GEDDES LETS PIGEONS FLY TO CHELSEA HOME

Jackson News: Several pairs of homier flying pigeons will be turned loose from the grand stand Thursday afternoon, and spectators will have the opportunity of watching the beginning of their direct flight home to James Geddes, Chelsea. Several were loosed from the poultry pavilion Tuesday immediately after the judging closed, and their owner stated that they would be home in less time than he could put a telephone call through to his home. Some of these pigeons did military service in connection with airplane message carrying in France during the war. By letting them fly home the owner will be spared the express rates.

WASHTENAW FAIR WILL BE HELD NEXT WEEK

The revival of the county fair is certainly a most welcome step forward for Washtenaw. The management has been able to overcome what may readily be seen to be almost un-surmountable obstacles. While it is necessary to have all exhibits in temporary quarters, the arrangements are very satisfactory and need deter no one from exhibiting. The woman's fancy work and the school exhibits of the county will be housed in the fog cabin which provides ample space and perfect safety. Mrs. L. A. Seamans, superintendent of the needlework department reports great interest among the ladies of the county and expects a big display in these lines.

A number of farm organizations have entered for club exhibits. These are one of the best features of a fair and always interesting. The boys' and girls' club work is a big feature of fairdom and the Washtenaw exhibits should give good evidence of the high class work started in the county by Mr. Lyons before his death.

The fruit, grain, vegetable and honey departments all promise exhibits worthy of the great industries they represent and the farmers should recognize the great advertising value of a good show in these classes.

Early entries of live stock indicate that the new fair is hot after their neighbors' laurels for a good stock show. Every breed in the county will be represented by their best.

Last year's poultry show was equal to any in the state. This year promises to surpass that in many ways.

The County Farm Bureau will occupy a large tent with fine instructive exhibits of farm business methods.

The big celebration planned for children's day is the greatest event of the kind ever seen in the county. The entire fair program will be "topped off" with a fine program of big fee attractions.

Membership tickets, with three admissions, for $1.00, are on sale at the Standard office. This membership entitles the holder to a vote in the annual meeting.

SEVERAL BEAUTIFUL FALL WEDDINGS THE PAST WEEK

Brady-Hummel

Jackson Citizen Patriot: St. Mary's Catholic church was the scene of a beautiful autumn wedding Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock, when Miss Agnes Brady, daughter of George Brady, 122 Woodbridge street, was married to John Hummel, of Chelsea, Rev. Rochford officiating, using the double ring service.

Asters in tints of pink and white and other delicate hues were used upon the altars and about the church, lending a lovely decorative touch for the occasion.

Miss Brady wore a stunning suit of Nankin blue zeddyne, trimmed with beaver, while a hat of black panne velvet completed the costume, and her flowers were a corsage of tea roses in a dainty shade of pink. Miss Margaret Shanahan, of Detroit, the maid of honor, wore a suit of tan daveyette with a hat to match and a pink stole, while her corsage was composed of dark pink roses. Walter Hummel, of Chelsea, was best man, while the ushers were James McCarthy, of Chelsea, and Clarence Raftery.

After the church service, a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride, some forty guests being invited for the happy occasion. Clusters of gladioli, asters and cosmos, arranged in baskets, were used throughout the home, developing the color motif of pink and white which prevailed. Asters bestowed in a tall cut glass vase adorned the bride's table at which pretty name cards done in pink and white marked the places for twelve guests, a tiny bride and groom indicating the covers for the newly weds, while asters were also used upon the other tables.

Mr. and Mrs. Hummel left for a honeymoon trip to be spent in Buffalo and Niagara Falls, and upon their return they will be at home after November 1, at 600 McKinley street, Chelsea.

Among the guests from away were Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Hummel, parents of the bridegroom; Miss Mary Hummel, Miss Mabel Hummel, Walter Hummel, James McCarthy, Miss Margaret Burg and Raymond Steele, all of Chelsea; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brady and daughter, Miss Margaret Shanahan, Miss Gladys Shanahan, Miss Winifred Eder and Miss Marguerite Eder, all of Detroit, and Miss Rose Brady, of Leslie.

Kelly-McLaughlin

The marriage of Miss Mary Agatha Kelly, daughter of John Kelly, and Mr. John F. McLaughlin, of Detroit, took place Saturday morning, September 11, 1920, in St. Mary church, Rev. Henry VanDyke officiating. The couple were attended by Miss Tressa Kratzmiller and Mr. Ray Donaty of Detroit. Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's father to twelve guests. The bride is a graduate of the Chelsea high school and has been a successful teacher. For the past year she has been employed in the offices of the Solvay Process Co. in Detroit. Mr. and Mrs. McLaughlin left on a boat trip to Duluth and Mackinac Island, and upon their return will make their home in Detroit.

Steinbach-Schiller

A home wedding will take place at five o'clock this afternoon, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Steinbach of Lima, when their daughter, Eva May, will be united in marriage with Mr. Elmer Schiller, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Schiller of Chelsea. The double ring ceremony will be performed by Rev. O. R. Schleicher, of Manchester. Following the ceremony a wedding supper will be served. The colors will be pink and white. The couple will be attended by Miss Margaret Schiller and Mr. Edward Schiller, sister and brother of the bridegroom. The bride will be gowned in white georgette. The bridegroom served two years in the United States army, thirteen months of which time were spent overseas. After a short trip in the east Mr. and Mrs. Schiller will make their home in Chelsea.

The following will be the program: Opening song; roll call, health hints; recitation, Meryl Heselshwerdt; piano solo, Cora Feldkamp; recitation, Louise Pielencier; vocal solo, Evelyn Mayer; question, "Does it pay the average farmer better to keep pure bred stock than grades?"; Closing song.

The W. R. C. will give a scrub lunch at the home of Mrs. J. E. Weber, on Monday evening, September 20. Bring your family or friends.

Regular meeting Chelsea Bohemian Lodge, Friday evening, September 17. Program and scrub lunch in honor of sixty-ninth anniversary.

The Circlex of the M. E. church will meet at 8 o'clock Friday afternoon in the church, for a business session.

Special meeting of K. of P. Lodge, on Monday evening, September 20, followed by a peach supper.

REHEARSALS FOR "THE WISHING RING" ARE NOW ON

"The Wishing Ring" rehearsals started off lively yesterday at the town hall. The Eastern Star has met with great success in securing principals and the children are also responding with much enthusiasm.

Practically all of the characters represent story bookland creatures. "The Wishing Ring" is like the "Bluebird," in that the children and grownups enjoy it equally well. It has a well defined plot, and portrays a clever story, while its spectacular splendors appeal to all.

Miss Doyle, the director, is very well pleased with the talent secured. Two of the principal speaking parts, "Jean" and "Allen", are played by Helen Dancer and Doris Foster. The leading singing role, "Mistress Mary", will be sung by Mrs. Sidney Schenk; Mrs. L. W. Lamb is "Bo-Pee-ee", Paul Niehaus will play "Tom Tom", and the part of the "Knave of Hearts" is taken by Herbert Kuhl.

WALLACE WATT IS SECY. COUNTY COMMUNITY BOARD

At a special meeting of the Washtenaw County Community Board last Friday, Wallace Watt, of Ann Arbor, was made permanent secretary of the board to take the place of Roy E. Bassett, who for the past fourteen months has been organizing the work of community service in Washtenaw county.

The expense of organization during the past fourteen months has been borne by the state commission through Community Service (Incorporated) of New York, which was invited into Michigan to organize community service according to the state law which was passed by the 1919 legislature. Mr. Bassett has been employed by Community Service (Incorporated) and the entire expense up to date has been borne by that organization. Mr. Bassett, working in connection with the county board, has succeeded in getting the organization of community councils in the nine districts of the county fairly under way, and numerous activities have been conducted.

From now on the expenses of this board will be borne locally by funds from this county. Already some funds have been procured for this purpose.

Mr. Watt has for several years been deeply interested in social and community welfare work. There is no question that with Mr. Watt in charge of the work of community service in the county that great progress will be made.

