BAD WEATHER FOR THE SECOND VICTORY DAY

The weather man did not give the American Legion a very good brand of weather for the second Victory Day celebration, Wednesday. A cold wind blew all day long, and in the afternoon it looked for a time as though it would rain, but only a few drops fell.

The crowd was not as large as was hoped for, one reason being that the farm work was at a point where it could not be left, which cut into the attendance. The crowd was a happy one without.

The automobile parade, just before dawn, was an excellent one, a number of the machines being beautifully decorated.

The balloon ascension billed for the forenoon was called off, when the high wind interfered with the filling of the huge bag, which was torn by being whipped about.

It was nearly six o'clock when the flight was made. The second parachute of the triple drop failed to open properly, and many a heart in the crowd missed a beat or two, but the aeronaut managed to cut the third parachute loose in time to avert an accident.

The acts put on by the Six Morales were the best ever seen in Chelsea.

The dance in the evening at the Welfare building was well attended.

CENTRAL FIBRE PRODUCTS CO. STARTS WORK MONDAY

Chelsea has a new manufacturing establishment, which will begin operations next Monday, with five men employed.

The new corporation is known as the Central Fibre Products Company, is capitalized at $7,500 and is located in the green warehouse on the north side of the Michigan Central tracks.

The product manufactured by the company is made from craft brown and white paper, and is manufactured into a cord that is used by the makers of fibre furniture and in the upholstery of automobiles and furniture, and there is an unlimited demand for all of the product of the company.

The equipment of the new factory consists of eight cord spinning machines, one paper slitter, a paper wetting machine and a re-winding machine.

The manufacturing department will be under the supervision of Benjamin Bacon, of Jackson, who has had a number of years experience in a factory of this character.

The officers of the corporation are: President—Howard S. Holmes. Vice President—J. Bacon. Secretary-Treasurer and General Manager—D. H. Bacon.

FORMER LYNDON MAN DIED IN BATTLE CREEK FRIDAY

John Breitenbach, aged 70 years, died at his home in Battle Creek Friday, September 24, 1920, after an illness of a few hours.

He was born in Canada, and when a small boy his parents settled on a farm in Lyndon township, in which township he resided until about two years ago, when he moved to Battle Creek.

He went to work as usual Friday morning, but was taken ill about noon.

He is survived by his wife, six children, Mrs. A. L. Steger of Chelsea, Mrs. Henry Wolff and Miss Veronica Breitenbach of Jackson, Mrs. Arnie Pitt of Tulsa, Oklahoma, Mrs. E. M. Perkins of Battle Creek, and William Breitenbach of Fargo, N. D., three brothers and four sisters, Mrs. G. E. Sumner of Chelsea, Mrs. Mary Millen of Detroit, Mrs. Susan O'Connell of Smith Falls Canada, Sister Mary Winifred of Cuba, Anthony Breitenbach of Ontonagon, Martin Breitenbach of Lansing, and James Breitenbach of Battle Creek.

The funeral was held from St. Mary church, Chelsea, Tuesday morning, Rev. Father Van Dyke officiating. Interment at Mt. Olivet cemetery.

FINISHING TOUCHES BEING PUT ON "THE WISHING RING"

One of the most beautiful choruses, resplendent in becoming head dresses, gay tunics and cunning trousers, whose brilliancy is effectively toned here and there by the more sober costumes, will greet the eye when the curtain rises on the first act of the musical fantasy, "The Wishing Ring," which all Chelsea has been talking about for the past few weeks. Sceldom has an amateur production created such a stir. The reason is not difficult to find, however. In the first place "The Wishing Ring" is different. From the time of the first rehearsals, the spice, charm and originality of this clever musical piece captivated alike performers and committee, just as it will capture the hearts of the crowds who will applaud it from floor and gallery of the Sylvan theatre, tomorrow and Saturday nights. Reserved seats are now on sale at Vogel's Drug Store.

The S. P. I. will meet next Monday evening at the home of Mrs. M. John Hauser.

INFORMATION GIVEN TO LIBERTY BOND OWNERS

Owners of Liberty bonds are being informed that the temporary issues should be exchanged, some of them immediately, for permanent bonds.

Bonds exchangeable immediately for permanent bonds include: First Liberty Loan converted 4 per cent bonds, called 1st 4's, the last coupon maturing December 15, 1919; also First Liberty Loan converted 4 1/2 per cent bonds, known as 1st 4 1/2's, the last coupon maturing June 15, 1920.

All Second and Third Liberty Loan bonds should be exchanged immediately for permanent ones. It is said to be important that holders of them act promptly, when it comes time to exchange the temporary bonds for those having all the coupons on them.

HAVE CHANGED ASSESSMENT ON PORTAGE RIVER DRAIN

The board of review appointed to revise the assessments on the Portage river drain has completed its work, and as soon as the drain commissioners of the several counties involved have figured the assessments under the new rates adopted by the board, figures will be given which will make possible the placing of the assessments on the tax rolls for the year, after the meeting of the board of supervisors next month.

Direct tax (that is, the portion against the property of the individuals in the directly benefited area) has been reduced all along the line, the greatest reductions being in Waterloo township, from which the protests originated which resulted in the appointing of the board. Grass Lake from which the next largest number of protest came, comes next in point of volume of reduction.—Jackson News.

JACK DUNN IS A FAST AND HEADY FOOTBALL PLAYER

A sporting writer on the staff of the Detroit Free Press wrote the following in regard to Jack Dunn, former Chelsea boy, who is now on the U. of M. team, and who, when here, had sooner play football than eat.

Jack Dunn, at quarterback, must be reckoned one of the big factors for Michigan this fall. He played two years at South Dakota and they are talking about him there as they talk about Eckersall at Chicago. He played two years in the Army and quarterbacked a team that beat Eddie Mahan's team. Mahan, probably the most versatile back of recent years, did not look any too good against Jackie Dunn, who stopped the great Mahan, although Jack was playing with three broken ribs and a dislocated collar bone. Dunn also played with a Yale all-American quarterback, and many football players and critics said he outshone the all-American.

Dunn is not only a fearless and bold boy, a fine field general both on offense and defense, one of the best forward passers ever seen on Perry field, but he runs like a streak with the ball from position and plays in the back-field with the job of taking back punts, breaking up forward passes and yanking down the man who has gotten loose and is touchdown bent.

"The Shepherd of the Hills"

BY HAROLD BELL WRIGHT.

Scenario written and directed by the Author himself.

A Delightful Story of the Ozarks

Portraying the lives of these hardy mountaineers, who are as clean cut and unaffected by the veneer of civilization as the rock-bound hills in which they live.

A Splendid Pictorialization of the most Popular American novel. Millions of people have read the book. Millions of people have seen the play. The picture is a masterful visualization of them both.

