

LIEUT. BEGOLE WAS WOUNDED IN ANKLE

Former Chelsea Boy Struck By Shell
Fragment, Is Now Convalescing
In An English Hospital.

Lieut. LaMont C. Begole, son of the late George A. Begole, and formerly sales-manager for the Richmond-Buckus Co. of Detroit, is now in an English hospital recovering from a wound in his ankle. Extracts from a recent letter describing his experiences in battle, follow:

"In the course of the next few hours I found myself in command of two more companies, the officers of which had been hit. We drove the Germans back and back.

"Men were hit on all sides of me, but never did it strike me that I was in any danger. We took machine gun after machine gun and were only 400 yards from my final objective when I was wounded.

"The shell seemed to burst in my face; there was a tingling sensation in my right leg. I looked down to see a fair sized hole in my ankle. Part of the sole of my shoe had been cut away, but my foot was unhurt. I found that I was still able to stand and drew my men back a little, reorganized them and started them to digging in.

"Later an officer relieved me, and I started for the first aid station. But I got only a short way. My leg gave out under me. I sat down on the field. Cut off my legging and shoe, and applied a shell dressing I carried on my gas mask. Later they picked me up and carried me in on a stretcher.

"But all's well that ends well. At the base they removed my clothing—incidentally cutting off the only pair of pants I had—and put me in a bed with clean white sheets. Afterward I had a bath. Two days later they operated, removing a piece of shell which was wedged into my ankle somewhere.

"Then they brought me to England on a perfectly appointed hospital ship, and here I am in the Third London General hospital, with the privilege of revelling in white sheets, plenty of tobacco and a two-pound box of candy.

"I have given you all these details to explain why I am happy with my blighty. I have no clothes nor do I know where I go from here, but 'c'est la guerre!'

LaMont trained at Ft. Sheridan, as an unattached officer, and went overseas eleven days after obtaining a commission. For eight months he trained men and then became a member of the 117th Infantry.

GOVERNMENT AID IN FINDING TEACHERS

Shortage Affects Every State In the Union and President Wilson
Establishes New Bureau.

Fifty thousand teachers' places are vacant, and 120,000 persons are teaching this year who have never before taught a class. Several thousand schools have actually closed or remained unopened because it was impossible to find teachers for them.

The shortage of teachers affects nearly every state in the Union, and many urgent requests have been made for the assistance of the United States bureau of education, for it is clearly impossible for some of the states to man their schools with the teachers available within their own borders.

President Wilson has been moved by this condition. He has directed the establishment in the bureau of education of a new division to assist local officers in finding teachers to meet the emergency, and he has written an open letter of appeal to all who are qualified and able to teach, urging them to signify their willingness to do so by registering with the new school board service division of the bureau of education, in Washington. Schools seeking teachers will be put in touch with registrants with the expectation of employment in the regular way. No charge whatever will be made to either the registrants or to the schools for the service.

It is well known that in every community there are women who formerly taught, whose husbands are now in the army or in other branches of the government service, or whose homes do not demand all their time. Such women are specially needed in the schools now.

High schools all over the country have suffered from the demand for men of scientific training for service in munitions plants, the chemical warfare branch of the army, and the like. The shortage of teachers of chemistry and physics is particularly acute.

FROST BITTEN CONVENTION

Interesting Bit of Pioneer History is Recalled by J. E. Beal.

"Eighty-one years ago today," writes Junius E. Beal in Saturday's issue of the Ann Arbor Times-News, "a notable convention met in Ann Arbor at the old log tavern on the northwest corner of Main and Huron streets, and accomplished the wonderful change of making over the territory of Michigan into a state.

"It was an irregular convention made up of self-appointed delegates, but its results were historic. Even then slavery was up for sharp discussion, and congress had voted as a compromise to let in Michigan and Arkansas to balance each other, but Michigan had to vote to accept the new boundary on the south which gave some of her land to Ohio and Indiana. Feeling on the subject ran high on this point, and at a convention held in Ann Arbor the 4th Monday of September previous it was voted not to accept the terms of admission.

