"Yes, that would be different," Prudence chimed in, such "miles away" in her voice that Fairy turned on her todignantly.

"Prudence Starr, you make me wild," she said. "Can't you drop that everhasting hemstitching, embroidering, tatting, crocheting, for ten minutes to talk to me? What in the world are you going to do with it all, anyhow? Are you intending to carpet your floors

We had quite settled on the home wedding, but when the twins discovered that the members felt burt at being left out, father thought we'd better change over.

"Well, I can't see that the members have any right to run our wedding. Besides, it wouldn't surprise me if the twins made it up because they wanted a big fuss."

But some of the members spoke to father. And you must admit, Fairy, that it is lovely of the Ladles' Aid to give that dinner at the hotel for us." "Well, they'll get their money's worth of talk out of it afterward. It's a big mistake.-- What on earth are the twins doing out there? Is that Jim Forrest with them? Listen how they are screaming with laughter! Would you ever believe those twins are past fifteen, and nearly through their junior year? They haven't as much sense put together as Connie has all alone."

"Come and see the vell," said Prudence, rising. But she dropped back on the step again as Carol came rushing toward them at full speed, with Lork and a tall young fellow tralling slowly, laughing, behind her.

"The mean things!" she gusped. "They cheated!" She dropped a handfut of pennies in her aunt's lap as she lay in the hammock. "We'll take 'em to Sunday school and give 'em to the heathen, that's what we'll do. They Advice for Husbands.

Most words of wisdom that fall from the pens of experts on the subject of love are written for women. Apparently these little sermons are written with the idea that only man's love is worth keeping and that woman's cannot possibly last.

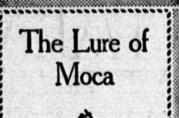

We are told that man must never be bored by trifling domesticities, but instead be encouraged to talk about his business, and so on. Why should it be addressed to one sex only?

Why not say to husbands: Remember that women are women and that their great need is for love. Love is their vocation, the thing they do best, their greatest need in life. Why should the wife be expected to listen admiringly to the husband's tale of routing of a commercial rival when he does not show an equal courtesy when she when she did she mumbled and said describes her experiences of the day? -San Francisco Chronicle.

Among the students-and the faculty, too, for that matter-Professor Gray had the reputation of being the best-looking professor at Morton and Sure enough, now that they looked the most confirmed old bachelor. On the score of his old-bachelorhoodthough he was not past redemption at forty-they excused various little quips and quirks in his disposition. Not only was Professor Gray the head of the Greek department of the college but, as son of one of the leading benefac tors of the college, he was one of the trustees as well. It was as a trustee that his objection on general principals to domestic science and household arts, as part of a college curiculum had thus far successfully blocked the building of the new domestic science extension. The money had been raised for the building, but because the site was part of the original Gray bequest, Professor Gray's objection made progress on the building impos-

No wonder, then, that Jean Prescott, the attractive young head of such household arts department as there was at Morton, was filled with a sentiment toward Professor Gray that was as near to that of hatred as any that had ever entered into her spacious heart. Like most household arts instructors, Jean Prescott carried into her classes and laboratory an air of rare geniality. Professor Gray seldom carried much geniality into his Greek classes and perhaps that was the fault of his boarding-house keeper, for Gray had got to the point where having tasteless coffee and cold fried eggs for breakfast was getting on his nerves.

If he took real satisfaction in anything, however, it was that so far the department of domestic science had been limited to Jean Prescott and that she had but two rooms-one for a lecture room and another for a laboratory -"merely a glorified kitchen" Jean told her students-in a semibasement section of one of the college buildings.

One day Professor Gray was correcting test papers in his private office be side an open window that let in a flood of sunshiny air that warmed, rather than chilled, the room. At first he sniffed subconsciously and then he dropped his fountain pen on his desk, laid down the test book and sniffed definitely. His thoughts took the form of "My, but that smells like good coffee." He tried to go back to work when something that smelled like the crisp browned edges of corn cakes baked to a turn—an aroma redollent with recollections of his youth and cheerful thoughts of a Southern mammy—tempted him again. He took in long draughts of the fragrance and then, rising, followed it to the window whence it entered his room. He looked down as if expecting to see a table set with coffee and corn cake in the court below, but he saw nothing save the wall of the building and numerous win-

It will nine voices and the occasional clatter hold 68 tons of material at one time, of tins and crockery. It was Jean and will handle 1,250 tons an hour.

Prescott's domestic science laboratory and a laboratory session was in progress. Afraid of being observed, he walked slowly away and, as he walked through the end of the corridor, his eves caught sight of a little card tacked up on a bulletin board.

