A Sign of the Times.

In commenting upon the statement recently made in the Standard in regard to the smaller number of farm houses in Sylvan township than there were fifty year ago, the Detroit Free Press said editorially:

"This statement, significant as it is in showing the trend away from farm life, does not indicate that the abandoned farms of New England are to be repeated in Michigan. Land is at once too valuable and too fertile here to be abandoned without price, but evidently there has been a merging of small farms into larger ones by the gradual purchase of smaller acceage. Farms whose owners have felt the city urge have been absorbed by neighbors, who have added twenty or forty acres to their holdings. This has resulted in a greater demand for labor, more outside help heing required to conduct the larger farms, while the former producers have become consumers.

I made a sign to him for silence, thinking it was Billy come back with his news, but wishing to keep on the safe side, went noisily along the hall and opened the door a crack against the chain-boit to reconnoiter before I let anyone in.

It was my unknown visitor of the morning—the detective! And some-how I wasn't surprised!

"What, you here again?" I exclaimed testily, and in a voice loud enough for monsieur to hear—and I knew he was straining every nerve to do it, too.

It came over me in a flash that now was my chance to get it "coming and going"—that, having played on his fears for Gloire, I'd see if I could play on his fears for himself; I'd make the detective talk loud enough for mousieur to learn something.

"I am sorry to trouble you again—after what you said," the detective and something. "I end to the case is so urgent—If you will spare me ten minutes now, it may save a life."

My reply was to lough in the man's face. He drew back a step.

CHAPTER XVIII.

Monsieur Explains.

From considerable experience with the Latin temperament, I long ago came to the conclusion that it "works in a mysterious way its wonders to perform;" and certainly its emotional reactions are so much more histrionic than one is accustomed to in Angio-Saxon life that I was not completely unthuged when monsieur collapsed in a chair and buried his face in his hands and began to sob. Even thei I had a sneaking suspicion that he was not without an eye to the main chance in its dramatic effect on me; his fate was in my hands and he had to make every appeal that would work.

I said, "Sah" and tiptoed back along the hall, threw open the front door as wide as I could get it on the chain-bot and peeped out to see if the detective had returned and was eavesdropping. But though I thought I heard a slight shuffling noise on the stairs, I could see nothing and did not dane to lavestigate more intimately and went back to my study with another "Sah" monsieur, who by this time was alive again to the case.

"It was you he was after—didn't you hear what he said?"

"Oul—I hear everysing—and it is my little Claire." He buried his face in his hands and his shoulders heaved as if he were weeping.

I didn't relish this sort of a scene with him, and besides, time was pressing—if this man were trying to find Claire and kidnap her, something had to be done immediately.

"Why not let Mrs. Delario take her immediately to California?" was the bright suggestion from me.
He met it with scorn. "How far does madame get wis her? To Chicago? To Pittsburgh? Probably she does not even leave New York! "Yes, of course," I answered as cordinity fin me with any joy—a whola afternoon shat up alone with him and the diamonds!

"It really isn't safe for you to stay here," I began, when the runble of the dumb-waiter gave me another bright thought. "And the fire escape won't do, either—somebody would be sure to see you. You'll have to go down by the domb-waiter, and you'd better da it as soon as possible—in case that man comes back. And he will—I know he will."

Monsieur considered this a moment and then asked: "But bow should I arrive inside my own apartment? Ze door to zat little lift is shut and fast-ened on ze Inside."

"Ah—I see," and he agreed with me it would be safer for him to go. Thinking I might start him on his downward way and be rid of him before Billy came—and I was expecting him to return from Mrs. Delario's every minute and thought it much wiser to see him alone and hear the news about Claire—I stepped into the kitchen to get the leeplek and show monsieur how to use it on his door.

Record Swim for a Crocodile.

How for can a crocodile swim? Perhaps it would be more practical to ask how far crocodiles do swim? J. Stanley Gardiner claims the record for a crocodile (Crocodilus porresus) that recently landed in the Fiji islands, where he took its photograph. No crocodiles of this species inhabit the Fiji islands, and the nearest spot where they are known to live is the New Hebrides, 683 miles distant. Therefore, this crocodile must have swam 683 miles in the open sen. If anyone knows of a crocodile that wants to challenge this record, he should write to the editor of the Euglish magazine Nature.

POULTRY PROFITABLE TO AVERAGE FARMER

Food Products Can Be Obtained Absolutely Fresh.

