HERBERT J. MCKUNE POST

HAS SUCCESSFUL MEETING

A very successful social evening was spent last Monday by the Legionaires and business men of the town at The American Legion club room. The Legion, through the newspapers, invited the men of the town, particularly those interested in civic development to attend a smoker and social "get together" on that night. The meeting was well attended and was thoroughly enjoyed by all present.

Don Riley rendered several vocal solos, following which Roscoe Bonisteel, secretary of the Ann Arbor Chamber of Commerce, gave a very interesting and educational talk along the lines of town beautification and commercial development of the town. Mr. Bonisteel is a member of the American Legion and during the war served as an officer in the air service (production). An interesting discussion followed the speaking and later in the evening refreshments were served.

The Herbert J. McKune Post has planned series of monthly meetings of this nature for the townspeople, and it is expected, if their plans are successful, that the next speaker will be a very noted man, a man of national reputation, and will undoubtedly be held in the town hall or some similarly large hall.

OVERLAND TRIP TO CALIFORNIA

Memoirs, Observations and Deductions of a Modern Juggernaut.

Ever since the discovery of gold at Sutter's Mill near Sacramento, in 1848, California has ever been the Enchanted Mesa, the Mecca both of Argonauts and Lungers.

Today the Argonautic expeditions have ceased but another tide ebbs and flows in a yearly increasing volume. This latter day Hegira is made up of two classes, first those in whom the red blood corpuscles are not predominant enough and the adipose tissue not superfluous enough to keep the goose pimples from rising when the first balmy zephyrs of Boreas drop gently down from the regions of Aurora Borealis. This class immediately hie themselves either to the land of Ponce De Leon's fabled fountain of eternal youth or else to those regions adjacent to the Golden Gate.

The second class consists of those restless, Nomadic spirits ever in search of a Utopian ideal or a place to live without effort, and those who wish to get out into the great outdoors and experience the thrills and adventures of the overland route.

Let it suffice to say that he who selects the overland route gets both thrills and experiences, but the biggest thrill he gets is when, on his return back to earth he contemplates his sadly diminished bank account. It is then that he realizes that the tourist pays.

Every person who essays the overland route should have a placard bearing this legend "The Tourist Pays" printed in bold italics and pasted on the wind shield where it will be the first thing to greet his eyes in the morning and the last thing at night. The man who can start out with a perfect understanding of the true import of this homily will still love his wife when he returns, the only stimulant he will require will be Instant Postum and he will believe that the world is growing better. On the other hand, if he does not fully grasp the potency of this golden text he will return firmly convinced that there is something rotten in Denmark or that the war was badly managed or that the only way to get a thrill is to build a cute little still by the side of the mill and let the rest of the world go dry.

Leaving the environs of Chelsea on the 7th of October, our mode of locomotion was a Ford truck with a Ford touring car for ballast, superimposed on the rear platform. I had the honor of being chief pilot and navigating officer, while my fellow sojourner was chief signal operator and wireless expert, sending back daily wireless messages in the shape of souvenir post cards.

The first part of our journey took us thru the northern part of Illinois and Iowa, which is a part of the great corn belt. On every side the immense cornfields resemble tamarack swamps and the ears are as long as elephants ears and have thirty-two rows of kernels. This is the kind of corn that puts the pork on the hog, spirits in the barrel and gas in the Lizzies.

Omaha was the first big town that caused us to pause in our forward progress toward the Golden West. We stayed two days in Omaha on account of a wet rain and improved the time by visiting two former townsmen, a Mr. Osborne who introduced us to the village constable, a fine luncheon at the city club and a taxi ride about the city; and Mr. K. E. Vogel, better known hereabouts as Rufus the Red Brickie, who invited us to his chateau for six o'clock dinner.

The weather was glorious and the sun was shining on the morning of October 16, when once more we pointed the prow of our good slier towards Denver, our second objective. The road across Nebraska and Colorado was over a flat, treeless, uninteresting country with much zigzagging as the road tended to follow the section lines. Arriving in Denver late in the afternoon, October 21, threatening weather caused us to shorten our stay to one day. About one inch of snow covered the ground the morning we left Denver. Our course was now due south along the plain that skirted the base of the Rocky Mts. The paramount reason for going this way was to make the ascent of Pikes Peak. This is a very fascinating diversion for all the pickers that pass this way as it can be accomplished with a minimum of effort on the cog railway, but a bad snow storm in the mountains caused the cog railway to cease running for the season, thus putting an end to our lofty ambitions. The next day we were overtaken by the Messrs. Glenn Schultz and Watson on the road between Colorado Springs and Trinidad.

