THREATENED RAIL STRIKE POSTPONED

DISPUTE ON WAGE QUESTION IS REFERRED TO CONFERENCE OF UNION HEADS.

MEET AT WASHINGTON FEB. 23

Will Decide Whether Claims Are to Be Pushed Against Government or Railroad Corporations.

Washington.—The railroad wage controversy has been referred to a general conference of union committee men, called to meet here February 23, for final decision as to whether the demands for increased pay will be pressed on the government or passed on to the railroad corporations, soon to resume control of their properties.

Representatives of the 14 unions, who had been conferring with Director General Hines since February third, and whose spokesmen laid their claims before President Wilson last week, have tentatively accepted the White House proposal for a tribunal, created either by law or on the president's motion, to consider the demands.

Final word must come, however, from higher union authority, the conference of union heads.

Allen E. Barker, grand president of the United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees and Railway Shop Laborers, with headquarters in Detroit, indefinitely postponed the strike of 300,000 railroad men in his union.

The decision was made following receipt of a personal telegram from President Wilson to the brotherhood president, and was reached after hours of conference by brotherhood officials behind closed doors.

It is in line with the action taken by the 13 other railroad unions, delegates in Washington, at the President's request.

The announcement of the telegram making known the suspension of the strike order, which was to have become effective February 17, was accompanied by a communication of explanation to the brotherhood's membership.

History Shows Precedent For Lansing Resignation.

Washington.—Although unique in the circumstances surrounding it, Secretary Lansing's resignation is not altogether without precedent.

William Belknap, secretary of war in Grant's cabinet from 1869 to 1876, resigned under different circumstances from the preceding officers, being removed after revelations of maladministration.

CLAIMS COURT AID PROMISE

Witness in Newberry Trial Creates Sensation By Testimony.

Grand Rapids, Mich.—The most startling testimony yet offered in the trial of Senator Truman H. Newberry and his 123 co-defendants on a charge of conspiracy, came from former mayor Wm. F. McKeighan, of Flint, called as a witness by the government last week.

McKeighan declared that while a state prison sentence, against him for robbery was on appeal in the state supreme court in 1918, he was told by Labor Commissioner Fletcher that the conviction would be reversed if his district was carried for Newberry, and confirmed if Newberry did not carry the district. He declared that he did carry the district for Newberry, in the primaries, and in the late fall his case was reversed in the highest court.

The testimony will make Lincoln's birthday in 1920 and Friday, the 13th of February, two unforgettable dates in the Newberry trial. This is the first time in the memory of the oldest attorney and the oldest politician present, that any mention has been made of the supreme court of Michigan as involved in politics.

On cross-examination McKeighan testified that he was two years older in Flint and mayor for one term. He was convicted in April, 1916, by a jury in Flint. He said he was born in Cleveland and had lived 14 or 15 years in Michigan. Two or three years before he was convicted of this robbery he was convicted of illegal sale of liquor.

About 200 soldiers have married German girls since the American forces reached the Rhine.

REBUKED BY PRESIDENT, RESIGNS FROM CABINET

ROBERT LANSING.

Washington.—Robert Lansing is the third Cabinet officer named by Wilson to quit after disagreements with the executive. Mr. Bryan, the first, resigned June 9, 1916, because of a disagreement with the President over notes to Germany about submarine warfare.

The second to get out of the Cabinet was Ludley M. Garrison, secretary of war, who gave up his post Feb. 10, 1916, because of disagreement with Mr. Wilson over the question of independence for the Philippines.

Mr. Lansing was appointed secretary of state ad interim, on Mr. Bryan's resignation, and served until June 23, the same year, when he was made secretary.

Mr. Lansing is 55 years old.

STRIKES OPPOSED BY FARMERS

Say If Rural Workers Follow Same Plan Cities Would Starve.

