BOYD HOTEL BADLY DAMAGED BY FIRE

Flames Confined to First Floor By Efficient Work of Fire Dept.

Fire which apparently started from electric wiring along the north wall of the dining room of the Boyd hotel, early Saturday morning, damaged the building at least $3,000. J. H. Parker who operated the hotel, lost his stock, fixtures and furniture in the office and dining room estimated at $2,200. The Girbach building adjoining on the north suffered some damage also.

The blaze was discovered by John Walz, nightwatch, shortly before three o'clock and he gave the alarm. The fire was then well underway and when the fire department reached the scene the whole first floor was filled with flames and only prompt and efficient work prevented the fire from breaking through the ceiling and into the second and third floors.

The sleeping rooms on the second

WHY MEMORIAL DAY?

When war's dark clouds about us hover.
God and the soldier we entreat;
When war is won and the danger over,
God and the soldier we forget.

The life of each nation seems dependent upon two great factors—God and the human factor, the soldier. To keep these two great factors of our national life before the minds of the people of this nation was the incentive for the establishment of Memorial Day; not to pay tribute to the survivors of our wars, but to those who gave their lives to maintain the right of our people to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness," and to impress upon the minds of the coming generations the cost of maintaining those rights. "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty," and war is the price we have paid repeatedly to preserve it.

GRAIN AND FUEL TO HAVE PRIORITY

COMMERCE COMMISSION ORDERS
FREIGHT CARS RUSHED TO BREAK BLOCKADE.

RAILROAD CRISIS IS DEBATED

Labor Board Considers Claims of Conductors and Brakemen For Boosts in Pay.

Washington.—Progress in the handling of the freight jam was reported by the interstate commerce commission, which announced that the movement of freight cars for grain loading had begun in large volumes westward from New England and the Atlantic seaboard.

These cars are being moved in solid trains under expedited orders, and their transfer is watched continually to avoid preventable delays, the commission said.

Simultaneously, a counter movement of cars for coal loading has been instituted from the middle west to the coal producing areas of the east.

The commission announced that this order of handling equipment would be continued "until a more proper balance of these classes of equipment is obtained," and predicted considerable relief both by providing footstuffs and fuel where needed and by easing the financial strain resulting from the long continued tie-up.

Consideration of the Cummins amendment to the transport act, designed to help the car shortage situation, began before the senate interstate commerce committee. A favorable conclusion is understood to have been reached on the proposal to extend from five to 15 years the period of repayment of loans made by the government for improvements, but final action on other provisions in the amendment was postponed. A subcommittee, composed of Senators Kellogg, Minnesota, Townsend, Michigan and Underwood, Alabama, was appointed to confer with house members as to need of an amendment additional for the relief of carriers.

Should the provision to extend the repayment period be enacted, Walker D. Hines, former railroad administrator, told the committee in a letter to Senator Kellogg, an additional appropriation of about $350,000,000 would be needed to enable the railroad administration to liquidate pending claims.

Some members of the committee, it was said, took exception to this estimate as excessive. The subcommittee was named in order to determine whether such an appropriation could be put through congress at this time, pending final action on the amendment.

The federal reserve board met with its advisory council and reserve bank officials to discuss the freight blockade. Primarily, the conference of bankers was aimed at the credit situation, but the menace of a traffic tie-up assumed a foremost position in the session. Its many ramifications blocked up the nation's commerce and banking with the economic danger the financiers saw in the freight jam, it was said.

BANKERS BACK INFLATION CURB
Pledge Aid to Federal Reserve in Curbing Nonessential Loans.

Washington.—Bankers of the country, through representatives attending a conference with the federal reserve board, pledged themselves to help the board in a drive on high prices and to aid in efforts at deflation.

Specifically, the bankers agreed unreservedly to support the board's new policy in discouraging "habitual and unnecessary borrowings," and to seek curtailment of "long standing, non-essential loans," as an initial step toward ending the era of high prices and speculation.

