SUPERVISORS ELECT ROAD COMMISSIONERS

B. C. Whitaker, of Sylvan, Was One of the Successful Candidates.

The board of supervisors met at Ann Arbor Tuesday forenoon and Supervisor Forest Roberts, of Salem, was elected chairman of the board, by a unanimous vote of the members. Charles A. Kapp of the fifth ward of Ann Arbor, was elected vice chairman.

George W. McCalla of Pittsfield, R. J. Bird of Superior, and B. C. Whitaker of Sylvan, were elected county road commissioners, at the meeting of the board Wednesday afternoon.

The commissioners were elected one at a time. George W. McCalla and Samuel Schultz were nominated for the first place on the commission, and McCalla was elected by a vote of 20 to 9.

Richard J. Bird was nominated for the second place, and was unanimously elected.

For the third place B. C. Whitaker and Otto Wagner were nominated and the former won by a vote of 20 to 9.

The salaries of the commissioners were fixed at $6 per day, as recommended by the salaries committee of the board, to which the matter of pay had been referred.

The morning session Wednesday was spent in the discussion of several matters of interest to the board, chief among which was the proposition to call a special county election to vote upon the question of a bond issue.

Engineer John J. Cox, of the Eastern Washtenaw Good Roads District was called upon to make a statement regarding road legislation and to advise regarding the advisability of voting bonds. Prof. Cox advised against calling an election just at this present time, when the whole matter of road building was very much in the air, although it was pretty well determined that the people were strongly in favor of good roads at the earliest possible time.

That the county would be able to raise $300,000 for good roads by a two mill tax and the federal and state aid that would come with the money spent was one of the reasons given by Prof. Cox for not advising an immediate bond issue.

Prosecuting Attorney Fahrner gave the opinion that the state automobile tax money, received by the county a few days ago, amounting to $24,361.17, could not be apportioned among the townships, as the county is now under the county good roads system, and stated that in this opinion he was supported by the attorney general's office, with which he had communicated.

BOYS' AND GIRLS' CLUBS.

The banks of Washtenaw county have made up a fund of $1,000, to be duplicated by an appropriation from the state, for carrying on boys' and girls' agricultural club work in Washtenaw county during the coming year, and the Washtenaw County Farm Bureau has engaged E. F. Lyons, of Hillsdale to take charge of the work for the county.

Director Lyons will carry on his work in the county under the supervision of the state boys' and girls' club leader, R. A. Turner of Michigan Agricultural college, and with the co-operation of the United States department of agriculture. Prof. B. R. Walpole of the agricultural department of the Ypsilanti high school, is a member of the executive committee of the county farm bureau in direct charge of this work.

Mr. Lyons is a graduate of Michigan Agricultural college in the class of 1917. He has been in the army fifteen months and has just been released. Before going into the army he taught agriculture in the high school in Plainville, Allegan county. He has done some club work in Hillsdale county, and also in Allegan county in connection with his teaching. Mr. Lyons is already in Ann Arbor and has taken up the work. His first work was in Webster Saturday night, where he conducted an organization meeting in the Congregational church, in company with Earl W. Martin, president of the Farm Bureau.

The boys and girls who are organized into clubs for this work will take up projects in pig, poultry and calf raising, and in corn in production. It is probable that most of the work this year will be done by pig clubs.

Work of this kind was large in Michigan last year, with 29,110 boys and girls engaged in it, producing $123,516.44 value of products, at a cost of $18,514.

Twenty-one of the candidates came from Chelsea, and the remainder from Brooklyn, Napoleon, Tecumseh and Clinton. The work was most impressive. At 9 o'clock the whole company assembled in Arbeiter hall, where the women served a most sumptuous banquet. Mat D. Blosser, twice illustrious master of Manchester council, called upon L. Whitney Watkins, toastmaster, who with much dignity and some pleasantities, introduced the following speakers: Joseph Smith, thrice illustrious master of Blanchard Council, Tecumseh; Geo. Papeen of Tecumseh; W. C. Boyd, high priest of Olive Chapter, Chelsea; Rev. P. W. Dierberger, of Chelsea, and J. H. AGED PRIEST DIES.

Rt. Rev. Monsignor William De Bever, 89 years old, retired chaplain of Nazareth academy, Nazareth, Kansas county, one of the oldest and best known Catholic priests in southeastern Michigan, died at Dexter, Saturday night and was buried Tuesday morning with services in charge of Rt. Rev. Bishop M. J. Gallagher, of Detroit, from the chapel of Nazareth academy.

Monsignor De Bever was a native of Holland and came to this country when 45 years of age. His death was due to the infirmities of old age, hastened by minor injuries he received a week ago when he accidentally slid from a chair and fell heavily to the floor.

Prior to the services and burial at Nazareth, there was a brief funeral service at St. Joseph's church, Dexter, Tuesday morning.

ANN ARBOR MAY FESTIVAL.

An Arbor's May Festival, which this year will take place in Hill Auditorium, May 14, 15, 16, 17, will assemble a group of musical celebrities such as has seldom before been brought together at one time outside of the great operatic centers of the country. Song birds and instrumentalists of most attractive reputations will appear, including many leaders from both the Metropolitan and Chicago Opera Companies.

