Piano solo—Miss Nina Bell Wurster.
Vocal duet—Misses Gertrude Mapes and Marie Whitmer.

Lecture, "The Relation of the Home to the School"—Miss Estelle Downing, of the Ypsilanti Normal. In part Miss Downing said:

We should be brought face to face with our possible selves. In the humdrum duties of life our latent possibilities are many times dormant. Could we get a vision of ourselves, glorified, showing the best that is within us, we could accomplish much more. Saul is an example of one who saw his possible self.

In this age we cannot work out our salvation alone. We belong in groups. No one can obtain true success alone. We will have to take hold of hands and work together. There are no Robinson Crusoes in the present time. The sooner we realize this in school problems, the better.

Men are not hiring employees they do not know; people they have never seen, be it a stenographer or a clerk. Yet, we are hiring teachers to take charge of our boys and girls and not once during the year do parents meet this teacher. The parents do not visit the school, nor is the teacher invited into the home. We need to get together and talk over such problems as: "What we are trying to do." Any education which sets the individual off, which creates caste, is absolutely false. The final aim is socializing the child.

We should get together on health problems. No child can accomplish good work who has defective eyesight, poor hearing, adenoids or enlarged tonsils. We need to get together on social problems. Every boy and girl needs play, contact, parties. But these must be under proper supervision.

Another great problem is that of work. Work outside of school should be a complement of the knowledge gained at school. Let the boys make things for the home, a shelf or whatever they can do that mother or father could use. Girls should be allowed to choose their own gowns, even though they make errors. Give the child an opportunity to carry out what he has learned in school and he will then think his education is worth while.

Educational system is full of character problems and requires parental supervision. Mothers should see that their girls are sensibly dressed for school. The reading in the home should be right. Provide good books. Give the child an intellectual stimulus. Spur him to the highest point he is capable of. Make him feel that his best is the only stopping point. Faith of parents in the child to do big things will help more mightily than any one thing. Other things for parents and teachers to insist upon is absolute truth, system, persistence and obedience.

Every boy and girl should be taught that citizenship is something to know and to do. They are factors in the community and every problem in the community is their problem. And as they are factors in working out the betterment of their own town, they will later become factors in the problems of the state and the nation.

ALLEGED TRYSTING PLACE OF WITCHES

Devil's Lane Was Fearsome Locality in Pioneer Days.

How many of the older residents of Chelsea recall Devil's lane, in the eastern outskirts of the village and how many of the younger generation even know there had ever been such a fearsome place?

The story is again brought to light as the sequel of the series of Darius Pierce articles appearing in the Tribune and may be of interest to some.

Years ago, when Joshua Downer, grandfather of Charles Downer, and "Uncle Dari" Pierce, whose farms adjoined, could not agree regarding the building of a "line" fence, and so each built his own fence of about 160 rods in the good, old-fashioned "stake and rider" rail style. The two fences were about a rod apart, making what was for more than 20 years known as "Devil's Lane."

It was declared and believed by many, that witches were prone to cavort up and down its length of a night and furthermore that his Satanic majesty, pitchfork and all, used to prance gaily up and down the space intervening between the two fences on dark nights. It was said that when he stubbed his toe on stones, he would leave one to the east and say "Take that Pierce," and another to the west, saying, "That's yours Downer."

It is asserted as a fact that children became superstitious about the lane, which grew up to brush, second growth oak, etc., and were actually afraid to pass by it after dark.

The story, as briefly outlined above, was first related to us by W. B. Gildart, editor of the Albion Leader, and we have since verified the main facts by questioning old time residents in Chelsea.

Almarion B. Skinner.

Almarion B. Skinner died Tuesday afternoon, January 23, 1917, at his home just north of Chelsea in Sylvan township at the age of 71 years, three months and 22 days.

The deceased was born in Ingham county, October 1, 1845, his parents being Samuel and Hilda (Howell) Skinner. His father was a jeweler and the son followed in his footsteps, being engaged in the same business at St. Louis, Michigan, until 1885 when failing health compelled him to seek out door occupation and he engaged in farming, being located in this vicinity for the past 27 years.

Mr. Skinner leaves to mourn their loss, his widow and one son, Almarion B., of Chelsea, and four daughters, Mrs. Wilson Meachem of Milan, Ohio, Mrs. Glenn Barnes of Dayton, Ohio, Mrs. William Rowen of Jackson and Mrs. Carrie Price of Ludington; also one sister, Mrs. A. J. Sawyer of Ann Arbor.

The following resolution was offered by Supervisor Gaudy.

Whereas, the Board of County Canvassers of the County of Washtenaw and State of Michigan, as shown by the report of the said Board, did upon the twelfth day of April, A. D. 1916, proceed to canvass the vote of the electors of the said County of Washtenaw upon the proposition:

"Shall the Board of Supervisors be authorized and empowered to issue bonds not exceeding the sum of $40,000.00 for the erection of a new poor house (now called Infirmary) for Washtenaw County," which said proposition was duly and legally submitted to the electors of said county, and

Whereas, it appears from such canvass that 7945 votes were cast upon said proposition of which number 4056 were cast in favor of said proposition, and 3889 were cast against said proposition, and

Whereas, it was thereupon determined by the said Board of County Canvassers that the said proposition had carried by a vote of the majority of the electors voting at said election;

Be it therefore, Resolved, by this Board that the County Clerk of the County of Washtenaw, and the County Treasurer of said County, be authorized and empowered, jointly, to issue bonds upon the County of Washtenaw, in the amount of $40,000.00 pursuant to the said proposition submitted to the said electors, and further that they jointly be authorized and empowered to advertise in a suitable manner the sale of such bonds and to sell the same, the money or monies secured from such sale to be deposited to the credit of the heretofore created "New Washtenaw County Infirmary Fund."

