Collide at Main and siderably damaged, the fenders on the Chandler being crumpled up, while the Ford had a twisted cross-frame and other damages.

Miss Zena Shreve was riding with Mr. Dalton and suffered cuts about the face from glass and also suffered considerably from shock. None of the others in either car were injur-

MICHIGAN'S BIG RED

CROSS CAMPAIGN

Asked For Three Millions; Gave Four. Manager Paul King Says
Newspapers Did It.

Detroit, June 30, 1917.

Mr. Ford Axtell,
Editor Tribune,
Chelsea, Michigan.

My dear Mr. Axtell:

As you know, Michigan came well to the front in the Red Cross
"drive" last week and over-subscribed its quota by a million dollars.
While all of the returns are not yet in and we can only estimate what the final figures will be, it is evident that the total of the state will exceed $4,000,000.

This gratifying result could not have been attained without the earnest support of the newspapers of Michigan. Almost without exception they got right behind the movement and "boosted" with all their might.

The Executive Committee of the State Board has asked me to write and express its appreciation of your splendid co-operation throughout the campaign, and to this I would like to add my personal word of thanks.

With all good wishes, I remain
Sincerely yours,

Paul H. King

Campaign Manager Red Cross

CELEBRATED NINETY- SECOND BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Marion Fyler Pleasantly Surprised by Loving Relatives.

The home of F. E. Richards was the scene of a merry gathering last Thursday, June 28th, that day being the 92d birthday of Mr. Richard's sister, Mrs. Marion Fyler.

Mr. George Richards and family planned a surprise by dropping in unannounced, carrying well filled baskets. From another direction came more relatives unaware of the former's plans. Between the combined factions of the two parties, rest assured the surprise was genuine, and of a "true-blue" character to the whole household. The baskets contained the necessities for a fine dinner, which was soon arranged upon the table and enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Fyler received many useful and appropriate gifts, cards of greeting and letters of congratula-tion from friends here and those residing elsewhere, as far as California.

The immediate neighbors came with congratulations and words of cheer, beautiful flowers and fine fruits, making it a day to be long remembered by all who were present. These kind courtesies shown her are very much appreciated by her near kindred.

STATE LAW REQUIRES NAMING ALL ROADS

County Road Officials Must Also Erect Sign Boards.

Probably few people realize that there is a state law that requires all roads to be named, either by the state highway department or by the county road commissioners or board of supervisors. Another fact also not generally known is that there is a state law requiring the county road commissioners to erect sign boards on all roads, giving the name of the road and the distance to the nearest town or city. These laws relate to all the roads taken over by the county road commissioners of the state, which really means practically all of the important roads of the state.

The plan being followed in the naming of the roads is usually to designate it by the names of the townships it separates or of the cities it connects. Right here would be an excellent chance to honor the memory of the pioneers who made possible the present settled condition of the state, by naming the more important roads in their honor.

With all the roads of the state officially named and with official sign boards on every corner giving the name of the road and the distance to and direction of the nearest important towns or cities, automobile traveling will no longer be hampered by the necessity of stopping every once in a while for directions and the danger of taking the wrong road at every turn.

A liberty bond in time saves nine.

GOOD ROADS

PROPER WORKING OF A DRAG
Rules From Highway Magazine Tell How to Get Best Results—Drag Whenever Possible.

If a dirt road is properly built, the road drag will keep it in good condition. Like any other work there is a best way to do it. These rules from the Highway Magazine, tell how to get the right results.

"Use a light drag.
"Haul it over the road at an angle so that a small amount of earth is pushed toward the center of the road.
"Drive a team at a walk.
"Ride on the drag; do not walk.
"Begin at one side of the road, returning up the opposite side.
"Drag the road as soon after every rain as possible, but not when the mud

Details of Split-Log Drag.

is in such condition as to stick to the drag.
"Do not drag a dry road.
"Drag whenever possible at all seasons of the year.
"The width of the traveled way to be maintained by the drag should be from 18 to 20 feet; first drag a little more than the width of a single wheel track, then gradually increase until desired width is obtained.
"Always drag a little earth towards the center of the road until it is raised from 10 to 12 inches above the edges of the traveled way.
"If the drag cuts too much, shorten the hitch.
"The best results for dragging are obtained only by repeated application."

VOLUNTEER FOR GOOD ROADS
We Can Have Anything Good If We Will Get Together and Work Hard for Desired End.

Why, bad roads, even, is a moral question. Why should men wade in mud and punish their beasts when they have the power to prevent it? It is moral in that we fail to use to advantage the powers and possibilities that God has given us, writes R. F. Beasley in Progressive Farmer.

We can have good roads if we will. We can have any good thing if we will—communities acting together. Half a dozen men could volunteer to delegate themselves as leaders in a good roads movement and the people soon would follow them.

A million volunteers will rush to arms to shoot down a million others who have done them no harm; why should not some volunteer to be leaders in the romances of peace and progress?

ARMY ENLISTING ROAD MEN
Corps of Thoroughly Experienced Specialists in Constructing Work Being Organized.

Enlisted men with a knowledge of road building are being recruited in the engineer reserve corps of the United States army. This is the corps of experienced men which is being organized as a reserve body of thoroughly trained specialists in every branch of construction work.

Measure Community Value.
The roads furnish a yardstick to measure the value of any community. A settled country that is not worth a good road is not worth living in.

Obtain Best Results.
Best results are obtained by dragging the road as soon as possible after each rain.

Bad Roads a Hindrance.
Poor roads are a bar to better markets, better schools, better churches, better living.

THE LIVER

By KIN HUBBARD

When th' Human Liver (Latin "Jecur") is Happily Situated, Ther is Nothin' That Looks as Bright an' Beautiful as th' World.

Th' shameful treatment that is bein' accorded th' human liver in this day an' age is a reflection on our boasted civilization. We're rushin' ahead settin' the affairs of the world while th' great American liver struggles along doin' two liver's work without a friend in either branch o' congress.

Th' human liver (Swedish "Lever") is a large gland that resides in th' upper right hand corner o' th' abdominal cavity an', when conditions are as they should be, it weighs one-fourth as much as th' body t' which it is attached. It is th' main gazabo o' th' human works but, notwithstanding th' important roll it plays in our pursuit o' life, liberty an' happiness, it is th' most abused, most misconstrued, most ignored, most imposed on, most neglected an' lied about organ of which th' medical fraternity has any knowledge.

Next t' a yeller dog ther haint nothin' that responds as readily t' kindness as th' human liver. Prunes, when properly stewed, are fine fer th' liver, but how many of us are darin' enough to order them? We occasionally eat an apple jest t' please th' liver, but we rarely take th' liver int' our confidence when we attend a Jefferson Day banquet. We are not chummy enough with th' liver. How many of us have any knowledge o' it's plumbin'?

A feller's disposition is regulated by his liver. Th' liver is th' switchboard o' his inclinations an' impulses. We often hear it said of a feller that he entered int' this or that with his whole heart. It wuz his whole liver. Most o' th' credit that goes t' th' heart rightfully belongs t' an agile liver. Th' heart 'll often butt in where th' liver fears t' tread.

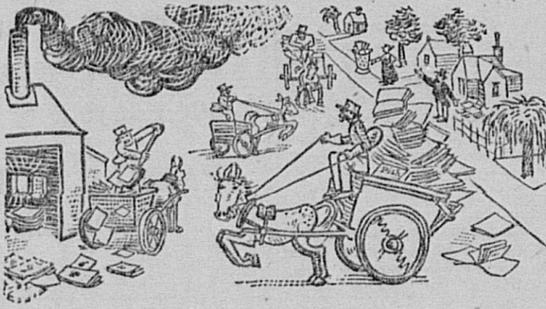

Some fellers are very lavish till ther asked t' do somethin' fer ther liver. Next t' a poor relative ther haint nothin' they're less interested in than ther own liver. Some girls become greatly exercised over a mole on ther back an' then laughin' powder over a liver spot on ther cheek.

One o' th' hardest things that come up durin' th' liver's daily routine is handlin' a large steak after its owner has consumed it an' sunken heavily int' an easy chair t' ponder over th' complicated condition o' Mexican affairs an' view with alarm.

When th' human liver (Latin "Jecur") is happily situated an' th' lines lendin' therefrom are open to th' traffic ther is nothin' that looks as bright an' beautiful as th' world. (Copyright, Adams Newspaper Service.)

Our Appallin' Literary Output

By KIN HUBBARD

In th' Average Home th' Cartin' Away o' th' Accumulated Literature Has Come t' Be as Much of a Problem as th' Removal o' Ashes and Garbage. A Literary Disposal Plant is One o' th' Urgent Needs o' th' Times.

When we look at th' great mass o' literature that tests th' capacity of book stores an' news stands we can't help thinkin' what a scramble ther must be fer even standin' room in th' field o' literature. Most anybody roundin' forty kin easily remember th' day when two or three family story papers, a couple o' magazines, a stack o' Ned Buntline's yeller backs, a certain illustrated pink weekly devoted to crime an' th' prize ring an' "Lovell's Library" constituted what wuz regarded at th' time as a first-class book an' news depot. "Lovell's Library" wuz made up of paper backed novels—thrillin' stories of adventure an' heart meltin' tales o' love—by such celebrated writers as Wilkie Collins, Clark Russell, Mrs. Henry Wood, Ouida, Hugh Conway, Charlotte Bransme, Robert Buchanan an' Th' Duchess. Th' great popularity o' Adam Bede, Th' Mill on th' Floss, Black Beauty, Lena Rivers, Uncle Tom's Cabin, Robinson Crusoe an' Enoch Arden had dwindled t' a fair demand, but were t' be found among th' others.

Jest think o' th' appallin' literary output o' t' day. It would require an abandoned skatin' rink t' carry a full line o' current literature. In th' average home th' cartin' away o' th' accumulated literature has come t' be as much of a problem as th' removal o' ashes an' garbage. A literary disposal plant is one o' th' urgent needs o' th' times. On returnin' from a week's vacation one has t' tunnel thro' th' great drifts o' papers an' magazines t' reach th' front door. Ther's no longer any mystery about how th' other half o' th' world lives. It writes. Fer ever' mail box ther's an amateur writer. As th' days draws t' a close he may be seen skulkin' along thro' th' shadows t' a mail box bearin' a thick reel o' manuscript addressin' t' some magazine publisher. He knows some magazine needs it t' balance up its advertisin'. When a magazine editor returns a manuscript it's because he haint got room fer it. It's no sign he has read it. Writers know that. They jest recall it t' some other editor. Th' great difficulty in contributin' t' th' magazines is knowin' which magazine editor rips open a story he counts th' pages an' calls t' his assistant: "George kin we use about fourteen hundred words next month?" an' George answers right off th' but (bein' thoroughly familiar with th' number o' ads): "Yes, it'll jest balance up th' ads."