DEATH OF ESTIMABLE LYNDON WOMAN SATURDAY

In the death of Mrs. M. D. Sullivan, which occurred at the family residence in the township of Lyndon, last Saturday evening, the township parts with one of its most estimable women.

Mrs. Sullivan was born in the township of Hamburg, Livingston county, May 31, 1860, where she grew to young womanhood, and lived until united in marriage to Michael D. Sullivan, of the township of Lyndon, June 22, 1887. This union was blessed by four children, all of whom survive to mourn the loss of a kind and devoted mother. The children are John, Edward, Harold and Miss Irene, all at home; she is also survived by two brothers, John Ryan of Howell and James Ryan of Hamburg; her husband departed this life September 1, 1918.

Mrs. Sullivan was of a quiet, retiring disposition, and the example she set in the home as a mother, and a good neighbor was attested at the funeral, held from St. Mary church, Tuesday morning, officiated by her pastor, Rev. Father Van Dyke, by the magnificent floral offerings, by relatives and friends in attendance, as their last tribute of respect for her exemplary life. Interment at Mt. Olivet cemetery.

BOYS AND GIRLS LIVE STOCK JUDGING CONTEST

A live stock judging contest to be carried on under the supervision of Prof. Walpole of the Ypsilanti high school at the Washtenaw county fair, will afford an opportunity for boys and girls that none can afford to miss. Parents and rural teachers should see to it that Prof. Walpole has a large class in this contest.

Boys and girls should learn with surprising readiness to distinguish the desirable from the undesirable points in an animal, and having once learned how to select the best they will never be satisfied to own anything else.

Realizing this fact the Washtenaw County Farm Bureau, County Breeders' Association, bankers and others, who have been carrying out a program for the promotion of the live-stock club project, and in line with this program are putting on this judging contest.

Prizes will be given as follows: First—$10 for trip to International Livestock Exposition; second—$5 toward defraying expenses of the same trip; third and fourth—Ribbons.

Michigan News Tersely Told

Standish—Haul lost, a Mt. Forest township farmer, is under arrest here on charges of failing to support his wife and jumping his bail bond. Pontiac—Frank M. Lansing, cashier of the Milford State bank, secretary of the Milford Board of Commerce, and active worker in Boy Scout circles, is dead. Albion—Mrs. Eleanor T. Avann, retired last June by Albion College as assistant professor of Greek, has gone to Maxton, S. C., to accept a similar position. Eaton Rapids—Miss Dorothy Manning, a nurse in training at the Harriet Chapman hospital, caught her foot in the hospital elevator and it was crushed severely. Bay City—Thieves backed an automobile up to the barber shop of Lawrence Prior in Munster, loaded up everything in the shop that was not nailed down and drove away. Adrian—Charles Scherhorn, of Hudson, was probably fatally injured when the hay fork he was using broke and he fell to the floor, striking on his head and shoulders. Battle Creek—Mrs. Arvilla Golt, 71 years old, was sentenced to 20 days in jail by Justice Carl Gray for violating a diphtheria quarantine. She could not pay a fine of $10 and costs. Grand Rapids—One hundred linemen, repairmen and installers, employed by the Citizens Telephone Co., went on a strike when the company refused a wage increase of 15 per cent. Hancock—Fifty gallons of whisky, 600 gallons of mash, much raisins, currants and other dried fruits and a well equipped still were seized in a raid on the basement of a pop factory here. Ferris—The village commission has appointed 10 auxiliary patrolmen, who will protect the village on special occasions subject to call at any time. They will be paid only for the time they serve. Battle Creek—Police were practically without a clue to aid them in capturing a burglar who held up and robbed Mrs. C. E. Foster in her home. The Fosters are minus $2,500 worth of jewelry and cash. Adrian—Many holdups in the resort region in the northern part of the county and on roads entering Adrian, induced a number of applicants for leave to carry weapons. No permits were granted. Grand Rapids—Hirth Krause Co., shoe and leather goods, increased its capitalization from $490,000 to $1,000,000 and purchased the Christian-Glove factory at Greenville, which will be operated on a larger scale. Adrian—Included in the August building permits of $227,500 was one granted St. Joseph academy for a five-story building to cost $275,000. The building will accommodate classes for the college course recently added. Pontiac—Following a quarrel with a workman engaged in the D. U. R. extension here, William Doan, superintendent of construction was stabbed and seriously injured by Chris Faulkner, colored, according to police reports. Faulkner was arrested. Pontiac—When a piece of meat lodged in the throat of John Kennedy, 60 years old, a patient at the Pontiac State Hospital, he choked to death in a few minutes. Kennedy had been a patient five years. His body was taken to Brown City for burial. Marshall—Proposition to float $250,000 bonds and to vote thereon April 4, 1921, for a tuberculosis hospital on the Thurlow farm, seven miles west of Marshall, will be presented to the supervisors of Calhoun county in annual session here Oct. 11 by Calhoun County Tuberculosis society. Saginaw—The second annual convention of the Michigan Department of the American Legion closed with the unanimous election of Lieut.-Col. Guy M. Wilson, D. S. C., of Flint, as state commander. Withdrawal of all opposition before the election averted the expected contest on the floor. Houghton—Copper country sportsmen are urging a law to close the season on deer and partridge every other year. As far as can be learned this proposal has never been put before the state game and fish commissioner, but discussion has revealed a marked trend of opinion in favor of such action. Flint—Alexander Johnston, 54, is being held here on a charge of murder following the fatal shooting of his son-in-law, Oscar Woods, during a family quarrel. Police say Johnston has admitted the shooting. Johnston served a term in Iowa for shooting his first wife and last winter, after marrying his present wife, was sent to the Detroit house of correction for beating her. Flint—Edward Henne, William Boland and Charles Gilbert, veteran mail carriers at the Flint postoffice, who recently were retired on pensions, have each been presented with a share of General Motor stock by W. C. Durant, president of General Motors corporation. In personal letters to the men, Mr. Durant expressed pleasure at their retirement on half pay after years of faithful service, and said he was sending the stock "to compensate for the extra burdens thrust upon you by reason of the activities of the old town."

Marquette—Miss Viola Oster, 17, while motoring with her father, Thomas Oster, fell suddenly ill and died in the hospital here. Kalamazoo—Body of Charles Merrill, a street railway laborer, was found at the end of the Michigan Central railroad bridge over Kalamazoo river. Detroit—Thirty-seven million dollars' worth of bonds were voted at the election here. The money will be expended for sewers, water mains and a filtration plant. Holland—Two army aviators flying from Detroit to Chicago, escaped injury when they attempted to make landing near Graafschap and their plane was wrecked. Fottersville—The body of Miss Clara Mohr, 16 years old, who was drowned in a small lake near Grand Rapids when she fell from a raft, was brought here for burial. Big Rapids—Knights Templar of Grand Rapids, Traverse City, Ludington, Manistee, Muskegon, Lansing and Big Rapids will participate in a field day here in October. Grand Rapids—Democratic vote at the primaries in Kent county was so light that two of the candidates will fail to have their names on the ballots at the November elections. L'Anse—Patrick Brennan, 76, is dead. He was the father of Patrick Brennan, prosecuting attorney of Baraga county and of Leo Brennan, of Lansing, assistant attorney general. Kalamazoo—Mistaking gasoline for kerosene Mrs. Odella Jackson started to fill a lamp with it and the explosion that followed caused the burning of her home and injuries from which she may die. Marquette—State Senator Vandenberg, appointed by Gov. Sleeper to represent Michigan at the annual convention of the National Tax association in Salt Lake City, left here for the meeting. Bay City—Two armed men entered the drug store of George Genkel here, held up Genkel and one other, and stole $85 from the till and escaped in an automobile held waiting for them by a third bandit. Muskegon—A cloud burst which struck this city filled the streets downtown with water from curb to curb and caused much damage in the basements of stores. Late crops in this region were heavily damaged. Eaton Rapids—Local photographers say that the new city water is much better than the old city water for developing films, for the rust spots that came from the use of the city mineral water are done away with. Battle Creek—Because John Mareno a Chicago Italian, picked up three girls, all under 18, at Flint to take them to their homes and instead brought them to Battle Creek in his automobile, he was fined $50 or 60 days. Grand Rapids—City Manager Fred H. Louko began a wholesale shake-up of election boards as a result of the primary, when it took some boards 20 hours to count 500 ballots. His plans include a training school for election officials. Ann Arbor—In a temporary fit of insanity, Mrs. Charles Kleis, 50 years old, a widow, drowned herself by jumping into a cistern in the rear of her home. Her body was found several hours later by neighbors who noticed her disappearance. Mt. Clemens—George Dekle, 27 years old, giving his address as Detroit, was captured by a posse after an alleged attempted assault on Mrs. Elizabeth Dion, at Halfway. He pleaded guilty and was remanded to jail on $1,000 bail to await sentence. Caro—Shorick Morris, Deputies Hutchinson and Westfall raided the residence of Mrs. Jacob Maunoe here on information that she was running a blind pig. They found an intoxicated Indian and confiscated a gallon of home-made booze. Mrs. Maunoe is the widow of a Civil War veteran. Pontiac—A new action against the increased rates of fare on lines of the Detroit United railway in Oakland county has been opened in circuit court by Prosecutor Glenn C. Gillespie. He has asked of Judge Rockwell a temporary injunction restraining the road from charging increased fares. Bay City—Hundreds of bushels of apples and pears are going to waste in Bay county because labor can not be employed to harvest them, according to farmers. James E. Snody, president of the North Eastern Michigan Development Bureau says, after investigating, there is not an idle farm in the district. Lansing—The city council of Lansing has started an investigation into the charge that several aldermen are involved in taking money without authorization from the city treasury. It is alleged that the aldermen, who were supposed to sell food to Lansing residents last summer retained part of the money to care for personal "expenses."