Said bonds pay interest at the rate of not to exceed 4% per cent per annum and be issued in denominations of $500.00 each, payable as follows: $10,000.00 Jan. 1, 1918. $10,000.00 Jan. 1, 1919. $10,000.00 Jan. 1, 1920. $10,000.00 Jan. 1, 1921.

Moved by Supervisor Gaudy and supported that the Resolution be accepted and adopted.

SHE STOLE FOR THE FUN OF IT

Chicago Woman Is Half Housewife, Half Burglar for Many Years.

LITTLE USE FOR LOOT

Became Burglar for Pleasure Dangerous Occupation Afforded Her—So Crafty Her Husband Never Suspected Her.

Chicago.—Mrs. Nellie Hantz, wife of a workman, and long regarded by her friends and neighbors as a simple housekeeper, devoted to her home and her round of domestic duties, is under arrest, charged with being one of the most expert housebreakers and robbers in the city, and so crafty in her operations and the disposition of her loot that not even her husband suspected her.

Following her arrest it was shown that for nine years she had been making the beds, washing the dishes, sweeping the rugs and tidying her home, sending her husband off to work in the morning with a full dinner pail and a kiss, only to turn to burglary at every convenient time of the day.

The woman might have gone on many years longer undetected had it not been for the alert eyes of women who told the police that in nearly every instance of a daylight robbery in their neighborhood a woman whose appearance tallied with that of Mrs. Hantz had been seen either near or on the premises. A few mornings ago five detectives entered the modest home of the suspect. She greeted them with a smile and guessed their mission. Whipping a revolver from her skirts she raised it and would have fired had not an officer seized her from behind and overpowered her.

Then they searched the home. Beneath mattresses, in closets and draw-

CHANDLER SIX The Leader Among Sixes and Why— Four seasons ago the Chandler Six was placed upon the market at $1785—the first high grade six to be sold for less than $2000. A year later the Chandler Company astonished the trade by reducing the price of the Chandler Six to $1595 when it had a ready market for all the cars it could make at $1785. It was impossible to build any more Chandelers as the public wanted. BUT THE INCREASED demand built by the increased value permitted a still further price reduction. And the Chandler Motor Car Company again surprised the automobile world by increasing quality, equipping the greatest Six chassis the world has ever known with one of the finest seven passenger bodies ever placed on a car and reducing the price to $1295. AND TODAY, in spite of higher material costs, higher labor costs and manufacturing costs, the price has only been increased to $1595. NOW MARK YOU, NOT A SINGLE ITEM HAS BEEN CHEAPENED. THE MOTOR IS EXACTLY THE SAME Chandler Six motor which has won its reputation as the "Marvelous Motor." No effort has been made to trim price by trimming quality. THE CAST ALUMINUM CRANK CASE, with rigid base extending from frame to frame insuring the utmost rigidity in construction that has been a feature of the Chandler from the first, is a feature of the present model. THE BOSCH MAGNETO—same as used in the famous racing cars—which has been used by Chandler since the first Chandler was built, is still a Chandler feature. It never fails. You can always depend on it. No matter how your battery may be you can always get reliable ignition with the Bosch Magneto. The only reason others don't use it is that it costs more! THE FAMOUS GRAY & DAVIS lighting and starting system with 100 hour Willard Storage Battery, is still a feature of the present model. Starter controlled by a pedal—all lights controlled by a single switch. All fuses on the dash. THE MOTOR WITH ITS SMOOTH, flexible power, its wonderfully quick pick-up and its matchless economy, is still the most beautifully finished and most accessible six-cylinder motor on the market at any price. THE HONEYCOMB RADIATOR—same as used on cars selling for $400 and more higher in price—is the best money can buy. With the two bladed aluminum fan, it gives the most efficient cooling system you could desire. THE TRANSMISSION is of the finest design, material and workmanship. In smoothness, performance and permanent silence and quietness of operation, it is unrivaled. Gear shifting is a pleasure when necessary. Seven-Passenger Touring Car, $1395. Four-Passenger Roadster, $1395. Four-Passenger Convertible Sedan, $1995. Four-Passenger Convertible Coupe, $1995. Limousine, $2695. All prices f. o. b. Cleveland

"I Stole Because I Loved the Excitement."

ers, and in many out-of-the-way places, they found a great collection of articles, some valuable, some not—watches, bracelets, cheap combs, toilet articles, vases, embroidery, handkerchiefs and trinkets, clothing, petticoats and shoes.

The woman, on the advice of the officers, decided to make a clean breast of her operations. Although she made an honest effort, the woman could not definitely estimate the number of her "jobs" except that they might have totaled 200.

Loved Work of Burglary. "I loved it," the woman told her captors. "I never really wanted the money the things would bring or the things themselves. If I had wanted either I would have been a rich woman to day, for I got away with thousands of dollars' worth of stuff. I stole because I loved the excitement, the joy of planning a robbery and the thrill that accompanied the prying open of a window, the unlocking of a door stealthily, and the search for hidden valuables. I seldom made a mistake in my plans and never failed to get away with it."

In several instances, the woman said, she gave away her plunder or threw it into some corner. Once, after she had carefully planned a job for weeks, after closely watching the house until she was sure of her chance and had finally jimmied her way inside and stripped it of its valuables, she purposely walked to a bridge, and standing near the center of it, deliberately threw the articles, one by one, into the river.

Too Proud to Work. Terre Haute, Ind.—Harry Moore admitted in the circuit court here that this was "too proud to work" and that this was why he forged checks. The judge told him he could work behind prison walls and his pride would not suffer.