Expense of Keeping Small Flock is Small Because Fowls Find Scat-tered Grain and They Also Feed on Bugs and Worms.

A large proportion of the poultry products of this country are produced on general farms. Nearly every farm has its poultry flock. The average American farmer reserves about three dozen eggs a week for family use and about 50 flowls are consumed by the family during the year. These food products can be secured absolutely fresh, which considerably enhances the value of this contribution from the farm. Article Has Decreased Supply for Manufacture.

Beginning July 1, 1902, the date of the first records, the quantity of removated butter made has varied considerably, but the general trend has been toward a smaller production. This decrease corresponds in general to the decline in the quantity of farm butter from which removated butter is largely made. It is probable, also, that improvement in quality of farm butter has helped to increase the supply for use in the manufacture of renovated butter.

SENATE ADOPTS RESERVATION

New Article Ten Pasces Upper Hous By 2 to 1 Vote.

Washington.-- Reaffirming its disagreement with President Wison on the dominating issue of the peace treaty controversy the senate adopted Monday by a vote of more than two to one the new Article 10 reservation framed by Republican leaders. Its action brought to an end, at least for the present, the protracted effort for a compromise that would insure ratification and the cenate's decision was accepted generally as hastening the trenty toward another deadlock from which it could be released only by a verdict at the polls next Novem-

Fourteen Democrats voted with the united Republican membership, for the reservation, but this defection from the administration ranks fell far short of the number that would be require to ratify

The vote for adoption, 56 to 26, showed on its face a two-thirds majority for the reservation, but it by no means indicated that two-thirds would vote for ratification on that basis.

The reservation, excepted after meany exerts to modify it had been voted down by the solidly antied Republican majority, follows in general form the one adopted last November.

and the man who should get your vote in the Primaries, April

A vote for Leonard Wood is a vote for Reosevelt's principles, for the very same things that Reosevelt would be advocating if he were alive today.

A vote for Wood is a vote for a candidate whose backers have pledged themselves to see that the voice of the people of Michigan is heard in the state and national conventions. Wood is fighting for the nomination, not merely to gather up delegates to be transferred to some other candidate when the party leaders decide that the psychological moment has arrived.

General Wood, in his public utterances, has shown a thorough understanding of the farmer's problems and a warm sympathy for the farmer. He says: "Our stability rests largely in the agricultural population. The red flag nover files ever the house of a farmer who owns his farm. If the American farmers had not played the game as they did, we would have lost the war, because we would not have been able to feed our Ailles in the field as well as ourselves. If the American farmers had struck, the Germans would have won the war. The farmers sent their sons to war, and in spite of the shortage of labor they, by fremendously increasing their efforts, gave the world the biggest crop in history. Agriculture is not only the principal source of our westih, it is the groundwork of our most stable citizenship.

"We must have a department of agriculture conducted for the farmer by men who really know farming from the furrow to the crop, It should be the intention of the national government at Washington to make farming conditions such that there would be fewer tenant farms and more ewned farms."

Theodore Reosevelt said of Lenoard Wood: "He has made all good Americans his debtors by what he has done."

Brooklyn--Charlie Cruse came dragging a 12 pound pickerel from Clark lake last week. It was caught on hook and line, Ed Wesch is probably the most consistent fisherman the lake has seen this season. Ed has speared a total of 32 this winter.

Brooklyn Exponent.

Ypsilanti - Joseph F. Ryan, who says his home is in Hancock, pleaded gailty Thursday before Municipal Judge Stattmiller for disorderly conduct. He was accused by a young Ypsilanti girl with forcing his attention upon her and grabbing her arm. He was sentenced to pay a line of $50 cr servy 65 days in the house of correction. He went to Detroit Friday.

Brighton—The little 14-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Len Brown had a narrow escape from death Monday afternoon. The mother had gone from the house just a moment and heard the little one cry out. She hastened inside to find the baby on its back on the floor and their pet cat over the child sucking its breath. The child was unconscious for a short time but was resustated when cold water was dashed into her face. Needless to say pussy was sent to the happy hunting ground for cats." Brighton Argus.

Napoleon — The Napoleon school board received bids for the new consolidated school building last week. The lowest general construction figure reported was $42,004, or something above $54,000 for the whole job including heating, ventilation, electric lighting and plumbing contracts. As bonds have been voted and sold for only $27,000 the board is up against a radical revision of plans or of raising more money, or both. State and county school officials are being consulted and their good advice is being counted on to help solve the high cost of building problem for the benefit of some of the best boys and girls on earth.—Browklyn Exponent.

