Quality Goes Clear Through

When you purchase an automobile you do not buy so much steel, so much rubber. Instead you buy Transportation Service summed up in one word MILES.

When you have driven your car six months, a year or some other period, its net result in value to you has been a certain number of subtract description.

period, its net result in value to you may occur miles of travel.

Thus we establish the good sense of purchasing that car which delivers the most satisfactory Transportation Service at a favorable liver the most satisfactory Transportation Service two hundred livers the most satisfactory Transportation Service at a favorable cost per mile.

The high esteem in which the Dort is held by nearly two hundred thousand owners is due partly to the fact that it delivers travel miles at a very low cost. And one of the prime reasons for this is found in the ear's moderate price.

That Dort is the fairest priced four cylinder car built in large numbers and that it has maintained this important position through five years of constantly increasing costs is evidence that it is and always has been fairly priced.

Considering first cost, maintenance and operation charges, high re-sale value and all other factors contributing to Economy we know of no other automobile that will deliver satisfactory, efficient travel-miles at as low a cost per mile.

FIFTIETH ANNUAL MEETING OF MICHIGAN FRUIT GROWERS

The fiftieth annual meeting of the Michigan State Horticultural Society will be held at the Pantind hotel in Grand Rapids, November 30 to December 2, inclusive.

Enthusiasm is running high among the fruit growers of the state, who have harvested a bumper crop, and will convene in Grand Rapids for the fiftieth annual convention.

will convene in Grand Rapids for the fiftieth annual convention.

Experiences of the past season have been variable. New problems must be faced for the coming year and will be minutely handled by mer who are alive to the situation of to day.

and will be minutely handled by men who are alive to the situation of today.

R. V. Goff, of Sturgeon Bay, Wis., will handle the subject of "Marketing Problems." One of the big problems foremost in the minds of fruit growers is the subject of spraying. There are a great many advocates of using a dry material in the form of "Dust," while others maintain that liquid sprays are the most efficient. Prof H. H. Whetzel, of Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., will have some very interesting results which he will present to the convention. Parm Financing by Communities, Orchard Pertilizers, Transportation Problems, Pruning, and practically every subject appertaining to the fruit industry will be forcibly discussed.

The student speaking contest, originated in this society some time ago, will be featured on Wednesday morning, after which will occur the various reports of the society, and the efection of officers for the ensuing year.

the election of officers for the enaing year.

Hotel reservations are being made early, and every effort is being put forth to make this semi-Centennial meeting the liveliest the society has ever held. Further details may be secured upon application to George M. Low, secretary, Bangor, Mich, who extends a hearty welcome to everyone connected with or interestin the fruit industry.

STATE HEALTH DEPARTMENT IS URGING VACCINATION

IS URGING VACCINATION

Wiped out for a number of years by general vaccination which relegated it to the role of one of the minor discases smallpox is again threatening to become epidemic in Michigan.
"Because Michigan has acquired an unvaccinated population, and therefore a susceptible population, smallpox endangers the whole state," Dr.
R. M. Olin, state commissioner of health, announced. "People who were vaccinated a number of years ago have outgrown their immunity, and parents feeling a sense of security from the disease have neglected to have their children immunized by vaccination.

"Since January 1, 3.719 cases of the disease have been reported to this department compared to the 2,070 in 1919. While some of the increase can he attributed to better reporting, the situation is serious enough to command the attention of every thoughtful citizen. Several cities have already experienced small epidemics."

have already experienced small epidemics."
Immigrants now coming to Michigan in large numbers further complicate the problem, according to Dr. Olin. Most of these people come from countries where small pox is epidemic and often carry with them the infection of the disease. Should smallpox suddenly take one of its malignant trends it would find whole communities highly susceptible.
"For this reason," said Dr. Olin, "the Michigan department of health is urging the vaccination of all persons whose work brings them in contact with possible sources of infection. Especially does it recommend the immunizing by vaccination of all school children."

However the "bust" occurred quicker than was expected as the ear had not reached Ypsilanti before it skidded on the slippery road and ran into the bank considerably damaging the car, Wittlenger and his companion, Lawrence-Gressler of Milwaukee, returned to this city and as soon as the car can be repaired a fresh start will be made, according to Gressler.—Ann Arbor Times News.