"Then old Andrew Jackson, who wanted Michigan to get into the Union in time to vote for his friend, Martin VanBuren, started a campaign to change public sentiment. There was going to be a division of money to the state, as the United States treasury had too much money on hand, so they figured Michigan's share would be $450,000 if she got in on time.

"Now this was something practical, and it did not take our forefathers long to see this point. So they gathered together hastily in this celebrated convention to pass the required resolution on the 14th day of December, 1836.

"Then the Washington administration rushed the act through congress by January 26, 1837, in time to deliver her vote for VanBuren.

"That old, red block-house, made historic by this convention, was the first of its kind in this region. Many an old legend of lively experience had grouped about it through the years, but none of such significance as the 'Frost-bitten convention,' so called because of the extreme cold of that day."

ELECTRIC CAR CRASHES INTO AUTOMOBILE

Only One of Family of Six Escaped Injury; Four Being Killed in Shocking Accident.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Brigham and their two youngest daughters were killed and their only son seriously injured Sunday when their automobile was struck by an interurban car on the West Knowles crossing, a mile west of Parma village. Another daughter was not injured.

The family was returning to their farm home from attending church in Parma, when their automobile was struck by the second section of a Michigan Railway train. They had halted just a moment before to allow the first section to pass and evidently did not expect another car to follow so closely. The accident occurred about 12:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Brigham and her two little daughters were instantly killed, and Mr. Brigham died about an hour after the accident.

The son is seriously injured, but is expected to recover.

TIN CANS KILL SOOT

Chelsea Woman Says So and Albion
Man is Authority Also.

Burning a few tin cans—just ordinary dump-heap tin cans—in your furnace daily will destroy the foot festoons, a well known Chelsea woman told us a few weeks ago. We admit that we "fell" for it and have burned about a bushel of "goat food soot killer," but we are not yet dead sure as to the results. Some times we think there's some thing in it; again we think it's a hoax. So far, we haven't delved deeply into the alchemy of the thing so we can't write the chemical reaction.

Anyway, we're not the only "nut" who's trying out the tin-can-anti-soot, for a Jackson paper says that A. J. Wilder of Albion—perhaps they meant A. Wilder Jay—is authority for the statement that tin cans burned in a furnace with soft or low grade coal will destroy the disagreeable soot. At any rate, it sure rids the back yard of much unsightly rubbish and perhaps our chimney and furnace of soot.

SNEEZED ON PIE!

Yesterday in Ann Arbor a man came out of a grocery store carrying an unwrapped pie; as he stepped out he sneezed and there was the pie! This may be an exceptional case, but how about all foods kept uncovered in our grocery stores? Apples, oranges, lemons and grape-fruit should be thoroughly washed before using, and soft fruits like dates and figs, and also cookies and all candies should be kept covered or in glass cases where dust and germs cannot reach them, especially during the epidemic of the influenza. E. Depew, Child Welfare Work.

He was attached to the One Hundred Twenty-sixth Infantry of the Eighty-fifth division.

Hillsdale—Colon Olmstead, 17-year-old son of Irving Olmstead, residing near Frontier, Hillsdale county, was killed while hunting rabbits with his cousin, Ernest Bringle, of Williams county, Ohio. In attempting to climb over a wire fence Olmstead caught his gun and the contents of both barrels entered the back of his head.

Lansing—Recent delays and failure to receive allotments and allowance checks from the war risk insurance bureau are attributed to the influenza epidemic in Washington. "I have not a word to say until I get my uniform off," said the major of his experiences.

Grand Rapids—The population of Grand Rapids is 145,572, compared with 145,124 last year, according to the 1918 city directory.

Battle Creek—At the request of the Woman's League the city of Battle Creek will attempt to re-establish the curfew law. It is claimed many young girls are coming downtown, attracted by Camp Custer soldiers. But the police say that when they do take youngsters home they are usually abused by their parents, who say they gave their children permission to go down town.

Lansing—Food Administrator Prescott promulgated a notice to all keepers of public eating places in the state that the original rules regarding the serving of certain foods are still in force with the sole exception of those applying to sugar. The rules on meat, cheese, bread and butter still go. Reports to the state administrator indicate that the rules are being violated. Apparently many restaurant keepers have misunderstood the new rulings.

