HOLMES & WALKER

Oliver No. 26

The Oliver No. 26 sulky is a two wheel horse lift sulky plow. That is, when the operator wishes to raise the bottom from the ground he merely presses a foot trip which puts into operation the lifting mechanism. The lifting mechanism operates so that when the bottom has been raised to the proper height, the latch dog automatically unlocks, rendering impossible a break through some mistake on the part of the driver. The horse lift features saves the operator the hard work of raising and lowering the bottoms every time he comes to the end of the field or a turn. It is also particularly desirable for work in extremely hard plowing conditions, and for use on rough and uneven land because it can be backed easily.

HOLMES & WALKER

We Always Treat You Right.

Rehearsals Will Begin Soon.
"Katcha-Koo," a positively up-to-the-minute musical fantasy, will be given on April 16 and 17 at the Sylvan theatre, under the auspices of Olive Chapter, O. E. S.

Committees have been formed, with Mrs. Charles Martin as general chairman. All in charge are most enthusiastic over the coming event and feel confident that it will be a grand success.

"Katcha-Koo" is both Oriental and American. It tells an interesting story of an American aviator, who, lost in India, masquerades as an oriental fakir and meets with many thrilling adventures. A vein of rich comedy runs through the piece, and there are novel and brilliant musical and spectacular effects.

A professional director will have charge of the rehearsals, which will begin about April 1.

Postmaster Examination.

At the request of the postmaster general the United States civil service commission has announced an examination to be held at Ann Arbor, on April 14, 1920, for the position of postmaster at Chelsea. This office has an annual compensation of $2,000.

To be eligible for this examination an applicant must be a citizen of the United States, must actually reside within the delivery of the office and have so resided at the time the present vacancy occurred.

Applicants must have reached their twenty-first but not their sixty-fifth birthday on the date of the examination.

Application form 2241 and full information concerning the requirements of the examination may be secured from the postmaster at the place of vacancy or from the civil service commission, Washington, D. C. Applications should be properly executed and filed with the commission at Washington, D. C., in time to arrange for the examination of the applicant.

A Unique Concert.

A concert unique in character, and of especial interest will be given in Hill Auditorium, Ann Arbor, Tuesday evening, March 30, by the Trio de Lutece, an organization "dedicated to all who love the beautiful and distinctive in music." Three distinguished musicians who stand in the forefront rank of their several fields of musical endeavor will participate in a program of trios and solos. George Barrere is counted as among the statists of the day, while Carlos Salzedo is without doubt the leading harp player of the day. Lucien Schmitt's reputation as a cellist is firmly established. In ancient time during the Roman invasion, there dwelt on what is the present site of the city of Paris, a little community known as Lutetia, or, as the French have, Lutece. It is a pretty name and an unusual one, and seemed altogether and entirely appropriate when several years ago three distinguished French musicians, erstwhile Parisians, foregathered and decided to band themselves together permanently as a trio, because they had so long known one another and enjoyed so extremely playing with one another; moreover, as artists of equal rank, an uncommonly fine symmetry was assured.

It was then, as the Trio de Lutece, that these three compatriots made their first bow to New York on February 22, 1914. The first concert in New York was a sensation; so many being turned away that a second concert was immediately given. It is today the "busiest" of the high ranking ensemble attractions, booking as many as five tours in a single season.

Fordson Hits High Production Record
On February 19 at 9 a. m. Fordson tractor number 100,000 left the assembly line in the Fordson plant at Dearborn, Michigan, slightly less than two and one-half years after number one was completed. And here again has Henry Ford set a new high record in the manufacture of farm tractors via the quantity production route.

Although the Ford interests are very recent entrants in the ranks of the tractor manufacturers, yet Henry Ford really built a tractor—of the steam type—before he started work on his first gas car. And incidentally, that tractor and the first car are still in very good running condition, and Mr. Ford occasionally demonstrates both to visitors at his farm in Dearborn.

Some fifteen years ago Mr. Ford began work on what has come to be the Fordson. This tractor was really a Ford car equipped with special wheels and included, of course, some mechanical changes. By 1908 he had a workable tractor; it plowed, harrowed, and did much other work on the farm. Then ensued nine more years of experimental work before the first tractor was put on the market.

Fordson tractors are now being assembled at a rate of 350 daily at Dearborn, 100 at the St. Louis assembling plant, and it is estimated that within a short time the Des Moines branch will be in operation. There is also an assembling plant in Cork, Ireland.

BRILLIANT DISPLAY AURORA BOREALIS

The Display of Northern Lights Was Beautiful Monday Night.

An unusually brilliant display of aurora borealis, or northern lights, was visible for several hours Monday night, and everyone developed an awful case of "rubber neckitis" viewing it. Long streamers of pale light emanating from a nebulous cloud-like body on the northern horizon and radiating to the zenith formed the principal part of the spectacle, although at times the entire firmament appeared overspread with a rosy glow. It is believed to have been caused by a discharge of electricity in the upper strata of the atmosphere.

The display was unusual, according to Prof. Wm. J. Hussey, head of the university observatory at Ann Arbor, both in color, and in the curtain form of the aurora, which is seldom seen in these latitudes.

CHURCH CIRCLES.

A SERMONETTE

By Rev. P. W. Dierberger.

What we want in Chelsea is a revival that will sweeten up our sour saints; a revival that will make people pay their debts and live within their income; a revival that will get hell out of sinners and keep them out of one in the future; a revival that will make sinners in the church and out repent to the point of restitution; a revival that will bring not imitations of Christ but reproductions of Him; a revival that will bring back the Bible to daily reading, and that will rebuild the family altar and keep the Sabbath holy; a revival that will cut the cuss words out of daily use and purify hearing in public places; a revival that will make an employer pay a just wage and the workman an honest work; a revival that will bear fruit here as well as in heaven; a revival that strikes sledge hammer blows at present day graft and demands big law-breakers locked up in jail as well as little ones; a revival that will purify pleasure and that has in it the converting power of the Holy Spirit.