Ann Arbor —A piece of beef cooked in 1805 is still heing carefully preserved in a little silver pitcher by Edward B. Manwaring, of Ann Arbor. This is not being kept in anticipation of a further increase in the cost of beef, but is a genuine heirloom. Screenat Joseph Hobbins, of the British Royal matines, saved the piece of heef, which he was cating when assaulted with an axe by a cook on a French vessel, which had been captured by Lord Nelson at Trafalgar. The cook missed his aim, but the sergeant got the beef. Sergeant Hobbins was the great-great-grandfather of Lieutnant Colonel Edward B. Manwaring, of the United States marine corps.

Ann Arbor-F. J. Rhiner, a banker, said to be wanted in Texas to face a charge of embezzlement, was arrested by Sheriff Pack about 8 o'clock Thursday morning, and was held in the county jail until officials from the Detroit office of the department of justice came after him in the afternoon. Sheriff Pack met the alleged embezzler walking on the street. Recognizing him from photographs he had received from the federal authorities, he placed him under arrest and took him to the jail. When arrested Rhiner was wearing a wig to conced his baldness. He had been in Detroit for some time before conting to Ann Arbor, it is said.—Ann Arbor Times News.

Mrs. W. D. Arrold, E. Middle st., Chelsea, says: "I am pleased'to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills from the great benefit I received from their use, I suffered greatly from nagging backaches and a distressing pain through my kidneys. My kidneys gave me great deal of trouble, too. I used Doan's Kidney Pills from Fenn's Drug Store and they helped me wonderfully. They banished the backaches and pains and corrected the action of my kidneys. I am ever so much better in every way since I used Doan's."

The above statement was given July 7, 1909, and on April 27, 1920, Mrs. Arnold added: "I have just the same good opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills as when I rescommended them in 1909. They cured me and it has lasted. I am always telling my friends about the merits of this remedy."

HERE WE ARE, PETE!

New York Wednesday night

Camped once more in the plumb centre of our old stamping grounds—rubbing elbows with the roaring racket and running flush into more electric displays, blazing posters and smashing signs that sound the joys of Camel Cigarettes than you'd ever believe could be jammed into one town!

ever believe could be jammed into one town!

When I hit Broadway this p. m. I'd said the Reynolds folks had transplanted "Camel City" right up here!

Reynolds folks had transplanted "Camel City" right up here!

It seems like all New Yorkers have adopted Camels as their own personal brand! And, Pete, since this is the original speed town it's only what you expect when you see 'em carry a package of Camels in each coat pocket. If their right hand is busy, they dig out their left hand deck—they just won't lose time getting a Camel lighted! That's the gait around here, old thorobred!

And, Peter, the New Yorker has his own A-1 pet reason why he's so keen for Camels, For instance, Doc Marshall will bet his car on Camels quality against any cigarette in the world! Bill James says to me—"Shortty, there never was mild, mellow body like Camels." And, as for Dan Boggs—he spills it that Camels are the only cigarette free from any unpleasant cigaretty aftertaste or cigaretty odor! And, he knows! Frank Frazer will tell you it's Camels wonderful Turkish and Domestic blend! And all of them are right!

And, Pete, old proof-of-the-pudding—you tell 'em that Missouri hasn't anything on little old New York when it comes to that "show me" stuff, on cigarettes or anything else!

Small Nations Asserting Them selves in Meeting of the League Assembly.

HYMANS ELECTED PRESIDENT

By EDWARD W. PICKARD.

No sooner had the assembly of the League of Nations got down to business in its first meeting in Geneva than signs of discord between the groups of large and small nations appeared. Up to date the latter have the better of the argument, and the fears of persons who thought the dolings of the league would be dominated by Great Britain, France, Iraly and perhaps Japan are somewhat altayed. Indeed, the representatives of those four nations were by no means in accord on all points. The Italians placed themselves in opposition to French propositions, and the various British dominions did not agree with the mother country.

A most interesting development of the west reardominions did not agree with the mother country.

A most interesting development of the week was the announcement that Spain would join with Great Britain, France and Belgium in policing the Vilina zone during the pleblacite. This was looked on an possibly the beginning of the organization of a league army.

The first day, after the election of Paul Hymans of Belgium as president saw the opening scrap over the matter of admitting Germany to membership in the league. The French had objected that this subject did not appear on the agenda, but Titioni of Italy declared the whole world demanded the admission of the enemy states and would not accept the excess that their applications had not been received in time. Sir Robert Cecil, who represented South Africa, appeared to side with Titioni.