Pontiac—Two Pontiac soldiers officially reported dead are now believed to be alive, according to letters received from them by relatives. Private Basil Buckley, son of Mrs. Jennie Voorheis, was reported dead from wounds October 15. A letter received recently was written by him November 17 and said he would be home for Christmas, crippled but well. Lieutenant Harold Furlong, son of A. D. Furlong, of Detroit, formerly of Pontiac, was reported dead November 1, but a letter from him November 12 describes peace celebrations.

TWO MILLION GREET PRES. WILSON'S PARTY IN PARIS

NOT WITHIN THE MEMORY OF MODERN TIMES HAS ANYONE RECEIVED SUCH WELCOME AS PRESIDENT'S PARTY.

SMILES COVERED PRESIDENT'S FACE THROUGHOUT PROCESSION

One Hundred and One Guns, France's Finest Thundered Their Salute, At One Minute Intervals During Processions.

Paris—When Woodrow Wilson, world citizen, stepped off his special train at the Bois de Boulogne railway station, Paris—gay, impetuous, impatient Paris—flung herself into his arms and pressed him fast. Upon his shoulders she wept tears of joy, and into his ears she poured, now by soft, winsome whisper, now by jubilant shouts, and then by a boom and roar that set the town a-tremble, the story of her love, the message of her gratitude toward him and America.

Not within the memory of modern times has mortal been greeted with such fervor, such magnificence and such sincerity.

One hundred and one guns, France's finest, thundered their salute, in one-minute intervals, as the long line of open automobiles, carrying the Wilson party and the distinguished French representatives that had met them at the station, slowly proceeded through flower and flag bedecked streets to the Parisian "White House."

Is Cheered by 2,000,000.

It was a triumphal procession marked by endless cheers from 2,000,000 men, women and children lined along the curbs. Mr. Wilson's face was wreathed in smiles throughout this procession. The beautiful woman who sat beside him, in one hand an American flag, and in the other a magnificent bouquet handed her by the reception committee at the station, attracted no less admiration than the president. Shouts of "Vive Madame Wilson" mingled with those of "Vive Wilson" and "Vive L'Amérique."

The chief official event of the president's first day in Paris was a luncheon tendered to him and Mrs. Wilson by President Poincaré. It was a gorgeous affair.

But its outward magnificence and brilliancy were overshadowed by something that went straight to the heart of Paris and of France some have been foremost in the hearts and minds of all France ever since the signing of the armistices.

Addresses made by Presidents Wilson and Poincaré are as follows:

Poincaré's Welcome.

"Paris and France awaited you with impatience. They were eager to acclaim in you, the illustrious democrat, whose words and deeds were inspired by exalted thought, the philosopher delighting in solution of universal laws from particular events, the eminent statesman who had found a way to express the highest political and moral truths in formulas which bear the stamp of immortality.

Thanks to Red Cross.

"They had also a passionate desire to offer thanks, in your person, to the great republic of which you are the chief, for the invaluable assistance which has been given spontaneously, during this war, to the defenders of right and liberty.

"Even before America had resolved to intervene in the struggle she had shown to the wounded and the orphaned of France a solicitude and a generosity, the memory of which always will be enshrined in our hearts.

"The liberality of your Red Cross, the countless gifts of your fellow citizens, the inspiring initiative of American women, anticipated your military and naval action and showed the world to which side your sympathies inclined. And on the day when you flung yourselves into the battle with what determination your great people and yourself prepared for united success.

Praises American Troops.

"Some months ago you cabled me that the United States would send ever increasing forces until the day should be reached on which the Allied armies were able to submerge the enemy under an overwhelming flow of new divisions and in effect for more than a year a steady stream of youth and energy has been poured upon the shores of France.

"No sooner had they landed than

Hour of Inauguration Conflicts.

Lansing—The time-honored custom of holding the inauguration ceremonies for Governor at noon on the first day of January is not to be kept this year, because January 1 falls on Wednesday and the Legislature must convene on that date. The inauguration will take place at 10:30 a. m., according to deputies of the several departments who have the matter in charge. Governor Sleeper will invite the commanding officer at Camp Custer to attend the inauguration.