"For sale for the benefit of the Red Cross," read the sign. "Products of the cookery laboratory will be an sale in Miss Prescott's office from 5 to 5:15 every afternoon."

Professor Gray made an excuse to himself to remain in his office until late that afternoon and at Just 4:59 he slipped down to Miss Prescott's office and, with a mumbled sort of remark about wanting to help the Red Cross, he spent a dollar on dainties that had been made under Jean's careful direction. It was then that he first really looked into the new instructor's face and he admitted to himself that there was more good cheer and vivacity in it than in the faces of the other woman instructors. "Perhaps cookery has a better effect on women," he reflected, than calculous or quadratics or the Iliad or the Odyssey." Then one day Jean and her first class in cookery gave a luncheon for certain chosen members of the faculty and, strangely enough, Jean had the temerity to invite as guest of honor the man who was the most confirmed old bachelor in the faculty. He did especial honor to the feast and went away wondering why it would not be feasible for some person of wealth to endow a special domestic science school for boarding-house keepers, with a scholarship for his own remiss landlady.

That evening, instead of donning his dressing gown and reading in the aura of his student lamp, or sallying forth to play chess with some bachelor crony of his he took a half hour adding fine points to his toilet and sallied forth in the direction of the girl's dormitory. Could it be'that he went to see Jean Prescott who made her home there?

The next day Professor Gray went to his safe deposit to take out of their dark hiding place some fine old gems of his mother's and later he was seen in the inner offices of one of the leading jeweler's. On his way back to his boarding house he stopped before several furniture-store windows and actually went into one fine furniture shop to price a replica of an old mahogany dining room set he had seen displayed.

He stopped at a florist shop when he neared home and ordered some orchids, though in his confusion at doing anything so unusual for him, he forgot to leave his card to be inclosed in them. But the one who received them guessed the sender without a card.

A few weeks later there was an important meeting of the trustees of the college, called specially by the president to discuss pressing business. All were present save Professor Gray, who sent his proxy. The most important announcement to be made was that the absent trustee had withdrawn his ob-Jection against building the domestic science extension on the old Gray property. It was also casually remarked among those trustees who were most intimate with the details of the university administration that the president was looking for a new head of the domestic science department. Miss Prescott would not return the next autumn. She was to be married. "However," commented the trustee, "other good instructors can be found. The Important thing is to have removed Grav's objection. I wonder suaded him to give in?"

KIDNEY TROUBLE NOT EASILY RECOGNIZED

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected

An examining physician for one of the prominent life insurance companies, in an interview of the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are re-jected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. bania may or may not bear fruit, but the benefits of Italian occupation will prove lasting. In more than one respect the satisfaction which no better name than civilizing genius, Where Rome passed Roman footprints still linger indelibly, says Edgar Ansel Mowrer in a letter to the Chicago Daily News. Though the empire of Trajan is less than a memory, the Roman road, the Roman bridge, the teachers. Roman building or wall have lasted long after other later constructions have crumbled into sand, for the reason that the least of the Roman enterprises incorporated the "Roman idea," one of the strongest conceptions European humanity has ever known.

Those old stern soldiers and governors civilized and embellished the peoples and lands they ruled. But they not only built cities and pushed roads to the ends of the earth wherever the cohorts advanced but more enduring patrols are already in operation and cities, more substantial bridges and better roads than this earth bad seen before or has known since.

Modern Italy has inherited much of the "Roman idea." Italy today shares the old love for bureaucratic government, for order, for solid construction outwearing the mere "ntilltarian" product, for in its way Italy hankers after the same vicarious immortality of lasting monuments which possesse the builders of ancient temple and basilica. And, like the legions of long ago, the Italian army of today advances to civilize and builds for an entire age. Ample evidence for this statement may be found in the roads and is an enthusiastic worker. For the better supervision of the varied services pertaining to civil administration a secretaryship for civil affairs was instituted. It is defined as "the organ through which his excellency, General Ferrero, exercises his powers of watchfulness, control and guardianship over the vast field of state and autonomous administration." Though thoroughly patriotic, Johnny, aged nine, dining with his mother in one of the cafeterias on wheatiess day, could not understand why he should eat corn bread instead of the usual white bread, relates the Indianapolis News.

In the argument that ensued his mother, losing her temper, ordered the young man "to get outside of his portion of bread right away."

After a thoughtful moment, Johnny ommented: "Mother, then I would be the peelin', wouldn't I?"