P. S.—Will have to take time out as I have to "waist" a little time on a pressing engagement.

Dr. Faye Palmer.

Born Tuesday, December 28, to Mr. and Mrs. John Heselwerdt of Sylvan, a daughter.

Ann Arbor—Communities planning or desiring to hold Farmers' Institutes during the winter should communicate with the County Farm Bureau in good time that desirable speakers may be secured.

Manchester—Thursday noon Don Conklin, son of Roy C. Conklin, in venturesome mood, risked crossing the river near the Main street bridge and broke through. After struggling for some time a rope was thrown to him, and he was rescued from his icy bath.

Manchester—John Schlicht died of Christmas day after suffering for several days with pneumonia. He was 88 years old, and came to this country from Germany when a young man. The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon, Rev. A. Schoen of the Lutheran church officiating.

Ann Arbor—Thursday and Friday, January 14 and 15, the second and third days of the Poultry and Po Stock show, have been chosen for the Poultry Keeper's school to be conducted by A. C. Foreman of the M. A. C. The school will be held in the room above the exhibit in the same building.

Jackson, Mich. Three sons were born to Mrs. Peter Poletiek, here Thursday morning. The babies all apparently hale and hearty, were later in the day christened by the Rev. Bernard F. Choselski, pastor of St. Stanislas church, and given the names of Mathew, James and John.

Ann Arbor—Hot Lunch clubs have been organized in several of the rural schools. Districts desiring to organize such clubs should communicate with the Farm Bureau office and assistance will be given in organizing and conducting the club. The work will be continued by the county club leader expected to begin work in the county soon.

Jackson—It must be tough on a man who a short week ago was a trusted police officer to find himself in jail this week. But Jess Cook former patrolman, after passing a few hours in the pen pleaded guilty to larceny by conversion. The librarian at the East End branch library found a lost pocket-book containing $4 and turned it over to Policeman Cook. He failed to report it, was dismissed and arrested. Judge Simpson fined him $5 and $5 costs, Tuesday, leaving him to settle with the librarian.—Saturday Evening Star.

Ypsilanti—The supreme court has approved the verdict of the circuit court jury in giving Mrs. Emilene Cornell of Ann Arbor a judgment against the city of Ypsilanti of $4,040 and interest to date, besides all the costs. Mrs. Cornell was visiting her sister in Ypsilanti when she fell on a defective piece of walk, and not being able to get the council to acknowledge the city's fault, began suit. The Ypsilanti charter says the city can issue bonds and raise the money for paying this verdict, as there is no money in the treasury to pay the same.

Ann Arbor—Wallace F. Watt has resigned as county secretary for the Washtenaw County Community board to take effect January. This announcement comes as a complete surprise to many of Mr. Watt's friends who have been associated with him in his work at the Community house. Mr. Watt will take charge of the Battle Creek continuation school for boys ranging in age from 14 to 18 years who have left a regular school to enter employment. The Battle Creek school has been established under the James law of 1918 and is connected with the system of public schools. The courses given in the school consist chiefly of vocational work.

Jackson—Just as Royal Burns of Toledo was about to enter a Mechanic street restaurant for his breakfast early Monday morning, he was stopped by State Food and Drug Inspector F. N. Green, who asked the nature of the contents of a seemingly heavy suitcase Burns was carrying. Upon Burns' refusal to tell the officer what he had he was placed under arrest. When the suitcase was opened it was found to contain six quarts of real liquor. Burns demanded an examination when arraigned before police Judge Simpson on a charge of violating the prohibition law and was ordered held under $1,000 bail until the hearing, the date of which will be set later.—Jackson News.

