Fuel Ban Has Been Lifted and Power and Heat are Available.

The common council met Monday evening and ordered the ban on the use of fuel in business places removed, and the stores are now running on the old hours.

Orders from the central coal committee in Washington, Sunday, swept away the last restrictions hampering the industries of the state. Preston G. Findlay, regional fuel distributor of this section, Sunday afternoon removed the ban on power and light and heat consumption, pursuant to the order he received earlier in the day.

The Chelsea factories resumed their operations on their usual schedules Monday, and their employees are at work.

Coincidental with the ban-lifting order was another nullifying instructions under which railroads, since December 2, have confiscated or diverted all coal. This gives consumers assurance that fuel consigned to them will be delivered to them. During emergency, all coal could be seized and the consignee got only such portion of his shipment as the regional fuel distributor saw fit to issue him, on permit.

Schoenhals-Geddes Wedding.

A pretty home wedding took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Schoenhals on Jefferson street, at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, December 16, 1919, when their daughter, Laura Grace, was united in marriage with Mr. William R. Geddes, of Detroit.

The ring ceremony was used and the bride was given in marriage by her father, Rev. P. W. Dierberger officiating. The couple were attended by Miss Louise Strand, of Jackson, and Mr. Max Schoenhals, brother of the bride. The marriage was on the twenty-second anniversary of the marriage of the bride's parents.

The wedding march from Lohengrin was played by Miss Alma Widmayer. Miss Schoenhals was gown in white satin with beaded Georgette overdress, and carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses. Gold cloth and tulle were combined in the bridesmaid's gown, and she carried a shower bouquet of baby chrysanthemums.

The rooms were prettily decorated the color scheme being gold and white, with bouquets of Ophelia roses.

Following the ceremony, a dainty two course lunch was served to forty guests. Mr. and Mrs. Geddes left shortly after lunch for a brief wedding trip. They will be at home to their friends after January 1 at 824 Marlborough avenue, Detroit.

Former Chelsea Woman Loses Jewels.

The following was taken from a dispatch in the daily papers, sent out from Los Angeles, Calif. Mr. Reynolds was a resident of Chelsea many years ago, and is a sister of Mrs. Jas. Runciman of this place.

"A man, registered at the Alexandria hotel, her, as E. Sydney, but who the police say is E. Moore, was arrested by Pinkerton detectives charged with stealing $12,000 worth of gems from the suite in the same hotel of Mrs. Wiley Reynolds, a wealthy tourist from Jackson, Mich. The jewels were stolen some time Wednesday.

"The detectives say Sydney had in his possession a number of pass keys to various rooms in the hotel.

"Detectives believe, however, that Sydney is not operating alone, and a man and woman are now being watched, thought to have been implicated in the jewel theft also. It is expected arrests will follow soon.

"Among the gems taken, which Mrs. Reynolds missed while dressing for dinner, were a tourquoise necklace set with diamonds, purchased in Russia many years ago; a pair of long ear-rings, a bracelet to match the necklace, a butterfly pin set with diamonds and emeralds, a gold chain strung with pearls and white earrings and bracelet to match, and a ring set with a large emerald and two large diamonds.

"Mrs. Reynolds is the widow of the late Wiley R. Reynolds, of Jackson, Mich., who was a wealthy banker and manufacturer. This is her first visit to California, as in the past she spent many of her winters in New York and abroad."

AMERICAN LEGION HOLDS AN IMPORTANT MEETING

Adopts a Number of Resolutions of Importance to the Community.

The local Post of the American Legion gave their first informal smoker at their headquarters Tuesday evening. Forty members were present, including Dr. Don F. Roedel of Detroit, and H. P. Foster of Ann Arbor.

Vance Ogden acted as chairman and introduced N. S. Potter, jr., who gave a short talk on what the people of Chelsea had done in the various phases of war work, and their splendid response to the numerous calls while the present Legion boys were in camp and overseas; also pointing out whereby the action of the Legion might be beneficial to the community. In this he brought out the need of community gatherings with the object of securing the co-operation of the people in the betterment of our schools and especially the education of the foreign born American, who forms a fair percentage of our present population; also the improvement of crossroads, which we have so long neglected.

After Mr. Potter's talk the meeting was thrown open for discussion, a number of members taking the floor and discussing the probable action of the Legion. This discussion ended by a move that a quorum being present, the meeting be opened formally and go on record as a special meeting.

Commander Palmer opened the meeting and the following resolutions were passed:

Resolved, That the American Legion go on record publicly as unanimously in favor of higher salaries being paid our teachers in our public schools, commencing with the next school year, thereby enabling Chelsea to secure or keep the most efficient teachers possible.

Resolved, further, That the foregoing resolution be tendered the present school board in writing.

Resolved, That the American Legion extend a formal invitation to all G. A. R. and United Spanish War Veterans to enjoy the privileges of the club rooms at all times.

Resolved, That the American Flag be raised and lowered at the corner of Main and Middle streets morning and evening, and not be allowed to fly over night as at present.

Resolved, further, That the foregoing resolution be presented to the village council in writing.

After the passing of the above resolutions a committee was appointed to interest the people of Chelsea socially in our own home town, it being brought out that it was believed unnecessary for our young people to go out of town to spend an enjoyable evening. The members of the committee believe they have something that will interest all, and have agreed to exert themselves, to the end that Chelsea will not only lead the surrounding towns in business and industrial lines, but educationally and socially as well.

Michigan-Bred Grain Wins Prizes.

Two Michigan-bred grains, Rosen rye and Red Rock wheat, have assumed the leadership in their respective fields as a result of the hay and grain exposition at Chicago, at which a majority of the prizes in the two grains were taken by Michigan exhibitors.

Rosen rye, which was sent to this country a few years ago by an M. A. C. student after returning to his home in Russia, took first, second, fourth and fifth places among its total of nine awards out of a possible sixteen. First prize in wheat, though it went to an Ohio grower, was won by the Michigan brand of Red Rock. Second award and a number of lower ones went to farmers of this state.

The Chicago record, according to M. A. C. specialists, is only an incident in the strides this grain is making in the United States. Carloads of seed are being shipped to every state in the Union, and the number of thousands of acres cannot be estimated.

In Michigan 80 per cent of the rye grown is Rosen. It occupies probably 300,000 acres. Profits on rye have increased to such an extent that the grain has passed wheat in acreage, in contrast to a few years ago, when only one-third as much was raised.

A regular meeting of the Maccabees will be held on Friday evening of this week.

The schools known as North Lake and Pumpkin College will hold a Christmas entertainment at Grange hall, Tuesday evening, December 23. Everyone is cordially invited to come and enjoy the program.

COMMUNITY COUNCIL IS ORGANIZED HERE

Meeting Held at American Legion Rooms Thursday.

A meeting of a number of Chelsea citizens was held in American Legion hall last Thursday afternoon, for the purpose of organizing a community council for community service for the Chelsea district.

Mrs. Brown, the women's organizer of the county, and Ray E. Bassett, director for community service for the county, explained in detail what community service meant, and the purpose of its organization, and answered many questions with regard to it.

Those attending the meeting were unanimously in favor of the formation of such a central agency to act as a clearing house for all leisure time activities in a real democratic community spirit.

Rev. P. W. Dierberger was persuaded after much urging on the part of those present to accept the chairmanship of the community council. Prof. McCloskey, superintendent of the Chelsea schools, was elected secretary.

A great many activities were discussed and the enthusiasm of this first meeting speaks well for real concerted action on the part of the newly formed council.

Mrs. M. R. Millspaugh.

Miss Persis L. Chase, daughter of Stephen J. and Cordelia Chase, was born in Sylvan, December 20, 1832, and died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. N. Dancer, West Middle street, Tuesday evening, December 16, 1919.

Mrs. Millspaugh was the first white girl born in the township of Sylvan, and her entire life has been spent in this community. Since the death of her husband she has resided at the home of her daughter.

She was united in marriage with M. R. Millspaugh, January 14, 1858.

She is survived by her daughter, Mrs. J. N. Dancer, and one son, Geo. W. Millspaugh, of Ann Arbor, two grandchildren, two sisters, Mrs. June Tuttle of Montague, Mich., and Mrs. E. H. Branch, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

She was a member of the M. E. church.

The funeral was held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Dancer. Interment at Vermont cemetery, Sylvan.

Mrs. John A. Kantelehner.

Miss Malinda Carolina Feikert was born in Winesburg, Ohio, October 1, 1876, and died at her home on South Main street, Chelsea, Monday evening, December 15, 1919.

She was united in marriage with John A. Kantelehner, September 1, 1894, and for the first eleven years of their wedded life they made their home in Ohio, coming to Chelsea fourteen years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Kantelehner made a visit to Ohio recently, returning home about two weeks ago, and shortly after their return, Mrs. Kantelehner was taken ill.

She was a member of St. Paul's church, the Ladies' Aid Society of that church, and The Lady Maccabees.

She is survived by her husband, three sons, Carl P., of Lansing, John R. and Roy A., of Chelsea, one grandson, and four brothers.

The funeral was held Thursday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, at the family home, Rev. A. A. Schoen, of Manchester, conducting the service. Burial in Oak Grove cemetery.

W. R. C. Officers.

The W. R. C. at the meeting last Friday afternoon, elected the following officers:

President—Mrs. Mary L. Boyd.
Senior Vice President—Mrs. Ida Webster.

Junior Vice President—Mrs. Olive Winslow.

Treasurer—Miss Nina Crowell.
Secretary—Mrs. Kittie Wurster.

Conductress—Mrs. Laura Armour.
Assistant Conductress—Mrs. Fannie Frymuth.

BREEDERS' ASSOCIATIONS SAVE MUCH OF PROFIT FORMERLY MADE BY LOCAL BUYERS

Pleasing Profits Are Almost Sure to Attend Co-operative Marketing of Hogs.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Texas formerly was famous as the home of claps, spurs, plowboys, and cowboys, but with the plentiful appearance of barbed wire fences and the influx of small livestock farmers these relics of the range in many cases are winning the discard and are being replaced by A-shaped houses, slopping troughs, self-feeders, and plentiful patches of forage crops—the landmarks of the hog.