But th' author never quits. Sometimes he dries up fer a week or ten days, but he's soon at it agin. He knows that ther must be somewhere some editor that's holdin' his forms open fer his story an' he mails it an' remains it till he hits th' right editor. Writin' looks awful easy, an' most of it must be awful easy. That's th' reason so many neglect ther personal appearance an' become writers. I've often thought I'd lay off some afternoon an' write a novel. But writin' fer magazines is th' best sport. It's as lazy an' fascinatin' as fishin'. You're your own master. You don't even have t' be available. Jest so your story is long enough or short enough—jest so th' editor receives in August fer th' May number. All he wants is room fer it an' plenty o' time.

When we reflect that Pilgrim's Progress wuz writ'n in jail, that Silvio Pellico an' Tasso did ther best writin' behind th' bars, that Sir Walter Raleigh's admirable history o' th' world wuz writin' with his hands handcuffed behind him in th' Tower o' London, that Leigh Hunt wuz layin' out a fine when Rimini wuz writin', an' that Daniel Defoe laid th' plans fer Robinson Crusoe while he wuz in a lock-up we must confess that th' world 'day is purty lenient after all. ## FINDS TWO SONS; SOUGHT ONLY ONE Peculiar Experience of Hartford Woman While Searching for Offspring.

Denver, Colo.—To seek an only son and to learn she is the mother of two "sons," at least one of whom she did not know existed, is the somewhat peculiar experience of Mrs. Martha Congress of East Hartford, Conn.

Another strange circumstance in connection with the quest of her lost heir is that Louis Congress, the missing son, was prosperous and robust when he disappeared several months ago. The two new "sons" of Mrs. Congress are in precarious health and without funds.

Mrs. Congress asked a local paper to find her lost son, believed to be in Colorado. Her ad got results. One of the letters in reply was dated at La Junta, Colo., P. O. Box 3463. It said:

The Other "Son" Wrote From the Imperial Hotel.

"Dearest Mother: I thought I would Write You a Few Lines to let you know I am not Very Well this is Why I am writing for Money, in another letter you send me send $12 Because I Need it am in Hard Luck I will tell you the Results When I Get Home. From Yours Truly & Sincerely, "LOUIS CONGRESS."

"P. S. La Junta, Colo. Send it in Next Letter. Send it in Bills and Send it Mother."

The other son wrote from the Imperial hotel in Denver, and this is the touching appeal he inscribed:

"Mamma: Saw your ad in the Post today; am a little sick. Will explain all when I get back to you. I have not been able to get work for a long time. Please send money to me care Imperial hotel, 318 Fourteenth street, Denver, Colo. I owe month's room rent at this hotel. Will leave town without their knowing it. "Your loving son, LOUIE." Mrs. Congress is still looking for her son.

STEAL DEAD MAN'S HEART

Ghouls Dig Up Grave of Wealthiest and Most Popular Man in Southern Ohio.

Bethel, O.—Ghouls dug up the grave of Daniel Hill, eighty-four years old, of this town, and cut out the dead man's heart. They then covered the coffin again and made their escape. A box of burnt matches and spots on the tombstone were the only clues left.

Hill, one of the wealthiest and most popular men in southern Ohio had died of natural causes, according to his physician. A few days after the burial the sexton became suspicious and had the grave dug up. He found that the coffin had been saved open.

DRUNKS TO RAISE CROP, IS MAYOR'S ORDER

Lockhaven, Pa.—The mayor of this city has solved, partially at least, the problem of the threatened food shortage. Recently, when a stranger was arrested for drunkenness and could not pay the city fine "His Honor" sentenced the man to dig the plot of ground in the rear of the Ross library, which will be cultivated. The mayor feels sure he will get enough of this class of labor in the next few months to take excellent care of the crop.

Lays Seven Eggs in Four Days.

Luverne, Minn.—C. H. Mareaux of this city is the owner of a hen that is unusually ambitious. Not satisfied with laying steadily, she occasionally produces two eggs a day. Recently she laid two eggs a day for three consecutive days, laying seven eggs in four days. The eggs are normal in size and well formed.

Pair Separated Eleven Times.

Fresno, Cal.—After his wife had deserted him 11 times in four months, Clifton W. Clinger obtained a divorce. Clinger took his wife back after the first separation, before deciding on divorce. He obtained custody of their three children.

Come to Bond's For Your Summer Clothes

Selling clothes and making a garden are a great deal alike. Give two men the same size plot of ground and the same things to work with.

One man will raise a very creditable crop—but his expense in so doing may be 100% higher than necessary.

The other man, by intensive cultivation, can make just as creditable a showing—but without that unnecessary expense.

MANY PROMINENT MEN COME OUT FOR TANLAC

MAYORS, JUDGES, HIGH OFFICIALS, BANKERS, LAWYERS, DOCTORS AND EDITORS INDORSE IT.

FEEL IT THEIR DUTY TO TALK

They Come Forward, and Unhesitatingly Tell Suffering Humanity What Celebrated Medicine Has Done for Them.

IT is seldom, indeed, that men of prominence, especially men holding high public office, willingly express their indebtedness publicly to a proprietary medicine. Many prominent men, however, including supreme court judges, mayors of our leading cities, prominent state and county officials, bankers, lawyers, doctors, editors, leading educators, government officials and even ministers of the Gospel have deemed it their duty to come forward and tell the people what Tanlac has done for them.

These well-known men of affairs have recognized in this medicine a new discovery and a scientific triumph in the medical world. It is a well-known fact that these splendid endorsements have been given Tanlac time and time again and they will continue to be given just as often as new tests of its powers are made; and it also explains why numbers of the big drug firms of the country are ordering it exclusively in carload lots.

Doctor Prescribes It.

Dr. J. T. Edwards, of Fayetteville, Ga., one of the best-known members of the medical profession in the state of Georgia, makes a statement that will undoubtedly produce a profound impression throughout the South.

"In my thirty years of actual practice as a licensed physician in the state of Georgia," says Dr. Edwards, "I have never seen anything to equal Tanlac as a medicine to produce results. I have no hesitancy in recommending this medicine and I am prescribing it for my patients almost every day."

Professor C. T. Clotfelter, prominent educator and principal of the High School at Ben Hill, Ga., says: "I was in such bad physical condition that I feared I would have to give up my duties. I suffered from rheumatism, sluggish liver, nausea and terrible bilious headaches. I have taken 3 bottles of Tanlac and I feel better than I have felt in years."

Noted Texan Talks.

Hon. Archie R. Anderson, ex-sheriff of Harris County, Texas, is unquestionably not only one of the best-known, but one of the most popular men that ever held office in Texas. He served the people in this important office for 15 consecutive years.

"I had the worst form of indigestion, suffered all the time from gas on my stomach and was continually belching up undigested food," said Mr. Anderson. "I suffered with neuralgic pains of the worst sort and nothing seemed to help me except in a temporary way."

"I began to feel better after taking my first bottle of Tanlac and have just now started on my third. I'm a different man already."

H. W. Hill, president of one of the leading banking institutions of South Pittsburg, Tenn., and one of the most successful bankers and business men in Tennessee, said:

"I suffered from rheumatism and other ailments for many years and

FORMER MAYOR FRANK V. EVANS, OF BIRMINGHAM, ALA., MAKES STRONG STATEMENT.

ONE of the latest additions to the large and rapidly growing list of prominent men who have publicly endorsed Tanlac for the good it has done them, is the name of Hon. Frank V. Evans, former Mayor of Birmingham, Mr. Evans is one of the best known men in public life in Alabama today, being at one time editor of one of the South's greatest newspapers, the Birmingham Age-Herald. He was also examiner of public accounts of Alabama. In telling of the benefits he had derived from Tanlac, Mr. Evans said:

"For years I suffered with gastritis and indigestion in the worst form. I was habitually constipated and had pains in my shoulders and headache continually. My appetite left me almost entirely and everything I would eat hurt me. Finally I got to having awful attacks of acute indigestion, palpitation of the heart and smothering spells. For a long time I would have one or more of these spells every night and I would wake out of my restless sleep gasping for breath."

"I bought a bottle of Tanlac and to my surprise and gratification I began to feel relief after the first few doses. I kept taking the medicine and now my recovery is simply the talk of Birmingham."

"Tanlac has done me more good than anything I ever tried. I now wake up in the morning feeling fine."

"I'm telling all my friends about Tanlac and am recommending it to them, regardless of their age and trouble."

Dr. G. W. De LaPerriere, of Winder, Ga., is not only one of the best known physicians and druggists in the State of Georgia, but is also a man of extensive property and wide influence, ranking as one of the leading citizens of that entire section. He has been in the drug business in Winder for 25 years.

Recently Dr. De LaPerriere wrote: "Our people are much enthused over the beneficial effects of Tanlac and I desire to say that it is the most wonderful seller I ever had in this store."

Other prominent men who have endorsed Tanlac are:

Professor Elmer Morris, of Dover, Tenn.; Professor W. A. Wood, of Central Graded Schools, Winder, Ga.; C. C. Cooper, president of the Georgia Home Cotton Oil Co., Lawrenceville, Ga.; Hon. S. S. Shepard, member of the Atlanta city council; Colonel John B. Gaines, of Bowling Green, Ky., editor, political writer and well-known leader in his state; Hon. George Samuel Riley, Chief of Police in Macon, Ga.; Hon. C. G. Lavender, register of Williamson County, Tennessee; Dr. W. H. Brown, 4822 Charlotte Ave., Nashville, Tenn., founder and president of the Tennessee Protestant Home for Girls; John F. Carroll, cotton mill superintendent, of Chattanooga and Atlanta and N. M. Yancy, manager of contract department, Atlanta Telephone and Telegraph Co.

Fourth of July

By HEZEKIAH BUTTERWORTH

TODAY the birthright of her hopes the marching nation sings, And o'er the arms of laughing forts the banner lifts her wings: Today in honor of the flag the myriad labors cease,

And breathe the silver bugles low the mellowed notes of peace, Ho, bugles, ho! Ho, glimmering bands! Ho, veterans old and true!