Home Cookery

Vegetable Soup With Dumplings.
Take four medium potatoes and four medium onions, peel and slice into about two quarts boiling water. Take two slices of salt pork, cut into dice and fry until brown, then add to the potatoes, using the grease as well as the pork. Allow the mixture to cook about twenty minutes, adding salt and pepper to taste, also carrots or any other vegetable one likes. While the soup is cooking prepare the dumplings, taking two cups flour, three teaspoons baking powder, a little salt and sweet milk to make a dough a trifle softer than for biscuit. Drop by spoonfuls in the soup and cook twenty minutes longer.

New England Mince-meat.
Four pounds lean meat (ground), one and one-half pounds suet, eight pounds chopped apples, one pound brown sugar, four pounds raisins, three pounds currants, one-half pound citron (cut fine), one quart boiled cider, four cups meat stock, one cup vinegar, one pint grape juice, one pint cherry or other fruit juice, one tablespoonful salt, one tablespoonful pepper, mace, allspice, cloves, nutmeg, cinnamon. Mix above ingredients, adding spices to taste. Cook, then add the juice of two oranges, two lemons and one tablespoonful almond extract.

Tomato and Oyster Soup.
Strain a pint of stewed fresh or of canned tomatoes through a wire sieve to remove seeds. To the pulp add a pinch of soda to counteract a part of the acidity and to keep the milk from curdling. Into the hot tomatoes pour a pint and a half of hot milk. Thicken slightly, using a tablespoonful of flour moistened with water. Season with salt, pepper and a lump of butter. Lastly add a pint of scalded oysters. Canned ones answer very well for this.

Salad Dressing.
An Italian chef derides the American manner of preparing the dressing for lettuce, by which a goodly part of the oil and vinegar is left in the bottom of the dish. His method is to put the salad in the bowl and, turning the leaves with one hand, cover them slowly with oil with the other until every leaf glistens. He then seasons them with salt and pepper, adds a few drops of vinegar, gives a last stir and serves his salad at once.

Ink Spot Obliterators
Ink spots are the most troublesome of all spots to remove. Ink on white material may be removed by dipping it first in muriatic acid and then in hot water, repeating as often as necessary. Colored material should be soaked in turpentine and then washed. If the ink on rug or clothing is still wet, cover immediately with flour, starch or cornmeal, renewing as fast as the ink is soaked up. Then use lemon juice or sour milk. A solution of a cupful of water, the juice of a lemon and a teaspoonful of oxalic acid is a useful ink remover to keep in the house. The mixture should be labeled "Poison," as oxalic acid is poisonous. Ammonia will restore colors faded in removing ink. Soft water should always be used in removing stains from clothing.

EGYPTIAN SERENADE.
Sing again the song you sung
When we were together young,
When there were but you and I
Underneath the summer sky.
Sing the song and o'er and o'er,
Though I know that nevermore
Will it seem the song you sung
When we were together young.
—George William Curtis.

It has long been axiomatic that the American wife felicitates herself on her superiority to her husband, though she refrains from telling him so. On the other hand, the American business man has ever been accused of sacrificing his wife on the altar of his own absorption in money-making, and of salving the wounds due to his neglect with the ointment of unlimited credit.—Robert Grant in Scribner's.

Likely Tunes. A Chicago surgeon who employs music as an aid to surgery. The Chopin "Funeral March" as the accompaniment of a major operation. "We Don't Know Where We're Going, but We're On Our Way"

Golden Plover Flies Far. The longest continuous flight of any bird is made by the golden plover. From Nova Scotia to the coast of South America the entire flight of 2,400 miles is accomplished without pause or rest.

Her Custumary Weapon. "Woman's sphere—" began Mrs. Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge, who had been reading and pondering, "Woman's spear!" ejaculated her husband in astonishment. "Well, say; what's the matter with using the ax, same as you've always done?"—Kansas City Star.

Neither Did We. We suppose the novelists are keen observers and know what they are talking about, but personally we never saw a girl, when under stress of some strong emotion or other, sway like a beautiful lily.—Columbus (O.) Journal.

Child Has No Rights. It looks as if a child can't put his pithings where they will be safe, no matter which floor he leaves them in the middle of, someone is almost sure to step on them.—Claude Callan, in Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Galleo's Telescope. The telescopes constructed by Galleo consisted of one convex objective glass and one concave eyeglass, which were placed at the extremities of a metal tube, the first of these magnifying the height and breadth of objects three times. Later on he produced a telescope which magnified eight times, and about five years further along produced a telescope with the power of magnifying objects about thirty times larger than they appear to the unaided eye.

What Does Cupid Think? Some scientists have decided that mistletoe must go, for it is a parasite, they say, and saps the vitality of the trees on which it grows. The birds are at fault too, for they scatter the seeds from tree to tree. Will Cupid ask these wise people to provide a substitute?

Roundsabout Conclusion. "It's an extended corridor that has no ultimate termination," mused the absent-minded professor, as he patiently plodded around the revolving door.

Keep Cheerful. Let us all try to do at least one good deed each day and keep a cheerful face, even if things do go awry. A cheerful face brightens many a weary soul and a kind deed or word wins many a heart.

Good Found Everywhere. If we will take the good we find, asking no questions, we shall have healing measures. The great gifts are not got by analysis. Everything good is on the highway.—Emerson.

Optimistic Thought. Injury forgiven is better than an injury revenged.

Le Moyne Is Found Out and the Big Part of Our Story Begins to Unfold.