Admission: Matinee, 20c and 10c. Evening, 30c and 10c. Including war tax.

You can't make any storage battery last forever—that's a fact.

You've got to keep it filled with water and test it, just like a tire has to be kept filled with air, or it will cost you money.

Some day—if you have an ordinary battery—it's sure to have to be re-insulated, no matter who made it.

But—if you'll buy a Willard Battery with Threaded Rubber Insulation, you'll get clear away from the biggest cause of battery troubles. The insulation will probably last as long as the plates.

Drop in and ask us any question you can think of. We're here to give you the kind of help, service and advice that make friends.

BREVITIES

Ypsilanti—A running battle between state constabulary officers and booze runners occurred just east of Ypsilanti Friday night when a big automobile refused to stop on signal. The car came from Detroit and had been "lipped off" to the officers. The constabulary, under Sergt. Walker, fired on the car, which returned several shots. One bullet penetrated the gas tank and the car was brought to a stop, the one man it contained jumping and escaping in a cornfield. The car contained 300 quarts of Canadian liquor, mostly Scotch.

Ann Arbor—Negotiations whereby Washtenaw county obtained a lease for 20 years on the Kapper gravel pit and purchased the equipment of the pit at a cost of $19,000 from the Ann Arbor Construction Company have been completed. The pit is situated on the William Kapper farm on the Pontiac road a little more than three miles out of town, is one of the largest in this vicinity. It is estimated that it contains 2,500,000 cubic yards of gravel. The pit is well equipped with steel shovels, railway tracks connecting it with the Ann Arbor railway, and other apparatus.

Dexter—John Wencel, of Webster, who was driving his truck loaded with eleven hogs, to Detroit, early Wednesday morning, in crossing the railroad at C street, ran off the planking, owing to the heavy fog, the wheels running into some loose rails laying along the track. Mr. Wencel was unable to get the truck clear of the track, and leaving it went up the track about 500 feet to stop train No. 1, then due. Owing to the heavy fog the engineer was unable to see the signal and the train struck the rear end of the truck, killing two hogs and badly damaging the truck.—Dexter Leader.

Brooklyn—E. C. Donaldson has an orchard of 50 trees that is a sight to any fruit lover. The trees are practically all loaded to capacity and so heavily that they would break down if not propped. Most of the trees are of the Baldwin variety, but with Greening, Stark and a few other varieties. The fruit has been thoroughly sprayed and a very high percentage is perfect. When Mr. Donaldson bought the farm a few years ago the trees were not regarded of much value and a part of the orchard had been grubbed out by a previous owner. The trees were also badly infested with San Jose scale. Today the trees show what care and attention can accomplish.—Brooklyn Exponent.

NOTICE OF MEETING.

To Whom It May Concern: Be It Known, That on the 18th day of Sept., A. D. 1920, an application was filed with Clayton E. Deake, County Drain Commissioner of the County of Washtenaw, for the locating and establishing of a certain drain, which said drain was described in said application as follows, to-wit: Commencing in Mill Creek (or a branch thereof) at a point about 50 links E and 3.75 chs. A Pair of Shares and a Pair of Shoes

With the present price of shoes, think what a sense of satisfaction to say: "Well, this pair of shoes is paid for, without any effort of mine—praise be!" And that's just what you can say too if you have $190 working for you day and night, right here in your own home town.

Consumers Power Company Preferred Stock Yields in Dividends 7.37% Interest on Your Investment

That means that the modest sum of $190.00, buying two shares of this Preferred Stock, will pay you in interest $14.00 a year, or the price of a pair of good substantial shoes. And it will pay you this dividend not only this year, but for all years to come.

If you purchase your stock now, as it is issued, the price is but $95.00 a share on a par value of $100.

Remember you are buying stock in a company producing a staple. The world has to have light and power. This means that your investment will be secure.

And you are buying Preferred Stock—on which it is required that all dividends must be paid before dividends can be declared on the Company's Common Stock.

Furthermore, the Company is right here in your own home town—inviting your investigation.

You can pay for the stock in easy installments, and you get 7% interest on all you pay in, until payments are complete and you own the stock.

Terms of Offering

Plan No. 1 (Cash payment.) Under this plan we offer the 7% Cumulative Preferred Stock of Consumers Power Company at $95 per share and accrued dividends to date of payment for stock.

—OR—

Plan No. 2 (Time payment.) Under this plan we offer the 7% Cumulative Preferred Stock of Consumers Power Company at $95 per share on a time payment plan: $10 per share payable at the time of purchase; $10 per share each month for seven months and $15 for the final payment. We agree to pay interest at the rate of 7% per annum on the monthly installments paid to us, this interest to be credited to the purchaser on the books of the Company. Dividends from the last dividend date prior to the final payment will be charged to the purchaser and an adjustment made. No more than 25 shares may be purchased by any person under this time offering.

Purchasers under this plan have the option of withdrawing all partial payments at any time prior to the date of final payment for the stock, on 10 days' notice, and in the event of such withdrawal the Company agrees to pay 3% interest on the amounts paid in up to date of notice of withdrawal.

For further information ask any of our employees—or fill in the coupon.

Thousands of bushels of fine peaches are being fed to the hogs or dumped on the ground to rot. It was inability to secure shipping facilities is given as one of the reasons for the situation.

HOARDERS DENIED FEDERAL LOANS

HOUSTON DECLARES U. S. CANNOT BE PARTY TO MAINTAINING "WAR PRICES."

COMMERCIAL LOANS INCREASED

Higher Discount Rates Have Not Discouraged Loans For Agricultural and Industrial Purposes

Washington.—The government cannot be a party to any undertaking for artificially maintaining "war prices" by enabling owners to withhold their commodities from the markets.

Secretary Houston said in a formal statement on the commercial credit situation.

On the other hand, the secretary declared in favor of the orderly marketing of all commodities and estimates that the commercial loans of all banks during the past year increased by about $3,000,000,000 to meet the demands of industry and agriculture.

"I am in favor of every legitimate effort to promote the orderly marketing of all commodities," said Secretary Houston, "but the government cannot be a party to an undertaking to hold commodities off the market to enable the owners artificially to speculate for purposes to maintain war prices or higher than war prices."

"As a matter of fact the banks of the country during the last 12 months have been extending large credits to meet the demands for aid from agricultural and industrial sources, and the loans and investments of about $300 reporting member banks increasing over $2,500,000,000.

These reporting banks represent about 40 per cent of the resources of all the banks. It is estimated that the total increase in loans and investments since August, 1919, has been over $5,500,000,000.

"Even from Jan. 23, 1920, when the increase in discount rates went into effect, to Aug. 27, 1920, the loans of about 800 reporting member banks, exclusive of loans secured by government obligations and other stocks and bonds, increased about $1,250,000,000. This would reflect a total increase of commercial loans in all banks, it is estimated, of perhaps $3,000,000,000.