TECHNICAL MEN HOLD OUT

Lithuanians Open Hostilities Against the Poles—British Won't Release Irish Hunger Strikers—Destructive Earthquake in Italy—Developments in Politics.

By EDWARD J. PICKARD.

Soviet rule in the industrial region of northern Italy came rather suddenly, but it was not unexpected by those who were watching developments there. The experiment of the workers is of great interest, but the indications are that it will be a failure. Employers in the big metallurgical works of that part of the country undertook to head off a threatened general strike for increased wages by putting a lockout into effect. The immediate result was the seizure of the plants by the workers, who put them under the management of the soviets, and are trying to operate them on communist principles. The owners did not resist, but the technical and administrative staffs unanimously refused to join in with the others, and consequently the latter are having a hard time in making good. They have no one capable of directing their efforts, and thousands of them are drifting away and refusing to work at all. In the plants that are running the waste is said to be appalling.

advantage of this complication and renewed their attacks on the Poles, but with small success, or utter failure. General Budny, who is reported, was gathering large forces in the Priepet marshes with which he intended to move against either Lemberg or Lublin.

Predictions that the Germans would be unwilling or unable to disarm and properly intern the many thousands of Russians who were forced across the East Prussian border have been fulfilled. Several times lately large bodies of these resists have recrossed the frontier and attacked Polish positions. They were captured or repulsed, but Poland naturally is peeved. She has sent notes to the allied powers, demanding that Germany be compelled to follow the rules of warfare and keep these bolshevik forces in restraint. The Poles allege that the entire Third bolshevik cavalry corps in East Prussia has been neither disarmed nor interned and their horses have not been taken away from them. They say these troops are in a position to charge across the frontier whenever they wish. The Germans reply that they have insufficient rehelms; wehr troops to guard so many resists.

The Independent Socialists of Germany have turned against the Lenin regime in Russia, and in conference at Berlin they declared against union with Moscow. Prof. Karl Ballod, one of their wisest leaders, who has been in Russia for several months, told them the Russian soviet chiefs have failed to show that they can establish socialism in their country and have proved themselves wholly incapable of effecting an economic restoration of Russia. He pictured the food, transportation and industrial conditions there as deplorable. The Germans were highly displeased with the anti-socialist policies adopted by Lenin and Trotsky.

Reports from southern Russia during the week were contradictory. One day there would be a story of the defeat of Baron Wrangel's forces, and the next day dispatches telling of victories over the reds. At this time the latest report is that Wrangel's troops had surrounded the bolsheviks at Kachovka and that a fierce battle was in progress with the bridge over the Dnieper river as the immediate prize. The town is of great strategic value. The Poles are using most of their reserves in combating Wrangel. The Polish general staff has declined to undertake a joint offensive against the reds in combination with Wrangel, pointing out that peace negotiations at Riga are imminent and that the allied attitude prevents the renewing of the campaign unless the soviet government refuses equitable terms.

At this writing Terence MacSwiney, lord mayor of Cork, was still alive, but very weak, and there was no prospect of his relief save by death. This may be delayed a considerable time as he is feeble during his periods of unconsciousness. Sir Hannar Greenwood, chief secretary for Ireland, on returning from a visit with Lloyd George in Switzerland, announced: "The decision of the government is final and irrevocable. Neither the lord mayor of Cork nor any other Irish hunger striker will be released. It would be a monstrous thing if any prisoner, political or otherwise, could secure his release at will by refusing food."

The British government has made it clear that the Irish need expect little leniency as long as they continue their campaign of assassination against the constabulary and military in Ireland. It was reported from Rome that the pope had interceded in behalf of MacSwiney, and the mayors of a number of American cities sent cablegrams asking his release. Dispatches from London said Archbishop Mannix of Australia might be permitted to go to Ireland within a few days, having convinced the authorities that he is opposed to extremist measures and seeks to act as peacemaker.

Earthquake shocks in northern Italy killed several thousand persons, made many more thousands homeless and did tremendous damage to property. The regions affected lies between Florence, Milan and the Adriatic coast. Numerous towns and villages were wholly or partly destroyed and chil-

STATE TO FIGHT FOR RATE RIGHT

MICHIGAN UTILITIES BOARD WILL BATTLE U. S. INTERFERENCE "TO A FINISH."

COMMITTEE TO GATHER DATA

Concerted Effort To Save State Authority in Intrastate Commerce Control.

Lansing—It was the unanimous resolve expressed by state representatives at the national conferences held in Chicago that the states continue to assert jurisdiction over intrastate rates and other regulations of such transportation, and fight to a finish this question of state rights which has been created by the federal transportation and intrastate commerce acts passed by congress last February.

This report was given out here by Commissioner Earl R. Stewart of the Michigan Public Utilities commission, who with Chairman William M. Smith, Commissioner S. T. Handy and Assistant Attorney General S. T. Masters attended the Chicago meeting.

In order to carry out this policy of the states, a clearance committee of five members, made up of many commissioners from different states, was appointed to gather all the data and legal briefs prepared by attorney generals in cases arising in the several states and have this material furnished to all other states interested in a concerted effort to save state authority in the matter of intrastate commerce control.

Michigan is the second of the 48 states to take the initiative in this fight against delegation of further power in regulation of commerce to the federal government and its interstate commerce commission.

The public utilities commission by its notice to railroad companies that after September 1, last, they would be subject to the penalties provided by law if they failed to follow the 1919 Michigan law fixing the passenger fares for most companies at two and a half cents, compelled the companies to file injunction suits in the district federal court at Detroit and try out the power of the state on the issues there involved.

TUBERCULOSIS HUNT STARTED

All Physicians of State Asked to Report War Victims.

Lansing—A search for all cases of tuberculosis among Michigan's former soldiers and sailors is now being made by the 4,500 physicians within the state.

At the direction of Dr. R. M. Olin, commissioner of the Michigan Department of Health, letters were mailed to every physician in the state asking that each report to the department any case where a former service man is known to be suffering from tuberculosis, organic disease, or mental derangement.

The present combing of Michigan for known or suspected sufferers is one of the many steps planned by the department, in an effort to control the disease, since taking over the clinics of the Michigan Anti-Tuberculosis Association, July 1.

Two months ago there were 1,147 of the state's 142,297 former soldiers and sailors known to be suffering from tuberculosis.