County swine breeders' associations have been developed on some scale and for the most part have been of two kinds; one for the purpose of shipping market hogs, and the other with the end in view of promoting and selling registered breeding animals. It has been customary for either of these organizations to purchase feed co-operatively whenever the need of importing feed arose.

About eight months ago a co-operative shipping association was organized in Smith county, Texas, by the extension swine husbandman of the United States department of agriculture. During the past winter and spring this club has marketed nearly $300,000 worth of hogs at an approximate saving of $80,000 to the producers. Previous to the formation of this marketing club it was customary for the local buyers to purchase the hogs, ordinarily paying about 5 or 6 cents below the market price for the fat stock. The get-together club has saved for its members much of the profit formerly made by local stock buyers. Its secretary reports that under co-operative shipments the average cost of freight, shrinkage, commission, and yardage for a hundred pounds of hog on the hoof has amounted to only $1.

How Shipments Are Made.

The secretary of this shipping organization is the local county agent, and whenever enough hogs are ready to ship from farms of the club members to make up half a carload he orders a car and advertises the fact that he will ship hogs from the county seat on a certain date. At the specified time the other farmers in the county that belong to the association assemble their hogs at the station, where the stock is loaded and shipped to the Fort Worth market, the county agent accompanying each shipment in order to see that it is sold to the best advantage and also to make sure that the different grades of hogs are weighed separately.

When the stock is loaded at the shipping point the animals are weighed and usually classified into three grades and thus tagged. A receipt is given to each member who is shipping hogs for the number of pounds that he delivers to the car and the grade that his hogs came under. After the hogs are sold and the county agent returns to the country, he divides the net receipts among the various shippers, after the entire costs have been deducted, according to the number of pounds of pork, on the hoof, each man shipped.

Recently the hog farmers of Smith county have organized a pure-bred swine breeders' association that is under the same auspices and has the same officers as their market association. These stockmen intend to purchase, in the North, one or two carloads of good, registered breeding stock of the highest type and quality. The local banks have agreed to furnish the money, giving the members one year's time in which to pay the debt and requesting each of the members to purchase at least one pure-bred animal. Animals of only one breed of hogs will be purchased in order that the county may specialize in quality hogs of special market uniformity, in addition to selling breeding animals to the surrounding communities.

In Nacogdoches county a swine breeders' association has recently been formed in order to improve marketing conditions. The local buyers have been paying 13 to 14 cents for good, fat hogs, delivered at the railroad during the period when market prices at Fort Worth and at Houston, for animals of similar quality, ranged in the neighborhood of 23 cents a pound. Pleasing profits are almost certain to attend this co-operative marketing project as there has not been a single

HOW RHEUMATISM BEGINS

The excruciating agonies of rheumatism are usually the result of failure of the kidneys to expel poisons from the system. If the irritation of these uric acid crystals is allowed to continue, insurable bladder or kidney disease may result. Attend to it at once. Don't resort to temporary relief. The sick kidneys must be restored to health by the use of some sterling remedy which will prevent a return of the disease.

ENCOURAGEMENT FOR BOYS IN PUREBREDS

Many Live Stock Associations Are Offering Prizes.

Those Interested Are Likely to Grow Into Men Who Develop Best Types of Animals—Two Prize Winners in Delaware.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Boys who own purchased animals are likely to grow into men who are interested in keeping the best types of stock on their farm. Live stock associations are offering encouragement and prizes to the boys in the purebred animal club, supervised by the state colleges of agriculture and United States department of agriculture. The prizes are usually for the best records in the feeding or growing of purebred animals. At the Delaware state fair Thomas E. Jeffries, Jr., of Stanton won the state sweepstakes on his purebred Chester White sow and litter. In recognition of this achievement the Chester White Swine Record association presented him with a $10 membership. At the same fair Franklin V. Maul of Cedar Grove won the sweepstakes on his Duroc Jersey. The Duroc Jersey Breeders' association sent him an engraved gold pencil holder. His picture and that of his pig, the feed record and his club story for the year will be printed in the association's achievement book, which is sent all over the United States.

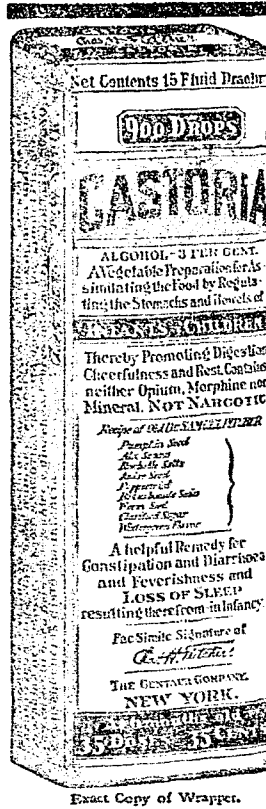

LIVE STOCK NOTES

A self-feeder is particularly desirable for fall pigs.

A most excellent way of harvesting a large part of the corn crop is to "hog it down."

Rig nails, when used for hanging up harness or pretty sure to scratch the leather. Get some big hooks, or put up some wooden pins firmly.

One of the biggest mistakes a live stock man can make is to assume that the hog is naturally a filthy animal. You give him a chance to keep clean and he will pay for it.

The Price of Pork Chops and Bacon

Here are reasons why the fine, fresh pork tenderloins and pork chops, or savory ham, or crinkly bacon, which you enjoy for breakfast, cost much more per pound than the market quotation on live hogs which you read in the newspaper:

An average hog weighs 220 pounds.

Of this, only 70 per cent (154 pounds) is meat and lard.

So, when we pay 15¢ a pound for live hogs, we are really paying more than 21¢ a pound for the meat which we will get from these animals, even after taking into account the value of the by-products.

But people show a preference for only one-third of the whole—the pork chops, fancy bacon, and choice cuts from juicy hams.

This means that when we are selling Premium bacon at 43¢ per pound wholesale and Premium hams at 30¢, there are other parts for which we get as low as 6¢ or 8¢ per pound. The net result is an average profit to us of less than 1¢ a pound.

The choice cuts are higher because of a demand for them.

Another thing: Only 35 pounds of the entire hog—or about 1/6 th—is usually marketed at once. The rest must be pickled, cured, or smoked. This takes months, and adds to the costs which must be met.

The Jury Was Blindfolded AND

—when Hempel stood beside the New Edison and sang in direct comparison with its RE-CREATION of her voice, not a man could tell one voice from the other.

Do you realize that this is the most severe musical test ever attempted? Do you appreciate that blindfolded these musical experts greatly increased their acuteness of hearing?

But acuteness of hearing did not avail. Like in 2,000 previous tone-tests, the New Edison proved that its RE-CREATION was not merely like Hempel's voice. It was Hempel's voice—indistinguishable from her living voice.

If you own a phonograph, or know phonographs, you must realize how wonderful this is,—how extraordinary these Edison RE-CREATIONS must be. You will still further realize this when you come into this store and hear them for yourself. Make Hempel the basis of this interesting discovery. BREVITIES

Jackson—Our city school trustee officer, M. H. Silkworth, is as busy as our county trustee officer, George H. Mann. He has had to "discipline" 656 pupils for truancy since the fall term opened but has made only nine arrests.—Saturday Evening Star.

Ann Arbor—Plans for the reorganization of old Co. I, Michigan National Guard, with its members former enlisted men and officers of Co. E, 125th Infantry, which saw service in France, were completed here on Tuesday. An active campaign for personnel will start Friday.

Ann Arbor—H. G. Schwartz, said to be a Wayne county deputy sheriff, held here on the charge of importing whisky into Michigan, furnished $3000 cash bail here Monday for appearance for circuit court trial. He pleaded not guilty. A. J. Singer, arrested at the same time as Schwartz, was fined $122 and $75 costs by Judge Sample.

Ann Arbor—Two Ann Arbor men have been awarded the United States navy's bronze cross for distinguished service in the line of duty during the war period. Lieut. Carl V. Essery, son of Commissioner of Schools Essery, received the decoration from the navy department a did Ensign Arthur Cortwright of this city. Mr. Essery is at present a practicing attorney in Detroit. William H. Wilmot, of Milan, also received the navy cross.

Howell Stephen Fishback, shoemaker, 50 years old, succeeded in saving his home, where he lived alone, but he lost his life Thursday night. When he did not appear at his shop Friday morning his brother, Leonard, found him lying dead on the threshold of the house, marked with burns but apparently suffocated. Evidence showed he had been overcome struggling to the air after putting out a fire which had started from a stove.

Ann Arbor—Peter Poletek of Jackson, was arrested by Patrolman Bennett Saturday morning at the Ann Arbor railway depot on a charge of violating the liquor laws. Poletek was transporting a suitcase full of whisky from Toledo in direct violation of the law. He was lodged in jail that morning to await the disposition of the court. Deputy George Gillespie made a tour of inspection Friday on the Ann Arbor railway trains and found several bottles of whisky, but could find no one to claim ownership to them.

Manchester—Manchester is rejoicing over the result of the village election Monday, the village securing a twenty-four hour electric light service. The proposition as voted on was, "Shall the village of Manchester be bonded for $7,000 to be used exclusively for the construction of a line between Manchester and Clinton, at six cents per kilowatt, the same to be used for twenty-four hour light service." The proposition carried 388 for and 18 against. Manchester is now assured of one or more factories, whose coming depended on the result of the election.

Ann Arbor—John Nuss, 60, former proprietor of a restaurant in connection with the St. James hotel at Ann Arbor, is under arrest at Munising, charged with the murder of his son, Frank, on the evening of October 14. The coroner's verdict was as follows: "We find that Frank Nuss came to his death on October 14, 1919, at a lonely spot in Matthias township by a charge of fine shot from a shotgun held in the hands of his father, John Nuss." Nuss was arrested at once and held without bail. During the investigation, Sheriff Thornton will investigate the circumstances which led to the violent death of Mrs. Nuss, in Tennessee, a year ago. Nuss claims that his wife died from injuries received in an automobile accident.