Washington.—Denial that any group of organized workers possess an inherent right to strike is contained in a memorial to congress, formulated at a conference here of representatives of four large farmers' organizations, the National Grange, the American Farm Bureau federation, the Cotton States Board and the Association of State Farmers' Union Presidents.

In view of "recent events and happenings," representatives of the four organizations said it was agreed that the attitude of the farmer membership of their associations on the right to strike should be made plain to congress and to the country. Pointing out that the city population of the country is dependent on the farmer for food and that interruption of this supply can be brought about through strikes of railroad or other transportation unions.

Were Driven Out in Zero Weather When Home Burned.

Ironwood, Mich.—Five members of the family of John LaJolice are dead and two other are seriously ill from attacks of pneumonia which developed after the father, mother and 11 others were exposed to freezing weather when fire destroyed their home at Saxon, Wis., near here.

"No Beer, No Work" Say Shovelers.

New York.—The difficulty the city had in obtaining snow shovelers to clean the streets following the recent blizzard was given a new explanation when numerous signs were stuck in the snowbanks throughout the city carrying such inscriptions as "No beer, no work!" and "Let the prohibitionists shovel the snow!"

Bill Would Curb Theft of Autos.

Washington.—Establishment of a Federal Motor Registration Bureau in the Department of Justice, with registrars in each of the states, designed to reduce thefts of automobiles is proposed in a bill introduced by Rep. Harrell, (Rep.), Oklahoma. No person would be permitted to sell an automobile without a certificate from the registrar showing it was his property.

Seek To Amend Volstead Dry Act.

Washington.—First definite announcement of an effort to amend the Volstead act which limits the alcoholic content of beverages to 1.2 of 1 per cent, has been made in the house by Rep. Vore, Pennsylvania, who stated that he would introduce a bill in the next congress providing for sale of 5 per cent beer.

"Flu" 50% Milder Than in 1918.

Washington.—The mortality rate due to the influenza epidemic this year was about half of that in 1918, said a statement by the public health service, announcing that the present epidemic apparently had passed its peak. "A comparison," the statement said, "of the excess mortality rate per 100,000 of population for the respective peak weeks of 1920 and 1918 shows: Chicago 1,885, compared with 4,620 in 1918; Milwaukee 1,434, as compared with 1915.

Stop Eating Meat for a While If Your Bladder is Troubling You.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink.—Adv.

Small Town People Had a Great Idea, but It Was Disappointing to the "Drummer."

A commercial traveler arrived for the first time at a small country town one evening. Early next morning he was awakened by a great blowing of whistles, steam sirens, buzzers, etc. Rejoicing in the thought of doing a lot of business, he asked the hotel proprietor later on: "This is quite a manufacturing town, isn't it?" "Oh, yes; we're pretty busy," was the prompt reply.

"What kind of factories have you?" "Well—this time more slowly—" "four principally."

"Yes, that's all as yet. But our four mill's a good one."

"But I heard at least a dozen whistles going this morning."

"You did," agreed the proprietor, dropping his voice, confidentially, "but they are all at the flour mill. You see, we get the whistles we should want for the factories we are going to have, and put them in to make the town sound more lively. Quite 'edified,' ain't it?"—London Answers.

Tramp Engaged in Much More Important Occupation Than Merely Looking for Work.

A big, strong, healthy-looking fellow knocked at the kitchen door and asked for something to eat, but the woman was not charitably disposed.

"Why don't you get some work?" she snapped.

"I haven't time, ma'am."

"Haven't time?" she asked in surprise.

"No, ma'am; I'm busy."

"Busy, indeed," she said sarcastically. "I'd like to know what keeps you busy?"

"Tearin' round from house to house, ma'am."

"What?"

"Tearin' round from house to house, ma'am, tryin' to git something to eat, takes up all my time, so I don't have any left to work in. That's the whole truth, ma'am; and if you don't give me a bite I'll have to waste two or three precious hours, ma'am, lookin' for somebody that will!"