"Since the crop-moving demands came on the bills discounted and purchased by the federal reserve banks have increased at the rate of about $50,000,000 a week, and the federal reserve notes at the rate of from $30,000,000 to $40,000,000 a week. The increase in the volume of federal reserve notes from Jan. 23, 1920, to Aug. 27, 1920, was $360,000,000."

Chicago.—Packers are deceiving the public in some of their advertising, Russell J. Poole, chairman and secretary of the council living costs committee, said in a statement.

Mr. Poole said that the wholesale price of best corn fed cattle was advertised as 28 cents a pound by the packers when in reality the average butcher had to pay 45 cents a pound because he could not buy in the enormous quantities necessary to get the lower prices.

"The packers advertise that they can sell beef for 28 cents a pound because they use every part of the animal," continued the statement, "but the short loin porterhouse cuts run as high as 72 cents and many poorer cuts are canned and sold for as high as 75 cents to $1 a pound."

Grand Rapids.—To protect claims, said to be $700,000, creditors of Biar Crohon, planned to take over and operate his tannery and other properties but found the real estate and tannery were transferred to Edward A. Atlas Leather Co. of Detroit, said to have claims of $400,000.

Muskegon.—The first national exhibit of domestic faxes ever attempted in the United States, will be held here Nov. 24, 25 and 26. Any fox owner may exhibit. Entries must be in by Nov. 10. This will be the first time breeders of domestic faxes ever have had an opportunity to gain a national rating for their faxes.

Monroe.—Petitions are in circulation asking submission to the people of a proposition to amend the city charter, giving each of the six precincts representation on the commission and to have the clerk and treasurer elected by the people instead of being appointed. Monroe now has a mayor and two commissioners.

Grand Rapids.—Nicholas Schmidt, before returning to Germany on a visit, obtained citizenship papers here that he might not be prevented from returning to the United States. He said his brother, who neglected to become naturalized while here, is now restrained from leaving Germany.

Detrol.—Decision to transfer County Physician (sadoro W. Towlen from duty at the county jail to the morgue was reached by the board of auditors. After the three county poor commissioners told of finding some of the doctor's instruments in a rusty condition, the auditors took the matter up with Prosecutor Shabop and it was decided to transfer the doctor "in the interest of harmony."

It was also decided that the jail janitors who work in the doctor's office be "severely reprimanded" for failure to keep it clean.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD.

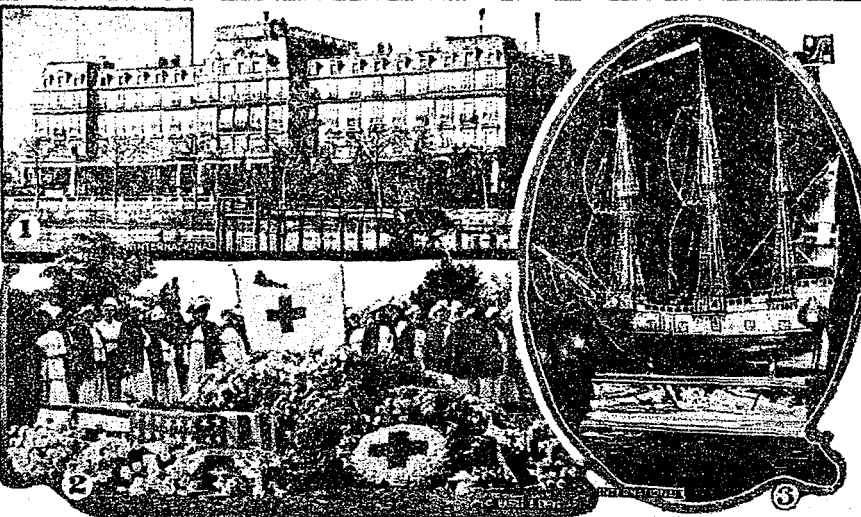

Believers in the League of Nations are much elated by the results of the ninth session of the league council which ended in Paris early in the week. By diplomatic presentation of fact and argument, the council induced four nations, which were on the verge of engaging in two wars, to agree to peaceful settlement of their differences. In one of the cases, indeed, hostilities already had broken out. This was the case of Poland and Lithuania. These two nations consented to suspend hostilities immediately pending a settlement of their dispute which both sides will accept. In this settlement the league council will be represented by Count Quinones de Leon, Spanish ambassador to France, and Baron Kishiro Matsui, Japanese vice foreign minister. When the council meets in October, it is expected, at least a tentative decision will be ready for its approval.

The council had almost given up hope of arranging this settlement when, on the last day of the session, Ignace Paderewski, head of the Polish delegation, suddenly arose and in a dramatic speech declared his country was eager for peace with Lithuania and believed the latter nation also desired peace. M. Wollemar and other Lithuanian delegates arose, strode across the room and warmly shook hands with the Poles, while the room rang with cheers. Wollemar declared his confidence in the fairness of the council and said he would abide by its decision.

Sweden's dispute with Finland over possession of the Aland Islands was the other matter which it was believed was put in a fair way to be decided without recourse to arms. The Finns offered a reservation which created some doubt at first, but this it appeared, was made for technical reasons and would not offer any difficulty which could not be surmounted. Neither nation, it was pointed out by league officials, "was legally bound to accept the decision of the league, but both are morally obligated to do so, and if a settlement can be effected that is backed by public opinion, the government cannot well refuse to concur. A commission was appointed to inquire into the merits of the dispute.

Opponents of the league found in this Aland Islands case fresh argument to support their belief that the league covenant, as it stands, gives the council the chance to do just what the supporters of the Lodge reservations feared—to interfere in domestic questions. They point out that Finland contended that the Aland island dispute is a Finnish domestic, not an international, question and that the league had no jurisdiction thereof. The league council rejected the Finnish contention, pronounced the question international and appointed the commission.

There is in the covenant, say the objectors, no guarantee that the council would not pronounce the present controversy between Japan and the United States over immigration an international question subject to its jurisdiction; and if Japan should submit the dispute to the league, as is suggested in that country, the United States would be in an awkward if not a dangerous position. One of the Lodge reservations it will be remembered, specifically declared that American immigration and other domestic

The Polish-Russian peace conference opened in Riga, but it was surrounded by an atmosphere of gloom and the prediction was made freely that the results will be nil. Each side distrusts the other, and on certain questions it seems impossible for them to get together. One of these is Ukraine, which the Reds assert is already self-determined in favor of soviet rule. The Ukrainians who follow Petura deny this and say their soviet rulers are foreigners. They have sent representatives to the Riga meet, but these are not admitted by the Reds. Disarmament by both Poland and Russia was declared by Adolph Joffe, head of the red delegation, to be the only guarantee of stable peace.