Sylvan Democrat Ticket.

The Democrat township committee of Sylvan got together last week, after the failure to hold a caucus, and named the following ticket: Supervisor, Geo. A. Runciman; clerk Paul C. Maroney; treasurer, O. D. Schneider; highway commissioner, Adam G. Faust; overseer of highways, L. B. Lawrence; justice of peace, full term, N. H. Cook; justice of peace, to fill vacancy, Joseph Mayer; member board of review, John Geddes; constables, E. H. Chandler, J. E. Weber, Harry Savage, Wm. J. Young.

Sodalitas Latina.

The Sodalitas was entertained Monday evening by Miss Grace Shepherd's side at her home. The meeting was very interesting and showed lots of work on the part of the entertainers. The different gods and goddesses were represented in costume, from Venus, Apollo and Mercury down to Vulcan.

Another big feature of the evening was the Roman funeral. Glenn Brooks acted as "victim." Four candle bearers chanted in Latin as the procession went on.

There were other interesting features, among which was the lovely refreshments. The hour of departure was early.

Census in Second District Completed.

Elmer Kirby, supervisor of census, writes the Standard as follows:

I am glad to announce to the public that the census of the second district of Michigan, comprising the counties of Jackson, Lenawee, Monroe and Washtenaw is now complete, and I desire to return my sincere thanks to the public in general for the manner in which they responded to the questions required by the government and the cordial way in which they usually received the enumerators.

I appreciate very much the assistance rendered by the press in publishing many and various articles in advance of the work, informing the public in a general way of what would be required of people when called upon by the enumerators, and I also feel grateful for the uniform courtesy shown by the press during the progress of the work. Up to the present time I have received no notice of any criticism by the press in regard to the manner in which the work has been performed, which of itself speaks praise for those who have performed the service.

My district was comprised of one hundred seventy-three enumeration districts, meaning that one hundred seventy-three enumerators were designated to perform the service of making the enumeration, and in no instance did it become necessary for me to exercise my authority of removal for any cause. The enumerators had to contend with the severe weather, the bad roads, and sickness, yet notwithstanding these difficulties they have performed their work with cheer, efficiency, and, I believe, entire satisfaction to themselves and the public in general. I wish in this public manner to express my sincere thanks to them for their loyal, courteous and efficient service, and I shall always retain in my heart a feeling of kindness towards them, and I have the same feeling of appreciation towards those who constituted the office force. I shall always be glad to meet any of those persons who were associated with me in taking part in the fourteenth census.

Soil Survey to be Made.

Work on a state-wide soil survey will be carried on in Michigan on a large scale during the coming summer, according to announcement made recently by Dr. M. M. McCool, of the soils department at the Michigan Agricultural College. The survey will be of great value to the agricultural interests of the state, cataloging the soils and giving a definite check upon the farming possibilities of every section of Michigan.

Co-operation between the soils section of the experiment station at the Agricultural College and the bureau of soils at Washington has made possible the work this summer. R. S. Shaw, director of the experiment station, will furnish two men for the survey, while C. F. Marbut, chief of soil survey bureau of soils, will send one or more men to Michigan to work with the college specialists.

The survey plans for the coming summer will be a continuation of work started by Dr. McCool, who has already covered practically all of the southeastern part of the state.

"The value of this survey to Michigan can scarcely be estimated," says Dr. McCool. "The farming possibilities of hundreds of thousands of acres of idle land will be ascertained, and a check will be gotten upon the soils of the whole state."

"The survey will aim to get at soil composition, classification, and present state of erosion or washing, recent state of productivity. Notes will be made on erosion or washing, requirement for soil improvement, degree of utilization at present, and and possibilities for development."

Regular meeting of Olive Chapter, O. E. S., Wednesday evening, Mar. 31.

"The Farmer Kept Faith With the Country"

--Now Let the Country Keep Faith With Him--

LEONARD WOOD

This is Wood's sentiment toward the American Farmer, as expressed in his Platform and speeches:

"If the farmers had not kept faith as they did we would have lost the war, we would have been unable to feed our Allies and ourselves. They sent their sons to war, and in spite of the shortage of labor they raised the biggest crop in history.

"We want to maintain our rural population because it is the basis of our most stable citizenship. To do this, we must make life on the farms more attractive. The farmer must have good roads—he pays his full share of taxes. His interests must not be permitted to suffer so that other interests may profit more. If there is anything more important in this country than Agriculture, I do not know it.

"We must have a Department of Agriculture conducted for the farming interests by men who really know farming from the furrow to the crop.

"We must have national economy at Washington, and a budget system.

"We must have federal suppression of all dishonest business, no matter how large, no matter how small.

"We must have more producing, less spending, a saner cost of living.

"We must have a longer term of years to pay the war debt.

"We want fewer tenant farms, more owned farms."

It is your DUTY to vote in the primaries, April 5. You cannot vote unless you are registered.

Sick for Five Years and Given Up

Pontiac, Mich.—"A few years ago I was in a very bad state. I had been sick for about five years. Had several good doctors but kept getting worse all the time. Some said I had a consumption, some said I had some other thing, and some another. I finally made up my mind that I did not know what did all this. I began to think I was never going to get better. I had tried several different kinds of medicines but nothing seemed to give me any relief. One day I saw Dr. Pierce's medicine advertised and I got a bottle of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and it began to help me. I felt that I had found something. I got the 'Favorite Prescription' and the 'Pleasant Pellets' also, and these medicines cured me completely in just one year when I had suffered five years before. I feel very grateful to Dr. Pierce for my good health and keep his medicines in my home for immediate use. I consider they saved me from suffering and doing 'bad' things. I have recommended Dr. Pierce's remedies to many people and will gladly reply to anyone wanting to know about these medicines and what they can do for you. —MRS. B. J. BALDWIN, 246 Norton Ave.