Ho, children marching for the States, 'mid roses wined with dew! Behind ye thrice a hundred years, before, a thousand grand, What says the Past to you today, O children of the land?

What are thy legends, O thou flag, that gladdenest land and sea? What is thy meaning in the air amid the jubilee?

Flag of the sun that glows for all, Flag of the breeze that blows for all, Flag of the sea that flows for all— The silver bugles blow and blow across the silver sea,

What is thy meaning in the air? O banner, answer me!

No azure pavon old art thou, borne on the palmer's spear; No oriflamme of Red Cross Knight, or couffured cavalier;

No gold pomegranates of the sun burn on thy silken cloud; Nor shamrock green, nor thistle red, nor couchant lion proud;

No golden bees of purple isles on red taftles wrought, Nor eagle poised in the sky above the ocelot.

No gaping dragons haunt thy folds as in the white sun's spray; When westerling Vikings turned their bows from moonless Norway;

No double crowns beneath the cross are in thy hues unfurled, Such as the Prophet Pilot led toward the sunset world;

No Golden Virgin, circlet-crowned, such as with knightly pride Old Balboa threw upon the air o'er the Pacific tide.

Not e'en St. George's Cross is there that led the Mayflower on, Nor old St. Andrew's Cross of faith—the Double Cross is gone.

The silver bugles blow and blow across the silver sea, What is thy meaning, O thou flag! this day of jubilee?

O children of the States! ye flag more happy lusters deck Than oriflamme of old Navarre, or Cressey, or Rosebeq.

The Covenanters' field of blue, caught from the clear sky, see, And Lyra's burning stars of peace and endless unity.

The morning beams across it stream in roses red and white, As though 'twere outward rolled from heaven by angels of the light.

All hail to thee, celestial flag, on this prophetic morn, That minglest with the light of heaven—hall, flag of heaven born!

The silver bugles blow and blow across the silver sea, And speakest thou to every soul this day of jubilee!

Flag of the battlefields with pride beneath thy folds I stand, While gyvesless Freedom lifts to thee her choral trumpets grand.

Thou stand'st for Monmouth's march of fire, for Trenton's lines of flame, For ripping Butaw's field of blood, for Yorktown's endless fame;

For Cape de Gatt, and fierce Algiers, and Perry's blood-red deck, For Vera Cruz, and Monterey, and white Chapultepec;

Thou stand'st for Sumter's broken wall, as high above Tybee The shouting forts uplift again the Stars of Unity;

For Chattanooga's rain of fire and that grand echeion The deep drums led at Gettysburg beneath the smoky sun;

Thou stand'st for Progress and the years all golden-orded to be, For earth's new Rome upon the land, and Greece upon the sea.

Thou stand'st that all the rights of men may every people bless, And God's own kingdom walk the world in peace and righteousness!

O my American! whose flag we throned, O my America! whose folds 'tis life to live and noblest death to die, I hear the silver bugles blow across the silver sea,

And bless my God my palace stands a cottage home in thee—

So speak the voices of the Past, ye children of the land, Behind us thrice a hundred years, before a thousand grand.

Such are the legends of you flag that gladdenest land and sea, Such is the Hand that scrolls the air this day of jubilee.

Flag of the sun that shines for all, Flag of the breeze that blows for all, Flag of the sea that flows for all, Hail! flag of Liberty! all hail!

The Festival Day has come!

Thought for Nation's Birthday. That there are many of our people who hold their blessings cheap, or at least take them as a matter of course, cannot be doubted. It is well, therefore, that we should all be reminded that they were won at great cost, and have been preserved by men and women who counted no sacrifice too painful if it were made in the cause of liberty.

The comforts and luxuries that we enjoy, the peace and security that we are so proud we owe to those who were willing to suffer and die in order to win them for their posterity.

Worthily Celebrate Independence. If you will be your best you will help others to be theirs. The sum of the individuals is the nation. Let us make July Four a glorious holiday.

Urges All Citizens to Peruse the Great Declaration of Independence

EVERY citizen of the United States should read the Declaration of Independence once every year. It is a thoroughly American document, and the principles it embodies cannot be too firmly impressed upon our minds.

Thomas Jefferson wrote the Declaration of Independence, and he alone is its literal author, but there were a number of men who expressed the sentiments, almost in the words he uses,

George Mason was from early life a friend of George Washington, and their intimacy, both as fellow workers and as congenial neighbors, remained unbroken until Mason's death in 1792. He also knew Jefferson well and was old enough to give him the benefit of his before they appeared in his great document, and Jefferson never laid claim to originality in the ideas expressed. There were several men who, years before, had expressed themselves publicly as to American independence. They were all good men, many of masterful intellect and men without fear, but the mass of manuscripts this library owns which came from the hand of George Mason make it plain that no man could be called the father of the Declaration of Independence more justly than he.

As early as 1763 a prolonged and serious correspondence—kept up for many years—was going on between George Washington and George Mason, the one in his official position as member of the house of burgesses, the other the unseen but no less potential ally of his friend and of his country.

broader knowledge and fuller experience in the early days of their friendship. Born in 1725, he was seven years older than his neighbor at Mount Vernon, and he was eighteen years the senior of the brilliant young Jefferson, and both of these men looked upon the sage of Gunston Hall as a statesman of the first order, a man of clear vision and of absolute disinterestedness in his desire for the best for his country.

SLEEPER APPOINTS TWO COMMISSIONS

BOARDS TO INVESTIGATE RAILROAD RATES AND BUDGET REFORM, NAMED.

AUTHORIZED BY LEGISLATURE

Action on Proposed Laws Deferred at Last Session, So More Real Facts Could Be Gathered.

Lansing.

Governor Sleeper has appointed the special commission authorized by the legislature to investigate the budget systems of the various states and to recommend to the next legislature a suitable budget law for Michigan.

The members are: Dana H. Hinkley, Potoski; O. C. Tompkins, Lansing; George Lord, Detroit; Joseph W. O'Brien, Grand Haven, and Charles D. Thompson, of Bad Axe, who was designated special investigator.

R. R. Rate Committee Also Named.

George M. Clark, of Bad Axe; Thomas D. Kearney, of Ann Arbor, and Robert G. Graham, of Grand Rapids, constitute the special committee appointed by the governor to investigate the railroad rate question.

During the last session of the legislature a bill passed the senate increasing passenger rates from two cents to two and one-half cents per mile. This was killed in the house and a compromise measure was adopted authorizing the governor to name a special committee thoroughly to investigate the situation and report at the next session.

Kearney has been a member of the state tax commission for three years, but has tendered his resignation in order to serve on the railroad committee. He is a Democrat.

Great interest was displayed in the railroad commission. This commission, the governor himself has intimated right along, has given him a lot of trouble. He took one tax commissioner, one member of the state board of agriculture and a personal friend and lawyer.

Huge Task to House New Army.

To house the men, animals and vehicles at the Battle Creek camp will require 1,100 buildings.

The immensity of the task of housing each of the 16 armies to be placed in the cantonment camps is indicated by the statement of an army officer that a division of troops, such as will be quartered at Battle Creek, forms a line 20 miles long when in marching order, with all its regular paraphernalia.

A division consists of 35,992 officers and men, made up of 10 regiments of infantry, three regiments of field artillery, one regiment of engineers, two battalions of signal corps, one aero squadron, four ambulance companies and six truck companies.

With a regular division go 8,848 horses and 4,875 mules, 1,069 wagons, of which 360 are to carry rations, 50 3-inch field guns, 25 3.8-inch howitzers, 92 machine guns, 32,000 rifles, 12 motor cars, 67 motor trucks, 64 motorcycles, 12 aeroplanes, 48 ambulances, 328 other vehicles.

A new form of supply train, using motor trucks largely in place of horse and mule-drawn wagons, may be assigned to Battle Creek, if the supply of motor vehicles can be secured in time. In place of the above quota, this new form of division would require only 6,713 horses and 2,687 mules. The number of motor cars, however, would be increased to 35, the number of motor trucks to 627 and the number of motorcycles to 106. The artillery, aeroplane and ambulance equipment is the same in both forms of organization.

Sleeper Appoints Staff.

Governor Sleeper appointed his personal military staff to serve without compensation during the war. Commissions as colonels were issued to George M. Clark, Bad Axe; Burt D. Cady, Port Huron; Gurd M. Hayes, Lansing; Albert E. Petermann, Calumet, and Roger M. Andrews, Menominee. None of the members of the governor's staff will wear uniforms. They will perform such work as the governor may direct.

Old Logging Case Comes Up.

The Detroit & Mackinac railroad logging rates, over which lumber companies have fought in state and United States supreme courts for years, was so old when it came up here that three jurists, Justices Bird, Kuhn and Fellows, were disqualified from its consideration, as they had handled the litigation in its various stages while serving as attorney-general.

Prices Paid for Milk.

Prices paid for milk in Michigan during June are reported by James N. McBride, state director of markets, as follows: Grand Lodge—3.5 per cent milk, delivered at factory, $2.12 per hundredweight; $2 net to producer at his farm. Coldwater—Western Reserve Milk company, $2.20 per hundredweight, delivered. Morenci and Seneca—Ohio Dairy company, $2.20 per hundredweight. Uby—Page Milk company, $2.

The Same Trespass.

A farmer, going over his land, caught an Irishman with his dog trespassing in a field, and threatened him with prosecution.

Returning, however, through the same field an hour later he was surprised to meet the Irishman in another part of it, and exclaimed angrily: "What! Trespassing again?" "No, no," answered Pat. "It's still the same trespass. Fair play, sorr!"

There are a lot of funny things in this world—including patent smoke consumers.

Save the Babies

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent., or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save many of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. There can be no danger in the use of Castoria if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

Fulton was a Great Man. The class in history was studying the life of Robert Fulton. In connection with it they, of course, brought in the topic of the steamboat, which you know, made Fulton famous. "What are many of the great uses of the steamboat?" asked the teacher. "What things might not have happened if the steamboat had not been invented?" she hinted. "Well," answered little Johnny, who had been called on, "well, um-m-a, Columbus might not have discovered America."

Raise High Priced Wheat on Fertile Canadian Soil

Canada extends to you a hearty invitation to settle on her FREE Homestead lands of 160 acres each or secure some of the low priced lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. This year wheat is higher but Canadian land just as cheap, so the opportunity is more attractive than ever. Canada wants you to help feed the world by tilling some of her fertile soil—land similar to that which during many years has averaged 20 to 45 bushels of wheat to the acre. Think of the money you can make with wheat around $2 a bushel and land so easy to get. Wonderful yields also of Oats, Barley and Flax. Mixed farming in Western Canada is as profitable an industry as grain growing.

