BELLEVUE SPREADER No. 10

The Bellevue No. 10 Spreader has set a new standard of sat-etion. We positively know it will create surprise rather than disappointment, when placed in operation by the most exacting farmers. This surprise will be brought about not only by the ex-cellent work it performs in thoroughly diffusing, scattering and spreading the manure over a wide area, but by the unusual strength of its design and general construction and by the care exercised in assembling and finishing. We feel perfectly safe in claiming it to be the best all-around Spreader on the market from ncy, workmanship, materials and finish.

Motorman Earl Thomas of the first section stopped his car quickly to avoid striking an automobile which had stalled on the track. Motorman Ray Baliard of the second section was unable to stop in time to prevent a crash, it is declared.

The shock of the collision was so great that the rear platform of the first car was wrecked and windows were shattered throughout the whole car.

Robards-Walz Marriage.

A very charming wedding took place at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. George Robards, of Sylvan, on Saturday, January 17, 1920, when their daughter, Ethel Mae, and Mr. Clare Adelbert Walz, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Walz, of Sylvan, took their place before Rev. H. R. Beatty.

The bride was gowned in blue satin and was attended by her sister, Miss Clarabeil Robards, who was cressed in brown crepe de chine. Mr. Walz was attended by his brother, Mr. Ployd Walz.

After the ceremony, refreshments are served, after which Mr. and Mrs. Walz left on a trip. They will be at home on the J. E. Walz farm after April 1.

Declaring that he had been bamboozied in a real estate deal, John L.
Morgan, of Coldwater, has started suit against Virgil U. Hungerford and Samuel K. Cleveland. He says he asked the real state men to buy for him at as reasonable terms as possible a farm in Jackson county owned by Dennis Leach. They reported to him that the farm had a mortgage of $4,500 on it, and that Leach would trade it for a house and lot owned by Morgan and about $700 cash. He accepted the terms, but later learned they had paid Leach only $900 for the place. He is sweing the real estate men for $3,500 damages.

Seeding Clover on Snow is Practical

Seeding Clover on Snow is Practical.

That he old jroctice of seeding slover on snow has much in its favor, in spite of the fact that early spring planting with a drill is held to be the ideal method, is the opinion of Prof. J. F. Cox head of the farm crop department at the Michigan Agricultural college.

"Seeding on snow is a pretty good practice when conditions are right," says Professor Cox. "The ground must be fairly level so that heavy washes will not carry the seed off. Too deep snow is likely to cause this same thing. The farmer who is broadcasting on snow can see where he is going—a valuable item of conservation under the present high prices. Again, the snow softens hard seeds and aids germination in this way.

"We recommend carly spring seeds and aids germination in this way.

"We recommend early spring planting with a drill and consider this the ideal practice. The seed should be drilled into enrefully prepared seed-bed—firm and thoroughly settled—and the work should be done as early in the spring as the ground is in condition.

"Broadcasting on snow, however, is undoubtedly better than late planting in the spring or ordinary broadcasting after the snow is gone. This snow planting is an old practice and one which must still be considered. Late in the winter, toward the end of the snow, is the best time for the work under this method."

teacher for the time she taught without a certificate.

Supt. T. E. Johnson, commenting on the above, says: "The law expressly states that a district board may not employ any but legally qualified teachers and there is no provision in the law which authorizes the board to expend any of the money in the treasury for the salary of such teachers. It might be well for district boards to understand that they must find some way of paying the salary if they employ teachers not qualified."

BY EDWARD W. PICKARD.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD.

The League of Nations came into being last Priday, the first meeting of its council being held in Paris pursuant to a call issued by President Wilson. At present it is admittedly somewhat of a weaking, since the United States is not a member and Russin, Germany and some other powers have not been admitted. But "America doubtless will adhere to the covenaut before long, and the league will then proceed to fulfill, or not fulfill, the rosy predictions of its creators. Most of the world wishes it well and hopes it will prove to he the beneficent institution that its ardest supporters believe it will be.

The natiens participating in the opening meeting of the league council and their representatives were: "France—Leon Bourgeois, former premier."