STOMACH TROUBLE

Grand Rapids, Wis.—"I have used Dr. Pierce's medicines and found them very beneficial. I had stomach trouble for about eight years. I had to eat very carefully. I would eat or I would be down sick. I suffered something terrible about a year ago. I started to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and two bottles put me in fine condition. I can eat anything and do not feel distressed. I had taken many medicines previous to this and had doctors prescribe for me but nothing seemed to give me any relief until I started taking the 'Discovery'. It gave me great relief. I take pleasure in recommending it. —MRS. EMIL OESTREICH, 212 14th Ave., North.

NEWBERRY CASE TO BE APPEALED

NINETY DAY STAY IN EXECUTION OF SENTENCE GRANTED BY JUDGE SESSIONS.

SENATOR WILL RETAIN SEAT

Jury Finds Principal and 16 Aides Guilty of Conspiracy—Newberry, King and Cody Get Limits.

Grand Rapids—After Judge Clarence W. Sessions passed sentence Saturday afternoon upon United States Senator Truman H. Newberry and 16 co-defendants, convicted by the jury's verdict on the first count of the elections conspiracy case indictment, the court granted a 90-day stay in execution of the sentence, pending an appeal and filing of a bill of exceptions. Sixty-eight of the respondents were acquitted on both counts by the jury's verdict.

Senator Newberry, Paul H. King, his campaign manager, and Frederick Cody, of New York, received the maximum penalty provided under the corrupt practices act—a sentence to serve two years in Leavenworth penitentiary and a $10,000 fine.

The conviction came after the jury had been in deliberation for a total of 11 hours. Previous to passing sentence, the court denied motions for an arrest of judgment and for a new trial. The men found guilty and the sentences imposed by the court are as follows:

Senator Newberry, two years in Leavenworth and $10,000 fine.
Paul H. King, two years in Leavenworth prison and $10,000 fine.
Frederick Cody, two years in Leavenworth and $10,000 fine.
Charles A. Floyd, two years in Leavenworth and $10,000 fine.
William J. Mickel, two years in Leavenworth prison.
Allan A. Templeton, one year and six months.
Roger M. Andrews, one year and six months.
Milton Oakman, one year and six months.
Richard H. Fletcher, one year and three months.
James F. McGregor, one year and three months.
Fred Henry, one year and three months.
Hannibal A. Hopkins, one year and one day.
E. V. Chilson, one year and one day.
John S. Newberry, fined $10,000.
Harry C. Turner, fined $2,000.
B. Frank Emery, fined $2,000.
George S. Ladd, fined $1,000.

After imposing sentence, Judge Sessions, denying a motion for a new trial, granted a 90-day stay of execution in which the defense might perfect appeal and released the 17 convicted men on personal bonds of $5,000 each pending that appeal.

Case to Be Appealed.

Martin W. Littleton, of counsel for the defense said he would at once appeal to the supreme court of the United States. Ordinarily, the procedure would take the case to the court of appeals for this district, at Cincinnati, but Mr. Littleton explained that the constitutionality of the statute limiting campaign expenditures to $3,750 is to be challenged, and that, in making this issue, he cleared the way direct to the highest tribunal.

Mr. Littleton, the defense New York attorney, predicted that the Newberry case would not be finally disposed of in less than two years. Immediately after sentences had been imposed, Senator Newberry issued a statement in which he reasserted his innocence of any wrongdoing, expressed his appreciation of the loyalty of the men who were tried with him, and announced he would retain his seat in the Senate unless required to give it up by the Senate itself or by the Supreme Court.

Trial Result of 1918 Election. Senator Truman H. Newberry won the general election by a majority of 7,567, the vote being 220,054 for Newberry and 212,487 for Ford.

On January 6, 1919, Ford appealed to the senate for a recount, his request having been granted.

Following charges of illegal election, two investigations by the department of justice resulted in the indictment of 123 men, including Senator Newberry. Thirty-eight of these were released for lack of evidence after the trial had been in progress about a month.

The trial from beginning to end lasted about eight weeks. The stenographers, who reported all that was said by the court, lawyers and witnesses, took down 5,312 pages, averaging 250 words to the page. About 650 witnesses were sworn.

Among the most noteworthy features of the trial was James W. Helme's personally directed defense that he had been "worked" by Newberry men into thinking that there was a loud popular demand for him as a Democratic candidate for the senate.

The KITCHEN CABINET

Why don't you live a cheerful life And make the best of things? For discontent means constant strife And other ills it brings. It is hard tramping on life's pike, I know that this is true, But if you can't do what you like, Try living what you do.

—LUCIE M'LUKE.

SOMETHING ABOUT POTATOES.

One medium-sized potato, an ordinary setting of a common cooked meal and a medium-sized slice of bread contain about the same amount of energy - yielding food, principally in the form of starches. We need starch to give us energy to live and work.

As a source or iron, potatoes are equal to whole cereals and eggs when properly cooked. The potato contains but a small amount of one type of building material which is very important: that is nitrogen; but the amount seems to equal the average amount found in cereals, on the basis of the usual servings.

Although potatoes and cereals have a good supply of lime and phosphorus, they should not be depended upon as a source of these minerals. As lime and phosphorus are needed for building bones and teeth as well as regulating the body processes, they should be supplied from milk, eggs, legumes.