Ypsilanti—A little boy in Ypsilanti deserves much praise for his detective work recently. A party of eight young men, students of the Normal college, entered "Little Jim's" fruit store and confectionery on West Cross street and in some mysterious way the electric lights went out. Then when the boys went out they took with them the little show case containing gum and mints. They divided equally the goodies. Little did they know the boy had witnessed the act and followed them, and when they neglected to pull down the window shade the little fellow climbed a tree and watched them with interest. His next duty was to report to the chief of police, John Connors, who called the young men to police court and advised them to settle with "Little Jim," which they did for $10. Ypsilanti Record.

Ann Arbor—Students of the University of Michigan will start on their Christmas vacation Friday. Saturday classes have been canceled, to give students an opportunity to get home by Sunday. They are due to return by January 6.

Jackson—The high fir tree which has been lying on Jackson street in front of the county jail was raised Monday and will be soon in readiness for Christmas decorations. The estimated height of the tree is seventy-five feet, and it will be clustered with incandescents bulbs of various colors as other trees in former years.

Jackson—Sixty-five aliens Sunday afternoon were rounded up and brought to the police station by members of the American Legion, led by Capt. David Phillips and Capt. Percy L. Taylor. Mayor Sparks and government agents from Washington examined all these men, one at a time, and found three wanted by the government. Four were ordered out of town, and fifty-eight were given friendly advice to take out American citizenship papers and study English, or go back to their home lands across the sea. All except the three wanted by the government were released. They were nearly all Bulgarians or Russians.

Ypsilanti—Mrs. May Moreau, plaintiff in a $10,000 damage suit brought against E. C. Bartlett, prominent Ypsilanti business man, who she charges with assault early last winter, was herself taken into custody Monday, charged with obtaining money under false pretenses. She was arraigned before Justice D. Z. Curtiss and remanded to jail pending her hearing, having been unable to provide $1,000 bail. The charge against her involves the sum of $250, complaint having been made by Mrs. Anna Stein. The case pending against Bartlett has aroused considerable local interest. He maintains his innocence and at a recent hearing plaintiff was required to post security for costs.

MANY SEEK COVETED TITLE

Thousands of Young Chinamen Undergo Severe Examination in Hope of Becoming Mandarins.

Though Chinese education is gradually undergoing change, candidates for the title of mandarin still gather at three-year intervals in Chinese cities, and the examiners sit in their robes of state under their umbrellas and conduct the examinations. Many of the younger generation nowadays have imbibed a western idea of education; but many still begin with the Book of Three Characters, the Book of a Hundred Families and the Book of a Thousand Words, and pursue an educational system that is held to be more than 30 centuries old, to the ultimate triumph of becoming mandarins and enjoying the ceremonial honors, distinctive costume and an individual reputation for wisdom and learning, that go with the title. The examination consists in the writing of philosophical and political essays, exposition of the sayings of Confucius, commenting on Chinese texts and the composition of sentences and maxims in prose and verse.

The number of candidates at such examinations still counts up into the thousands. Sometimes their failures, one might say, in the phrase with which western editors return ambitions contributions, have been "due to no lack of merit," for the number of nominees to be filled at any one time in the list of mandarins is very small compared with the number of candidates. Christian Science Monitor.

Ponds Like Pools of Ink.

In cross-country flying, clear, quiet ponds of water are usually the darkest areas in the landscape. 16,000 they appear like pools of ink and their relative brightness is much less than that of black velvet. This is explained. The water is perfectly clear and the bottom is black and porous. Little or no light is reflected except from the surface.

Incidentally a pond of this type provides the best mirror in the landscape, for its background is almost perfectly dark, which is not the case for turbid water. If one watches very carefully he can detect the image of the airplane reflected in the water without difficulty at 2,000 or 3,000 feet. This gives a true vertical line which may be of use on some occasions. At least observation of this image gives a record of the horizontal speed regardless of other movements of the airplane. M. Luckiesh in the Scientific American.

Harvest and Hunter's Moon.

The full moon nearest the autumnal equinox (September 22) is known as the "harvest moon." Owing to the occurrence of minimum retardation in the time of rising at that period, this moon rises at nearly the same time on several successive nights. It rises early and gives the husbandmen who have been playing golf all day an opportunity to gather their crops, hence its name. The "hunter's moon" is the moon following the "harvest moon." The occasion for its name is obvious. It occurs at the season of the year when the country youth, the harvest having been gathered, slings his gun over his shoulder and wanders through the woods in search of the gray squirrel and other larger game.

A VISITOR

By BARBARA WOOD.

"Who's there?" Polly Anderson sat up in bed with a start. Her breath came fast and her heart beat like a little trip hammer.

"Who's there?" she called again; this time her voice was steadier. But there was no answer. Slowly, oh, so slowly, Polly slipped two pink little feet out from under the covers, and without taking her eyes from the door she felt around on the floor for her slippers. After a moment or two of vain searching she dropped her eyes to look for them.

As she looked away the door opened swiftly and noiselessly and someone, or something, was in the room. But Polly was intent upon finding the slippers which had so mysteriously disappeared. Her curly head and bare, round arms were half way under the bed and she was saying to herself:

"Why didn't I snap on that light?" Now Miss Polly Deekwith Anderson was not in the least a nervous or timid young lady. She was what her gentle acquaintances called "a sport through and through," and she could recall many a delightful day spent "breaking" one of her father's colts or at target practice with her two brothers. But when she heard her name spoken in a hoarse whisper by a man in her own room at two o'clock in the morning her heart stood still for the space of a quickly drawn breath.

First, two shoulders clad in pink silk, then two arms, soft and white, and last a head and face hidden from view by a dark mass of curls made their way slowly and fearfully out from their recent hiding place.

With a toss of her head she threw her hair over her shoulders and lifted wide, frightened eyes to look into the face above her. In an instant she was on her feet, and her eyes, even in the dark, gleamed with anger.

"Robert Anderson, what do you mean by frightening me like this? Answer me!"

Bob shook with suppressed laughter as he put his finger to his lips.

"But where have you been, and why did you come in here and scare me half to pieces?" Polly asked, noticing that he was still wearing his daytime attire.

"Listen here, Polly-o,—her brother was serious now and was fumbling in his inside coat pocket—I saw Dave tonight and he asked me to give you this." With that he handed her a note addressed to "P. R. A."

But Polly did not take it. She was staring at him with a great light in her eyes. Finally she whispered:

"You saw David—my David?"

"Yes, little sister, and he's pretty lonesome for you, too, I guess. He took me out to the little new cottage he has built and furnished for you, and, Polly, it's a beauty. There's nothing he's forgotten. He asked my advice about a few things for your own sunshiny boudoir because, as he expressed it, I was more acquainted with girls' things. Dave may make money on the quality and excellence of his portraits, but no portrait he ever painted will be equal to the one you will make with the home he has made you for a setting. Why, girl, he pictured you in every nook and corner; the place couldn't belong to another person in the world. But here's your note; it's time for me to retire."

Polly took the note and reached up to kiss her big brother good night.

"Oh, Bobby, Bobby," she whispered, "I love him so much, and you understand so well! If only father were a little more like you."

Bob stroked her hair.

"Never mind, Polly-o," he said gently, "he'll be all right after it's over. It's just that he hates to lose his only daughter."

When Bob was gone Polly opened the note and her fingers were trembling a little as she read it. She had not snatched on the light until Bob left, and when she did it showed dark, fired rings under her beautiful, heavily fringed eyes. There was a sad little drop to her sweet lips. And yet she was happier than she had ever been, for she was going to David. Three long years they had waited for her father to give his permission to their marriage, and at last Polly had told David that it would be wrong to wait any longer.

And now she held David's answer in her hand. Through her tears she read: "Come, dear heart, I am waiting, and everything is ready for the address of our home." There was more, but the word "come" was all that really mattered.

"Yes, David, I am coming," she whispered, and with a little sob she threw her head down on her arms and cried, "Daddy, daddy, I must."

For three days Bert Anderson fussed and fumed because his daughter was not there to wait on him; he always did when she went away to visit.

At last there came a day when Mr. Anderson received a letter written in Polly's own hand. When he finished reading his face flushed with anger.

"Thunder!" he blurted out. Then very slowly he began to review the years since Polly's mother had died. Always it was Polly who comforted him; Polly who made him laugh; Polly whose girlish loveliness had made him so proud. When at last he remembered how Polly's face had grown and the last few years, and why, he dropped his head into his hands and whispered:

"My little daughter, I've been a fool; and at last I know it. Can you forgive me, dear child?"

Polly had asked forgiveness first, but it was she who gave it at last.

Reserves vs. Current Demands

The calling rate at the telephone switchboard is enormous these days and the telephone companies everywhere are pressed for facilities to meet the ever-increasing demand for, and use of, the service.

In Michigan the customary construction program, that is, customary under pre-war conditions, was abandoned during active hostilities in order that the Bell System might devote all of its energy, all of its ingenuity and thousands of its trained assistants to the winning of the war.

The result is that the demand for facilities has overtaken the supply and today the Michigan State Telephone Company finds itself living from hand to mouth, so to speak, in the matter of facilities.

It is difficult to build up reserve facilities and at the same time meet current demands. The unavoidable delays in construction work have been discouraging, at times, both for the Telephone Company and the public. But the turn in the road seems now in sight and the management feels confident that, shortly, the Company will be prepared to respond to all demands for service.

WHY WE PAY 5 PER CENT AND MORE, ON SAVINGS

It is because we share ALL of the earnings above actual expenses with ALL of the people who do business with us. EVEN THE BORROWER shares in the earnings.

FIVE PER CENT is at least more than 3 per cent and 25 per cent more than 4 per cent. "Say! Would you work for 3 dollars a day if you could get 4 dollars—or better yet—5 dollars a day?" Why should your money work for less than you would?

Many Changes in Election Law.

The last state legislature made many changes in the registration and election laws of the state.

One of the most important of the changes is that of changing the time for the general re-registration of all voters, heretofore held in October of each presidential year, to June, July and August of presidential years. This law provides for registration days in all these three months, with a limit of five days altogether. The object of the change is to bring the re-registration in advance of the August primaries.