Of particular significance will be the Ann Arbor debut of Rose Ponselle, the sensational dramatic soprano, whose career at the Metropolitan Opera House this year has been so spectacular. Not only is this her first Ann Arbor appearance, but it is virtually her first concert appearance outside of New York. She is heralded far and wide as the greatest "find" of the year.

Other artists new to Ann Arbor are: Anna Fitzi, Merle Alcock, Minerva Komenarski, Carpi and Arthur Hackett, deSegura and Charles M. Courbois.

Among the old favorites will be found Louise Homer, defogoraz, Gustaf Holmquist, Lois M. Johnston, Robert Dieterle and Gabriowitzsch.

Assisted by the University Choral Union, under Dr. Stanley and the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, these musical celebrities will provide a series of brilliant programs sparkling with a spirit of patriotism and thanksgiving will be injected, the whole event representing a people's thanksgiving for the blessings of peace which have come and a tribute to the gallant soldiers of America's noble sons who have fought and died.

CHELSEA GOES OVER WITH VICTORY LOAN

Total Amount Was Raised on the Volunteer Days.

The Chelsea division in the Victory Liberty loan drive, with a quota of $160,344.66, went over the top in the three volunteer days.

At the close on Wednesday evening the people in charge of drive were overwhelmed with applications from those anxious to subscribe.

Washtenaw county, with a quota of $2,116,876.86, went over the top at the close of the volunteer days.

The Chelsea district has raised its quota of every loan drive, and holds a record in regard to all war activities of which it may well feel proud.

ARBOR DAY, MAY SECOND.

In naming Friday, May 2, 1919 as Arbor Day, Governor Sleeper, in his proclamation, says:

"The observance of Arbor Day dates back more than a half century, and from the beginning it has had a civic motive and patriotic association. This year, more than ever before, we have reason to give the day a patriotic setting. The great world war is over. Our soldiers and sailors and nurses most nobly bore their part in the struggle. Many of them made the supreme sacrifice. Costly monuments will arise to commemorate their deeds, but meanwhile we can perpetuate their memories in familiar places. It has been happily suggested that we should adorn our yards, our waysides, each park with young trees, each named for some one of Michigan's fallen sons.

"It has been further suggested that in every city and village and township a Victory Elm should be planted to commemorate the great triumph of Freedom and Democracy. "It is fitting too that I should at this time call attention to the fact that Act number Fifty-nine of the Public Acts of 1919 makes it unlawful for anyone to keep upon his premises mahonia bushes or any other variety of barberry bush which harbors and spreads the black rust of wheat or other grains. I, therefore, recommend that these noxious shrubs be dug up and destroyed and their places given to harmless ornamental shrubs.

"I particularly request too that in all Michigan schools appropriate Arbor Day exercises be held, following, so far as may be practicable, the community program outlined by Mrs. Dora H. Stockman in Moderator Topics of April 10, 1919."

REGARDING LUXURY TAX.

"Ten per cent tax will not be charged by dealers on the entire price of articles coming under the so-called luxury schedule of the revenue act of 1918, as a number of newspaper articles would seem to indicate," said Collector of Internal Revenue James J. Brady of Detroit. For instance, on a lady's hat costing $15 or less, there is no tax, but on all excess of that amount the tax is ten per cent, so that on a $16 hat, Madam Milliner would be required to collect and pay to the government a tax of ten cents; or if the hat were $15.05 a tax of one cent would be collected.

"The luxury tax is not likely to cause many bankruptcies among the ordinary class of people, but it does put upon the business men who have to collect and pay it over to the government a considerable burden in keeping track of sales and taxes due.

"On feature of the law which the general public should be acquainted and which merchants should see that their employees observe and that is that in no case should the purchaser of goods be told that the tax is greater than the amount actually due the government. Section 1319 of the revenue act of 1918 provides that whoever wilfully makes any statement leading a purchaser to believe that any part of the price of an article consists of an United States tax greater than the tax actually imposed, knowing such statement is false, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and be liable to a fine of $1,000 or year's imprisonment, or both.

SCHOOL FOR CLUB LEADERS.

There will be a state training school for Club Leaders in Detroit Friday and Saturday, April 25 and 26, at the Twentieth Century Club, corner Columbia and Wilber streets. There will be twenty-one good speakers from various parts of the state. All phases of boys' and girls' club work will be discussed. A large banquet Friday night.

Washtenaw county will be represented by members of the school boards and county and local leaders of Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti. The school will be open for all who are interested in any organization or activity which has as its object the bettering of the lives of the boys and girls.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Germans Are Summoned to Versailles to Receive Peace Treaty on April 25.

TERMS NOT TOLD TO PUBLIC

Lloyd George's Spirited Defense of His Policy—No Military Intervention in Russia, but Food if Bolshevik Cease Hostilities—Communist Government of Bavaria Fighting Hard.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD.

The peace treaty with Germany is completed and the German delegates have been summoned to Versailles to receive it on April 25.

The associated powers have agreed that there shall be no military intervention in Russia, but that they will send food to that country, under neutral control, if the bolsheviks will stop hostilities.