Governor Harding set forth the board's policy in a speech designed to clarify the general situation and to explain the government's views. He warned of impending dangers in the cycle of continued borrowings and speculation and appealed to bankers and public alike to be conservative in its demands for banking credit.

"It is evident," Mr. Harding said, "that the country cannot continue to advance prices and wages, to curtail production, to expand credits and attempt to enrich itself by non-productive operations and transactions without fostering discontent and radicalism and that such a course, if persisted in, will eventually bring on a real crisis."

Mr. Harding said that "everything must be done" to expedite the release of money in "frozen loans" and in commodities held either for speculative purposes or because of lack of transportation, and urged bankers to use the utmost discrimination in granting new loans.

Crush Irish "Terror," Says England.
London.—Important changes in the government's policy in Ireland were decided upon as a result of the conference between Viscount French, General Macervey, and the government officials in London and the representatives of Sir Hamar Greenwood, Irish secretary, in Dublin, according to the London Times. The government, says the paper, was so impressed with the gravity of the situation that it resolved to use every weapon in the armory of the state to crush the terror.

U. S. TELLS AUSTRIA TO HOLD REDS TILL RUSS RELEASE YANKS

Washington.—Hungarian communists held by the Austrian authorities must not be transferred to Russia without the reciprocal release of all Americans now detained in soviet Russia, the department of state informed the American commissioner in Vienna.

The views of this government, Secretary Cully announced, are in accord with those of other governments on the subject of the proposed outright release of the Hungarian communists to Russia by the Austrian government.

Reports from various sources have reached the state department of the forcible detention in Russia of American citizens. Lacking official relations between any of the principal governments of the world and soviet Russia, diplomatic representations have been impossible as no channel of communication offered, officials said, and the United States has therefore undertaken to bring indirect pressure to bear.

Drop in Prices Nation Wide
Merchandise Cut Follows General Curtailment of Extravagance.

Washington.—The public is on strike against high prices and there is a definite downward trend in commodities throughout the country, according to advisers here.

People have delayed purchasing their summer outfits and in consequence merchants have been left with large stocks on hand.

With price reductions being reported from all over the country, Senator Keyton said: "It is an indication that some of the people at last decided to stop paying exorbitant prices." The wider spread that decided the quicker prices will fall.

"There are signs of a general price reduction," said Dr. Royal Meeker, Government economic expert.

"I think it is not unsafe to predict that this is shown by the way the public has stopped buying in the mercantile line. At least, there has come to an end the upward movement saving when everybody tried to outdo his neighbor in extravagance."

"The action of the Federal Reserve board in raising discount prices has had an effect. There is also some indication that speculation is being discouraged. This should leave more cash and credit for the men engaged in legitimate enterprises."

The nation-wide railroad congestion is the most important factor in the price situation. In the opinion of many Government officials, it is causing a shortage of commodities in some districts and an oversupply in others.

DEAF EAR TO GRUNAU'S PLEA
Railway Labor Board Refuses to Hear Wage Petition.

Chicago.—The Railway Labor Board flatly refused to hear petitions for increased wages presented by John Grunau, president of the Chicago Yardmen's Association, and officers of other organizations which went on strike recently in defiance of orders from the national railroad brotherhoods.

A ruling handed down by Judge R. V. Harton, chairman, said: "It must be thoroughly understood that the board can not and will not undertake to hear any disputes or controversies except those which it is authorized by law to hear, and can not and will not hear the application of parties who are acting in disregard of the law and who are not complying with the law and the rules of the board."

William G. Chapoton, president, and Edward J. Gall, treasurer, of the Detroit Yardmen's Association, went to Chicago to participate in a conference of leaders in the yardmen's walkout. Other officials of the local association expressed confidence that the strikers' case will be considered by the Labor Board.

MEXICANS SEND ENVOY TO U. S.
Labor Leader Named Special Commissioner By Rebels.