Ann Arbor—Perhaps the biggest Christmas present to be received in Ann Arbor this year is the income of approximately $100,000 which the people of the Fifth ward will receive for the support of the Methodist Sunday school in their neighborhood, as the result of a decision which the supreme court of Michigan has just rendered in the matter of the contested will of Payson M. Doty. This decision, which sustained the will, provides that the Sunday school shall receive one sixth of the income at once, and after the death of Mrs. Doty, one half the income will be used for the Ann Arbor organization. As a boy, Mr. Doty lived in the Fifth ward. Later he moved to Grand Rapids, where he was successful in business. On his death he left the income on five sixths of the estate to his widow and daughter during their lifetime. After the death of the widow, the daughter is to have the income on half the estate. Should the daughter die before the widow does, the widow is to receive two thirds and the rest is to come to Ann Arbor. The First Methodist church of Ann Arbor is made trustee for the income.

EQUALITY

American women recently enjoyed, for the first time, the privilege of voting on a national scale. The dream that has inspired womanhood through the ages has been fulfilled.

The Grange conferred this equality upon woman half a century ago. It was the first great national body to grant women the same rights and responsibilities as men. Much of its success has been due to the heed it has given to the deep sympathies, the clear understanding and the instinctive justice of women.

In granting this equality the Grange holds to its purpose of fostering home life. It always has considered a satisfactory and wholesome home life the basis of all sound citizenship. It realizes the great part woman plays in the making of such home life, and gives her a wider opportunity to display her talents.

The faith and vision that have marked the Grange through the years are undimmed. It offers to farm men and women alike a splendid field for service and improvement.

Let us add, THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN also stands for the fullest and finest development of farm life. It seeks to inspire and help by stories of success. It is not alone a magazine of the business of farming and home building, but one of entertainment also. The whole family will enjoy its clean fiction, its cheery "Brighten the Corner" page, its clever jokes and cartoons. A year's subscription—52 issues—is splendid value for $1.00. Let our secretary mail you order today.

The results of such tests will be filed with the dean of the literary college. It is believed that such tests would be of great help to the administrative officers who deal with those who fail.

Harding's Plan for Association of Nations Reaching Definite Form.

MORE CABINET PREDICTIONS

Dawes May Head Commission to Reorganize Government Service—House Passes Farmers' Relief Tariff Bill—Scandal in Coal Prices Uncovered.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD.

President-elect Harding's conferences at Marion with the "best minds," though by no means ended, seem already to have resulted in the crystallizing of certain of his policies into definite form. Of course the two that arouse the greatest public interest are those relating to foreign affairs and the League of Nations, and to the plan for reorganizing the nation's business and establishing it on a more economic basis.

In discussing an association of nations, there is no evidence that Mr. Harding has converted to his own views such irreconcilables as Senators Borah and Reed, or even Mr. Bryan, whose invitation to Marion aroused the ribald laughter of the paragraphers. But Mr. Harding seems to have brought his theories into form fit for presentation to the world. According to what is said to be authoritative information, he believes the first approach to the formation of his "association of nations" should be to obtain the assent of the five leading nations, the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan, his theory being that, once these nations have joined, the other nations will fall in line. The basis of this association is to be a world court to deal with justiciable questions.

Mr. Harding holds that no association of nations can succeed without the indorsement of the leaders of public thought, in America and elsewhere, and that these leaders must reach agreement in the essentials, leaving details to be settled later; that all governing features must be eliminated from the association, each nation retaining free to make its own decisions; that the agreement must be specific enough to prevent the possibility of an offensive and defensive military alliance of the five great powers, and the association of nations itself must place all nations on an equal footing in the presentation of their views on matters of world policy.

Gen. Charles Gates Dawes, the Chicago banker, who is said to be the leading probability for appointment as head of a commission to reorganize the government service, was one of the week's visitors in Marion and talked with the president-elect especially on the reduction of governmental expenses and its relation to taxation. After the interview General Dawes said:

"I found that Senator Harding already knew more than I did concerning this, and that the effort to reorganize the government upon an economical basis is one of the tasks to which he proposes to devote himself most energetically. From conversation with him it is evident that he has this great and needed reform constantly in his mind. Considering that heretofore no continued and firm effort has been made, this determination of the President-elect to make this reform one of his first efforts, means that it will be accomplished."