The Government this year is asking farmers to put increased acreage into grain. There is a great demand for farm labor to replace the many young men who have volunteered for service. The climate is beautiful and agreeable, railway facilities excellent, good schools and churches convenient. Write for literature as to reduced railway rates to Dept. of Immigration, Ottawa, Can., or to

Economy Is Cost Divided By Time

The reason why the Studebaker Four is the most economical four is because of the extra quality, the extra safety, the extra power, the extra low upkeep.
Extra safety means the extra feature of strength which takes the strain of the shock which wrecks the small cheap car.
Extra power means smooth, vibrationless operation, not the jarring, jerking, racking strains of over exerted power.
Extra low upkeep is the sum of the advantages mentioned above, and it is the sum of economy, and that is why Studebaker believes it is better to put a little more money and a great deal more quality in manufacturing a car like the Series 18 at $985, and at the same time give you a seven passenger body, genuine leather upholstery and the same quality of fittings and equipment that you find in cars costing more than twice as much as the Studebaker Four.
We repeat that the Studebaker Series 18 is the most economical four in the world.
Come in and ask for demonstration.

FINE NEW CLUB HOUSE AT CAMP BIRKETT

Will Provide Summer Home for Fifty Y. M. C. A. Camp Boys.

A new camp building has been donated to the Y. M. C. A. camp at Big Silver lake, about ten miles northeast of Chelsea. The building and equipment will cost $15,000 and upwards and is the gift of Mrs. H. Wirt Newkirk of Ann Arbor, daughter of the late Thomas Birkett of Dexter who donated the camp site five years ago.

The new building will provide a dining room, kitchen and sleeping porches to accommodate at least 50 boys and will be ready for use this summer when the camp opens on July 30th.

The clubhouse will provide just what is needed to make this camp permanent. The dining room can also be used as a social room and the kitchen will be built on a cement foundation with a suitable storing cellar. The sleeping porches will be used only in cold and rainy weather, tents being already provided for sleeping quarters when the weather is good.

The camp at Big Silver is undoubtedly one of the most ideal sites in Southern Michigan. The building and tents are located on a high ridge about 20 feet above the lake level, furnishing excellent drainage and assuring comfort and sanitary conditions. There is a broad beach in front of the camp and the lake is shallow at that point, making swimming and boating a safe recreation.

Any boy in the county of good character between the ages of 12 and 16, inclusive, may attend the camp. An adult leader is provided for every seven or eight boys. He sleeps in the tent with the boys and is responsible for their welfare. Boys are not allowed to enter the water or go out in a boat excepting in the presence of and with permission of a leader. No firearms are allowed in camp.

SALINE MERCHANT DEAD.

While out in the yard of his home at Saline, Sunday afternoon, Frederick Henne, 58 years old, and a prominent merchant of Saline, was stricken with apoplexy and died within a few minutes after being found unconscious by members of his family.

Mr. Henne had conducted a hardware store in Saline for nearly 25 years, and was a highly respected man.

He had not been in ill health, and a short time before his sudden death was in his usual good spirits.

A widow and son, Edward F. Henne, besides a brother, Jacob Henne, and two sisters, residing on West Liberty street, Ann Arbor, survive. He was born in Ann Arbor.

Are You One of Them?

There are a great many people who would be very much benefited by taking Chamberlain's Tablets for a weak or disordered stomach. Are you one of them? Mrs. M. R. Searl, Baldwinville, N. Y., relates her experience in the use of these tablets: "I had a bad spell with my stomach about six months ago, and was troubled for two or three weeks with gas and severe pains in the pit of my stomach. Our druggist advised me to take Chamberlain's Tablets. I took a bottle and the first dose relieved me wonderfully, and I kept on taking them until I was cured." These tablets do not relieve pain, but after the pain has been relieved may prevent its recurrence.—Adv.

GREGORY..

(Crowded out of last issue.)
Fred Ayrault attended the graduating exercises at Ionia, Thursday evening of last week, returning home Friday.

Wallace Woodlock left last Wednesday for Pentwater, Mich., where he will stay with his grandmother this summer.

Rev. L. S. Brooke and L. E. Howlett were in Gregory, Tuesday of last week, in the interest of the Red Cross work.

Mrs. Caroline Farnham came from Petoskey last Wednesday, and will make an extended visit with her daughter, Mrs. C. F. Williams.

Mrs. Kittie Bullis and daughter, Dorothy, went to Jackson Friday night to meet Allen Bullis, who has been visiting in Chicago. They returned Saturday.

Dr. L. A. Woodlock left Saturday morning for Jackson, from whence he is to go to Fort Harrison, Indiana, for training as an army physician and surgeon.

Myna Marlatt is home from Ionia for the summer vacation, after graduating from the College Preparatory course in a class of 27. There were also 24 graduates from the same school in the Normal course.

A Red Cross meeting was held at the bank, Wednesday night of last week, when Fred Ayrault was elected chairman, and Fred Howlett secretary and treasurer of the Unadilla township men's unit. On Friday night a public meeting for all was held at the hall where a large crowd greeted the three speakers from Howell. Subscriptions for the Red Cross work was taken amounting to $552.00. The solicitors are having good success.

Tuesday, June 19th, was Mrs. A. G. Wilson's natal day. She had given the anniversary no thought, but it seems her friends had, for at three o'clock carriages and autos began to arrive loaded with ladies, baskets and bundles. Soon Mrs. Wilson realized that her birthday was the cause of this gathering. Friends to the number of 70 came from Lansing, Howell, Stockbridge, Pinckney, Gregory, Plainfield and the surrounding country. After a social hour supper was served, and the guests departed leaving Mrs. Wilson as a reminder of this pleasant occasion, a rug, beautiful flowers and heartfelt wishes for many other happy birthdays.

Wednesday afternoon, June 20th, Mrs. H. E. Marshall entertained the Ladies' Literary and Civic Club. Promptly at the appointed time the business session was called to order by the vice president, Miss Frankie Placeway, and regular business conducted as usual. At the close a very interesting program was rendered. A vocal duet by Mrs. Melvin Conk and Mrs. Orla Gallup was enjoyed by all. The Red Cross quiz conducted by Mrs. L. A. Woodlock, the president, was full of interesting information. The 13th and 14th chapters of the serial written and read by Mrs. Melvin Conk was splendid. At the close of the program the hostess served dainty refreshments. She was assisted by her sister, Mrs. G. A. Reid of Stockbridge.

Why is it that with the throttle of my car one-third open the car will do about thirty miles per hour and after this point, no matter how far I open the throttle, there is no material increase in speed?

Your trouble may be with the control connections, which may open the throttle fully, when the throttle control lever is but one-third around the quadrant, or your carburetor adjustments may be at fault. Have some one manipulate the throttle lever on the steering wheel and watch the throttle lever on the carburetor for lost motion. If this fails readjust your mixture.

What Might Have Been

By F. A. MITCHEL

Jean Dufour and Edouard Boyer when the great European war broke out were intimate friends. One of their girl companions, Clochette Larrabee, had received a declaration of love from each, but neither man knew of the other's proposal, nor did Clochette tell them or make any difference in her treatment of them from what it had been. The truth is that both these declarations were made shortly before the young men marched away in the same regiment to meet the German invasion.

In the battle of the Marne Boyer was severely wounded and was sent home to recover. Clochette nursed him, but showed only the sympathy of a friend. She also revealed such solicitude for Dufour that Boyer knew she had given him her heart. He recovered from his wound and before he returned told her that he knew she loved his friend. Then she admitted that such was the case, but charged him not to communicate it to Jean.

"For," she said, "if Jean is killed and my marrying you will add to your comfort I will do so."

Edouard shook his head mournfully, but said nothing.

It did not occur to Clochette that she had given Boyer a reason to wish for his friend's death. Did such a wish thrust itself unbidden into Boyer's breast? Such a thought might come to any one under similar circumstances. Dufour was ten years older than Boyer. They had been playmates, and Dufour's superior age and strength caused him to look upon his friend as something to be protected, though Boyer seemed perfectly able and willing to take care of himself. This feeling of an older for a younger brother clung to Jean in the war, and if there was any exposure needed from one or the other Jean insisted upon bearing it. Not that Edouard assented to this, indeed, he did what he could to defend his friend thus from favoring him.

One day a comrade in passing from an advanced trench to one in the rear was felled by a bullet before he reached his goal. Jean and Edouard both started to bring him in. Jean ordered Edouard back. Edouard rebelled and so fiercely that his friend was surprised. Both went to the rescue, and for a wonder both returned unharmed with the wounded man, though they carried him through a storm of bullets.

Jean Dufour was puzzled as to the cause of his friend having become so harsh with him at his having desired to assume the risk of bringing in the wounded man. It was the first time Edouard had ever protested with irritation against being thus favored. But Edouard volunteered no explanation, and Jean asked for none. "Nevertheless from that time there was something unexplained between them, the first of its kind, for up to that time the relation between them had been that of older and younger brother.

One day the Germans made an onslaught upon a certain position defending Verdun. For awhile trench fighting was abandoned and the battle was in the open. The regiment to which the two friends belonged was much scattered, but Jean, ever solicitous for his friend, kept him in sight, and in time the two found themselves in what, before a destructive fire had robbed it of its trees, was a forest. Edouard had gone in advance of his comrades, and Jean went to bring him back. In this way both had been left on neutral ground. There was nothing for them to do but hide behind what was left of some tree that had been shot away above. Jean chose a log and Edouard a stump.

A small party of Germans came to occupy the ground. The officer commanding them was heard to say: "I saw a Frenchman duck near here. We must find him before we move on. Show no quarter."

Edouard arose and began to fire at the squad. Before Jean could realize the situation his friend fell, riddled with bullets. Then the Germans hurried away.

Jean Dufour remained where he was and when night fell went to the body of his friend, took it up and carried it into the French lines.

Jean was at a loss to understand why Edouard had not waited until the Germans found him. The more he thought of Edouard's act the more he was puzzled. At the same time the words of the German officer that there was one man to be found would come up in Jean's mind to suggest that Edouard had sacrificed himself for Jean night escape.

Some months after this Jean Dufour was so badly wounded as to incapacitate him for further service and was sent home.