SYNOPSIS—K, LeMoyné, a young man, becomes a roomer at the Page home, where Sidney, her mother, Anna, and her old maid aunt, Harriet, a dressmaker preside. Through the influence of Dr. Max Wilson, a successful young surgeon, Sidney becomes a probationary nurse at the hospital. Aunt Harriet opens a fashionable shop downtown. Christine Lorenz and Palmer Howe are about to be married and they will take rooms at the Pages'. Sidney is loved by K., by Joe Drummond, a high-school beau, and by Dr. Max, who fascinates her. At the hospital she begins to see the underside of the world. She meets Charlotta Harrison, who has been very "thick" with Dr. Max. K. LeMoyné is a mystery. He works at the gas office as a clerk, but his past is hidden, and he fears to meet strangers—why? As this installment opens, Doctor Max is coming across the street from his home to call on Sidney. K. shrinks from the introduction but sees no way of escape.

"Sidney?" "Here! Light back here!"

There was vibrant gladness in her tone. He came slowly toward them. "My brother is not at home, so I came over. How select you are, with your balcony!"

"Can you see the bell?" "Coming, with steps on."

K. had risen and pushed back his chair. His mind was working quickly. Here in the darkness he could hold the situation for a moment. If he could get Sidney into the house, the balcony was very dark.

"Is anyone ill?" "Mother is not well. This is Mr. Le Moyné, and he knows who you are very well, indeed."

"The two men shook hands. "I've heard a lot of Mr. Le Moyné. You're the most popular man on the Street."

"I've always heard that about you, Sidney, if Doctor Wilson is here to see your mother—"

"Going," said Sidney. "And Dr. Wilson is a very great person, K., so be polite to him."

Max had aroused at the sound of Le Moyné's voice, not to suspicion, of course, but to memory. Without any apparent reason, he was back in Berlin, tramping the country roads, and beside him—

"Wonderful night! Will you have a cigarette?"

"Thank; I have my pipe here." "K. struck a match with his steady hands. Now that the thing had come, he was glad to face it. In the flare, his quiet profile glowed against the night. Then he stung the match over the rail. Max stared; then he rose. Blackness had descended on them again, except for the dull glow of K's old pipe.

"For God's sake!" "Sh! The neighbors next door have a bad habit of sitting just inside the curtains."

"But—you!" "Sit down. Sidney will be back in a moment. I'll talk to you, if you'll sit still. Can you hear me plainly?"

"After a moment—'Yes.' "I've been here—in the city, I mean—for a year. Name's Le Moyné. Don't forget it—Le Moyné. I've got a position in the gas office, clerical."

Wilson stirred, but he found no adequate words. Only a part of what K. said got to him. For a moment he was back in a famous clinic, and this man across from him—it was not believable!

"It's not hard work, and it's safe. If I make a mistake there's no life hanging on it."

Wilson's voice showed that he was more than incredulous; he was profoundly moved.

"We thought you were dead. There were by—sorts of stories. When a year went by—the Titanic had gone down, and nobody knew but what you were on it—we gave up. I—in June we put up a tablet for you at the college. I went down—for the—for the services."

"Let it stay," said K. quietly. "I'm dead as far as the college goes, anyhow. I'll never go back. I'm Le Moyné now. And, for heaven's sake, don't be sorry for me. I'm more contented than I've been for a long time."

The wonder in Wilson's voice was giving way to irritation.

"But—when you had everything! Why—good heavens, man, I did your opera on today, and I've been blowing about it ever since."

"All a man in our profession has is a certain method, knowledge—call it what you like—and faith in himself. I lost my self-confidence; that's all. Certain things happened; kept on happening. So I gave it up."

"If every surgeon gave up because he lost cases—I've just told you I did your operation today. There was just a chance for the man, and I took my courage in my hands and tried it. The poor devil's dead."

K. rose rather wearily and emptied his pipe over the balcony rail.

"That's not the same. That's the chance he and you took. What happened to me was—different."

Pipe in hand, he stood staring out at the alantus tree with its crown of stars. Instead of the Street with its quiet houses, he saw the men he had known and worked with and taught, his friends who spoke his language, who had loved him, many of them, gathered about a bronze tablet set in a wall of the old college; he saw their earnest faces and grave eyes. He heard—

He heard the soft rustle of Sidney's dress as she came into the little room behind them.

CHAPTER X.

A few days after Wilson's recognition of K., two most exciting things happened to Sidney. One was that Christine asked her to be maid of honor at her wedding. The other was more wonderful. She was accepted, and given her cap.

Because she could not get home that night, and because the little house had no telephone, she wrote the news to her mother and sent a note to Le Moyné.

K. found the note on the hall table when he got home that night, and carried it upstairs to read. Whatever faint hope he might have had that her youth would prevent her acceptance he knew now was over. With the letter in his hand, he sat by his table and looked ahead into the empty years. Not quite empty, of course. She would be coming home.

But more and more the life of the hospital would engross her. He surmised, too, very shrewdly, that had he ever had a hope that she might come to care for him, his very presence in the little house militated against him. There was none of the illusion of separation; he was always there, like K.

"I've always had things pretty hard here," she commented briefly. "When I go out, I'll either be competent enough to run a whole hospital single-handed, or I'll be carried out feet first."

Sidney was glad to have her so near. She knew her better than she knew the other nurses. Small emergencies were constantly arising and finding her at a loss. Once at least every night Miss Harrison would hear a soft hiss from the back staircase that connected the two floors, and going out, would see Sidney's flushed face and slightly crooked cap bending over the stair rail.

"I'm dreadfully sorry to bother you," she would say, "but So-and-So won't have a fever bath" or, "I've a woman here who refuses her medicine." Then would follow rapid questions and equally rapid answers. Much as Charlotta disliked and feared the girl overhead, it never occurred to her to refuse her assistance. Perhaps the angels who keep the great record will put that to her credit.