Canadian Farmers Profit From Wheat

The war's devastation of European crops has caused an unusual demand for grain from the American Continent. The people of the world must be fed and wheat near $2 a bushel offers great profits to the farmer. Canada's invitation is therefore especially attractive. She wants settlers to make money and happy, settlers to make money and happy, prosperous homes for themselves by helping her raise immense wheat crops.

You can get a Housestead of 160 acres FREE and other lands at remarkably low prices. During many years Canadian wheat fields have averaged 20 bushels to the acre many yields as high as 45 bushels to the acre. Wonderful crops also of Oats, Barley and Flaz.

Mitsed farming as profitable an industry as grain raising. The excellent grasses full of nutrition are the only food required for beef or dairy purposes. Good schools, churches, markets convenient, climate excellent.

There is an extra demand for farm labor to replace the many young men who have volunteered for the war. The Government is urging farmers to put extra acresse line grain. Write for literature and particulars as to reduced raliway rates to Supt. of Immigration, Ottawa. Causada, or

NECESSARY NOW SAYS PRESIDENT

In Message to Congress, Executive Urges Immediate Declaration of Hostilities Against Germany's Ally

CALLED VASSAL OF KAISER

Says There Can Be No Peace Until Evil Power Is Crushed, Warns A'lies There Must Be No Land Grabbing

Washington-President Wilson, in his annual message to congress Tuesday asked immediate declaration of war on Austria.

Even though Austria is the tool of Germany and not her own mistress, he said, she stands in the path of America's part in the world struggle for democracy.

He declared there could be no peace without victory—until the German powers of evil are crushed.

The president warned the allies that there must be no land-grabbing con quest as the fruits of victory. Peace With Restitution.

He defined the war aims of America n no uncertain language. Any peace that America makes must not only deliver the people and the lands of Belgiam and northern Frace from Prussian conquest, but must also deliver the people of Austria-Hungary, the Balkans and Turkey from the impudent and alien domination of the Prussian military and commercial autoc-

Peace, he said, must bring full, impartial justice-"justice done at every point and to every nation that the final settlement must effect, our enemies as well as our friends."

The president's words were the most scathing denunciation of what he termed the German powers of evil that he had yet voiced. He referred to the German ruling powers as "the Thing that must be crushed."

Salient Points in the Message. Following are some of the most striking passages in the president's

"We are seeking permanent, not temporary, foundations for the peace of the world and must seek them candidly and fearlessly. As always, the right will prove to be the expedi-

"One very embarrassing obstacle that stands in our way is that we are at war with Germany, but not with her allies. I therefore very earnestly recommend that the congress immediately declare the United States in a state of war with Austria-Hungary." "Austria-Hungary is for the time beag not her own mistress, but simply the vassal of the German government. We must face the facts as He died five hours later in the base President Wilson has appointed in they are and act upon them without Turkey and Bulgaria Kaiser's Tools. "The same logic would lead also to a declaration of war against Turkey and Bulgaria. They also are the tools of Germany. But they are mere tools and do not yet stand in the direct path of our necessary action. We shall go wherever the necessities of this war carry us, but it seems to me that we should go only where immediate and he thought it would be necessary to Bulk of Fighting Forces Said to Oppose $30,000,000 to the public's annual coal not heed any others."

told by the men whom they now permit to deceive them and to act as their masters that they are fighting for the very life and existence of their empire, a war of desperate self-defense against deliberate aggression. Nothing could be more grossly or wantonly false, and we must seek by the utmost openness and candor as to our real aims to convince them of its falseness. We are, in fact, fighting for their emancipation from fear, along with our own, from the fear as well as from the fact of unjust attack by neighbors or rivals or schemers after world empire."

Teuton Methods Underhanded. "The purposes of the Central powers strike straight at the very heart methods of warfare outrage every bonor; their intrigue has corrupted cret diplomacy has sought to take our very territory away from us and disthe war recreation board, has engaged | rupt, the union of the states. Our safety would be at an end, our honor forever sullied and brought into conumph. They are striking at the very existence of democracy and liberty."

Landgrabbing Not Tolerated. "The wrongs, the very deep wrongs, committed in this war will have to be righted. But they cannot and must not be righted by the commission of similar wrongs against Germany and her allies. The world will not permit the commission of similar wrongs as a means of reparation and settlement, Statesmen must by this time have learned that the opinion of the world is everywhere wide awake and fully comprehends the issues involved. No representative of any self-governed nation will dare disregard it by at tempting any such covenants of selfishness and compromise as were entered into at the congress at Vi. for tobacco and candy.

an eight-weeks' rest members of both houses got back into the harness Monday, prepared to buckle down to a session that will in all probability be a lengthy one.