WILSON SHATTERS ALL CUSTOM IN TAKING OWN WREATH TO CEMETERY

Paris—When President Wilson went to the tomb of Lafayette, he insisted on taking his own wreath, contrary to custom here by which the florist delivers the wreath and the donor later makes the visit and leaves his card.

The president sent Admiral Grayson to buy the wreath, and after difficulty in explaining to the florist, who could not understand why the traditional custom was being broken, obtained it and drove to the tomb.

On his personal card, President Wilson wrote this inscription: "In Memory of the Great Lafayette From a Fellow Servant of Liberty."

Entirely unannounced the president drove to the old Picpus cemetery, where the amazed aged gatekeeper was almost too flustered to unlock the gates when he learned who his caller was.

News of the president's visit spread rapidly to the convent nearby, and as he left he passed through lines of aged nuns who came out to pay their respects to America's chief executive.

your gallant battalions, fired by their chief, General Pershing, flung themselves into the combat with such a manly contempt of danger, such a smiling disregard of death, that our longer experience of this terrible war often moved us to counsel prudence. They brought with them in arriving here the enthusiasm of crusaders leaving for the Holy Land.

"It is their right today to look with pride on the work accomplished and to feel assured that they have powerfully aided by their courage and their faith.

Savagery Marked War.

"Eager as they were to meet the enemy, they did not know when they arrived, the enormity of his crimes. That they might know how the German armies make war, it has been necessary that they see towns systematically burned, mines flooded, factories reduced to ashes, orchards devastated, cathedrals shelled and fired, all that deliberate savagery aimed to destroy national wealth, nature and beauty which the imagination could not conceive at a distance from the men and things that have endured it and today bear witness to it.

"You, Mr. President, will be able to measure with your own eyes the extent of the disasters and the French government will make known to you the authentic documents in which the German general staff developed with astounding cynicism its program of pillage and industrial annihilation. Your noble conscience will pronounce a verdict on these facts.

"Should this guilt remain unpunished, could it be renewed, the most splendid victories would be in vain.

"Mr. President, France has struggled, has endured and has suered during four long years; she has bled at every vein; she has lost the best of her children; she mourns for her youths. She yearns now, even as you do, for a peace of justice and security.

Peace Must Be Lasting.

"It was not that she might be exposed once again to aggression that she submitted to such sacrifices. Nor was it in order that criminals should go unpunished, that they might lift their heads again to make ready for new crimes, that under your strong leadership America armed herself and crossed the ocean.

"Faithful to the memory of Lafayette and Rochambeau, she came to the aid of France, because France herself was faithful to her traditions. Our common ideal has triumphed. Together we have defended the vital principles of free nations.

"Now we must build together such a peace as will forbid the deliberate and hypocritical renewing of an organism adding at conquest and oppression.

Secs Mutual Future.

"Peace must make amends for the miseries and sadness of yesterday and it must be a guarantee against dangers of tomorrow. The association which has been formed for the purpose of war between the United States and the Allies, and which contains the seed of the permanent institutions of which you have spoken, so eloquently, will find from this day forward a clear and profitable employment in the concerted search for equitable decisions, and in the mutual support which we need if we are to make our rights prevail.

"Whatever safeguards we may erect for the future, no one, alas, can assert that we shall forever spare mankind the horrors of new wars. Five years ago the progress of science and the state of civilization might have permitted the hope that no government, however autocratic, would have succeeded in hurling armed nations upon Belgium and Serbia.

"Without leading themselves to the illusion that posterity would be safe from these collective follies, we must introduce into the peace we are going to build up all conditions of justice and all safeguards of civilization that we can in it.

France Offers Her Thanks.

"To such a vast and magnificent task, Mr. President, you have chosen to come and apply yourself in concert with France. France offers you her thanks. She knows the friendship of America. She knows your rectitude and elevation of spirit. It is in the fullest confidence that she is ready to work with you.

"I lift my glass, Mr. President, in your honor and in honor of Mrs. Wilson. I drink to the prosperity of the republic of the United States, our great friend of yesterday and of other days, of tomorrow and of all time."

Wilson's Reply.

"I am deeply indebted to you for your gracious greeting. It is very delightful to find myself in France and to feel the quick contact of sympathy and unaffected friendship between representatives of the United States and the representatives of France.