One great advantage that potatoes have over cereals is that they help to keep the fluids of the body neutral or slightly alkaline, because of the potassium they contain. Those foods which have an alkaline reaction in the tissues seem to furnish better health to the average individual.

The waste in paring a potato after cooking, as compared to that of the method of peeling before cooking, is just half, as the skin holds back the mineral salts; the protein and starch and none of this food substance comes off with the skin after cooking.

The temperature of water in which potatoes are put on to cook also influences loss of nutriment. Experiments have proved that the loss of protein is over twice as great when potatoes are put on to cook in cold water as in boiling water.

From all points of view the best methods of preparing potatoes are by baking and steaming.

If you have a mind to adorn your city by conserving monuments, first consecrate yourself the most beautiful monument of gentleness and justice and benevolence.—Epictetus.

Are You Suspicious of Your Health?

One may not be actually sick, yet feel so tired and languid, low-spirited and ambitious, that he can not truthfully say he is in good health. The kidneys work all the time, night and day, and it is no wonder that they become weak, sore or diseased. Nearly everybody suffers from kidney trouble or bladder ailments. Nature gives warning signals by backache, lameness and stiff joints, sore muscles, rheumatic pains, puffiness under the eyes and blurred vision.

RELIEVED HIS BACKACHE
"It gives me great pleasure to recommend Foley Kidney Pills as in my case they relieved me of a severe backache that had bothered me for several months. A few bottles fixed me up in good shape."—Jas. G. Wolf, 731 E. Jackson St., Green Bay, Wis.

FOLEY KIDNEY PILLS

Give quick and permanent relief from kidney or bladder troubles that have not reached a chronic or bad stage. They stop bladder irregularities, strengthen the kidneys and tone up the liver. When the kidneys are properly functioning, they filter and cast out from the blood the impurities that cause aches and pains and in the end may lead to serious illness. If you have any cause to suspect that your kidneys need help, you will make no mistake in taking Foley Kidney Pills.

ESCAPED AN OPERATION

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Many Such Cases.

Cairo, Ill.—"Sometime ago I got so bad with female trouble that I thought I would have to be operated on. I had a bad displacement. My right side would pain me and I was so nervous I could not hold a glass of water. Many times I would have to stop my work and sit down or I would fall on the floor in a faint. I consulted several doctors and every one told me the same but I kept fighting to keep from having the operation. I had read so many times of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it helped my sister so I began taking it. I have never felt better than I have since then and I keep house and am able to do all my work. The Vegetable Compound is certainly a grand medicine."

Mrs. R. R. MATTHEWS, 3311 S. Lamar Street, Cairo, Ill.

Of course there are many such cases that only a surgical operation will relieve. We freely acknowledge this, but the above letter, and many others like it, amply prove that many operations are recommended when medicine in many cases is all that is needed.

CHAPTER XVIII.—Continued.

There was a slight pushing against the dumb-waiter door—three or four little clicks against the catch, such as the wind might make blowing up the shaft, had there been any wind to blow. Almost before I had taken this in, there was a different sound along the crack, like a tool on sheet metal—a sort of scratching, followed by a sharp creak. The door burst open and I found myself looking into the eyes of my just-discovered detective.

It would be hard to say which of the two of us, the man or myself, was the more flabbergasted by the situation. As for me, I was too astonished to utter a peep; and on his side, the rumble of the dumb-waiter had drowned whatever noise I had made in getting the teacup, and hearing not a sound in the kitchen while he listened before crying the door, and seeing me now in a warlike attitude with a savage-looking weapon in my hand ready for a lunge at him, well—I fancy it was not calculated to inspire him with calm. At any rate, I know it was I who first discovered some presence of mind, and—before he could pull himself up high enough to get in, for his waist was below the level of the sill—I bounced back into the hall, slamming the kitchen door after me and locking it. In two seconds more I had up the chain-bolt and had "warned monsieur of danger and to keep absolutely still; and all this while Mr. Detective Mau was scrambling like a cat on the wall.

He gave a wrench on the door handle, expecting to find me trying to hang on to the other side—and found the door locked.

"Diable!" I heard him say, low under his breath.

Monsieur had tiptoed to a place beside me, and though white as a sheet, conducted himself admirably. I had, by fringing his words with my lips, made him understand that the man who had just broken in through the dumb-waiter shaft was the detective I had dismissed at the front door not fifteen minutes ago.

By signs I then communicated to monsieur the suggestion that now was his chance to escape by the front door while I held his pursuer in the kitchen.

Monsieur disagreed with me, flatly, and by signs informed me that there might be half a dozen men waiting in the outer hall to nab him the instant he showed his face. Which seemed reasonable and likely and I had no means of disproving the contention.

I therefore made the next move on my intruder.

"Hello, mister," I called through the door at him. "You may as well go out the way you came in, for you've got as far as you'll get into this flat."

"Madame, listen," he returned. "On my word of honor I mean you no harm—I wish only to speak with you, privately and immediately."

"Your method of obtaining private interviews is most inviting—also convincing of the truth of what you say."

"You left me no alternative—I am obliged to see you."

The truth flashed into me that he'd already traced monsieur to my flat and the determination to see me was only an excuse to lay hold on him; and at the same moment monsieur touched me on the shoulder and by signs communicated the same fear, ending with a pantomimic appeal to me to give him.

"Mr. Smith," I called through the door again, "you asked for a private interview with me and now you have it. I will put my ear to the keyhole and you may whisper through what you have to say."

me to enter, you will have no cause to regret it. On my word of honor, I assure you that no harm shall come to you—or any property of yours."

"Thanks for your kind assurance and I won't unlock the door."

"Madame, I beg of you to listen to reason."

"Mr. Jones, if you are not out of there in two minutes, I shall telephone for the police."