He recounted to Clochette the circumstances attending Edouard's death. It was not until after Jean and Clochette were married that she revealed to her husband the remarkable sacrifice his friend had made for him and her. Not until then did Jean know that had Edouard returned instead of Jean he would have possessed Clochette.

There is nothing more sacred with Jean and Clochette Dufour than the memory of Edouard Boyer. Jean had marked the place where Edouard's body was buried, and together the husband and wife made a pilgrimage to the spot and removed the body to a place near their home where they could keep the grass green.

Around the House

Handkerchiefs should be ironed when very damp and dried under the iron. This will give a little stiffness, and they will keep clean considerably longer.
Plaster of paris ornaments should be cleaned by covering them with a thick layer of starch, letting it dry thoroughly and then brushing with a stiff brush.
Ink stains on brown leather can be removed by a weak solution of oxalic acid. Apply with a small paint brush, but only allow a few minutes to elapse before wiping the solution away. Two or three applications may be necessary to remove an old deep seated stain.
A good way to remove iron mold is to sprinkle the stain with lemon juice and then expose it to the sun and air. This process may need to be repeated several times, but it will eventually bring the iron mold out.
Either orange or lemon extract can be made by paring the rinds off as thin as paper and putting them in a bottle of grain alcohol.
To tell if a pineapple is ripe pull the leaves from it, and if they do not pluck readily the pineapple is not ready to be used.

FRUIT JUICES FOR JELLY

May Be Sterilized, Bottled Without Sugar and Later Made Into Jellies.

Fruit juices for use later in jelly making can be sterilized and bottled without sugar and made into jellies at the housewife's convenience. This enables her to do with fewer jelly glasses and to distribute her purchases of sugar for jelly making through the year. Moreover, with the bottled juice she can make a greater variety of jellies, as juices which will not jell can be put up when the fruit is ripe and combined later with fruits that will jell, or fruits ripening at different seasons can be combined. For example, the juice of strawberries, cherries, or pineapple can be kept without sugar and later when apples are plentiful can be made into combination jelly.

To put up unsugared fruit juices for jelly making proceed exactly as if jelly were to be made at the time. Cook the fruits until they are soft and strain out the juice through a flannel bag. Heat and pour while hot into bottles previously scalded. Fill the bottles full, leaving no air space between juice and cork or seal. Place the filled sealed bottles on their sides in water near the boiling point, and keep them in the bath for about 30 minutes. Make sure that the corked or sealed end is under the hot water. As soon as the bottles are cool cover the cork with a paraffin seal. Thorough sterilization and sealing are absolutely essential to success.

To make jelly from the sterilized juice, test its jelling quality, add the proper amount of sugar, and proceed as in making jelly from freshly expressed juice.

The total appraisal of the properties was $1,620,035.80, but same was on the basis of a going concern, whereas, it was not possible for the Receiver to interest any purchasers on a going concern basis, except one department, covering which more than the appraisal price was realized.

The total realization from all sources has been $699,001.99.

A PALATABLE DOSE

By RICHARD MARKLEY

When I started to practice medicine there was one admonition laid down by the gentleman who delivered the final address to our class when we were graduated that had greatly impressed me. It was this:

"Remember that mind has a great effect over matter. Therefore try to distract so far as possible from the terror your patients naturally have of you as practitioners. Above all things, preserve a cheerful exterior. The more hopeless a case appears to be, for by giving way to your anticipations you lessen the patient's chances for recovery, and you may be wrong in your prognosis. Do not force patients to take your remedies if it can possibly be avoided. Rather persuade them or baiter them. Remedies taken against a patient's will are apt not to act as remedies. Better a prescription of something to divert the attention from the disease than fix it on that disease by unwelcome doses."

It seemed to me that there was a lot of common sense in this advice, and I cut it out of the printed address and pasted it within my writing desk in order that whenever I opened the desk I saw the injunction staring me in the face, so that it was impossible for me to forget it. I truly believe I would have built up a large practice by observing it had not that very observation of it on one occasion led to my leaving the profession.

I had been practicing but a short time when, returning to my office one day, I found a note from a stranger stating that a member of his family needed treatment, but was much averse to receiving a visit from a physician or taking remedies. He suggested that I call without the patient's knowing that I was a physician and study the case without asking for symptoms.

This, owing to the rule I had laid down, was very easy for me. I went to the house, rang the bell and was admitted to the drawing room, where I was received by a very thin woman who did not appear to know my errand, so I told her of the note that had been left at my office. She seemed to be slow in understanding me—at any rate, for some reason, did not respond very freely, making vague remarks such as "Just so," "A doctor?" "I'll see," indicating that she had not been admitted to the confidence of the person who had asked me to call.

The lady went out of the room and, presently returning, asked me to walk upstairs. I did so and was ushered into a boudoir where sat a girl who but for a slight paleness did not appear in bad health. She was not even in dishabille; but, the older woman having left me with her, it was evident that she was the patient. I went in armed with my cheeriest smile, took the girl's hand as a matter of civility, thereby getting her pulse—it beat a trifle more quickly than normal—sat by her, said something to make her laugh and saw that her tongue was slightly coated. In this fashion I rattled on, telling her stories and interesting her until I had secured her confidence and a predisposition in my favor. Then I said abruptly:

"But you're not looking very well today."

Then she told me that her back was troubling her and she slept badly and mentioned symptoms that indicated to me a condition very common and for which there were a number of simple remedies. When I went away I told her that I would send her a box of candied fruit, a few of which I thought she would like every day. Then I left her to have some medicine I intended for her divided among half a dozen real candied fruits and sent them to her with my compliments.

I called again soon and asked the lady who had received me how she had managed to impose upon the young lady that I was not a doctor; that it was important that I should know what story she had told in order that what I should say would tally with it. She told me not to worry about that—she had given a good reason for my call. I asked her if I was to see the person who had left word at my office for me to treat the young lady, and she said he was away and would be away for several weeks.

By the time he returned I had made love to my patient and she had responded favorably. Indeed, she sent me to him—a mere form, she said—being her uncle, to ask for her hand. I did so, announcing myself as the physician he had asked to treat a member of his family.

"Well," he asked, "did you pull the wool over the old girl's eyes?"

I didn't understand what he meant by the "old" girl, but I replied that I had succeeded admirably. I went on, but when I said something about the young lady he interrupted me.

"Young lady be hanged! She's fifty-five."

It came out that the elderly woman was my intended patient. I had given myself away to her at my entrance, and she had taken me to see the young lady, asking her to act in her stead. The girl from pure mischief consented to do so, but there were two of us hoist by our own petard. The two older ones were brother and sister; the girl was their niece, an orphan and possessing a fortune.

I married her, and she preferred that I devote myself to taking care of her property rather than sending patients candied fruits.

NAMES IN JAPAN.
The Only Lasting Title a Man Gets Comes When He Dies.
The Japanese have many quaint customs handed down from generation to generation. One of the strangest is that of their naming ceremony. When one month old a Japanese child gets its first name with ceremonial. Trumpets are blown, and the child is borne in great state to the family temple, and behind the procession march the household servants carrying the infant's wardrobe. The servant in the rear of the procession bears a huge box, in which is the priest's fee, together with three slips of paper, on which three names are written. On reaching the temple the names are thrown into the air, and the first that touches the ground is the one which the child receives.
When three years old the child is again named, accompanied by elaborate religious rites. At the age of fifteen his education is supposed to be finished, and as he then enters manhood (according to Japanese law) he is again named.
When he takes to business he receives his "business" name, by which he is known in the commercial world, and upon every upward step in life he receives a new name. If his master happens to have the same name he must at once change it, as it detracts from his superior's dignity. At his marriage his name is altered again, and his last and only permanent one is that given him after death, which is written on his tomb.—London Answers.

Our Merchandise is More of a Bargain Every Day

Cost of staple merchandise is rising very rapidly and there seems to be no reasonable doubt but that the scarcity of goods will become serious as time goes on.

This Clearance Sale offers you a large stock of staple merchandise at very reasonable prices—at prices below today's market price. In many instances there is no cutting in price for the reason that our price is now far below the market price and so is a bargain offering as it is.

Frankly we could not afford to reduce many of our lines of staple merchandise because we could not again replace them at the price for which we are selling them.

Our future orders of merchandise for fall, much of which is now coming in, is higher in price than the same merchandise now on our shelves—and we are well protected in future purchases at that.

Every price offered in our store is lower than it should be. We cannot maintain these prices long because our stock of spring goods cannot last long.

THOSE AWFUL CRAMPS

Suggestions that may save Much Suffering

Marysville, Pa.—"For twelve years I suffered with terrible cramps. I would have to stay in bed several days every month. I tried all kinds of remedies and was treated by doctors, but my trouble continued until one day I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for others. I tried it and now I am never troubled with cramps and feel like a different woman. I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound too highly and I am recommending it to my friends who suffer as I did."

—Mrs. GEORGE R. NATLOR, Box 72, Marysville, Pa.
Young women who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, headache, dragging-down sensations, fainting spells or indigestion should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Thousands have been restored to health by this root and herb remedy.

She Understood.

Certain members of the house party were describing the accidents that had happened to them during their respective careers. Adventures by flood, fire and field had all been well received, and Mr. Brown, eager for fame, thought it was his turn.

"D'you know," he said, "I had a very painful experience once. I ran a confounded splinter quite half an inch long right under my finger-nail, don't you know?"

"Really, Mr. Brown," said a maiden of the party; "how did you do it?"

"Well," he said, "it happened like this."

As he spoke he unconsciously raised his hand and scratched his forehead.

"Oh, I see," she interrupted, sweetly; "how very careless of you!"

Psychology and the War.

Prof. G. Stanley Hall of the Clark university, United States, places the subject of applied psychology on a high plane in relation to the war. He states:

"Whatever system has been employed, it is evident that applied psychology has produced results in this war which it was never possible to attain before. Men have endured more, they have shown more heroism and daring and have submitted to more punishment than in any previous war. No such slaughter would have been possible in former wars without provoking a panic. This has unquestionably been due to the system of psychological selection, not only for the various grades of service but for special activities within each grade. Our country may as well think of going to war without first-class military equipment as without a knowledge of applied psychology. The council of national defense seems to have recognized this; and the National Research council within that body will, I understand, contain representative psychologists."

Ruins.

"Have you ever visited the ruins of Pompeii?"