Browklyn—When a load of ice was taken out of the pond for the Kiff market this week, the men searched for the thinnest spot to make the cutting easier. They found it where ice had keen taken out twice before and the cakes they hauled up measured only 17 inches. At other points the ice measured 30 inches, in some contrast to the 6 inch crop of last year. In considering the subject, the local "hot stove league" has figured that the pond should now be covered with a foot of sawdust. This would preserve the ice and bring it to just the right thickness to start cutting on the 4th of July when the membership is strongest for the ice work.—Brooklyn Exponent.

Conditions in Turkey Compel the Allies to Make Strong Showing of Force.

RUSSIA AGAIN SEEKS PEACE

Renews Offers to Warsaw After Severe Defeat by Poles—Supreme Council on Economic Restoration —Another Final Struggle In Senate Over the Treaty.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD.

Conditions in Turkey have been going from bad to worse until the supreme council of the allies has been driven not only to adopt drastic measures but even to plan for the temporary taking over a formula. from bad to worse until the supreme council of the allies has been driven not only to adopt drastic measures but even to plan for the temporary taking over of certain of the Turkish government activities, including the war department. If the Turks behave themselves better and cease the massacring of Armenians this control will be only temporary. Urged especially by Premier Venizelos of Greece, the council is said to have ordered the occupation of important points in Asiatic and European Turkey by allied military and naval forces in the bedfeth of the strong showing of military force would bring the Turks around to their senses. If this is not sufficient, it may be necessary to start operations against Mustapha Kemel Fasha, the Turkish commander in Asiatic Turkey, and it is helieved these would be carried out by the Greek army of 90,000 men now in the Smyrna region.

Since the revent massacre in Marash similar outrages have occurred in a number of other places and it is reported that Turks, Kurds and Arnbs are besteping Aintah, Urfa, Dishekt, Mardin and other towns. In all these places there are American relief workers who are in danger, and many days ago Consul J. B. Jackson at Aleppo asked our state department to send a squadron of warships to Port Alexandrettu. The French garrisons, however, are the chief objects of attack and considerable French reinforcements have been sent to Cili-cla.

The trouble in Turkey, which is said to be directed from Rerlin and supported by the botsberikl, is a part of the general fight being put up in Egypt. Mesopotumia, and other coun-tries by so-called nationalists who are attacking the British rule. Dispatches from Turkey assert that Prince Felsal of the Hedjaz kingdom is implicated in it and has suggested a possible union of Turkey, Syrla and the Hedjaz. The situation is becoming almost as complicated and difficult to under-stand as that in Russia some months ago.

of the inter when the Poles took two important railway junctions and a large number of prisoners, including an entire division staff. Immediately thereafter Tchitcherin, soviet foreign minister, sent another peace note to Warsaw, asking when and where the peace delegates of all the border mittons might meet with the representatives of the bolsheviki. He asked Poland to refrain from further hostilities and explained that the soviet operations on the Lithuanian and White Ruthenian fronts, which the Poles had broken up, were inspired by fear that the Poles intended to start a drive against the Ukraine. President Plisudingland.

troops and the attitude of the Mes-cow government.

The Romanians and the bolsheviki are in a fair way to make peace, ne-soliations now being under way at Dorna-Waten in Rukowina. As a pre-liminary the Romanians demand that the soviet troops be withdrawn from the frontier and that commercial rela-tions be resumed. It now appears like-by that Romania will succeed in her great purpose of annexing, or recovering, Bessrabha.

The supreme council of the aliles, taking note of the distressing state of the world in general, has issued a memorandum on economic conditions that is welcomed by all serious unfuded persons. For the preservation of critilization it urges, as might be expected, the early and complete restoration of peace conditions, with normal economic relations, reduction of armies to a peace footing and limitation of armaments; the encouragement of larger and better output by workers everywhere; the suppression of extravagance, and definition of redlit and currency; and assistance for countries that are now unproductive for lack of raw materials. Without any suggestion of mitigaling the frealty terms it is stated that Germany and especially Austria must be enabled to obtain foodstuffs and raw materials in order that they may recover enough to pay the Indemnity demanded of them, and it is declared that the total of the reparation must be fixed at the earliest possible time. There is even a suggestion that Germany should be allowed to raise an intermitional loan to meet her immediate needs. In this proposed line of conduct toward the vanquished nations the supreme council is facing the facts with tusiness calculation, not with sentimental feelings.