Washington.—Luis Marones, labor leader of Mexico, and known here as "the Gompers of Mexico," came here as special commissioner of the de facto government.

Recent reports to the state department, announcing plans for his visit, suggested the possibility of his appointment later as the chief diplomatic representative to the United States. Marones and his associates declined, however, to discuss this, nor would the commissioner express an opinion on Mexican conditions. He left for New York and will return here later.

Meat Prices Drop 16 Per Cent.
Chicago.—The wholesale price of meat has declined 16 per cent during the past year, while at other necessities have increased, according to the "Institution of American Meat Packers."

The decline in the price of beef between March, 1919, and March of this year averaged four cents a pound. The following increases were recorded by other articles while meats decreased: Cloths and clothing, 64 per cent; fuel and lighting, 14 per cent; building material, 97 per cent.

Paris.—It is understood in official circles here that the Anglo-French conference at Hythe decided that the sum total which Germany should pay as reparation would be fixed at 130,000,000,000 marks gold, or approximately $30,000,000,000.

Sustains Beer Bill Veto.
Boston.—The State Senate refused to pass over the governor's veto the bill fixing the alcoholic content of beer at not over 2.75 per cent. The vote was: Yes, 14; no, 22. Before the measure went to the governor, the Senate was recorded 26 to 6 in its favor.

Postage Raise Delay Urged.
Washington.—Sound public policy requires the postponement for one year of the scheduled two annual increases in second class mail rates, the house postoffice committee declared in reporting formally the bill extending existing rates until June 30, 1921.

Deserters Surrender After Two Years.
Chillicothe, O.—After nearly two years of hiding in the caves in Hocking Valley, near Adolphus, Ohio, in the fear that he would face a firing squad if discovered, Carl Amerine, 24, a deserter from the 84th division, gave himself up to military authorities at Camp Sheridan, near here.

Arm Broken; Married Just the Same.
Grand Rapids.—Although he had received a fracture of the arm through a fall down stairs at his home, Charles Romulda proceeded on his way to the county clerk's office for a license to marry Hazel Ruckman, 18. They were married at once. Then Romulda hurried to a physician to have his arm set.

No Sugar For Us, Say 500 Men.
East Palestine, O.—Five hundred employees of a tire and rubber company here have signed an agreement not to use sugar in their coffee or tea until the prevailing high price of the sweetening commodity declines. The agreement is said to be the first of a number in an attack against the high cost of living.

German Throne To Be Auctioned.
New York.—The Imperial German throne is to be sold here at auction. Household effects of former Kaiser William, the former kaiser and other members of the German imperial family, seized from the imperial palace of Berlin and Munich for unpaid bills after the emperor had abdicated also will be sold under the hammer here.

Offers Farmhands $25 Week, Board.
Morristown, N. J.—The highest wages probably ever offered in this section of the country for an ordinary farm hand appears in an advertisement of a local farmer, who will give $25 a week and board and a day off each week. Farmers are desperate on account of their inability to secure help, which is far more scarce than during the war.

War Offenders Convictions Upheld.
Washington.—Conviction of Daniel O'Connell, lawyer, and five other real estate men of San Francisco, for violating the selective service and espionage acts, was upheld today by the supreme court. All the defendants were members of an organization known as "American patriots," which they claimed was formed for the purpose of testing the constitutionality of the selective service act.

France's War Loss Is Heavy.
Paris.—What is perhaps the first concise and comprehensive statement of France's war losses has just been made by Capt. Andre Tardieu, former French high commissioner in the United States. In describing what he calls the "balance sheet" of France, Capt. Tardieu states that during the five years of the war 8,000,000 men were mobilized, of whom 1,400,000 were killed, 800,000 maimed and 300,000 wounded. France thus lost 57 per cent of her men under 32 years of age.