Provision is also made for the registration of new voters under the absent voter law, and this law is so extended that it includes all voters absent from their home precincts on election day, instead of only a few specified class of workers, as heretofore.

One other new election statute requires that all persons registering for a vote must take an oath of allegiance to the United States, while another increases to three the number of state committeemen from each congressional district.

Soldier Tax Claim Denied.

Auditor General Fuller on Thursday refused to allow the first claim against the state for payment of soldiers and sailors' taxes under a law passed by the legislature of 1919, which became effective August 14.

The claim was for $200 for the taxes on property owned by soldiers, sailors and their widows.

Mr. Fuller holds that the act does not require taxes being collected this month on soldiers' property to be paid by the state. The law provides that the state shall pay the taxes on property of soldiers and sailors of the World, Spanish-American and Civil wars and their widows after they have been placed on the tax rolls.

The soldier to have his taxes paid by the state must file an affidavit showing that he was a soldier and claim exemption from taxes. This must be filed at the time the assessment is taken. For taxes now being collected the assessment was taken in April and May, and Mr. Fuller holds that since the assessment was made before the law became effective the state is not liable for the taxes.

The auditor general estimates that more than a half million dollars will be paid by the state for soldiers and sailors' taxes next year. Under the law such property is exempt to $1000 but those whose property is worth more than $3000 lose their claim to exemption.

Minister Wants to Help.

It is only natural that one who has been relieved from suffering should feel grateful and want to help others. Rev. W. F. M. Swindole, 818 Elm St., Macon, Ga., writes: "My kidneys gave me much trouble before I took Foley Kidney Pills. My sleep is not disturbed now and my back seems to have gotten completely well. I am ready at any time to speak a word for Foley Kidney Pills." Why suffer from aches and pains, sore muscles, stiff joints, or sleep disturbing bladder trouble when you can procure such a good remedy? Sold everywhere.—Adv.

Camel CIGARETTES

CAMELS supply cigarette contentment beyond anything you ever experienced! You never tasted such full-bodied mellow-mildness; such refreshing, appetizing flavor and coolness. The more Camels you smoke the greater becomes your delight—Camels are such a cigarette revelation!

Everything about Camels you find so fascinating is due to their quality—to the expert blend of choice Turkish and choice Domestic tobaccos.

You'll say Camels are in a class by themselves—they seem made to meet your own personal taste in so many ways!

Freedom from any unpleasant cigarette after-taste or unpleasant cigarette odor makes Camels particularly desirable to the most fastidious smokers. And you need Camels as liberally as meets your own wishes, for they never tire your taste! You are always keen for the cigarette satisfaction that makes Camels so attractive. Smokers realize that the value is in the cigarettes and not in the premiums or coupons!

Compare Camels with any cigarette in the market and you will find the difference in quality.

LOCAL NOTES

Damn those little birds that John Burroughs saw. Why didn't they stay at home?

Born, on Tuesday, December 16, 1919, to Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Barth, of West Middle street, a daughter.

Charles Neuberger, of Highland Park, has sold two lots on Taylor street, Chelsea, to William Cassidy.

Robert Foster, who was confined to his home for some time past, has recovered sufficiently to be able to be about again.

Miss Emil Spiegelberg entertained a number of her friends last Thursday at a 6 o'clock dinner, in honor of her birthday.

The Hoover Steel Ball Co. has men at work installing the machinery in the new addition to the plant which was recently completed.

F. E. Belser has purchased the pool-room and bowling alley of John Hauser, situated in the Merkel building on South Main street.

Fred H. Lewis, organist, and Robert R. Dietrich, baritone soloist, will give a concert at the Congregational church Sunday evening, December 28.

The senior class of the Chelsea high school gave their play, "Professor Pepp," in the Dexter opera house last Friday evening to a good sized audience.

Thomas Young, of Lynden, returned to his home Sunday from the hospital in Jackson, where he has been taking treatment. He is very much improved in health.

The postoffice will close at 9 o'clock a. m. Christmas Day. The rural carriers will make their trips on that day, in order to assist Santa Claus in his work.

Mr. and Mrs. John Acker have leased the F. H. Lewis residence, corner East and Summit streets. Mr. Acker is superintendent of the Michigan Portland Cement Co.

Mrs. M. J. Dunkel has returned home from the hospital in Ann Arbor, where she had her tonsils removed. She has fully recovered from the effects of the operation.

There were a few Chelsea people who heaved sighs of relief when Wednesday passed and they found the old world rolling along in the same manner as heretofore.

The following pupils of district 4, Lynden township, received one hundred per cent in punctuality and attendance: Henry Fox and Margaret Remnant. Mrs. Max Kalmbach is the teacher.

Leon Chapman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. K. Chapman, has been suffering from an attack of pneumonia for the past ten days. From reports this morning, the young man is holding his own.

Edward Weiss has rented his farm in Lima township to Albert Schiller. Mr. and Mrs. Irvn Weiss, who have been on the farm for several years, are making arrangements to leave the place at an early date.

Miss Ruth Saylor, who has been employed as stenographer at the office of the Michigan Portland Cement Co. for several years, has accepted a similar position with the Hoover Steel Ball Co., of Ann Arbor.

The American Legion boys have a telephone in their club room now, so, mothers, when you want your sons, the number is 74. Regular meetings are held at 7:30 p. m. on the second and fourth Mondays of each month.

Everett Benton is working at his ice houses, preparing them for storage of ice for the coming season. The ice is nearly eight inches thick and of excellent quality. He will begin the work of preparing the ice for cutting, Saturday.

Word has been received here of the death of Miss Florence Caster, Monday, at Detroit, where she resided with her mother. Burial was at Plymouth. Miss Caster was well known in Chelsea, her father, Rev. E. E. Caster, being a former pastor of the M. E. church here.

The sophomore class of the Chelsea high school gave J. M. Martin, teacher in the commercial department, a farewell reception in Macabee hall Saturday evening. Both Mr. and Mrs. Martin have been teaching in the high school since the present term commenced in September, and have resigned and will return to their home in Albion at the close of school for the holiday vacation. The school board has the promise of two instructors to take their places when the schools open in January.

Public Health Nursing Report.

During the month of November there were 208 visits made, 63 of which were nursing visits; $25.50 was collected for the latter.

One school of fifteen children was examined. There have been three corrections in the schools examined.

The Chat au' Sea club has shown an interest in the work and is doing some sewing. We appreciate their cooperation.

At the last clinic, held December 10, there were only seven children examined. Three of these were found to be in a healthy condition. The next clinic will be held on January 14, from 1 to 4 p. m. We hope the day will not be as cold as last clinic day, so the little ones can come out.

Tuesday, December 9, the Washtenaw County Public Health Nursing Committee held its monthly meeting in Ann Arbor. Chairman from Dexter, Milan, Saline, Ypsilanti, Manchester and Chelsea were present, also Mr. Douglas, chairman of the County Red Cross Chapter, Mrs. Boynton, chairman of the county nursing committee and nurses from the county.

Reports from all the nurses were read and filed.

Miss Havey, the supervising nurse, gave a total of the work done throughout the county, which constantly shows an increase. School work has begun with all the nurses.

Saline has a part-time school physician and has been doing splendid work in its schools.

Mr. Douglas gave orders for the chairman to go ahead and hire a nurse for the northeastern territory of the county. Headquarters will be in Ypsilanti. This will make seven Red Cross nurses in Washtenaw county, not including Ann Arbor, which is financed by that locality.

Mrs. Fannie Westfall, of Lima, received a telegram from her grandson, Rev. Corwin Westfall, of Blissfield, announcing the death of his wife, at three o'clock this morning.

The H. G. L. girls entertained Saturday evening, at the home of Miss Gladys Spiegelberg, in honor of one of their members, Miss Lara Schoenhals. The house was appropriately decorated with red hearts and cupid, and a good time was enjoyed by all.

Miss Frieda Wedemeyer, who has been employed in one of the government departments at Washington, D. C., for the past year and a half, has returned to the home of her mother, Mrs. Fred Wedemeyer, in Ann Arbor, and will resume her studies in the U. of M.

Great Commander Thompson has granted Chelsea Tent, No. 281, The Maccabees, a dispensation allowing the Tent to change its time of meeting from the first and third Fridays of each month to the first and third Wednesdays of the month. The change will take place beginning with January.

S. P. Foster has recently been appointed member of the local board of civil service examiners. This board consists of Walter E. Hummel, secretary, Miss Hannah Hall and S. P. Foster. Any questions concerning government civil service can be handled by this board, either in person or in writing.

The fire alarm just before midnight Wednesday, was caused by a blaze near the chimney, in the roof of Dr. H. H. Avery's residence, on East Middle street. The blaze was extinguished with the aid of the chemicals, and the water was not turned on, much to the relief of the firemen, with the mercury hovering around zero point.

Mrs. Carrie Schiller met with an accident Monday forenoon that will confine her to her home for some time. Mrs. Schiller is employed at the Lewis Spring & Axle Co.'s factory, and while returning to her home, stepped on a piece of snow-covered ice at the corner of Main and Middle street and she was thrown to the pavement, striking in such a manner as to break her left leg midway between the knee and the ankle.

Keeping house is classed as one of the useless occupations by enumerators of the fourteenth government census. The housewives of the country will be recorded as having no occupation. The interpretation of the law was made Saturday by Elmer Kirby, under whose supervision the census of the second congressional district will be taken. A meeting was held at the court house in Jackson for the enumerators, and the question arose. It was decided that unless the wife received wages she was to be put down as having no occupation.

Notice to Sylvan Dog Owners. Dog taxes must be paid to me on or before January 10, 1919, as that is the last day of payment.

Michigan Happenings

Lapeer.—Fire of unknown origin destroyed the elevator of the Lapeer Grain company.

Pottsville.—The annual meeting of the Eaton County Federation of Women's clubs will be held in Charlotte on Friday, January 23.