If there had been any tondency toward treating Germany with more tenderness it probably would have been dispetled by the many attacks made last week by Germans on army officers and others of the allies in the country on official business. These outrages took place in Berlin and several other cities and were deliberate and seemingly planned. The Berlin government deplores them and promises to panish the offenders, among whom is Prince Joachim Abrecht, cousin of the former kniser.

Minister of Defense Noske has been telling correspondents how scrupulously Germany has been carrying out the terms of the treaty by reducing her military and naval strength, but there are other things the government has not done ret. Among these is the application of the promised penalities for the outrages suffered by officers of the interallied commission of the Batte states during the German execusion of that region. The conference of alled amblassodors has sent to Berlin a firmly worded note demanding that this pledge be carried out at once.

At frequent intervals the opposing forces in the senate have entered on work is described by the Washington correspondents as the decisive struggle over the peace trenty of Versalles. At this writing they are engaged in another of those combats, and the prospect is that this time it really will be decisive. Early in the week President Wilson, rather than to confer with a representative of the compromisers, wrote a long letter to Senator Hitchcock in which he reasserted his old postition regarding the treaty, condemned the reservations as a nullification of the League of Nations covenant and plended for consideration of the needs of humanity lustead of "special national interests." He demanded that article 10 be accepted unchanged and asserted that to refuse to accept the moral obligation required by it would be a breach of good faith. If the United States cannot enter the league with fail responsibility, he said.

The insurgent Democratts, most of whom are up for re-election this year, are inclined to think Bryan was right when he said the party could not afford to go before the country on the Issue of article 10, yet that is the prospect that confronts the Democratts, and if that is made the Issue, it is predicted that Mr. Wilson will be compelled to reconsider his reported decision not to seek a third term. Of the administration Democrats who are after the nomination Attorney General Palmer is the only one who is trying to capture instructed delegations, and of course if his chief determined to run again, Mr. Palmer would have to stand aside. The others, like McAdon, have been contenting themselves with keeping their names before the public and advising the sending of uninstructed delegates to San Francisco.

Many of the Republicans welcomed the chance to make article 10 the issue of the campalign, the irreconcilables especially being pleased. The alturation served to loost the stock of Senator Hiram Johnson considerably. Two of his colloagues, Kenyon of Iowa and Norris of Nebraska, promptly announced that they would support his candidacy. Sugar Grows on Fir Trees, but at $66 a Pound WASHINGTON.—Announcement is made by the American Forestry association of the phenomenon of sugar growing on fit trees in the province of British Columbia and in the eastern pert of the state of Washington. This discovery was made by Prof. John Davidson, F. L. S.; F. B. S. E., holmist in charge at the University of British Columbia at Vancouver.

"In the heart of British Columbia the Indians still gather the sugar os before the white man came," says the American Forestry Magazine, "and its further remarkable that so long a time chapsed before it attracted scientific attention. Perhaps the Indians intentionally held the fact a secret."

"The amblyses made by Dr. F. T. Shutt, dominion chemist, Ottawa, Canada, and by the bureau of chemistry bere in Washington, are of great interest because of the high degree of consinger of composition the fir sugar, or manna, showed," continues the announcement."

"A letter from the Madison laboratory states that the manna from Douglas fir contains about 50 per cent of a sugar known as melezitose, which in small quantities is seiling at $06 a pound.

The small appears in white masses of different sizes, ranging from a quarter of an inch to two inches in diameter. The smaller masses form like white drops at the tips of single leaves. At times several of the leaf tips are imbedded in a larger drop. Masses of greater size scatter over the leaves and branchlets."

The sugar is exceedingly sweet, giving a flavor comparable to the highest class of the manufactured article.

Legislators Yearning for Captured German Cannon

REPRESENTATIVE Bee of Texas busied himself the other day in the house about captured German cannon. Kahn of California, chairman of the military affairs committee had the floor. Questions and suswers went about like business.

about like this:

Some time ago we had a promise of cannon that were captured from Germany, and the Congressional Record was littered from top to bottom with blus for that purpose. What are the prospects for any community in this country to ever get one of those cannon?

this country to ever get one of these cannon?

Air. Rahn. That is another routier in which we have been trying to get information from the war department for almost six months so that we might know approximately how many of each class of ordnance we would have for distribution.