Did Only People's Bidding.

"You have been very generous in what you were pleased to say about myself, but I feel that what I have said and what I have tried to do has been said and done only in an attempt to speak the thought of the people of the United States truly and to carry that thought out in action.

"From the first the thought of the people of the United States turned toward something more than the mere winning of this war. It turned to establishment of eternal principles of right and justice.

"It realized that merely to win the war was not enough; that it must be won in such a way and questions raised by it would be settled in such a way as to insure the future peace of the world and lay the foundations for the freedom and happiness of its many peoples and nations.

Wants Decision Final.

"Never before has war worn so terrible a visage or exhibited more grossly the debasing influence of illicit ambitions. I am sure that I shall look on the ruin wrought by armies of the Central powers with the same repulsion and deep indignation that they stir in the hearts of the men of France and Belgium, and I appreciate, as you do, sir, the necessity of such action in the final settlement of the issues of the war as will not only rebuke such acts of terror and spoliation but make men everywhere aware that they can not be ventured upon without the certainty of just punishment.

"I know with what ardor and enthusiasm soldiers and sailors of the United States have given the best that was in them in this war of redemption.

"They have expressed the true spirit of America. They believe their ideals to be acceptable to free peoples everywhere and are rejoiced to have played the part they have played in giving reality to those ideals in cooperation with armies of the Allies.

Proud of France.

"We are proud of the part they have played, and we are happy that they should have been associated with such comrades in a common cause.

"It is with peculiar feeling, Mr. President, that I find myself in France, joining with you in rejoicing over the victory that has been won. The ties that bind France and the United States are peculiarly close.

"I do not know in what other comradeship we could have fought with more zest or enthusiasm. It daily will be a matter of pleasure to me to be brought into consultation with statesmen of France and her allies in concerting the measures by which we may secure permanence for these happy relations of friendship, and cooperation, and secure for the world at large such safety and freedom in its life as can be secured only by constant association and co-operation of friends.

Brings America's Greetings.

"I greet you not only with deep personal respect, but as the representative of the great people of France, and beg to bring you the greetings of another great people to whom the fortunes of France are of profound and lasting interest.

"I raise my glass to the health of the President of the French republic, and to Madame Poincaré, and the prosperity of France."

Uses Assembly Call.

Munich—Liberal and centrist political leaders in Bavaria have launched a campaign for dissolution of the Bavarian soldiers' and workmen's council. They demand temporary reinstatement of the old Bavarian assembly as the only means of preventing Allied occupation of Munich.

Convicted Slayer May Get New Trial.

St. Johns—Demands that Albert Eichorn, of Rhine, serving a life sentence in Marquette prison for the murder of Beatrice Epier, of Alma, the night of September 4, 1917, be granted a new trial probably will grow out of the trial here of John F. Brennan, charged with being an accomplice in the crime. Wide variance between the testimony given by several witnesses in this trial and that given in the Eichorn trial at Rhine is expected to be basis for new trial.

FOES SEEK TO HALT ALLIES ALONG RHINE

GERMANS ARE TAKEN ALL POSSIBLE MEASURES TO HAVE ALLIES HALTED EAST OF RHINE.

ALLIES MAY OCCUPY MUNICH

At Behest of Entente We Disarmed Ourselves and Are Ready to Take Our Consequences Says Philip Scheidemann.

Amsterdam.—Herr Kuckhoff, writing in the Koelnische Volkszeitung, protests against "illegal and arbitrary action" of the Ebert government in making impossible assembling of the reichstag, which he says has not been dissolved.

The Berliner Tageblatt says. "All possible measures must be taken to prevent Foch's armies marching into Germany east of the Rhine. The reichstag is the only assembly with mandate to speak in the name of the people."

Scheidemann Takes Blame.

Copenhagen.—"At behest of the Entente, we disarmed ourselves and we are ready to take the consequences," Philip Scheidemann, German majority socialist leader, declared in an interview with the Berlin correspondent of the Berlinische Tidende.

"There is no occasion for alarm and foolish attempts to throw dust in the eyes of America, England and France," continued Scheidemann. "Such attempts might as well cease. They do not deceive anyone. Those countries are astute enough to procure information on the real conditions from reliable sources of their own."