Those were the outstanding features of the news of last week, and they bore out the optimistic assertions that all was progressing well in the great task of settling the affairs of the world.

The delegation of Germans named to go to Versailles includes the most prominent of the German statesmen now active in the government, except Count von Helldorf, and though they will be given time to submit the treaty to the national assembly at Weimar, it is hoped they will have the authority and the disposition to accept it without that formality, thus obviating delay.

It was asserted in Paris that the allied governments would not wait beyond May 15 for a definite answer as to whether or not Germany would sign the pact. Of course the press and public of Germany are wailing with renewed agony as it is made more evident that the Huns will be required to pay to the utmost limit of their resources, and repeatedly the assertion is made that Germany will not submit to the terms laid down in what is called there a "treaty of violence."

Even Prince Lieknawsky joined the chorus of protests, saying an unjustly extracted peace can only bring forth fresh armaments, and implying that as a last resort Germany will "go bolshevik."

All discussion of the treaty, outside the peace congress, is based on unofficial reports, for the allied delegates decided that it would be foolish, if not dangerous, to reveal the terms of the treaty before it was submitted to the Germans. The public, or considerable parts of it, in England, France and, to a less extent, America, objected strenuously to this policy by which the German national assembly would get the treaty before the rest of the world; but it was sustained by the French chamber of deputies by a vote of 354 to 166, and it was vigorously defended by Premier Lloyd George in his speech to the house of commons.

The British leader argued that if the terms were made public now there would of necessity be much spoken and written criticism of them, since it was hopeless to satisfy everyone, and that those criticisms, reprinted in Germany, would give the enemy the false idea that the terms were objected to by the British public as too harsh, which would encourage the Germans to refuse to sign the treaty.

Lloyd George's speech was declared to be one of the most eloquent and successful ever heard in the house of commons. Primarily, he arose to defend himself against the attacks of his critics, and he not only did that, but pointed defiance at those critics. He declared that his pre-election pledges of exacting full payment from Germany and punishing the former Kaiser and other guilty Huns were to be kept; that the peace commissioners wanted a peace that was just and not merely severe but not vindictive; that military intervention in Russia would be a great blunder, but that the associated nations would be ready to stop any attempt of the bolshevik to overrun Europe by force. The premier asserted that there is complete accord among the allied commissioners, and then he launched into a bitter attack of Lord Northcliffe, whose newspapers, he said, had been striving to sow discord among the allies, to make France distrust Britain and hate America, and America distrust France, and Italy quarrel with everybody. He called attention to the fact that the Northcliffe papers, which formerly ardently supported President Wilson, are now violently attacking all his great ideals, and attacked to the "diseased unity" of their proprietor and his disapproval because he had not been called on to save the world. With the exception, of course, of the Northcliffe papers, the London press gave considerable praise to the premier's speech, and his rejection of any idea of military action in Russia was especially well received.

If Lloyd George's assertion of full agreement among the allied powers is incorrect in any particular, the discrepancy involves Italy. At the close of the week the problem of Fiume had not been solved and the Italians had repeated their informal threats to refuse to sign the treaty with Germany unless that city were given to them instead of to the Jugo-Slavs, as President Wilson wishes. The threats were not taken seriously, however, and it was believed that after the British premier returned to Paris that difficulty would be adjusted. The treaties with Austria-Hungary, Turkey and Bulgaria may not be ready for several weeks after that with Germany is signed.

An interesting report printed in the Frankfurt Gazette says the German peace delegates are prepared to ask from the allies payment for damages sustained from aerial attacks, from the occupation of German territory by allied troops and for the delay in concluding peace, which caused a prolongation of the bolshevik and Spartacist troubles. It is easy to guess how far they will get with such a demand.

The peace commissioners, or at least the correspondents in Paris, were somewhat worried by the setting up of the communist government in Munich, fearing lest this might make necessary a separate treaty with Bavaria, the second state in the German confederation. But it may be that before the treaty is presented the regime of the communists will have come to an end. They have been having a very stormy time so far and the troops of the socialist government have been pressing them hard, though some of the soldiers have joined the communists. That the food boycott of the peasants against Munich is effective is shown by the fact that the communist government has asked for a loan of a million marks from Italy for the purpose of buying food. It is said that chaos rules in Munich, all work has ceased, no trains are running and the banks, shops and houses are being looted. The decrees issued by the communists are many and radical, one ordering the communication of all women, including wives.

In other parts of Germany there was continuous disorder and strikes were started in many places. After further severe fighting in Magdeburg the Ebert troops gained entire possession of the city. In Berlin the employees in various industries struck because they were not given a vote in the management, and the soldiers and noncommissioned officers of the army there also declared they would strike if the order reducing their pay to a peace-time basis was not rescinded. Troubles with the workmen in Bremen stopped the unloading of American food ships there. In the Cologne district, occupied by the British, General Plumer ordered the strikers to return to work at once and threatened the severe punishment of all persons found committing or countenancing strikes in the zone of British occupation.

