The above statistical report covers the rural and town districts during the year ended June 1, 1920. This does not include the cities of Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti.

The program for public health service was accepted by the Washtenaw Chapter of the American Red Cross in the spring of 1919. An appropriation of $12,000 was made to which $4,000 was added later, and a tentative program was adopted of a nursing staff of seven nurses for the entire county. This program included the two nurses in Ann Arbor and one nurse in Ypsilanti already employed by organizations affiliated with the Red Cross.

Miss I. Malinda Haver, who knew the county through her two years service in Ann Arbor and the starting of health clinics in the rural districts, was secured to organize those parts of the county that had never had nursing service.

On July 1 Miss Florence Huffman took over the Milan district of the three townships of Augusta, York and Saline. At the same time Miss Ruth J. Howe was placed in the Chelsea district, comprising Sylvan, Lima, Lyndon and Dexter townships.

On September 1 Miss Clara Lodwick began her work in the Manchester district of Sharon, Freedom, Bridgewater and Manchester townships.

As soon as suitable nurses could be procured other districts were given the nursing service. Miss Edith M. Stoll was placed in the Saline-Dexter district on November 1, and on February 1 Miss Helen Regan came on for a six-months' term in the Salem-Ypsilanti district. Meantime Milan had added another nurse for intensive school work in York township.

As will be seen, the growth of the work necessitated enlarging the nursing staff and the year closed with a total number of ten nurses for the entire county. This does not include the extra nurses employed during the "flu" epidemic.

Child welfare clinics are held at frequent intervals in the different centers. These clinics are associated with the department of children's diseases in the University hospital at Ann Arbor. All children of 12 years and under may be examined, but no treatment is given, other than the regulation of diet. The tuberculosis clinics are held in co-operation with the anti-tuberculosis section of the state health department.

In every district the nurse is assisted by a committee of resident women, who arrange for her office, maintain the loan closet, report patients she might not otherwise know, and render her all possible help. This committee meets with the district nurse each month. The chairman of the local committees, together with other interested people, make up the county committee, which holds monthly meetings with the entire nursing staff.

Each nurse has her Ford, furnished and maintained by the Chapter, and emblazoned with the insignia of the Red Cross. Tirelessly the car chugs its way over good roads and bad, into towns, stopping at school-houses, and into the furthestmost rural parts of the county, even acting as ambulances in bringing into Ann Arbor hospitals patients needing examinations and treatment.

OFFICER WAS KILLED BY BANK ROBBERS

Undersheriff Harry Worden, of Grass Lake, Victim of Bandits.

The bandits who robbed the Grass Lake bank last Thursday forenoon, secured about $70,000 in cash and bonds, all of which was recovered with the exception of about $1,300.

The men were captured at Mack Island, Wolf lake, Thursday afternoon and were in a room in the club house annex to the hotel dividing the loot when their discovery was made. Under Sheriff Harry Worden, of Grass Lake, was shot and instantly killed by one of the bandits, as he was forcing his way into the room, and Deputy Sheriff Veri Kutt was wounded in the head, but not enough to interfere with his participation in the capture of the crooks.

The bandits are men with prison records and it is said that Under Sheriff Worden had been suspicious of the bunch for some time, and when the job was pulled off led the officers to Mack Island at once.

Although no charge has yet been made against the bandits, the officers are busily engaged in collecting additional evidence against the men. According to Sheriff Larabee, the men implicated through the confession of W. E. Harris, one of the gang, are not inexperienced in the robbery game. Harris, according to the sheriff, was a member of a gang which got more than $500,000 in bank robberies in the past three months, and is wanted by police officers in various cities of the country.

Steps towards guarding the county jail against any attempt to liberate the bandits were taken by the sheriff's force Saturday with the placing of armed state police upon the jail property. They will remain on guard until after the case against the robbers has been disposed of.

REPRESENTATIVE CHAS. A. SINK Candidate for Michigan Senate.

Charles A. Sink, Representative in the Michigan legislature from the first district of Washtenaw county, recently announced his candidacy for the senate from the 12th Michigan district, comprising Washtenaw and Oakland counties.

Mr. Sink was born on a farm in New York state where he spent the first twenty years of his life, when he came to Ann Arbor where he worked his way through the University, graduating in 1904. Since this time he has been the business manager of the University School of Music and the Choral Union and the May Festival Concert Series, an organization which has won prestige throughout the country and has carried the name of Michigan far and wide. He has taken great interest in public affairs, having served as member of the Ann Arbor council for three successive terms; and has also been a member of the Ann Arbor board of education for three successive terms; in 1917-18 he was president of the State Association of School Board Members and School Superintendents. He also served for three terms as secretary of the Michigan League of Municipalities. Two years ago he was elected to the legislature where through his wide acquaintance with state officials and his familiarity with public problems he made a fine record serving on several of the most important committees.

His election to the senate at this time would be in the light of a promotion because of service well rendered in the many capacities in which he has served the public in the past.

The L. O. T. M. will hold a meeting next Tuesday evening.

The Making of Better Homes.

By Rev. P.W. Dieterberger.

The community is no better than its homes. The most of men are what they are today because of home influences. The memory of home will often-times keep one steady in the midst of tremendous temptations and trials, when every other influence would fail.

There have been homes where the furnishings were not fine, where the marks of poverty were only too apparent, where sometimes there has been real suffering because of the lack of sufficient financial support; but these homes have been the centers from which influences, pure and mighty have gone forth to bless individuals, and, indirectly, to bless the multitudes.

The head of such a home never thinks of it without a word of thanksgiving. Ladders seem to be let down from heaven to every pillow, and when the children grow up and go forth from such homes, they never forget the place where father lived, like a priest in his household, and where the mother's love made home like heaven.

We have become too much occupied with the world and too fascinated with pleasure to make the home all that it should be today, and our children are suffering from the lack of the influence that has made our lives what they are today.

Each Christian home should have a family altar, a father, right with God, and a mother, filled with the spirit of Jesus. In such homes there should be children who yield to parental authority and follow kindly parental instruction.

There is nothing America needs so much today as homes—real old-fashioned homes. God give us "homes" that times like these demand. Give us better homes and our cities will be better, and America will receive a mighty uplift. Only one thing can bring this to pass, and that is a revival of religion that has in it the converting power of the Holy Spirit.

Howell—The Livingston county fair will be held in Howell August 31 to September 3.

Bunker Hill—The annual picnic of the Catholic church here will be held in Art's grove on Thursday, August 12th.

Brooklyn—The big annual Brooklyn business men's picnic is dated as usual for the third Thursday in August which this year will be the 19th.

Jackson—The Masons of Jackson and their families will hold a picnic at Mack Island, Wolf lake, on Thursday, August 19.

Grass Lake—Lorena Siegfried, 9 years of age, reported late Friday night as being lost in a marsh, was found Saturday morning near Leoni, just as a number of Jackson officers were planning to join in the search.

Ann Arbor—Robbers broke into the office of Dr. John F. Martin, 106 North Fourth avenue, Friday evening and stole $35 worth of gold which was to have been used for fillings. They also got away with a blue office coat.