It was decladed that its commissions should handle the work of the assembly. The first is to take care of general organization: the second technical should handle the work of the assem-by. The first is to take care of gen-eral organization; the second technical organization; the third the internation-al court of justice; the fourth finance; the fifth admission of new members, and the sixth reduction of armaments, blockade and military pressure on covenant breaking states and man-

Sandisky—Glem Narenberg, of Pontiac, was held up two miles east of Applegate by two bandits driving a large touring car. Twenty-four hundred dollars was taken from him the had sold his place in Pontiac the day before and was going to Sanilac township to visit relatives.

Potterville—The animal world seems to "have it in for Dwight Backius. A cat attacked him first, biting him seriously on the hand. He went to the barn to get a horse to take him to a doctor, when the horse kicked him in the back, breaking three ribs and causing internal injuries.

Filint—Park Randall, who admitted having 180 quarts of liquor in his possession which he breught into Filint from Wyandotte, was given the heaviest sentence over handed out for a prohibition violation in Genese-county. Judge F. W. Brenan sentenced him to from six months to a year in lonia, with a recommendation of tall time.

Kalamazoo—Love for his litting daughter, which landed Arthur Voiets on prison on a charge of violating the federal liquor laws, has resulted in his commitment to Borgess hospital with a nervous ailment. The accused man, who was bound over to the federal grand jury at Grand Rapids, has go been so worried about the possible fate of the eight-vera-old gril in the event ho is sent to prison that he has not had any sleep since his ariest. His condition became such that the was removed to the hospital for treatment as a nerve patient.

Certain German officials have told a Berlin correspondent that Germany would not now accept membership in the league if it were offered; that she now contemplates demanding a new pence conference, or at least an interpretation and revisien of the existing truth (graphly as he claim. Market pretation and revisien of the existing treaty favorable to her claims. Berlin holds that a definite sum for reparations must be fixed, and feels that the coul delivery demands are too severe and are the sole cause for unemployment and labor disturbances in Germany. The Germans also hope that the Danzig corridor will be restored to them, and that they will be given some colonial mandatories.

An interesting story from Munich sets forth the imminence of a new revolution in Bayaria which is to make an independent state of that second largest state of the German confederation and the creation of a regency, probably to be followed by the selection of one of the Wittelsbach family as king. It is planned, also, that Bayaria shall enter into an agreement with France to guarantee her independence and obtain relief from her part of the German war burden. The story, which is plausible, says the real ruler of Bayaria is Doctor Escherich, founder of the Bayarian home militia, whose armed strength is about 100,000; that he is backed by the former German staff officers and monarchists, chief of whom is General Ludendorff, and that Ludendorff probably would be chosen regent. Escherich has refused to disarm his militia, and it is expected the entente will soon threaten to occupy the Ruhr basia in consequence. When this is done, according to the plot, the workers, socialists and communists will declare a general strike and in the ensuing conflict the coup d'etat will be accomplished.

ensuing conflict the coup d'etat will be accomplished.

Having crushed Baron Wrangel and expelled him and his troops from the Crimea, the Russian soviet government finds fisself in good shape to resume negotiations for the resumption of trade with other nations. And its chances for recognition also are vastly improved. Most governments realized some time ago that Russian Bolshevism was not to be destroyed by armed opposition, especially from the outside; and nearly all except France believed that it would be useless to give aid to the factions within Russian that were in rebellion against Lenine and Trotzky. Even the leaders of the Menshivists and other wise opponents of Bolshevism in Russia have long maintained that position and asserted that the best thing to do was to recognize the Moscow government, or at least let it alone, and that ultimately, having nothing to fight, Bolshevism must fall. It seems likely that this view of the problem will now become general.

The crushing of Wrangel was swift, once the Rolshoviki had broken through his defenses on the Perekop peninsula. His troops were driven back to Schastopol and some 20,000 of them, together with many thousands of civilian refugees, embarked there and were carried to Constantinople and other ports. Wrangel also escaped to the Turkish capital.

The soviet forces were then directed against the Ukrainlans under General Petlura, and these also were put to root. Kiev and other cities being occupied by the Reds. There was fear in ront. Kiev and other cities being occu-pied by the Reds. There was fear in the capitals of Europe that the Rus-sians would now renew the fight against the Poles, and certain threat-ening notes from Moscow to Warsaw increased the apprehension.

The Turkish nationalists have designated soviet Russia as the "warden of the Orient," according to Talaat Pasha, former vizler, and consider the treaty letiween Turkey and the allies invalid. With the help of the nationalists, the Russians are strengthening their hold on the country between the Black and Caspian seus, demanding more and more from the Georgians and the Armenians, and opening more completely their route to Fersia, and Mesopotamia, and perhaps to India. The British have decided not to reduce their military establishment in Mesopotamia for the present.