"Therefore, I say the political situation in Germany is improving. If some 50 persons were arrested, probably the whole Spartacus movement would be suppressed. The new government, however, will not use violence, although eventually we will have to disarm supporters of the Spartacus extremists."

"Herr Liebknecht is not a normally constituted man, and the executive committee is only a provisional institution."

MURDER MYSTERY AT MUSKEGON

Accused Man Says John Sheldon Married Welch Girl Under His Name.

Muskegon.—That a mysterious John S. Sheldon married Frieda Welchman, the girl Milo H. Piper is charged with having murdered, but under Piper's name and that Sheldon must have slain the girl, if the identification of her relatives holds good is the statement made by Piper, brought from Hamilton, Ont., to the county jail.

Piper had hardly arrived at the jail before he was followed by his wife, their son Milton, and his mother, Mrs. W. H. Piper, all of whom were allowed to visit him before he was committed to the solitary confinement cell.

His wife loudly protests her belief in Piper's story. Deserted as she says she has been for months at a time during their stormy married career extending over a period of 11 years, Mrs. Piper, staggering from the grief following his arrest, remains steadfast.

PORTUGAL PRESIDENT KILLED

Crowd Lynches Slayer Who Shot Three Bullets At Nation Head.

London.—Dr. Cidoro Paes, president of Portugal, was shot and killed by an assassin while in a railway station in Lisbon waiting for a train to Oporto. Advances from Lisbon reporting the assassination say he was struck by three bullets.

President Paes died within a few minutes after he was shot. The president's assistant, named Joetne, was killed by the crowd.

Crowd Lynches Assassin.

Paris.—According to a Havas dispatch, from Lisbon, the assassin of the president was lynched by the crowd. Tammagnin Barbosa, minister of the interior, has assumed the presidency.

Dr. Sidonio Paes was formally proclaimed president of Portugal June 9. He headed a revolt in Portugal in December, 1917, and was named president of the provisional government December 9, a few days more than a year before he was assassinated.

U. S. to Buy Base Near Canal.

Panama—Negotiations have been begun by the United States for the purchase of property rights on the island of Taboga, at the Pacific entrance of the Panama canal in Panama territory. It is said that the plan is to add to the canal fortifications six batteries of coast artillery and a post of 3,000 men. The cost of the property rights it is said, will aggregate $15,000,000. The village of Taboga, which is older than Panama City, will not be touched, it is said.

TWO RACES LONG INTIMATE

Scotsman and Frenchman Seemed to Have Had Many Characteristics in Common.

Walter Scott found his most entrancing field in the Scottish-French. Quentin Durward reveals the intimacy of the two races. The literature of the centuries between 1500 and 1700 marks the effect of the Caledonian character on the citizenry of the patrie. The speech of the provincials attested the prevalence of Scottish characteristics: "Proud as a Scotsman," "Cut clean through like a Scotch poignard." It was long a legend that the dagger which pierced the heart of Henri III was of Scotch workmanship. Rabelais called the speech of the Caledonians "Scottish-French." Brantome makes record of the Scottish influence. For a century the Scots flocked to Paris to attend the University of France. Streets and quarters of the city were named "Scot" or Scottish. It came to pass in time that the Caledonian "scholars" turned from students into teachers, because the pride of the Sorbonne faculties for their mastery in illuminating abstractions. Marguerite of Scotland, who became the wife of Louis XI, immersed herself late into the night for years to master the French tongue, to learn the characteristics of the plain people. She was, like Marie Stuart, enamored of poetry and sought out modest youths gifted

The Farmer Receives More Than Five Thousand Dollars a Minute From Swift & Company

This amount is paid to the farmer for live stock, by Swift & Company alone, during the trading hours of every business day.

All this money is paid to the farmer through the open market in competition with large and small packers, shippers, speculators and dealers.

The farmer, feeder or shipper receives every cent of this money $300,000 an hour nearly $1,000,000 a day, $11,500,000 a week, in cash on the spot, as soon as the stock he has just sold is weighed up.