Coldwater.—Coldwater is free from hog cholera after two months' fight against the disease. The castrators were kept inside the city limits.

Allegan.—Because of Allegan dealers and consumers stocked up with large supplies of coal, there is no danger of a fuel famine here.

Bay City.—With barely a week's supply of fuel in the bins of the grade schools, closing of the schools because of the miners' strike is imminent.

Kalamazoo.—Mrs. Bernice Stafford obtained a divorce because she told the court her husband had "gone swimming with the girls at White Lake."

Caro.—Services in the churches will be abandoned Christmas Eve and a community Christmas held in the center of the city with a gigantic Christmas tree.

Nashville.—John D. Marshall, 70, senior member of the firm of Marshall & Marrens, was instantly killed when he was caught in the machinery of his elevator here.

Muskegon.—The new $1,000,000 addition to the plant of the Continental Motors corporation is nearing completion. It is expected that the new machinery will be installed by next spring.

Grand Rapids.—The Western Michigan State Fair association will hold its annual meeting early in January when it will receive the financial report showing about $10,000 profit on last fall's fair.

Grand Rapids.—Motormen and conductors of the Grand Rapids Railway company will receive a wage increase of five cents an hour under the decision of two of the three members of the arbitration board.

Flint.—D. B. Patterson, 68 years old, Flint auto worker, while attempting to board a city street car, fell in front of a Michigan Railway interurban and received injuries that resulted in death in an ambulance on way to a hospital.

Kalamazoo.—Wilda Sager, 4 years old, burned after she fell against a stove, which ignited her clothing, died Monday night in Borgess hospital. Inhalation of the flames, searing the tongue, throat and lungs, was the direct cause of death.

Ludington.—Hans C. Anderson, 61, employed by the Ludington water department for 30 years is dead. He was struck between the eyes by an icicle falling from pump house. Physicians issued a statement that they found death was caused by apoplexy.

Centerville.—St. Joseph County's first court house has been sold and unless the plan to move it to the present court house lawn as a home for relics, materializes quickly, it will be torn down and a large garage erected. It was built in 1852 and is in good condition.

West Branch.—M. J. Cullen was arrested and arraigned in justice court on a charge of breaking the city water works ordinance. It was alleged that he tampered with his water meter so that it failed to register. He was found guilty by a jury and sentenced to pay $75 and costs.

Three Rivers.—The Arthur Potter arson case was given to the jury at Centerville after a trial which had lasted for several days. Potter, owner of the mill and elevator which burned down last spring, was charged with arson and conspiracy to defraud insurance companies.

Muskegon.—The city council has accepted a resolution which will allow the Standard Oil company to build a $100,000 dock into Muskegon lake and erect huge warehouses and pipe lines to every railroad in the city. Muskegon will be the distributing point for Michigan and Indiana, while the oil will be brought here in boats.

Owosso.—Property loss estimated at $20,000 was suffered and the entire village menaced when six stores in the business district of Byron, 20 miles east of here, were destroyed by fire. Byron has no fire protection and appealed to Owosso for help. Apparatus and men were sent, but the fire was under control before they arrived.

Grand Rapids.—The American Railway express and the United States railroad administration have been sued for $25,000 damages by Marie Bartlett, whose husband, George E. Bartlett, a railroad engineer, was killed May 10. He was struck by an express truck which was pushed across the pavement in the Union depot train sheds by an incoming passenger train.

Marshall.—The mill and warehouse of A. H. Randall Milling company, owned by Earl Randall at Tekonsha, was destroyed by fire, of unknown origin, together with 8,500 bushels of wheat. The loss will reach $125,000. There were 201 barrels of flour carried out before flames prevented rescuers from entering building, but 200 barrels were consumed. The mill was built 1848 and was equipped with modern machinery. Mr. Randall does not believe he will rebuild under the present commercial condition.

Paw Paw.—The Rev. Mr. E. H. Anderson, Traverse City, has accepted the pastorate of the Church of Christ at Paw Paw.

Battle Creek.—This city's third car of army foodstuffs is expected this week. The contents of the other two cars sold rapidly.

Decatur.—Because of the coal shortage the municipal electric lighting plant is closed every night at 11 until 5 the next morning.

Niles.—Carroll Cross, 21, suffered a broken jaw when he was hit with a shot gun while trapping with George Reid, returned soldier.

Bay City.—The West Side Hospital, incorporated under the state laws for $20,000, is to be reorganized as a general non-sectarian hospital.

Hillsdale.—But 400 of the 1,000 Hillsdale County boys who were and are in the service have recorded their discharges with the county clerk.

Coldwater.—Henry Bradley, 42 years old, a bachelor, has been married to Mrs. Mary Jeffers, 39 years old, for whom it was the fourth venture.

Pontiac.—Steve Cipus and John Evenkovic were arrested following a raid on their home west of Commerce, where two large stills were confiscated.

Pottsville.—A barn on the Charles Woodworth farm, west of Pottsville, was destroyed by the severe wind storm. Windmills were twisted out of shape.

St. Ignace.—Capt. Joseph Fountain, who spent most of his life in the light house service, died at his home in Gros Cap. He retired on a pension last year.

Kalamazoo.—After a separation of 27 years James M. Gilbert, former Southern Illinois editor, and his brother met each other at the home of their parents here.

Petoskey.—Mrs. David Benyas, 68 years old, was killed when struck by an automobile driven by Clifford Willis, while she was crossing a street. Willis was arrested.

Coldwater.—As a coal conservation measure, the Baptist Church here will hold Sunday evening services at 5 p. m., shortening the hours during which the church must be heated.

Albion.—The Rev. Mr. Albert Ewart, of Trinity Episcopal Church, Marshall, will supply the pulpit of the St. James Episcopal Church here, until a permanent rector is appointed.

Caro.—The Citizens' Community Betterment Association, representing the churches of Caro, has been formed here. Its activities will be centered on the moral life of the city.

Pontiac.—The city commission has given the Michigan Light Co. 10 days to improve the quality of gas furnished consumers or give up the 15-cent rate increase voted the company last summer.

Clawson.—William Witt, 33 years old, died in St. Mary's hospital, Detroit, and his son died several hours earlier as the result of injuries received in an accident on the D. U. R. tracks here.

St. Ignace.—Because of the small number of freight trains being moved, the city is hit by a gasoline shortage. No gasoline was obtainable in the city Sunday, although several carloads are on the way.

Battle Creek.—Business men promised Battle Creek at least 1,000 new homes next year at an enthusiastic Chamber of Commerce meeting. They pledged themselves to support a home building company.

Cass City.—The Rev. Mr. James W. Fenn, 78 years old, who had pastored in Massachusetts and Michigan, five years pastor of the Bay City Methodist Episcopal Church, is dead. He was a veteran of the Civil War.

Hillsdale.—A few months ago the wife of Henry Turner, of Candor, died, leaving eight children, one of whom died last week. He is suffering from blood poisoning. A few days ago his automobile was wrecked when it turned over with two of his children.

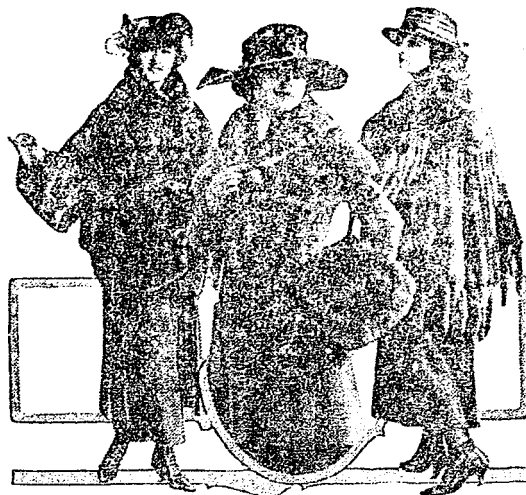

Big Rapids.—Harold McNulty was accidentally shot by a companion. McNulty had his arm extended, aiming high, when the other hunter, shooting from behind bushes, towards the same bird, hit him under the left arm. The shot entered his side. He will recover.

Grand Rapids.—James Terranova, murder suspect, being held at the county jail pending an investigation into the cause of the death of Andrew Giacalone, whose body was found in Grand river, broke his tongue, but officers have been unable to get him to comment on the case.

Ann Arbor.—Leo Lavey has filed a suit in the circuit court, against the Detroit, Jackson & Chicago Electric railway, asking $10,000 damages for injuries he alleges he received July 20, 1918, when a car upon which he was traveling from Jackson to Chelsea, crashed into another interurban car near Chelsea.

Calumet.—The heavy slaughter of deer, estimated to be the greatest since hunting was legalized has prompted sportsmen throughout the upper peninsula to urge a closed season next year. In some counties official action has already begun and hunters are signing petitions requesting the legislature and state game commission to order a closed season until 1921. Conservative estimates show that more than 8,000 hunters came to the upper peninsula in addition to the 4,000 hunters from the 30 counties.

These Are Real Furs

Just now, with Christmas near, the shops are featuring fur garments and fur sets, knowing by experience that a certain percentage of people will be sure to purchase them as gifts. If you are among the number, be prepared to find prices far higher than you have ever known them, and the prospect of their being reduced is not cheerful. Garments made of the finest and rarest skins are prohibitive, except for the very rich, the price of all pelts and the price of labor having gone steadily higher for several seasons. The finest skins have reached the limit and are reported to have made a slight decline, while those that are more common have made an advance all along the line. Wages are not likely to decrease for sometime, and fur-bearing animals grow scarcer. In view of these things a good fur garment, or fur set may be considered a fairly safe investment, and nothing in Christmas gifts is more cherished.