The people of the United States, especially, perhaps, the bushess men, do not at all relish the fact that this country alone is now technically at war with Germany. They are letting the senate know how they feel, and thus the pressure on that august body to reach a compromise on the treaty has been increasing daily. The people do not wigh the matter put up to them as a political issue in the presidential campaign, for they do not claim to be experts at treaty-making and feel that the senate should attend to its own business. All last week the compromisers were busy trying to reach a common base, assuming that President Wilson would not reject moderate reservations despite his repeated assertions to the contrary. But article 10 was, as ever, the sticking point, and at this writing a settlement was not in sight. Meanwhile, immediately following the promulgation of the peace treaty, the other nations are sending their representatives to Germany and pushing their campaigns to secure trade.

Pians are being taid for a great educational, financial and industrial conference for the purpose of restoring normal conditions throughout the world. Support for the scheme has been asked of the governments of the entente and neutral nations of Europe and the Chamber of Compered of the United States by a large number of leading men of this country and Europe. The original call does not include Germany and Austria, but it is stated that these countries as well as Japan and the Latin-American republics will be asked to send delegates.

The communists of Germany, who take advantage of every excuse to start trouble, staged a great demonstration in Berlin against the government's measure putting the workmen's compilis on a legal basis. There which a compilist is a legal basis. There along of their motor of the last police, patiently resisting for a time, finally opened tire with machine guns and rifles. About forty of the rioters were killed and scores wounded. The government openly accused the Independent members of the releasting with aiding in the attack, asserting some of them went to the windows of the building and motioned the mob on. Next day It was officially announced that the demonstration was the beginning of an attempt to start a general revolution which was to be led by radical government officials.

Ever sines the signing of the armistice Germany has fostered the idea that the reds were likely to get control of that country unless it were given inlider terms by the allies, and some correspondents have insisted that such reports could not be believed. This latest apparent roval will give some support to the German appeals for lenlency and to the insidious, cleverly worded editorials of certain American metropolitan papers which argue that the reparations commission must treat Germany gently with a big R.

If the German nation, what it would do with its regained strength is made very clear by the articles published after the exchange of ratifications of the treaty. The burden of them was recovery of all the nation land lost, and Revenge with a big R.

The allied nations have been disposed to regard Poland as the real bulwark against the bolshevist food, and Poland so considers herself. Last week Secretary of War Baker recommended to the state department that the United States furnish surplus utilitary supplies to Poland to help her in repelling the bolshevists. General Bilss appeared before the house ways and means committee to discuss a proposed toan of $150,000. Oct food relief for Europe, and declared that if the loan were made this country should call on the allied governments to contribute their surplus military supplies to Poland because that ration alone could prevent the bolsheviki from swamplog western Europe. The Poles, he added, are peorly equipped as to everything, while the soviet armies are well trained, well equipped and well ted, and outnumber the Poles.

The imminent return of the 8,000

The imminent return of the 8,000 Americans in Siberia is again promised, and apparently it is high time. A correspondent at Harbin seys an American detachment in trans-Balsa-lia recently fought with troops of General Semenoff, continuander of the all-Russian army, and took an armored train from them. Two of the Americans were killed. The Crecho-Slovaks, to aid whom the Yanks went to Siberia, have had frequent classes with Semenoff's men.

with Semenoff's men.

The bolsheviki have continued their forward movement in the Caucasus and along the Black sea, and now comes news of a new movement in that part of the world which they are said to be supporting. Eaver Pasha, who formerly was minister of war of Turkey and was elected king of Kurdistan, has started what is called a bolshevist revoit in Turkestan. Afghanistan and Taluchistan and for which the government at Moscow has contributed large sums of money. Enver's ultimate alon, it is said, is India. Those who understand conditions in the countries mentioned assert this is not a genuine holshevist movement, but is directed against Great Britain. However that may be, it is likely to cause the British considerable trouble.