Senator and Mrs. Harding are going to Florida next month to spend several weeks as the guests of Senator Frelinghuysen of New Jersey. Possibly before they start announcing the selections for the cabinet will be made. It is believed Mr. Harding's first choice for secretary of state now is either Senator Knox or Charles Evans Hughes, and that if Mr. Hughes declines he will be appointed chief justice of the Supreme court as Chief Justice White probably will retire within the year. Other selections held likely are George M. Reynolds of Chicago for secretary of the treasury, Henry Wallace of Iowa for secretary of agriculture, former Senator Weeks for secretary of the navy, and Charles M. Schwab for secretary of commerce. It is believed, also, that Herbert Hoover is certain to be in the cabinet. The appointment of Mr. Reynolds to the treasury position, it is said, would be very grateful to the business and financial men of the country, who have a high opinion of his ability and broad-mindedness.

The most important action by the house of representatives during the week was the passage of the farmers' relief bill, which imposes a high emergency tariff on more than twenty agricultural products, the decline in the price of which is attributed by the farmers in part to competition with importations. The measure was passed by a vote of 196 to 50, party lines being broken. What the senate will do with it is problematical. The senate finance committee will take it up after the holidays, and it may be killed by a prolonged discussion. The commodities to which the new duties would be applied are wheat, flour, corn, beans, peanuts, potatoes, onions, rice, lemons, cottonseed and soybean oils, cattle, sheep, lambs, mutton and lamb, and wool and its manufactures.

Justice Stafford in Washington has taken under advisement the plans of the "Big Five" packing concerns for the disposal of their financial interests in the large stock yards and will give his decision immediately after the holidays. At the conclusion of the arguments he more than intimates that unless the packing companies and the individual members of the Armour, Swift and Morris families can give proof within a few weeks that they are actually divesting themselves of their stock in the stock yards and terminal railroads he will adopt the government's plan and appoint a receiver for the securities.

The senate committee that has been investigating the price of coal last week accidentally uncovered what looks like a sensational scandal. George J. Cushing, general manager of the American Wholesale Coal Dealers' association, was being questioned as to those who took profits in the handling of coal. He mentioned the miners, the operators, the railroads, the wholesale dealers, the retailers, and then added, "and officials of the United States government who got into the coal business." Mr. Cushing tried to stop there, but the committee was insistent and drew from him the assertion that government officials, taking advantage of advance information on the fuel stringencies obtained in their confidential positions, declared themselves in on the coal-price boosting and "cleaned up" millions.

He told the committee of one instance in which government officials cleared a profit of $175,000 on the sale of 450,000 tons of coal. He stated that he was offered a share amounting to over $100,000 to participate in the deal but declined. There were many other such instances, he told the committee. He supplied the committee with the name of the ring leader, who is said to be a dollar-a-year man. He added that railroad officials and labor leaders who had to do with the handling of coal frequently managed to get a "kickoff."

The disgust with which the public reads this sort of thing is heightened by the information that graft prosecutions probably cannot be instituted because the coal handled by the ring was not sold to the government. The senate committee planned to make public, after full investigation, the names of all officials who have engaged in coal deals, and the contempt with which they will be regarded by their fellow citizens will be some punishment.

Later in the week correspondence from the National Coal association's files, seized by order of the committee, was read. It included a letter sent out by Col. D. E. Wrentz, president of the association, stating that the association, co-operating with railroad officials and the interstate commerce commission, had prevented the appointment of a federal fuel administrator, but that it would not be able to prevent some sort of government control much longer unless the operators quit charging such extortionate prices.

D'Annunzio's proclaimed state of war between his Fiume government and Italy has become an established fact, for the Italian government has begun the siege of Fiume and hostilities have broken out. After a blockade had been instituted, the poet was given a few hours to turn the city over to the Italian commander. He was as defiant as ever and military operations against him were begun by both land and sea forces. D'Annunzio forbade the population of Fiume to leave the city and decreed that anyone speaking against him was liable to be shot. The government at Rome was still hopeful of bringing about the retirement of D'Annunzio from the disputed city without much bloodshed. He is said to have only about 6,000 troops.