Military operations against the soviet forces went right along, and their enemies scored several decided victories. The united Polish-Ukrainian front east of Lemberg was moving forward at the rate of fifteen miles a day and had reached Rovno and Kamenets Podolsk, and the Ukrainian cavalry had occupied the latter important city. In the Grodno region the soviet government claimed to have defeated the Poles and to have taken a number of towns. But the Moscow war reports have been almost uniformly false since the collapse of the invasion of Poland.

Following the plan which was outlined last week, General Wrangel has been pushing his way northward along the Danepo river and, at last reports, after several smashing victories, he had captured Alexandrovsk, together with about 10,000 prisoners, five armored trains, many guns and large stores of supplies.

These Turks are assisted by disaffected Arabs and also by German officers who have been stranded in the country since the armistice. These latter are handling the artillery. The French at Adana and Tarsus have got supplies in and are prepared for a winter's siege. The Armenian city of Hadjin has sent out word that it is facing starvation and massacre and must have help.

The immediate situation in Ireland has resolved itself into a guerrilla war of the most vicious description, which so far the British authorities have not been able to control. The Sinn Fein ambush and slay the police, and the police in reprisal kill the Sinn Fein like rats and ravage their towns. SIX MONTHS I COULD NOT WORK

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Me Strong and Able to Work—I Recommend It To All My Friends.

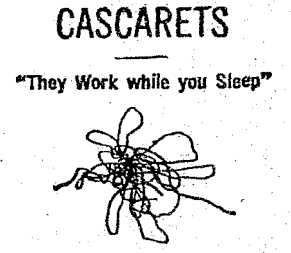

Bayonne, N. J.—"I had pains in back and legs so that I could not stand caused by female trouble. I felt so tired all the time, had had headaches, and for six months I could not work. I was treated by a physician and took other remedies but got no relief. A friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has helped me very much. I am well and strong and now able to do my work. I cannot thank you enough and I recommend your medicine to my friends who are sick."—Mrs. SUSIE SACATANSKY, 25 East 17th St., Bayonne, N. J.

It must be admitted by every fair-minded, intelligent person, that a medicine could not live and grow in popularity for over forty years, and today hold a record for such wonderful success as does Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, without possessing great virtue and actual worth. Such medicines must be looked upon and termed both standard and dependable by every thinking person.

No man ever solves the problem of how to become rich. He wants a few dollars more than he ever gets.

CASCARETS

"They Work while you Sleep"

Do you feel all tangled up—bilious, constipated, headache, nervous, full of cold? Take Cascarets tonight for your liver and bowels to straighten you out by morning. Wake up with head clear, stomach right, breath sweet and feeling fine. No griping, no inconvenience. Children love Cascarets too. 10, 25, 50 cents.—Adv.

Mistakes are opportunities for learning.—Emerson.

Find the Cause!

It isn't right to drag along feeling miserable—half sick. Find out what is making you feel so badly and try to correct it. Perhaps your kidneys are causing that throbbing backache or those sharp, stabbing pains. You may have morning lameness, too, headache, dizzy spells and irregular kidney action. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. They have helped thousands of ailing folks. Ask your neighbor!

A Michigan Case
Mrs. George Symmes, 305 W. Flaming St., Iron Mountain, Mich., writes: "My back ached, and dizzy, and I was so weak and run down. My kidneys were too frequent in action. I always felt weak and run down. A friend advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills. I bought some and fourteen boxes cured me."

80 Years Old —Was Sick

Now Feels Young After Taking Eatonic for Sour Stomach

"I had sour stomach ever since I had the grip and it bothered me badly. Have taken Eatonic only a week and am much better. Am 80 years old," says Mrs. John Hill.

Eatonic quickly relieves sour stomach, indigestion, heartburn, bloating and distress after eating because it takes up and carries out the excess acidity and gases which cause most stomach ailments. If you have "dried everything" and still suffer, do not give up hope. Eatonic has brought relief to tens of thousands like you. A big box costs but a trifle with your druggist's guarantee.

Fordson TRADE MARK Farm Tractor

More than 100,000 Fordson tractors have been sold to farmers in the United States. They are helping those farmers do more and better work in less time and at less cost. North, East, South, West—everywhere the Fordson has proven itself a money-maker and a real necessity to the farmer. Besides it is helping mightily to solve the labor problem.

These one hundred thousand and more practical farmers have affirmed the economy—the exceptionally low fuel and operating cost—of the Fordson; its time and labor-saving qualities and its ability to increase production. The Fordson was built to be the most economical tractor; it is compact and devoid of excessive weight. And it is built of the same strong iron and steel as is the Ford car.

Winter or bad weather does not hinder the Fordson's usefulness. Day or night—twenty-four hours a day if you choose—you can utilize the Fordson.

Only so many Fordsons are allotted this territory. Orders are being filled in sequence—first come first served. Let us have yours now.

There's a practical use for the Fordson every day of the year. Let's tell you. Come in and have a tractor talk. Give us the chance to make a demonstration on your own farm.

FORDSON TESTIMONIAL

SEVERAL REASONS WHY I BOUGHT A FORDSON.

Because the Fordson is dust proof; no matter how much a tractor costs or how powerful, it is very short lived unless dust proof.

Because I can save enough hay and grain in one year to operate my Fordson for five years.

Because I can till the land better and raise better crops.

Because I can buy farm tools made especially for Fordsons by the largest implement manufacturers and the repairs handled by Ford dealers at reasonable prices, every tool is a dandy.

Because I can do more work with less help.

Because it is handier to get around with than a three horse team.

Because I can get more power from cheap fuel than I can from gasoline.

Because I can get service or repairs in twenty minutes.

Because it is a wonderful power plant for belt work.

Because it has plenty of power on the draw bar.

Because it makes work easier for men and horses.

Webster—Man's Man

By PETER B. KYNE

Author of "Cappy Ricks," "The Valley of the Giants," Etc.

Copyright by Peter B. Kyne.

"KNIFE WORK."

John Stuart Webster, mining engineer, boards a train in Death Valley, California, on his way back to civilization after cleaning up $300,000. But he looks like a hobo. Then he meets a distressed lady, who makes his heart stop ever. He eliminates the offending man. Being what he is and also glib-ah, he does not take advantage of his opportunity. But he just has to find out that she is Dolores Ruy. In Denver he is offered a $25,000-a-year job by a capitalist friend, Edward J. Jerome. He receives a diamond letter from his own partner, who has decided to withdraw from the Central American and go fifty-fifty with him on the profits. Thereupon he turns down the big job and decides to accept the offer of friendship and adventure to Soberano. Jerome goes with John to the depot. They meet the distressed lady on her way to the same train. John lifts his hat, but gets the cut direct from the girl, who does not recognize him. John tells Jerome the whole story. Jerome secretly sees the girl, offering her $50,000 if she induces John to take his job inside of ninety days. The girl accepts. The scene now shifts to Buenaventura, Soberano, where Gray, on his orders, is calling her heart out looking for a cablegram from his old partner. He has existed for two months on credit extended by Mother Jenks, keeper of a disreputable hotel. Mother Jenks, Henrietta Wilkins (Mother Jenks) that she is on her way to visit her. Mother Jenks "sets" down and tells her story. She has been educated by Dolores, who is the daughter of former President Ruy of Soberano, deposed and executed by President Sarrus. Mother Jenks doesn't want Dolores to find out she is no longer respectable. So she and Billy plan for him to meet the steamer and to turn the girl back. Billy bungles his job and Dolores lands and saves Mother Jenks. "Mother Jenks" promptly falls in love with Dolores. Webster in New Orleans secures a stateroom on La Estrella by buying a ticket for a mythical valet.

through the square to the market, and you may proceed to the market and meet me there. Later we will return to this hotel."