Apparently the state of affairs in Russia just now may be summarized in the statement that bolshevism is increasing in force but losing prestige. The director of the Moscow Red Cross arrived in Copenhagen with contradiction of the predictions that Lenin and Trotsky would soon seek an understanding with the moderate elements. He said bolshevism was giving way to a "new bourgeoisie" and added that the situation in Petrograd is growing worse and that there have been numerous anti-bolshevik outbreaks. However, the Russians claimed Thursday that the soviet forces were gaining confined successes along the whole front from the Baltic to the Black sea, and in southern Russia the situation was such that the allied troops were contented to abandon more positions, following the evacuation of Odessa, and it was predicted that they would soon get out of Sebastopol.

Reports from Liban said the bolsheviks were systematically and swiftly annihilating the bourgeoisie of that town, having shipped 50,000 of them to the island of Haous in the Delta river and forbidden the taking of food to them. That, it may be recalled, was the method adopted by Constantinople to get rid of its horde of pariah dogs.

On Wednesday strong German forces surprised and overpowered the Lithuanians in Liban, overthrew the Lithuanian provisional government and arrested several officials. Premier Ulmanis took refuge with the British mission there and insisted that his government would resist the German demands.

In both Japan and the United States a considerable number of newspapers are busy trying to stir up trouble between the two countries, or professing to find signs of discord in current events. The latest matter to arouse them is the return of Ambassador Ishii, though this may be fairly attributed to the fact that the administration that sent him to Washington has gone out of power. Another possible reason is that Japan's appointment of Baron Yoshiko Sakakura as financial adviser to China was not approved by the United States. A few days ago the story was published that the American troops in Siberia refused to help a Japanese contingent at Harbin because the latter had shot down Russian women and children; the Japanese detachment was practically annihilated. Now it appears the murders were committed by Cossacks and that the Japanese suffered while trying to defend them from another faction of Russians. General Graves would not interfere because American operations there are limited to the protection of property and of the railroad.

The anti-American campaign in the Japanese press is especially lively, and Uncle Sam is accused of being aggressive, hypocritical and selfish, presumably because the Monroe doctrine clause was included in the league of nations convention and the equality of nationals left out. Japan is not cutting quite such an important figure in the Paris negotiations as she had expected to, and the people are rather sore as a result. But there is no fear in official circles that friendly relations will be ruptured.

Affairs are not going smoothly in Poland, and for this some blame may be attached to the policy of the peace delegates in yielding to Germany in the matter of Danzig. Though General Haller's divisions already have begun their movement through Germany to Poland, the Paderewski government has lost prestige, for the people fear that the seaport they so much desire will not be awarded them by the treaty, and even may not be internationalized. There is almost continuous fighting on the borders of the Posen district and it has spread to the East Prussian frontier. Haller's troops are passing through Germany at the rate of three trainloads a day, and each train is accompanied by allied officers and guards. The utmost precautions are taken to prevent conflicts with the German populace.

After having successfully subdued the uprisings in Egypt, Great Britain now is confronted with a yet more serious revolt in the Punjab, India. Martial law was declared in some districts where the governor general said open rebellion exists, and mobs in one city were bombed and subjected to machine gun fire from airplanes.

Down in Mexico a new revolt against the government was nipped in the bud when Carranza troops defeated a body of rebels near Chaviltla. Gen. Aquilino Naranjo, who, with Felix Diaz, headed the movement, was killed.

Hillsdale—Rev. C. A. Wrasley has resigned the pastorate of the Jonesville and Moscow Methodist churches because of ill health. He will go to St. Johns to take up other work.

Saginaw—C. P. Wickham and N. W. Wickham have commenced suit for $6,000 damages against the Michigan Railway company for damages alleged when their auto was struck by a street car.

Port Huron—Port Huron's bonded indebtedness is given as $1,060,967 and will be increased to $1,430,967 by bond issues authorized within two weeks. The limit of bonded indebtedness is $1,937,236.

Lansing—A. F. Vorce, Grand Haven, has been voted $10,000 by the city to establish an industry here employing 30 hands. The Chamber of Commerce has a fund of $150,000 available to promote industrial enterprises.

Lansing—Wallace Foster, 9, son of Frank Foster, well known insurance man, died at Pauline Stearns hospital after being run down by an auto driven by Judge Clark Jagger. The accident was said to have been unavoidable.

Saginaw—The Federal Sand & Gravel company, capitalized at $150,000 of which C. W. Luce, of East Tawas, is president, and John S. Porter, of Saginaw, vice-president and general manager, has been organized here replacing the Huron Shore, Marquette and other such companies.

Kalamazoo—Bondsman for Chas. Mahan, who absconded with $3,000 of county funds three years ago while treasurer, will have to pay his short-coming, Judge Fred Lamb has ruled. These affected are Wm. H. Hockes, M. M. Lehr and Sol Loder. Mrs. Zora Cole, who was one of the original bondsmen, already has paid her $1,500.

Romeo—A team of horses owned by the W. Humsey company ran away. In its flight down East St. Clair street the runaway team collided with a team attached to a wagon loaded with bags. The impact drove one of the horses against a tree, killing it. The horses were thrown about the street and four of the nine had to be killed. The runaway team was uninjured.

Portland—Charles Mansil, a prominent farmer, has been missing from his home for over a week. Searching parties have dragged Grand river and looked in every possible place since then but with no avail. Close friends and relatives believe he went temporarily insane and wandered away and will eventually come back. Mansil has a wife and daughter.