And his nerve saved him.

Appropriate.

"Our pastor wants a pet."

"Then why not give him a shepherd dog?"

"There's a Reason"

WILSON-LANSING BREAK CAUSED BY FOREIGN POLICY

PRESIDENT AND SECRETARY OF STATE REPORTED TO HAVE BEEN IN DISAGREEMENT
FOR MANY WEEKS.

OPINIONS DIFFERED ON TREATY AND LEAGUE PACT

Split Said to Have Had Inception At Paris Conference — Lansing
Second Secretary of State to Quit Administration.

Washington—A difference over foreign policy, long continued and constantly growing in bitterness, was the real reason for President Wilson virtually dismissing Robert Lansing as secretary of state according to authoritative information.

Rebuked by President Wilson for calling Cabinet meetings during his illness, Secretary Lansing resigned on Lincoln's birthday. The President accepted the resignation "with appreciation" and Mr. Lansing becomes the second secretary of state to leave the administration over a disagreement with his chief.

Frank L. Polk, under-secretary, was named secretary ad interim.

The differences between Mr. Lansing and the President are said to date back to the time when the two were in Paris. The peace parleys were only a few weeks old when stories began to reach this country that Mr. Lansing differed with his chief on important parts.

Mr. Lansing's friends say Mr. Wilson left the secretary no real part in the peace parleys and came very close to snubbing him openly. The President's friends say Mr. Wilson was disappointed at Mr. Lansing, whom he appointed, because he regarded him one of the country's foremost international law experts.

When Mr. Wilson returned from his first trip to Paris, leaving Mr. Lansing as head of the American peace delegation, the story of differences between the two were generally put down as mere rumors. But they came again in increasing number when Mr. Wilson returned to Paris.

It was reported that Mr. Lansing, in the President's absence, had on his own initiative agreed to a number of points which Mr. Wilson disapproved and which were overturned afterward. The decision to treat the League of Nations Covenant and the treaty separately was reached at this time and Mr. Lansing was said to have agreed to this, though he knew the President was opposed to the plan. Another action by Mr. Lansing was the signing, with other peace commissioners, of a letter protesting against the Shan-Tung settlement.

Soon after the President returned from his second European trip, Mr. Lansing was called home and Frank L. Polk went to Paris in his place. The reason given was that Mr. Lansing was wanted here to keep the Senate Foreign Relations Committee informed. When Mr. Lansing appeared before the committee, however, he repeatedly answered questions by referring the questioners to President Wilson.

The disagreements between the President and Mr. Lansing are reported from some sources to ante-date the entry of the United States into the World War. The relations between the two men are said to have almost reached the breaking point early in 1917, when Mr. Lansing issued his celebrated statement saying the United States was daily being drawn nearer the war. By some it was taken to forecast the entry of the United States.

The President made every effort to overlook the statement after it had been given out at the State Department, but it was impossible.

That there would be further disclosures of the differences within the Administration over the handling of foreign affairs is the belief of many officials.

Henry P. Fletcher recently resigned as ambassador to Mexico, and it is reliably reported that he differed with Wilson on Mexican policy. Paul E. Reinsch, who quit as minister to China, is said to have been displeased over the Shan-Tung settlement of the Peace Treaty, and Thomas Nelson Page is generally said to have left his post at Rome because of the settlement of the Fiume question advocated by Mr. Wilson.

That some or all of these men might come to Mr. Lansing's side in the event of an attack on the Wilsonian foreign policy was not regarded as improbable here.

Cincinnati First to Finish Census.

Washington.—Cincinnati was the first city to complete its fourteenth decennial census enumeration. It was announced at the census bureau. The last report was turned in February 9, but it probably will be another week before the census can be checked and the final total announced. Announcement of the result of the population count of the various cities will be made in the order in which their completed returns are received, it is said at the bureau.