Plants Along Walls.
Soils near walls are usually too dry in summer and too poor. Before planting take out the soil to a depth and width of three feet, adding manure and leaf mold if it is to be had. TREES SERVE TWO PURPOSES

"To the Unknown Dead"

WITH rattle of drums and shriek of fife the procession swept up the hill, passed into the cemetery, and halted in the central plaza, not far from the soldiers' monument, which was the pride of Howelton. At the word of command the various squads filed off to right and left to decorate the flag-marked graves; and ranks were broken and parade was dismissed to await their return.

Captain Graham, marshal of the day, turned to the gentleman riding at his side and said:

"I suppose we might as well dismount, general, and stretch our legs. I don't know how it is with you, but I'm free to confess that I don't ride as easily nowadays as I used to when we went scurrying up and down Dixie at the heels of Phil Sheridan."

"I'm afraid that I must make the same confession, Graham," returned the other, a man of middle age, although with gray hair, against whose coat was pinned loosely an empty sleeve.

"Beg pardon, cap'n," said the cemetery caretaker, approaching them at this instant; "but I wish that you'd step this way a minute. There's suthin' kinder curious goin' on jest the other side of the hedge, yander."

It was a little "cur'us" perhaps; but it was certainly more than a little pathetic. Just a tiny flag stuck in the ground, with a rude wreath of wild flowers beside it, and a small boy with a dilapidated army musket over his shoulder doing sentry duty before it. Ten paces forward, wheel, right-about-face, ten steps back; up and down he went, as regularly as a pendulum, and with such intensity that he failed to note the faces watching him through the hedge. But the whispered word of Captain Graham, "I wonder what he thinks he's doing," reached his ear and he neared about quickly, and, recognizing the military rank of his visitors, brought his musket to the "present" in the most matter-of-fact way. Humoring his fancy, the two soldiers gravely returned the salute.

"So that you are on special duty, comrades," said the captain. "What is your detail?"

"I'm decorating and guarding the grave of Sergeant Calvin Hunter, Company B, One Hundred and Eighty-seventh regiment, New York Volunteers," was the reply.

The general started and seemed about to speak, but apparently thought better of it.

"H—n—m!" said Captain Graham thoughtfully. "Hunter! Hunter! I thought I knew every soldier buried in this cemetery, but that's a new name to me. Sure you haven't made a mistake? Are you certain that his body is here?"

"Oh, no, sir," and there was a very unsoldierly quiver of the boyish lips

"Shall we think today of our own dead only?" he asked. "Is this a time of merely personal and selfish recollections? Should not our memorial take wider sweep? I wish that on every Memorial day hereafter, when each flag-marked grave in this cemetery receives its token, a wreath might be laid at the foot of this beautiful monument in grateful thought of the unknown dead scattered throughout the Southland. Shall it be so? Will you make this a part of your Memorial observances?"

"All those in favor say 'Aye!'" sang out Post Commander Gray, and "Aye!" rang in a mighty shout from the multitude.

"I thank you, friends," General Bowers said. "In behalf of those who cannot speak their thanks themselves. Now just one story—you know that we old soldiers are great on spinning stories of the war."

"One day in the Wilderness campaign a captain and a detail of a sergeant and twenty men on special outpost duty ran upon a large force of the enemy. Several of the men were fit, but stumbled on—all but the captain, who fell, severely wounded. Seeing this, the sergeant turned back in the face of almost certain death, took the insensible officer on his shoulders, and staggered forward, only to fall himself, shot through the head, just as a party of our men dashed up to the rescue."

"It was a common incident of the war, and attracted no attention. When the captain came out of the hospital, weeks after, no one could tell him where the sergeant was buried. And to this day that captain has been unable to find any trace of the man to whom he owes his life, or of any of his family, though he has done his best."

"To this day, I say. A little while ago my attention was called to a singularly beautiful and pathetic scene. Over yonder, behind that hedge, out of sight of the gathered people, this boy was standing guard over a flag and a bunch of wild flowers, his offering to his soldier father's memory. Questions brought out his story."