Howell—The state police halted and brought onto the carpet a number of auto speeders last week. Now if they would do likewise with those who claim the whole road, double justice would be done.—Livingston Democrat.

Ann Arbor—Professor Rena Talamon, professor of French in the university of Michigan, has been notified that he has been given the rank of chevalier in the French Legion of Honor in recognition of his services in the French army during the war. Professor Talamon served in the French service until he was wounded. He has been notified that he will be presented with his decoration by a French ambassador to the United States.

Ypsilanti—With the country in general severely short of trained teachers for all grades Washtenaw county is doing its bit to increase the supply, more than 150 graduates of the university and of the high schools throughout the county being in attendance at the Michigan State Normal college at Ypsilanti preparing for the teaching profession. Many of this number will teach their first schools the coming term.

Dexter—The village windmill on B street which pumps the water for the watering tank, the overflow from which fills the big cistern on Main street, has been sold, and will be replaced by an automatic pressure system. It is the intention to do away with the watering tank, which is no longer considered a necessity, and place a drinking hydrant near the pump on Main street. These improvements are not only in the interest of economy, but are in the line of progress, as well.—Dexter Leader.

Milan—Flea beetles have made their appearance among the growing potatoes in Monroe county. They are also attacking other vegetables in the gardens. This beetle is a small hopper that feeds mainly on the under side of potato leaves and other garden crops. Spraying with arsenate of lead controls the insects, three pounds of the paste or one and one-half pounds of the powder being used with fifty gallons of water. The same amounts are mixed with Bordeaux mixture when potato plants are being sprayed.—Milan Leader.

TO THE PUBLIC.

The many friends of Judge E. E. Leland are pleased to know that he has consented to become a candidate for re-nomination for the office of Probate Judge.

This is one of the county offices in particular in which partisanship or any other consideration except the quality of service should play no part.

The unquestioned ability and success with which Judge Leland has discharged the duties of his office give the people the assurance they most desire.

During the time of his service, Judge Leland has handled many important estates and has looked after the interests of many children who have come under the jurisdiction of his court, and the people of the community have the utmost confidence in him.

It is to be hoped that Washtenaw County will continue to be served in this capacity by Judge Leland as Probate Judge. Political adv.

COAL FOR 7,000 YEARS.

Estimates of how long it will be before we exhaust our natural resources, such as coal, iron ore and oil, continue, as they have for many years, to furnish employment for speculative scientists and others. The latest word on coal, from C. M. Darling of the government bureau of mines, is reassuring. He told the railroad fuel association that we have enough mineable coal in sight to last at the present rate of consumption for 7,000 years. He put the total at 3,583,037,100,000 tons, the duration estimate is a mere matter of simple arithmetic, whatever may be thought of the estimate on quantity. Even if Mr. Darling is a couple of thousand years out or a few hundred billions of tons astray, any prospect of coal famine that this generation or the next need fear will be limited to such as we have experienced, due to failure to produce or to transport, says Pittsburgh Dispatch. The most reassuring feature about this sort of estimate is that there has been no indication of verifying alarmists of the past who attempted by forecast to exhaust some of the mineral resources within a few score years. So far as nature is concerned, there is no reason to fear that man is within measurable distance of scraping the bottom of the coal bin.

The white paper, or newsprint, shortage causes the secretary of agriculture to turn his eyes northwestward and make some predictions concerning Alaska. It is destined, he believes, to become a second Norway. Its immeasurable water power, vast deposits of coal, enormous forests of rapidly growing species of wood suitable for pulp, and tidewater shipment will make it, the secretary forecasts, one of America's principal sources of paper. Alaska is a large reservoir of natural riches. The United States bought it for a song; a nation never made a better investment. In mineral wealth alone it has paid for itself over and over again. Its fisheries have paid for it many times. Alaska is no beggar territory; it is a great reserve of national wealth.

OVER CONTINENT. CAR IS RELAYED FROM DRIVER TO DRIVER

A few weeks ago an Overland dealer down in Arizona suggested an entirely new kind of trip for a motor car. He said, "Let's have the distributors and dealers clear across the continent relay a stock Overland automobile from driver to driver on a continuous trip, and see what the car will do."

At first the idea was scoffed at, as every man who knows automobiles knows that under such handling no car can be reasonably expected to perform even up to its normal requirements. But on second thought, it was decided that a trip like this would be the best kind of test that could possibly be given, as it would show not the best that a car could perform, but the best that could be expected under the most adverse conditions.

RUNNING AT TIMES AT FORTY MILES AN HOUR

So an Overland stock car started from New York at midnight on July 18th. The roads were rough. Not a single driver had ever sat in the car before. In many cases the road was missed, and the distance had to be covered back until the right road or the detour was found.

"Let's try to average 20 miles an

Remarkable Cross-Continent Record-27.2 Miles Per Gallon

Think of it! An Overland stock car, taking on gas at 32 different public stations, driven by 25 different drivers who never saw the car before, smashed all trans-continental economy records in a day and night run from New York to San Francisco. 3,442 miles of incessant driving in 179 hours; the car punished by unfamiliar driving—reckless or conservative, according to the driver—yet the car's inherent economy is so certain that this Overland averaged 27.2 miles to the gallon. How was this remarkable cross-continental record made?

hour clear across," was the suggestion of the Overland dealers. "But that means driving 35 to 40 miles an hour part of the time," was the objection, "and you can't get gasoline economy at that speed." But 20 miles an hour was decided upon.

25 DIFFERENT MEN SIT AT THE WHEEL

A motor car trip across the United States in a week's time, in a car weighing less than 2000 pounds. That was the plan.

Mile after mile was clipped off on schedule time. Distributors met the car at appointed locations. Change of the 25 drivers was made sometimes in less than two or three minutes. Once a windshield was broken which had to be fixed. Here and there a nut had to be tightened. But the car pounded on through rain and dust and heat, over mountains and plains.

At Kearney, Nebraska, the half-way mark, the average stood 25 miles per gallon over a distance of 1600 miles. And the car was running so perfectly that every driver expressed the utmost enthusiasm over its performance.

AS STANDARD AS THE CAR YOU BUY

One of the remarkable things about the trip was the low oil consumption. And the car went across, not on cord tires such as are normally used for this kind of trip, but on standard Fisk fabric tires.

The standard Tillotson carburetor, and the standard Auto-Lite generator system and the U. S. L. Batteries were used. The car was a standard car with absolutely no reinforcements throughout.

MAYOR HYLAN OF NEW YORK ENDORSES ECONOMY ADVANTAGES

Finally, after crossing the almost impassable roads across the Nevada desert, the wonderful little Overland, protected throughout by Triplex Springs, rolled gaily down the paved highways of California into San Francisco, delivering to Mayor Ralph a letter from Mayor Hylan of New York, which read:

This wonderful trip of the Overland again emphasizes in a truly dramatic and remarkable way the stamina and riding qualities, and the extraordinary economy of this great car.

If you don't know this car and its remarkable achievements come in and look it over. It will pay you to find out what a great automobile you can buy for a small sum of money.