Much important legislation will be enacted in the present session.

President Wilson's message on Tuesday urged the full prosecution of the war to a victorious end. This probably will be met by both Demo-crats and Republicans in a wholehearted manner. The first big pièce of legislation to receive attention is the president's recommendation to declare war on Austria.

Politics Will Crop Out.

Partisan politics is apt to crop out session than in the extraordinary session of the past summer. The biennial congressional elections come next November and as campaign time approaches congressmen will be looking for issues.

There will be a prolonged contest over the manner of raising the money to meet the enormous war costs. Out of the $21,000,000,000 of the current fiscal year about one-fourth will be raised by taxes of various sorts and three-fourths by bond issues. Speaker Clark and others believe the taxes and bond issues should be divided on a 50-50 basis.

PRUNING OF FRUIT TREES IS ESSENTIAL

solutely essential to the production of good fruit. And yet there is no other necessary work about a farm orchard For many reasons high tops are the so constantly neglected.

And when it is done, in the majority of cases, it is only half done. As a result of crowded limbs, and thick foliage, half of the fruit produced is of small size and bad color.

Now, all of this inferior fruit is unnecessary, for it is entirely possible to have every apple on the tree, of good full size, and color fully up to the standard of its variety.

There is no sufficient excuse for the prevailing neglect of pruning, for it may be done in the winter time, that season of comparative leisure in the country. The months of November, December and January make up the right trimming season, says Iowa Homestead. If done at that time the wounds dry up, so that loss of sap later becomes unnecessary. But if this work is done in February and March, it is so near the period of the flow of sap that bleeding becomes inevitable.

Much Depends on Age.

In pruning a tree to secure good fruit, the amount of work to be done depends upon the age of the tree, and the previous work which has been done upon it to keep it in shape.

A tree which has been entirely neglected until it is ten years old presents a hard problem when you wish to bring it into shape,

As the trees get larger, naturally more and more work will be needed in pruning. Thrifty eight to ten-year-old trees will make an astonishing growth of wood in one season.

HANDLING MILK IN WINTER

Many Farmers Relax Vigilance in Cold Weather and Low Grade of Milk Is Produced.

Many farmers who pay strict attention to the correct handling of their milk and cream during the hot weather relax their vigilance during the winter. The result is that good milk is produced during that part of the year when good milk is difficult to produce and a low grade of milk when it is naturally easy to produce good. Too much dependence should not be placed on the natural coolness of the atmosphere, for the chances are that this will not suffice. It is a noted fact that during the fall and early winter purchasers of milk often find it more difficult to keep the product from getting sour than they do during the hot weather.

Milk should be cooled to at least 50 degrees F. immediately upon being drawn from the can and kept at that temperature until used. If the ordinary coolness of the atmosphere, is depended upon for this, it may be hours before the milk reaches the required temperature, and in the meantime microbes have been multiplying which in a short time will render the milk unfit for use. To produce first-class milk the same care is demanded in the winter months as during the summer, cleanliness and a correct temperature being of cardinal importance at-all

GIVE SORE TEATS ATTENTION

Where Trouble Results From Improper Milking Ointment Made of Zinc and Vaseline.

When cows have sore teats caused by improper milking, applying an ointment made from 1 dram of oxide of zinc and 1 ounce of vaseline applied when the soreness is first apparent will probably be sufficient. If the teats break out in pimples which form scabs it is in all probability a case of cow pox, in which case the affected cows should be isolated from the remainder of the herd and due precaution taken to prevent the spread of the disease, which is very contagious and can be carried to other cows in the herd on the hands or clothes of the milker. Treatment consists in applying, three times a day, an ointment made by mixing together 4 drams of boracic acid, 20 drops of carbolic acid.

CREAM THIEVES ARE FOUND

Minnesota Official Finds That 44 Farmers in Nine Associations Have Defective Machines.

"Have you a cream thief on your farm?" is a pertinent question at the head of a circular being sent out by W. A. McKerrow of the agricultural extension division of the University of Minnesota. In answer to the question, Mr. Mc-Kerrow says that 44 farmers in 9 cow-testing associations in Minnesota did have cream thieves, or separators that waste butterfat. Out of 170 separators tested it was found that one in five was stealing from its owner. To prove up on your separator, it is suggested that you take a sample of your skim milk from the spout and have it tested at your creamery or at the college of agriculture. There is no possible excuse for cream separator losses.