Muskegon—Ordering Louis P. Haight, Muskegon's "sand land farmer" to pay a judgment of $1,270, with interest, to Peter Ilmarinen who he ran down with an automobile several days ago, within twenty days Judge P. S. Lamb, of Cadillac, sitting in the local circuit ruled that a receiver would otherwise be appointed to handle the business of the Muskegon Knitting mills. Haight's private venture, until such judgment was paid.

Adrian—Recommendations for the improvement of Adrian's fire protection, which, if adopted, will place the city in the "three and a half" classification on insurance rates, were submitted to members of the new city commission by engineers of the Michigan Inspection bureau. Adrian now has fourth rate classification and the representatives of the fire prevention bureau said that the decreased rate will be an average saving of about 6 per cent on all insurance premiums.

Pontiac—The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. John William Schneider, both aged 18, were found lying in bed at their home, 18 Adams street, by their landlord who called to collect rent. They had been dead for at least a week. Marks on the faces may be acid burns, but doctors say indications are that the couple died of poisonous poisoning. Officers are proceeding, however, on the theory of double suicide and have sent the stomachs to state chemists for analysis. The landlord, when he came to collect rent, finding a real door open, entered.

LOAN GOES OVER TOP WITH WHOOP

REPORTS FROM ALL PARTS OF COUNTRY INDICATE LARGE OVER-SUBSCRIPTION.

DETROIT AGAIN BLAZES TRAIL

Michigan's Metropolis Leads Way For Nation. Several State Districts Raise Quota First Day.

Washington.—The fifth liberty loan—the victory loan—drive started off with a rash Monday. The morning was still very young when telegrams and telephone messages started to pour in on treasury officials and each told of quotas attained or over-subscribed. The fact that all over-subscriptions are to be turned back in the present loan did not seem to prevent making large over-subscriptions the object of workers all over the country.

Detroit Leads the Country.

Detroit.—Detroit oversubscribed its Victory loan quota by $7,66,087, the first day of the drive. The exact figures for the day were $83,159,500. The quota called for was $55,494,413.

Unequaled in the financial and patriotic history of this magic city, this achievement surpasses all records of financial endeavor upon the pages of Detroit's wonderful history. Four great Liberty loans have come and gone and in each, Detroit led the nation. In this the fifth clarion call of nation for patriotic expression in terms of dollars, this city holds the right of line in the great pageantry of American cities, each striving by might and main to outdo the others.

Ingham Over First Day.

Lansing.—For the third consecutive time under the volunteer plan for Liberty loan subscriptions the Capital City Monday had oversubscribed at an early hour in the afternoon its quota of $1,276,755. Before evening the quota for Ingham county, which is $1,658,190, had been passed.

Employees of the Old Motor works here alone, not including any company subscriptions, totaled more than one-third of the city's quota.

East Lansing had reached its quota before 9 o'clock in the morning, and the township of Leslie was the first outlying district to go over, reaching the mark at 11 a. m.

Mt. Pleasant Doubles Quota.

Mt. Pleasant.—Mt. Pleasant reached its Victory loan quota of 10 o'clock Monday morning and before night had over-subscribed more than 100 per cent. Chairman A. E. Gorman received a telegram from District Chairman Fenton congratulating Mt. Pleasant as one of the first cities in Michigan to go over the top.

Tecumseh Hops Over.

Adrian.—Tecumseh Township was the first Lenawee County unit to absorb its quota of the Victory Loan. The Tecumseh people had taken enough of the loan at 8 o'clock Monday morning to put their town over the top.

TEST FEDERAL RATE CONTROL

Supreme Court to Review Rail and Phone Increases.

Washington.—Steps looking to early determination of the government's authority under the joint resolution of congress by which control of the railroads and telephone systems of the country was taken over, to fix interstate rates, have been taken by the supreme court in agreeing to expedite consideration of test cases brought under the resolution.

The court fixed May 5 for hearing arguments and final decisions before the court adjourns in June for the summer was considered probable by court officials.

Three cases in all will be argued. One is an appeal from the South Dakota supreme court decree denying the authority of the postmaster general to increase telephone toll rates. An appeal from the North Dakota supreme court denies the director general of railroads has power to increase freight and passenger rates in that state and enjoins the Northern Pacific railroad from carrying out the director general's orders.

The third case is an appeal from Massachusetts upholding the postmaster general and dismissing proceedings instituted by the state to prevent the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co. from increasing its rates.

$10,000 Voted to Compile War History

Lansing.—Without a dissenting vote, the senate passed Senator William Bledsoe's bill to appropriate $10,000 to be used for the publication of a history of the Thirty-second division. The state of Wisconsin is expected to appropriate an equal amount and the history will be published jointly by the two states. There was no opposition to Senator Connelly's bill appropriating fifteen thousand dollars for repairing the armory at South Haven, Michigan.

A sound, healthy man is never a back number. A man can be as vigorous and able at seventy as at twenty. Condition, not years, puts you in the class. DICK'S RETURN

By MARY C. BRIGGS.

