HOLMES & WALKER

Oliver No. 26

The Oliver No. 26 sulky is a two wheel horse lift sulky plow. That is, when the operator wishes to raise the bottom from the ground he merely presses a foot trip which puts into operation the lifting mechanism. The lifting mechanism operates so that when the bottom has been raised to the proper height, the latch dog automatically unlocks, rendering impossible a break, through some mistake on the part of the driver. The horse lift features saves the operator the hard work of raising and lowering the bottoms every time he comes to the end of the field or a turn. It is also particularly desirable for work in extremely hard plowing conditions, and for use on rough and uneven land because it can be backed easily.

Interesting Letter From India.

The following was taken from a letter written to A. W. Wilkinson by O. B. Taylor, who with Mrs. Taylor is making a tour of the world. It was written at Delhi, India.

Our trip thus far has been everything that we hoped for. We have visited Japan, Korea, Manchuria, China, the Philippines, Java, Singapore, the Federated Malay States, Borneo and India. We expect to visit Ceylon and sail from Colombo about March 1. Whenever I try to describe our travels I find the field too large and cover pages in describing a single day.

One of our most interesting events was a visit to a rubber estate about two hundred and fifty miles north of Singapore. The estate belongs to the Mexican Rubber Company, of Detroit. After the company was driven out of Mexico, it started a plantation over here, and the trees are just beginning to deliver the goods.

We had a letter from the president of the company and we were entertained handsomely by the manager.

The manner of gathering the "milk," or sap and manufacturing the rubber is very interesting. A tree begins to bear at the age of eight years. Each morning at about six o'clock a coolie starts out on his round of collecting the milk. Each coolie has about three hundred and fifty trees, and as there are over two thousand coolies employed on this estate alone, you can get some idea of the magnitude of the enterprise.

The coolie goes to each tree and cuts a gouge about six inches long on the side of the tree about two feet from the ground, being careful not to cut beyond the bark. The tree then begins to exude a fluid resembling that of milkweed. This is caught in a small tin or glass cup fastened immediately below the gouge. The "bleeding" continues for about two hours.

Then the coolie starts out again collecting the milk in a tin pail about the size of an ordinary milk pail.

About eleven o'clock in the morning the coolies bring the milk to a central station where it is poured into large vats. It is then treated with acetic acid and soon resembles the ordinary curd. There are farms in the vats so that the curd solidifies into cakes about two inches thick, a foot wide and two feet long. After being left for about twenty-four hours, the cakes are taken out by the coolies, who extract the water and "wey" by stamping upon them with their bare feet.

Then the cakes are passed through three presses and stamped so that they resemble large white honeycombs. After these are thoroughly dried they are smoked and smell for all the world like a smoked ham. The rubber is then very elastic and is ready for the market.

The magnitude of the business is stupendous, for the whole Malay Peninsula is devoted to it, to say nothing of Sumatra, Ceylon and Java.

A day or two ago we visited the Taj Mahal at Agra, the most perfect building ever fashioned by the hand of man.

Last week we visited the Himalaya Mountains and had a fine view of Mt. Everest, the highest mountain in the world—twice as high as any mountain in the United States.

In Calcutta we saw a large banyan tree which will shelter over ten thousand people. So you see India is a place of big things.

I am now about eight hundred miles from Calcutta and an equal distance from Bombay, away up in the north part of India, and the weather today is like our best June days.

We have had a wonderful time and have enjoyed the best of health throughout.

"The Miracle Man."

Hailed by critics as one of the greatest motion pictures ever produced, the Paramount-Artcraft feature produced by George Loane Tucker, "The Miracle Man," will be displayed at the Princess theatre on Wednesday and Thursday, April 7 and 8. It is the screen version of George M. Cohan's play that scored so emphatically on Broadway some years ago, and which in turn was based on Frank L. Packard's famous novel. No picture in recent months has had so much praise lavished upon it for the dramatic quality of its story, its keen characterization, and beautiful photography.

The story of the "Miracle Man" centers around an old patriarch of the hills who has gained a reputation for his power to heal the sick and crippled. To him come a band of unscrupulous crooks from the slums of New York. Tom Burke, their leader; Rose, The Frog, and the Dope—who have conceived the scheme of capitalizing the healer's gift and taking the money for themselves.

What follows is one of the most absorbing stories ever unfolded on the screen. In the hands of such talented players as Thomas Meighan, Elinor Fair, Betty Compson, Lon Chaney and W. Lawson Butt, the development of the chief characters under the influence of the deaf and blind patriarch is portrayed with admirable skill.