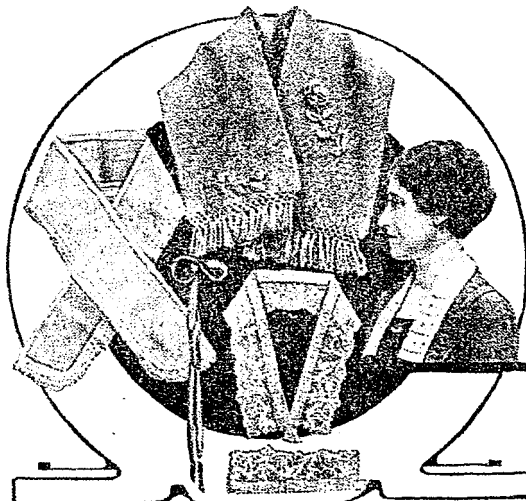

In the group shown above, a coat, a cape and a scarf and muff set, appear in three of the most popular kinds of fur. The coat at the left, is made in Hudson seal with small muffler collar and full dolman sleeves. It is a graceful garment, warm without being heavy and may be classed as moderately priced even at something like five hundred dollars for the finest grade. The coat is a great favorite, and this one is cut on simple and gracious lines that promise well for a day in the future when it may be altered in style.

The glorious cape at the right of the group is made of dark mink skins and has a very large shawl collar. It is fringed at the bottom with long and short tails and there is no skin that can outshine it for beauty. Mink is a durable fur, and there is an advantage in having a cape of it; for capes are never out of style. So beautiful a garment need not concern itself as to whether it is more or less popular than other styles. But such a cape is more than likely to have its price mark written in three figures. It is expressed in terms of thousands probably, but these are real furs with real values.

The handsome fur set that holds the center of the picture is as rich and as durable as its companions. It is a short cape-scarf of very dark brown mink finished with tails and muffler collar, having a round muff matching it, as a life companion. This is a brilliant and very beautiful fur classed as "hard" by furriers on account of the way it resists wear and keeps its luster. It may be counted on to last for years.

Pretty Neckpieces

Be not mistaken about neckwear or persuaded that the neck unwornd can hold its own against one that is clothed with pretty fur-bellows. As usual, the approaching holidays find neckwear departments in the stores all blossoming out with collars, fichus, ties, scarfs, gimpes, jabots and vestes, singly and in combinations and made of many different materials. Leading off are lace and net, following close are organdie, batiste, scrim and crepe georgette. Then there are narrow silk or velvet ribbons in ties, and an array of knitted scarfs. And every article is a possible gift that will be a joy to its recipient. Just a few pieces are grouped together in the picture above.

The scarf shown at the top of the group, is knitted of light gray yarn and finished at the ends with a tied fringe of the yarn. Its special pride and glory lie in the sprays of roses crocheted of the same wool as the scarf and fastened to its ends.

Just below this scarf the collar and one cuff of a flax collar-and-cuff set show such a combination to be easily made. The flax is bought by the yard, measured into the lengths wanted and cut off. The ends of the collar and the cuffs are finished with a very narrow edging of flax and the straight edge sewed to a narrow band of fine batiste.

Organdie both plain and cross hatched, is ornamented in several ways with pretty needlework and stitchery in collar and cuff sets or with fine embroidery or lace. A long collar of it to be worn with a surplice waist appears at the left of the picture. It is edged with three rows of narrow val lace. At the opposite side of the picture a collar of linen scrim has eye-lets and hemstitching done in light blue silk. A net gimpure worn under this collar, has a high collar finished with narrow banding.

There are a great many ties made of narrow velvet and silk ribbons and ornamented with beads like that shown in the picture. Beads and ribbons of all colors are used in these gay little neckpieces. There are also very popular vestes and collar sets made of net and lace, organdie and lace or of these fabrics used alone. Wide silk ties for younger girls, and handsome jabots for matrons finish up displays that include something to suit everyone.

Evening Wraps.

The evening wrap is a thing apart. It bears some style relation to the day-time coat, but it has a much broader license in the matters of material, color and line. Rich satin, sumptuous velvet and magnificent brocades are the mediums of expression. And it is in the evening cloaks that one finds the subtle drapery hard to describe and even more difficult to imitate. The fact that the ensemble is one of striking simplicity will tempt the inexperienced to essay the making of a similar wrap.

BETWEEN LINES

By ELIZABETH A. DE BAER.

(Oct. 1919, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)
Olga was a senior in boarding school and George was a junior in college. They met at a college house-party and, well—!

Olga was short with very large eyes and a very small mouth. She wore her hair, black and shining, parted in the middle, pulled quaintly down over her forehead, pulled over the ears and high in back. When George came to call, she wore her grandma's comb, which was very lovely—then hurried it back among tinsel paper when he left. Olga's dresses were ruffy—most impractical, but she was practical because she made them herself. She could play a guitar softly and roll her eyes at the proper moment, and, best of all, she was a good listener. But when it came to talking—Olga was a failure. She couldn't say anything funny and her words seemed to jump out in a short, snappy way. Olga couldn't talk well and, fortunately, she knew it—so she didn't talk much.

As for George—he was big and awkward, but hands of fun. He could make his thumbs go out of joint and Olga would cover her big eyes with her little hands and beg him not to be "so naughty," and said she wouldn't look, but he knew she was peering through her fingers. He liked to have her sit curled up beside him, and play soft, slow music on his guitar while they both looked into space. Yes, they were deeply in love!

Then the house party ended and Olga came back to school, fell into the arms of her waiting roommate, was dragged upstairs and, lights turned low, confessed the whole story to wide-eyed Jane.

"And just think, dear," she ended with a resigned sigh, "it'll be two months before I'll see him."

"Four little things," Jane eyed with envy the diamond set fraternity pin that clung desperately to Olga's waist. "It must be wonderful to be in love."

The next day a special came for Olga—it was a letter from George and such a letter! Olga showed it to Jane and cried and laughed alternately as she read it for the fifth time. It was indeed a masterpiece, a clever, well-written letter, and Olga was wise—she knew her answer was expected to be equally as clever—it just had to be! Moreover, she knew she couldn't write a good letter any more than she could tell a good story—and she knew Jane could. And Jane did. True love should not deceive, but Olga, in her desire to keep George's affection while away from him, was desperate. She realized her shortcomings and she did her best to outwit them. So Jane, under Olga's careful censorship, carried on the latter's correspondence with her fiancé.

All went well and everyone was apparently happy until one day Jane, red-eyed, told Olga she wanted to talk with her. She dropped down on the cot among the pillows and looked up into Olga's questioning eyes.

"I can't go on with it, Rooney," she said in a hollow voice, "I can't go on deceiving him, and myself."

"Yes, I've tried to make myself believe I don't love him, but I do—his letters are so wonderful. I—"

"Stop," Olga cried; "do you mean you have fallen in love with my George?"

Jane nodded miserably and the tears bounced off her cheek.

"Yes," she answered simply. Then desperately she went on: "And I've read between the lines. It's me he loves, it's my letters, it's the girl I've put into my letters—me!"

"Oh, Jane, how can you!" and Olga sank down. She wanted to cry but she didn't, so she whistled bravely. That night the maid came pattering up the stairs with two cards for Olga. One was "George Potter," the other, "Stanley Mills." She couldn't think; she went mechanically down the stairs and into the reception room. George caught her hands awkwardly and, utterly ignoring the tall, dark man beside him, said:

"Olga, tell me the truth—do you love me?"

"Oh, George, what's the use of—"

"I won't believe it, Olga—I know you love me and I've come to explain everything. I was so crazy about you that when I went away I was afraid my letters wouldn't hold your interest, so I got Stan to write 'em for me. And now, Olga, he's fallen in love with you, and he says he's read between the lines and knows you're his by rights. He told me so this morning."

But Olga shot out of the room, flinging a "be right back" to the surprised man who stared after her. In a moment she returned dragging a bewildered Jane across the room.

"George, dear," she explained, "I was Jane who wrote these letters—I was trying to deceive you and—"

George had taken her in his arms. He had kissed her twice when she suddenly remembered, and whispered:

"Introduce them, dear."

George laughed.

"They don't need an introduction, honey."

And they didn't.

A Sex Difference.

The difference between a man and a woman is that when you see a man wearing evening clothes you usually see somebody who'd much rather be wearing something else.—Detroit Free Press.

SCRAPS OF HUMOR

SHE PROBABLY HAD.

It was the first time that the polite little girl had been on a visit alone, and papa had carefully instructed her as to how she should behave.

"Now," he said, "if they ask you to dine with them, you must say: 'No, thank you. I have already dined.'"

It turned out just as papa had anticipated.

"Come, Marjorie," her little friend's father had said; "you must stay and have a bite with us."

"No, thank you," said the small miss with dignity; "I have already bitten."

She Was Born Yesterday.

She: "Last night was the first time I ever heard you talk in your sleep, and you kept saying, 'Four kings,' and once in a while, 'Full house.'"

He: "Well, you see I was down to the club last night playing checkers with a crack player and there was a full house watching us."

Divining.

Seerss—You are going to meet with some dark obstacles in your way through life.

Visitor—I know. Those confounded coat-cart holdups.

Just the Thing.

"So you've taken Dulbs into your employ. Well, he's a poor fish. How is he coming out?"

"He's coming on swimmingly."

Extreme One.

"An optimist, is an optimist?"

"An optimist, my son, is a man who sees hope for the country no matter who is elected."

OLD FASHIONED.

"Is he old fashioned?"

"Sure thing. He still waits for his teeth to ache before going to a dentist."

Empty Speech.

I wonder why that man don't bring unto my bites a blot

Who says some foolish little thing And then exclaims, "Eh, what?"

Meant to Be.

"Did you see where at an exhibition they are showing an electrical spunker?"

"How shocking?"

In Good.

"You seem fond of the druggist's little boy."

"Yes, he kin git all the pills he wants for our air guns."

A GUILTY CONSCIENCE.

Rat Burglar—My, I wish those potatoes didn't have so many eyes. Make me kind of nervous!

Superstition.

A rabbit's foot may be lucky. In skepticism better say: "You keep the foot. Give me the balance of the critter."

Both Bear Watching.

Music Teacher—That new puppl is improving, but when she runs the scales I have to watch her pretty closely.

His Wife—Just as I have to watch her father, the butcher, when he's running the scales.

A Shower.

Jinks—You look dreadfully battered. What's happened?

Blinks—Wife has been pelting me with flowers.

Jinks—Why, that wouldn't mark you up in that manner.

