PaiMcri opens the dyke gates and floods the island and in the general rush to escape the flood kid-naps Golden's six-year-old daughter Mar-gory. Twelye year's later in New York a Masked One calling himself "the Hammer of God" rescues an eighteen-year-old girl from the cadet Casavanti, to whom Jules Legar has delivered her, and takes her to the home of Enoch Golden, millionaire, whence she is recaptured by Legar. Legar and Stein are discovered by Manley, Gol-den's secretary, setting fire to Golden's buildings, but escaps. Margory's mother fruitlessly izgiores Enoch Golden to find their daughter. The Masked One again takes Margory away from Legar. Legar loots the Third National bank, but again the Laughing Mask frustrates his pians.

SIXTH EPISODE

THE SPOTTED WARNING

Enoch Golden had never formed the habit of taking others into his confidence. And when events came into mean?" his life which seemed to leave him more and more dependent on his immediate associates he betrayed an occasional tendency to focus his nebnlous resentment against that situation on the exasperatingly imperturbable figure of David Manley.

"Young man," he said, fixing his secretary with a steely eye, "I came to this decision twenty long years ago, and nothing is going to change it. That woman was sent from my home, and she will never enter it again."

Manley, looking down at the note still held in his hand, thought of the troubled and tear-stained face of the girl who had so recently clung to his arm and asked him to plead her cause. And the memory of Margery Golden brought fresh courage to him.

"But this woman who was once your own wife is only asking for a glimpse of her own daughter again. Surely that is asking little enough!" "And I repeat that I won't allow it. I have saved my daughter from the langers that woman's wrong surrounded her with. I have saved her from-"

"But one point at issue is at least the safety of your daughter," contended Manley, remembering only too well the events of the immediate past. "And that, young man, is a responsibility which still rests on my own shoulders," was Golden's curt retort as the new footman stepped into the room in answer to his summons. "Tell Miss Margery to come here at once." As Margery quietly stepped into the

"It is a warning of death," was the girl's quietly enunciated reply. Manley could detect the tremor that sped through her body. "And it means that you have been hearing from Legar again!"

"But what does Legar mean by it?" asked Manley. "Why should he use such a phrase?

The point about this car that worried Train was that it was not approaching them as a well-behaved car should approach comrade vehicle, but vermiculated drunkenly from one side of the road to the other. Even Margery, as she leaned forward, puzzling over these strange movements, realized that peril was involved in passing a vihicle so uncertain of its course. At the same time, too, she could hear from far behind her the prolonged and warning cry of an auto horn, wailing disturb-his engines, looked up. "I got one hundred and four an hour out of her this morning," he off-handedly announced. "But I think I can push her up to one hundred and ten." Manley's heart beat faster.

"Then there's a chance!" he cried. "A fighting chance." A sudden sense of chill caused Manley to clutch for the fur coat thrown in at his feet, and struggle into it. As he did so the earth seemed suddenly to fall away from him. Villages became spangled checker-boards of lights. Highways became winding strings of pearls.

Manley forgot the chilliness striking into his bones. He forgot Margery Golden and Legar. He forgot the origin of his mission that brought him winging through the midnight heavens. He forgot the fact of his own puny existence and the trivial ends to which it had been given over. All these he forgot, completely and utterly, until Evart, sweeping out along the twinkling shore lights of South Brooklyn, circled north again where the brazen figure of Liberty guarded the upper bay, and dropped lower along that tapering point of gloom where Battery park nosed like a ship's They were still planing down, gently, the canyon of lower Broadway.

French Remains the Menu Language of Washington

RENCH will remain the language of Washington menu cards. No matter Fhow strong the offensive of the New York hotel chefs becomes to have the French of the bills of fare supplanted by English, the lines of French on menu cards bid fair to hold firm in the capital. This is the opinion of August F. Moeller, maitre d'hotel of the New willard.

"We have decided to be strictly seutral," said Moeller, with a twinkle in his eye and a decidedly Teutonic accent when questioned as to the proposed obviation of the French from the bill of fare.

Why, it would be just the same as asking the average English-speaking connoisseur to change his language," continued the maitre d'hotel. "There are many persons, those persons who are accustomed to eating at hotels and cafes, who would not know how to order their meals if the French on the menu card was supplanted by English."

"Will there be a change from the old order which might interfere with the gastronomic environs of Washington's gourmets?"

"Jamais, jamais," which in the words of the language attacked means. "Never, never."

Inventor Proposes National Emblem of 13 Balls

Gibson, who claims to be the inventor of the paper headrest for barber chairs, pointed to a chart on the wall of his room. The chart was a picture of 12 balls grouped around a single one in the center, and/on the bottom was printed these words, "What means these stones." "That picture," he said, "shows you what you will find in the cells of the human body, and in all the planets and the stars.