MONDAY, APRIL 5, IS ELECTION DAY

There Will be Three Elections in Which All Are Interested.

Next Monday is election day, and there will be three district elections, one for township officers and the question of bonding the county for $12,000 for the purchase of a site for the county fair; one for the presidential primary; and one for the election of members of the national committees of the various political parties.

On the presidential primary, the republicans have the largest number of aspirants, the following having been entered: W. E. Simpson, John J. Pershing, Miles Pindexter, Leonard Wood, Herbert Hoover, Hiram Johnson and Frank O. Lowden.

The democratic voters have their choice of five candidates: Herbert Hoover, Edward I. Edwards, A. Mitchell Palmer, William Gibbs McAdoo and William J. Bryan.

For the members of the national committees there are five on the republican ticket, Fred M. Warner, Arthur E. Wood, Theodore Joslin, Oscar B. Marx and Hal Smith.

There is but one name on the democratic ticket, that of William F. Connolly.

CHURCH CIRCLES.

The Church and the Debt We Owe Her
By Rev. R. R. Beatty.

We live in a state of highly organized society. Our systems of commerce, our industrial organizations, political policies, social life and religious agencies; our educational, charitable, reformatory and penal institutions have reached a plane of morals and efficiency never before enjoyed by men. We too little appreciate these benefactors of our lives. We accept the gifts proffered by them but stop not to declare our thanks.

The church of Jesus Christ is the mother of each of these elevating institutions and organizations and were not for the love and life she continuously gives them they would enter a decadence and quickly die.

Because of what she has done in giving birth to and nurturing these health giving elements, because of her tremendous influence in the life of today and because men in all walks of life are coming to see that she, alone, has the only cure for the World's ills of whatever nature they may be, and because he possesses the only program of life that can make possible a state of world peace and produce for man the highest possible blessings, each and every person owes to her a debt that he can never fully repay, and an allegiance in spirit and service that calls for the best that he can proffer.

As we come to this Easter time when we again center our thoughts on the Christ of the Cross, will we not take the lesson He there taught us and by increased devotion make the church which He organized and energized the controlling force in the affairs of men that shall ultimately produce for man the Kingdom of God.

16. Fairer pay for school teachers.

17. A national department of public health, at its head a medical man who shall be a member of the cabinet.

24. For ourselves and toward the world: One Flag, one language, one loyalty.

A Vote for Leonard Wood is a vote for a candidate who does not evade any issue. It is a vote for a man whose backers will continue to support him at the National Convention as long as he remains a candidate. Don't waste your ballot on a complimentary vote for a candidate whose support will be switched to some other candidate now unknown to you—One candidate whose name is not on the ballot in Michigan, and about whom you consequently will have no opportunity to express an opinion is acknowledged by Republican Leaders to be the strongest opponent Leonard Wood will encounter at Chicago.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

German Convulsions Reveal the Spirit of Revolt With Military Resources Still Large.

RED ARMIES ATTACK POLAND

Fighting Severe With Poles Showing Splendid Spirit—Islamic Situation an Anxious One—Peace Treaty and Democratic Platform—Higher Coal Prices.

By E. F. CLIPSON.

Germany's convulsions reveal a notched revolt. Although the treaty of Versailles aimed to thoroughly cripple the nation in a military sense, reducing its army to only sufficient strength for internal needs, it could not stamp out the heritage of long years of militarism. Germany is no less a nation of soldiers today than it was in 1918. These soldiers, bred under an arrogant system and trained to kill, have been exhibiting in full measure the results of their teaching, even though it is a fight of brother against brother. Germany was disarmed in the larger sense, but the allies, as they did not occupy the country, could not reach the immense stock of smaller cannon, rifles and ammunition, munitioners, flammewerfers, etc. Events since the overthrow of the Kapp revolution indicate that each peasant has arms and the ability to use them. Civil war would be in full blast if the various groups did not lack cohesion.

The Ebert government, displaced for five days by the Kapp revolution and then suddenly confronted by a counter-revolt of radicals instituted during the general chaos, appears to be slowly struggling back to authority. The crisis has not entirely passed, but an easing of the situation is indicated. This is especially true in Saxony and some other states where socialism is strong but where the moderate socialists seem to have prevailed for the time being at least, over the radicals.