A Creole girl—starry-eyed, beautiful, rich with the glorious coloring of her race—passed him bound for the cathedral across the square, as Webster thought, for she carried a large prayer book on her arm. His glance followed the girl down the walk.

Presently she halted. A young man rose from a bench where he evidently had been waiting for her and bowed low. His hat clasped to his breast, as only a Frenchman or a Spanish grandee can bow. Webster saw the Creole girl turn to him with a little gesture of pleasure. She extended her hand and the young man kissed it with old-fashioned courtesy.

John Stuart Webster with reverent and wistful eyes watched their meeting.

"Forty years old," he thought, "and I haven't spoken to a dozen women that caused me a second thought, or derly, kissed her, pressed her from him, and walked swiftly away without looking back.

It was a sweet and rather touching little tableau; to John Stuart Webster, laughing and possessed of a romantic streak in his nature, it was more than a tableau. It was a moving picture.

"I suppose her old man objects to the young fellow," he muttered, to himself sympathetically, "and he can't come near the house. They're met here for the fond farewell and now the young fellow's going out West to make his fortune, so he can come back and claim the girl. Huh! If he wants her, why the devil doesn't he take her? Hello! By Jinks' priest! Now I know what those two parakeets are up to. One of them is the father of that girl. They've been spying on the lovers, and now they're going to corner the young fellow and shingle him for his nerve."

The girl had stood for a moment, gazing after her companion, before she turned with her handkerchief to her eyes, and continued on her way to the cathedral. Webster heard her sobbing as she stumbled blindly by, and he was distressed about her, for all the world loves a lover and John Stuart Webster was no exception to this universal rule.

"By George, this is pretty tough," he reflected. "That young fellow treated that girl with as much gentleness and courtesy as any gentleman should, and I'm for him and against this idea of corporal punishment. Don't you worry, Tillie, my dear. I'm going to horn into this game myself if it goes too far."

The two dusky skulkers ahead of him, having come to another cross-path, turned into it and came out on the main path in the rear of the young man. Webster noticed that the pair were still walking on the grass. He padded gently along behind them.

The four were now rapidly approaching the old French market, and the steadily rising hub of voices speaking in French, Italian, Spanish, Creole patois and Choctaw, was sufficient to have drowned the slight noise of the pursuit, even had the young man's mind not been upon other things, and the interest of the two Central Americans centered upon their quarry, to the exclusion of any thought of possible interruption.

Webster felt instinctively that the two men would rush and make a concerted attack from the rear. He smiled.

"I'll just fool you two hombres a whole lot," he thought, and stooping, picked up a small stone. On the instant the two men, having approached within thirty feet of their quarry, made a rush for him.

Their charge was swift, but though it was the little stone which John Stuart Webster buried was swifter. It struck the young man fairly between the shoulderblades with a force sufficient to bring him out of his sentimental reverie with a jerk, as it were. He whirled, saw the danger that threatened him, and—sprang to meet it.

"Bravo!" yelled Webster, and ran to his aid, for he had seen now that it was to be knife work. Tragically instead of melodrama.

The man with the puckered eye closed in with such eagerness it was apparent to Webster that here was waked to his liking. The young man raised his light cane, but Pucker-eye did not hesitate. He merely threw up his left forearm to meet the expected blow aimed at his head, lunged forward and slashed viciously at the young man's abdomen. The latter drew back a step, doubled like a jack-knife, and brought his cane down viciously across the knuckles of his assailant's right hand.

"So it is thou, son of a jig," he called pleasantly in Spanish. "I fool you that time, didn't I?" he added in English. "Thought I would aim for your head, didn't you?"

The blow temporarily paralyzed the assassin's hand; he dropped the knife, and as he stooped to recover it with his left hand, the young man, before retreating from Pop-eye, kicked Pucker-eye in the face and quite upset him.

"Stop it!" shouted Webster.

Pop-eye turned his head at the outcry. The man he was attacking fell into the position of a swordswoman en garde, and thrust viciously with the ferrule at the face of the pop-eyed man, who, disregarding Webster's approach, seized the cane in his left hand and with a quick, powerful tug actually drew his victim toward him a foot before the latter let go the stick.

Before he could give ground again Pop-eye was upon him. He grasped the young man by the latter's left arm and held him, while he drew back for the awful disemboweling stroke. As his long arm sped forward the hook of John Stuart Webster's heavy cane descended upon that fixed arm in the crook of the elbow, snugging it cleverly.

The knife never reached its destination!

"You would, would you?" said Webster reproachfully, and jerked the fellow viciously around. The man he had rescued promptly struck Pop-eye a who weren't postmistresses or hitcut shooters! Forty years old and I've never been in love! Springtime down that little path and Indian summer in my old fool heart. Why, I ought to be arrested for failure to live!"

The lovers were walking slowly, arm in arm, along the path by which the girl had come, so with a courtesy and gentleness that were innate in him, Webster stepped out of sight behind the statue of Old Hickory; for he did not desire, by his mere presence, to intrude a discordant note in the perfect harmony of those two human hearts. He knew they desired that serene path to themselves; that evidently they had sought their early morning tryst in the knowledge that the square was likely to be deserted at this hour.

The young man was speaking as they passed; his voice was rich, pleasant, vibrant with the earnestness of what he had to say; with a pretty little silver moustache walking stick he slashed at spears of grass alongside the path; the girl was crying a little. Neither of them had seen him, so he entered a path that led from them at right angles.

He had proceeded but a few feet along this trail when, through a break in the shrubbery ahead of him, he saw two men. Brief as was his glimpse of them, Webster instantly recognized the two Central Americans he had seen in the steamship ticket office two days previous.

They were not walking as walk two men abroad at this hour for a constitutional. Neither did they walk as walk men churchward bound. A slight, skulking air marked their progress, and caused Webster to wonder idly what they were stalking.

He turned into the path down which the two men had passed, not with the slightest idea of shadowing them, but because his destination lay in that direction.