(Copyright, 1919, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"There, the last lesson is over, but I just know I'll never dare parlez-vous a single word when there's anyone around," sighed pretty Constance, flushed and bright-eyed from her brisk walk home from the French class.

As Constance sat before the fire her thoughts flew forward to the coming dance to be given in honor of Dick G., who had just returned from "over there," and then backward to her last meeting with Dick.

It was the night before he had left for camp and her mother was giving a party in honor of Constance's eighteenth birthday. Early in the evening Dick had drawn her aside and told her that he wished to leave the party early in order to spend as much time as possible with his mother, but asked her permission to come again before he left. There was a certain closeness to his hand-clasp, and in his eyes, as he gazed into hers, there was a peculiar intensity that left her startled and ungluing to her finger tips, happy but too breathless to speak.

And then, in the midst of this paradise, Jack H. came to claim her for the next dance. Relieved at any excuse to get away and stop the flood of color rising to her face, she quickly swung into the fox trot with Jack, but not before she saw the look of hurt disappointment in Dick's eyes. This was the look that had haunted Constance for over a year now, for Dick did not come back after the party nor had she ever seen or heard from him since. Why had he not written? Surely he must have seen that she had left him for the dance with Jack only to cover her confusion. But the fact remained—he had not cared enough for her to even write. And Constance wiped a tear of despair from her eyes.

Then she recalled how a certain picture of herself had disappeared from the library table that night, and how they never had been able to find it afterward. At first she had almost dared to hope that Dick had taken it, but common sense told her that a man who went soldiering could not carry a 16-inch, full-length portrait concealed about his person, no matter how much he loved the girl; and besides, Dick apparently did not care and had forgotten her.

The night of the dance came and Constance had never been more dazzling and brilliant. She had determined to be the perfect butterfly if only to show Dick G. how indifferent she was to his lack of attention that year of absence, and her merry laughter and gay French repartee, wonderful recommendations for the little French professor, made her the belle of the ball.

It was not until late in the evening that Dick was able to secure a dance with her, and then, when the dance was half over, utterly oblivious of her graciousness in allowing him a whole dance, he led her from the ballroom out to the cool veranda.

"Do you know why I asked you to come out here where we can talk?" he whispered as soon as they were alone.

Once more Constance felt the same emptiness in the region where her lungs ought to be, although she could hear herself fairly wheezing. Once more she was struck dumb, though all sorts of bright French retorts chased through her mind, but refused to cross her lips, she gave one big stifled gasp, however, as Dick continued:

"It's because you're the only girl I've met this evening who hasn't made me want to duck for my little French dictionary. When a chap's been hearing and only half understanding a foreign language for over a year, you're no idea how good it seems to hear his mother tongue spoken by a familiar voice."

"Besides," he continued, "I want to return this to its proper owner, although I must apologize for its condition," and he drew from his pocket a small, beautifully chased gold frame, containing a small picture of herself cut from the one long missing from her library table. Pointing to an ugly bullet scar on the frame, he continued hurriedly:

"Once this little frame saved my life," and he showed her where the bullet still lodged. "And many other times this sweet face and the thought of her at home saved me from much worse. Constance, I had intended to ask for the subject of this little picture before I went away, but my foolish jealousy sealed my lips. Now I'm returning the picture, may I not claim the original?"

At last Constance found her voice, and the words that she spoke were French, not the brilliant repartee she had practiced, but a little three-word sentence she learned in her first lesson. This time Dick felt no inclination to duck for his dictionary; he reached for her hands instead, and as he drew her close the smile that he gave her—well, that is the same in all languages.

A Sporadic Case.

The Doctor: "I'm sorry to tell you that yours is a pronounced case of parents."

Old Man Tangierist: "I don't see where I could have caught it. I isn't never been to Paris in my life."

Forensic Skill.

Judge: "Are you positive the prisoner is the man who stole the horse?" Witness: "I was, your lordship. (He that lawyer cross examined me. He made me feel I stole it myself.)"

County Farm Agent Oster says that there is a scarcity of farm labor this year which is even more noticeable than last year, and that at the present time there is a greater demand for farm workmen of all kinds. The farm bureau has at the present time a dozen or more requests for single men, married men, or even good boys with farm experience. He also says that there is a prospect that the crop acreage this year will be greatly cut down on account of the scarcity of farm help.

The Loyal Circle of the M. E. church will meet with Mrs. Edwin Koebbe, Wednesday, April 30.

MORE BEEKEEPERS NOT NECESSARY FOR INCREASED PRODUCTION OF HONEY CROP

Make Room—Room for Bee Broods, Room for Honey.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

For increased production of honey it is not necessary to have more beekeepers. It is necessary only for these beekeepers to have more knowledge of honey production and to devote themselves more seriously to the care of their bees, say experts of the United States department of agriculture. Statistics show that the annual average yield of surplus honey to the colony is exceedingly low, and when compared with the average of the better beekeepers it is insignificantly low and indicates unsatisfactory management due to neglect or to ignorance.