THE MODE IN SPORTS CLOTHES

"IN SILK attire my lady goes," sang a poet of days gone by of his dainty sweetheart. Today he would change it. "In sports attire my lady goes," would be more accurate. Whether of silk or whatever else, sports clothes have almost eclipsed other wear for summer days. Since women look for this cheerful apparel with so much avidity, creators of it are making excursions in all directions in search of original ideas. It seems that sports clothes fit in almost anywhere, and the task of designers lies in making them suited to all personalities. For young women they have an easy task; for older ones, they must add a flavor of dignity to sportive garments.

A sports coat of some sort goes without saying in every complete summer outfit. This season finds black, white, of flannel, of silk or velvet, or any other material that the designer may choose so long as he knows how to give it the chic touches that make it smart. But there are legions of coats that are in colors, some of them going so far as to flaunt red in large open plaits. What makes sports clothes enticing is their general jauntness, but color plays a less important part this season than in the early history of sports attire; designers arrive at their results by more subtle means.

There is plenty of color, however, for those who find it becoming and it is used with delightful artistry in some of this season's sports sets—a set being a skirt and overgarment of some sort. In the picture above there is a skirt and smock of coarse natural linen. The skirt is short and full and plain. The long blouse has convenient three-quarter length sleeves and comfortable round neck. What puts this smock on the map of the fashion world is the vivid embroidery about the bottom of the smock which might of course be an applique of linen in bright colors outlined with yarn in black. Figures of birds and geometrical forms take the place of floral motifs occasionally. Unbleached domestic will make a successful set of this kind. The small, soft hat is made of narrow ribbon and has a little cluster of yarn flowers applied to the upper edge of the brim. Flat-heeled canvas shoes and flax stockings finish this sports dress correctly.

GETTING OUTSIDE THE WALLS

OUTDOOR life has come into its own, especially in the lands of brief summers. Everyone appreciates the benefits and the charm of life out in the open air and modern homes are built to allow much time to be spent outside of walls. Even city dwellers, with no bit of garden or scrap of ground with a single tree, have learned to make the most of such porches as they may be blessed with and are migrating to the roofs and converting them into a semblance of gardens.

The family that has a porch at its disposal can almost live in the open air. Everyone gravitates toward it as toward an open fire in the winter time. It is a good idea to furnish it for comfort and as attractively as possible, including a table for serving breakfast, lunch, or refreshments when one has guests. The porch furniture may be of wicker or equally fashionable painted wood. Colors should be quiet and cool and a coat of enamel used as a finish. The housewife will find this use of the porch for meals a great labor saving and an exhilarating change from the dining room. Instead of linen for the porch table there is a rogue for plain oil cloth, white or colored, cut into center pieces and dollies and painted or stenciled in colors. They do away with the laundering of linen, saving the precious fabric, now so scarce as well as saving labor. With vines and flowering plants a porch becomes a lovely place and guests enjoy it. For serving refreshments, colored linen, the unbleached, unbleached sets, take

Watch Your Steps.

The importance of graceful walking never has been more evident than now. All the styles in fashion are intensely feminine, and it is no exaggeration to say their success depends almost entirely on the way they are worn and carried. Draperies floating from the waist demand spring in the step and light feet that do not lag. Short sleeves are inimitable, unless the arms and hands are well formed and well kept, and there is no charm in the display of silk stockings unless the ankles be slim. In the choice of clothes women must first be honest with themselves and then choose according to nature's endowment.

The Need of Matrons' Hats.

That the matronly woman needs as much attention in supplying her with becoming and suitable hats as does the stout woman in regard to suits and dresses is the opinion of one of the most experienced salesmen in a wholesale millinery house. He deplains the lack of attention that is given to hats for elderly women. They are harder to suit than anyone else, if it is true, he said, but the reason is that no special effort has hitherto been made to meet their need. The matron's hat he considered one of the possibilities of the millinery trade in the future.

Novel Bag Handle.

A chain which will be very fetching on a black bag is one which is easily and cheaply made. Get a number of the smallest white bone rings and connect them with loops of black silk braid. These loops should be about an inch in length. A black tuffin bag with this sort of chain fastened to the top will give an effect which is chic to a black and white costume. A bag of navy blue or gray would lend itself to this sort of handle treatment also.

Some More Truths.

WOULD you use a steam shovel to move a pebble? Certainly not. Implements are built according to the work they have to do.

Would you use a grown-up's remedy for your baby's ills? Certainly not. Remedies are prepared according to the work THEY have to do.

All this is preliminary to reminding you that Fletcher's Castoria was sought out, found and is prepared solely as a remedy for Infants and Children. And let this be a warning against Substitutes, Counterfeits and the Just-as-good stuff that may be all right for you in all your strength, but dangerous for the little babe.

All the mother-love that lies within your heart cries out to you: Be true to Baby. And being true to Baby you will keep in the house remedies specially prepared for babies as you would a baby's food, hairbrush, toothbrush or sponge.

Children Cry For

Fletcher's CASTORIA

Are You Prepared?

A doctor in the house all the time would be a good idea. Yet you can't afford to keep a doctor in the family to keep baby well or prevent sickness. But you can do almost the same thing by having at hand a bottle of Fletcher's Castoria, because it is a wonderful remedy for indigestion, colic, feverishness, fretfulness and all the other disorders that result from common ailments that babies have.

Fletcher's Castoria is perfectly safe to use. It is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. Children cry for Fletcher's Castoria, and mothers recommend it because they have found it a comfort to children and a mother's friend.

If you love your baby, you know how sweet it is to be able to help baby when trouble comes. You cannot always call upon a doctor. But doctors have nothing but good to say of Fletcher's Castoria, because they know that it can only do good—that it can't do any harm—and they wouldn't want you to use for baby a remedy that you would use for yourself.

He Played the Part.
No matter what mother said, father always chose to argue with her. If she were going to town and told him about the proposed trip he would begin: "But, my dear, I'm sure you should not until—"

One day he had carried through an argument of his usual kind when his ten-year-old daughter looked up from the book she was reading. "Mother," she giggled, "father is your goat, isn't he?"

Mother seemed bewildered, but he had laughed. "I guess I am," he agreed. "She certainly knows me around."

"Oh, that wasn't the reason I said that," ten-year-old daughter said. "I said it because you are always butting in on her so much."

After Ten Years—

Eatonic Proves the Best
"I say, God bless eatonic," writes Mrs. Della M. Doyen. "I can truthfully say, after suffering with stomach trouble for ten long years, that I have never had anything do me so much good as this one box of eatonic."

We print these grateful words from this dear lady, so that sufferers everywhere may have hope and a little faith—just enough to give eatonic a trial. Why, folks, last year over half a million people used eatonic and found relief.

This is the secret: Eatonic simply takes up the excess acids, poisons and gases, and carries them right out of the body. Of course, when the cause is removed, the sufferer gets well. Stomach trouble causes about seventy non-organic diseases, so, if you are suffering any kind of misery, not feeling well, go right to your druggist today and obtain a big box of eatonic; cost is a trifle. Use it and find quick, sure relief.

Make this test—you will see, and then, if you are not satisfied, your druggist will hand your money back. He does not want one penny unless eatonic pleases you. Adv.