Both men had forsaken the traveled path and were walking on the soft velvet of blue grass lawn that fringed it!

"Perhaps I'd better deaden my hoof beats also," John Stuart Webster soliloquized, and followed suit unhesitatingly.

He had scarcely done so when the men ahead of him paused abruptly. Webster did likewise, and responding—subconsciously, perhaps, to the remembrance of the menace in the glance of the man with the puckered eye—he stepped out of sight behind a broad oak tree. Through the trees and shrubbery he could still see the lovers, who had halted and evidently were about to part.

Webster saw the young man glance warily about; then, apparently satisfied there was none to spy upon them, he drew the girl gently toward him. She clung to him for nearly a minute, sobbing; then he raised her face ten-terrible blow in the face with his left hand and broke loose from the grip that had so nearly been his undoing; then Webster tapped the assassin's meditative tap or two on the top of his sinful head for good measure, and to awaken in him some sense of the impropriety and futility of resistance, after which Webster turned to discuss a similar question of ethics with Pucker-eye.

The scar-cheeked man was on his knees, groping groggily for his knife, for he had received a severe kick under the chin, and for the nonce was far from dangerous. Stooping, Webster picked up the knife; then with knife and cane grasped in his left hand he seized Pucker-eye by the nape with his right and jerked him to his feet. The assassin stood glowering at him in a perfect frenzy of brutish, inarticulate fury.

"Take the knife away from the other fellow before he gets active again," Webster called over his shoulder. "I'll manage this rascal. We'll march them over to the market and turn them over to the police." He spoke in Spanish.

"Thanks, ever so much, for my life," the young man answered lightly, and in English, "but where I come from it is not the fashion to settle these arguments in a court of law. To call an officer is considered unbecoming; to shoot a prisoner in this country is considered murder, and consequently I have but one alternative and I advise you, my good friend, to leave a little of the same. I'm going to run like the devil."

And he did. He was in full flight before Webster could glance around, and in an instant he was lost to sight among the trees.

"That advice sounds eminently fair and reasonable," Webster yelled after him, and was about to follow when he observed that the young man had abandoned his pretty little silver-chased walking stick.

"That's too nice a little stick to leave to these brigands," he thought, and forthwith possessed himself of it and the pop-eyed man's knife, after which he hurried out upon the order of his going but went, departing at top speed.

The young man he had saved from being butchered was right. An entangling alliance with the police was, decidedly, not to John Stuart Webster's liking, for should he unfortunately form such an alliance, he would be hated into court as a witness and perhaps, miss the steamer to San Buenaventura.

He had planned to spend an hour in the market, drink a cup of cafe noir, smoke a cigarette, and return to his hotel in time for a leisurely breakfast, but his recent bout with grim reality had blunted the edge of romance. He ordered his driver to take him back to the hotel, sprang inside and congratulated himself on his lucky escape.

CHAPTER VIII.

Webster's trunk went aboard the steamer early the following morning, and at noon he entered a taxi with his hand baggage and was driven to the levee where La Estrella lay tugging gently at her mooring lines. Owing to the congestion of freight and traffic the chauffeur stopped his cab a little distance from the gangplank, where Webster discharged him with a liberating tip.

The latter, however, swung his passenger's bag and suitcase to the ground, picked them up and started for the gangplank.

"Never mind my baggage, lad," Webster called after him. "One of the deck boys will care for it."

The chauffeur inquired, "You've been generous with me, sir. I answered, 'so I think I had better carry your baggage aboard. If you permit a deck boy to handle it, you merely have to give another tip, and that would be sheer wanton waste. Why shouldn't I earn the one you gave me?'"

"I hadn't figured it out that way, son, so here's another half dollar for being the only existing specimen of your species in captivity. My stateroom is No. 34, upper deck, port side," Webster answered, smiling. The man took the tip eagerly and hurried toward the gangplank; the quartermaster on duty shouldered a way for him and he darted aboard.

Webster followed leisurely. At the gangplank the purser's clerk halted him, examined his tickets and punched them.

"Where is the other man?" he asked. "You have two tickets here."

"Oh, that blamed valet of mine," Webster answered, and glanced around as if in search of that mythical functionary. "It would be like the stupid fellow to miss the boat," he added.

"When he comes—"

Webster ceased speaking abruptly. He was looking straight into the unavailing orbs of Pucker-eye, who was standing just behind the clerk at the foot of the gangplank.

"I wonder if Pop-eye's around, also," Webster thought, and he faced about. Pop-eye was standing in back of him, leaning over the railing of the gangway.

"Which is the valet?" the purser's clerk asked, scanning the names on the tickets.

"Andrew Bowers."

"All right, Mr. Webster," the other answered, with that genial camaraderie that seems inseparable from all of his calling. "When Andrew comes I'll send him aboard."

He started to pass the tickets back to Webster, but a detaining hand rested on his arm, while a dark thumb and forefinger lifted the trailing strips of tickets. Pucker-eye was examining them also.

The purser's clerk drove his elbow backward violently into Pucker-eye's midriff and shook him off roughly.

scoundrel's scant mustache and held them before the latter's tear-filled eyes.

"My friend," he said gently, "mark how the gringo gives his little dark brother a lesson in deportment. Behold, if I have given thee a souvenir of our meeting, I also have taken one. By this pinched and throbbing nose shalt thou be remembered when I am gone; by these hairs from thy cat's mustache shalt I remember thee. Go, and thrust not that nose into a gringo's business again. It is unsafe."

"I am known as Mr. Andrew Bowers, valet de chambre to that prince of gentlemen, Mr. John S. Webster."

Causes of Eye Strain.

The efficiency of the eye as a working instrument is reduced materially by the presence of a distracting object in the field of vision, more particularly if near the eye and close to the line of sight. Such objects are the dark and prominent rims of tortoise-shell glasses, curved-eye shades with dark linings, and the like. By tending to cause the eye reflexly to adjust for them rather than for their work, these objects subject the eye to unnecessary and harmful muscular strain, eye experts declare.

DAIRY

ORIGIN OF AYRSHIRE BREED

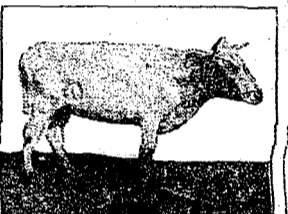

Scotch Cattle Are Quick, Brisk and Seem to Have Abundant Store of Efficiency

The Ayrshire breed originated in the county of Ayr, in southwestern Scotland. In that region, which borders on the Irish sea, the surface is rolling and has much rough woodland. Pastures, therefore, are somewhat sparse and it is necessary for animals to graze large areas in order to obtain sufficient feed.

It is only within the last hundred years that Ayrshires have had a type well enough established to be entitled to the designation of breed. No exact account of the different infusions of blood of other breeds into the native Scotch cattle to form the Ayrshire breed is at hand. It is probable, however, that the Channel Islands, Dutch and English cattle were all represented.