A casual survey of beekeeping practices makes it evident that the greatest cause of this low production is lack of care during the critical periods of the year. Broadly, the beekeeping year may be divided into two distinct periods: the period of preparation for the honey flow and the period of the honey flow. During each of these periods the problems are different and may be clearly defined. Usually there is only one period of preparation, which begins at the end of the honey flow in the fall and lasts until the main honey flow the succeeding year. "However, where there is more than one main honey flow, there is a period of preparation of varying length between each one. The beekeeping problem is the same, however, and it consists in securing a colony overwintering with bees ready for the flow when the honey flow starts.

Must Be Ready for Work.
In the North this problem is called wintering, and to the average beekeeper the chief concern is to care for each colony of bees so that it will be in condition to pass successfully through the winter period. This, however, is but a small and easy part of the problem. Bringing bees through the winter will not in itself accomplish the main object of the preparation period, that of securing a colony overwintering with bees at the time of the honey flow. In a large measure the strength of the colony is a direct gauge of the amount of surplus secured and it is to the beekeeper's advantage to do everything which will in any way favor rapid brood rearing during the two months previous to the main flow. This means not only that bees must be wintered, but they must be in such condition in the fall that spring will find them ready and able to undertake this tremendous increase in population.

It will be seen, therefore, that the preparation of bees for the harvest begins not when winter threatens, but immediately after the last main honey flow and continues to the beginning of the first main flow the succeeding year. It is imperative that during all this period each colony have stores in advance of its needs at all times, room for brood rearing and protection from low temperatures and winds. These things are discussed in the bee publications of the United States department of agriculture.

Swarming Must Be Stopped.
Toward the beginning of the main honey flow the problem changes. It is now essential that each colony be prevented from reducing its working force by swarming and that its instinct to store and gather honey be kept dominant. During the period of preparation, the instincts of the bees are in harmony with the desires of the beekeeper, but during the swarming season the instincts of the bee are directly opposed to his interests. Any breaking up of the colony and reduction of the working force by swarming brings a corresponding reduction in the amount of surplus which may be obtained from that colony. Therefore it is to the beekeeper's advantage to prevent swarming in every possible way, and if swarming still occurs, to care for the original large working force may be kept together and may be kept storing honey.

Space an Essential.
The improper understanding of these problems no doubt causes the loss of more honey and has more to do with the low average production than any other factor, specialists believe. The study of these problems is important for those who wish to keep bees commercially, and much information may be obtained concerning them from the bee publications of the department of agriculture. The usual methods of swarm prevention are concerned to a large extent with the supplying of room—room for brood rearing and room for the storing of surplus honey. This is fundamental. Many beekeepers fail to supply enough room for these purposes, and probably no beekeeper supplies too much. During the period of rapid brood rearing, crowded conditions quickly result in a single body in all that the colony has to which to develop. If headed by a good vigorous queen a normal colony needs at least two ten-frame hive bodies for brood rearing alone, and during the honey flow the supplying of four or five supers furnishes more than enough space for nectar storage and the ripening of honey.

As rapidly as the bees begin working rapidly in one super, another should be added below the first. In the same way a third super may be supplied. As a rule the super nearest completion is farthest from the brood nest, and the one in which the brood has been stored is nearest the brood nest. Toward the end of the flow, increase in storage space is not desirable, and the bees are left to fill entirely what supers they have and to open the honey completely. If too much space has been supplied, some of the supers may be removed. The close of the flow marks the beginning of another period of preparation, and if winter is at hand the cycle of the year is complete.

TO KEEP PERMANENT PASTURES STOCKED

Hogs Relish Grasses When the Leaves Are Young.

Good Plan to Have Some Other Stock
Eat Coarser Plants—Safe to Graze
Shots at Rate of Ten to Fifteen to Acre.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
Hogs do not relish grasses except when the leaves are young and tender. Hence it is necessary, for the best results, to keep permanent pastures well stocked. It is usually advisable to have some other stock in the pastures with the hogs to eat the coarser plants. Cattle are best suited for this purpose. Mowing the pasture in late spring should be practiced if the plants become too far advanced.

In most cases it is advisable to have some of the best supplementary forage crops to graze in addition to the pasture. A safe rule is to have at least one acre of good permanent pasture to each head of hogs kept. Of course this acreage could be reduced or the number of hogs increased where a complete succession of supplementary forage crops is raised or where the land is very productive. A greater area should be allowed if the grazing is poor.

The carrying capacity of the various supplementary forage crops varies widely, according to the growth of the crop. As a rule it is safe to graze them at the rate of ten to fifteen hundred head to the acre. A greater number will shorten the grazing period, and fewer animals will lengthen it.

WOMEN IN BUREAUS

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
In more than two-thirds of the states the farm bureaus now include women as well as men in their membership. Boys and girls also have their place in the county organization. As a consequence women are taking an increased interest in community work. Committees and bureaus which have the benefit of feminine as well as masculine judgment on farm questions have a basis for a broader viewpoint than do those composed of men only. The men are said to heartily approve having the bureaus open to their sisters and wives, and in many instances they seem to be even more enthusiastic than their wives are about women joining.

GENERAL FARM NOTES

Both clover hay and cut beans are foods rich in protein.