RECOVER 12 STOLEN AUTOS

Alleged Theft Syndicate Is Unearthed in Rochester, N. Y.

Rochester, N. Y.—Through the recovery here of 12 high-priced automobiles, all of the same make and nearly all 1920 models, and clues to as many more alleged to have been stolen in Detroit, Toledo and Cleveland, the police believe they have unearthed an extensive syndicate by which stolen cars were brought here through devious channels and disposed of at bargain prices.

Eleven of the cars were taken from their new owners, notwithstanding their protests that they bought them in good faith from second hand dealers here. Motor and factory numbers had been mutilated in a majority of cases, but failure to alter a secret number attached to the engine supplied the clue to their recovery.

TO ADOPT RELIEF MEASURES

Americans in China Organizing Relief For Famine Sufferers.

Pekin—Americans have taken the lead in organizing relief measures for famine sufferers in the Chi-Li, Ho-Nan and Shan-Tung Provinces of China, where, it is estimated, less than 20 per cent crops will be harvested this year.

Provincial authorities in Ho-Nan have raised $100,000 to finance pawn shops for the benefit of the needy as a step toward immediate relief. Charles R. Crane, American minister here, has cabled the circumstances to Washington, requesting assistance from the American Red Cross.

Watch Your Kidneys!

That "bad back" is probably due to weak kidneys. It shows in a dull, throbbing backache, or sharp twinges when stooping. You have headaches, too, dizzy spells, a tired nervous feeling and irregular kidney action. Don't neglect it—there is danger of dropsy, gravel or Bright's disease! Use Doan's Kidney Pills. Thousands have saved themselves more serious ailments by the timely use of Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

A Michigan Case

Mrs. John Coteau, 24 W. A. St., Iron Mountain, Mich., says: "Every time I would go any sleeping I was so tired with pain in my back. After a hard day's work my back was aching and sore. I always felt tired, weak and a little down. I was dizzy and my kidneys acted irregularly. I bought a box of Doan's Kidney Pills and they cured me."

BULGARIAN BLOOD TEA

Those who suffer with stomach, liver, kidney, rheumatism or blood troubles will find Bulgarian Blood Tea the best medicine to relieve and correct these ailments. It is wonderful how quick you will begin to pick up and be your old-time self again. During the 1918-19-20 influenza epidemic Bulgarian Blood Tea was used by countless thousands of sufferers with marvelous success and millions of people took it stemming hot to prevent and ward off the disease.

As a general first aid family medicine it has no equal and every person should have a box constantly on hand for any emergency—to kill colds, allay fevers and guard against influenza, pneumonia or other serious sickness. And all mothers and fathers of families should apply at once to their druggist or grocer for a trial box of Bulgarian Blood Tea.

EATONIC Users Do This—Get the Greatest Benefits

Chicago, Ill.—Thousands of reports from people all over the U. S. who have tested eatonic, show the greatest benefits are obtained by using it a few weeks, taking one or two tablets after each meal.

Eatonic users know that it stops Belching, Bloating, Heartburn, and Stomach Miseries quickly, but the really lasting benefits are obtained by using eatonic long enough to take the harmful excess acids and gases entirely out of the system. This requires a little time, for eatonic takes up the excess acidity and poisons and carries them out of the body and of course, when it is all removed, the sufferer gets well, feels fine—full of life and pep.

If you have been taking an eatonic now and then, be sure and take it regularly for a time and obtain all of these wonderful benefits. Please speak to your druggist about this, so that he can tell others that need this help. Adv.

Fordson TRADE MARK Farm Tractor

The Fordson cuts the cost of preparing land almost to half of what it cost with horses. But even more important is the fact that the Fordson saves from thirty to fifty per cent of the farmer's time. And time saved—getting fields in shape to plant in the proper season; getting things done when they should be done—means money to the farmer. Besides it helps greatly in solving the labor problem.

As ever, the machine way is proving more efficient, faster, easier than the old hand way. In the factory, the machine increases production, saves labor—produces more at less cost. And that is what the Fordson does on the farm. The Fordson way is the machine way of farming. Besides it helps the labor problem.

The Fordson's first cost is low; and the after operating cost low. It is a compact, easily handled tractor, backed by the greatest tractor service organization in the world.

We are Fordson dealers. Not only do we sell Fordson tractors, but we carry a stock of Fordson parts and employ Fordson mechanics to help the farmers get the best results from the Fordson. Let us demonstrate the Fordson on your farm.

Jackson—One of the longest fought contested will cases in the history of Jackson county was settled Thursday in Probate court, where an order was entered allowing the final account in the estate of Jesse Hewitt. The contest of the will started in 1912 and went through probate court, circuit court and up to the supreme court. The will was finally knocked out. The estate was estimated originally at $6,000 and twelve heirs, four of them in Ireland, had a claim.—Jackson News.

NEARING CULEBRA CUT.

One of Uncle Sam's battle-wagons going through the Panama Canal. This view was taken near Culebra Cut from a Navy seaplane.

The little tug hardly looks large enough to chumper on a battleship, does it? But then the tug is a part of the U. S. Navy too.

Size isn't always the most important thing. The men of the Navy have learned that brains amount to a great deal more.

Now that Secretary Meredith has suggested that business men and college students help out on the farms during their vacation, maybe somebody will suggest that the railroad "vacationists," the dock "vacationists" and other similar "vacationists" could do something pro bono publico.

Even the merchants will tell you not to buy it unless you need it. So you will help even the merchants by not burning your money. The representative merchants are as anxious to get back to normal ground as you are.

An economist advises girls to marry mechanics, not because they are handy men around the house, but because they are earning money enough to hire handy men, and women, too, if they can be found.

It is a waste of time for people to growl about taxes. That war debt of thirty billions will have to be paid or repudiated, and it isn't going to be repudiated. The better plan is to smile and pay, pay, pay.

Some of these days, women may decide to standardize their millinery in a neat and universal style and save enough money in ten years to pay the war debts of the world.

Of course it would be a fine thing for the future of the country if the motto, "Produce more and waste less," could be made as popular as the movies.

Great Britain professes to be alarmed over price-cutting in America. However, it should not take our pricing wailing too seriously.

OH, YOU PETE:

Remember Ratty Waters who tied the dishpan under Prof. Bunn's car at Princeton? He's more seriously inclined now—sells high grade bonds! Ran smack into Ratty as he was hustling for his a. m. fodder with a Camel cigarette perched between his lips and looking as happy as a turtle on a log! It's a pretty art—this opening up the morning with a Camel!

Well sir, Pete, what Ratty rattled into my rafters would supply Camel selling stuff for a year! "There's nothing to this cigarette game but Camels," said Ratty. "Their mellowness is a revelation and I never did run into such mildness in my life! And, when you figure that Camels have ALL the "body" any smoker wants—well, I just marvel that such a cigarette could be made! Ever get such refreshing flavor?"

For instance, Ratty spread this:—"Shorty, I can't stand the usual unpleasant cigarette aftertaste and unpleasant cigarette odor! Camels are free from both! (100 per cent. O. K., Pete!) And, they never tire my taste! When you pass by Camels you have slipped by your smoke signals!

Tried to get Ratty to put some of that sales talk on paper, but he came back:—"You tell 'em, old kettle—you've got the spout!

Pete, Camels won Ratty's favor like they've won thousands of others! They'll win any man who gives them a chance!

WEBSTER—MAN'S MAN

By PETER B. KYNE

Author of "Cappy Ricks," "The Valley of the Giants," Etc.

Copyright by Peter B. Kyne

"I'LL SEND HER BACK TO THE UNITED STATES."