Conditions have been most acute in the districts bordering the east bank of the Rhine, especially in the Ruhr basin, or coal mining region. This area has been occupied by the Spartacists, bolsheviks, communists or whatever one chooses to call them, the occupation being by a large, well-armed and effective force. The town of Wesel, an industrial and railroad center of great strategic importance, has been besieged. Inasmuch as most of the coal comes from the Ruhr, occupation of it and complete cessation of mining operations for a period of ten days would be sufficient to stop all industry in Germany. Ebert has been forced to treat with the belligerents to the point of making important concessions. The affected area is pretty well hemmed in by the allied armies on the west, Holland on the north and government forces east and south. The principal weapon of the radicals has been their ability to prevent the production of coal.

Never since the armistice of November, 1918, has there been greater need for a united front and united action among the allies. Unfortunately union is not apparent. The alliance so powerful during the war, and which was to work great principles for the betterment of the world, shows signs of disintegration. America has refused to ratify the treaty on account of the League of Nations covenant. Great Britain and Italy are pursuing aims of their own. France is charged with imperialistic designs. Belgium is less friendly with France and England on account of what she regards as unfair treatment in the Holland settlement. France may be imperialistic, but the case is not yet proven. She is at least consistent in regard to the treaty of Versailles and the only one of the allies completely consistent.

The treaty was put into effect with a loud blast from all concerned that it would be upheld. Should France be criticized for demanding that Germany live up to the pact?

It is a time for the sinking of differences for unselfish co-operation and to widest state-ship. Germany scotched the Spartacide menace last year, but did not kill it. The Kapp revolution was suppressed, but left a long attendant train of evils. The present trouble is more stubborn and may yet go entirely out of hand. The next convulsion may be uncontrollable.

All Germany and all factions are emitting a loud wall over the terms of the peace treaty, stating that it enforces economic slavery on the nation and is at the bottom of the spirit of revolt. It is to Germany's interest to make the claim. The man worsted in a fight and all wrongdoers seek an amelioration of the consequences of their acts. A negative light on the question of economic slavery is the action in a recent plebiscite of a portion of Schleswig. The town of Tondern, some other nearby towns and a considerable adjacent area, given an opportunity to join Denmark, where conditions are normal and taxation light, voted to stay with Germany. It is not apparent that these people viewed the prospect of industrial servitude as very serious.

Germany's throes have been accompanied with much bloodshed. Complete figures are not available. Estimates of deaths from the revolt and following troubles range between 5,000 and 12,000. Earlier casualties were heaviest at Leipzig, where anarchy reigned after an attempt to institute socialism. Much loss of life occurred at Berlin, Düsseldorf, Elberfeld and Essen.

Russian soviet armies are engaged in the long-planned spring attack on Poland. The campaign has been launched on a 400-mile front, but the action has not been general. The bolsheviks are using heavy artillery, tanks, armored cars and other apparatus captured from General Denikin on the south Russian front. Previous repulses of the enemy have been fortunate for the Poles, as they have heartened the soldiers to a determined resistance and have affected somewhat the morale of the Russians. Nevertheless, the engagements have been severe, especially in the vicinity of Kovno, Kamenetz-Podolsk, Rzeczyn, Kalenikowicz, Zaslawa and Starokonstantinow. At the latter point, and in the vicinity of Bobar and Ostropol, the reds endeavored to force crossings of the Slutch river. Kovno is an important railroad center and Kamenetz-Podolsk is valuable on account of its strategic importance. The Polish resistance seems to have been effective at most points, although the army is under heavy difficulties, due to incomplete equipment and lack of commissary and medical supplies. Advice state, however, that the splendid spirit of the Poles is everywhere evident.

Just how important is the bolshevik campaign remains to be seen. Indications are not lacking that it is a part of a general movement of which the German radical uprisings and disturbances in other portions of Europe are a part, and timed in consonance. Other indications point to a strong demonstration to affect the various peace negotiations which the reds are carrying on with other nations. Peace, or at least an understanding with Great Britain and Italy, has been an active probability. A solid pact guaranteeing a cessation of hostilities between the bolsheviks on one side and Poland, Latvia, Finland and Roumania on the other, has been delayed by the German revolt. A demonstration in force at this time might shorten the delay and force a consummation favorable to the reds. In the darkness of Russian events and Lenin's designs nothing is very clear at this time.