"If you do not unlock this door in two seconds I shall break it in."

He waited two seconds; then taking the tool with which he had pried open the dumb-waiter door, he started to jimmy open the kitchen door.

"Stop!" I commanded.

He stopped—evidently thinking I meant to unlock the door.

"It won't do you one particle of good to jimmy this door open," I began, "because I have a chain-bolt on here the same as on the front door. Listen—" —and I rattled the chain against the woodwork. "Do you hear that? Well, that means that before you can get through that door, you'll have to take it off its hinges—and you can't very well do that, because it opens in on your side. Is that clear to you? Look at the hinges, if it isn't."

I heard him say "Diable" again, fiercely but softly, and then tread quietly along the floor and push the catch on the window.

I flew to my bedroom, and seizing the revolver Billy had brought me, I threw up the window—at right angles to the kitchen window—and just as he was about to step on to the fire-escape and try the bathroom window, I shouted, "Hold on, there!" and aimed the revolver at his head.

He ducked back in a hurry, peeking at me from behind the window-frame.

"There's no use in your trying the bathroom window," said I. "It's nailed down, and before you could break the glass and get in, I'd have shot you dead. Go back to the kitchen door—I have something to say to you."

He did as I told him, and I returned to my side of the door, revolver in hand.

"Now, Mr. Robinson, I want you to go out the way you came in—and hurry," said I.

"Yes, madame, I shall do so immediately. But first I wish to ask you a single question—Is a gentleman by the name of De Ravelot in your flat with you now?"

"Ask anything you please."

"Fardon—I did not understand what you said. Is he there?"

"I said you might ask anything you pleased."

"Ah—I understand now—"

"Mr. Jackson, I'd like you to understand one thing—my revolver is pressed against the other side of the door—hear that?" I clicked the muzzle on the door several times. "It is loaded and I can fire it. And I am going to—if you are not out of that kitchen in just three seconds."

"Certainly, madame. But before you fire, let me give you a piece of information that may be of value to you: I have a warrant for the arrest of that gentleman, De Ravelot."

Monsieur's hand flew up as he heard it and his jaw dropped open, but he made no sound.

"Have you a warrant for my arrest also?" I asked.

"No, madame—and I would not trouble you, only that we have traced the man here."

"Have you anything else to say to me, Mr. Simpkins?"

"Only to repeat that I have a warrant for De Ravelot's arrest and I believe him to be with you at this moment. And so I ask you to open the door."

I thrust the ice pick in his hand, threw off the chain-bolt, dashed for the dumb-waiter and began pulling it up, hand over fist, as fast as I could go.

"Mon Dieu! What shall I do?"

"Skip! Get down into your own flat and hide. That man will be back here with a police officer in five minutes."

The top of the dumb-waiter had come up level with the sill, but at my words monsieur's nerve seemed to forsake him entirely.

"He will be back—after he is gone without to find me?—and he brings ze police?"

"Of course he will—just to justify himself to me if for nothing else—and to satisfy himself that you're not here in hiding. You heard him say he'd traced you here."

"Zen I am lost—and my little Claire is lost!"

He seemed about to sink down in a heap again.

"No, you're not. Where's your hat? Get it."

He brought his hat from the dining room, jamming it on his head and whispering, as he looked at the dumb-waiter: "How shall I make my escape wis zis? I have never in my life—"

"Get on," I commanded. "Don't stop to talk about it—unless you wish to be found here and arrested. You haven't a minute to lose."

He hesitated, murmuring, "Mon Dieu—how can I make my descent—"

"It's your only chance to save yourself and Claire," I urged. "Let yourself down to your flat and pry open the door. Hold her steady—go slow—count the doors and don't miss yours."

I whispered as a parting warning, and he began his descent.

At that moment I caught the sound of the elevator coming up—it might or might not be the detective, but I took no risks. Leaving the dumb-waiter door just as the Unknown had left it I slipped softly to the kitchen door, closed and locked it and put up the chain-bolt again. To the casual eye the kitchen was as it had been five minutes before, untouched, unopened.

As I stepped into the dining room the front bell rang long and loud.

I let it ring and ring again, and heard a voice, "Yes—she's there."

The fourth ring was followed by the pounding of a heavy hand.

I had been listening to the dumb-waiter and it had now stopped. I thought it safe to make a move on my side, so I walked noisily along the hall and called through the door, "Who's there?"

"Police officer. Open the door, please."

"What precinct?"

"There was a grant before he answered, 'Thirty-six.'"

"Oh, all right!" I opened the door on the chain-bolt.

There stood a broad-shouldered "one of the best," and off to one side of him, looking very pale and insignificant, my detective.

"Oh, it's you!" I exclaimed affably, addressing the officer and taking no notice of the detective.

"If you'll open the door—" he suggested very politely.

"With pleasure," and I took off the chain-bolt and threw the door wide open.

"Step in," said I. "Now, officer, what is the trouble?"

I smiled—I tried to make it a very sarcastic smile—and told the Unknown, "I hope this won't interfere with your keeping your appointment here tomorrow."

"Certainly not. With your kind permission I shall see you at nine o'clock tomorrow."

He bowed himself out. He seemed in a hurry, and I fancied he was anxious to communicate with his guard; and I shut the door on him, little supposing he'd really keep his appointment, or that when he did our positions would be reversed and I should be asking favors of him!

CHAPTER XIX.

The Blow Falls.

Why didn't Billy return? He'd been gone long enough for three trips, if nothing happened to him. And I was really worrying on that score when a messenger appeared with a scrawled note:

Can't see you before night. Things very serious here. Mrs. D. wants me to stay and keep guard till son gets home. Going after my muffs now. May need you before the day is over. If so, will telegraph.