Blinks—Oh, they were in the pots.

Hardly Flattering.

She—I appreciate the compliment, but I'm afraid I could never make you happy.

He—Oh, yes, you could. You don't know how easily pleased I am.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

HOLIDAY CANDIES.

A varied diet will not promote health, resistance to disease or efficiency and longevity in the same degree as a diet containing liberal amounts of milk and leafy vegetables.—McCormack.

Who could imagine the holidays without candy? Candies made at home are doubly delicious and usually more wholesome.

One may have an elaborate equipment or one which is very simple. A few wooden spoons, a thermometer, a few bowls and basins and a few aluminum saucepans, a pair of scissors and a candy hook to pull the boiled sugars on, some bon-bon cases; these may be saved from time to time, saving the buying. The candy thermometer is of the greatest convenience; it is made of wood and copper or brass and registers 320 degrees.

When boiling sugar the steam of kettles and pans should be avoided. A clear bright day is best. When sirup is cooked to a high degree of heat it is apt to sugar. Cream of tartar and glucose or a few grains of citric acid added to the mixture will keep it from granulating. A tablespoonful of glucose, a quarter of a teaspoonful of cream of tartar will be enough for a pound of sugar.

The making of fondant is the most important step in candy making. It is used in many ways, both as a covering and also as filling.

It is far wiser if one has no thermometer to make the fondant in small quantities. To four cupsful of sugar add half a cupful of water and a tablespoonful (heaping) of corn sirup or glucose, or a bit of cream of tartar. Let it boil, washing down the sides with a swab to keep the grains from forming, until when a drop is added to cold water it makes a ball which can just be handled. Pour it carefully, not scraping the dish, into a buttered platter and let it cool until it can be handled. Stir with a wooden spoon from the edges to the center until it is all creamy and smooth. Then pack in a bowl, cover with a buttered paper and set away for a day or two. It is now ready for any of the flavors, colors or kinds one wishes to make of it. The softer the fondant the more delicious it is for the filling of chocolate creams. Chill the fondant and mold in balls; chill again and dip quickly in melted chocolate.

SEASONABLE GOOD THINGS.

The national song of China is that sung by its tabakkies, and our poets liken it to the echoes of a cataract muffled by clouds, a distant sea breaking upon the rocks, a rainstorm sweeping a bamboo forest, or the sobbing of the pines on a distant hill.—Dr. Wu Ting Fang.

A little care and thought in the arrangement of food will make of a very common dish something worth while.

With sugar keeping up in price it will behoove almost any householder to "keep a bee." A hive in an attic will prove a most valuable addition to the family larder. And when one may take sixty pounds from a hive it seems quite worth while to learn how to care for a hive of bees.

Honey Custard.—Beat two eggs, add half a teaspoonful of salt and one-third of a cupful of strained honey, two cupsful of milk and mix thoroughly. Turn into four custard cups and set in a dish on folded paper with cups surrounded with boiling water. Let bake in a moderate oven until firm in the center.

Apricot Omelet.—Press canned or stewed apricots through a sieve to fill a cup. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter. In it cook two tablespoonfuls of flour and one-fourth teaspoonful of salt. Add the cupful of apricot puree and stir well. Add gradually to the yolks of five eggs beaten whites. Melt one tablespoonful of butter in a smooth omelet pan, turning the pan to have the sides well greased. Pour in the apricot mixture and cook on the top of the stove for two minutes, then set in the oven. Cook until done to the center. Score at right angles and fold at the scoring. Turn on a hot platter. This will serve eight.

Potato and Mackerel Salad.—Finke cooked salt mackerel, using half as much fish as potato cubes. Mix a pint of potato with half a grated onion and the flaked fish (one cupful), a tablespoonful of finely minced parsley, one dill pickle chopped fine, one cupful of mayonnaise and half a cupful of whipped cream with a teaspoonful of horseradish. Garnish with sliced canned tomatoes.

Shirred Eggs Creole Style.—For three eggs cut half a green pepper and half an onion in shreds. Cook in a tablespoonful of butter until soft. Add three-fourths of a cupful of cooked strained tomato, and salt to season. Turn into egg dishes and into the tomato break a fresh egg. Set in the oven to cook until the egg is set. Serve at once.

A Merry Christmas to You

A CHRISTMAS for SANTA

De Lysle Ferree Cass

DAN MORRIS had run away from his home on the farm and none of the family had heard a word concerning him in the three years that followed. Dan was the youngest of three children—“her baby,” as old Mrs. Morris always said—and hated farm work. “If brother Jim likes it, let him do it,” he had told the family defiantly. “I’m going to some big city where a fellow has some chance to see life and make his fortune. I’m through with laying all day long in the scorching sun, milking cows and feeding hogs, and then having to sit in the dark on the porch listening to nothing but frogs and katydids until you have to go to bed if you want to get up in time to do it all over again next day. I’m through, I tell you!”

The family had tried to reason with Dan, but it was of no use. One morning they found him gone, leaving only the briefest note of good-bye to his mother. And now the third Christmas since his going had come and the family itself was going in to the big city to spend holidays with Julia, who had married and lived there.

Ordinarily Julia and her husband, with little Bobbie, came out to the farm visiting the old folks and brother Jim at Christmas, but this year Julia had a new baby, scarce four months old, and hadn’t felt equal to the trip. So father and sweet-faced mother Morris—their hair already white and with the years’ anxiety for their missing Dan reflected in wrinkled faces—packed up all sorts of home-made eatables in baskets and had sun-burned brother Jim take them for the first time to the big city. It was a bewildering adventure to those simple souls; each incident of the journey and novel sight after arrival was a never-to-be forgotten experience. Fred, Julia’s brisk and hearty husband, welcomed them at the station and thrilled them with a ride out to their daughter’s apartment on the elevated railway. It was a joyous reunion, but—as mother said, with a sudden break in her voice—“It can’t be as if my baby, our Dan, were here with us too.”

“There, there, mother,” said father Morris, patting her quivering shoulder consolingly. “You mustn’t think about Dan just now. He’ll return to us some day when he’s become rich and famous. Just look here, Julia—and you too, Fred!—all the mouth-watering stuff that Ma’s brought you from the farm. Home-cured, uncolored butter rolls those are! And here’s three stuffed six-pound turkeys that were goldie-gobbling around the barn not many days ago. Hey, little Bob! I’ve got those pots of jam, and spiced watermelon pickles! And here are the Christmas presents

Kidnaped By Santa Claus

BY GOODLOE H. THOMAS

My dad sez once they lived a boy
‘Us bound that he would see
Old Santa Claus—an’ had no joy
Fer thinkin’ how ‘t’ud be
To hide behind a screen an’ wait
Till Santa come around,
Then watch him waitin’ to un-
crate—
Without a word or sound.

Well, Christmas Eve, this boy leton
‘At he was sound asleep,
An’ when he knowed the rest had gone
To bed, he went a-creep
Down stairs—an’ gracious!—
watcha think!
He run against him—smack!
Old Santa, yes-sir—n quick as wink
That boy ‘uz in his pack.

An’ ever since that boy has been
Strapped up an’ has to go
With Santa, fer just that one sin,
Through miles of ice an’ snow;
An’ you bet I ain’t gonna take
No chance like that—not quite!
You’ll find ‘at I won’t be awake
When Santa comes to-night.

all wrapped and tied ready for the tree, but not to be opened by anybody until Christmas morning. Here’s—why, mother! You’ve got one parcel here marked wrong! It has Dan’s name on it!”

Mother Morris dabbed at her eyes with her handkerchief. “Please, don’t laugh at me, children,” she said sadly. “It’s my Dan’s Christmas as much as it is that for any the rest of us, and I— I was hoping that maybe we’d find him here in the city now that we’ve come here ourselves.”

It was pathetically absurd, that barren little hope of the bereaved old mother, but none of them even let her see them smile at it.

The afternoon before Christmas Julia persuaded her husband to take little Bobbie downtown so that he could not surprise her trimming the tree. Brother Jim and the old folks went along.

Little Bobbie naturally was most of all interested in the toy departments and hardly could be made leave hold some of the playthings he most fancied.

“Oh see, daddy! A horse that rocks, with a name and bridle and everything!... And oh, grandma! lookit! lookit! There’s a real live Santa Claus talking to those other little boys and girls!”

It was indeed. The big store had hired a rather shabby-looking young man that week, who for $15 was supposed to sit at the door of an imitation snow house and solemnly encourage visiting youngsters to tell him their fondest wants in the line of presents. Little Bobbie was impatiently waiting in line, holding fast with one chubby fist to his father’s hand, in no time, Mother and father Morris, and big brother Jim watched and waited smilingly for them on the edge of the crowd.

“Well, my little man, what is your name?” asked the scarlet-conted and long white-whiskered Santa Claus in a tired, husky voice when Bobbie’s turn finally came.

“I’m Bobbie Wallace, dear Mr. Santa Claus, and I live at 5601 Hyne street,” the boy chirped up at him, round-eyed and devoutly believing in the identity of Santa. “My mamma’s name is Julia Wallace and I’ve got a little baby sister now, too.”

The long-whiskered Santa patted his head in perfunctory weariness.

“And what do you most want me to put in your stocking this Christmas Eve, Bobbie?” he asked with a sidelong glance at the tolerantly smiling father.

“We—eh,” drawled Bobbie uncertainly. “There are lots and lots of things I want awful, awful much, Mister Santa Claus, but I heard my mamma say this morning that it’s ever so much nicer to wish for things for those that love you than for yourself. So I... I guess, I ought to ask you

Verses to Send With Christmas Presents

With Embroidery or Any Needlework.
May all your years be glad and bright,
Deep filled with pleasant days,
And all your hours know sweet delight
Of love that lives and stays!
With some such wishes, true and kind,
Each Christmas should begin,
While some of these must surely find
Because they’ve been so kind!

With a Gift to a Smoker.
When clouds of smoke around you float
Think sometimes of this loving (friendly) cordial note
When pictures in the smoke you see
Wait now and then a thought to me,
For though you never joy evok,
Don’t let our friendship “end in smoke.”