The first importation of Ayrshires to this country was made in 1822 since which time there have been frequent importations into both the United States and Canada. New England, New York and Pennsylvania probably contain the largest number of representatives of the breed. There is a small distribution in the other Atlantic states and the Pacific Northwest. In Canada Ayrshires have had great popularity and the breed seems well able to withstand the rigors of the Canadian climate. The merits of the breed have not been advertised widely; consequently it is not well known in many sections of the United States.

The colors of Ayrshires may vary from a medium red to a very dark mahogany brown and white, with either color predominating. Of late years among breeders there has been a decided tendency toward white with red markings. A black muzzle and a white switch are desired, but are not necessary for registration. Perhaps the most picturesque feature of animals of the breed is their long horns, which turn outward, then forward and upward. Another point of which breeders of the Ayrshire are very proud is the uniform, square, level udder with long body attachment which is common among the cows.

Quick, brisk actions are characteristic of the animals, which seem always to have an abundant store of energy and to be exceptionally alert. Ayrshires have a highly nervous disposition, which is useful for both production and self-support. Probably none of the other dairy breeds can compare with the Ayrshires in ability to obtain a livelihood on scant pastures. Their ability as "rustlers" has made them very useful in sections where there is much rough land in pasture.

In weight the cows may vary from 900 to 1,300 pounds (average about 1,000 pounds); bulls weigh between 1,400 and 2,000 pounds (average about 1,600 pounds). The animals are noticeably compact in body, with a tendency to smoothness over all parts. Formerly they were criticized for their short teats, but that fault has been removed largely by careful breeding. As a breed Ayrshires are generally very hardy and show great constitutional vigor.

At birth the calves weigh from 55 to 80 pounds, and are very vigorous, easy to raise, and make rapid gains. Heifers reach maturity of frame at an age beyond the Holstein and the Jersey.

Milk from Ayrshire cows contains comparatively little color and has the fat in uniformly small globules which average smaller in size than in any other breed. For these reasons the milk sometimes fails to show a distinct cream line, by which the consumer often judges the quality of the milk. Ayrshire milk, because of the small fat globules, stands shipping well without churning, and in other respects it is well adapted to the market-milk trade. The percentage of the butterfat in the milk is medium, and consequently there is no difficulty in conforming to local or state butterfat standards.

BEST COW AFTER FRESHENING

Animal Should Be Fed to Build Up Body Rather Than for the Manufacture of Milk.

A cow in poor condition at the start of her lactation period is not capable of the best, as the feeds she consumes following freshening must be devoted largely to the building up of the body rather than toward the manufacture of milk and butterfat.

AID SELLING OF FARM PRODUCTS

Farmer Often Ships to Distant Markets When Better Prices Prevail Nearer Home.

VALUE OF MARKET REPORTS

Practice of Ignoring Nearby Markets Not Only Means Loss of Money, but May Result in General Economic Waste as Well.

The epigram, "He can't see the woods for the trees" is one that can well be applied to the marketing of farm products, say specialists of the bureau of markets, United States department of agriculture. Often marketing opportunities at the very doors of growers are overlooked. A producer will ship his products to a distant market at considerable expense and in competition with other growers when he might have sold them nearer home at a larger profit to himself and at lower cost to the consumer. The reason he does not do so generally is that he is not sufficiently informed of the requirements in his more immediate territory.

Precisely this condition has existed in the state of New Hampshire for a good many years. Dealers were equally at fault, for in many leading cities orders were sent to Boston for large quantities of reasonable New Hampshire products, which, when traced, were found in some instances to have been produced and shipped from stations within a few miles of the very cities or towns where the dealers were located.

Seeks Better Methods. To correct this situation a bureau of markets was created in the state of New Hampshire in 1917. The chief aim was to ascertain the volume and location of production and consumption and to bring dealers and growers together, so that they would not be working at cross purposes. An investigation of the marketing of peaches in Hillsboro county disclosed that growers were marketing a large percentage of the crop in Boston and other out-of-state markets, although the fruit could have been disposed of to better advantage at local markets. Through the bureau's activities the returns to the growers who marketed their peaches in the state in 1919 were as much as 100 per cent higher than the prices received by producers who continued to ship to out-of-state markets.

Another investigation revealed the fact that hundreds of pigs purchased in Massachusetts by New Hampshire farmers could have been supplied by local producers. Immediate assistance was given the New Hampshire farmers in purchasing direct of local swine breeders, and where large numbers of pigs were offered in one section they were marketed to advantage in other sections where there was a demand for them.

Economic Waste May Result. Not only does the practice of ignoring nearby markets often mean loss of money to all concerned, but it may result in a general economic waste as well, say marketing experts of the department of agriculture. The gravity of this condition will be readily seen when it is known that in 1919, 532 dealers located at 55 marketing centers in New Hampshire made out-of-state purchases amounting to approximately $18,000,000—a large percentage of which could have been supplied by New Hampshire farmers by increased production and proper marketing methods.

Of course, there are times when it is decidedly to the growers' advantage to ship their products to distant markets, say these marketing experts. It is all a question of keeping thoroughly informed as to market conditions. To aid producers in this the federal bureau of markets issues daily market reports covering a number of markets throughout the country, as well as weekly and monthly reports and special articles. States that have local bureaus of markets publish similar information regarding more local conditions.

To market his produce to best advantage a producer must keep in close touch with his state bureau, his federal bureau, the field agents in marketing and the county agents. He must look about him if his vision is not to be obscured. Right at hand here may be countless opportunities that he never dreamed existed.

CAN INTRODUCE GOOD SIRES IN MANY WAYS

Causes of Inferior Farm Stock Briefly Summarized.

Success Comes Only in Large way to Individuals and Communities Who Have Adopted One Breed and Stuck Right to it.

The causes of inferiority among live stock, cattle, sheep, horses and even chickens may be summed up briefly. They are:

1. Lack of purpose in breeding operations.
2. Failure to use good blood.
3. Indiscriminate mixing of different types and breeds.
4. Lack of good care and management.

In inaugurating the "better sires—better stock" crusade, the United States department of agriculture fully recognizes the obstacles to be met and overcome. There are few today who believe that a scrub is in any way equal to the purebred or better-bred animal. The purebred, particularly the better-bred, animal is rapidly finding a place on farms where heretofore the less desirable kind were growing. Those who previously were growing scrubs are growing good stock, while those who previously kept good ones are now growing the better kind.

Good sires may be introduced in many ways, but among the more practical are:

1. Individual ownership.
2. Copartnership ownership, where two or more farmers purchase a sire jointly, or
3. The agricultural organization, club, farm bureau, or community ownership plan.

Good results are seen everywhere from co-operative efforts along this line.