"Yes," replied the globe trotter. "But after seeing a few churches shot up in this war, Pompeii doesn't impress me as ranking high as a ruined city."

"I s'pose it's different in Europe. They say over there the pawnshop windows are full of old scepters."

RAILROADS APPEAL FOR RAISE DENIED

COMMERCE COMMISSION SAYS GENERAL INCREASE IS NOT NECESSARY.

15 PER CENT ADVANCE ASKED

Eastern District Allowed to Raise Rates on Certain Commodities Approximately 14 1/2%

Washington.—The inter-state commerce commission has denied the appeal of the railroads of the United States for a horizontal increase of 15 per cent in freight rates.

In its decision the commission indicated its willingness to increase class rates in the eastern district approximately 14 per cent.

Since about one-fourth of the freight handled is moved under class rates, the decision virtually allows the eastern lines about four per cent increase in gross freight revenue. Increase sought in rates on coal, coke and iron ore will be granted.

The commission found, as result of extended hearings, the carriers generally show a substantial and increasing financial prosperity, and they have ample resources with which to conduct transportation.

Little sympathy was given the arguments of the roads they were victims of war prices, the commission holding the carriers have profited by the mobilization of troops.

The commission found in general that the effects of the Adamson 8-hour basic day and of the increased cost of fuel supplies and materials had not affected the southern and western carriers as greatly as it affected the eastern carriers.

200 FAIL AT FORT SHERIDAN

Sixty Michigan Men Among Those Who Are Rejected.

Fort Sheridan, Ill.—Two hundred students at the officers' training camps here were notified of their failure to qualify for commissions in the army.

Most of the faults of the men are trivial—underweight or overweight, defective hearing, color blindness or near-sightedness. But in the demand for physical perfection they failed in the eyes of Major C. W. Bell, Captain Owen Meredith and Lieutenant Robert Proxmire, the examining board.

Some of the men may be retained in other branches after the list sent to General Barry for approval is returned to Colonel Nicholson. That is, if they wish it. The list has not been made public, but is said to contain about 60 Michigan men.

GREECE BREAKS WITH GERMANY

New Ruler and Cabinet Declare That State of War Exists.

London.—Greece's active participation in the war on the side of the Allies is imminent. Dispatches from Athens detailed declaration of a state of war by the new King Alexander and his cabinet, Elioutheros Venizelos.

Prior to this step against the Teutons, all arrangements had been made for recall of Greek diplomats from Germany, Austria, Bulgaria and Turkey.

Active expression of sympathy, which the people of Greece have always felt for the Allies, was a foregone conclusion the moment the former pro-German King Constantine stepped down from his throne.

Boston.—The torpedoing and sinking of four large British cargo carrying steamers was announced in advices to local insurance offices.

The steamers were the Ultonia, of the Cunard line, 6,593 tons; Haverford of the American line, 7,493 tons; Buffalo, Wilson liner, 2,583 tons, and the Manistee, another Cunard vessel. No details of the losses were given and no mention was made of the fate of the crews.

DUTCH CRUISER IN U. S. PORT

First Time in 10 Years That Holland Warship Has Been Here.

An Atlantic Port—A Dutch armored cruiser, the first warship flying the flag of Holland to come into this port for more than 10 years, arrived here.

Officers of the ship declined to disclose their mission. It was reported the vessel is to act as a convoy for several Holland passenger and freight vessels ready to leave American ports.

Lansing.—The Pullman company notified Governor Sleeper that it has contributed $147,000 to the American Red Cross, $1,000 of which is for the Michigan company.

Muskegon.—Jackson Elks took most of the honors at the recent Elks' convention here. The lodge won $100 for ritualistic work, $50 for best parade uniforms, $50 for the best band and $100 for the band's work. In addition, a Jackson man was elected state president and Jackson was chosen for the convention.

AN ERRATIC SUMMER

AMERICAN TROOPS LANDED IN FRANCE

FIRST CONTINGENT OF BOYS IN KHAKI ARE READY FOR FIRING LINE.

RECORD MADE IN TRANSPORT

Considering Distance to Be Covered Achievement Will Stand in History As a Record.

GUARD UNITS TO BE RENAMED

To Simplify Records Will Bear Numbers Same As Regular Army.

German Submarines Now Have Arms to Free Them From Meshes of Trap Nets.

Providence, R. I.—Automatic steel arms which reach out from German submarines and push them away from the trap nets, save German U-boats.

This is "a statement from a British government official," published by the Providence Journal.

"The increasing gravity of the U-boat menace is admitted in inner circles of the British admiralty," says the statement.

Washington.—Designation of all regiments hereafter by number and service branch only, without distinction between units of the regulars, National Guard and National army, has been decided on by the war department to simplify official records.

Under the system the regular regiments will retain their present names from the "First Infantry," "First cavalry," etc., upward. The National Guard regiments will be renamed, their numbers beginning where those of the regulars end, and the new units to be organized under the selective draft will take their numbers onward from the last guard regiments.

For the purposes of local identification, but not in the official records, National Guard and National army regiments will be permitted to use in parenthesis after their names the state from which they come.

In the case of the National Guard, the former name of the regiment may be used in full in parenthesis, including both the name of the state and the former state number. Thus, a National army regiment could be called the "Two Hundred and Fifth Infantry (W. Va.)," while a National Guard regiment might use the designation "Sixty-sixth Infantry (First Indiana)."

No parenthesis would imply regulars.

HOUSE PASSES ROUGE PLAN

Appropriates $490,000 for Developing River to New Ford Plant.

Washington.—Congress has finally passed the bill appropriating $490,000 required to develop the River Rouge to the new Ford blast furnaces and tractor plant.

If the amendment is approved finally by the senate, it will open the Rouge to the largest lake freighters for four and one-half miles from the Detroit river, thus furnishing Detroit with an additional nine miles of river frontage available for industrial sites.

The original request of the war department called for a first appropriation of $200,000 and authorized the remaining cost of $290,000.

DRAFT REGULATIONS APPROVED

Physically Unfit, Family Heads and War Workers Are Exempt.

Washington.—Four classes of men are named as exempt from military service in the draft regulations which President Wilson has finally given approval.

These classes are: Men physically unfit. Men employed in essential positions in war industries.

Those with certain religious beliefs. Men with wives or other relatives wholly dependent on them for support.

The regulations cover 50 printed pages.

The rules provide that local exemption boards already named have power to exempt the physically unfit and members of certain religions.

The appellate board in each judicial district will have power to excuse men for occupational reasons and will hear the pleas of those with dependents.

Hillsdale—Tri-State Soldiers' and Sailors' encampment will be held at Montgomery August 20-25.

Jackson—John Hutchins, 25 years old, was suffocated from a cave-in of a ditch he was digging.

COST OF SOFT COAL CUT TO $3 AND $3.50

OPERATORS, IN CONFERENCE AT CAPITOL, AGREE TO REDUCE PRICE AT MINES.

WILL SAVE USERS $180,000,000

Commission of Jobbers, Retailers and Brokers Limited to Twenty-five Cents a Ton.

Washington.—A maximum price of $3.50 a ton for domestic bituminous coal and a maximum price of $3 a ton for all other soft coal, with a further cut of 50 cents a ton for the government, free on board-cars at the mines for all states east of the Mississippi river went into effect July 1.

All Pennsylvania bituminous coal, which sells for $4.75 to $6 at the mines, is reduced to $3 for mine run and $3.50 for lump and egg, domestic sizes.

West Virginia bituminous, selling for $4.50 to $6 at mines, goes down to $3 and $3.50.

Ohio bituminous, selling from $5 to $5.50, drops to $3 and $3.50.

Alabama bituminous, selling from $5.50 to $5.75, is reduced to $4, $3.50 and $3.

Maryland bituminous, selling from $5.75 to $6, is reduced to $3 and $3.50.

Virginia bituminous, selling from $4.50 to $5, is reduced to $3.50 and $3.

Kentucky bituminous, selling from $4 to $4.50, is reduced to $3 and $3.50.

Illinois and Indiana bituminous, selling from $3.50 to $4, is reduced to $2.75 and $3.50.

Cut of $5 From Last Winter.

These figures were reached at a conference of the coal operators with Secretary of the Interior Lane, J. Franklin Fort, of the federal trade commission, and Francis H. Peabody, chairman of the coal production committee of the council of national defense.

In round numbers this means a reduction of $5 a ton to the consumer from the famine prices paid last winter. Conservative estimates are that the public will pay from $5 to $8 a ton next winter.

In addition to placing prices upon coal at the mines, it was announced that jobbers, brokers, retailers and commission men would be permitted to charge commissions of not more than 25 cents a ton and that no more than one commission should be charged. In other words, the consumer should get his coal at the mine price plus transportation charges and 25 cents a ton.

Allowing this margin to the jobber, it was said, the prices that will be quoted eventually by the dealers to the small buyer for home consumption will be a question in which public sentiment will have a loud voice in deciding.

One of the leading operators said that the great cut in prices at the mines would result in an annual saving to the consumers of $180,000,000.

Only one more problem remains now as concerning the coal situation. It will be up to the government to supply the cars to haul its cheaper coal.

ENGINEERS HOLD WAR MEET

Standardization of Machinery Production, Chief Aim of Organization.

Washington.—The Society of Automotive Engineers, upon whose members will fall the task of standardizing America's war machinery production, from airplanes to motorcycles, have met here in war convention.

These 3,000 American engineers, hundreds from Detroit, welded into a national organization by America's war needs, have established a bureau of co-operation with the government war heads. They are working night and day on the task of co-ordinating and standardizing motor truck, motorcycle, military transport, aeroplane, coast defense, motor boat, tractor, tank and farm tractor production.

RED CROSS QUOTA EXCEEDED

Reports Indicate That Michigan Has Raised Over $4,000,000.

Detroit.—Fifteen Michigan counties, including Wayne, either had raised or exceeded their Red Cross subscription quotas, according to reports made public Thursday afternoon, apparently justifying the prediction that contributions from the rural sections would aggregate more than $1,500,000. This, added to Detroit's $2,500,000, will bring the total for the entire state above the $4,000,000 mark, $1,000,000 in excess of the allotment.

Calumet—H. C. Mather, 48 years old, Cincinnati, O., general manager and president of the Moore Oil Co., drowned in Lake Superior when his canoe was overturned by a wave. Abner Sherman, Calumet, was in the canoe but swam ashore.

Muskegon—C. Dixon, a colored bell boy, stole an automobile from a local garage to start in the taxicab business, but wrecked the machine on his first trip and was fined $25 and had to pawn a diamond ring to pay for repairs.