The Adrialic problem seems about to

The Adriatic problem seems about to be solved, and in a way quite opposite to that on which President Wilson insisted. Mutual concessions have been agreed upon, and though neither Italy our Jugo-Stavin is wholly satisfied, probably both will yield. By the arrangement, Finme is to be governed by a municipal council under the advice of an Italian high commissioner and a stant lindependent state will surround the city. Italy is given correct over the city of Earn but abandons her demand for the neutralisation of the Datustian cost, Shalp frantist.

will modify her boundary claims in favor of Serbin. The Slovenes of Jugo-Slavia so strongly opposed some features of the settlement that the country's delegation felt inclined to reject the proposal, whereupon Lloyd George and Clemenceau told the grorement at Belgrade that it must say yes or no to the Italian offer at once. The French, British and Italian premiers on Thurstay handed the conditions of peace to the Hungarian delegation in Paris. There was no ceremony. Ambassador Wallace and the Japanese ambassador were present.

Secretary of Labor Wilson says that every alien who advocates the overthrow of the American government by force or who belongs to an organization holding such views will be deported "as fast as we can get the ships." But each of them will be given a fair hearing, he added. In New York Federal Judge Knox has caused the federal officials some worry by ruling that those held in deportation proceedings must be released on ball immediately. Immigration authorities say this would make it almost impossible to get cases against many of the radicals. The government officials are now cager for legislation that will permit them to handle properly those reds who are citizens. The senate passed the Sterling sedition bill for this purpose, but the house considers it too stringent in some particulars and is formulating one of its own. The chief objection to the Sterling measure was it put too much power in the hands of the postmaster general, virtually re-establishing war-time censorship of publications.

John Barleycorn turned up his toes on Friday. At eight o'clock that morning the forces of the directors of feeteral prohibition were afield all over the country looking for violators of the constitutional amendment which went into effect. The dmy dreaded by so many Americans was preceded by so many Americans was preceded by so many Americans was preceded by several events that caused weiz preliminary distress. The Supreme court destroyed one of their hopes by refusing to permit the New Jerser liquor dealers to institute original proceedings in that court te test the constitutionality of the prohibition mendment. The court deeded it had no jurisdiction. Next the internal revenue office announced that after Friday no liquer might be kept except in government bonded warehouses or in homes. A general motenant revenue office announced the gan forthwith, and the officials were kind enough not to enforce the previsions against the transportation of intoxicants while it was in progress. Then along came Prohibition Commissioner Kremer with a ruling that fruit pilees and ciders came under the dry ban if they contain more than one-half of 1 per cent of alcohol and that the penalties are the same as in the case of stronger liquors.

Presidential politics is humming these days, and the contest among the candidates for the head of the ticket, as growing mighty lively. The managers and scouts of each of the chief contenders are hustiling around after delegations and the headquarters are the scenes of almost continuous conferences. General Wood, Governer Lowden and Senator Harding seem to the leading the field, but the others are not tille or hopeless by any means, it is a notable fact that women are taking a prominent part in the campaign. The Denocrats are still revired ing under the shadow of the third-term possibility.

Herbert Hoover is looked at with the appraising eyes of the Warwicks of paign. The benderate pairs, and the third-term possibility.

Herbert Hoover is looked at with the appraising eyes of the Warvicks of both parties, for his political affiliation has been uncertain. Now Julius Barnes, his close friend, declares Mr. Hoover is a "progressive Republican" who "will never allow himself to be a candidate for high office nor allow his friends to make an effort in his behalf, unless there shall come such indisputable evidence of such spontineous and universal popular demand that it will overwhelm his present resolution not to enter politica." From which it may be deduced that Mr. Hoover, is almost in the conventional reconstruction.

Owing to the mother's faulty pronunclation of the aspirate he could not make out, writes Mrs. Menzies, whether the child's name was to be Anna or Hannah, so, stooping, he asked her quietly, "liow do you spell it?"

To this the mother, in an embarrassed and confidential whisper, replied: "Well, I ain't no schollard, neither, sir."

She was evidently, adds Mrs. Menzies, surprised at his "ignorance." Fancy his having to ask her how to spell!

"Loot" Originated in Indi

"Loot" Originated in India.