Venizelos, premier of Greece, was badly defeated in the elections and has resigned and taken refuge in France. Admiral Coundouriotis, the regent.

called George Rhallis to form a new cablact, and when the new premier was sworn in he demanded the resignation of the admiral and made Queen Olga, mother of former King Constantine, regent. It was taken for granted that the victorious party, of which Gounaris is the head, would recall Constantine to the throne, though is says he will not fetura except by mandate of the Greek people in a pleisette. Probably a majority of the civil population would vote for the restoration now, but it is believed most of the army would oppose it if given a chance to vote. There is even some talk of the troops in Asia Minor returning to prevent the recall of Constantine by force. This presumably would precipitate a civil war. France and England have been holding conversations over the Greek stimution, but it was stated neither would act without the other.

The Kansas industrial court, which has been so bitterly attacked by organized labor, showed the other of its two edges last week when it called before it representatives of all flour mills in Topeka. Workmen had complained to the court that some of the mills had closed down and others were on part time, and the court wanted to know why, since such a thing cannot be done without court sanction where a necessity of life is involved.

why, since such a thing cannot be done without court sanction where a necessity of life is involved.

The millers agreed that the cheaper Canudian wheat available to Eastern mills and cheaper Canadian flour available to consumers had led to such curtailment of new orders and such cancellation of orders previously placed that mills which had closed or were on "part time" had acted from necessity. If the court finds the action of the millers unjustified it can order the operation of the mills on a scale which it deems just. It will be rendily seen that this case is of far more than local importance in its influence on future legislation and the possible establishment of similar courts in other states.

The executive council of the American Federation of Labor is busy getting ready to start a great movement for the "humanization of industry." Its main demand will be that union contracts with employers shall include provisions for the appointment of committees of employees to co-operate with factory owners in the management of production. The program also calls for a renewal of the fight on the repeal of existing laws and opposi-tion to proposed laws requiring com-pulsory arbitration of industrial dis-putes.

In pursuance of its policies, the ex-ceutive council is eliminating as many of the ultra-midical leaders in the ranks of union labor as it can. Among these is John Fitipartick, bitter for of Gompers, whom the Chicago Federa-tion of Labor continues to elect as its president.

President-Elect Harding, after brief visits in Brownsville, Tex., and New Orleans, sailed for the Canal Zone. Mr. Harding had let the Mexicans know that he could not go to Mexico City for the inauguration of General Obregon, but there was talk of his stopping at Vera Cruz for a talk with the general.

The National Farmers' union has sent to its locals throughout the country a call for a producers' strike to combat the falling prices of farm products. All farmers are appealed to to hold this year's products from the markets until "profit-making levels" are restored. The "strike" is not com-

Nearly five thousand Michigan children were left orphans last year because of deaths of parents from toperculosis. Something like the same number will become orphans the present year, it is estimated, from the same cause. This statement is made by the Michigan Anti-tuberculosis Association as one of the strongest arguments why the people of Michigan should help to make the big Christmas seal sale that is to he held from December 1 to 11 successful.

"I think so, I dare say Ricardo hopes to take Sarros by surprise, bottle the city garrison up in the cuarted and the government palace and there besize them. Having secured nominal control of a scaport, he can import arms and summunition; also he can recruit openly, and at his leisure hunt down the authying partisons. The Sarros crowd doesn't suspect his presence in Sobrante, and by a quick, saying stroke he should be able to jerk this one-horse government up by the age stroke he should be able to Jork this one-horse government up by the heels in Jig time—particularly since the citizenry feel no loyalty toward the Serros regime and are only kept in subjection through fear and lack of a lender. I'm going to play itiear-do to win, If he isn't killed in the opening row, for I'm certain he'll lead his men."

"If dare say he is greatly like his father—nor afraid to die for his country," she replied presently. "I am gind to be here when he takes that risek."

"Oh, but you musin't be here," Webster protested.
"Why?"
"Because there'll be street fighting -probably of a desperate character, and I understand your countrymen go rather war-mad and de things not sanctioned by The Hague tribunal, if there's a steamer in port at the time I'll put you should her until the issue is decided. I'm going to see Ricar-flo tomorrow night and hearn the details of his plan of campaign; after that I'll be able to not intelligently."