"Peace in Ireland by Christmas" could not be accomplished, and the week was marked by a great many murders, raids and bloody fights, in various parts of the island. On Thursday the British military forces occupied the Dublin city hall and municipal offices, ousting the corporation officials, who have been active supporters of the dail eireann or Irish parliament, and thus dislocating the entire business of the city. The seizure of the city buildings was a military measure for the protection of the castle, which is but a few feet away.

Despite the gloomy situation, the prospects were said to be fairly bright for early restoration of order. One sign of weakening on the part of the Sinn Feiners was the collapse of the railway strike against the carrying of mailbags or trunks. This strike had been going on for seven months and the operating forces of the railways had been so depleted by dismissals that railway service was gradually approaching the vanishing point. Finally realizing that this was harming only Ireland, and that many towns and districts were suffering for food supplies, the men have returned to work, promising to carry anything. Another thing that may weaken the "republican" cause if it is carried into effect is a plan to ask the Irish people by a formal referendum, whether they are willing to carry the home-rule act into operation instead of accepting as final the Sinn Fein refusal. The proposition has been submitted to the prime minister. The home-rule act became a law last week, the house of lords having accepted all the amendments made to the bill by the commons. Several amendments made by the lords, including one creating senates for both the northern and southern parliaments, had been accepted by the commons.

Constantine, received by the Greeks with loud acclamations, is again established on his throne and is even planning a visit to his army in Asia Minor, if the great powers permit. The diplomatic representatives of the allies in Athens did not leave the country, but refrained from participation in the king's reception. Premier Lloyd George is weakening a trifle and in the house of commons opposed hasty action in altering the treaty of Sevres in favor of the Turks and against the Greeks. He advocated going warily with regard to the Greeks, as there might be explanations of their recent action.

Although Trotsky was quoted recently to the effect that the soviet government of Russia was planning no further military operations and would turn all its energy toward economic reconstruction, late dispatches from Tiflis indicate that the Russian Bolsheviks are planning a campaign to wipe out the republic of Georgia. There are heavy concentrations of troops on the Georgian borders and in nearby parts of the Black sea, and a Bolshevik army that has been operating along the Armenian frontier is moving toward Georgia.

The soviet government of Armenia has annulled all foreign loans, "especially the American loan," according to a dispatch from Constantinople.

SPRING STYLE FOR FLAPPERS

IN January and February much of the year's sewing is disposed of in well regulated households—for these months bring the annual sales of white goods for house furnishings and undermuslins and the displays of new cotton fabrics for spring. At the same time the shops accommodate bring out whatever has developed in styles in undermuslins, in children's clothes and in women's wash dresses, especially in practical house dresses. In fashion centers also there are enlightening exhibitions of handsome wash dresses. In the average home it is spring sewing for the children that can be disposed of in the heart of winter to the best advantage. One of the models turned out for the flapper is pictured here and shows no startling departure from present styles. Any of the plain, fairly heavy wash fabrics are suited to it and its appeal lies in its neatness and girlishness. It has a plaited skirt and a plain smock with three-quarter length, flaring sleeves. The round neck is fastened delicately with an inset collar of white batiste. For decoration, a border pattern in colored dross and very simple stitchery, finishes off the neck, the sleeves and the bottom of the smock. It is in this simple needlework that the model shows a variation from its predecessors. There is also something a little new in colors—that is, shades and tints have changed a trifle.

It is noteworthy that styles for young misses are growing more conservative; that they are getting back to something like common sense after touch extravagance in the past season or so. Too much elaboration, too rich materials, too many colors robbed the dress of young girlhood of its own particular charm, which must always lie on the side of daintiness or simplicity; and charm is the most valuable asset of the flapper, as it is of all womanhood. There is nothing more unpleasant than overdressed young girls.

The Day of the Fur Hat

THE day of the fur hat, which was due to arrive at least a month ago, was postponed by October weather, which persisted in lingering with us into December. But every hat has its day and, come what will, our fur hats are a part of the play in January and February anyway. They are too attractive to neglect and this season they took their responsibilities lightly; for almost all of them are only partly made of fur. We have fur and velvet, often with embellishment of sparkling bead embroidery, fur and brilliant, rich brocades, fur and embroidered fabrics; the fur providing brims for all sorts of gay and interesting crowns.