Sidney saw her first death shortly after she went on night duty. It was the most terrible experience of all her life—it seemed to her that she could not stand it. Added to all her other new problems of living was this one of dying.

She made mistakes, of course, which the kindly nurses forgot to report—basins left about, errors on her records. She rinsed her thermometer in hot water one night, and started an interne by sending him word that Mary McGuire's temperature was 110 degrees. She let a delirious patient escape from the ward another night and go airily down the fire escape before she discovered what had happened! Then she distinguished herself by bringing the runaway back single-handed.

Wilson saw her first death shortly after she went on night duty. It was the most terrible experience of all her life—it seemed to her that she could not stand it. Added to all her other new problems of living was this one of dying.

She made mistakes, of course, which the kindly nurses forgot to report—basins left about, errors on her records. She rinsed her thermometer in hot water one night, and started an interne by sending him word that Mary McGuire's temperature was 110 degrees. She let a delirious patient escape from the ward another night and go airily down the fire escape before she discovered what had happened! Then she distinguished herself by bringing the runaway back single-handed.

For Christine's wedding the Street threw off its drab attire and assumed a wedding garment. In the beginning it was incredulous about some of the details. The wedding was to be at five o'clock. This, in itself, defied all traditions of the Street, which was either married in the very early morning at the Catholic church or at eight o'clock in the evening at the Presbyterian. There was something reckless about five o'clock. The Street felt the dash of it. It had a queer feeling that perhaps such a marriage was not quite legal.

The younger Wilson was to be one of the ushers. When the newspapers came out with the published list and this was discovered, as well as that Sidney was the maid of honor, there was a distinct quiver through the hospital training school. A probationer was authorized to find out particulars. It was the day of the wedding then, and Sidney, who had not been to bed at all, was sitting in a sunny window in the dormitory annex, drying her hair.

The probationer was distinctly uneasy. "I—I just wonder," she said, "if you would let some of the girls come in to see you when you're dressed?" "Why, of course I will."

"It's awfully thrilling, isn't it? And isn't Doctor Wilson going to be an usher?" "You're a companion."

"I'm not absolutely useless where I am, you know, Max," he said. "I've raised three tomato plants and a family of kittens this summer, helped to plan a trousseau, assisted in selecting wallpaper for the room just inside—did you notice it?—and developed a boy pitcher with a ball that twists around the bat like a Colles fracture around a splint!"

Wilson rose and flung his cigarette into the grass.

"I wish I understood you!" he said irritably.

K. rose with him, and all the suppressed feeling of the interview was crowded into his last words.

"I'm not as ungrateful as you think, Max," he said. "I—you've helped a lot. Don't worry about me. I'm as well off as I deserve to be, and better. Good night."

"Good night." Wilson's unexpected magnanimity put K. in a curious position—left him, as it were, with a divided allegiance. Sidney's frank infatuation for the young surgeon was where he was quick to see it. And growing before he might have felt justified in going to the length of warning her, now his hands were tied.

Sidney went on night duty shortly after her acceptance. She tumbled into her low bed at nine o'clock in the morning, those days, with her splendid hair neatly braided down her back and her prayers said, and immediately her active young mind filled with images—Christine's wedding, Doctor Max passing the door of the old ward and she not there, Joe—and she puzzled over Grace and her kind.

On her first night on duty a girl had been brought in from the Avenue. She had taken poison—nobody knew just what. When the internes had tried to find out, she had only said: "What's the use?"

And she had died.

Sidney kept asking herself, "Why?" those mornings when she could not get to sleep. People were kind—some were kind, really—and yet, for some reason or other, those things had to be. Why?

Charlotta Harrison went on night duty at the same time—her last night service, as it was Sidney's first. She accepted it stoically. She had charge of the three wards on the floor just below Sidney, and of the ward into which all emergency cases were taken. It was a difficult service, perhaps the most difficult in the house. Charlotta merely shrugged her shoulders.

"I've always had things pretty hard here," she commented briefly. "When I go out, I'll either be competent enough to run a whole hospital single-handed, or I'll be carried out feet first."

Sidney was glad to have her so near. She knew her better than she knew the other nurses. Small emergencies were constantly arising and finding her at a loss. "It's awfully thrilling, isn't it? And isn't Doctor Wilson going to be an usher?" "You're a companion."

Sidney colored. "I believe so." The probationer had been instructed to find out other things; so she set to work with a fan at Sidney's hair.

"You've known Doctor Wilson a long time, haven't you?"

"Ages."

"He's awfully good-looking, isn't he?"

Sidney considered. She was not ignorant of the methods of the school. If this girl was pumpling her—

"I'll have to think that over," she said, with a glint of mischief in her eyes. "When you know a person terribly well, you hardly know whether he's good-looking or not."

"I suppose," said the probationer, running the long strands of Sidney's hair through her fingers, "that when you are at home you see him often."

Sidney got off the window sill, and, taking the probationer smilingly by the shoulders, faced her toward the door.

"You go back to the girls," she said, "and tell them to come in and see me when I am dressed, and tell them this: I don't know whether I am to walk down the aisle with Doctor Wilson, but I hope I will. I see him very often. I like him very much. I hope he likes me. And I think he's handsome."

She shoved the probationer out into the hall and locked the door behind her.

That message in its entirety reached Charlotta Harrison. Her smoldering eyes flamed. The audacity of it startled her. Sidney must be very sure of herself. When the probationer who had brought her the report had gone out, she lay in her long, white nightgown, hands clasped under her head, and stared at the vaultlike ceiling of her little room.