A deputy from the sheriff's office called on several of the owners of dogs in Sylvan the past week. Some of them paid the license, and others who refused had their dogs killed by the officer. A good crop of dogs is running at large in Chelsea without license tags, and they may become good targets for the same officer.

Were it not so we would get overcharged with enthusiasm, for we like California as a place to live very much."

The Democrats of Michigan will hold their state nominating convention in Lansing, September 29. This was decided at a meeting of the state central committee last week. The September convention will nominate candidates for all state offices except governor and lieutenant governor to be voted on at the November election. It was decided to call the county conventions to elect delegates to the state convention September 8.

A Mitchell touring car which was being driven westward by a Detroit man was ditched Saturday afternoon about two miles west of Chelsea. After going into the ditch the car landed right side up headed to the east in the middle of the road, after turning a couple of somersaults. One wheel of the car was smashed, the radiator and body were badly twisted up. Witnesses of the accident state that the man was driving at a high rate of speed. The driver was alone and was quite badly cut up. A bottle of booze was found near the wreckage, and probably accounts for the queer antics of the car.

He especially cautions fruit growers not to wait too long before applying the spray.

FARMERS DO WELL

Record Prices Paid Wheat Growers of Western Canada.

Will Get Above 40 Cents Over the Fixed Scale Set—Wheat Looking to the Dominion for Its Grain.

It will be of interest to many readers to learn that their farmer friends in Canada will do so well out of the wheat they grew on western Canada's prairies last year.

There was a fixed price of $2.15 per bushel paid for their wheat last season. Not knowing the price at which it would be possible to market the crop, the Canadian grain board, which organization handled the whole of the crop last summer, fixed $2.15 as a minimum price for No. 1 wheat, and arranged that each farmer should be given certificates for the quantity of wheat he delivered. The amount received over and above the fixed price which was paid to the farmers when selling their wheat was to be divided pro rata at the end of the season, and the holders of these certificates will, therefore, participate in the extra price received according to the quantity of wheat sold.

The latest advices are that the wheat board will pay at least 40 cents a bushel over the fixed rate of $2.15 a bushel for their wheat of last season. This means that about $40,000,000 will be distributed among the farmers of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba. This sum represents the difference in the price at which the wheat crop was sold and the price that was fixed for last season's crop.

Canadian Wheat in Demand.

A declaration that Canadian wheat would in all probability sell this year at between $3 and $5 per bushel, was made recently before a conference of western supporters of the government by Dr. Robert Magill, who was one of a delegation from the Winnipeg grain exchange. Dr. Magill argued in favor of open trading from the aspect of world conditions. He stated that no wheat could be exported from Russia owing to internal troubles.

Roumania would have absolutely none to export, India was prohibiting export, while Australia's acreage would fall from 12,000,000 to 7,000,000. The result would be that Australia would scarcely have enough to feed herself, and there would be absolutely no wheat for Europe, except from the Argentine and North America.

Dr. Magill, according to formal announcement, though it would be impossible to secure as good a price for the producer by control as by the open market. The United States market was now open, and, according to present prospects, there would be mighty little to spare from that quarter. The net result would be that Canadian wheat would undoubtedly go to a record figure.—Advertiser.

A Captious Critic.

B. L. T. criticizes a Transcript advertiser for saying that the furnished apartment to let is "ideal for man and wife or bride and groom." Why so fussy, old top? Every one knows that a wedding party are bride and groom until the honeymoon is over, and that often lasts quite a spell—until, in fact, she starts cooking or asks him for money.—Boston Transcript.

"Has Poundstone returned your car?" he queried.
"Why, yes. What makes you ask?"
"Oh, I had a suspicion he might. You see, I called him up and suggested it; somehow his honor is peculiarly susceptible to suggestions from me, and—"
"Bryce Cardigan," she declared, "you're a sly rascal—that's what you are. I shan't tell you another thing."
"I hope you had a stenographer at the dictograph when the mayor and your uncle cooked up their little deal. That was thoughtful of you, Shirley. It was a bully club to have your sleeve at the final showdown, for with it you can make Unkinkud believe himself and force that compromise you spoke of. Seriously, however, I don't want you to use it, Shirley. We must avoid a scandal by all means; and please be, I don't need your club to beat your uncle's brains out. I'm taking his club away from him to use for that purpose."

"Really, I believe you're happy today."
"Happy? I should tell a man! If the streets of Sequoia were paved with eggs, I could walk them all day without making an omelette."
"It must be nice to feel so happy, after so many months of the blues."
"Indeed it is, Shirley. You see until very recently I was very much worried as to your attitude toward me. I couldn't believe you'd so far forget yourself as to love me in spite of everything—so I never took the trouble to ask you. And now I don't have to ask you. I know! And I'll be around to see you after I get that crossing in."
"You're perfectly horrid," she blazed, and hung up without the formality of saying good-by.

Shortly after Shirley's departure from his office, Bryce had a visit from Buck Ogilvy. The latter wore a neatly pressed suit of Shepherd plaid, and a white carnation in his lapel, and he was apparently the most light-hearted young man in Humboldt county. He struck an attitude and demanded:

"Boss, what do you think of my new suit?"
"You lunatic! Don't you know red blonds should never wear light shades? You're dressed like a negro minstrel."
"Well, I feel as happy as an end-man. And by the way, you're all chirped up yourself. Who's been helping you to the elixir of life? When we parted last night, you were forty fathoms deep in the slough of despond."

"No less a divinity than Miss Shirley Sumner! She called this morning to explain that last night's fiasco was none of her making, and quite innocently she imparted the information that old Pennington lighted out for San Francisco at one o'clock this morning. Wherefore I laugh. To-be! Ha-ha!"

"Three long, loud, raucous cheers for Uncle. He's gone to rush a restraining order through the United States district court. Wonder why he didn't wire his attorney to attend to the matter for him."

"Three Long, Loud, Raucous Cheers for Uncle," he murmured.
"You wicked, wicked man!"

CHAPTER XVII.

Events followed each other with refreshing rapidity. While the crew of the big locomotive on the crossing hustled themselves getting up steam, Sexton and Jules Rondeau toiled at the loading of the discarded boiler and heavy castings aboard two flat cars. By utilizing the steel derrick on the company's wrecking car, this task was completed by noon, and after luncheon the mogul backed up the main line past the switch into the Laguna Grande yards; whereupon the switch engine kicked the two flat cars and the wrecking car out of the yard and down to the crossing, where the obstructions were promptly unloaded. The police watched the operation with alert interest but forbore to interfere in this high-handed closing of a public thoroughfare.

To Sexton's annoyance and secret apprehension, Bryce Cardigan and Buck Ogilvy promptly appeared on the scene, both very cheerful and lavish with expert advice as to the best method of expediting the job in hand. To Bryce's surprise Jules Rondeau appeared to take secret enjoyment of this good-natured chaffing of the Laguna Grande manager. Occasionally he eyed Bryce curiously but without animus, and presently he flashed the latter a lightning wink, as if to say: "What a fool Sexton is to oppose you!"