Anxiety has not decreased over the Islamic situation. Fighting spreads from Thrace through Anatolia to Arabia. Semi-official French reports assert the revolt is connected with German events. In Thrace the Turks are in open revolt and defiance against the allies. Greek troops oppose them. In Anatolia Greek troops have met a reverse at the hands of Mustafa Kemal. In Cilicia and upper Syria the French are more than holding their own against the Turkish nationalists. Mustafa Kemal and his supporters are supreme in the greater part of the interior of Asia Minor. British dreadnaughts occupy Constantinople, thus dominating the center of events and preventing for the time being, at least, complete co-operation between the various units of the nationalistic revolt. The sultan is powerless, but the revolutionaries take little account of him, asserting that he has been guilty of treachery and lacks courage. The nationalistic movement claims authority in its opposition to the dismemberment of Turkey.

Our government's reply to a request of the allied powers for President Wilson's views does not accord in all respects with the tentative proposal for settlement of the Turkish question. As stated, the view of the United States government is that there is no danger of a general Mohammedan uprising if the sultan is put out of Constantinople; that Armenia should be accorded liberal treatment in the matter of territory, including an outlet to the sea; that no government should have a paramount interest in the development of Turkish territory merely because such government was a belligerent and that the Dardanelles should be administered by an international body on which a place should be reserved for Russia when that country is finally rehabilitated. The tentative plan of settlement as advanced by the allies was for certain definite dominating influences by other powers and laid stress upon the danger of a general Moslem uprising in sympathy with Turkey. The note of the United States asserts that the other Moslem people have nothing in common with Turkey and contributed to the defeat of the Turks in the war.

Senator Knox's resolution to declare the war with Germany at an end did not get before the senate so soon after the defeat of the peace treaty as was anticipated. Some changes in the resolution and a smoothing out of difficulties were found necessary. A question has also been advanced as to the constitutionality of ending a war by declaration. Unless internal conditions in Germany should render it inadvisable, it is scarcely doubted that a majority will be secured and the resolution passed, thus ending the theoretical state of hostility and permitting the resumption of trade and diplomatic relations with Germany.

Meanwhile it is not certain that the defeated treaty will become openly and squarely an issue for the next campaign. If President Wilson can secure the adoption of a plank in the platform at San Francisco declaring for ratification without changing the League of Nations covenant it will be a campaign issue. But the same opposition which developed in his own party and prevented ratification of the treaty in accordance with his program, is likely to prevent the adoption of a platform plank to his liking. The treaty is sure to be a big talking issue in the campaign, but may not be an official platform issue.

No escape from higher coal prices seems possible; incidentally another strike of miners is not outside the range of probabilities. President Wilson has ordered termination of government price control on April 1 and has asked miners and operators to negotiate a new working agreement on the basis of the majority report of the coal strike settlement commission. This will permit a partial absorption in coal prices of the 27 per cent wage increase recommended in the report. Also the increased freight rates which the Interstate commerce commission is expected to grant will be taken care of in an increased price for coal. Danger of a strike arises from the fact of the expiring contract between miners and operators, which also terminates at the same time as government price control. Anthracite miners have shown a disposition not to take action until a new contract can be considered. In the bituminous field the conciliatory spirit is not so evident.

Trouble looms for Henry Ford and his active supporters, if the recommendation is adopted of Governor Albert A. Swoyer of Michigan, that the campaign of the loser in the senatorial fight of 1918 be investigated. Senator Newberry, the winner, with 10 co-defendants were recently found guilty of the state. Until the United States Supreme court passes on the verdict of the jury one of the 17 men will be asked to relinquish any public office he may hold. The governor thinks that if the investigation is sincere, it should probe the Ford campaign.

HAS NO PAIN NOW

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did for Mrs. Warner.

Onalaska, Wis.—"Every month I had such pains in my back and lower part of my stomach I could not sit in bed. I suffered so though I would die, and I was not regular either. I suffered for a year and was unfit to do my housework, could only wash dishes once in a while. I read an advertisement of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for other women and decided to try it. It surely did wonders for me. I have no pains now and I can do my housework without any trouble at all. I will always praise your medicine as I do not believe there is a doctor that can do as much good in female weakness, and you may use these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. LESTER E. ## Suits and Coats for Spring

The passing years mean little to the American Woman of today. She appears as youthful this season as last, as charming next season as this. Time seems to leave but little impression. The secret lies in selecting clothes that give her a youthful appearance.

The designers of Youthmore Garments embody in their creations the little touches that add youth, beauty and grace to the wearer's appearance. Making selections at this store, which handles Youthmore Garments, solves the problem.