She saw there Sidney in her white dress going down the aisle of the church; she saw the group around the altar; and, as surely as she lay there, she knew that Max Wilson's eyes would be, not on the bride, but on the girl who stood beside her.

The curious thing was that Charlotta felt that she could stop the wedding if she wanted to. She'd happened on a bit of information—many a wedding had been stopped for less. It rather obsessed her to think of stopping the wedding, so that Sidney and Max would not walk down the aisle together.

There came, at last, an hour before the wedding, a lull in the feverish activities of the previous month. Everything was ready. In the attic in the center of a sheet, before a toilet table which had been carried upstairs for her benefit, sat, on this her day of days, the bride. All the second story had been prepared for guests and presents. Christine sat alone in the center of her sheet. The bridesmaids had been sternly forbidden to come into her room.

"I haven't had a chance to think for a month," she said. "And I've got some things I've got to think out."

But, when Sidney came, she sent for her. Sidney found her sitting on a stiff chair, in her wedding gown, with her veil spread out on a small stand.

"Close the door," said Christine. And, after Sidney had kissed her: "I've a good mind not to do it."

"You're tired and nervous, that's all."

"I am, of course. But that isn't what's wrong with me. Throw that veil some place and sit down."

Christine was undoubtedly rouged, a very delicate touch. Sidney thought brides should be rather pale. But under her eyes were lines that Sidney had never seen there before.

"I'm not going to be foolish, Sidney. I'll go through with it, of course. It would put mamma in her grave if I made a scene now."

She suddenly turned on Sidney.

"Palmer gave his bachelor dinner at the Country club last night. They all drank more than they should. Somebody called father up today and said that Palmer had emptied a bottle of wine into the piano. He hasn't been here today."

"He'll be along. And as for the other—perhaps it wasn't Palmer who did it."

"That's not it, Sidney. I'm frightened."

Three months before, perhaps; Sidney could not have comforted her; but three months had made a change in Sidney. The complacent sophistication of her girlhood no longer answered for truth. She put her arms around Christine's shoulders.

"A man who drinks is a broken reed," said Christine. "That's what I'm going to marry and lean on the rest of my life—a broken reed. And that isn't all!"

Would you permit your daughter or sister to marry a young man who is a rake—a "broken reed"? Would Christine do right to refuse to marry, even at this late hour?

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Then Things Happened. He was a bookkeeper in a big manufacturing establishment. He lived in a hall room in a modest boarding house and ate his luncheons in a quick-lunch restaurant.

"There's no chance for adventure here in a great city," he used to say as he sat on the front steps evenings.

Then all in the same week a burglar took $16 from his trousers' pocket, an ammonia tank blew up in his office building, he was arrested by mistake for a pickpocket and he was ran down by an automobile on his way home from work and he married the nurse who helped set his broken arm—his Youth's Companion.

Wolverine Tractor Stock Par value $10 per share is the best investment in Detroit. FORESIGHT on the part of an investor lays the foundation for success and independence. You have countless examples of it in the tractors made by your Automobile manufacturers. In every case the manufacturer with a distinctive design took the lead. The Wolverine is designed along improved lines, with all gears enclosed and running in oil. Central motor, Hyatt Roller bearings, Eisemann Magneto and all high speed steering gear with a transmission half as large as the tractor itself. IT IS A THREE PLOW TRACTOR and the farmer wants that kind of a machine. He can plow 10 to 15 acres a day at a cost of less than 40 cents per acre. With the high prices for all farm products and 20-cent cotton in the south the farmer has the money to buy—the tractor will increase his output. THE WOLVERINE IS CONCEDED BY MEN WHO KNOW TRACTORS TO BE 2 YEARS ahead of all others in design, as it has those features the farmer has been wanting and when you give a man what he wants he usually is a buyer. With the right kind of Tractor, With a market for it (6,000,000 farms in the United States alone, with the men who know how to build and sell it, there is no question about the tremendous success a tractor of this kind will be, as one Motor plow man said: "You will have a factory a mile long inside of a year and you will not be able to fill your orders." SUPPLEMENT

Chelsea, Michigan, January 26, 1917.

FEBRUARY SESSION, 1916.

OFFICE OF THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

SPECIAL SESSION.

Monday, February 7, 1916.

MORNING SESSION.

Meeting called to order by Chairman Ryan.
Roll called and the following named supervisors answered to their names: Charles J. Hutzel, Martin A. Ryan, Herman Krapp, Charles A. Kapp, George Blach, Charles Brooks, Charles F. Staebler, Gilbert Madden, Fred C. Haist, M. F. Grosshans, Charles Kapp, John E. Fiegel, Herman Gross, Jacob Jedede, J. W. Dresselhouse, George Gill, J. W. Van Riper, Bert Kenny, W. W. Kelsey, George M. Gaudy, Elmer B. McCullough.
Call for meeting read as follows: December 27, 1915.

To George W. Beckwith, County Clerk in and for the County of Washtenaw, State of Michigan:
The undersigned, being at least one-third of the Supervisors of the said County of Washtenaw, request that a special meeting of the said Board of Supervisors of the County of Washtenaw be called to meet in special session on the seventh day of February, A. D. 1916, at the County Court House in the City of Ann Arbor, Washtenaw County, Michigan, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of the same day for the following purposes, to-wit:

FIRST: To make arrangements for the erection of a new County Poor-house and the purchase of a site therefor.

SECOND: To hear the report of the committee appointed to meet with the Drain Commissioner in regard to the re-assessment of Drains in Washtenaw County.

