BIG CROPS PROMISED FOR MICHIGAN THIS YEAR

From present prospects an excellent crop year for Michigan is in sight. While it is too early to predict a bumper yield for any crop, and no crop shows better than a 95 per cent condition, seldom has the general level of condition of all crops been as high. Only two crops of the 25 leading ones in the state show a condition below the ten-year average, and a number are from six to ten per cent better. Most of the fruits are from 15 to 30 per cent better. The two that are below normal are wheat and hay. Sixteen of the twenty-five crops show improvement over the previous month. Notwithstanding the decrease of about five per cent in the acreage of crops in the state this year, the present conditions and prices indicate a crop production that will exceed last year's in value by $35,000,000 to $40,000,000, or approximately nine per cent.

SEEKS INJUNCTION TO PREVENT CROP SALE

Ann Arbor Times News: A bill of complaints has been filed by Emma A. and Lewis L. Scripser naming Grant Kimmel as defendant in a suit to enjoin him from removing from the plaintiff's farm any of the crops or personal property thereon until he has been required to give an accounting.

According to the statement of the complainant, Kimmel took over a mortgage for the land when it was about to be foreclosed by a Chelsea bank, and was given a deed to the property by Emma Scripser, with the understanding that it was to be redeemed by her on payment of the amount of the mortgage with six per cent interest.

The complainant also alleges that there was an agreement that the plaintiffs and defendant were to share equally on all the crops on the land this year. It is alleged that the defendant has disposed of the oats crop, and requests that he be enjoined from disposing of any other crops.

JACKSON COUNTY FAIR GIVES PROMISE OF BIG THINGS

Only a few days more and the gates of the big Jackson County Fair will swing open and the people will attend in multitudes. Why? Because last year has taught them that there is profit and pleasure in abundance to pay them for their time and effort. Each year the fair has grown and added new features. This year will show more and greater development than any single year since the organization. Many thousands of dollars have been added to the premium awards and over $100,000 will be expended in new equipment. The new grand stand alone will entail an expense of $75,000 and will be the best in the state. Never before have they sold the great amount of exhibition space for educational and worth while exhibits.

Every building will be crowded to the doors and with bumper fruit and grain crops the buildings will be crowded to the limit in these departments.

Jackson County Fair is fast becoming one of the big influences in development in southern central Michigan and this year will pay exhibitors and attendants more profit than any year in the history of the fair.

LIGHT VOTE WAS CAST AT PRIMARY ELECTION

The vote cast in the primary election in Sylvan township Tuesday was small, only about 360 voters availing themselves of the opportunity of naming their favorite. Of this number sixteen were Democrats, and as there was only one candidate for each office on the Democratic ticket there was not much enthusiasm shown.

In the county Campbell for governor led the field.

M. A. C. EXPERTS GROWING NEW BRAND OF CLOVER

Annual white sweet clover, a new crop which was introduced to the state only two years ago, gives promise of developing into an invaluable annual leguminous hay, according to J. P. Cox, professor of farm crops at the Michigan Agricultural college.

That this clover may revolutionize crop rotations on lighter soils of western and northern Michigan is said to be possible. The largest acreage of the new crop in the United States, planted for increase purposes, has been grown on the experimental station farm at the Agricultural college this year.

Willard STORAGE BATTERY

Uniformity

Uniformity is the secret of success of any good product.

It's the reason Willard Batteries with Threaded Rubber Insulation are making such a wonderful record of long life without repairs.

Ordinary materials used for insulation between battery plates are taken just as they come from nature and can't be made uniform by any process.

But Threaded Rubber Insulation is built up by a scientific manufacture. Every piece of it is like every other and almost invariably Threaded Rubber lasts as long as battery plates.

No wonder many of these batteries have given three and four years of uninterupted good service.

USE MACHINES IN CUTTING CORN

The Proper Time for Cutting Corn in Order to Preserve its Full Feeding Value is So Short that the Saving of Time From the Use of Machinery for Harvesting Often Means More in the Farmer's Pocket Than Merely the Wages Saved.

Cutting corn with machinery does not reduce materially the cost of cutting. It does, however, enable the farmer to cut a given acreage much more quickly, and, in that way, often proves profitable. The proper time for cutting corn in order to preserve its full feeding value is so short and other work is usually so pressing that the saving of time often means more in the farmer's pocket than could any actual saving in wages and other cutting costs. This is the view taken of corn-harvesting machinery by the United States department of agriculture, as expressed in Farmers' Bulletin 992, "The Use of Machinery in Cutting Corn. The saving is greater in cutting corn for silage than for fodder, the bulletin continues. The two types of corn-harvesting machinery, the corn binder and the platform harvester, are discussed in detail. Under normal conditions, it is stated, the binder drawn by three horses will cut about seven acres in a ten-hour day. One man will be required to operate the machine and two to shock the corn. These three men working with corn knives would probably be able to cut about four acres in a ten-hour day. The binder, therefore, does nearly twice as much work as the three men could do without it.