The furs best liked are the short-haired velvety pelts, as Hudson seal, mink, beaver, caracul, sable, squirrel and mink. Ermine appears occasionally, but nearly always as a trimming, and very handsome velvet hats with knots or bows of fur, or emplacements of fur panels on the brims, are shown among other fur hats. Occasionally the rule of fur brims and fabric crowns is reversed in models that have fur crowns and velvet brims.

The handsome hat at the top of the group pictured employs squirrel fur for its coronet and shirred gray velvet for a crown. Such hats are often finished with a sparkling pin or ornament of rhinestones suggestive of frost. The soft, warm-looking hat at the left has a brim that suggests the cozy poke bonnet and is trimmed with ribbon and fur balls. It might be made in any of the millinery furs. At the right a turban with a wide upturned brim of fur has a sectional crown of velvet and boasts a lovely plume of curled ostrich at the back. Such hats as these have real values to offer; for good furs outlast many seasons, if cared for, and may be made to serve on other hats.

CLEAN COWPEAS MOST VALUABLE

Dealer Reaps Profit for Doing Work That the Grower Neglects to Perform.

WIDE DIFFERENCE IN PRICE

Despite Commercial Shortage and High Market Prices Producers Do Not Sell More—Specialists Give Timely Advice.

Until the growers see fit to place their cowpeas on the market in a clean and attractive condition they may expect the wide difference between the price they receive and the wholesale price charged by the dealer to continue, say marketing specialists of the bureau of markets, United States Department of Agriculture. When the dealer is compelled to do work that the grower fails to perform, it is the dealer who enjoys the profits.

Marketing Factors.
According to estimates prepared by the bureau of markets some 100,000,000 pounds of cowpeas enter commercial channels every year. Of this quantity 25 per cent is of mixed varieties and sold at a discount of from 50 cents to $1 per 100 pounds. A large percentage of it also is made up of poorly thrashed, unclean stock containing much foreign matter and packed in second-hand bags, improperly sewed. As a result of the use of these inefficient marketing methods the average wholesale selling price for re-cleaned stock during the spring of 1920 was 60 per cent higher than the average price paid the growers for the 1919 crop of cowpeas. Similar conditions prevailed with regard to the 1917 and 1919 crops.

Cleaning Cowpeas Pays Well.

To secure higher prices for cowpeas, specialists of the bureau of markets who have made a careful investigation of the matter recommend the following practices:

1. Clean cowpeas thoroughly before marketing. All hulls and other foreign matter, as well as light and immature seed, if any, should be fanned out.

2. Keep the varieties pure. Only straight varieties should be planted for grain or seed production, and precautions taken to prevent mixing at harvest time.

3. Sack in new even-weight bags, well sewed. This prevents waste in handling and the package will be more attractive to the buyer.

4. Market in as large lots as possible. It costs the shipper or local dealer practically as much money to receive, weigh, record and pay for one bag of cowpeas as it does a ten-bag lot. If ear lots are available the cost of handling per unit is still smaller.

All efforts made by farmers or growers to improve the quality and marketability of cowpeas add to the initial selling price.

Cause of Shortage.
Cowpeas are usually grown as a catch crop, and on most farms regarded of secondary commercial importance. Yet the farm value of cowpeas produced in the United States is something like $30,000,000 a year. Approximately 750,000,000 pounds of cowpeas are produced annually, about 45 per cent or 340,000,000 pounds of which is required for planting. Of this latter quantity 15 per cent is sold by growers direct to farmers and 30 per cent normally enters commercial channels to be distributed by various dealers. In 1919, and again in 1920, the demand for cowpeas for planting purposes exceeded the commercial new crop supply, and abnormally high prices prevailed. Despite this shortage and the high prices, practically no effort was made to increase the commercial supply.

In the opinion of the bureau of markets the commercial shortage was not due to decreased production, but to failure on the part of the growers to prepare more of their cowpeas for commercial distribution. To increase the commercial supply it is seemingly necessary for growers simply to conserve the supply produced, and to prepare and market more of it for planting purposes. Such action would directly result in a larger profit to producers of cowpeas, and indirectly benefit farmer consumers who desire to grow the crop for purposes other than grain production. To feed cowpeas suitable for planting purposes to live stock is a practice that growers should readily perceive unprofitable in view of the prices that cowpeas now command.