THIRD: To act on a petition relative to changing the boundaries of the City of Ann Arbor, Washtenaw County, and to take such steps as are necessary in order to submit the question of such change in the boundary lines of said City of Ann Arbor to the qualified voters of the City of Ann Arbor, and Ann Arbor Township.

Dated at the City of Ann Arbor, Washtenaw County, Michigan, this 8th day of February, A. D. 1916.
MARTIN A. RYAN, Chairman of the Board of Supervisors of Washtenaw County, Michigan.
GEO. W. BECKWITH, Clerk.

A resolution of the Board of Supervisors, calling Special Election, was read by Supervisor Brooks as follows:
To All Whom It May Concern:
Whereas, written application and petition, addressed to the Board of Supervisors of the County of Washtenaw, has been received by the Clerk of said County and filed in his office, praying that a Special Election be held in and for the City of Ann Arbor, in said County of Washtenaw, and in and for the Township of Ann Arbor, in said County of Washtenaw, under the provisions of Act Number 279 of the Public Acts of the State of Michigan for the year 1909, approved June 2nd, 1909, as amended by Acts No. 81 and 203 of the Public Acts of the State of Michigan for the year 1911, and Act No. 5 of the Public Acts of the State of Michigan for the year 1913, and Acts No. 82 and 210 of the Public Acts of the State of Michigan for the year 1915, to submit to the qualified electors of the City of Ann Arbor and said Township of Ann Arbor, in said County, the question whether or not the boundaries of the City of Ann Arbor, in said County of Washtenaw, shall be changed so as to include within the corporate limits of and annex to said City of Ann Arbor, and detach from the said Township of Ann Arbor, the following described piece or parcel of land, to-wit:
"Commencing at the southwest corner of section number twenty-seven (27), township two (2) south, range six (6) east, Washtenaw County, Michigan, and running thence north along the west line of said section nine hundred and sixty (960) feet to its intersection with the north line of Geddes Avenue, so-called; thence southeasterly along the north line of Geddes Avenue ten hundred and seventy (1070) feet to the intersection of the said line with the extension of the easterly line of lot number six (6) in Grove Block in J. D. Baldwin's Eastern Addition to the City of Ann Arbor, according to the recorded plat thereof; thence southerly six hundred and eighty-three (683) feet along the easterly line of the said lot six (6) and the extension of this line to its intersection with the south line of said section twenty-seven (27); thence west along the south line of said section eight hundred and thirty-nine (839) feet to the place of beginning."

Whereas, upon such examination it was determined and declared by resolution adopted by said Board, that said petition is signed by a number of qualified electors of the City of Ann Arbor and of the Township of Ann Arbor, in said County of Washtenaw, State of Michigan, held at the Court House in the City of Ann Arbor, in said County, on the 7th day of February, A. D. 1916 (said session of the Board of Supervisors being a special session of the said Board duly called) the said Board of Supervisors duly examined the said petition and also the returns of the last preceding United States census, and Whereas, upon such examination it was determined and declared by resolution adopted by said Board, that said petition is signed by a number of qualified electors of the City of Ann Arbor, in said County of Washtenaw, State of Michigan, held at the Court House in the City of Ann Arbor, in said County, on the 7th day of February, A. The report of the committee on the County Infirmary was read as follows:

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors of the County of Washtenaw:

Sirs:
 Your Building Committee appointed to visit the different County Homes in the State and recommend a plan at the October Session of the Board of Supervisors, 1916, beg leave to report as follows:

On August 21, 1916, your Committee visited the County Farm of Washtenaw County for the purpose of viewing sites from which may be selected an appropriate site for the erection of our new county home. Your Committee would place before this honorable board, two sites and petition said Board of Supervisors after visiting the County Farm, to designate one of those as their desired site.

First, a site just east of the present home, secondly, a site at a point designated as the center of County Farm.

Next, your committee on September eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth, 1916, visited the County House of Muskegon and Ionia.

Further, your committee on September twenty-fifth, 1916, visited the County Home at Flint.

From those visits your committee received much valuable information from which after a long and due deliberation beg to submit for your adoption, plans which will be placed before this Board for its keeness inspection. This plan will afford ample room for the keeper and his family and an up to date home for the county inmates. This plan provides for a fireproof building at an estimated cost of seventy thousand dollars.

Respectfully submitted,
 JOHN LAWSON,

Report of the Committee of the Whole was read as follows:
 To the Honorable Board of Supervisors of Washtenaw County, Michigan:
 Gentlemen:
 The Board of Supervisors in Committee of the Whole visited the County Infirmary on Thursday, October 12, 1916, to inspect the same and report the conditions, and made as thorough an examination as time would permit. The house was carefully inspected, and everything found clean and in order as much as possible. The inmates of which there are 47, looked well cared for. Nearly all vegetables are raised on the farm and are of fine quality. We found the stock in fine condition.

The Committee deserves the thanks of the Board for the faithful discharge of the duties imposed upon them. A vote of thanks is also extended to the gentlemen who so kindly furnished automobiles to take the members of the Board to and from the Infirmary.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Total expense $113,800.00
Estimated $2,000.00

We further recommend that the County Treasurer and the Chairman of the Board of Supervisors be appointed a special committee to attend the legal transfer of the money in the Yeager estate now in the Probate Court, to the County Infirmary Building Fund.

GEORGE D. CRIPPEN,
GEO. M. GAUDY,
W. H. EVERY,
Finance Committee.

Moved by Supervisor Dawson and supported that the report be accepted and adopted.

Carried.

The Committee appointed to report on tax on Mortgages and other securities reported as follows:

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors:

Gentlemen:—
Your committee appointed to investigate the scope and meaning of the law governing taxing bonds, notes, etc., through the services of the Prosecuting Attorney, beg leave to report that on recommendation of the Prosecuting Attorney, submit copy of the act and sentiments expressed by other Boards of Supervisors.