In order to make the use of the binder worth while, the reduction in labor and the saving due to getting the work done at the proper time must more than pay for the use of the machine, the time, and the labor of the horses.

The saving is greater when cutting for silage, for several reasons. The binder saves the labor of at least two men in cutting. Often the saving in time due to having the stalks in bundles instead of loose will enable the operator further to reduce the size of the crew. If only a small amount of silage is to be put up, a binder would not be a paying operation unless there were a large quantity of other corn to cut. The co-operative use of both binder and cutter is discussed and is recommended where the only corn cut is that for silage. Co-operative ownership and use of the binder is said to be frequently advantageous for small farmers. The use of the corn elevator in connection with the binder is discussed and both the advantages and disadvantages pointed out.

Platform Harvester Cheaper. The platform harvester, while a cruder machine than the binder, is much less expensive to purchase, requires only one horse instead of three or four, and two men instead of three. Its day's work is about four or five acres. Generally, the equivalent of the labor of one man is saved every day the platform harvester is used. The work is harder with the platform harvester than with the binder. But the platform harvester can be used more profitably on small farms than can a binder and it can stand idle a greater part of the time or wear out sooner than a binder and still be a profitable investment. In cutting corn for silage, the platform harvester will not save as much labor as a binder.

Copies of the bulletin may be had free on application to the division of publications, United States department of agriculture, Washington.

Negligees Revel in Ribbons

HERE is a negligee that will appeal to gentlewomen, being made in graceful and modest fashion, of lace and ribbon—those twin, time-honored companions of beauty. The designer revels in such materials, and when she is turned loose to go as far as she likes, we have negligees and negligees; some of them daring, a few sensational, and some of them adorably simple and consistent, such as the amateur dressmaker may undertake with confidence and finish with satisfaction. Any of the wide, sheer lace flouncings and all-over lace patterns may be recommended for a negligee of this kind. They are lovely when lined with crepe or chiffon in a pale color, and with ribbon chosen to bear out, in another, that, perhaps, the color used. A negligee made of lace and unlined, may be worn over an underslip of thin silk. The model pictured has lines as straight and simple as those of a nightdress, develops a little fullness at the front and back and is drawn in at the waistline by ribbon that slips through slashes in the lace and lining. Pleated satin ribbon in two widths is used for decorating it; the little loops along its edges make it easy to adjust and stretch down to curves. It borders and trims the sleeves and finishes the neck in the wider width, utilizing the narrower for a girde and sash. If the creator of this negligee had gone no further with ribbons than to use them in bands and borders, the effort would have been pretty and creditable. But it is the addition of ribbon roses, set in a little foliage, at the bottom and in the sleeves that make the final captivating touch which only genius knows how to give. They finish up a gracious garment that it will prove a joy to own.

Party Frocks for the Younger Set

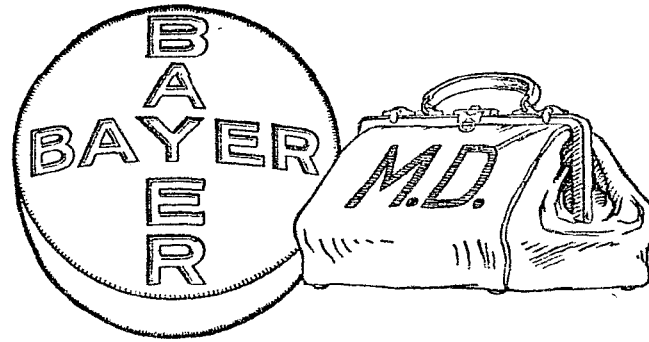

THE young girl who goes away to school likes to take at least one party frock with her, and to start with, that is quite enough. At this time, before the new designs have been presented to the public and passed upon—or passed up—it is not so easy to decide upon the styles that will prove desirable and develop into fashions. But the earliest showings include some pretty and conservative frocks that will hold their own with any that may follow them. One of those simple, graceful, inconspicuous frocks that never grow tiresome is shown above. It is made of pale rose batiste and has many frills of narrow lace running up the seams and about the skirt, which is rather full and hangs straight. The bodice is plain with a fichu collar edged with a frill of lace opening over a vestee made entirely of lace frills. The sleeves are long with frills at the wrist. The pride and glory of this frock is its ribbon sash, in pale blue, made of satin ribbon not very wide, but extravagantly long and having a full row of short loops. It is a practical affair going to extremes

SAW SOLDIERS OF FIVE WARS
John Pemberton Oak Has History Probably Unequaled by That of Any Other Tree.