The word "loot" came into the English language by way of India, and is supposed to be derived from the Sanserit "lotta," signifying booty. Originally all booty taken from the enemy in war pertained to the crown of the victorious nation, the title thereto being regarded as Indisputable. These spoils of war according to its ing regarded as indisputable. The crown was supposed to dispose of these spoils of war according to its pheasure, heaving in mind the services of the captors of the matter. This was, indeed, the basis of prize law at sea. But at every international con-gress at which the laws of war and of mutual relations came under dis-cussion it was agreed to exempt from seizure private property on land and to restrict confiscation to the national property of the for.

Hope for Poets.

Hope for Poets.

The world's literary circles are considerably wrought up at present over a Chinese poet who wrote his verses 3,000 years ago and who, therefore, is now a long time dead.

This should encourage all tiving poets. In order to be poets they must be poor and suffer the rebuffs of crude, heartless editors, but think of the happiness it must be to know that one will be remeinhored 3,000 years after one is dead.

MAKING PROPERTY OWNERS.

MAKING PROPERTY OWNERS.

A young man of our acquaintance has changed recently from the mental state of the migratory laborer to one of progressive economy. His employers had withheld a percentage of his weekly wage to pay for $560 worth of Victory bonds. He received the bonds, clipped his first coupons, and found the experience delightful. Now he has settled down to the job which for the first time in his life has given him a sense of reward and accomplishment. He is buying more bonds. He is by way of becoming a substantial citizen. He is actively assisting in the increase of production which the world needs.

His employers have accomplished a which the world needs.

His employers have accomplished a threefold good. They have transformed a casual worker into an ambitious, loyal factor in their own success. They have assured the future welfare of the individual. They have developed a man who will work and light to protect the integrity of the nation.

developed a man who will work and fight to protect the integrity of the nation.

It is not a matter of opinion, but of fact. Accumulation of property through honest effort begts self-respect, confidence, ambition, and loyalty to the business which produces the property and to the government which guards it. More and more business men are applying the idea.

It can be applied in the family as well. Children should have their sense and appreciation of ownership developed. In the country it is easy, A child may be given a rabbit, chickens, or a pig to raise and tend, or a patch of ground to cultivate. The profits should be scrupulously turned over to the child and his or her attention directed to increasing such profits by improving the business. In the city it is less simple, but even a tiny hank account in the child's name will serve. This may be increased with unickels and dimes earned by running errands or saved from the candy allowance. It means growing interest in property owning and respect for the property of others.

Make this a nation of property owners and we make it a nation invincible—Chicago Tribune, January 14, 1920.

I didn't see why Billy should bestow the proprietorship on me—he wasn't my "mossoo," as I reminded Billy while he was pulling a pair of handcuns out of his overcost pocket.

"A mere defail," he returned. "He will be your own in an hour." He flung off his coat. "Where do we hide these togs?"

I thought Billy was joans, and no reply.

"Very interesting man," mused Bills.

(Billy, you're the clearest them.

"Billy, you're the cieves. The series and admiration.

"Thanks—coming from you I appreciate that." He said it in an offhand way, but I could see he was feeling very set up over himself. And I didn't blame him. He added, "What the 'mossoo' was really after—why he wouldn't let me go out in the dark alone—was to know who I was cailing on. I told him it was the people in the front flat and I couldn't get in. I told him it was their cousin from Boston I was cailing on and maybe they'd gone to the theater. That led to our talking about plays; that led to an inspiration of genius and I asked him if he'd seen Chinatown; that led to my invitation and—the rest you know."

"Billy, you are positively the cleverest man I know!"

"Didn't think I'd grow up like that, did you' And that's not all. As for the pretty daughter—your little Claire that you think so much of—don't faint now—well, she's in it up to the neek and over her ears. She's his accomplice, all right. Here's her cable mes-

"Guess it is," Billy agreed. "Got it ready?"
I took him to the kitchen and showed him haif a glass of household ammonia diluted with water and covered with a saucer. Then I hung his coat and hat in my wardrobe. After that he looked at me and I looked at him—the fatal moment had arrived.

My knees were shaking under me. I was sure Billy knew it, but he affected not to notice. He took one of the revolvers and insertied a blank cartridge for the first shot, explaining that we couldn't have an omelet without breaking eggs. I was to jump out of my bedroom and fire this as soon as monsicur reached the dlining room. "I calculate we'll have him now in about fifteen minutes," was Billy's delicate hint to me to go on with my part, and with knees ready to close up under me like jackknives I rang for George.