Your committee therefore recommends the adoption of the following resolutions, and that a copy be sent to each of the Representatives of this County.

Signed by the entire Committee,
CHARLES L. BROOKS
W. H. EVERY,
E. B. McCULLOUGH.

Whereas, Act No. 142 of the Public Acts of 1913 provides that a large variety of bonds, notes or written or printed obligations, and other evidences of secured debts may be filed with the County Treasurer, the tax of one-half of one per cent paid thereon, and that the County Treasurer may retain for the general fund one-half of the amount so paid, the other half going to the state, and also provides that the payment of this apportioned tax shall render these bonds, notes, etc., exempt from all other taxation, and

Whereas, this law is so obviously unfair and unjust as to be inequitable in its purpose and vicious in its application, and

Whereas, Act No. 254, of the Public Acts of 1915 adds to the inequity by increasing the scope of the Act, and

Whereas, these two acts are examples of the vicious class legislation by particularly and notoriously favoring a class of citizens and a species of wealth most able to pay a just and fair proportion of taxes, and

Whereas, these Acts deny or abridge the fundamental right of community to self government inasmuch as the privilege of local taxation is denied them, and

Whereas, the State and County can have but an indirect interest in the taxation of this class of wealth.

Therefore, be it resolved, that this

Board hereby goes on record as favoring the repeal of these Acts and all similar Acts or of having them so amended that the portion now going to the County will be credited to the township, village or city where the owner or holder of this class of property resides, and that the said tax be made assessable and collectable annually, or so amended that a tax of three quarters of one percent will be levied annually, one quarter to go to the State, one quarter to county and one quarter to township or city, respectively, in which the holder resides.

Moved by Supervisor Dawson and supported that the report be accepted and adopted.

Carried.

Supervisor Roberts offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That Whereas, certain monies have been voted by the electors of Washtenaw County, and certain bequests been made by a resident of this County to assist in the construction of a new County Infirmary, and

Whereas, it is deemed expedient by this Board that the necessary steps be taken to insure a speedy erection of said Infirmary,

Be it therefore resolved, that the Building Committee of this Board on the new Washtenaw County Infirmary be hereby authorized and empowered to employ architects, approve plans, receive bids for the construction of the same, and to let the construction of the same to the lowest possible responsible bidder and do all other acts or things necessary and proper pertaining to the erection of and speedy completion of the said New Washtenaw County Infirmary.

Moved by Supervisor Schlenker and supported, that the resolution be accepted and adopted.

Bids for printing were opened at this time and were as follows:

October 11th, 1916.
Board of County Supervisors,
Gentlemen:—
The Ypsilanti Press will print 300 copies of the proceedings of the Board of Supervisors in pamphlet form, same specifications as heretofore, for $3.50 per page.

This price includes supplements for whatever newspapers of the county, supervisors may designate.

THE YPSILANTI PRESS,
By G. C. Handy,
V. Pres.
Ypsilanti, Mich.,
Oct. 11, 1916.

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors of Washtenaw County:—
Gentlemen:—
The Ypsilanti Record will print three hundred copies of book containing proceedings of the Board of Supervisors of same specifications as heretofore, at $3.25 per page.

Without further charge we will also print proceedings in supplement form and furnish same in sufficient quantities for such county newspapers (except the Ann Arbor Times News) as the Supervisors may direct, also publish proceedings in the Record.

Respectfully submitted,
THE YPSILANTI RECORD,
By N. A. Van Wegen, Mgr.
Oct. 12, 1916.

To the Board of Supervisors:—
The Saline Observer agrees to fold the supplements containing the Supervisors' Proceedings in the Observer for $10, and will need 800 copies.

SIM R. WILSON,
Oct. 12, 1916.

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors of Washtenaw County,
Gentlemen:—
The Chelsea Tribune will fold and mail regular printed supplements, containing the annual report of the Supervisors' Proceedings, in the first regular issue following receipt of same in Chelsea, for the sum of $12.

Yours truly,
THE CHELSEA TRIBUNE,
By Ford Axtell.
Oct. 11, 1916.

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors:—
The Washtenaw Post will print the proceedings of your Board for the year as heretofore, in the German language for seventy-five dollars, (same as in past years) $75.00.

Very respectfully yours,
WASHTENAW POST,
E. J. Helber.

October 27, 1916.
To the Honorable Board of Supervisors of Washtenaw County:
Gentlemen:—
I hereby bid for printing the proceedings of your Honorable Board in pamphlet form and to furnish supplements for the other papers in the county as the Board may designate, the price to be $2.95 per pamphlet page, 300 copies to be furnished similar to last year's pamphlet.

Very respectfully,
O. T. HOOVER,
Oct. 16, 1916.

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors of Washtenaw County:
Gentlemen:—
We hereby bid for publishing the Supervisor's Annual Proceedings in pamphlet form, size of pages, etc., as customary, Three dollars and fifty cents ($3.50) per page, which amount includes the publication of such proceedings complete in one issue of the Times News. Printed sheets or supplements are also included in said figure for such other papers as the supervisors may designate such supplements to go in, the Supervisors to pay direct to the publishers of such designated papers what said publishers may charge for putting supplements in their respective papers.

This enable the supervisors to designate other papers in various localities, if they wish, to insert the supplements, at the exact cost for this service that is charged in each instance by the publishers.

Very respectfully,
THE TIMES NEWS CO.,
By Emil Calman,
Advertising Manager.

Moved by Supervisor Haist and supported, that the bids for printing be referred to the Committee on Printing.

Carried.