Ricardo Ruer, with Dr. Pacheco and Ricardo Rucy, with Dr. Pacheco and Colonel Carriveo, were engaged in consultation when Jack Webster, having left the Hotel Mateo vin his hedroom window in order to avoid possible espionage and made his way to Bl Buch Amigo on foot, was anyounced by Mother Jenks. The three conspirators greeted him joyously, as indeed they should, for his loyal friendship had thus far been one of their principal bulwarks.

Colonel Caraveo favored him with a

"You bet."

"What did you find?"

"Acounder of millions in sight."

"Nou bet."

"You bet."

"You bet."

"A couple of millions in sight."

Ricarlo shook his head stowly. "It is not in sight, old man," he reminded Webster. "Without our aid—and you cannot have our aid unless our revolution is successful, when you shall have it freely—your millions are, most positively, not in sight. If you want those millions, friend Webster, there is but one way to get them—and that is to close your eyes and play our game to the limit. I wonder if you'd go further—about $40,000 further, to be exact."

"I'might, but I never go it blind for a wad like that. What's your trouble!"

a wad like that. What's your trouble?"
The individual in charge of the gunds of the revolutionary joints in Now Orleans was murdered last night; the funds were deposited to his credit as agent in a certain hank, and hefore the junia can obtain lead possession of them again the psychological time for their use will have passed. "We have a steamer chartered, and 200 men, whose business it is to fight under any flag at $5 rold per day and no questions asked, are now marking time on the isle of Pines, off the coast of Cuba, walting for our steamer to call for them and land them with their rifles and animumition and alk 75-millimeter field guas and some 18 intest up the coast from here.

"We must also pay 200 men one month's pay in advance—that is, $30,000; we cannot meet this expense and still take up that sight draft now awaiting our attention in the bank at Tampa.

And as a bonus for saving this country from a brutal dictator, who is pilinging its resources for his personal profit, you shall have a deed of gift to that mining concession you and your friend, Geary, are so desirous of working; also the title shall be certified by the government and the Supreme court of Sobrante and absolutely secured to you against future aggressize in the arount that the new regime date: Also you have my profound gratitude and that of my people."

Tell me your plan of campaign," Webster suggested.

"In a secret rendezvous in the mountains I have 1,000 picked menmy father's veterans. They are armed with modern ritles and machetes. The nitrate company, which has been suffering from heavy export duties imposed by Sarros, has loaned me all the rolling stock of the railroad for one night. It will be mobilized at San Mignel de Padun by next Saturday night; my troops will arrive late the same afternoon and entrain at once. "In the interim all telephone and telegraph commandeations with Bunaventura will be severed. The night previous our steamer will have discharged her cargo of men and munitions at San Bruno; a chain of outposts will at once be established and all communication with the capital will be shut off.

"On Saturday night, also, the Consolidated Fruit company's steamer, La Estrellita, will make port with 30 Americans in her steeringe. These men will, be rond-makers and miners imported by Mr. J. S. Webster, and in order to make certain that they will come, you have already ordered them by cable. We have arranged with the port doctor to give La Es-trellita a clean bill of health the very night she arrives. Hence the ship's authorities will not be suspicious, I it will carry!" Dr. Pucheco cried Joyously.

"Have you provided a chauffeur, Doctor?"

"I have—likewise an armored sheet-steel closet for him to sit in while chaffcuring."

"How about that loan to the provisional government?" Ricardo demanded pointedly.

Webster did not hestitate. After all, what was money to him now? Billy had gone away, his bopes raised high, already a millionaire after the fashion of mining men, who are ever ready to count their chicks before they are hatched, provided only they see the eggs. Besides, there was Dolores. Full well Webster realized that Billy, tossed back once more into the Jaws of the well-known wolf of poverty, would not have the courage upon his return to Sobrante to ask Dolores to share his poverty with him; should the revolution fail, Ricardo Ruey would be an outcast, a hunted man with a price on his head, and in no position to care for his sister, even should be survive long enough to know he had a sister. She would be alone in the world if he, John Stuart Webster, failed her now—more than ever she needed a man's strength and affection to help her navigate the tide-rips of life, for life to a woman, alone and unprotected and dependent upon her labor for the bread she must ent, must contain, at best, a full measure of terror and despair and loneilness. He pictured her through a grim processional of years of skimping and petty sacrifices—and all because he, John Stuart Webster, had bestated to tend a dreamer and an idealist a paltry $40,000 without security.

No, there was no alternative. If his friendship for Billy was worth a sou, it was worth $40,000; if his silent, unrequited love for Dolores Ruey was worth of her, no sacrifice on his part could be too great, provided it guaranteed her happiness.