"Men and women of Howelton, you have just promised that hereafter you will remember in your gift of flowers the men who sleep in unknown graves. We will begin today. See, here are two wreaths. Somewhere in the Wilderness of Virginia lies the body of Calvin Hunter, sergeant, Company B, One Hundred and Eighty-seventh regiment, New York Volunteers. We, Harry Hunter, his only son, and Jasper Bowers, whose life he saved, lay these wreaths in his memory at the foot of yonder monument."

"Tention!" rang out Captain Graham's command, sharp and clear; and at the word every man sprang to his place. "Soldiers, present arms! All, uncover!" And with bared heads, and in thrilling and breathless silence, the great assemblage stood and watched the eminent man and the unknown boy come down from the platform and reverently lay the flowers at the base of the monument on the top of which a carved soldier stood with face ever turned toward the Southland.

DECORATIVE FROCKS FOR BRIDESMAIDS

WHEN the talk is of bridesmaids frocks there is no telling the wide ranges it will travel, for here is where the bride may give range to her fancy, especially if she is to have a boy of brides. She may choose to lead them back a few centuries in choosing styles or she is more than likely to pick out some period not so remote and revive its charm of quaint dress or she may decide to be very modern and frankly risqué. But if she hopes to please everybody let her decide that her maids shall look demure and beautiful. They can do this in clothes with either an ancient or a modern flavor.

Taffeta, georgette and fine net, all make lovely frocks for bridesmaids and each of them amounts to an insurance of success; yet they are as different as can be. All are beautiful in light colors, and net, in white, used to veil a color, makes a practical frock that will give a great deal of service after it has played its part at a wedding. Georgette is astonishingly durable in spite of its fragile looks, and everyone knows the virtues of tulle. A net gown that ought to please the bride who has decided to draw upon 1920 to supply the style her maids shall wear, is pictured here. Tucks and frills, all at their prettiest in net, are used for trimming. An underskirt of net has two groups of narrow tucks about the bottom and over it a long and full tulle skirt about the hips. A full over the skirt the bride's attention to the out hoop skirt effect, which is the inspiration of this frock. Below the full two groups of narrow tucks give an embroidered band of net the proper setting. The short sleeves are very frilly, with three narrow flounces as a finish, headed with a group of tucks.

The bodice is slightly low, giving a line across the bust and shoulders that is in keeping with the hooped skirt. A full at the neck opening has tucks and embroidered band below and at each side plain net fastened in and extending to the waist, gives an added fullness. The sash of narrow satin ribbon with hanging loops and long ends set on at each side is a charming accessory, the loops falling from clusters of little chiffon roses.

Formal Afternoon Frocks

GEORGETTE holds its own as the superlative in elegant fabrics for afternoon gowns, and will until some genius comes along who is able to excel it. It seems improbable that any thing more beautiful can be made and the refinement of georgette has made it so great a favorite with designers that they use it for many things and for all ages. But where the advantages show at their best is in those lovely gowns for afternoon—beautiful and restrained in style—in which women put their very best efforts at gowning and which are the delight of connoisseurs.

One of the two gowns shown in the group above, reveals what has been done with georgette in an afternoon frock for this summer. Imagine this in pale taupe or in tulle color with white beads used in its embellishment, and little medallions of flat lace set in and edged with embroidery silk, like the gown in color. The skirt has a wide front panel of the georgette, gathered at the waist and decorated with lines and crossbars of beads. Ac-cardion plaiting and georgette were made for each other, and at the sides of the skirt there are three tiers of plaiting, followed by a gathered panel at the back like that in front. The bodice, with elbow sleeves is decorated to correspond with the front panel and has a perfectly plain vestee of the crepe. A very wide sash of satin-striped crepe is especially interesting in this dress and it is finished at the ends with tiny silk balls.