FABRICS INSPIRE NEW COSTUMES

Nearly all afternoon gowns for the season now passing have been made of plain cloths and the spring finds us prepared to welcome something different. New figured silks and light weight wools, in dull plaids or cross-bars, forestall afternoon frocks traveling away from one-color cloths and familiar designs. Their creators, dealing with new fabrics, are inspired to delight us with models as original and handsome as appears in the dignified dress shown in the picture above.

Any of the finer fabrics, whether of silk, wool or cotton, might be successfully built into a dress like this. In this frock the straight-hanging skirt is arranged in wide box plaits, with the distance between them equaling their width. It is the regulation shoe-top length with three-inch hem, and these brief details cover its description. A very graceful overgarment amounts to a short coat, with front and back panels extended to the knees and finished with embroidered motifs in silk floss. The coat is shortened over the hips, where a little fullness in the material suggests something of the fashionable flare at the sides. Three-quarter length sleeves are finished with a band and tabs of ribbon, in which the band slips through the tabs. The neck is finished in the same way with long ties of ribbon hanging at the front. Round, satin-covered buttons are set in a row at each side of the front, where the overgarment opens over a vest of plaited white georgette. Black satin ribbon, like that used for the ties, makes the narrow, plain girdle.

Hats for Crisp Springtime

SUMMERTIME may bring big and white-brimmed hats, and already rumor is making generous promises in that respect, but for early spring the number of small hats hardly leaves room for the consideration of anything else.

The small tailored hats for early wear, are brilliant in inverse ratio to their size. Everything, almost, that finds place in their construction or trimming is "shiny." Straw and silk brills, and nunny fabrics have a varnished, high-luster surface.

Many off-the-face shapes provide spirited small hats developed in the new materials, and there are a few models with moderately wide brims, like the hat made of silk shown at the center of the group above. Above it, at the left, a straight-brimmed miller of braid has a top crown of georgette.

Bands of ribbon and metal buckles make its vent finish. The little hat at its right is of black and white satin straw braid and has a cut-out upturned brim with little rosettes of straw posed against it.

A similar braid covers the round crown of the hat at the left. The upturned brim is faced with a millinery patent leather, banded and crossed with braid. This is a sturdy looking little model which invites the use of a veil. Patent leather is a courtesy title for a thin, shiny fabric which is soft and very popular. Highly lustrous straw braid and crepe georgette make the trim tint opposite.

TRAPPED BY GIRL, SLAYER IS SHOT

Man Wanted for Murder and Robbery Is Run Down
by Girl.

Santa Barbara.—Clarence A. Wallace, wanted for bank robbery and murder in Maryland, where an $8,000 reward dead or alive will be paid for him, was shot and probably fatally injured in the midst of a crowd at the post office here. Wallace was trapped through a letter which he had received from a woman in Chicago to his alias, H. P. Daley, General Delivery, here. The work of Miss Katherine Higgins, the mail clerk, who delayed him at the window until Detectives W. F. Marquette and Fred Lavery arrived, is given much credit for his arrest. Although the shooting occurred in a crowd, only a twelve-year-old boy was hurt. His arm was badly bruised by a spent bullet.

A buzzer connected with the delivery window warned the watchers. When Wallace was ordered to surrender he put up a stiff fight. He was shot once across the chest, once through the stomach and once in the back.

When taken into the postmaster's office to await the doctor Wallace gasped: "I am the man you want. Don't save me. I'd rather die. If I go back to Maryland they will hang me."

Wallace robbed the Frederick County bank two months ago, was arrested and escaped. A posse started after him. A young returned soldier led the posse. Unarmed, he caught up with Wallace, who turned and threw in cold blood, when the youth threatened his hands and begged him not to fire.

CAN'T STOP POKER PLAYING

Technicality in Law Puts Stop to Cru-ade in Canadian Town.

Renfrew, Can.—Renfrew town council finds that it cannot stop male citizens from playing poker. A crusade against poker in Renfrew has fallen down because of a technicality in the law.