AFF. BILLY.

Billy came at nine. I could have fallen on his neck and wept, only he was so dreadfully sober himself.

"I'm at my wits' end," he blurted as soon as he was inside the door. "So is Mrs. Delario—so is Miss de Ravelot. We're all in a muddle because we can't any of us explain all we know to anybody else."

game. I was there pretending I'd come for a reading like the rest.

"I recognized him and he recognized me—you know, I passed him in the hall up here yesterday. But I didn't wait for him to make the first move—I called in on him. He took the sofa and I got up and went over and sat down beside him. I told him, 'You're here in the interests of the Emperor William about a little matter of state—diplomatic business. Monsieur de Il, had charge of—that hasn't gone exactly according to program.'"

"Say—he pretty near jumped down my throat! Gave it all away completely! Said he had a private and very important—communication from the emperor to deliver immediately—there was a change of plan in the diplomatic business—he must see De Ravelot immediately and he hadn't been able to locate him. Did I know where he was?"

Not a New Discovery.

Mollie and Jim were napping one hot Sunday afternoon and were delighted upon waking up to find refreshments awaiting them—a cantaloupe cut in halves and filled with ice. Warm-hearted Jim ran off to hug mother, but Mollie lost no time in devouring hers, and succeeded in scooping out a good bit of Jim's before his return, while "Miss Ophelia," their water spaniel, had slyly dislodged Jim's gum from where he had stuck it on the side of the bed. In complaining of such treatment to his father, Jim said: "Ain't wimmens just chock full of tricks, daddy?"

LESS MEAT IF BACK AND KIDNEYS HURT

Take a Glass of Salts to Flush Kidneys if Bladder Bothers You.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.—Adv.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promise of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. As medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments; corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a small bottle of Swamp-Root by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.—Adv.

AFTER 6 YEARS—STILL WELL

Now Strong and Hearty Though Case Looked Hopeless

"Six years ago I was in awful condition," says E. K. Chase, 36 E. Cross St., Ypsilanti, Mich. "My family was told I couldn't live more than two months. I was in constant pain from the uric acid and was so bad with rheumatism my legs seemed all drawn up. My back never stopped hurting. The kidney secretions were held back until only a few drops came, and I floated until I thought my skin would burst. My legs were twice their normal size. The water seemed to fill my chest and press against the heart. For three months I never moved out of the chair and I choked and gasped for breath like a dying man. All the doctoring failed, and my weight went from 185 to 125 pounds."

"Doan's Kidney Pills saved my life. Eleven boxes cured me of every complaint. I have been well six years and able to work as hard as any man."

Seems to be me.

It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothing and healing the swollen or inflamed mucous membrane, giving you instant relief. Head colds and catarrh yield like magic. ## WHAT HE SHOULD HAVE SAID CITY PEOPLE "EASY MARKS"

Reporter Had Much to Learn About Proper Method of Referring to Different Speakers.

"I'm afraid you won't do for us," said the editor, controlling his temper with an effort, as he eyed the new reporter coldly.

"Why not, sir?" asked the reporter in surprise.

"Well, you said you had had considerable experience as a political reporter."

"So I have," retorted the scribe.

"Then why on earth did you make use of such unjournalistic language in this report. You said that 'Mr. William Blank addressed the meeting.'"

"Well, isn't that right?"

"Right!" the editor's voice was torn with scorn. "It's all wrong. One would imagine that the meeting was in support of our candidate instead of the opposition."

"What difference does that make? How should I have—"

"Why, 'Bill' Blank next harangued the mob,' of course."—London Answer.

Many Bestowed Aims on Beggar for Whom Lusty Youth Was Engaged in "Barking."

Since efficiency is finding its way into all business one of the oldest "professions" of all has begun to adopt modern methods. The innovation is due to a beggar who made his stand opposite one of the subway entrances along the Williamsburg bridge approach on Delancey street, the New York Evening Sun states.

Many who passed this spot recently were struck by the appearance of this beggar, an elderly, long-bearded man, who sat huddled up in a wheel chair. Alongside was a husky youth of nineteen or so, busily engaged in "barking" for the beggar. Secretly the latter must have thought it a good joke on the alms-giving public, for there was always a smirk on his face, as his friend shouted so none should neglect to drop a coin to the beggar's lap. His "spiel" was in Yiddish, which, roughly translated into English, would be:

"Stop! Give charity, people."

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

German Revolution a Mystery, the Undercurrents of Which Are a World Puzzle.

CHAOS SEEMS TO PREVAIL

How It Affects Treaty Status—Minnesota Primary and Presidential Race—Allies Under Milne Occupy Constantinople—Mexico and Her Presidential Timber.

By E. F. CLIPSON.

Although Germany has occupied an eminence conspicuous in the center of the stage of world events during the week and considerable light has arisen from the conflagration raging within her borders, much mystery lingers as to the true state of affairs. Dark areas exist which the spotlights of anxious international interest and the telescopes of publicity cannot penetrate. One thing certain is that the revolution instigated by Kapp, Luetwitz and others with Kapp as self-appointed dictator, has been overthrown after five days of hectic, febrile existence. The active agent in bringing about this speedy demise was a general strike of workmen centered in Berlin.

Whether the offspring of militaristic designs, an effort to administer oxygen to the gasping hopes of royalty, a cunning machination of bolshevism, or a deeply laid plot involving all parties to muddy the waters of international affairs and so defeat the terms of the peace treaty as affecting Germany, is not yet evident and may not be clear for a long time. At any rate, the revolution appears to have been a feeble child. When the railroad workers quit, and also those of the public utilities including gas, water and electricity, the life-giving and distributive facilities ceased. A lustier infant could have lasted longer, but eventually would have succumbed.