Another dress of satin and georgette, is a model that stout women may pin their faith to. Its long straight lines are accented with small insets on the skirt and the bodice is a brief affair with short sleeves that adds the skirt in its striving for graceful lines. These are formal afternoon frocks in which one may face great occasions with assurance.

ARSENICALS FOR KILLING WORMS

Annual Loss From Cabbage Pest Conservatively Estimated at $1,300,000.

NOT DIFFICULT TO CONTROL

Arsenate of Lead and Paris Green Are Preferable to Other Poisons—Number of Spraying Depends on Conditions.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Arsenicals are being generally used to control the cabbage worm. There are now few instances of the total destruction of crops of cabbages as was formerly often the case. Nevertheless, a conservative estimate would place the present annual loss from this pest to cabbage alone—not including cauliflower and other related crops—at $1,300,000, or one-tenth the value of the entire crop.

The cabbage worm is not difficult to control, and it should be borne in mind that most other cabbage pests, more often present than not, will be controlled by the same methods.

Poisons Preferred.

Repeated experiments have shown that arsenate of lead and paris green are preferable to other arsenicals in common use. If paris green is used, it may be applied either wet or dry; preferably, however, as a spray, at the rate of one pound to 50 gallons of water. This plants should be free from insect attack when they are set out and should be sprayed a few days later to make sure that the poison reaches the young caterpillars before they have burrowed far into the heads. Other applications should follow as inspection of plants shows that they are necessary.

These applications of arsenicals can be made with absolute safety even after the heads are formed, as the poison disappears from plants almost completely within two to three weeks after application, and even earlier in event of repeated or heavy rainfall.

Increased Cost.

Severity of paris green has increased the cost. Arsenate of lead has been rapidly superseding paris green and other arsenicals as an insecticide and has not increased proportionately in price. For many reasons it is preferable.

Reserves the same purpose as paris green and is applied in the same manner. It is sold both in paste and in dry powder form. Two pounds of dry arsenate to 50 gallons of water or bordeaux mixture will make a solution of sufficient strength to destroy cabbage worms and similar insects. The paste form must be used at double strength, four pounds to 50 gallons of water.

The number of sprayings depends on local and seasonal conditions. Sometimes a single spraying will suffice, but usually two or three are necessary. The adhesiveness of the spray material is promoted by the addition of about the same amount by weight of resin fish oil soap as of the arsenical used.

DIG UP OLD RHUBARB STALKS

Divide Roots into Pieces of Two or Three Eyes Each and Start Entirely New Patch.

After rhubarb has been planted four or five years the stalks become so thick that they are too small to sell well. It is then best to dig up the roots and divide into pieces of two or three eyes each, which is enough for one hill, and start a new patch. Another good way is to dig up all the hill but a little corner which is left undisturbed, then fill the hole from which the roots were taken with well rotted manure and cover that with earth. The piece of root left in the ground will make a surprising growth the same season.

EXCELLENT CROP INSURANCE

Spraying Must Be Done at Right Time and in Proper Manner for Nice Clean Fruit.

He who does not spray his fruit crop for insects and disease has no right to expect nice clean fruit in the autumn. Spraying at the right time and in the right way is splendid crop insurance.

THINNING IMPROVES VALUABLE WOODLAND

Lack of Proper Treatment Is Cause of Much Loss.

Farmer Should Take Steps to Give Trees Sufficient Light and Soil Moisture for Them to Thrive and Become Profitable.

Lack of proper thinning and cutting is a common cause of woodlands being unprofitable, according to a recent bulletin entitled, "Making Woodlands Profitable in the Southern States," issued by the United States department of agriculture. Nature usually over-crowds trees in a given space, says this publication, and so steps should be taken to give them sufficient light and soil moisture to thrive and become profitable.