Air. Bee. Mir. Speaker, let me ask the gentleman a further question. Are those cannon and machine guns in the United States, or are they still in France subject to transportation?

Mr. Rahn. As 1 understand, relatively few are in this country.

Mr. Bee. The gentleman has no present hope, then, of fulfilling his promise? Mr. Kain. Oh. I think that in the course of a few months we may be able to get the information, and it is the intention of the committee to pass social legislation upon the subject so that every member of the house will have an opportunity to get some of these very desirable trophies for his district.

Mr. Bee. Will there he one cannon for each member or will they be able to get one for each county in his district?

Air. Kaho. I am told there are about 4,000 countles in the various states.

The latest figures that I get about cannon seem to show that we have about 1,300 captured heavy large-caliber guns. But we have 4,000 heavy machine guns that can be distributed, so that there is hope of getting something for the members of the house for their constituencies.

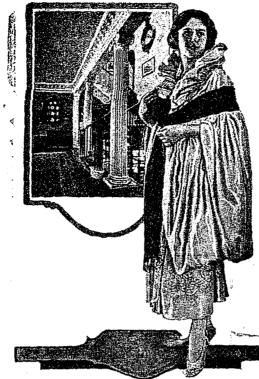

North American Indian Division: Clear the Way!

ORGANIZATION of one or more full divisions of indian troops as a pact of the reorganized army and to be known as the North American Indian division or divisions, is pending in congress as part of the army reorganization legislation. Many instances of exploits of personal heroism on the west-gloits of personal heroism on the west-gloit of the more than 17,000 Indians who saw millintry service during the war were members of the Thirty-sixth division. In Texas, and Oklahoma National Army division; the Texas, and Division on the Marke. But the realskins served in many other units and in Dractically all services.

Dr. J. K. Dixon declared that after visiting numerous camps and hospitus, all "officers interviewed, from the commanding officer to the corporal render universal and enthusiastic commendation of the brilliance, the stability, the amenability to discipline, the heroism and valor of the Indian as a lighting force in our American nemy and navy."

Doctor Dixon's plan proposes the establishment of permanent regimental for a military career and duties of citizenship, and a higher school, to be known as the indian West Point, for instructing Indians to the duties of non-commissioned officers. The army service would make the Indian a full citizen.

CHANGING COWS TO PASTURE

Caution Must Be Observed to Avoid Drop in Flow of Milk-guce Grain Gradually.

Prepared by the United States Depart-ment of Agriculture.) Farmers welcome the senson when fairy cattle can be turned on pasture, Farmers welcome the season when lairy cattle can be turned on pasture, as they feel that the heavy expense of winter feeding is over, and expect that during the inte spring and early hummer months the cows will reach their maximum flow of milk at a minimum cost. This is true within tertain limits, but caution must be observed in making the change from they feel to pasture conditions. The change should not be made too early in the spring, nor too abrupily, especially in the case of cows that are producing a relatively high flow of milk in the the conditions. The change should not be made too early in the spring, nor too abrupily, especially in the case of cows that are producing a relatively high flow of milk.

The string and that have been feel liberally fluring the winter. Unless the change is made gradually there will be a devided drop in the flow of milk.

Pasture grasses in the early spring are immanture and contain a high persentage of water and but a small immount of dry manter. This makes it physically impossible for cows producing a large amount of milk to catcaogh of such grass to supply the accessary amount of nutrients. The cwas should be allowed on pasture only a few hours a day and the grain ration should be reduced gradually. After the change has been made cows which are producing only an average amount of milk and butterfat will and a sufficient supply of feed on sood pasture. High producers, however, will require some grain throughout the senson. While direct results may not show immediately it is the general consensus of opinion that cows are brought to a better body condition and are likely to maintain their flow of milk longer during the balance of the lactation period if they receive some rain. Three to five pounds daily of grain, such as a mixture of oats, bran, and corn or barley, may be used to supplement pasture.

From Good Feed.

Records of cow testing associations go to show that it is the well fed cow that returns the greatest profit. "It would be not/stable often for the man who is milking ten cows to sell two of them and give all the feed to the rest," says J. B. Fitch, head of the dulry department at the Kansas State Agricultural college.

"It requires a long time for some rattle owners to realize that it is profitable to feed a cow well. It is a fact, that the average cow requires

A PARTY FOR JIM

By MATTIE A. RAMSAY.