"Ruined again." he sighed. "This is only another of those numerous occasions when the tail goes with the hide. How soon do you want the could be too great, provided it guaranteed her happiness.

Hieardo Luiz Ruey leaned forward and gazed very earnestly at John Stuart Webster. "Do you really trust me that much, my friend?" he asked feelingly. "Remember, I am asking you for $40,000 on faith."

"Old sport." John Stuart Webster answered, "you went overboard in Buenaventura harbor and took a chatce among those big, liver-colored, hammer-headed sharks. And you did that because you had a cause you thought worth dying for. I never knew it man who had a cause that was worth dying for the word with man who had a cause that was worth dying for the word with man who had a cause that was worth dying for the would even espouse a cause worth swindling for. You with-only! I want you to understand one thing, Ricurdo: I'm not doing this for the sake of saving that mining concession the Sarros government gave my friend, Geary. I'm above doing a thing like this for money—for myself. It seems to me I must do it to guarantee the happiness of two people I love: My friend, Geary, and the girl lie's going to marry. I reject your promissory note and your promise of a deed of gift for that concession, and accept only your gratitude. There are to strings to this loan, because it isn't a long at all. It's a bet. If you look, I'll help you get out of the country and absoive you of any indebtedness to me. However, if you should win, I know you'll relimburse me from the national treasury."

"And you do not desire a bonus?"

Ing for my $40,000—and go through with it. I worked rather hard for that $40,000, and if I must lose it, I do not want to do it in a half-hearted fight. Give me, at least, a bloody run for my money. I'll have a reserved sent somewhere watching the game."

"If you'll take my advice, you'll go aboard La Estreillin and stay there until the issue is decided. When the first gun is fired, it signals the open senson on mining engineers who but in on affairs of state."

"What! And me with a healthy bet down on the result! I hope I'm a better sport than that."

"You're incorrigible. Be careful, then, and don't get yourself potted by a stray builet."

"Shall I see you fellows before the blow-off?"

a stray bullet."

"Shall I see you fellows before the blow-off?"

"I scarcely think so."

"Then if you're through with me, I'll bid you all good-by and good luck. I'll have dinner with you in the palace Sunday evening."

"Taken."

"May I bring a guest?"

"Hy all means."

Webster shook hands with the trio and departed for his hotel. For the first time in many years he was heavy of heart, crushed. "Neddy Jerome was right," he solliequized. "This is the last place on earth for me to have come to. I've made Neddy sore on me, and he's lost patience and put another man in the job he promised me; I've raised Billy's hopes sky-high and had to bet $40,000 to keep them there; I've been fool enough to fail in love with my friend's finacce; I'm a human cat's paw, and the finest thing I can do now is to go out next Sunday morning with that machine gun company from Leher's warchouse and get killed."

CHAPTER XIV.

CHAPTER XIV.

CHAPTER XIV.

The following moruing Webster informed Dolores tuity of his interview with her brother and his conferees the night before, concealing from her only the fact that he was financing the revolution and his reasons for financing it. He was still depressed, and Dolores, observing his mood, forbore to intrude upon it. Accordingly she chinned the prerogative of her sexastill depressed, and slight headache—and retreated to her room, in the privacy of which she was suddenly very much surplised to find herself weeping softly because John Stunt Webster was unhappy and didn't deserve to be.

It was impossible, however, for Webster long to remain impervious to the note of ridiculousness underlying the forthcoming trafte events. Here was a little 2x1 poverty-stricken hothed of ignorance and intrigue calling itself a republic, a little stretch of country no larger than a couple of big western counties, about to indulge in the national pastime of civil war and unable to do it except by grace of an humble citizen of a sister republic!

Five or six thousand ignorant, illequipped, ill-drilled semi-brigands calling themselves soldiers, entrusted with portunity to dwell on the matter, And for these compensating offsets, good Lord, I thank Thee."

He was John Stuart Webster again when Dolores saw him next; during the succeeding days his mood of cheerfulness and devil-may-care indifference never left him. And throughout that period of marking time Polores was much in his society, a condition which he told himself was not to bis liking but which, nevertheless, he could not obvinte without seeming indifferent to her happiness. And to permit his friend's flance to languish in loneliness and heart-break did not appear to John Stuart Webster as the part of a true friend or a courtly gentleman—and he remembered that she had once called him that.
They rode togsther in the cool of the morning; they drove together on the Malecon in the cool of the evening; chaperoned by Don Juan Cafetere and a griming Sobrantean, they went shark fishing in Leber's launch; they played dominoes together; they discussed, throughout the long, lazy, quiet afternoons, when the remainder of their world retired for the siessa, hooks, art, mon, women, and things.