John Stuart Webster, mining engineer, man's man, thirty-nine years young, leans a lean in heart, Valley, California, on his way back to civilization after clearing up Mexico. But he looks like a hobo. Then he meets a distressed lady, who makes his heart flip over for the first time in all his days. He eliminates the offending man after the style of the man's man the world over. Being what he is and also a bit of a cad, he does not take advantage of his opportunity, but he just has to find out who the no-longer-distressed lady is, being determined to hatch up a scheme to meet her again—and marry her. She is Dolores Rucy. Clad in purple and blue tulle, John goes to the "Knickerbocker" club in Denver, the nearest approach to a home he has known in twenty years. There he is offered a $2000-a-year job, with the certainty of a fortune, by a capitalist friend, Edward P. Jerome. While he is hesitating, being loath to go to work again so soon, he receives a delayed letter from his own particular pal, Billy Geary, asking him to finance a gold-mining proposition in Central America and go fifty-fifty with him on the profits. Thereupon he turns down the big job and dashes to answer the call of friendship and adventure to Sobranite. Jerome goes with John to the depot, trying to get him to change his mind. They meet the distressed lady on her way to the same train. John lifts his hat, but gets the cut direct from the girl, who does not recognize him. John tells Jerome the whole story. Jerome secretly sees the girl and later writes her, offering her $5000 if she induces John to take his job inside of 30 days. The girl writes accepting. The ocean now shifts to Buenaventura, Sobranite, where Geary, on his uppers, is eating his heart out looking for a cablegram from his old partner.

For two months he had existed entirely because of the leniency of Mother Jenks in the matter of credit. He could not pay her cash, devoutly as he hoped to do some day, and he considered it of the most vital importance that in the interim he should somehow survive. Therefore, in lieu of cash he paid her compliments, which she snatched up greedily.

An inventive genius was Billy. He never employed the same defensive tactics two days in succession, and when personal flattery threatened to fall him, a large crayon reproduction of the late Henry Jenks, which hung over the bar, was a never-failing source of inspiration.

This was the "sainted Emery" previously referred to by Mother Jenks. He had been a sergeant in Her Britannic Majesty's Royal Horse Artillery, and upon retiring to the reserve had harkened to a proposition to emigrate to Sobranite and accept a commission as colonel of artillery with the government forces then in the throes of a revolutionary attack. The rebels had triumphed, and as a result Emery had been saluted via the customary expeditious route; whereupon his wife had had recourse to her early profession of barmaid, and El Buen Amigo had resulted.

However, let us return to our sheeps, as Mr. Geary would have expressed it. Seemingly the effect of Billy's compliment was instantly evident, for Mother Jenks set out two glasses and a bottle.

"I know yer a trifter, Willy Geary," she imperked, "but if I do s'y it as shouldn't, I was accounted as 'and some a barmaid as you'd find in Bristol town. I've lost my good looks, what with grief an' worryin' since losin' my sainted Emery, but I was 'and some oneed."

"I can well believe it, Mother—since you are handsome still! For my part," he continued confidentially, as with shaking hand he filled his brandy-glass, "you'll excuse this drunkard's drink, Mother, but I need it; I had the shakes again last night—for my part, I prefer the full-blown ruse to the bud."

Mother Jenks fluttered like a debutante as she poured her drink. They touched glasses, calloused worldlings that they were.

He tossed off his drink. It warmed and strengthened him, after his night of chills and fever, and bravely he returned to the attack.

"Chancing the subject from feminine grace and charm to manly strength and virtue, I've been marking lately the resolute pulse of your martyred husband's head on his fine military shoulders. There was a man, if I may judge from his photograph, that would fight a wildcat."

"Oh, mybe 'e wouldn't!" Mother Jenks hastened to declare. "You know, Willie, I was present when they shot 'im, a-wat'n to claim 'is body. 'E kisses me good-bye, an' s'ys 'e: 'Brace up, o' girl. Remember your husband's been a sergeant in 'Er Majesty's Royal 'Oree Artillery, an' don't let the bloody blighters see yer cry.' Then 'e walks out front, with 'is fine straight back to the wall, draws a circle on 'is blue tunic with white chalk an' s'ys: 'Shoot at that, yer yellow-bellied bounders, an' 'e—d to yer!'"

"To be the widow of such a gallant son of Mars?" Billy declared, "is a greater honor than being the wife of a duke. Ah, Mother," he added with a note of genuine gratitude and sincerity, "you've been awfully good to me. I don't know what I'd have done without you." He laid his hand on her fat arm. "Mother, one of these days I'll get mine, and when I do I'm going to stake you to a nice little pub back in Bristol."

She smiled at him with motherly tenderness and shook her head. In a contrite plea in the mortuary of the Cathedral de la Vera Cruz the bones of her sainted Emery reposed, and when her hour came she would lie beside him.

"Yer a sweet boy, Willie," she told him, "an' I'd trust yer for double the same 'elp me. 'Ering knows I 'ave'n't much, but wot I 'ave I shares 'e-wit' them 'Ebes."

Mother Jenks received him into the new state of the emerald, where ordinarly she was wont to breakfast in solitary state. Her table was set for two this morning, however. Billy slipped an adventurous cockroach off the table and fell to with fine appetite.

He was dallying with a special brew of coffee, with condensed milk in it, when the Jamaican negro entered from the cantina to announce Don Juan Cacerero with a cablegram.

"A cablegram!" Mother Jenks cried. "Gord's truth! I'll wager the pub 'it's for you, Willie, Bob"—turning to the negro, and addressing him in her own private brand of Spanish—"give Don Juan a drink. If 'e usn't 'elped 'imself while yer back is turned, an' bring the cablegram 'ere."

Within the minute Bob returned with a long yellow envelope, which he handed Mother Jenks. Without so much as a glance at the superscription, she handed it to Billy Geary, who tore it open and read:

"Los Angeles, Cal., U. S. A., August 16, 1913.

"Henrietta Wilkins, Calle de Concordia, No. 19, Buenaventura, Sobranite, C. A.

"Leaving today to visit you. Will cable from New Orleans exact date arrival.

DOLORES."

The shadow of deep disappointment settled over Billy's face as he read. Mother Jenks noted it instantly.

"'Wot's 'e got to s'y, Willie?" she demanded.

"It isn't a he. It's a she," Billy replied. "Besides, the cablegram isn't for me at all. It's for one Henrietta Wilkins, Calle de Concordia, No. 19, and who the devil Henrietta Wilkins may be is a mystery to me. Ever have any boarder by that name, Mother?"

Mother Jenks' red face had gone white. "Henrietta Wilkins was my maiden name, Willie," she confessed soberly, "an' there's only one human being as 'ud cable me or write me by that name. Gord, Willie, wot's 'appened?"

Billy read the message aloud, and when he had finished, to his amazement, Mother Jenks laid her head on the table and began to weep.

CHAPTER V.

Without quite realizing why he did so, Billy decided that fear and not grief was at the bottom of the good creature's distress, and in his awkward, masculine way he placed his arm around Mother Jenks' shoulders, shook her gently, and bade her remember that chook might come and go again, but he, said William Geary, would remain her true and steadfast friend in any and all emergencies that might occur.

"Gor bless yer heart, Willie," Mother Jenks sniffled. "I dunno wot in 'ell yer ever got to think of me w'en I tell wot I've been up to this past fifteen year."

"Whatever you've been up to, Mother, it was a kind and charitable deed—of that much I am certain," Billy replied loftily and—to his own surprise—sincerely.

"As Gord is my judge, Willie, it started out that w'y," moaned Mother Jenks, and she squeezed Billy's hand as if from that yellow, shaking member she would draw aid and comfort.

"Er name is Dolores Rucy," Er father was Don Ricardo Rucy, president of this blasted 'ell on earth w'en me an' my sainted Emery first come to Buenaventura. 'E was too good for the yellow-bellied beggars; 'e tried to do something for them an' run the government on the square, an' they couldn't hunderstand, all along o' 'avin' been kicked an' 'uffed by a long line of bloody rotters. It was Don Ricardo as gives my sainted Emery 'is commission as colonel in the artillery."

"You've 'eard me tell," Mother Jenks continued, "ow the rebels got 'arf a dozen American gunners—deserters from the navy—an' blew Emery's battery to bits; ow the government forces fell back upon Buenaventura, an' as 'ow w'en the dorgs began to wonder if they mightn't lose, they quit by the 'undreds an' went over to the rebel side, leavin' Don Ricardo an' Emery an' mybe fifty o' the gentry in the palace. In course they fought to a finish; 'is rotters, all of them, they 'ad to die fightin' or facin' a rifle round."