VELVET BEANS MAKE GOOD GRAZING CROP

Excellent for Cattle and Hogs in Fall and Winter.

Usual Period for Pasturing is About Three Months but This May Be Lengthened or Shortened as Deemed Advisable.

Velvet beans are an important grazing crop for cattle and hogs in the South in autumn and winter, according to specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. They are not grazed well by horses or mules, or by any live stock until after they are well matured or frosted. As the leaves, vines and pods decay but slowly when subjected to weather conditions, velvet beans will furnish feed until early spring. It is usually better to let the crop stand until it is well matured, or until it is killed by frost, as the leaves will be off the plants at that time and the corn which has been planted at the same time may be gathered with less difficulty.

The amount of grazing which will be afforded will, of course, vary with the growth of the crop and the quantity of corn not gathered, but it is the custom with many cattlemen to allow one-third to one-half acre a month for each steer or cow. The usual period for pasturing velvet beans is about three months, but this may be shortened or lengthened as deemed advisable. When the period is longer because of large acreage in proportion to the number of cattle there is necessarily some loss of feed through decay.

Hogs should be permitted to follow the cattle, as they will consume practically all the beans which the cattle fail to get. A common practice is to allow one or two hogs in addition to the cattle for each acre of beans. A good stand of velvet beans should produce about 150 pounds of beef and 100 pounds of pork an acre.

QUALITY IS URGENT FACTOR

Striking Example Furnished by Kentuckian, Who Markets Eggs, Poultry and Fruit.

An example of the part that quality plays in a business of direct marketing of farm produce is furnished by the experience of a man in Kentucky who markets eggs, dressed poultry, meats and fruits to consumers in Nashville, Tenn.

The business was established over two years ago by obtaining a friend as the first customer. From this modest beginning the producer has obtained sufficient customers to buy all of the high-grade produce he can supply. Most of the shipments are made by parcel post.

This business is conducted on the basis of high quality with adequate returns, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Customers are selected with as much care as most consumers show in selecting a producer from whom to buy farm produce. Customers are retained by never breaking the rule to supply only the best produce raised on his own farm. If, when an order is obtained, this farmer does not have produce of the highest quality, he informs the customer and states that unless otherwise instructed the produce will be shipped at the earliest possible date.

USEFUL FOR CUTTING BANDS

Device Illustrated Is Handy for Man Pitching Bundles to Shredder or Silo Filler.

The following is a handy way for cutting bands. The man who is pitching bundles to a corn shredder or silo filler can cut the bands as he pitches them to the machine, thereby saving the aid of one man to cut the bands.

Band Cutter for Bundles.

I also find it handy to cut the stock ties on corn when loading from the field, says a writer in the Farmer. To make same I attached a mower sickle section to the fork handle, as per illustration.

UNITED STATES APPLE CROP

Official Estimate Is Given at 223,000,000 Bushels, an Increase Over July Figures.

The official estimate of the apple crop in the United States is given as 223,000,000 bushels, and the commercial crop at 33,000,000 barrels, which is an increase of 3,635,000 barrels over the estimate given for July.

CLEAN EGGS BRING PREMIUM

Dirty Product, No Matter How Fresh or How Large, Always Sells at Big Discount.

Eggs that command a premium are, first of all, spotlessly clean. A dirty egg, no matter how fresh or how large it is, is always sold at a discount. One or two dirty eggs in a dozen will lower the price for the whole dozen.

DAIRY FACTS

POOR COW IS LIKE LAZY MAN

"Boarder" Should Be Discarded Forthwith and Replaced by Profitable Producer.

How many dairymen would keep a hired hand on their place who got up when he felt like it, worked when he felt like it, and did just as he pleased? Such a hired man would be a losing proposition and the man who would keep him would soon become bankrupt.

On the other hand, how many dairymen are keeping boarder dairy cows that produce just as little milk as they feel like producing, with little or no profit to the owner?

A dairyman cannot afford to keep a man that does not do more work than he is paid for doing. Neither can he afford to keep a cow that does not return more money to him than he puts into her in feed and labor.