By properly controlling the number of trees on a tract it is possible to increase their rate of growth and eventually their size. Except for the production of cordwood, a few large trees on a given area are usually more desirable than many small ones. It is possible, valuable kinds of wood should be grown in preference to common woods which bring lower prices. Woodlands

Farm Woodland Marked for Conservative Thinning.

In this country, as a rule, contain many crooked, forked and diseased trees which should be replaced by straight, round ones. Soon after a cutting trees show an increased growth and the whole woodland rapidly increases in value by the elimination of inferior trees.

With an active market for cordwood and for fence posts, poles and lumber, there is every inducement to clear out the inferior trees—diseased, dying, crooked and less valuable kinds. Right cutting also includes the removal of large, sound trees whose growth is slow because they are nearing or have reached maturity. The cutting should be done only at a time of favorable market conditions or when building or other timber is needed on the farm. Copies of this bulletin may be had by addressing the United States department of agriculture, Washington, D. C.

CONTROL OF SOIL DISEASES

Next to Seed Treatment Rotation Is Best Way to Destroy Will and Rot Spores.

With the possible exception of seed treatment, there is no firm practice, which, from the plant disease point of view, gives greater returns on the investment than crop rotation, is the assertion of Prof. J. G. Laseh of the Colorado Agricultural college. There are a great many plant diseases such as wilts and root rots for which no specific remedy is known and which can be held in check only by the combined practices of seed selection, seed treatment, and crop rotation. These diseases become worse and worse each year the crop is grown in the same soil, and each one taking their annual toll accounts for considerable loss to the farmer.

A system of crop rotation entails almost no expense other than a little forethought and planning. The returns in disease-free crops pay for this trouble many times over, not to speak of the added gain in soil fertility.

SILOS RAPIDLY INCREASING

Successful Farmers Have Learned That Huge Receipts Is Big Asset on Any Farm.

Information gathered by the Pennsylvania department of agriculture shows approximately 20 per cent, or 43,657 farmers in the state with silos, while the number a year ago was estimated at 32,900. Wide awake and successful farmers have learned that a silo, when properly used is a valuable asset on any farm. As farm conditions improve, the number of silos naturally increases.

SPACE BETWEEN FRUIT TREES

Apples Should Be Allowed at Least 30 Feet Each—Plums Do Not Require as Much.

Standard apple trees should be allowed at least 30 feet of space each way; plums 20 feet; currants, gooseberries and grapes from ten to 12 feet; red raspberries should be allowed in rows only in hedgerow, not over six inches wide and rows ten to 12 feet apart; strawberries set in rows four feet apart and two feet apart in row.

The Moon in Folklore

More folklore is fastened upon the moon than upon any other astronomical feature, reflecting undoubtedly the wealth of sentiment the dear old satellite is an active party to. The myth of the man in the moon may have grown out of the forlorn young couples' hope that "were a man rather than a woman to whom their blissful secrets were entrusted. There is no less substantiating this belief, how-

Suggestion for a Camping Trip.

Buy a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy before leaving home. As a rule it cannot be obtained when on a hunting, fishing or prospecting trip. Neither can it be obtained while on board cars or steam ships and at such places it is most likely to be needed. The safe way is to have it with you. Adv.

LINER "ADS" EFFECTIVE.

One of the most effective forms of advertising is in the "liner" or classified column where a n investment of a few cents is certain to give prompt results. Tribune liner ads are always run under the heading, "Wants, For Sale, To Rent," in the same position on the front page where they are easy to find and invariably catch the eye. Only five cents the line for the first insertion, 2½ cents the line for each subsequent insertion. Next time you want to buy something, or have something for sale or rent, try a Tribune liner.

About Rheumatism.

People are learning that it is only a waste of time and money to take medicine internally for chronic and muscular rheumatism, and about ninety-nine out of a hundred cases are one of the other of these varieties. All that is really necessary to afford relief is to apply Chamberlain's Liniment freely. Try it. It costs but 35 cents per bottle. Large size 60 cents. Adv.