Billy nodded. He had heard the tale before, including the recital of the sainted Emery's gallant dash from the blazing palace in an effort to save Don Ricardo's only child, a girl of seven, and of his capture and subsequent execution.

"That ended the revolution," Mother Jenks continued. "But 'ere's something I've never told a livin' soul. Shortly before Emery was hexcuted, 'e told me where 'e'd 'id the youngster—in a culvert out on the Malcoon; so I 'ired a four-wheeler an' went out an' rescued the pore lamb. I 'id 'er until the arrival o' the next fruit steamer, when I shipped 'er to New Orleans in care o' the stewardess. 'I 'ad 'er put in the Catholic convent there, for as Emery s'aid: 'Henrietta, keep an eye on the little nipper, an' do yer damndest to see she's raised a lily. 'Er father was a gentleman, an' you never want to forget 'e made you Mrs. Colonel Jenks.' So 'I've made a lily out o' her, Willie; education, pianer lessons, paintin', singin', an' deportment. After she graduated from the convent, I 'ad her take a course in the University o' California—New Orleans wasn't 'ealthy for 'er, an' she needed a chynge o' climate—an' for the last two years she's been teachin' in the 'igh school in Los Angeles."

"And you haven't seen her in all those years?" Geary demanded.

"Not a look, Willie. She's been after me ever since she graduated from the convent to let her come 'ome an' visit me, but 'I've told 'er to wye—that I'd be comin' soon to visit her. An' now, s'help me, she won't wait no longer; she's comin' to visit me! Gord, Willie, she's on her w'y."

"So this cablegram would indicate," Geary observed, "Nevertheless, Mother, I'm at a loss to know why you should feel so cut up over the impending visit."

There was real fear in Mother Jenks' tear-dimmed eyes. "I can't let 'er see me," she wailed. "I wasn't this w'y w'en my sainted Emery entrusted the lamb to me; it wasn't until awfter they hexcuted Emery that I commenced to slip—an' now look at me. Look at me, Willie Geary; look at me, I s'y. Wot do yer see? Aw, don't tell me I'm young an' 'andsome, for I know wot I am. I'm a frowsy, drunken, disreputable baggage, with no education or nothink. All along, however since she learned to write me a letter, I've been Henrietta Wilkins to 'er, an' Mother Jenks to every beach-combin' beggar in the Caribbean tropics. I've lied to 'er, Willie. I've wrote 'er as 'ow 'er fawther, before 'e died, g'ive me enough money to heducate 'er like a lady."

Again Mother Jenks' grief overcame her. "Gor," Willie, I ain't respectable. She's comin' to see me—an' I can't let 'er. She mustn't know 'ow I got the money for 'er heducation—sellin' 'ell-f're to a pack of rotten dorgs an' consortin' with the scum of this stinkin' 'ole! Oh, Willie, you've got to 'elp me. I can't 'ave 'er comin' to 'El Buen Amigo to see me, an' I can't 'ave 'er reputation by callin' 'er in public at the 'Otel Mateo. Oh, Gor, Willie, Mother's come a cropper."

Willie agreed with her. He patted the sinful gray head of his landlady and waited for her to regain her composure, the while he racked his agile brain for a feasible plan to fit the emergency.

"She been pleturin' me in 'er mind all these years, Willie—pleturin' a fraud," wailed Mother Jenks. "If she sees me now, wot a shock she'll get, pore sweetheert—an' 'er the splittin' bilmage of a hangul, and oh, Willie, while she don't remember wot I looked like, think o' the shock if she meets me! In 'er latest letter she said as 'ow I was the only hanchor she had in life. Ho, yes. A sweet-lookin' hanchor I am—an' 'I was 'opin' to die before she found hont. I've got a hannerism in my 'eart, Willie, so the surgeon on the mail boat tells me, an' w'en I go, I'll go like—that!" Mother Jenks snipped her careworn-fingered fingers. "I'm fifty-seven, Willie, an' since my sainted Emery passed away, I 'ave'n't been no bloomin' hanchor! She wrung her hands. "Oh, w'y in 'ell couldn't them barteries 'ave lasted in time to save my lamb the 'unlittin' knowledge that she's be'oldin' to the likes o' me for wot she's got—an' 'ow I got it for 'er."

Billy Geary had a bright idea. "Well," he said, "why not die—temporarily—if you feel that way about it? You could come back from the grave after she's gone."

But Mother Jenks shook her head. "No," she declared. "While Dolores is self-supportin' now, still, if anythink 'appened an' she was to need 'elp, 'elp is somethin' no ghost can give. Think again, Willie. Gor, lad, w're's yer brains?"

"Well," Billy countered thoughtfully, "apparently there's no way of heading her off before she takes the steamer at New Orleans, so we'll take it for granted she'll arrive here in due course. About the time she's due, suppose you run up to San Miguel de Padua for a couple of weeks and leave me to run El Buen Amigo in your absence. I'll play fair with you, Mother, so help me. I'll account for every centavo. I'll borrow some decent clothes from Leber the day the steamer gets in; then I'll go aboard and look over the passenger list, and if she's aboard, I'll tell her you closed your house and started for California, to visit her on the last north-bound steamer—that her cablegram arrived just after you had started; that the cable company, knowing I am a friend of yours, showed me the message and that I took it upon myself to call and explain that as a result of your departure for the United States it will be useless for her to land—useless and dangerous, because cholera is raging in Buenaventura, although the port authorities deny it—"

"Willie," Mother Jenks interrupted impressively, a ghost of her old debonaire spirit shining through her tears, "yer don't owe me a bloomin' sinpence! Yer've s'ved the day, s'ved my reputation, an' s'ved a lady's peace o' mind. Kiss me, yer precious boy."

So Billy kissed her—gravely and with filial reverence, for he had long suspected Mother Jenks of being a pearl cast before swine, and now he was certain of it.

"I'll send her back to the United States and promise to cable you to await her there," Billy continued. "Of course, we can't help it if you and the cablegram miss connections, and once the young lady is back in the United States, I dare say she'll have to stay there a couple of years before she can save the price of another sea voyage. And in the meantime she may marry—"

"Or that hancourism may 'ave turned the trick before that," Mother Jenks suggested candidly but joyously. "Of course she'll be disappointed, but then disappointment never lurs 'enry on a young 'eart, Willie; an' 'ole! disappointed at not seein' a person you ain't really acquainted with ain't as bad as some disappointments."

"I guess I know," Billy Geary replied bitterly. "If that cablegram had only been for me! Mother, if any old partner could, by some miracle, manage to marry this Dolores girl, your arteries and your aneurisms might bust and be damned, but the girl would be safe."

"Mybe," Mother Jenks suggested hopefully, "yer might fix it up for her w'en I'm gone. From all hancounts 'e's no-end a gentleman."

"He's a he-man," Mr. Geary declared with conviction. He sighed. "John Stuart Webster, wherever you are, please write or cable," he murmured.

CHAPTER VI.

The uncutt bromide to the effect that man proposes but God disposes was never better exemplified than in the case of John Stuart Webster, who, having formulated certain daring plans for the morrow and surrendered himself to grateful slumber in his stateroom aboard the Gulf States Limited, awoke on that momentous morn to a disabed apprehension that all was not as it should be with him. His mouth reminded him vaguely of a bird-and-animal store, and riot and insurrection had broken out in the geometric center of his internal economy.

Webster was sufficient of a Jack-leg doctor to suspect he was developing a splendid little case of ptomaine poisoning. He decided to go into executive session with the sleeping car conductor, who wired ahead for a doctor to meet the train at the next station. And when the sawlones came and pawed Jack Webster over, he gravely announced that if the patient had the slightest nubition to vote at the next presidential election, he should leave the train at St. Louis and enter a hospital forthwith. To this heart-breaking program Webster entered not the slightest objection, for when a man is seriously ill, he is in much the same position as a politician—twit: He is in the hands of his friends.