(Q. 1929, b) McCiera Newspaper Syndicate)
He had been chuckling to himself all day. For that morning he had leased an apartment and had a big surprise for Dorothy. They had been married in May, upon his return from France, and on account of the house shortage, they had been obliged to live in a room and take their meals out.

He was in the gayest of spirits. Dorothy, who, under the circumstances, had relained her position, was home ahead of him. She was combing her hair. He bent over to kiss her and demolished her colffure. She laughed and kissed his cheek and began combling again.

and kissed his check and began combing again.

Then with a boyish cagerness he told her of the apartment, how his sister had heard of it, how happy they would be. And what a stroke of wisdom that had been when they had bought their furniture at the reduced summer rates. All day his thoughts had evoked such cosy pictures, and he had spoken with such enthusiasm that at first he wasn't conscious of Dorethy's luck of spontaneous approval.

His cheeriness vanished. He sub-

Dorothy's tack of spontaneous approval.

His cheeriness vanished. He subjected her to a sharp scrutiny. "It sounds alce," she returned smiling; "and we can talk about it after dinuer. Come; I'm famished."

Her tone had been a trific careless and noncommittal. Still, he told himself that he must not be too exacting. He admitted that it was rather high-handed of him to have taken the whole responsibility. He should have consulted her. Going back from the restaurant, he apologized, but the atmosphere did not clear.

"Let's have it all straight out, Dorothy," he said quietly, once more in their room.

othy," he said quiece, their room.

He fixed his eyes upon her with an appeal that stirred her. She knew of his longing for a home; and with what gusto he talked of the fine house warming they would have, if they only had a little flat. Two years ago, when he and his brother had gone across, his home had been broken up.

and his brother had gone across, his home had been broken up.

That she was not as keen about a home as Jim had never dawned upon Dorothy. But now that she was facing such a possibility, she was starmed at her disinterestedness. Though she was sorry to disappoint him, she must speak the truth; though she smiled as she talked, he was aware of the sadness that tinged her reply.

She didn't want to give up her position. Today she had a raise of $5; now $55 a week. And she didn't have the strength nor the inclination, after working all day, to putter around the house at night. Living was too high to give up $35. How could they meet expenses on $40 a week?

"You silly boy," she said softly, "you have no idea what clothes cost today." She opened a box and displayed a new sult. "That cost me $100."

Jim flushed red. Her money; not like be thought. And so all his heart.

She opened a box and displayed a new sult. "That cost me $100."

Jim flushed red. Her money; not his, he thought. And so all his beautiful dreams collapsed. The reference to her raise and to his meager salary hart him. She knew nothing of his scheming to earn extra and of his fine figuring; for he could show in black and white that it cost very little more to have a little flat. As the days went by, he felt lonely and depressed to an extent that Dorothy fidn't realize.

They never referred to that subject again. Jim grew sensitive about money. He never told her of his raise.

One day Dorothy renewed her proposal of some time previous, which Jim had indignantly repudiated, that she be allowed to pay her share, and it was accepted with such afactify that Dorothy was startled. Even Jim was surprised at himself.

November came. One evening Dorothy went over to see her friend Jennie, who noticed at once a troubled, wistful look in Dorothy's face. Perhaps she was beginning worth far more than $35.

Tears filled Dorothy's eyes. Then she was tosing something worth far more than $35.

Tears filled Dorothy's eyes. Then she confessed that she had been househouting and was thoroughly disheartened. She wanted to begin where she and Jim had started, when they used to talk over all the happenings of the day. Now they were almost strangers. Jennie had been begged to help and she did, Through her were located four rooms in modern apartments. Dorothy was jubilant. With gratitude, she assented and acted upon Jennie's suggestion that she take Jim's mother and sister into her confidence, for Jennie was anxious to see that breach spanned.

The next week Dorothy worked hard and late. Everything was in its place. Jennie thought she had never seen such a homelike apartment. She loved the look of the rooms, the good taste, and especially the living room, in the soft glow of dant handsome lamp. It was three nights later, and Jim, as he supposed, with Fill, his brother, were coming to make a call. Dorothy was radiant and sweet. She knew that nothing mattered so long as Jim loved her and they were together.

nothing mattered so long as Jim loved her and they were together. Jennie joined his mother and sister in the kitchen, who were rejoicing over the attractive party which had been prepared. They thrilled when the bell rang and the door opened. A moment's silence. Then they heard Jim saying in the dearest voice, "Dorry, Dorry!" Then Bill come in, closing the kitchen door, grinning, and they all grinned back.