Women complained to Mayor Bolan that their husbands were losing money through indulging in the game. A detective was brought to town and the council was supplied with names, dates and places. Everything was ready for arrests when the town solicitor advised against court proceedings unless it could be shown that the persons on whose premises the gambling occurred were taking a "rakeoff."

The detective found that nobody was taking this profit. Now the council finds itself just where it began, but with considerable information as to how poker is played in Ontario communities.

Court Decides Which of Two Is Man's Widow.

New York.—Vice Chancellor John Griffin of Jersey City held that Mrs. Anna Solomon Dunker Davidson of Garden street, Hoboken, is the legal widow of Werner Dunker, who died at New Haven in 1918. Mrs. Minnie Kaiser Dunker, who proved a ceremonial marriage with Dunker in 1901, at Passaic, and who said she lived with him until he died, claimed to be his lawful widow.

The evidence disclosed that Dunker lived with the first woman nearly 20 years, was known as her husband, and deserted her for the other woman. If the decision stands, Mrs. Anna Davidson will share Dunker's $150,000 estate with his three sisters.

MORE FARMERS SHOULD GROW FRUITS FOR GOOD HEALTH AND PLEASURE OF FAMILY

To Scenes Like This—Paraphrasing Burns—Columbia's Memories Cling.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The middle-aged gentleman was downcast, not to say positively despondent. And it wasn't his nature—at lunch time. Something serious had happened, clearly. His young friend, who felt a duty of guardianship in a way, asked him what it was.

"Well," confessed the middle-aged gentleman, "I am apprehensive as to the future of the country. The home orchard is passing away—a specialist of the United States department of agriculture told me so. And I don't see how American institutions as we know them are going to survive such a blow. Why, all the memories that are worth while—all the sweet sentiments that tie us to the divine sufficiently to keep us from going wholly to the brute—connects in some way with the old home orchard. The thing that brings to me the spirit of Easter—the coming of life out of death—isn't sermons and lilies. It is the smell of plum blossoms, white on the trees and fragrant long before the leaves appear. Apple blossoms after a warm rain—peach blossoms against a saffron sunset—apple buds hanging thick on the trees when the leaves are falling and frost is near, the visible proof of the faith that Nature will provide for her children through the frozen time! Why, there isn't a day but some memory of my playtime in the old orchard makes me kinder and more decent to the other human beings who have to live here with me. What's going to happen, I'd like to know, when we have bred a race that buys its fruit from commercial orchards and knows nothing of the humanizing influence of the little orchard that is a part of home, and if not actually a part of heaven, at least a bit of the path that leads to heaven?"

Reviewing the Home Orchard. "Well," said the young friend, "other specialists of the department of agriculture besides the one you talked to have been thinking about it. I don't know that they had your particular phase of the home orchard in mind. I believe they were thinking more about saving money in the home, and about the greater comfort of the members of the household. But they have written a bulletin entitled 'Growing Fruit for Home Use.' It begins this way: 'A more general culture of fruits in gardens and in home orchards would contribute substantially to the health and pleasure of the average family, besides furnishing a supply of valuable food products at a relatively small outlay of money.' Something, you see, is being done to prevent the passing of the home orchard."

"I'm glad to hear it," said the middle-aged gentleman. "What else does the bulletin say?"

"Well, it has 40 pages full of sound advice about growing fruit in the home orchard. It outlines a plan for an orchard, tells what kind of site is best, how to obtain nursery stock, the relative advantages of large and dwarf trees, season of planting, preparation of the soil, handling the stock from the nursery, planting, cultural methods, maintaining soil fertility, pruning and training, control of insect pests and fungus diseases, varieties of fruit for different regions, description of the different fruit districts, comments on fruit varieties, are of bearing and lists of varieties. It discusses apples, pears, quinces, peaches, apricots, plums, cherries, grapes, gooseberries, currants, strawberries, raspberries, blackberries, dewberries and, possibly, some others."