With a Box of Candy.
“Sweets to the sweet,” the wise old saw,
I quote because ‘tis fitting,
And tell me pay unto the law
With gladness unrelenting,
“Like unto like” is also true,
Therefore these candies haste to you.

With Music or Musical Instrument.
Because the very thought of you,
Makes music in my mind,
May let me share the music true,
The sweetest (gayest) (brightest) I could find.

With a Laundry List or Bag.
This gift is clean, as you may see,
So, every time you’d cleaner be
Just send a pleasant thought to me.

To “Her,” With a Pair of Gloves.
O little thumbs, and fingers, too,
I can but wish that I were you,
Since you, my child, may clasp her hand,
Till her—but not! She’ll understand.

With a Book.
I cannot make new worlds for you
Yet these closed covers truly frame
A wondrous world of rapture true—
Be pleased to enter in my name!

To a Lady, With Slippers.
O pretty slippers, small and slight,
Be sure to lead her steps aright;
And when her dainty feet you hold,
Guard them alike from hurt and cold.

With Shaving Materials.
Should you cut yourself in shaving,
Small effort has bitter saving
When the wound one may not see,
But should your razor smoothly glide,
Include me in your smile as wide.

With Picture of Some Rural Scene.
If your thoughts of town are weary,
Rest your eyes and dream
Gazing on this picture clear
Of woodland (rural) (springtime) (ver-
nal) (valley) and stream;
Remember that had I my way,
Such joys would greet you every day.

With Any Christmas Gift.
Here’s a thought of joyous cheer
For Christmas and for all the year!

A Gift From Santa

to keep my poor old grandma Morris, who’s got white hair now, from worrying and crying any more over her boy Dan. You see, Mister Santa, my uncle Dan ran away from home a long, long time ago, before I was born, and my grandma keeps saying she can’t rest until she sees him again. She’s visiting my papa and mamma at home now, and I saw a present she has all wrapped up and labeled for uncle Dan if you’ll be good enough to find him and bring him out to our house tonight. Won’t you do that, please, mister Santa?”

With a choking cry the white-whiskered one stumbled to his feet, nearly upsetting his little snow house and searching Bobbie’s wonder-round eyes in hungry disbelief.

“You are Julia Morris’ little boy?” he muttered dazedly. “And you say that... that your grandmother really wants her worthless runaway Dan to come back to her?... is waiting here in the city for him now? Oh, my God!”

Fred, Bobbie’s father, caught at the Santa’s arm as he reeled unsteadily sideways as if about to faint, and in so doing knocked off the dusty white whiskers.

“Aw!” wailed Bobbie, facing his first childish disillusionment, “he isn’t a real Santa after all!”

Back through the amazed and rather indignant crowd of shoppers old mother Morris was coming as fast as her trembling legs would permit, and above the noise and calls of clerks at the counters, could be heard her thrilling, quivering outcry:

“Danny! Oh, Danny! Danny! I’ve found my lost boy at last!”

When God's Revelations Come.

It was while they were watching their flocks—the common duty of their common days—that the word of Christ’s coming was brought to the shepherds. It is when we are faithfully busy with common duties that God’s revelations usually come to us.

For a Good Little Girl

Merry Christmas

Whether it be prattled on baby lips that scarce can shape the words, or saying them, thinks not, but only feels the insensate overflow of giving from a soft, full heart...

Although it be mumbled inarticulately by the shabby nonentity whose whine for charity one acknowledges in the spirit of the season, even while knowing that the words be said in servile mockery...

If it be breathed by mother mouth, the sad, sweet lines of which were molded so by a yearning, prodigal tenderness and an unfaltering devotion, be its object worthy or not...

Whether it be pantoned from between the warm, moist lips of maidenhood—tremulous, palpitant, shame-faced and shy because of an ardor which it dreads to comprehend...

Although it be uttered by maid, matron or man, friend, chance acquaintance, tradesman or servant...

Merry Christmas to You and to Yours

By DE LYSLE FERREE CASS

A Few Don'ts for Christmas

Don't court indigestion.
Don't grumble, whatever you do.
Don't half fill the kiddies' stockings.
Don't give presents which will be useless.

Don't forget the mistletoe. Romance still lives.
Don't forget that it ought to be a merry Christmas.
Don't deny the little ones' ideas about Santa Claus.

Don't worry about unpaid bills—at any rate until tomorrow.
Don't scoff at the lingering superstitions of the good old days.
Don't for the show of things, buy presents which you can't afford.

Don't expect too many presents. Take what you get and be thankful.
Don't, if you get up on your wrong side, make everybody else miserable.
Don't forget to think at least once during the day what Christmas really means.

Don't give a present unless you want to. Better not give at all than give insincerely.
Don't forget that the giving of Christmas boxes, like charity, should begin at home.

Don't, if you are a girl, stand under the mistletoe until you see the right chap approaching.
Don't kiss somebody else's best girl even though she is under the mistletoe. There might be a row.

Don't work on Christmas day if you can avoid it. If you have to, however, don't make a song about it.
Don't give Johnnie a trumpet and Peter a whistle and expect to have a quiet time. It's unreasonable.

Don't put off buying presents until the last minute. You'll get better value and avoid the crush if you shop early.
Don't send an electric runabout to a freezing widow with five starving children. This is like throwing a rope of pearls to a drowning man.

Don't look pained when somebody tells a fifty-year-old Christmas story. That's one of the unavoidable circumstances of the festive season.
Don't give a new song to some one who doesn't sing; but he still more certain that you don't give a new song to some one who imagines he can sing.

Don't refrain from giving because you can't afford to give much. The intrinsic value of a gift counts for nothing. It is the thought which prompts it that matters.

Don't let the wife give you a Christmas present in the form of cigars. If she persists in doing so, don't smoke them—give them away again, without letting her know about it, of course.

Christmas Means Love

We cannot picture it without seeing the spangled Christmas tree girl with the faces of gleeful youngsters, glad parents, and happy bodies returned home from town or far metropolis. It sounds like bells and crackling logs and shouts of children. And even our old, round-shouldered, sorrow-ridden planet, with his eye knocked out on his cheek, pauses to smile from sea to sea, and love is everywhere rejuvenated.

JAMES WHITEHEAD RILEY

Tasted Suspicious.
“My dear, did you make this Christmas pudding out of the cook book?”
“Yes, love.”
“I thought I tasted one of the cooks.”

Colds Break

Get instant relief with “Pape’s Cold Compound”

Don't stay stuffed-up! Quit blowing and snuffling! A dose of “Pape’s Cold Compound” taken every two hours until three doses are taken usually breaks up a cold and ends all gripe misery.

The very first dose opens your clogged-up nostrils and the air passages of your head; stops nose running; relieves the headache, dullness, feverishness, sneezing, soreness, stiffness.

“Pape’s Cold Compound” is the quickest, surest relief known and costs only a few cents at drug stores. It acts without assistance. Tastes nice. Contains no quinine. Insist on Pape’s!—Adv.

Destination Lacking.

John Collins, son of Judge James A. Collins of the criminal court, left recently for Arizona. The judge, being acquainted with a man employed in the railroad business in Chicago, wired to the acquaintance, asking him to make reservations for his son on the Santa Fe train out of Chicago Saturday night. A wire came back to the judge, saying:

“Sure, I will, but where does he intend to go?”—Indianapolis News.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promise of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it. A prominent druggist says: “Take for example Dr. Kilmer’s Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale.”

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer’s Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments; corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcel Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Rinehamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.—Adv.

The Exception.

“Nephew Lester don’t seem to think much of the way I talk, since he got home from college,” a trifle ruefully admitted honest Farmer Duntov.

“No, nor the way I dress, either,” returned his wife.

“But I’m kinda relieved,” went on the ancient agriculturist, “to think that thus far he hasn’t shown any symptoms of objecting to my money or my cooking.”—Kansas City Star.

DON'T WHIP!

Stop Lashing Your Bowels with Harsh Cathartics but take “Cascarets.”

Everyone must occasionally give the bowels some regular help or else suffer from constipation, bilious attacks, stomach disorders, and sick headache. But do not whip the bowels into activity with harsh cathartics.

What the liver and bowels need is a gentle and natural tonic, one that can constantly be used without harm. The gentlest liver and bowel tonic is “Cascarets.” They put the liver to work and cleanse the colon and bowels of all waste, toxins and poisons without griping—they never sicken or inconvenience you like Calomel, Salts, Oil, or Purgatives.

Twenty-five million boxes of Cascarets are sold each year. They work while you sleep. Cascarets cost so little too.—Adv.

Lion Had Long Life.

Authorities differ as to the age limit of a lion. Some biologists fix the normal span of a lion’s life at about twenty-two years. A lion which died in the Tower of London in 1780 had lived in captivity over 70 years.

A wise man knows a good thing when he sees it, but a fool doesn’t know a good thing when he has it.

MURINE Night and Morning Have Strong, Healthy Eyes. If they Turn Itch, Smart or Burn, if Sore, Irritated, Inflamed or Granulated, use Murine often. Soothes, Refreshes, Safe for infant or Adult. At All Druggists. Write for Free Eye Book. Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago.

Ford

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

Every Ford Owner Should Know

Just what Ford Service is, and why it is different from ordinary garage service, and why it is more profitable to patronize Authorized Ford Dealer? The Ford Dealer is a part of the Big Ford Family. He carries a large stock of genuine Ford parts for repairs and replacements so you don't have to wait while he sends for them, and he uses only genuine parts because he knows the imitation parts aren't dependable and don't wear.

He has a thoroughly equipped up-to-the-minute garage with tools that enable his Ford Mechanics to efficiently and properly make any repair—from a minor adjustment to complete overhaul. And when the work is finished, his bill represents the reasonable, standard Ford prices.

Now, we are Authorized Ford Dealers—a part of that great Ford Service organization which was formed chiefly to put within each community a dealer who would have more than a passing interest in Ford repairs and adjustments. We are prepared and equipped to render prompt, careful Ford service. Drive in or 'phone and we'll come after your car.