Some of the money paid to the farmer during a single day comes back to the company in a month from sale of products; much does not come back for sixty or ninety days or more. But the next day Swift & Company, to meet the demands made by its customers, must pay out another $2,000,000 or so, and at the present high price levels covers over $7,000,000 continuously tied up in goods on the way to market and in bills owed to the company.

This gives an idea of the volume of the Swift & Company business and the requirements of financing it. One building large business can this company turn live stock into meat and by-products at the lowest possible cost, prevent waste, operate refrigerator cars, distribute to retailers in all parts of the country—and be recompensed with a profit on a fraction of a cent a pound—a profit too small to have any noticeable effect on the price of meat or live stock.

Smart Frock for Youthful Wearers

The school girl or the college girl, those worn by older people which are very long and cuffed. The over garment is sleeveless, with a border of silk braid about the bottom instead of the wide band of silk embroidery that enriches the dress for older women. Another modification for the sake of youthfulness is revealed in the substitution of a belt of the material (bound with braid) for the heavy cords and tassels of silk that are too rich for young wearers. The back hangs straight and the round neck is finished with a binding of braid. Plain silk, or satin, might be substituted for this braid. A very pretty finishing touch which delights everyone appears in the small flat bow of satin, with two long, hanging ends, placed at the back of the neck opening. The ends are finished with very short strands of beads. The flat buttons that are set in a row at each side may be of bone or mother-of-pearl and the front of the overdress is provided with slit pockets.

Blouse Styles From Many Sources

Whether modeled upon the lines of the original tailored shirtwaist, or drawing inspiration from the easy, flowing lines of Chinese coats, or from any other quarter of the globe, our spring blouses are to be made of dainty and of exquisite materials. The world has grown small and there is not much of it too remote for the acquisitive couriers of merchandising to call upon; in blouses the styles and materials come from many sources. But women demand sheer and silky fabrics and the taste for fine needle-work grows and grows. The blouse of crepe georgette in a dark color, which is shown in the illustration above, is one of the late models launched upon the sea of styles. It is interesting to study its details and consider the several sources from which they may have sprung. We owe to France the lovely material—georgette, crepe—named in honor of Georgette the modiste, whose name it has made a new word in our language. But this fabric is a French interpretation of crepe de chine—Chinese crepe. The sleeves are patterned after the kimono sleeve, but modified so that they are more practical for Americans than the original Japanese model. The decoration of beads and silk instantly brings to mind the adornments that American Indians lavished on their garments of

TOWN FATHERS KEPT BUSY

Municipal Authorities of Danzig, Germany, Seem to Have Had a Hand in About Everything.

Frederic Gertrude Baumer, in the diary which she contributes to Die Hilfe, notes the following from an official memorandum issued at Danzig: "The town deals in coal, babies' soothers, methylated spirits and petroleum, old clothes and wooden shoes; it fattens pigs and geese and breeds fowls and rabbits; it cooks dinner and supper every day for many thousands of people; it provides labor and horses, distributes prizes for horse breeding, and places orders for army supplies; it estimates the harvest and counts the cattle, extracts fat from bone, and sells vegetables and fruit in certain shops; it dries vegetables and makes sausages; it allows land for potato and vegetable growing, and itself cultivates land; it collects or organizes the collection of nettles and fruit stones; it buys wood in Germany and in the occupied territory; it kills hounds and makes jam, examines applications for leave from the front, and provides the farmers with manure; it revises the prices of bread, matches, meat, boots and various foods, catches fish, and supplies machinery; it collects copper, aluminum and brass; and it distributes sugar for jam making, and regulates the feeding of sick persons and babies."

Piano Conveyed by Airplane. Planes by airplane is the latest use to which these wonderful machines are being put. One of the new large allied bombing planes, in order to demonstrate its carrying capacity, brought from London to Paris a full-sized upright piano. The machine landed in Paris safely. The airplane is capable of carrying six persons and much bombing explosives. When this weight is measured in pounds, however, it is not readily comprehended, and it was determined to bring over a piano as striking evidence of the machine's capacity.

Prospective Disappointment. "Yassum!" said Sister Maudie Waddles. "We've done whopped the Germans. Mah husband is over dar, and I reckon he made a hand at it. I spects when dat black man gets home he'll be so puffed up he'll think he can whip me. Right den and dar he's gwine to 'stiver dat I ain't no German.'"—Kansas City Star.

