." A reporter in search of children who, he had heard, could speak three, four or five languages went to one of the schools. The teacher in charge called to one of the pupils known to speak a number of languages: 'Annie, can't you say something in your native language?" she asked the child. Annie immediately became bashful and refused to say anything. "What language do you speak?" the child was asked.

"I speak English," she answered. Yes, here at school. But what do you speak at home? What do mother

United States' Crusade Against Weight Frauds is usually carried on in the late winter

A MERICAN consumers of print butter are paying more than $8,000,000 A each year for butter they do not get. This is because the weights of the commodity they actually receive are materially less than those they are supposed to be buying. Consumers of bulk butter that is weighed out over the counter are paying other real millions for imaginary fat that can-never be cut with a knife or spread on a slice of bread. And buyers of potatoes, sugar, flour, meat, milk and all other foodstuffs that go to make up the American dietary are contributing additional millions, in the aggregate, for things that they never receive. In the virile language of the street, the American consumer is being filmflammed and short-weighted; and in a large percentage of cases he or usually she—is wholly ignorant of the fact.

It is because of the conditions of affairs of which these things are only samples that the division of weights and measures of the bureau of standards has directed many of its activities in recent years toward securing the enact ment of better weights and measure laws by the federal government and the several states, and toward bringing about stricter enforcement of existing laws. Recognizing that the education of the consumer is a necessary prereq uisite to better conditions the department has prepared a bulletin on house hold measurements that will be a popular treatise on the subject and which will put information in the hands of the housekeeper that can be made of the greatest usefulness and money value.

OF late years—since 1906—the United States army has been no longer a mass of men who simply got food. They are now scientifically fed by men who have studied the subject, and in a practical way by presiding over meat, the chemistry of food values, the testing of foodstuffs, the nutritiv elements in vegetables and the chemistry of bread-baking. In the big, sweet-smelling bakery at the Washington barracks there ar to be seen every morning about a dozen husky fellows-for they take their lessons by small details—all engaged in mashing the dough in workin, machines, poking it into the huge oven or fishing it out at the end of a lon wooden pole. As they bake the bread for the entire post, they use each da; about two barrels of flour. The bread is delicious and fashioned of th

Experiments at the Government's Chicken Farm

HERE'S a sixty-acre poultry farm thirty minutes' ride from Washington and beyond all doubt the work which is being done there would throw light upon at least one of the many problems which arise constantly to stump" the chicken fancier, be he amateur or professional. Whenever a local breeder of feathered stock is puzzled by a question of leeding, breeding or housing; whenever he is uncertain as to what strain of chickens had better be specialized upon to meet his particular need; whenever he would like to know how an expert would go about handling owls with nothing more than the quipment expected of an ordinary, privately owned farm, it will pay him to look over this particular establishment. He will be more than welcome, for, you see, the farm in question belongs to Uncle Sam and is part of the Beltsville, Md., bureau of animal industry station. In fact, the men who are running the big poultry establishment desire bove all things to have chicken fanciers and breeders visit them and see the work they are doing. Collateral with the feeding, housing and breeding problems of ordinary poultry production, the Beltsville farm at present is the scene of a good hany investigations which, when completed, are unquestionably destined to a of intense interest to the poultry dealer. One of them deals with an items. disclose the ingredients of a ration based on staples easily obtained in any part of the country, which will produce the highest number of eggs possible.

Keep Fungous Diseases Out. "All cuts should be made close to the limb from which the branch is to be cut, and the surface should be as smooth as possible. This enables the callus to form and grow most easily. A cut should never be made so that water can lodge on or around it, for such a condition will increase the danger of infection by fungous diseases. "If a large limb must be removed the pruner must be careful to prevent the limb from splitting at the base. He may do this by cutting off the limb then removing the stub. VIEW IN POZZUOLI vented his appreciating natural scenery. However that may have been, it seems impossible that he should not have been impressed by the splendid views that anyone sailing up the coast of Sicily through the Straits of Messina and along the south Italian shore enjoys, says Rev. Dr. Francis E. Clark in his series, "In the Footsteps of St. Paul," in the Christian Herald. He would have seen at first smiling, vine-covered hills; and before he had gone far, glorious Etna, snowcapped for much of the year.

An ever-changing panorama delights the eye until we come to Reggio, the ancient Rhegium. Alas, a pitiful sight there greets the traveler today. Messina on one side of the narrow strait and Reggio on the other were both wrecked almost beyond recognition by the disastrous earthquake of 1908. On the Messina shore one sees great rows of little wooden houses scarcely larger than henhouses. These are the portable bungalows which were transported from America, ready-made, to relieve the sufferings of the houseless and homeless people. They are still occupied, for little has been done to build up the ruined cities.