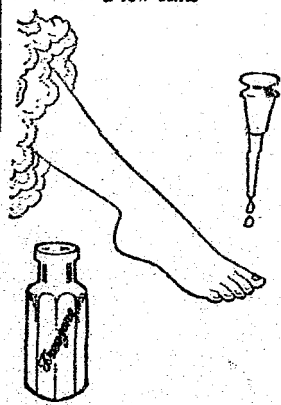

Grow higher crop yields per acre; use more fertilizer and better tillage.

Have a productive orchard, a year-around garden, laying hens and good cows.

Root crops, especially turnips, are the best for clearing the land of weeds.

Important to all Women Readers of this Paper

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it. Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased. You may suffer pain in the back, headache and loss of ambition. Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be despondent; it makes any one sick.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine, will do for them. By enclosing 10c cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., you may receive sample size bottle by Parcel Post. You can purchase medium and large size bottles at all drug stores.—Adv.

There may be nothing new under the sun, but the institutions frequently surpass the original.

GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER

has been a household remedy all over the civilized world for more than half a century for constipation, intestinal troubles, torpid liver and the generally distressed feeling that accompanies such disorders. It is a most valuable remedy for indigestion or nervous dyspepsia and liver trouble, bringing on headache, coming up of food, palpitation of heart, and many other symptoms. A few doses of August Flower will relieve you. It is a gentle laxative. Ask your druggist. Sold in all civilized countries.—Adv.

Love levels all things with the possible exception of the head.

Nervousness and Headaches Caused by Acid-Stomach

There is a much closer connection between the stomach and brain than most people imagine. It is because of this close connection that indigestion, the stomach cool, pure, sweet and holding, sour, gassy stomach and other stomach ills—all of which are sure signs of acid-stomach—are so often followed by severe attacks of blinding, splitting headaches.

Nervousness, sleeplessness, irritability, mental depression, melancholia and many other disorders which affect the brain can also nearly always be traced to the same source—acid-stomach.

So often you hear people say "I am so nervous I think I'll try to pieces!" or "It seems I never get a good night's sleep any more, my nerves are all on edge." Little do they dream that acid-stomach is the direct cause of their troubles because very often there are no pains in the stomach at all. So you see, you can't always judge an acid-stomach condition by the way your stomach, itself, feels.

If you are weak, nervous, unduly tired, or not up to your old time form—if you lack your accustomed enthusiasm, energy and pep—make this test and see if it isn't acid-stomach that is holding you back—robbing you of your health, strength, and vigor. Get a big box of EATONIC—the wonderful modern medicine that so quickly puts the form of pleasant tasting tablets back—be it will refund your money. He that you eat like a bit of candy, doesn't want one penny of your money EATONIC puts this stomach of excess unless EATONIC helps you.

Thousands of people are using EATONIC and the results obtained are so remarkable as to be almost unbelievable. Yet their letters of gratitude, many of which are received daily, prove absolutely that EATONIC does all and even more than we claim. The medical profession, too, recognizes the great value of this wonderful remedy. A learned Michigan doctor wrote recently: "I have had such wonderful success with EATONIC that I want every one to know how quickly it will neutralize the acidity of the stomach (acid-stomach) and the stomach will soon be sweet and normal again, and the sick man well and happy once more."

So be sure to get a big box of EATONIC from your druggist today. If it fails in any way to give you the kind of satisfaction you want, take it back—he will refund your money. He that you eat like a bit of candy, doesn't want one penny of your money EATONIC puts this stomach of excess unless EATONIC helps you.

Western Canada's
"Horn of Plenty"
Offers You Health & Wealth

Western Canada for years has helped feed the world—the same reason why the production of food crops here is so high. While high prices for Grain, Cattle and Sheep are sure to remain, the price of land is much below its value. Land capable of yielding 20 to 45 bushels of wheat to the acre can be had on easy terms at from $15 to $30 per acre—good grazing land at much less. Many farms paid for from a single year's crop. Raising cattle, sheep and hogs brings equal success. The Government encourages farming and stock raising. Railway and Land Companies offer unusual inducements to Home Settlers. Farms may be stocked by lease at moderate rates. Western Canada offers low taxation, good markets and shipping facilities, free schools, churches and healthful climate. A full list of particulars, location of land, etc., apply to Dept. of Lands, Ottawa, Can., or R. V. RICHES, 176 Jefferson Ave., DETROIT, MICH. Canadian Government Agent

LIFE IN ARCHANGEL.

The girl problem is as serious in Archangel, Russia, as in any big military center, says Miss Elizabeth Boles, director of Y. W. C. A. work in Russia, who is home on a short leave of absence.

"Many girls from central Russia went up to Archangel to spend the summer because of the heat and of the food shortage and when military operations were begun in the territory surrounding they were unable to go home. They were virtually refugees without clothes, furs and the heavy winter clothing necessary in that northern region. With the coming of the expeditionary force the housing question became a serious one. We Y. W. C. A. secretaries have fairly comfortable quarters—rooms with beds in and lighted with electricity. To be sure there are several of us in each room.

"Many girl clerical and stenographic workers were needed of course at army headquarters and at the postoffice. This offered employment to some of the refugees and women are doing everything in Archangel, even to running trams and trucking. They need organized recreation and that is what we are trying to give them.