Has the Ebert government been mere camouflage? Ebert seems to have known what was impending and at the first sound of alarm deserted Berlin after calling upon the proletariat to support him by the strike. Earlier advice indicated that Noske, his minister of defense, the man who has recently been proclaiming his acceptance of the principles of the treaty and his determination to help work them out, had an understanding with the revolutionaries. Time alone will demonstrate the truth or falsity of this indication. With the Russian, Turkish and eastern situations what they are, added to the complications of the Adriatic situation and the internal affairs of France and England, it would seem to be a fairly opportune time for Germany to stage a muddling and distracting demonstration. There are elements aplenty in Germany committed to such intentions. That which now seems likely is that the various groups could not work together harmoniously. Ludendorff was in Moscow intriguing with Lenin and Trotsky, a case indeed of politics making strange bedfellows. At home there was a movement, if Ebert and his followers could be rendered sufficiently complaisant, to set up Hindenburg as a candidate for president. Notwithstanding that Ludendorff, the embodiment of reactionism, was stirring with the personification of advanced radicalism, and Hindenburg's supporters were endeavoring to make friends with the socialistic adherents of Ebert, a reactionary undercurrent was prevalent throughout all the plotting. If the revolution went off half cocked, as seems fairly evident, it was due to human nature and the impossibility of combining antagonistic elements and molding individual ambitions. Throughout the whole affair there has been deceit, subterfuge and recrimination, a heritage from the teachings of Kultur; proving that German leaders cannot be honest with each other and can scarcely face their own visages in a looking glass.

Out of the whole mess has come the renewed menace of bolshevism. Harbinger Ebert is the one figure in Germany who carries any indications of influence and strength on the side of law and order. He ordered the strike and it remains to be seen whether or not he can control it. Just now it looks as though he might have created a Frankenstein destined to crush him and throw his nation—perhaps the whole of Europe—into chaos. Soviets have been proclaimed in certain places in Germany. It is true that these manifestations are confined largely to Saxony and other industrial centers where radicalism has been strongest. Ebert has confidence in his military resources and in the sober inclinations of the people; thoroughly sick of war, anxious to heal internal troubles and get back to work. The optimistic announcement comes from his government that the present rioting and communistic demonstrations will be controlled as easily as were the Spartacist outbreak. Observers who have been warning that a renewal of war in Europe was imminent and that it needed but a spark, are firm in the belief that the spark has been applied. Meanwhile the Kaiser in his Holland retreat, is sawing wood literally. The erstwhile crown prince is reported running around in circles alternately buoyed and depressed by the course of events. Holland has doubled the guards surrounding the residences of the two. Firm in her determination not to share the right of sanctuary to which she claims they are entitled, she also seems equally disposed not to permit them to escape or to become active participants in any of the affairs of the disturbed area.

What of the treaty status in America? Many there are who are contending that delay in ratifying the instrument has contributed to present conditions. Others are equally firm in the assertion that the German imbroglio shows the wisdom of the delay. Their position is that if we had not been cautious we would at this minute have been in the heart of a great world mix-up. At any rate the situation and the discussion evoked a showdown and galvanized the senate into action. William J. Bryan entered the treaty fight at the eleventh hour on the side of compromise. His position was that his party could not go before the country in the next campaign on an issue on the president's view of the treaty and our obligations under it. A startling incident in connection with the late treaty struggle was the adoption by the senate of a resolution committing the United States to sympathy for the cause of Irish independence, introduced by Senator Gerry of Rhode Island, as a reservation to the treaty. The resolution stated that the United States adheres to the principle of self-determination and sympathizes with the aspirations of the Irish people for a government of their own choice, and that when such government is attained, it should promptly be admitted as a member of the League of Nations. The action was not merely a reaffirmation of the resolution of sympathy passed last June. The difference being that in the latest resolution a specific mention is made of the principle of self-determination and the United States is placed on record by the senate as favoring the application of that principle to Ireland. Although there has been continual agitation for an expression regarding Irish independence, it was not thought that the senate in view of present relations with Great Britain would go so far and take such unequivocal action. The first vote in committee of the whole was close, being 38 to 36. Afterwards it was readopted by the senate by a vote of 45 in favor of adoption to 38 opposed.

Opposition was keen. Senator Thomas of Colorado endeavoring to secure an amendment expressing the wish of the senate that Japan should by the same token at once restore independence to Korea. Senator Townsend of Michigan and Williams of Mississippi attacked the proposition relating to Ireland and all the proposed amendments as being nothing but politics.

In the race for presidential nomination the Minnesota primary furnished a test of strength and a new basis for forming theories. Unless verified returns change the figures Wood will be shown to have carried every county in the state but two. His test appears to be 50 per cent over his nearest competitor, Senator Johnson, with nearly four times as many votes as Lowden, although Minnesota is the native state of the Illinois governor. This disposes of a prediction that a soldier candidate would be defeated in an agricultural state, which though traditionally Republican, President Wilson almost carried in 1916, the claim being made that the "kept us out of war" issue contributed largely to his strength.

Much significance is also attached to the comparatively large vote in the primary for Herbert Hoover, whose name it was necessary to paste or write upon the ballot. It is taken as an evidence of his strength with independent Republicans. The Wood forces regard the Minnesota result as an augury of success in the South Dakota primary.

Mr. Bryan has announced himself in favor of primary instructions while Mr. McAdoo is against them. The former thinks that general opposition to instructions favors of reaction against the primary system. Incidentally, Bryan makes it clear that he is not a candidate for the Democratic nomination, neither is he running away from it. His attitude seems to be that he is not seeking it, but that the nomination may do all the seeking it wants in his direction.