"Well, Rondeau," Bryce hailed the woods-boss cheerfully, "I see you have quite recovered from that working over I gave you some time ago. No hard feelings, I trust. I shouldn't care to have that job to do over again. You're a tough one."

"By gar, she don't pay for have hard feelings wiz you, m'sieur," Rondeau answered bluntly. "We have one fine fight, but"—he shrugged—"I don't want some more." He approached Bryce and lowered his voice. "For one month

"When I cut your beeg trees, m'sieur, I feel like hell."

I am no good all ze time. We don't fight some more, m'sieur. And I have feel ashame for dose Black Minoren feller. Always wiz him eet is ze knife or ze club—and now eet is ze rifle. Cocheon! When I fight, I fight wiz what le bon Dieu give me."

"You appear to have a certain code, after all," Bryce laughed. "I am inclined to like you for it. You're sporty in your way, your tremendous account."

"Mehbeso," Rondeau suggested hopefully, "m'sieur likes me for woods-boss?"

"Why, what's the matter with Pennington? Is he tired of you?"

The color mounted slowly to the woods-boss's swarthy cheek. "Madelmoiselle Sumner, he's tell me pretty soon he's got to be boss of Laguna Grande an' stop all these fight. An' when Mademoiselle, he is in the saddle, good-bye Jules Rondeau. Thees country—I like him. I feel sad, m'sieur, to leave dose beeg trees." He paused, looking rather wistfully at Bryce. "I am fine woods-boss for somebody," he suggested hopefully.

"You think Miss Sumner dislikes you then, Rondeau?"

"I don't theek. I know," He sighed; his huge body seemed to droop. "I am out of zee good luck now," he murmured bitterly. "Everybody, she hate Jules Rondeau." Again he sighed. "Dose beeg trees! In Quebec we have none. In zee woods, m'sieur, I feel—here!" And he laid his great calloused, hairy hand over his heart. "When I cut your beeg trees, m'sieur, I feel like hell."

"That infernal gorilla of a man is a poet," Buck Ogilvy declared. "I'd think twice before I let him get out of the country, Bryce."

"Whose salt he eats, his song he sings," quoth Bryce. "I forgive you, Rondeau, and when I need a woods-boss like you, I'll send for you."

At eleven o'clock Saturday night the deputy United States marshal arrived in Sequoia. Upon the advice of Buck Ogilvy, however, he made no attempt at service that night, notwithstanding the fact that Jules Rondeau and his bullies still guarded the crossing. At eight o'clock Sunday morning, however, Bryce Cardigan drove him down to the crossing. Buck Ogilvy was already there with his men, superintendent erection of a huge derrick close to the heap of obstructions placed on the crossing. Sexton was watching him uneasily, and flushed as Ogilvy pointed him out to the marshal.

"There's your men, marshal," he announced. The marshal approached and extended toward Sexton a copy of the restraining order. The latter struck it aside and refused to accept it—whereupon the deputy marshal tapped him on the shoulder with a pistol. "Tag! You're out of the game, my friend," he said pleasantly.

As the document fluttered to Sexton's feet, the latter turned to Jules Rondeau. "I can no longer take charge here, Rondeau," he explained. "I am forbidden to interfere."

"Jules Rondeau can do ze job," the woods-boss replied easily. "Ze law, she have not restrain' me. I guess, mehbeso, you don't take dose things away, eh, m'sieur Cardigan. Myself, I ink see."

The deputy marshal handed Rondeau a paper, at the same time showing his badge. "You're out, too, my friend," he laughed. "Don't be foolish to try to back the law. If you do, I shall have to place a nice little pair of handcuffs on you and throw you in jail—and if you resist arrest, I shall have to shoot you. I have one of these little restraining orders for every able-bodied man in the Laguna Grande Lumber company's employ—thanks to Mr. Ogilvy's foresight; so it is useless to try to beat this game on a technicality."

Sexton, who still lingered, made a gesture of surrender. "Dismiss your crew, Rondeau," he ordered. "We're whipp'd to a frazzle."

A gleam of pleasure, not unminged with triumph, lighted the dark eyes of the French-Canadian. "I tot m'sieur Sexton see cannot fight m'sieur Cardigan and win," he said simply. "Now mehbeso he believe that Jules Rondeau know something."

"Shut up," Sexton roared petulantly. Rondeau shrugged contemptuously, turned, and with a sweep of his great arm indicated to his men that they were to go; then, without a backward glance to see that they followed, the woods boss strode away in the direction of the Laguna Grande mill.

Arrived at the mill office, he entered, took down the telephone, and called up Shirley Sumner.

"Madelmoiselle," he said, "Jules Rondeau speaks to you. I have for you zee good news. Bryce Cardigan, she puts in the crossing today. One man of the law she comes from San Francisco with papers, and m'sieur Sexton say to me: 'Rondeau, we are whip. Deemness your men. So I have deemness dose men, and now I deemness dose men. Mehbeso bimby I go to work for m'sieur Cardigan. For Mademoiselle I have no weech to make trouble to fire me. I quest. I will not fight dose dirty fight some more. Au revoir, mademoiselle. I go."

And without further ado he hung up.

"What's this, what's this?" Sexton demanded. "You're going to quit! Nonsense, Rondeau, nonsense!"

"I will have my time, m'sieur," said Jules Rondeau. "I go to work for a man. Mehbeso I am not woods boss for heem, but—I work."

"You'll have to wait until the Colonel returns, Rondeau."

"I will have my time," said Jules Rondeau patiently.

"Then you'll wait till pay day for it, Rondeau. You know our rules. Any man who quits without notice waits until the regular pay day for his money."

Jules advanced until he towered directly over the manager. "I tot m'sieur I would have my time," he repeated once more. "Is m'sieur deaf in ze ears?" He raised his right hand, much as a bear raises its paw; his blunt fingers worked a little and there was a smoldering fire in his dark eyes.

Without further protest Sexton opened the safe, counted out the wages due, and took Rondeau's receipt.

"Thank you, m'sieur," the woods boss growled as he swept the coin into his pocket. "Now I work for m'sieur Cardigan; so, m'sieur, I will have zee switch engine wroth two flat cars and zee wrecking car. Once dam trash on zee crossing—m'sieur Cardigan does not like, and by gar, I take heem away. You understand, m'sieur? I am Jules Rondeau, and I work for m'sieur Cardigan. La la, m'sieur!" The great hand closed over Sexton's collar. "Not zee pistol—no, not for Jules Rondeau."

Quite as easily as a woman dresses a baby, he gagged Sexton with Sexton's own handkerchief, laid him gently on the floor and departed, locking the door behind him and taking the key. At the corner of the building, where the telephone line entered the office, he paused, jerked once at the wire, and passed on, leaving the broken ends on the ground.