In assembling our spring stock we have endeavored to buy conservative styles which reflect the tendencies of the coming season. Come in and look them over.

MANY STYLES IN PARTY FROCKS

THERE is almost as much variety in party frocks as in the people who wear them—which makes an assemblage of dancers immensely interesting. It is here that well-dressed women match up their taste in party frocks, and have most opportunity to indulge in individual fancies; they have given themselves the benefit of much latitude in style. On any dancing floor there are draped gowns so long that they only reveal the toes, and other frocks so short that they barely conceal the knees.

Materials influence the designers in their choice of styles. The heavy brocades and rich materials in heavier silk weaves, are chosen for the draped gowns that follow the lines of the figure, and many net and lace frocks are made in this style. Lighter-weight and supple silks are chosen for straight-line dresses, as crepe de chine, georgette and soft satins. Taffeta and organdie lend themselves to the bou-fant draperies that widen the hips or suggest the bustle dress. Taffetas over lace petticoats are particularly pretty, caught up at the sides, or in the back, revealing the dainty petticoat below their hems. Georgette and lace dresses are wired to give the broadened hip line and on these, silk or artificial flowers are placed so as to emphasize the style.

One of the latest arrivals among party frocks takes advantage of the wired hip line and velvet ribbon to achieve a novelty. This pretty and fanciful frock is shown above, with bodice and skirt of plain satin and short sleeves of net. The skirt is wired rather close to the waistline. Long ends of velvet ribbon, fastened at the top of the low bodice, are looped about the hips and fall nearly to the hem. Each is finished with a point and weighted with a silk-covered ball. The frock has a folded belt of metallic silk. It is very pretty on the dancing floor with its flying ends.

Masterpieces in Wraps

THE splendid open coat which appears here has not been chosen because it is representative of the evening garments worn by women for evening dress; for it is not representative. Beautiful but less magnificent is the story of evening wraps in general. This, being a costly affair, is interesting as revealing the ample, mantle-like lines that are required of outer garments for evening, and the fact that fur and brocade are more or less lavishly used in many of them.
Capes and mantles divide honors as favorites in this kind of wrap. Capes, with deep yokes of brocade, having plaid velvet gathered on to the yokes, are often finished with narrow bands of fur, set on where velvet and brocade are joined, and about the collar.
One of the new capes of taffeta has a deep fitted yoke of the silk with the cape gathered to it. Chantilly lace, about three inches wide, and silk net
a point d'esprit in alternating ruffles cover the cape portion. This garment is made in black and lined with a colored satin. Another new and lovely wrap of taffeta is put in long panels, pointed at the bottom. These panels reach from the neck down, the entire length of the wrap and have corded, overlapping edges. The collar is a huge puff of taffeta and the lines of the coat shown in the picture, except that the taffeta coat is caught in loosely at the waistline. At the front, where it fastens, there is a very large, flat rose, made of silk, posed at the waist. However splendid brocade or rich furs may be they cannot outshine a work of art in silk like this; for it is a masterpiece of designing and its clever new vies with their resplendence.

PLAN UNIQUE FOREST SYSTEM

New Yorkers Aim to Make County
One Continuous Park, and Have the Trees Pay Taxes.

To make the leading acre work is the plan of Otsego county, New York, which has started a campaign to plant a forest of 100 acres on the waste lands in each of the 24 townships of that county.

The plans, says the New York Times, are to develop a county system similar to the city park plan, with its harmonized system of connecting boulevards. The project involves the development of a comprehensive highway system.

The forests will be located so that they will serve as green nature sign-boards along the highways, to advertise to the world that the county has its own forests, owned, planted and maintained by the public for the future generations.

As the trees mature they will provide in the future an income which will mean an actual cash return to serve as an offset against taxation.
European towns often pay the cost of operation of their government from their forests, having no taxes, but this requires a greater area of forest than is proposed for Otsego.

The Nearest to It

Old Rodolph was a very keen angler and believed in making up his own bait to lure his finny prey to destruction. He was a very hopeful sort of chap, you know.

One day while strolling in a fishing
"otel in the highlands he asked the cald, Christine, if she could get him a horsefly.

The girl eyed him in wonder, as he repeated his request, adding:
"And have you never seen a horse-fly, Christine?"

"Na, I dinna," replied the girl. "But —since I saw a coo jump o'er a precipice."—London Answers.