"That"—and the middle-aged gentleman let out a long breath and grew less tense—"is fine, as far as it goes. It tells a man how to grow fruit at home. But does it tell him why to grow fruit at home?"

"Yes," said the young man, "it points out that, in many localities, the difficulty of securing fruit in pleasing variety by purchase is a strong reason for its home production wherever possible. It says that, throughout a large portion of the country, a sufficient range in variety of fruits can be produced to provide a supply in the fresh state for the table during a large part of the year and for canning or otherwise conserving for use during the rest of the year. It calls attention to the difference in point of view of the commercial grower and the home grower. The commercial grower, it says, thinks and operates in terms of his orchard, carload shipments of fruit and market prices. The one who grows fruit for home use, it continues, thinks in terms of individual trees."

Fruit Trees Have Individuality. "That's right," interrupted the middle-aged gentleman. "I remember apple trees and pear trees and cherry trees, too—that had almost as much individuality as people—more, in fact, than some people I know."

"Or," continued the young friend, ignoring the interruption, "plants and works to secure a supply for family use. The commercial grower measures his success principally by the effect on his bank account. The man who grows fruit for home use measures success by the regularity and quality of the supply that comes to the table, and the satisfaction of having it fresh and tree-ripened and the product of his own efforts. In the home orchard, the bulletin says, large yields, good shipping quality and attractiveness in appearance may be made secondary to high dessert quality or special excellence for cooking purposes."

"That's right, too," said the middle-aged gentleman. "Now, I remember an apple tree that used to stand right by the spring branch at home. It bore the delectable apples I ever saw, but they were—"

"Tell me that the next time," interrupted the young friend, "my 20 minutes' vacation for lunch is over. You get a copy of that bulletin and read it. It's free."

"All right, I will," agreed the middle-aged gentleman. "How do I go about getting it?"

"Write," called back the young friend over his shoulder, "to the division of publications, United States department of agriculture, Washington, for Farmers' Bulletin 1001."

NEED FOR STANDARD GRADES

Bureau of Markets Notes Increasing Interest in Uniform Grades for Various Vegetables.

Increasing interest in uniform grades for fruit and vegetables is noted throughout the country by the bureau of markets, United States department of agriculture, as a result of the work of the food products inspection service and the experience of the past two seasons, which demonstrated the necessity of establishing definite standards.

The need for national standard grades and their value is shown by the fact that the grades for potatoes, made compulsory during the war, are still in wide use, although the regulations making them compulsory were canceled after the armistice.

Investigations of the grading of tomatoes, cabbage and some other vegetable crops are now under way and the bureau of markets states that recommendations for grade specifications may be made in time for use next season.

GENERAL FARM NOTES

In the mature pile growing? Get it onto the fields.

Don't burn the leaves, save them for use as fertilizer.

A workshop provides a place for employment during the winter days.

The pen is mightier than the sword—especially if there is a pig in it.

It's not how much we can produce but what we can save of the produce that counts.

Cowpeas are a legume that should be grown on every farm. They do reasonably well on thin soil.

Catarhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the desired portion of the ear.
There is only one way to cure catarhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarhal deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube.
When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarhal, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surface. Hall's catarhal medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of catarhal deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's catarhal medicine. Circulars free. All druggists, 75c.

"SMALL TOWN" STUFF.

If there is one thing more than another that makes for misery, that retards growth, that causes small towns and villages to wither, it is jealousy.
Gossip and slander are the cause of much unhappiness, but jealousy breeds genuine misery. From the woman who hides behind drawn blinds and watches the guests who visit her neighbors home, to the man of power, who drops the blighting insinuation that some struggling competitor's credit is not sound, much of the meanness of small town life is inspired by jealousy. Chelsea probably has its share of this "small town" stuff. The pitiful thing about the sufferer who is afflicted with this malady is that it is the peculiar nature of this evil to swell small things to great, to make a false situation out of naught, to imagine much and then to lose all reason amid the hideous phantoms it has formed. Did you ever hear a jealous woman rave about her more popular acquaintance? Did you ever hear an unsuccessful business-man malign his competitor? Of course you have and you know what we mean!