In the roundhouse he found the switch engine crew on duty, waiting for steam to the boiler. The withdrawal of both locomotives, brief as had been their absence, had caused a glut of logs at the Laguna Grande landings, and Sexton was catching up with the traffic by sending the switch engine crew out for one trainload, even though it was Sunday. The crew had been used to receiving orders from Rondeau, and moreover they were not aware of his recent action; hence at his command they ran the switch engine out of the roundhouse, coupled up the two flat cars and the wrecking car, and backed down to the crossing. Upon arrival, Jules Rondeau leaned out of the cab window and hailed Bryce. "M'sieur," he said, "do not bozzer to make zee derriek. I have here zee wrecking car—all you need; pretty soon we lift him off zee crossing. I tell you, eh, m'sieur Cardigan?"

Bryce stepped over to the switch engine and looked up at his late enemy. "By whose orders is this train here?" he queried.

"Mine," Rondeau quickly answered. "M'sieur Sexton I have to like one hectic pig and look at a see eddie I want now for m'sieur."

And he did. He waited not for a confirmation from his new master but proceeded to direct operations—like the born driver and leader of men that he was. With his late employer's gear he fastened to the old engine and the boiler, lifted them with the derrick on the wrecking car, and swung them up and around onto the flat cars. By the middle of the afternoon the crossing was once more clear. Then the Cardigan crew fell upon it while Jules Rondeau ran the train back to the Laguna Grande yards, dismissed his crew, returned to the mill office, and released the manager.

"You'll pay through the nose for this, you coward," Sexton whimpered, "I'll fix you, you traitor."

"You fear nothing, m'sieur Sexton," Rondeau replied imperturbably. "Who is witness Jules Rondeau de you up? Somebody see you, no? I guess you don't fear me. Sacre! I guess you don't fear me."

On Tuesday he returned to Sequoia. Sexton related to him in detail the events which had transpired since his departure, but elicited nothing more than a noncommittal grunt.

"There is one more matter, sir, which will doubtless be of interest to you," Sexton continued apologetically. "Miss Sumner called me on the telephone yesterday and instructed me formally to notify the board of directors of the Laguna Grande company of a special meeting of the board, to be held here at two o'clock this afternoon. In view of the impossibility of communicating with you while you were en route, I conformed to her wishes. Our by-laws, as you know, stipulate that no meeting of the board shall be called without formal written notice to each director mailed twenty-four hours previously."

"What the devil do you mean, Sexton, by conforming to her wishes? Miss Sumner is not a director of this company," Pennington's voice was harsh and trembled apprehensively.

"Miss Sumner controls forty per cent of the Laguna Grande stock, sir. I took that into consideration."

"You lie!" Pennington all but screamed. "You took into consideration your job as secretary and general manager. Damnation!"

He rose and commenced pacing up and down his office. Suddenly he paused. Sexton still stood beside his desk, watching him respectfully. "You fool!" he snarled. "Get out of here and leave me alone."

Sexton departed promptly, glancing at his watch as he did so. It lacked five minutes of two. He passed Shirley Sumner in the general office.

"Shirley," Pennington began in a hoarse voice as she entered his office, "what is the meaning of this directors' meeting you have requested?"

"Be seated, Uncle Seth," she answered quietly. "If you will only be quiet and reasonable, perhaps we can dispense with this directors' meeting which appears to frighten you."

He sat down promptly, a look of relief on his face.

"I scarcely know how to begin, Uncle Seth," Shirley commenced sadly. "I hurts me terribly to be forced to hurt you, but there doesn't appear to be any other way out of it. I cannot trust you to manage my financial affairs in the future—this for a number of reasons, the principal one being—"

"Young Cardigan," he interrupted in a low voice.

BIG CROPS ASSURED IN WESTERN CANADA

Need of Farm Labor Urgently Required for Harvest.

Rains of the past week which have been general throughout all portions of Western Canada, covering MANTOBA, SASKATCHEWAN, and ALBERTA, have placed beyond all manner of doubt the certainty of vast grain crops throughout the entire district.

Reports from all points indicate marvellous and rapid growth. The conditions of a week or so back, which were decidedly less promising and led many to think that there might be a partial failure, have disappeared altogether and now there is a wave of optimism circulating throughout the entire country.

In 1915 there were enormous yields reported from all parts, and it would appear now as if in many places the yields of 1915 would be equaled if not beaten.

What might appear to be a drawback, is the apparent shortage of farm help. The Province of Manitoba through its Employment Bureau in Winnipeg, is asking for 10,000 harvest hands and over, offering from $5 to $6 per day. The Province of Saskatchewan is asking for 15,000 extra hands to take care of the immense harvest that is certain to be reaped in that Province. In Alberta the crop area is somewhat less, the labor conditions somewhat better, and is making a request for 5,000 extra farm hands.

Interviewing the officials of the different Governments, they are inclined to the opinion that as the crops in Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota, Illinois and other Central States are harvested there will be a movement northward that will materially help to take care of the labor situation. With the low railroad rates that may be secured on application to the Employment Offices at Winnipeg and at boundary points, or which may be secured through the Canadian Government Offices at Chicago, Ill.; Detroit, Mich.; Milwaukee, Wis.; Kansas City, Mo.; Omaha, Neb.; Des Moines, Ia.; Watertown, S. D.; St. Paul, Minn., and Grand Forks, N. D., will give to those seeking employment the opportunity to reach the harvest fields at a low cost.—Advertiser.

Something Worth While. "This machine will save labor." "Aw, why don't some of you smart guys invent a substitute for work?"

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Bolsheviki Must Accept Miller-and's Terms if They Want to Negotiate Peace.

LUDENDORFF OFFERS ARMY

Will Provide a Million Germans to Fight Russia, on Conditions—Armistice for Poland—Villa Surrenders, Cantir Rebels, in Mexico.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD.

The dove of peace is being treated roughly in Europe. Every time one nation puts up a nice peach for her to alight upon, some other nation shoos her away, insisting that she must sit on its perch or stay up in the air.

Premier Lloyd George thought he had found the way of peace with the Russian bolsheviki and went to Boulogne to tell Premier Millerand all about it and to get his endorsement. But Millerand had his own ideas, and the result was that the little Welshman hurried home, virtually admitting that the Frenchman's plans must prevail. Briefly, Millerand declares that if the London conference proposed by the soviet government is held, peace with Poland must be the first subject discussed, and that representatives of Poland and all other states bordering on Russia must be invited to participate in the meeting. Another condition is that Baron General Wrangell shall not be delivered up to the bolsheviki.

Millerand's first consideration is the safety of Poland, which he insists must be constituted a buffer state to keep bolshevism out of Germany. He did not need even to mention the claim for recognition of the Russian debt to France, for the discussion did not get that far. He refused to sign the note to Moscow stating the conditions of the conference. So Lloyd George returned to London, pretended he was quite satisfied with the situation, and said the note would be forwarded to Russia as soon as it had been approved by Italy.

Meanwhile Poland is being overwhelmed, and if she is to be aided, the form of aid and the source from which it is to come remain undecided. Neither Great Britain nor Italy is in a position politically to send troops, and Germany will not permit the allies to transport munitions of war through her territory nor to turn over to Poland the arms and ammunition she surrendered to her conquerors. In this Germany rests on the terms of the peace treaty. France alone could send an army to the rescue of the Poles, and this she may do.