Identified.
It was a dark night and the car was spending homeward at a terrible rate.

"What road have you taken, James?"
cried Mrs. Blithers, as the car jolted her high in the air.

"The regular boulevard, Mrs. Blith-ers," returned the chauffeur.
"But I never noticed all these thank-you-marks on the boulevard before," protested Mrs. Blithers.

"Oh," laughed the chauffeur, "those were not thank-you-marks. Mrs. Blith-ers! They were just a few people who couldn't get out of the way."

Whereupon Mrs. Blithers laughed, too. What a droll mistake it was, to be sure!—Pittsburgh Sun.

GRIDDLE CAKES and WAFFLES

From the NEW ROYAL COOK BOOK

THERE is an art in making flapjack pancakes, griddle cakes or waffles, call them what you will. But it is an art very easily and quickly acquired if you follow the right recipes.

Here are some recipes
for a variety of breakfast cakes that will make grandmother envious. The secret, of course, is Royal Baking Powder.

Royal Hot Griddle Cakes
3 cups flour
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
4 teaspoons Royal Baking
Powder
1 1/2 cups milk
1 tablespoon shortening
Mix and sift dry ingredients; add milk and melted shortening; beat well. Bake on slightly greased hot griddle.

Griddle Cakes with Eggs
1 1/2 cups flour
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
4 teaspoons Royal Baking
Powder
3 eggs
1 1/2 cups milk
1 tablespoon shortening
Mix and sift dry ingredients; add beaten eggs, milk and melted shortening; mix well. Bake immediately on hot griddle.

Buckwheat Cakes

2 cups buckwheat flour
1 cup flour
4 teaspoons Royal Baking
Powder
1 1/2 cups milk
1 1/2 cups water
1 tablespoon molasses
1 tablespoon shortening
Sift together flours, baking powder and salt; add liquid, molasses and melted shortening; beat three minutes.
Bake on hot greased griddle.

Waffles

2 cups flour
4 teaspoons Royal Baking
Powder
1 1/2 cups milk
1 1/2 cups water
1 tablespoon molasses
1 tablespoon shortening
Sift flour, baking powder and salt together; add milk to yolks of eggs; mix thoroughly and add to dry ingredients; add melted shortening and mix in beaten whites of eggs. Bake in well greased hot waffle iron until brown. Serve hot with maple syrup. It should take about 1 1/2 minutes to bake each waffle.

When Service Difficulties Arise

Occasionally your telephone rings and there is no one on the line when you answer.

This may be due to several causes:

- 1.—An operator (not your operator) may have been in error, or there may have been "trouble" on the line.
- 2.—You may have been slow in answering, and the person calling, having grown tired, has hung up.
- 3.—The calling person for some reason may have replaced the receiver on the hook without waiting for a response.

In any of these cases your operator by her "Excuse it, please," expresses the Company's regret for the inconvenience.

Ann Arbor—Chief of Police Tom O'Brien is seeking the owner of a seven-passenger Studebaker, 1915 model automobile, picked up by the police the morning of the Michigan-Minnesota game, when it had been left on one of the streets. According to the license records the owner lived in Detroit, but letters addressed to him have been returned.

Manchester—At a regular meeting of the Welfare Association of Manchester, held on March 18, a resolution was passed to the effect that the members of said association are unalterably opposed to the $12,000 bond issue to buy a site for a fair ground at Ann Arbor; for the reason that taxes are now too high, that this bond issue would be only an entering wedge for more, that Ann Arbor last year received from the county $2,500 to entertain her soldier boys while other communities did this patriotic duty from their own resources, that a fair at Ann Arbor is not a crying necessity.

AFTER THREE YEARS

Their Testimony Remains Unshaken. Time is the best test of truth. Here is an Ann Arbor story that has stood the test of time. It is a story with a point which will come straight home to many of us.

Mrs. John Wood, 523 S. Main St., Ann Arbor, Mich., says: "For quite a long while I was subject to pains in the small of my back and there was also weakness across my loins. Every cold I caught settled in my kidneys and at such times my kidneys acted too frequently. Having heard Doan's Kidney Pills highly spoken of, I decided to try them and the first few made an improvement. Before long I was restored to good health."

Nearly four years later, Mrs. Wood said: "Since giving my former statement recommending Doan's Kidney Pills, I have again found it necessary to use them and got good results. I still think they are a fine medicine for kidney troubles." Price 60c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Wood had.