In pursuance of plans to stop massacres and enforce upon Turkey fulfillment of the terms of the peace treaty, Constantinople was occupied by allied forces under Gen. Sir George F. Milne of the British army. The ancient city returns to Christian control for the first time in nearly five centuries. This long anticipated military demonstration was accomplished with but slight resistance. At the war office an exchange of shots occurred in which two British soldiers were killed and four wounded. Nine Turks were killed. The city which has withstood so many sieges and been the grave of so many expeditions sent against it, has never before in history surrendered so quietly. The allied high commission has announced that in the occupation there was no intention to permanently destroy the Sultan's authority or deprive the Turks of the city.

President Deschanel and Premier Millerand of France have united to oppose misconceptions concerning that country which they fear are forming in the United States. Deschanel hastens to combat the charge that France is either militaristic or imperialistic. He points out that having a German pistol aimed at her heart, she wishes to protect herself and must have the co-operation of England and America. Millerand says that no misunderstandings must be allowed to mar our relations. He also touches on economic conditions and states that France will pay every debt; that she is asking time, not pity; help, not alms.

Mexico continues to be a point of most absorbing interest. As a problem it will soon call for something like definite settlement. In the present condition of the world, the dearth of materials, especially minerals, oil and foodstuffs, this natural treasure house must be opened. Just how it is to be accomplished is not exactly evident. America and American interests have been listening to the claims of rival candidates for direction of affairs in that country. Oregon has put forth a statement of his qualifications, plainly implying that he is the only man who has the ability to grapple with the problems of that disturbed nation and restore it to tranquility or at least comparative safety for agricultural and industrial pursuits. There is a familiar sound to his assertions, just like those of others who have aspired to the task and failed signally.

An impasse may be reached which will prevent complete ratification of the suffrage amendment in time for women to vote in the presidential primaries this year. Suffragists pin their hopes on the action of the Vermont legislature, but even if it should be favorable delay is likely through the action of at least one state which has been not entirely favorable to the amendment. In Ohio, where it was submitted to a referendum, the actual decision is still in doubt, and the case is now awaiting disposition by the supreme court. Thirty-five states have ratified the amendment, and the same action by but one more is needed to make it effective. If the Ohio case is decided adversely, then it will be necessary for both Vermont and Connecticut to ratify before it can become law.

Apply a few drops of "Freezone" upon that old, bothersome corn. Instantly that corn stops hurting. Then shortly you lift it right off, root and all, without pain or soreness.

Hard corns, soft corns, corns between the toes, and the hard skin calluses on bottom of feet lift right off—no hurting!

Stock Raising in WESTERN CANADA

is as profitable as grain growing. Successes as wonderful as those from growing wheat, oats, barley, and flax have been made in raising horses, cattle, sheep and hogs. Bright, sunny climate, nutritious grasses, good water, enormous fodder crops—these spell success to the farmer and stock raiser. And remember, you can buy on easy terms.

Farm Land at $15 to $30 An Acre

—land equal to that which through many years has yielded from 20 to 45 bushels of wheat to the acre—grazing land convenient to good grain farms at proportionately low prices. These lands have every rural convenience: good schools, churches, roads, telephones, etc., close to live towns and good markets.

If you want to get back to the farm, or to farm on a larger scale than is possible under your present conditions, investigate what Western Canada has to offer you.

COMMON ANCESTOR TO BLAME

Unslightly "Apple" Is a Legacy Bequeathed to His Posterity by Old Father Adam.

We all "have it in" for Adam for shutting to our faces the gates of the Garden of Eden. But many of us, though we may not know it, bear a particular resemblance to this common ancestor that puts another chip on the shoulder. For it is generally conceded that an "Adam's apple" is no aid to beauty. And besides making of our Paradise a cold, bare world, it is Adam who inflicted upon us this additional burden. When our common progenitor took the fatal bite that forever doomed the rest of us to existence by the sweat of our brows, a piece of the fruit is supposed to have lodged in his throat and stuck there in his children's children unto the nth generation. And that is why the slight protuberance that some people have at the front of the throat is called "Adam's apple." Speaking of ancestry, some of us carry about on our persons unmistakable proof of our ancient lineage.—Chicago Journal.

His Fervor Dampened.

Down in southern Oklahoma, after the cotton crops are laid by, it is the custom of the colored population to hold big camp meetings. At one of these the minister was talking of the great joys of heaven. One of the brethren became very much excited and began shouting: "Praise be Lawd; how I does wish I see a June bug; I'd spread my wings and fly away to heaven!"

At this one of the sisters sprang up and said: "Whys, Brudder Moses, one o' dem woodpeckers would be sho' to git yo' on de way."—New York Evening Post.

No Place to Go.

O'Hara stood surveying the body of his friend, lying in state. Then he began to snifle.

"What is there funny about it?" demanded an outraged friend.
"Twas only last week us Clancy was saying to me how there ain't no heaven and no purgatory. An' here he lies now, poor devil, all dressed up and nowhere to go."—The American Legion Weekly.

His Way.
"Did the doctor you went to fix up that swelling all right?"
"Sore; he put it in the bill."

You Can't Run a Train Without Tracks

Everybody knows you can't run a train without tracks; and everybody ought to know you can't run a telephone company without money.

Sometimes people seem to forget this fact concerning the telephone. The business man knows he must have money to run his business. The housewife knows she must have money to run the home. They both know that it costs more to run anything, these days, than it did two or three years ago.

It is just the same with those of us who go to make up the telephone company; we linemen, operators, electricians and engineers; the cost of the materials with which we work has just about doubled.

These are plain, everyday facts. Without enough money to pay expenses it is just as impossible for us to run the telephone company as it is impossible to run a train without tracks.

Rates must meet expenses.