DIDN'T KNOW THERE WAS WAR

Resident of New York Was Astounded When He Learned United States Was Fighting Germany.

In this big town, where everybody is supposed to be hep to big events, a man was discovered who, for the first time, learned that this country is at war with Germany, says the New York Times. The man is a loyal Polish-American. He suspects that he is alive, knows that he is employed regularly, but beyond that he is not even curious.

A policeman saw the Pole sweeping off the steps of a hotel where he is employed as porter. The officer also noted the wide stretch of shoulders, considered the collapsible brow, estimated the porter's age, and asked him if he had a conscription card. "For what?" asked the porter. "For the army," explained the policeman. "But I got a nice job here," smiled the man, indicating the broom and the growing dust pile. "That's all right," said the guardian of the law, "but you have to register. All young men have to register until the war is over." "The war?" howled the Pole; "what war? Have we got a war yet? Spain?" "No; Germany." The porter looked amazed. "You want me to join?" he asked. "Sure, I join," and, deserting the work in hand and acting precisely like an enthusiastic volunteer, the man strolled down to make his mark on the necessary papers.

To Eat While Fishing.

The fisherman need not lose any time from his sport in order to eat, but may have his hands free for attending to his needs if he is equipped with the new fishing harness described in the Popular Science Monthly. This harness supports the fishing pole in the proper position for the line to make a catch, and the fisherman need not hold his arms in one position until they are cramped and aching while he is waiting for a fish to find his bait.

The device includes a body belt having a socket which receives the butt of the fishing pole. A second socket on the belt supports a bracket arm which extends part way out under the pole and in turn provides a support or rest for it. A body strap and chain attached to this brace, affords all the additional support necessary. Equipped with this device the fisherman may enjoy his fishing uninterrupted.

How Rabbits Multiply.

How fast two rabbits will develop into an army is an old story. A pair has six to eight little rabbits, sometimes as many as 22 every three months. These in turn are raising families in six months, so that it is a backward hutch that does not end the year with 60 rabbits. Of these, 40 can be sold, leaving nine families to start the second year instead of two as the year previous. The second year should show between 300 and 350 rabbits sold, a considerable crop from the original pair of young ones, which cost between 50 cents and $1.

More Than a Taste.

"So you've been having a taste of camp life?"

"A taste? Say, there were flies in the milk, ants in the sugar and gnats in the butter."

In Many Instances.

"Wonders never cease."

"But they soon fizzle out," commented the baseball manager, as he handed his latest phenom his passports back to the minors.

Not by Request.

"So you were chased two blocks by a footpad?"

"Yes, and escaped."

"I presume you would call that giving him a run for your money?"

"No. He gave me the run. It was unsolicited, I assure you."

What's the Use?

"Don't you feel sort of lost when your wife is away?"

"Yes, I do. But I don't worry about it. Helen is a pretty successful detective."

Is Your Work Hard?

Work which brings any unusual strain on the back and kidneys tends to cause kidney ailments, such as backache, lumbago, headache, dizziness and distressing urinary troubles. Kidney complaints make any kind of work doubly hard and if neglected there is danger of gravel, dropsy or Bright's disease. If your work is hard on the back, keep your kidneys in good condition with Doan's Kidney Pills. Thousands rely on them.

Nothing did me any good until I took Doan's Kidney Pills. They cleared up the kidney secretions, the pain left and I passed a gravel stone. When ever I have felt in need of a kidney medicine since, Doan's Kidney Pills have always proven beneficial."

BREAD AS ECONOMICAL FOOD

Would Be Used More Extensively If Home-Baked Variety Was Always Good, Say Government Experts.

If home-baked bread were uniformly well made, it would be used more extensively than at present in place of more expensive foods, say specialists in the United States department of agriculture, and this would be a distinct economy. From the standpoint of nutrition it makes very little difference whether breadstuffs are served in the form of bread or in the form of breakfast cereals, side dishes with meat, or desserts.

A man engaged in moderate muscular work can profitably consume about three-fourths of a pound a day of breadstuffs in any one of these forms. This quantity is the equivalent of one pound of baked bread. As a matter of fact, however, it is not probable that in the average family this quantity is consumed and the deficiency is made up by the use of more expensive substances. Of course bread alone is not sufficient for the maintenance of health, but from both an economical and a hygienic point of view should be used more extensively than it usually is, declare the experts.

Rubber Consumption Growing.

Consumption of rubber per capita is more than twice what it was 25 years ago. One company expects to manufacture uppers of shoes from rubber as well as soles. This company will operate its own merchant marine to bring crude rubber from Sumatra and carry manufactured articles to all parts of the world. The company now employs 28,021 men, and manufactures 218,000 pairs of rubber shoes a day. More than a million trees in Sumatra plantations are being tapped.

The Story of a Dog That Turned Wolf

By JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD

Copyright Bobbs-Merrill Co.

GRAY WOLF SUFFERS PERMANENT INJURY AND BECOMES DEPENDENT ON KAZAN FOR LIFE ITSELF
—THE BIG WOLF-DOG LOSES HIS HUMAN FRIENDS AND IS LONESOME

Kazan, a vicious Alaskan sledge dog, one-quarter wolf, saves the life of Thorpe, his master, and is taken along when the master goes to civilization to meet his bride and return with her to the frozen country. Isobel, Kazan's new mistress, wins his instant affection by her kindness. Back in the wilderness, McCready, a guide, beats Thorpe senseless and attacks the bride. Kazan kills the assailant, flees to the woods, joins a wolf pack, whips the leader, takes a young mate, Gray Wolf, and a few nights later dries off the pack which had attacked Pierre, a sick man, his daughter, Joan, and her baby. Then, held by Joan's kindness, Kazan stays with her when Pierre dies and helps her drag the sledge to a settler's cabin, saving the lives of mother and daughter. With Gray Wolf, he establishes a lair on Sun Rock, near Joan's home. Gray Wolf has pups. She is attacked by a lynx, which permanently injures her and kills the pups before Kazan kills the lynx.

Gray Wolf was no longer in the moonlight. Close to the two rocks lay the limp lifeless little bodies of the three pups. The lynx had torn them to pieces. With a whine of grief Kazan approached the two boulders and thrust his head between them. Gray Wolf was there, crying to herself in that terrible sobbing way. He went in, and began to lick her bleeding shoulders and head. All the rest of that night she whimpered with pain. With dawn she dragged herself out to the lifeless little bodies on the rock.

And then Kazan saw the terrible work of the lynx. For Gray Wolf was blind—not for a day or a night, but blind for all time. A gloom that no sun could break had become her shroud. And perhaps again it was that instinct of animal creation, which often is more wonderful than man's reason, that told Kazan what had happened. For he knew now that she was helpless—more helpless than the little creatures that had gambled in the moonlight a few hours before. He remained close beside her all that day.

Vainly that day did Joan call for Kazan. Her voice rose to the Sun Rock, and Gray Wolf's head snuggled closer to Kazan, and Kazan's ears drooped back, and he licked her wounds. Late in the afternoon Kazan left Gray Wolf long enough to run to the bottom of the trail and bring up the snow-shoe rabbit. Gray Wolf muzzled the fur and flesh, but would not eat. Still a little later Kazan urged her to follow him to the trail. He no longer wanted to stay at the top of the Sun Rock, and he no longer wanted Gray Wolf to stay there. Step by step he drew her down the winding path away from her dead puppies. She would move only when he was very near her—so near that she could touch his scarred flank with her nose.

They came at last to the point in the trail where they had to leap down a distance of three or four feet from the edge of a rock, and here Kazan saw how utterly helpless Gray Wolf had become. She whined, and crouched twenty times before she dared make the spring, and then she jumped stiff-legged, and fell in a heap at Kazan's feet. After this Kazan did not have to urge her so hard, for the fall impinged on her the fact that she was safe only when her muzzle touched her mate's flank. She followed him obediently when they reached the plain, trotting with her foreshoulder to his hip.

Kazan was heading for a thicket in the creek bottom half a mile away, and a dozen times in that short distance Gray Wolf stumbled and fell. And each time that she fell Kazan learned a little more of the limitations of blindness. Once he sprang off in pursuit of a rabbit, but he had not taken twenty leaps when he stopped and looked back. Gray Wolf had not moved an inch.

All that day they remained in the thicket. In the afternoon he visited the cabin. Joan and her husband were there, and both saw at once Kazan's torn side and his lacerated head and shoulders.

"Pretty near a finish fight for him," said the man, after he had examined him. "It was either a lynx or a bear. Another wolf could not do that."

For half an hour Joan worked over him, talking to him all the time, and fondling him with her soft hands. She bathed his wounds in warm water, and then covered them with a healing salve, and Kazan was filled again with that old restful desire to remain with her always, and never to go back into the forests. For an hour she let him lie on the edge of her dress, with his nose touching her foot, while she worked on baby things. Then she rose to prepare supper, and Kazan got up—a little wearily—and went to the door. Gray Wolf and the gloom of the night were calling him, and he answered that call with a slouch of his shoulders and a drooping head. Its old thrill was gone. He watched his chance, and went out through the door. The moon had risen when he rejoined Gray Wolf. She greeted his return with a low whine of joy, and muzzled him with her blind face. In her helplessness she looked happier than Kazan in all his strength. From now on, during the days that followed, it was a last great fight between blind and faithful Gray Wolf and the woman. If Joan had known of what lay in the thicket, if she could once have seen the poor creature to whom Kazan was now all life—the sun, the stars, the moon, and food—she would have helped Gray Wolf. But as it was she tried to lure Kazan more and more to the cabin, and slowly she won.

At last the great day came, eight days after the fight on the Sun Rock. Kazan had taken Gray Wolf to a wooded point on the river two days before, and there he had left her the preceding night when he went to the cabin. This time a stout babiche (thong was tied to the collar round his neck, and he was fastened to a staple in the log wall. Joan and her husband were up before it was light next day. The sun was just rising when they all went out, the man carrying the baby, and Joan leading him. Joan turned and looked at the cabin door, and Kazan heard a sob in her throat as they followed the man down to the river. The big canoe was packed and waiting. Joan got in first, with the baby. Then, still holding the babiche thong, she drew Kazan up close to her, so that he lay with his weight against her.