However, life had the habit of going hard with Webster so frequently that fortunately he was trained to the minute, and after three days of heroic battling the doctor awarded Jack the decision. Thereafter they kept him in the hospital ten days longer, "feeding him up" as the patient expressed it—at the end of which period Webster, some fifteen pounds lighter and not quite so fast on his feet as formerly, resumed his journey toward New Orleans.

In the meantime, however, several things had happened. To begin, Dolores Rucy spent two days wondering what had become of her quondam knight of the whiskers—at the end of which period she arrived in New Orleans with the conviction strong upon her that while her hero might be as courageous as a wounded lion when dealing with men, he was the possessor, when dealing with women, of about two per cent less courage than a cottontail rabbit. Being a very human young lady, however, she could not help wondering what had become of the ubiquitous Mr. Webster, although the fact that he had mysteriously disappeared from the train en route to New Orleans did not perturb her one-half so much as it had the disappearance. She had this advantage over that unfortunate man, whereas he did not know she was bound for Buenaventura, she knew he was; hence, upon arrival in New Orleans she dismissed him from her thoughts, serene in abiding faith that sooner or later her knight would appear, like little Bo-Peep's lost sheep, dragging his tail behind him, so to speak.

Dolores spent a week in New Orleans renewing schoolgirl friendships from her convent days in the quaint old town. This stop-over, together with the one in Denver, not having been taken into consideration by Mr. William Geary when he and Mother Jenks commenced to speculate upon the approximate date of her arrival in Buenaventura, resulted in the premature flight of Mother Jenks to San Miguel de Padua, a fruitless visit on the part of Billy aboard the Cacique, of the Gaiter Fruit company's line, followed by a hurried call to Mother Jenks to return to Buenaventura until the arrival of the next steamer.

This time Billy's calculations proved correct, for Dolores did arrive on that steamer. The port doctor came aboard, partook of his customary drink with the captain, received a bundle of the latest American newspapers and magazines, nosed around, asked a few perfunctory questions, and gave the vessel pratique.

Dolores observed a gasoline launch shoot up to the landing at the foot of the companion-ladder and discharge a well-dressed, youthful white man. As he came up the companion, the purser recognized him.

"Howdy, Bill," he called.

"Hello, yourself," Mr. William Geary replied, and Dolores knew him for an American. "Do you happen to have as a passenger this trip a large, interesting person, by name John Stuart Webster?" added Billy Geary.

"I don't know, Billy. I'll look over the passenger list," and together they moved off toward his office. Dolores followed, drawn by the mention of that magic name Webster, and paused in front of the purser's office to lean over the rail, ostensibly to watch the cargadores 'er their lighters clustering around the great ship, but in reality to learn more of the mysterious Webster.

"Blast the luck," Billy Geary growled, "the old sinner isn't here. By the way, do you happen to have a Miss Dolores Rucy aboard?"

Dolores pricked up her little ears. What possible interest could this stranger have in her golings or comings?

"You picked a winner this time, Bill," she heard the purser say. "Stateroom sixteen, boat-deck, starboard side. You'll probably find her there, pecking to go ashore."

"Thanks," Billy replied and stepped out of the purser's office. Dolores turned and faced him.

"I'm Miss Rucy," she announced. "I heard you asking for me." Her eyes carried the query she had not put into words: "Who are you, and what do you want?" Billy saw and understood, and on the instant a wave of desolation surged over him.

"I dare say you passed each other on the road—here, here, Miss Rucy, don't cry."

In One Direction Around World.

A person starting on the equator on a trip around the world would go east all the way providing he started east. He would not go east half the way and west the other half. If the journey is started toward the west that direction would be maintained until reaching the starting point again.

The Flavor Lasts So Does the Price!

EVIDENTLY NOT AN EXPERT
Visiting Minister Asking Blessing at Table Was Completely Outclassed by Little Isabel.

JACK OUT OF HIS ELEMENT
"Old Salt" at Least Proved to That Swab That He Was Not to Be Trifled With.

To eight-year-old Isabel ever since she has been able to lisp has fallen the honor in her family of saying the blessing at meals. Consequently she was indignant the other night when at supper her father transferred this privilege to a clergyman who was a dinner guest.

The sailors are leaving the navy; it seems, and not a few are adventuring into the wilds of the western grain belt. A real old salt approached a farmer and asked to be "signed on."

Isabel had already clasped her hands and was bowing her head preparatory to starting the prayer when her father took the fatal step:

"Worked on a farm since you left the sea?" he was asked.

"Mr. Funderkin," he said, "will you say the blessing?"

"Yes, on one."

"What did you do?"

"Well, I helped with a craft of some sort. We hoisted wheat into her main hatch, and straw came out over her bows, while the other staff poured into bags hung onto her stern. A swab told me it was a thrashing machine, but I know he was trying to blirk me, the only thrashing around there being what I did to the swab."

Isabel shot a baleful look at the guest, but a warning expression of her mother's face silenced the protest. Apparently submitting, Isabel bowed her head and her lips moved swiftly as Mr. Funderkin murmured the blessing.

Paramount Duty.

"Doesn't the sheriff spend a lot of deal of his time at the card table?"

The prayer completed, Isabel lifted her head beaming triumphantly.

"Yes," replied Cactus Joe.

"Instead of being on the lookout for lawbreakers?"

"He's doing the right thing. Most of that unruly element is assembled at that particular place and all the public sentiment of Crimson Gulch asks is that the sheriff will enforce the rules of the poker game."

Modern Styles.

Frances, age seven, sick-a-bed, looked at the picture, called "Pilgrims Going to Church," and remarked: "Mother, if the style of dresses in the time of the Pilgrims had been what it is now, the Pilgrim mothers couldn't have worn them, could they?" "Why?" asked the mother. "Because," said Frances, "they had to be ready always to run from the Indians, and they couldn't have run much in the kind of dresses that ladies wear now!"

"FREEZONE"

Lift Off Corns! No Pain!

Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. Truly! Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation.

Munches While He Punctures.
The punching-bag record is held by Sergeant Perrott of a London regiment, who recently kept the pigskin on the move for 50 hours in an effort to heat his previous records, in which he succeeded, although he had hoped to keep it up for 60 hours. It was, of course, necessary for him to take food and drink while keeping the sphere bounding.

TRAVEL OF FOODSTUFFS BETWEEN RAILWAY AND ULTIMATE CONSUMER

A Glimpse of the Long and Costly Route Which Most of Our Foodstuffs Travel Between the Railway and the Consumer.

A line from a popular song—"There's a Long, Long Trail A-winding"—applies to at least one of the many and devious paths which old man H. C. L. treads in his effort to make living complex and expensive for the average person.

The particular byway referred to is that which wholesale shipments of food follow in their costly travel from the railway car to the retailer. A carload of fruit or vegetables can be sped half way across the continent in a day or two, but on arriving in the city where the food is to be retailed, the shipment starts on a winding trail which too often adds little but unnecessary costs and delay.

Eliminating Expensive Carting.
This expensive shuttling and hauling of foodstuffs from point to point in the cities and the spoilage which the unnecessary handling causes are the big items centralized wholesale terminals eliminate. The bureau of markets, United States department of agriculture, has been on this trail, literally, following shipments step by step to determine how much expense is added to the cost of food by unnecessary handling between the shipper and the retailer. The route followed by a carload of peaches entering a middle Western city over a railroad not provided with team tracks well illustrates this phase of the distribution problem.

This car had to be switched from the railroad on which it entered the city, through the crowded switch yard, to another track which is accessible to teams. Here it stood until the receiving wholesalers' teamsters could finish another job. After this delay two wagons were drawn up beside the car, in turn, and were loaded with the peaches. Thereupon they started for the wholesale house which was two miles away.

The teamsters' route lay through the most congested part of the city, the wholesale district being close to the busy retail section. The wagons were a full hour and a quarter making the trip. Meanwhile, the sun beat down on the peaches and the city's dust and dirt filtered in through the crates so that the fruit was far from being as fresh and attractive as when taken from the car. Moreover, the journey so jostled and bruised the fruit that some of it had to be sold at a discount.