"Take 12 perfect spheres of equal size and group them around a thirteenth so they will all touch, and you have a perfect symmetrical group. That is a discovery of my own, and I believe it can be worked out to be worth some money."

The inventor's idea is that if he can get several people to study his discovery, one of them is likely to get the idea that will be worth the $100,000. "The principle of the 13" idea is basic," Gibson said. "Christ and the 12 apostles, 12 jurymen and a judge and the 13 original states are a few/examples.

"I have written President Wilson, Bryan, Roosevelt and others, trying to get them to adopt that cluster as a national emblem. It stands for the original states and at the same time is a perfect symmetrical group."

Big Ben was just reaching the edge of the wood. The trees were becoming sparser. The hills dipped into a level valley. The bushes are drawn over by a short wire hook, and with a light, somewhat curved bat, the well-ripened fruits are knocked from the plants up against the muslin and roll gently to the lower end of the tray, where the wider portions of the frame form a receptacle. With a device of this kind one man is capable of picking from five to eight bushels of fruit daily, while the most expert pickers can pick only about 100 quarts, or three bushels. It will thus be seen that this devise is of considerable advantage in that it shortens the period of harvest. The drawback is that a small percentage of the berries is lost by bouncing out of the tray as they, are forced against the muslin by the stroke of the paddle. And the office of the chief of ordnance is getting to look like the showroom of the royal armorer in the days of Richard Coeur de Lion.

Since the European armies began to adopt steel helmets and breastplates as protection against the hailstorms of shrapnel and the spatter of machine-gun bullets, a crop of inventors has sprung up throughout the United States intent on improving the devices which warriors of bygone days resorted to when cross-bows and battle axes were used on the field of war.

The other day, for example, the bureau had before it a working model of made his getaway Travis would proba coat of armor invented by an American. Its pattern was adopted from a ably lose his job, and the pattern was adopted from a bly lose his job, and the pattern black woman came to the door and hailed a pickaninny playing in the type favored by the ancient Samurai of Japan. The breastplate was formed of a V-shaped shell of quarter-inch steel with a pagded lining.

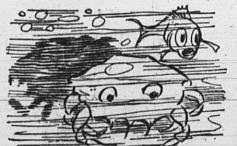

A mask of similar design with opening for the eyes was intended to be sorry for his wife and the little girl, used to protect the face and head. Shoulder plates and epaulets of the Maiste, who had brought him flowers same material completed the equipment.

All known designs of helmets are likewise being studied in order to pro- a way which went straight to the heart vide bullet-defying headgear for the men. Still, present in Europe-the solid-piece types used by the British and Germans if the way lay open, a man must try and the sectional type used by the French-designs similar to those used by the Crusaders with neck-pieces and vizors are also being studied.

The bureau is also at work on various types of hand grenades, although as far back as 1908 the army experts had devised a grenade which, it is thought, is as good as, if not better, than the kind in use in Europe.

Crab Supply of the Capital City Is Diminishing

W ASHINGTON is famed as a "great place for crabs." Well may this be true, for the city lies within short distance of the principal crab fisheries of the Atlantic coast-those in Chesapeake bay. But the city's reputation in this one line is in jeopardy.

Season by season for the past ten years the crab supply has been slowly decline. It is difficult to secure as many hard-shelled crabs as the trade across the stream, was Maisie. demands, to say nothing of the softshelled ones, which are unusually

Is it possible that the snowy crabscarce, flake is destined to become only a luxurious delicacy? The bureau of fisheries has been moved to act to prevent such a tragedy. One of its crab experts is now down in the Chesapeake bay region making a thorough study of the causes of the decline of the crab output. He is going from crab fishery to crab fishery studying crab life at first hand from every angle.

Generally speaking, it is thought that the chief cause of the decreased supply is due to the very extensive fishing which has been carried on within the last few years around these shores.- No attempt has ever been made to prepare for the future's output by such means of artificial propagation as scientific fishermen now use in regard to that other valuable crustaceun, the lobster.

Winter as well as summer has seen an uninterrupted pursuit of the hardshelled crab; such persistent "crabbing" could not be without the effect which it is now beginning to show.

Chesapeake bay during the summer months is crowded with fishermen, nets and crabs; it provides an unexcelled field for the study of the industry. Owing to the differences in the depths of the bay at different places, one can also observe the different methods followed by crab fishers.

Familiar, indeed, to Washingtonians is the sportsman who spends a day at the beach, and, with his string or handline baited with meat, entices the crabs into his waiting dip net. But his returns are nearly always negligible two dozen crabs being considered a good day's catch. Not so is the luck of the professional fisherman, who fishes for crabs and not for pleasure. His method is calculated to bring a greater return for a less expenditure of FRY.