The authorized version of the thirteenth verse of the twenty-eighth chapter of Acts says in describing St. Paul's journey after leaving Syracuse. "and from thence we fetched a compass and came to Rhegium." An amusing story is told of an infidel who deelared, misquoting Luke's words, that now he had proved the Bible to be a lie, since "in the book of Acts it was said that they fetched a compass aboard Paul's ship, and everybody knew that this was long before the compass was invented." The revised Version has taken the wind out of the inaccurate infidel's sails, to speak nautically, by translating the passage in more modern phrase: "And from thence we made a circuit, and arrived at Rhegium." Here St. Paul's ship evidently waited for one day, perhaps to discharge some cargo, or possibly waiting for a fair wind, which soon blew, for we are told that "after one day a south wind sprang up, and on the second day we came to Puteoli," 182 miles to the north of Rhegium.

Between Scylla and Charybdis.

Shortly after leaving Reggio we pass between Scylla and Charybdis, the fabled monsters of antiquity, the rock and the whirlpool, which have been robbed of all their terrors since steam navigation came to bless the world, and to make the traveler's burdens and dangers light. Soon after, the active volcanic mountain of Stromboli, on one of the Lipari islands, is seen, and all the way along the glorious South Italian shore reveals itself: splendid mountains rear their heads in the near distance, their sides clothed with vineyards and olive and orange orchards far up their slopes.

As we approach the Bay of Naples the scenery becomes constantly more entrancing. We see the promontory of Sorrento across the Bay of Salerno, and soon Capri with its blue grot-Green Corn-$1.75 per bbl, $1.25 per to comes in sight on the left, and tow-

There were famous springs here, which attracted the sick from many quarters, and it is said that the an cient name came from the sulphurous stench which they emitted. Puteoli is no longer a fashionable watering place, but from other causes the same name might be applied to the modern Pozzuoli.

Yet here we can look upon many of the things which St. Paul saw; the sea itself, fresh and clean as ever: the encircling hills, no less beautiful in their spring greenery than on that spring day when Paul sailed withm their encircling arms. We can even see the 17 piers of the great mole which stretched far out into the bay, within whose shelter vessels anchored, one the Alexandrian grain ship on which Paul had arrived. Today we can see the ruins of the temple of Serapis, or the splendid marketplace as it is now thought to be, which very likely was in its pristine glory when Paul landed.

Tens of thousands of travelers from many lands sail into the famous harbor of Naples every year, but comparatively few of them realize how near they are to the footsteps of St. Paul, and how, after a short trolley ride from the city, they can plant their feet where he trod.

Let us take the electric car from Largo Vittoria, where the beautiful park, Naples' famous promenade and Rotten Row, begins; a park that stretches for nearly a mile along the water front. Soon, however, we get beyond the fashionable quarters and the innumerable hotels. The car makes its slow way through a slummy region where the air is rent with the raucous cries for which noisy Naples is famous, and the nose is assailed by more than the seventy odors of Co-

Tunnel Under Posilipo. Shortly a tunnel is reached under the green hills of Posilipo, a tunnel almost as ancient as Naples itself. for it was dug by the Romans to avoid the steep climb over the precipitous tufa rocks of Posilipo. Seneca, we are told, grumbled at the dust and darkness and the odor of this tunnel, and they have not been improved since his day. The noise is deafening from the clatter of horses' hoofs, the patter of herds of goats, the grinding top ture of the electric car wheels, and above all the brazen throats of the Neapolitans who urge on their donkeys with an indescribable noise, guttural and grating, which seems to come from the innermost parts of their anatomy. Imagine all this noise, duplicated and reduplicated by the resounding arches of the tunnel, and one can have some idea of the grotto that leads him to Pozzuoli, the ancient Puteoli of St. Paul.

Another slum awaits us at the other side of the grotto, followed by vineyards and orange groves and truck farms, until, after a ride of four or five miles, the last part of which affords glorious views of the bay and ering Vesuvius with its constant its islands, which never lose their charm, we at last find ourselves in another slum, more hopeless than any we have yet seen on the way, and find that we have at last reached the old Puteoli, and that the electric car leaves us but a few steps from the spot where the great apostle must have come ashore.

The immediate surroundings of the great pier where St. Paul landed are as filthy as any other part of Pozzuoli. Indescribable old hags leer at us from the doorways; ragged and dirty children, wholly unacquainted with the use of a pocket handkerchief, swarm around us. Several small fishing boats are drawn up on the shore, and cient mole.