Soldiers of five wars have been drilled beneath the John Pemberton oak tree, Bristol, Virginia-Tennessee, nominated for a place in the hall of fame of the American forestry association at Washington by Mrs. H. F. Lewis, secretary of Virginia for the Daughters of the American Revolution. Under this tree Col. John Pemberton mustered his troops for the battle of King's Mountain. A marker has been placed on the tree by the Sycamore Shoals chapter, in making the announcement. The soldiers of the War of 1812 met here. Then came the Mexican war and the old tree saw men again leave their homes to fight. Next came the struggle between the states, and the oak witnessed the drilling of men to fight one another in their own country. Then came the world war and again the veterans oak saw our boys answer their united country's call.

WHERE THEY WOULD BE LOST
Deaf Mutes Had the Advantage in the Noisy Subway, but How About the Darkness?
Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana and his secretary were returning from a late session of the senate one night by way of the merry-go-round motor that runs through the subway. This queer, though reputed to be luxurious, motor makes more noise than an airplane, and in the clutter and noise one usually sits with closed eyes until whizzed through to the other end. On this particular occasion, however, two deaf mutes, utterly unconscious of the din, sat conversing easily on the front seat. Senator Walsh watched their fingers fly, fascinated. Lending over to his secretary, he yelled in his good ear: "Mites, they've got it on us, after all, haven't they?" But in a few minutes he followed it up gleefully with: "Say, Mites, where'd they be in the dark, though?"

"Well, your honor," returned the prospective groom, "I can't exactly say we ran, but we walked pretty fast."

DECREASE INDICATED IN ANIMAL PRODUCTS

Losing Ground in Value of Exports Since 1893.

World War Brought Percentage Up Suddenly to 29.4, or Almost Double What It Had Been in Preceding Five Years.

Animal products have been losing ground in relative position in the value of the agricultural exports of this country since 1893. In that year they were 29.8 per cent of the value of all domestic agricultural exports, and, by 5-year averages, they were 25.4 per cent in 1894-1898, 27.2 per cent in 1899-1903, 24.8 per cent in 1904-1908, and 16.9 per cent in 1909-1913.

Then followed the world war. This brought the percentage for animal products up to 29.4, or suddenly to a fraction almost double what it had been in the preceding five years.

The percentages for crops and crop products being complementary to those for animal products, it follows that crops gained relatively when animal products lost, and lost when they gained. It is to be remembered that values are involved and not quantities.

Steady gain in relative position in the exports of this country has been made by animal products, and the war accentuated the gain. From 1894-1898 to 1914-1918, the fraction representing these products increased from 27.5 to 39.1 per cent.

Cowpeas are lovers of warm sunshine and can endure considerable drought under favorable circumstances. There are few crops equal to cowpeas for feed, for soil improvement and for human food. They may be planted late with a considerable assurance of a crop.

KEEPING FLIES FROM COWS

Mixtures Recommended by Dr. C. H. Eckles Applied Advantageously With Spray Pump.

The following two formulas of a reasonably priced "fly repellent" were recommended by Dr. C. H. Eckles when he was professor of the department of dairying of the Missouri university college of agriculture:

1. Fish oil 1 gallon, oil of pine tar 2 ounces, oil of pennyroyal 2 ounces, kerosene ½ pint.
2. Fish oil 1 quart, petroleum 1 quart, carbolic acid 1 ounce.

These mixtures, like the ready-mixed ones, are applied most advantageously with a hand spray pump. The spray is generally applied once a day, just before the evening milking.

KILLS PESKY BED BUGS P. D. Q.

A 3c box of P. D. Q. makes a full quart of the strongest bug killer on earth. The new chemical, P. D. Q.—Pesky Devil's Quinine—puts the pestiferous bed-bugs, roaches, ants and fleas. Pesky bed-bugs can't exist where P. D. Q. is used, as it leaves a coating on their eggs and prevents hatching. A box of P. D. Q. goes farther than a barrel of old-fashioned bug killer. P. D. Q. will not rot or stain clothing. Kills fleas on dogs. Four draughts kill or banish them. For you or your pet, get a sample of P. D. Q. from the Owl Chemical Works, Terre Haute, Indiana.

OLD PAL PETE:

This is a P. S. to the letter I wrote you on the buzzing Limited. Kid, for a fact, I'm hitting 13 on making up Camel advertisements. And I'll say it right here! Porter, give us the lights!

Just skimmed another swell Camel fact! Stop this: Guess I've smoked a million Camels! Pete, they never tired my taste yet!!!! And, old socks, put Camels to the test! Then you'll wise up that Camels leave no unpleasant cigarette after-taste nor unpleasant cigarette odor!

That's some smoke news, I'll say, when you been trying to fuss the "straight" brands! And, old shoe, you ought to know, they gave you a lacing!

What makes a dent on my disposition is that while Camels are the mildest cigarette and the mellowest cigarette any man can buy they've got all the "body" you ever heard tell of!

Why Pete, I got as many new selling ideas about Camels as there are hairs on a purr-kitty's tail!

Drop your old lamps down here,—how's that for blazing the joy Camels pass out!