I must say that George acquitted himself very creditably—as a spy. Instead of his usual inquisitive, "Goin' to be out all the evening?" he put it in this way: "if somebody cails when shall I tell 'em you'll be home."

"Tell them I won't be home—say I'm out for the evening." I returned prompily; and George's face wore the satisfied expression of a well-carred five-dollar bill.

The flat was almost dark. One low gas jet lighted the dining room and showed the hyacinths on the table—so monsieur could see the moment he entered the front door; a low light in the bathroom showed at a glance through the half-open door that no-body lurked within. The door to my bedroom stood flat against the wall; the kitchen door nearly so, and behind it Billy, jammed in between the refrigerator and the set tubs, was complete the concentration of the set tubs, was complete the concentration and the set tubs, was complete the set tubs.

Neither Billy nor I uttered a sound.

The little metal clock echoed along the hall, horribly loud. It chimed the half after seven. I counted ticks—one minute gone. I counted and thought of hundreds of things I meant to do, or after seven. I counted ticks—one minute gone. I counted and thought of hundreds of things I meant to do, or had forgotten to do, all the while counting mechanically. Three minutes gone—four—five—

A key slipped quickly, boldly, regardless of the noise it made—my lock! No—it couldn't be! The lock turned. A quick illumineiton filled my hell from the gas jet outside and was gone almost before I had realized it. The door closed. My heart jumped out and ran about the floor and tried to hide under the bureau.

I remember thinking, "Suppose it doesn't come back but stays away? Then poor Billy's done for—I can't move a muscle without my heart!" And all the time I was thinking these idictic things, I heard the cautious indomitable pad, pad, pad of whispered footsteps. They paused at the bedroom door for a giance within—nothing there; paused at the bedroom door for a giance within—nothing there; paused at the kitchen door—nothing in there; paused at the kitchen door—nothing in there; then made for the table.

The light blazed up in the dining room and my heart came back with a plep. Monsieur had turned up the light in order to remove the diamonds and leave me to discover it, as it might chance—tomorrow or a week from tomorrow.

With the light, all my fear left suddenly. I popped out of the bedroom—saw monsieur with the hyaciaths in his hand—fired the blank cartridge and yelled, "Hands up!" and stood facing him and between him and the door with a smoking revolver in my hand. He said, "Mon Dieu!"—took in the situation—and holted for the fire escape—got a smashing blow from the kitchen door as Billy jumped from behind it and then half a glass of ammonia in the face. Two seconds later we three were a writhing strangling heap on the floor.

The next thing I remember, I was sitting on monsleur amidships and Billy was snapping a handcum. I gasped and rolled off on the floor; picked myself up from the inclegant position by way of my hands and knees, got a wet towel and sopped monsleur's face as fast as I could-though why I performed this humane act so quickly, I can't say; and as soon as he stopped strangling—for a lot of the ammonia had gone into his mouth and very little in his eyes—Billy and I dragged him to the dialog room, with our eyes. As for monsieur, his fears had swallowed up his chagrin at the indignities heaped upon him.

We couldn't very well refuse him that—particularly as we didn't know what to do with him anyway—so we helped him to a chair and when we'd set him in it, I took my turn to remark severely: "There's not much to explain. You were caught in the act of breaking and entering my flat—you may make your explanations to the police. We'll have them here in five minutes." That was a fine shot on my part, I felt.

Monsieur's face proved it. "Madame!" he cried. "Ze police—no! For Billy and I couldn't help smiling at this and monsieur seemed astonished. I sneered, "Indeed?" in the way that always set him on edge.

"Out—yes—madame. I have ze proof in your own words."

"Out-yes-madaine. I have ze proof in your own words."
I gave him another "Indeed?" in the same tone. This was the moment I had been waiting for. I slipped a paper out from under a pile on the table—the earbon copy of the decoy letter.
"Is that it?" I sweetly asked, showing it to him. "Tes—I thought so.