The communities as well as individuals that have become most noted for the animals they have produced are those that have selected just one breed, and only one. While no one would attempt to tell you the breed you should keep, yet success comes only in a large way to the individuals and communities who have adopted one breed, rather than two or many. To work out this plan successfully, the individual likes and dislikes will have to be overcome or minimized. Where this has been done, marked progress has been made.

SUCCESS CALLS FOR LOYALTY

Co-operative Enterprise Must Have Hearty Support of Its Members to Achieve Victory.

A co-operative enterprise is directly dependent for its success upon the loyalty of the members and their interest in the organization. Lack of loyalty and interest on the part of the members has resulted in the downfall of many co-operative associations. Organizations founded upon a real desire of the members are less likely to suffer from lack of allegiance than those which have for their basis misconceptions and prejudice.

GENERAL FARM NOTES

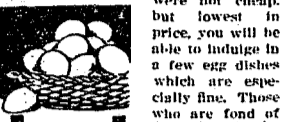

- Keep weeds from going to seed.
- More farm workshops are needed.
- Enrich your soil and harvest larger crops.
- Potato peelings fed raw in not too large quantities are good for the laying hens.
- Very frequently alfalfa seed is not pure, contains noxious weeds and is low in germination.

The KITCHEN CABINET

Some may live their fair dreams, costly, jeweled, rare dreams; Some may rove the luring world as free as homing birds; But still I'll find my all for me, close waiting at my call for me. In my printed palaces, bright tapestried with words! —Martha Haskell Clark.

A SYMPOSIUM OF SOUFFLES.

If you have been forehanded and packed eggs for winter use when they were not cheap, but lowest in price, you will be able to indulge in a few egg dishes which are especially fine. Those who are fond of cheese will like this substantial and satisfying soufflé.

Salmon Soufflé.—Take one small can of salmon, two tablespoonsful of corn starch, one tablespoonful of butter, one-quarter of a cupful of milk, three eggs, one teaspoonful of onion juice, one teaspoonful of chopped parsley, one-half cupful of bread crumbs, salt and pepper to taste and one teaspoonful of lemon juice. Drain the salmon and remove the bones and skin. Blend the butter and corn starch and gradually add the milk until smooth. Season, remove from the fire, add egg yolks, lemon juice, onion juice, parsley and bread crumbs. Fold in the whites of the eggs. Set the baking dish in a pan of hot water and bake half an hour. Hot soufflés should be baked in hot water to avoid overcooking.

Lemon Soufflé.—Take six eggs, yolks and whites beaten separately, add one cupful of sugar to the beaten yolks, then the juice and grated rind of a lemon, fold in the stiffly beaten whites and place in a buttered dish, set in a pan of hot water and bake 40 minutes. Serve with a lemon sauce as dessert.

Veal Soufflé.—Take two cupfuls of chopped veal, two tablespoonsful of butter, one cupful of sweet milk, one cupful of cream, one tablespoonful of minced parsley, three eggs, two tablespoonsful of flour, one can of button mushrooms and seasonings to taste. Melt the butter without browning, add the flour. When smooth add the cream and milk, cook until it thickens, add the veal, then the yolks of the eggs, mushrooms and parsley. Take from the heat and cool. When ready to use, fold in the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs, turn into a buttered baking dish and bake 20 minutes.

It is easy in the world to live after the world's opinion; it is easy in solitude to live after our own; but the great man is he who in the midst of the crowd keeps with perfect sweetness the independence of solitude.— Emerson.

SEASONABLE GOOD THINGS.

A most delicious cheese combination to serve with crackers and coffee is the following:

Cheese Roll.—Take one cake of any cream cheese, one cupful of grated New York cheese, a dash of red pepper, one-half cupful of chopped, stuffed olives and enough thick sweet cream to mold into a roll. Decorate the roll with thinly sliced stuffed olives, and serve on a doily covered plate.

Pepper Hash.—Wash and dry five large green peppers and one red one. Cut them open and remove the seeds and white membrane. Chop the peppers fine, add the white heart of a cabbage, also chopped fine, add two tablespoonsful of brown mustard seed, three tablespoonsful of salt, one of sugar, and cover with good cider vinegar. Stir up thoroughly, then bottle.

Ginger Punch.—Chop three-fourths of a pound of Canton ginger, add one quart of water, one cupful of sugar, and boil twenty minutes. Cool and add three tablespoonsful of the ginger syrup, three-fourths of a cupful of orange juice, one-half cupful of lemon juice and large pieces of cracked ice. Stir until well chilled and add one cup of apollinaris water.

Chestnut Cup.—Prepare chestnuts cooked until tender in a rich lemon syrup, adding some of the rind for further flavor. Dispose a few of these chestnuts cut in slices in the bottom of a sherbet cup, add a spoonful of vanilla ice cream and garnish the top with whipped cream, sweetened and flavored.

Cheese Soufflé.—Prepare a thin sauce using one cupful of milk and two tablespoonsful each of butter and flour. Melt the butter and add the flour, mix well, then add one cupful of milk, cook until smooth, season well, and add three-quarters of a cupful of grated cheese, the yolks of three eggs and lastly fold in the stiffly beaten whites. Bake slowly about 45 minutes.

Macaroni and Salmon.—Cook the macaroni until tender, then arrange it in layers with shredded salmon, pepper, salt, bits of butter and a few drops of lemon juice. When the casserole is filled pour over a cupful of milk; cover with buttered crumbs and bake.

Apple Snow.—Grate two large apples, cover with one cupful of sugar, break the whites of four eggs over the apples and sugar and beat hard one-half hour. The mixture will be stiff and stand alone. Serve cold with cream.

Camel CIGARETTES

HOWDY PETE!

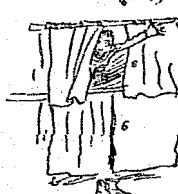

Always learn something when I head into this old town. Passed my deck of Camels to a fine, business-looking citizen in the Pullman dressing room this morning and this opened up a conversation. Listen, Pete, that man talked the Camel language according to Hoyle!

"Camels are the very quintessence of cigarettes" said this party. Pete, get that word? It fits—it spreads the news—it spills the whole Camel story! And, if you don't get what I'm driving to you, look up the word in Webster's! Why, Uncle Dan put it there when he dreamed Camels were coming! That man slipped into one word—mellow-mild-body, no cigarette aftertaste, no cigarette odor—and—the best cigarette in the world at any price!

Pete, why do you hear men of all types everywhere actually boosting Camels? That's because they know Camels are right! They know from Camels flavor that Camels have the quality—and they know that Camels blend of choice Turkish and choice Domestic tobaccos makes the most delightful cigarette any man ever put between his lips!

Old oil well, I'm no gusher, but my way Camels are going to more and more men every one of the seven days in every week is a sight to see!