The sun fell warmly on Kazan's back as they shoved off, and he closed his eyes, and rested his head on Joan's lap. Her hand fell softly on his shoulder. He heard again that sound which the man could not hear, the broken sob in her throat, as the canoe moved slowly down to the wooded point.

Joan waved her hand back at the cabin, just disappearing behind the trees. "Good-by!" she cried sadly. "Good-by!" And then she buried her face close down to Kazan and the baby, and sobbed.

The man stopped paddling. "You're not sorry—Joan?" he asked. They were drifting past the point now, and the scent of Gray Wolf came to Kazan's nostrils, rousing him, and bringing a low whine from his throat. "You're not sorry—we're going?"

"No," she replied. "Only I've—always lived here—in the forests—and they're—home!"

The point with its white finger of sand, was behind them now. And Kazan was standing rigid, facing it. The man called to him, and Joan lifted her head. She, too, saw the point, and suddenly the babiche leash slipped from her fingers, and a strange light leaped into her blue eyes as she saw what stood at the end of that white tip of sand. It was Gray Wolf. Her blind eyes were turned toward Kazan. At last Gray Wolf, the faithful, understood. Scent told her what her eyes could not see, Kazan and the man—smell were together. And they were going—going—going.

"Look!" whispered Joan. The man turned. Gray Wolf's forefeet were in the water. And now, as the canoe drifted farther and farther away, she settled back on her haunches, raised her head to the sun which she could not see and gave her last long wailing cry for Kazan.

The canoe lurched. A tawny body shot through the air—and Kazan was gone.

The man reached forward for his rifle. Joan's hand stopped him. Her face was white.

"Let him go back to her! Let him go—let him go!" she cried. "It is his place—with her."

And Kazan, reaching the shore, shook the water from his shaggy hair, and looked for the last time toward the woman. The canoe was drifting slowly around the first bend. A moment more and it had disappeared. Gray Wolf had won.

CHAPTER XII.

The Days of Fire.

From the night of the terrible fight with the big gray lynx on the top of the Sun Rock, Kazan remembered less and less vividly the old days when he had been a sledge-dog, and the leader of a pack. He would never quite forget them, and always there would stand out certain memories from among the rest, like fires cutting the blackness of night. But as a man dates events from his birth, his marriage, his freedom from a bondage, or some foundation-step in his career, so all things seemed to Kazan to begin with two tragedies which had followed one fast upon the other after the birth of Gray Wolf's pups.

The first was the fight on the Sun Rock, when the big gray lynx had blinded his beautiful wolf mate for all time, and had torn her pups into pieces. He in turn had killed the lynx. But Gray Wolf was still blind. Vengeance had not been able to give her sight. She could no longer hunt with him, as they had hunted with the wild wolf-packs out on the plain, and in the dark forests. So at thought of that night he always snarled, and his lips curled back to reveal his inch-long fangs.

The other tragedy was the going of Joan, her baby and her husband. Something more infallible than reason told Kazan that they would not come back. Brightest of all the pictures that remained with him was that of the sunny morning when the woman and the baby he loved, and the man he endured because of them, had gone away in the canoe, and often he would go to the point, and gaze longingly down-stream, where he had leaped from the canoe to return to his blind mate.

So Kazan's life seemed now to be made up chiefly of three things: his hatred of everything that bore the scent or mark of the lynx, his grieving for Joan and the baby, and Gray Wolf. It was natural that the strongest passion in him should be his hatred of the lynx, for not only Gray Wolf's blindness and the death of the pups, but even the loss of the woman and the baby he laid to that fatal struggle on the Sun Rock. From that hour he became the deadliest enemy of the lynx tribe. Whenever he struck the scent of the big gray cat he was turned into a snarling demon, and his hatred grew day by day, as he became more completely a part of the wild.

He found that Gray Wolf was more necessary to him now than she had ever been since the day she had left the wolf-pack for him. He was three-quarters dog, and the dog-part of him demanded companionship. There was only Gray Wolf to give him that now. They were alone. Civilization was four hundred miles south of them. The nearest Hudson's Bay post was sixty miles to the west. Often, in the days of the woman and the baby, Gray Wolf had spent her nights alone out in the forest, waiting and calling for Kazan. Now it was Kazan who was lonely and uneasy when he was away from her side.

In her blindness Gray Wolf could no longer hunt with her mate. But gradually a new code of understanding grew up between them, and through her blindness they learned many things that they had not known before. By early summer Gray Wolf could travel with Kazan, if he did not move too swiftly. She ran at his flank, with her shoulder or muzzle touching him, and Kazan learned not to leap, but to trot. Very quickly he found that he must choose the easiest trails for Gray Wolf's feet. When they came to a space to be bridged by a leap, he would muzzle Gray Wolf and whine, and she would stand with ears alert—listening. Then Kazan would take the leap, and she understood the distance she had to cover. She always over-leaped, which was a good fault.

In another way, and one that was destined to serve them many times in the future, she became of greater help than ever to Kazan. Scent and hearing entirely took the place of sight. Each day developed these senses more and more, and at the same time they developed between them the dumb language whereby she could impress upon Kazan what she had discovered by scent or sound. It became a curious habit of Kazan's always to look at Gray Wolf when they stopped to listen, or to scent the air.

After the fight on the Sun Rock, Kazan had taken his blind mate to a thick clump of spruce and balsam in the river bottom, where they remained until early summer. Every day for weeks Kazan went to the cabin where Joan and the baby—and the man—had been. For a long time he went hopefully, looking each day or night to see some sign of life there. But the door was never open. The boards and saplings at the windows always remained. Never a spiral of smoke rose from the clay chimney. Grass and vines began to grow in the path. And fainter and fainter grew that scent which Kazan could still find about it—the scent of man, of the woman, the baby.

BURGLARS TURN ABILITIES TO USE

Italian Thieves Become Spies and Win Redemption From Government.

GET VALUABLE PAPERS

Deliver to Their Government All the Documents of the Austro-Hungarian Espionage Bureau at Zurich.

Geneva.—A French-Swiss paper gives the following version of a sensational incident which has been told in several forms:

Recently, two elegantly dressed men, carrying a heavy satchel, appeared at the office of the Italian general staff in Rome and demanded an audience with the chief of the intelligence department. When they were received by this official they made sensational disclosures and delivered all the documents of the Austro-Hungarian espionage bureau in Zurich.

The men were two notorious Italian burglars, who were known and feared from one end of the kingdom to the other. When the war broke out they were called to the colors and detailed to the same regiment. Life in the trenches did not suit them and they decided to desert. They escaped to Switzerland and settled in Zurich, where they plied their old trade with considerable success.

Turn Abilities to Use.

Regretting their desertion, the burglars decided to use their abilities in the interest of their country by "cleaning out" the Austro-Hungarian espionage bureau in the Zurich consulate of the dual monarchy. Accidentally they made the acquaintance of a former officer of the Italian navy, who had been cashiered many years before, and after an adventurous life in many countries, had entered the service of Austria as a spy.

From this man the two men obtained detailed plans of the offices of the consulate, and after a thorough preparation they carried out their raid on the espionage bureau. They bought the most modern tools and with their aid they were able to open the safes in the consulate quickly and without much difficulty.

The safes, which contained the most important documents, had compartments filled with poisonous gases meant to kill any burglar who might dare to tamper with them.

Make Their Escape.

The burglars had learned this from the former Italian naval officer, who had turned against his Austrian employers and aided the burglars on the promise of a liberal reward. Procuring masks like those worn by soldiers in the trenches they were able to open the compartments containing the deadly gases without danger to themselves. Although they worked nearly two hours, they were not disturbed. They made their escape safely, but had difficulty in getting out of Switzerland, and were compelled to wait many weeks before they were able to smuggle the stolen documents across the Italian frontier.

In February a cable dispatch from Berne reported that a burglary had been committed for political reasons in the Austro-Hungarian consulate general in Zurich, and that the perpetrators had not only ignored a large sum of money which was in one of the safes, but also left burglars' tools valued at more than $1,000 behind.

The following letter from R. H. Webber, president of the J. L. Hudson Company, has been received by Mr. Goldsmith:

January 12th, 1917.

Mr. L. Goldsmith,

The J. L. Hudson Co., City.

Dear Sir:—My attention has been called to the fact that you are about to discontinue the optical department in this store and open up a new establishment in the building you have leased at 17 John R street, which I understand will be remodeled for the purpose.

Personally I very much regret the severing of a very pleasant relationship that has existed between yourself and The J. L. Hudson Company for about seventeen years and I am especially mindful of the high esteem in which you were held by the founder of this business.

As we are unable to accommodate you with the additional space which your increasing patronage seems to require, you are to be congratulated upon having made other arrangements which will provide you with adequate facilities.

Wishing you the very best of success in your new location, I remain, Yours very truly, (R. H. WEBBER), President.

The building which Mr. Goldsmith has leased is in the heart of the downtown business district, at 17 John R street just a step off Woodward. The entire ground floor has been fitted up expressly to meet the requirements of a large optical business. There are beautifully furnished waiting rooms with comfortable rockers and davenport. The dark rooms where eyes are tested and examined have the very latest and most scientific devices known to the profession. In the rear is a large manufacturing department and Mr. Goldsmith's private office.

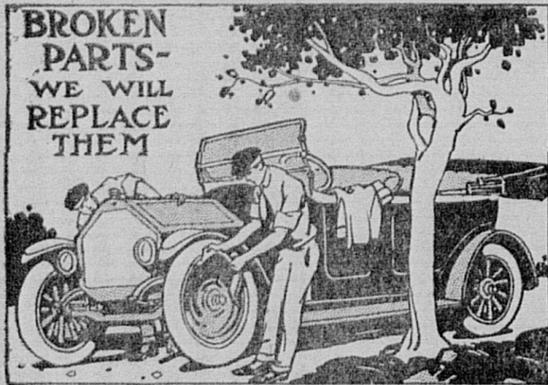

It is safe to say that L. Goldsmith has fitted more glasses than any other optometrist or optician in Detroit. He has on file record cards of over twenty thousand cases handled by him at the Hudson store.

In his new location there will be no change in the policy or management of Mr. Goldsmith's business. He will continue to guarantee absolute satisfaction to all patrons and any arrangements or understandings that existed between him and his clients while with The J. L. Hudson Company, will be carried out to the letter. Reliability is really the biggest factor in optical service and the splendid record made by L. Goldsmith in Detroit proves that he is reliable.

Every reader of this paper has a standing invitation to visit his fine, new optical establishment at 17 John R street, Detroit.

True.