Though the wholesalers were particularly anxious to get the peaches delivered to their sales room on the day

TO USE FINE MORGAN SIRE IN EXPERIMENT

To Further Study of Breed for Saddle Purposes.

Two-Year-Old Stallion Lucky Sent From Vermont Farm to Famous Ranch in Texas—Breeders Are Much Interested.

To further the study of the Morgan as a saddle breed, the United States department of agriculture has sent the two-year-old Morgan stallion Lucky from the Morgan horse farm at Middlebury, Vt., to the Santa Gertrudis ranch at Kingsville, Tex. This is the "home ranch" of the famous King ranch, one of the largest and best-known cattle and horse breeding establishments in the United States. The bureau of animal industry is paying close attention to the saddle possibilities of the Morgan horse. The King ranch will breed Lucky to some of its high-class mares.

Lucky is a brown stallion 14½ hands high and weighs 925 pounds. He was sired by Hugo. Hugo was sired by Meteor Morgan and is out of Calve by General Gates. The dam of Lucky is Kantee by General Gates and out of Caroline by Daniel Lambert. Lucky, his sire and dam, and one of his grand dams were bred at the government farm at Middlebury.

FAVOR UNIFORM CONTAINERS

First Essential to the Most Profitable Marketing is Standardized Products.

One of the first essentials to satisfactory marketing arrangements is standardized products. Cans, jars and other containers should be uniform in pack, appearance, quality and condition. Every container which is fully up to the standard represented by the label or brand will then be an advertisement in itself and often a guaranty to further purchases.

of arrival, because of the favorable market, only about one-third of the shipment came in by closing time, and it was noon the next day before the remainder was delivered.

The long, winding trail did not end at the wholesalers'. Once unloaded, the peaches were put on display for the benefit of various jobbers, some of whom purchased a few dozen crates and some larger amounts. Some of these men were situated within two or three squares of the wholesaler and their purchases were delivered on hand trucks. In the case of other jobbers, another wagon transfer was necessary.

Next in this process which economists call distribution, came the retailers to look over the lots, in the end buying small quantities such as they could sell in a day or two. This, of course, necessitated another handling and carting over the city's rough pavements.

Last, but not least, came the consumers, each buying only a small fraction of a crate and paying a big share of the expense all the handling had entailed.

Cartage is Costly.

This instance is no exaggeration. A very large part of the foodstuffs brought to American cities goes over some such devious trail. One Washington (D. C.) wholesale merchant has stated that he spends $20,000 a year for cartage which could be saved if the city had a wholesale terminal where cars could be unloaded directly into premises occupied by the wholesalers. Following an investigation in New York city it was estimated by a local organization that the saving in handling costs which would result if adequate terminal facilities were established would be $5,000,000 annually by the borough of Richmond; $5,000,000 by Queens; $15,000,000 by the Bronx; $21,000,000 by Brooklyn, and an even vaster sum by Manhattan.

Marketing experts admit that there are many baffling aspects to the high cost-of-living problem, but contend that the remedy for the phase of our costly distribution system just described is plain. Cities which will provide modern wholesale terminals, where shipments can be delivered from the railroad cars direct to wholesalers a few feet away, will make possible the saving of immense sums of money now charged up to the consumer.

BOYS SURPASS THEIR ELDERS

Total Purebred Stock in Idaho Community Increased to 25 Per Cent by Young People.

It is estimated that only 3 per cent of the cattle in the United States are registered, and experts say that an increase of 2 per cent accomplished in from five to ten years is a mark well worth aiming at.

Out in Ustick, near Boise City, the boys have shattered this record, according to a report brought in by a United States department of agriculture field worker who recently visited the community. These boys, acting upon their own initiative, and aided by agents of the department and the State College of Agriculture, bought 10 head of purebred stock, thus increasing the total for their community 25 per cent.

MITES AND LICE INJURIOUS

Little Pests Sap Vitality of Fowls and Prevent Growth or Lessen Egg Production.

Mites and lice frequently sap the vitality of the fowl and prevent growth or lessen the egg production. A thorough cleaning of the house, regular applications of disinfectants to the roosts and nests, and a frequent dusting of the fowls will control these pests.

Frocks Express Personality

WOMEN are sure to approve of the new tailored dresses for fall, because there is no chance to grow tired of any one style in them. There is no monotony among them, no tiresome repetition of ideas in construction or trimming, but such a diversity of really good designing that there is a dress for every style, just as there is a becoming hat for every face. They have one very good point in common, however, and that is their simple lines, and designers appear to agree on the neckline, which is rounded in front and low enough sometimes to admit of a chemise, but higher than usual at the back.

Two very smart tailored frocks for fall may be studied in the picture here and both present new features. The frock at the left has a severely straight bodice with long waist line, and sleeves slashed on the outer arm and curved upward to the three-quarter length. They are finished with a flat band of satin and the neck, in the same way. These bands appear across the top of the skirt at the back, where it is plaited and at the bottom of the front portion which is gathered. The skirt joins the bodice with a flat piping of satin and just above this piping satin bands reveal how cleverly they can be used when a designer sets out to do his best with them. Three rows of slashes in the bodice furnish them a chance to slip in and out and form a checker-board pattern that is charming for a cloth dress.

The simplest of straight-line dresses in the second model ought to inspire gratitude in the hearts of plump women, for it is destined to give them long lines. There is an inverted plait down the front and decorations of narrow ribbon in groups of six each, finished with tiny steel buttons. The new collar is interesting, being a tie of silk attached to the neck and finished with a bow, and ends at the front.

Sweaters Follow Devious Ways

SWEATERS—that worn must have a broad interpretation to cover all the varied garments that are called by it—are going by many paths this fall. But at least in one direction and their goal is to furnish more warmth and less color, apparently, than their forerunners of the past season. There are so many variations of the principal models that every one can be suited. Slip-over and coat designs find about equal favor, both in short and fingertip lengths and in snug-fitting or loose adjustment. Some of the snug slip-over sweaters are only a little longer than a blouse. They are usually knitted with a band about the bottom and long enough to extend about six inches below the waistline where they turn faultily upward in a narrow cuff.

Another short model appears in the surplus sweater and comes in the brighter colors. This is waist length also, open at the front with attached knitted belt extended so that it can be brought round the waist and tied at the back. Knitted or braided belts and sashes of the same wool as the sweater are the rule. Colors are quiet with the exception of some strong blues and greens and in many coat models no contrasting colors are introduced, but borders and bands are accomplished by varying the stitch in the knitting.

An attractive slip-over sweater is shown in the picture. Its neck and sleeves are unusual, the former having a square opening at the front and the latter deep-knitted flounces. The border at the bottom is of the same color as the sweater and so is the long knitted sash. This model fits snugly about the hips and is a trifle longer than its forerunners.

The Courage of Marge O'Doone

—BY—

JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD

Author of "Back to God's Country"

Beautiful snow scenes, intense action, intelligent animals, all-star players, picturesque locations and masterly direction contribute to the success of the film version of James Oliver Curwood's famous story, "The Courage of Marge O'Doone." James O'Neill as the faithful Indian has a real combat with savage dogs while making the production. The players, headed by Pauline Starke and Niles Welch under the direction David Smith, had some real adventures in the blizzard swept ridges or the Rockies a few miles from Truekee. The picture is a tale of the courage of film players.

Women Give Out

Housework is hard enough when healthy. Every Chelsea woman who is having headache, blue and nervous spells, dizzy headaches and kidney or bladder troubles, should be glad to heed this Chelsea woman's experience:

Mrs. E. Hooker, N. East st., says: "Some years ago I was in bad shape with kidney trouble. Hard work was responsible for the starting of my trouble. There were times when I could hardly get about because of the sharp, shooting pains across my back and many a night I would be kept awake with my back. I would be so dizzy that I would have to catch hold of something for fear of falling. I felt tired and nervous and this interfered greatly with my work. I was reading about Doan's Kidney Pills being so good for these troubles so I went to Freeman's Drug Store and got two boxes. After using them I got better."