And not once, throughout two weeks of camaraderie, did the heart-racked Webster forget for a single instant that he was the new friend, destined to become the old friend; never, to the girl's watchful eyes, did he betray the slightest disposition to establish their friendly relations on a closer basis.

truy the slightest disposition to establish their friendly relations on a closer bosis.

Thus did the arrival of The Day find them. Toward sunset they rode out together along the hay shore and noted far out to sea the smear of smoke that marked the approach of La Estrellita—on schedule time. "You will go aboard her tonight," Webster said very quietly to Dolores. "And you?"

"I shall go aboard with you. I have arranged with Don Juan for him to stay ashore and to come out in Leber's launch with the first reliable news of the coafflet. If Ricardo wins the chy, he wins the revolution, and you and I will then go ashore—to dine with him in the palace. If he loese the city, he loses the revolution, and we will both to well to remain aboard La Estrellita."

"And in that event, what will become of my brother?"

"I do not know; I forgot to ask him, but if he survives, I imagine hell have sense enough to know he's whipped and will retreat on San Brunok in the survives and cation, can bark aboard the steamer that brought his men there, and escape."

"I'm worried about Mother Jenks."

"Ihave asked Mother Jenks to dine with us at 7:30 this evening, and have ordered a carriage to call for her. When she comes I'll tell her everything; then, if she wishes to stay ashore, let her. She's been through more than one such fraces and doesn't mind them at all, I dare say."

And in this Webster was right, Mother Jenks listened in profound st-more than one such fraces and doesn't mind them at all, I dare say."

And in this Webster was right, Mother Jenks listened in profound silence, nodding her approval, as Webster reinted to her the story of the advent in the country of Ricardo liney and his plans, but without revealing the identity of Andrew Bowers.

At the conclusion of his recital the old publican merely said: "Gor bifmet"

After a stience she added: "My sainted 'Enery used to s'y the project hodds for a white man in a bally rea o' this nature was 40 to 1. Gor, but how my sainted 'Enery would heady bein' ere this night to 'cip with the guns." She sighed.

"How about a little bottle of wine to drink peace to your sainted 'Heary and lock to The Cause?' Webster suggested.

"That's wot I calls talkin'," Mother Jenks responded promptly, and Web ster, gazing reflectively at the old lady's beard, wondered why she had not been born at man.

Dolores, fearful for her benefactor's safety, urged Mother Jenks to accompany them out aboard La Estrellia, but the old dame fieldgmantly refused, and when prevsed for a reason gave it with the utmost frankness: "They'll be tykin' Sarros, an' when they tyks 'm they'll back him ag'in the same wall he hacked my satuted 'Enery and your father against, my dear. getrean House" of the Remembered Fairy Talea.

We have all read the story of the "gingerbread house" in the fairy ralea.

Well, there is a family of trees in India that have "candy" flowers, or the next thing to it. These trees are known as the "Bassia" trees, and of the three important kinds, two have sugary flowers and the third is called the "Indian butter tree." The petals of the flowers are rich in sugar and drop from the tree in the early morning. They are picked up by the women and children and are spread out on nats to dry in the sum. A single tree will furnish 300 pounds of flowers in a year. When fresh, the flowers are very sweet and taste much like first. They are eaten fresh or cooked with rice, shredded coconut, or flour. The seeds of the butter tree are full of oil, and this oil is used to make a kind of butter, and also for soap and candles.—Popular Mechanics Magnzine.

At the request of the meat inspector of New Haven, Conn., the federal expert examined the carcass of a cow recently killed at a local slaughterhouse. The animal showed extensive lesions of tuberculosis in the lungs, liver, and other parts of the body. Investigation revealed that the cow had been sent to the city by a dairyman who was delivering the milk from his herd to an orphan asylum of the city, and also that the milk was not pasteurized.

Upon further investigation, in which the state authorities at Hartford cooperated, a test of the entire herd was made. Of a total of 25 cattle, 23 reacted to the tuberculin test. Kindness should not be forgotten, for the cow is a docile creature willing to be friends with her keeper when she finds out that he is her friend and no reason to fight. The more intelligent and sensitive the animal is, the more likely it is to resent unjust treatment.

SURSTITUTE USED FOR MILK

Largely by Experience of Feeder and Vigor of Calf.