HAARLEM OIL CAPSULES IF YOUR BACK ACHES

Do you feel tired and "worn-out"? Are you nervous and irritable? Don't sleep well at night? Have a "dragged out," unrested feeling when you get up in the morning? Dizzy spells? Blisters? Bad taste in the mouth, backache, pain or soreness in the loins, and abdomen? Severe distress when urinating, bloody, cloudy urine or sediment? All these indicate gravel or stone in the bladder, or that the poisonous microbes, which are always in your system, have attacked your kidneys. You should use GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules immediately. The oil soaks gently into the walls and lining of the kidneys, and the little poisonous animal germs, which are causing the inflammation, are immediately attacked and chased out of your system without inconvenience or pain. Don't ignore the "little pains and aches," especially backaches. They may be little now but there is no telling how soon a dangerous or fatal disease of which they are the forerunners may show itself. Go after the cause of that backache at once, or you may find yourself in the grip of an incurable disease. Do not delay a minute. Go to your druggist and insist on his supplying you with a box of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. In 24 hours you will feel renewed health and vigor. After you have cured yourself, continue to take one or two Capsules each day so as to keep in first-class condition, and ward off the danger of future attacks. Money refunded if they do not help you. Ask for the original imported GOLD MEDAL brand, and thus be sure of getting the genuine.—Adv.

Few Escape.

There are few indeed who escape having at least one cold during the winter months, and they are fortunate who have but one and get through with it quickly and without any serious consequences. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and observe the directions with each bottle, and you are likely to be one of the fortunate ones. The worth and merit of this remedy has been fully proven. There are many families who have always used it for years when troubled with a cough or cold, and with the very best results.

The Woman's Missionary societies of the Methodist church met with Mrs. F. G. Wolff spent the week-end at the home of his daughter, Mrs. John Steinbach of Lima.

Miss Mabel Hummel received a German helmet from a friend overseas yesterday. We believe "another good punishment" for the Kaiser would be to compel him to wear one of these steel hats for the rest of his life.

A delivery system which operated only two days each week, delivering only the larger and more bulky parcels, would be a big improvement over none at all and would take care of such purchases as a sack of flour, a bushel of potatoes, etc. Why not try it out?

Frank Youngs received a letter Friday from his son, Peter F. Youngs, Co. A, 21st Engrs., A. E. F., written November 20th. He says they are still busy building railroads, but not so busy as formerly before the signing of the armistice, and "Fritz" no longer flies over to bomb them while at work or to disturb their slumbers at night.

William Bacon, Thursday. The Woman's Foreign society elected the following officers: President, Mrs. Wm. J. Palmer; vice-president, Mrs. Boyd; treasurer, Mrs. Bahnmiller; mite-box secretary, Mrs. Howlett. Following this Mrs. Winans gave the lesson from "An African Trail." BOOTLEGGERS STOP TRAIN

NEAR YPSILANTI

Desert Three Booze Filled Suit Cases in Their Mad Scramble to Avoid the Officers.

Wednesday morning, the passenger train that goes through this city at 5 o'clock from Chicago to Detroit was stopped at Beyer's crossing by two men who were in somewhat of a hurry to leave the train.

These men boarded the train at Chicago with three suit cases loaded with "wet goods," and it is thought that they became frightened with the prospect of arrest when they arrived in Detroit and decided to pull stakes while chances were good. They pulled the air signal, bringing the train to a sudden stop, and piled off with their grips. When the train reached Wayne the authorities were notified and immediately officers came back to where the bootleggers left the train and found that in their hurry they had abandoned their grips, but up to this time no trace of the men has been found.—Record.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Catarrh being greatly influenced by constitutional conditions requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Medicine is taken internally and acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in the curative powers of Hall's Catarrh Medicine that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

CAPTURED TWELVE GERMANS.

How a Webster township boy captured twelve Germans, alone, is told in a letter just received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Whitney. It happened October 8, but before the letter reached them, word was received from the government that their son had been wounded October 15 by a high explosive shell, and had died later in a hospital.