HOW TUBERCULOSIS SPREADS

Different Means by Which Malady May Be Introduced Into Healthy Herd of Dairy Cows.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
Tuberculosis may be introduced lute a healthy herd by any of the following means:

Tuberculosis may be introduced but on healthy herd by any of the following means:

Addition of an animal that is infected with the disease. Animals should be purchased from herds known to be free from tuberculosis or from herds under supervision for the eradication of the disease.

Feeding calves with milk or other dairy products from tuberculous cows. This trequently occurs where the owner purchases mixed skim milk from the reamery and feeds it to his calves without first making it safe by boiling or pasteurization.

Careless showing of cattle at fairs and exhibitions. Reports have indicated that numerous herds have become infected through mingling with diseased cattle at shows or by occupying infected promises.

Shipment of animals in cars which have recently carried diseased cattle and which have not been disinfected properly.

Use of community passures in which nce of the animal bears no relato the degree of infection. The asse frequently develops so slowly in some cases it may be months, ven longer, before any symptoms thown; therefore be on the safe and have your herd tested.

BIG PRODUCTION OF BUTTER

lairy specialists. Yet even this enormous production scarcely meets domestic needs.

The output of factory butter has inmestic needs. The output of factory butter has increased approximately 200,000,000 pounds each ten years since 1880. Farm butter-making reached its maximum production about 1000. The present trend indicates that it will become a less and less important factor in the nation's butter supply, being superseded by the factory product. Production of factory butter in the United States shows a more rapid general upward trend than is observed in any foreign country from which dependable butter figures have been obtained. The number of such countries, hower is relatively small. Irroduction of renovated butter in the United States is declining. This couldtion evidently results from reduced supplies of low-quality farm butter, the chief product from which the renovated butter is made.

monwealth of Australia.

Toward the end of each year pennies and halfpennies go by the hundred thousand into Australian children's money boxes and are held back by big business firms in anticipation of the country indow of enstoners. To cope with the demand, the Sydney and Methourne mints have been stendily at work since June last year. In four months 1,000,000 new pennies and 300,000 new halfpennies were sent into circulation in Victoria alone. It is equally interesting to note that half the total commonwealth note issue consists of £1,000 notes, of which there are more than 25,000 notes in circulation, as against the 13,000 odd £100 notes. There are about 13,500,000 £1 notes, and the total commonwealth note issue is stated as £55,260,710. In a vigorous young commonwealth the connection between the £1,000 note cand the newly minted copper in the child's money box is not difficult to imagine.

Egg-Laying Contests.

There is sport and profit combined in the latest contests that are engaging the attention of certain parts of England, where farmers and others have started egg-laying contests to defermine what class of chickens are the best egg producers. Four hens are selected. The test runs from the first of October to the first of February, a generous period of time in the midst of winter, when the test hus a real meaning. There are cash prizes of generons amounts and many people are watching the records as they are made public. With eggs at 85 cents per dozen, as they are in Colombus, hens that will work faithfully during the cold months of winter are hens worth having and the tests might be held here with as much of sport and quite as much of profit as in England.—Ohle State Journal.

y Grocers everywhere Made bill ral Co. Battill Creek, Michigan. ADJUSTABLE COLLARS AND CUFFS OF FUR

The tailored suit is about the most adaptable piece of property in the wardrobe; at home in any clime and rarely out of place in any gathering. Clever women understand how the addition of the right accessories make it fit in with almost any sort of background and this is valuable knowledge for the woman who travels.

A suit that is to do duty anywhere should be made of any of the all-year round woolem goods, as serge, gabarfolme, Poiret twill, broadcloth and the like. If it is stamply and sunartly made so much the better—it lends liself readily to different furbishings and matches up with them. For mild climates and warm weather lace collar and cuff sets add daintiness and richness to the tailored coat.

Collar and cuff sets of fur stand ready to fortify the same suit that has rejoiced in the company of lace, when its owner makes an excursion into the cold. These are tacked on add can be easily put on or off. Two sets appear in the picture above each designed to suit the style of the coat with while it is worn. The suit at the left, minus the fur collar and cuffs, proves to be interesting. It has some