One other alternative is offered. General Ludendorff, the former German war chief, is said to have told the British charge d'affaires at Berlin that he will raise an army of 1,000,000 men to fight the bolsheviki if the allies will consent. But his conditions are that Posen be returned to Germany and that certain clauses of the treaty of Versailles be annulled, among them those dealing with Danzig. This would be a bitter pill for the allies to swallow, but it is in effect the proposition also of Winston Churchill, the British war minister, who asserts that Germany alone can stop the forward march of bolshevism, and that to permit her to do so would add her to recover speedily her place among the nations. Such a recovery probably is desired by those who would profit financially thereby, but not many others are deeply concerned in it.

Friday saw the beginning of the armistice between the Poles and the soviet Russians and the start of negotiations for peace in the town of Baranovitch. Fighting was supposed to cease at that time, but it was continued up to the last minute, the bolsheviki capturing Bialystok and forcing the Poles steadily back toward Warsaw. The Lithuanians resisted the territory through which the Russians might pass, but a corps of Lithuanian troops joined the bolshevik cavalry operating eastward through Augustowo and Suwalki and the combined forces were reported mauling on the East Prussia frontier. The German reichswehr was concentrated at Insterburg to repel the invaders.

The diplomats of Europe were not especially hopeful last week that the conference at Baranovitch would bring about peace between the two warring nations and were awaiting the Russian armistice terms with impatience. It was reported that Lenin favored moderate terms, while Trotsky wished them so oppressive and humiliating that the Poles would be forced to continue fighting or overthrow their government if the terms were accepted.

The press of Warsaw is especially skeptical concerning the intentions and good faith of the soviet Russians, expressing the belief that the latter do not want peace.

"Poland is fully aware that negotiations may be broken off any minute and that, while they last, soviet Russia will make all efforts to cause an outbreak of bolshevism and revolution in Poland," the Gazeta Warszawska declares. "Therefore Poland must, in order to safeguard an honorable peace, gather all her patriotic spirit and energy."

The Russian patriot Barzew, now in Warsaw is quoted by the Corier Pommarsky as saying: "I do not believe peace will be made between Poland and soviet Russia. The soviet regime needs a temporary rest and it will sign an armistice. If it signs peace it will mean that the soviet rule hopes through propaganda to establish a soviet government in Poland."

The French in Syria professed to find that King Faisal was sincere in his submission, so they stormed and captured Damascus and ordered Faisal to leave the country. So far there has been no outside opposition to this procedure, but it is conceivable that Great Britain will in some way help that Arab chieftain who gave them such valuable assistance in the capture of Palestine.

In Thrace the Greeks have been making great progress against the Turkish nationalists and after desperate fighting they occupied Adrianople, the headquarters of Jafar Tayan, and captured that leader and his staff. King Alexander himself entered the city and was warmly welcomed. The Greeks also took Kirk-Killsch and other strategic points, and it was announced that it would now be comparatively easy to clear the country of the nationalist bands.

Poor old Mexico! No sooner does she get rid of one disturbing element than another springs up to continue the turmoil. Last week "Pancho" Villa, having received assurances of forgiveness and financial reward for his efforts in the past, surrendered to the government and promised to spend the rest of his life as a peaceful farmer. But at the same time, came the news that Esteban Cantu, governor of the northern district of Lower California, was considered by the government to be in open rebellion. Cantu professed to be astonished by this view of his position and denied the charge. He said he had been advised that the provisional government was sending two bodies of troops, numbering about 3,000 men, against him, and that he would have 4,000 men ready to resist in the field any attempt to invade his province. He assured protection to Americans and other foreigners engaged in lawful occupations in Lower California. The prospects for a stubborn conflict were good, though United States Consul Boyle at Mexicali urged our government to use its good offices to prevent hostilities. "I am surrendering because the country needs peace for reconstruction," said Villa to General Martinez, who arranged for the capitulation of the bandit chief. But the story comes from Mexico that Villa "has been given very pleasing financial guarantees." His men are to be mustered out at Torreon, and each of them is to receive a year's pay and a tract of land.

There was some relief in sight in the coal situation in the United States, though no one would predict an immediate end of the trouble with the bituminous miners of the middle West. President Lewis of the United Mine Workers of America asked for a joint conference of operators and miners "to deal with the confusion that exists in the coal industry," and the Illinois operators consented to meet the workers for the purpose of discussion, but would not agree to reopen the wage agreement until they received authority from Washington. So serious is the threat of a fuel famine that Governor Lowden of Illinois urged the authorities at Washington to act quickly in bringing about a settlement. In the national capital it was said Secretary of Labor Wilson was about to make a report to the president. Mr. Tumulty, secretary to President Wilson, said a satisfactory solution of the problem would be reached through the efforts of Attorney General Palmer, who named a committee to fix profit margins, and the orders of the interstate commerce commission. Others were not nearly so optimistic as Mr. Tumulty.

Governor Cox of Ohio was signally honored on Friday by his home town, Dayton. His fellow citizens, regardless of party affiliations, made him the chief figure in the "home-coming" celebration, and he delivered a speech in a handsome "court of honor." The city was beautifully decorated and was thronged with visitors from all parts of the state.

Dayton also has prepared for the Cox notification ceremony, set for August 7. This will take place in the county fair grounds and the governor will deliver his speech of acceptance from the grand stand of the race track, in which will be sound amplifiers such as were installed in the national convention halls. Most of last week was devoted by Governor Cox to the preparation of this speech. A great many persons profess to be intensely interested in what he will say about liquor. It is predicted that he will steer skillfully around that question, and may advise the people of the United States that if they want a liberal enforcement of the law, they must elect congressmen who are in favor of such a course.

Governor Coolidge of Massachusetts was formally notified of his vice presidential nomination on Tuesday and responded with a speech in which he did not markedly deviate from the lines laid down by Senator Harding. The burden of it was that the country must be speedily rescued from the reactions of war.

Senator Harding's campaign is not by any means to be confined to his front porch. Plans are being made to take him on an extensive speaking tour, which probably will include Denver, Memphis, New York, Boston, Chicago and Indianapolis. He may even go as far as the Pacific coast. To avoid certain errors of past campaigns, he will not enter any state until its primary fights are over.

Winning three races in a row after losing two, the yacht Resolute successfully defended this country's possession of the America's cup against the fourth attempt by Sir Thomas Lipton to lift the international trophy. His yacht, Shamrock IV, was outfitted and out-sailed by the American boat and its crew, and the tea merchant admitted that the Resolute was the better boat. But he is coming across again in 1922 unless some other Britisher captures the cup next summer. It is estimated that Sir Thomas spent in the neighborhood of a million dollars in trying to win the trophy this year.

The congressional junketing party that has gone to the orient arrived at Manila very sensibly, because of typhoons that wrought havoc in parts of the islands. The visitors were just in time for the raising of a red flag by angry farm tenants near Manila, whose rent has been increased six times. This, a small incident in itself, shows the Filipinos, like the rest of the world, are full of social unrest. After ten days in the Philippines, the party will be taken to China under the escort of Doctor Reisch, former American minister to China and now the adviser of that government.