MAKING RURAL SURVEY

Work of Nation-Wide Survey by Interchurch World Movement of Great Importance.

In almost all parts of the United States state rural survey supervisors are finding themselves in situations where they have to restrain local communities from founding federated or union churches, especially without any ecclesiastical or denominational connection. Men are having this experience in various parts of the central West. The last incident comes from one of the Mississippi valley states.

Prairieville has a population of 200
and for years has had two churches.
There never has been a resident pastor or the other was without its fractional allowance of some minister's time. The people themselves decided that they ought to unite in some sort of community fellowship. They were insistent that they had been unfairly treated by denominational boards and that there was no hope of ever bringing about an adequate ministry of religion for their community through official sources. To them the only solution was to cut loose from all denominational affiliation.

A group of fifteen of them from the two churches and from two country churches, closely contiguous to the town, waited upon the Interchurch World Movement supervisor and ask his help in bringing this about. He reports that they put him through the severest slice of gruffing he has ever experienced. The meeting lasted four hours.

The supervisor gave them data concerning undenominational churches, sketched out such plans as had been used in Vermont and Montana, and finally persuaded them to express their convictions in a resolution and present it to the proper denominational officials. The procedure which the Interchurch hopes, in the light of the survey, to follow with an adequate program was explained to these people and was probably the one thing, more than any other, which induced them to abandon, for the present, their idea of a federated church.

Tributary to this little trade center of Prairieville are about 1,000 people.

The action of their leaders is proof of the fact that in many an average rural or village community there is latent the dynamic power and the leadership for the democratic management of their own affairs. This instance, and the others occurring, evidence the fact that there is a widespread spirit of rebellion on account of the inefficiency of the mislustration thus far given them.

The Interchurch World Movement has succeeded in procuring a temporary stay of federated and affiliated union churches. The people are now ready to accept a denominational church, but they are determined to have only one.

What will church officials do for Prairieville and thousands of other Prairievilles that are coming to light?

CAPITOL SAVINGS & LOAN

ENDS GREAT YEAR

Under The Above Caption The Lansing State Journal of Feb. 7 Has

The Following To Say:

The sixtieth semi-annual statement of the Capitol Savings & Loan association shows the largest gain of any year in the history of their business.
During the war when most financial institutions were well satisfied if they held their own, this association gained in total assets over $500,000 each year, while for 1919, over $1,000,000 was added to the assets making total assets as of January 1, 1920, of $3,- 737,836.

The association made real estate
loans during the year aggregating $2,050,015. Earnings now standing to the credit of the share holders amount to $277,325. While the loaning rate to the borrower has been the lowest ever, the net earnings during 1919 were $196,329.85, most of which was distributed to the share holders, the balance of $28,494 being carried over as undivided profits. In addition to all this, the association carries a reserve fund of $125,000 for any emergency that may arise.

Chester D. Woodbury, who has been the president for the past 16 years and Myron A. Chapin, who has been secretary and treasurer over 20 years, were re-elected to these offices for the year 1920. Cornelius A. Gower, Judge Edward Cahill, Arthur C. Stebbins and Clark C. Wood, general counsel, make up the balance of the board of directors.

Chronic Constipation.

There are people who never have a movement of the bowels without it is produced by a cathartic. Most of them have brought that condition on themselves by the use of mineral waters and strong cathartics that take too much water out of the system and aggravate the disease they are meant to relieve. A mild laxative tonic like Chamberlain's tablets affords a gentle movement of the bowels that you hardly realize has been produced by a medicine, and their use is not likely to be followed by constipation. Adv.