The use of calf meal as an entire substitute for milk is frequently observed. Success in its use in this way is governed largely by the experience of the feeder, constitutional vigor of the calf and quality and method of preparing the calf meal.

BEST TIME TO SELECT CALF

Make Selection of Young Animal While it is With its Mether and Before Weaned.

The best time to select a calf is at a few months of age, when it may be seen with its mother, or, at any rate, before it is wenned. Observe the cult's mother. If she is a wide, deep-bodied cow with plenty of size and is giving a liberal supply of milk, you may be reasonably sure that the calf, if sired by a good bull and properly cared for, will grow into a useful breeding animal. Another advantage of selecting the calf at this time is that it may be necessary to select it at weaning time or even after it is weaned, but the best time, as stated, is before weaning.

or even after it is weaned, but the best time, as stated, is before weaning.

Caives are frequently classified at fairs and caif shows as "senior" and "junior" caives, depending upon the time of year they were dropped. A caif, for instance, that was dropped between September 1 and December 31 the year previous to the show, would be classed as "senior" caif, and one dropped between January 1 and August 31 previous to the show, mout do classed as rule, a fall or senior caif, on account of its age at the usual time of holding the show, is to be preferred, although there are advantages in selecting a spring of Junior caif, especially one dropped in January or not later than February. This, however, depends upon the rules of the contest at which the calf is to be shown and upon the facilities at hand for feeding and caring for it.

PROVIDE COMFORT FOR COWS

One of Essential Things to Think About in Construction of Build-ing for Animals.

Comfort is one of the things to think about and provide for in the building of a dairy barn. Stanchions are satisfactory, especially the type that swings free and allows a measure of side movement. The length of the stall is movement. The length of the stall is not often enough reckoned with. Give the cows plenty of room to stand at ease with their hind feet two or three inches forward of the gutter. If the cows vary in size, run the gutter at alight angle, so that the stalls at one end are somewhat shorter than they are at the other end of the barn. This allows the placing of the cows according to the companion of the companion of re to Notify Draft Boards Resultof Name As Evader.

Lansing.—Governor Sleeper issued an appeal Nov. 20th to men that registered in the June 5, 1917, draft, asking them to ascertain their nal status under the draft act, in case they are in doubt regarding it, so that their names will not be published in the list of draft deserters the war department is to issue shortly.

Examination of the present list of Michigan draft deserters forwarded to John S. Bersey, adjutant general, shows that a large percentage of the names upon it are those of men that actually served in the forces of the United States or of its co-belligerents. The name of these men were placed on the deserter's list as a result of onlisting before they were drafted and failing to notify their draft boards of their enlistment.

Among other classes improperly classified as draft deserters are men that died after they had registered and before their final status under the draft had been determined, men that failed to respond to draft orders and were later given deferred classification, men whose names were placed on the deserters' list through clerical errors in local draft boards, enemy aliens and citizens of Allied to neutral countries who were lilegally inducted into military service by local draft boards and who failed to serve.

Governor Sleeper urges all persons in doubt as to their final draft status to write to the adjutant general again, stating all the facts relating to their enlistment, deferred classification or foreign citizenship. Parents of men that died after registration and before their final status should also write the adjutant general again, stating all the facts relating to their enlistment, deferred classification or foreign citizenship. Parents of men that died after registration and before their final status should also write the adjutant general again, stating all the facts relating to their enlistment, deferred classification or foreign citizenship. Millions for a New Stomach

One of the greatest American millionsires said to his physician, "A million dollars, Doctor, spot cash and no grumbling, for a new stomach," and then the sick man ground and turned away. All his wealth could not make him happy or contented, for happiness largely depends upon digestion. Without health where does happiness come infactor and the stomach plays a great part in everyday life. Without a healthy stomach and good digestion our blood is thin, watery and poor, our heart action is weak, our liver does not do its duty, and man is miscrable and unhappy. Prevent disease by putting the house in order and strengthening the system against the germs of disease. Dr. Pierce, of the Invalids' Hotel and Burgleal Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y., years ago understood diseases and their prevention, and he discovered certain roots and burbs which were nature's remedies, and succeeded in putting them up in a form that could be easily prosured at the drug store (liquid or tablots). This he called Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This Discovery gives no false stimulation because it contains no alcohol or any narsotic. It helps digestion and the sessimilation of such elements in the food as are required for the blood. It gives to the blood the food element the the sesses require. For ever fifty years it has enjoyed the sonsidence of the American gublic. Try it now!