COMMUNISTS GIVEN PRISON SENTENCES

LLOYD, MILLIONAIRE SOCIALIST, AND 19 OTHERS CONVICTED OF CONSPIRACY.

PLOTTED AGAINST GOVERNMENT

Leader Given Sentence of One to Five Years in Jail, $2,000 Fine—New Trial Asked.

Chicago.—William Gross Lloyd, millionaire socialist, and 19 other members of the communist labor party Monday night were found guilty by a jury of conspiracy to overthrow the government of the United States.

The defendants were given various sentences, most of them getting from one to five years in the penitentiary, a few being given fines in addition and several were sentenced to one year in jail. Lloyd got the heaviest sentence, being given one to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000 in addition.

The sentences follow: William Gross Lloyd, Winnetka, Ill., millionaire socialist and sergeant-at-arms of the communist labor party, one to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $3,000.

L. E. Katterfeld, Dayton, Kan., farmer; Ludwig Lore, alleged co-author of the communist labor party platform and author of alleged radical publications, and L. K. England, Moline, Ill., member of the communist labor party state executive committee, one to five years in the penitentiary.

Jack Carney, Duluth, Minn., editor of "Truth" and member of the party's national executive committee, and Max Bedacht, San Francisco, Cal., reporter: Each one to five years and $1,000 fine.

Dr. Oscar Jesse Brown, Dekalb, Ill.; Samuel Ash, Chicago, lawyer; Niels Kjaer, Chicago, and Edgar Owens, Moline, Ill., each one year in jail.

Arthur Proctor, Chicago: One to five years and $2,000 fine. Niels J. Christensen, Chicago; Edward Firth, Indianapolis, Ind.; Edgar; Samuel F. Hankin, Chicago; Charles Krumbeln, Chicago; Joseph Meisinger, Chicago; Dr. Carl F. Sandberg, Chicago; Perry H. Shipman, Rock Island, Ill.; Morris A. Stolar, Chicago, and John Vogel, Chicago: Each one year in jail.

The sentences are for the state penitentiary and the Cook county jail. The defendants were charged with conspiracy to advocate the overthrow of the government by force; conspiracy to publish or distribute printed matter advocating overthrowing the government by force; conspiracy to belong to an organization advocating it, and conspiracy to attend meetings at which overthrowing the government by force was advocated.

A motion for a new trial was made by the defense, and the court will hear the motion September 25. Thirty-nine members of the communist labor party were indicted, but not all were tried for several days.

The trial began on May 10 and nearly nine weeks were consumed in selecting a jury. During the trial, the state centered its attack on Lloyd, the most prominent of the defendants and the son of a Boston philanthropist. He was charged with openly advocating a revolution of the masses against the government and was alleged to have said in speeches that "banks should be blown open to get money to finance the revolution and armories should be rifled for ammunition."

Allied Supreme Council Adopts Plan to Squeeze Reds.

San Sebastian.—In the absence of the United States, chief opponent of the plan last year, the League of Nations council now has adopted the French plan for an international general staff of military experts to propose plans of operation in event any state makes war or violates an agreement in the future.

This action is believed to precede the preparation of a combined action by the world's powers against bolshevik Russia, and against Germany should the Germans join the Reds.

STOP COAL RE-CONSIGNMENT

I. C. C. Acts to Relieve Shortage of Coal and Cars.

Washington.—Further steps designed to relieve the coal situation have been taken by the interstate commerce commission. Orders were issued Monday prohibiting more than one reconignment of coal when loaded in cars, and imposing a charge of from $2 to $5 per car for making even the single reconignment.

The commission also announced that emergency penalty charges would be put into effect to stimulate quick unloading of all open top cars, particularly those loaded with coal, coke and lumber.

These emergency demurrage charges of $10 per day for each day cars are held over the free time allowed in existing rules will be effective until January 1, 1921. The railroads are authorized to file new tariffs establishing the reconsigning and demurrage rules effective upon five days' notice.

ALGIERS RICH IN SUNDAYS

Holy Day Observed Three Times a Week by Followers of Different Religions.

Although no fewer than three Sundays are observed each week in Algiers, writes a correspondent, only one could in any sense be called a "day of rest." For while the prophet enjoined his followers to attend worship on Sunday, he warned them against allowing it to become a day of idleness. An Arab or Moor, therefore, will frequently leave his wares unattended in his shop while he goes off to the mosque to pray, and he seldom has occasion to regret this course, cases of robbery being extremely rare. The French Sunday is, typically French. The Jew alone makes his Sunday a day of rest, his religion forbidding anything save talking on that day. A walk through the Jewish quarter on the Sabbath will carry one's thoughts back many years. The picturesque groups at the street corners, in their rich, flowing robes, will recall many an Old Testament story learned in childhood, for the Jew in his oriental garb has a very different appearance from the Jew as we know him in the West.

A Valley Forge Kettle.

According to the Carthage Press, Charles Sanders, a resident of Carthage, has an iron kettle that has an interesting history. It was used to bake bread for Gen. George Washington and his army during the severe winter at Valley Forge. The kettle was given Mr. Sanders by his mother. It is the heavy iron type that was used for baking before the appearance of ovens and cook stoves. Mrs. William Satterfield used it when she was living at Valley Forge in 1778. It was later given her daughter, who used it until her death, at one hundred and ten years of age, when it was given to Mrs. J. F. Sanders, the mother of the present owner.—Kansas City Times.

Put to Good Use.

One day my husband invited a former school chum of his for dinner, writes a correspondent. He arrived about four o'clock, but my husband had not yet come home. Our little son Philip was playing around with our guest, who gave him a quarter. When it came time to prepare dinner I discovered that I did not have enough potatoes and the only money I had was a ten dollar bill. Fearing to send the little fellow to the store with it, I called him out and told him to go and get the potatoes with his quarter and when daddy came home I would give it back to him. Seated later at the dinner table the man playfully pinched Philip's cheek, and asked him what he did with his quarter, to which Philip responded, "Oh, mother took it to buy potatoes."

The Western Sea.

The Pacific, a calm, cold ocean not much fretted by traffic, adds its curious note of aloofness. It sends forth fog, but somehow they carry no hint of salt. And in days of sunshine when it sparkles sapphire blue it seems somehow to exclude no breath. You never "smell the sea" as by the Atlantic's verge, and though you well know that rotting seaweed gives forth that odor, you miss it on this western shore. The oceans you have known seem playful children, by turns gay and irritable, by comparison with this monstrous, lovely, inhuman sea.—Harrison Rhodes in Harper's Magazine.

Put Ear to Odd Uses.

Bourgeois men and women delight in ear ornaments. The lobe of the ear is bored with a hole of astonishing size, and in it various articles are worn—pieces of wood, jewels, or rolls of solid gold or silver. When no ornaments and in the ears, the men often put their cigars, or any other small article in frequent use, through them, and the women use the holes for bouquet holders.

Bullets Expelled by Heart.

An interesting fact related by Sir Charles Ballance in the Lancet, London, is that bullets that penetrated the heart were often expelled through the aorta with the blood and were found at remote parts of the body where they had stuck in an artery.

No, indeed, Luke, no woman can lace herself as tight as man can drink himself.