How many cows in your herd are returning a fair profit for the feed consumed and how many are returning little or nothing or even costing money to keep? The profit made from a cow depends upon the amount of butterfat produced and the cost of producing same. Monthly records and the Babcock test will detect the boarder cows. Why waste time and money on cows that do not pay for their keep?—W. E. Spangler, Colorado Agricultural College, Fort Collins, Colo.

Easy Matter to Permit Cows to Decrease in Milk Flow but Hard to Bring Them Back.

SALT ESSENTIAL IN RATION

Material May Be Supplied by Mixing With Feed, or It May Be Left in Convenient Box.

Practical observations and scientific investigations have shown that salt is essential in the ration of a dairy cow. From one to three ounces per day is needed, depending upon the amount of milk produced. According to Babcock's investigations at the Wisconsin experiment station, a cow needs one ounce per day per 1,000 pounds live weight with an additional 6-10 of an ounce for each 20 pounds of milk produced. Salt may be supplied by mixing the proper amount with the feed, or it may be placed in some convenient place where the cow can get at it daily and take such amounts as her appetite demands. Many dairymen prefer to place a lump of rock salt where the cow can lick it at will. This is really cheaper and there is less work. But, however you feed it, don't forget that the cows must have it—no once every week or two, but at least each second-day and each day is better.

FEEDING COWS SAWDUST

The facetious statement, repeated in a joking way, "Put green goggles on the cows and feed them by feeding sawdust and shavings," is apparently not going to be necessary in future to feed them that product. It has been found by experiment that sawdust from non-resinous soft woods can be used, but it first must undergo a process of treatment with certain acids, which change a part of the dry matter into carbohydrates. However, the low protein content of sawdust as a feed would not augur well for its future use.

GOOD DAIRY HEIFER RATION

Missouri Station Recommends Alfalfa and Corn With All the Silage She Will Eat.

One of the cheapest and best winter rations for the dairy heifer, according to the Missouri station, is an average daily of about six pounds of alfalfa hay, two pounds of corn, and silage at free will (this means on the average about twenty pounds daily). This kind of ration has kept the heifers growing at just about the right rate to make the best kind of mature cows, and yet the expense has not been unduly great.

HIGH COST OF COMMODITIES

Killing of Calves for Veal and Spaying of Heifers to Fatten for Beef Is Cause.

That the killing of so many calves every year for veal, and the spaying of heifers and fattening them for the block, is responsible in a large measure for the present high prices of certain food commodities, there can be no question.

fully charged and filled with distilled water.

DRY STORAGE—In this service we take the battery apart

ONE MAN OPERATES BOTH TRACTOR AND IMPLEMENT

One Man Harvests 25 Acres a Day with the

MOLINE
UNIVERSAL TRACTOR
It Solves The Farm Help Problem

Harvesting is quickly over with a Moline-Universal Tractor, Model D, one man with an 8-foot grain binder harvesting 25 acres a day, or with a corn binder, 30 acres a day.

The Moline-Universal attaches direct to the binder, and forms a single, compact unit with it that is controlled by the operator from the seat of the binder, where he must sit in order to do good work. The outfit is as easily handled as with horses, stopping, backing, going into corners and turning with ease. With the Moline-Universal one man does cleaner, faster, and better work than other tractors do with two men.

For threshing, the Moline-Universal develops 16-hp. horsepower, enough to pull a 24-inch grain separator or a 12-inch ensilage cutter.
This belt power is also available for any other work, such as running a corn sheller, feed grinder, wood saw, clover huller, water pump or electric lighting plant.

Harvesting and belt work, however, are not the only things the Moline-Universal Tractor can do.
With it one man plows 9 acres a day,
discs 37 to 38 acres, harrows 70 acres, plants 20 to 40 acres, cultivates 14 to 20 acres, mows 25 acres, rakes 25 to 40 acres, and loads 12 acres of hay.

The high clearance of the Moline-Universal, 29½ inches, makes it perfectly adapted for cultivating, one man cultivating two rows at a time at all stages of the crop. The tractor is light, yet it has power to pull two 14-inch plows at a considerably more than average speed, all its weight being traction weight.

The Moline-Universal Tractor will work every day in the year. It does not plow and prepare your seed bed, and then rest while your horses do the planting, cultivating and harvesting. That is why the Moline-Universal really replaces horses, and by enabling one man to do four and five times as much work as before, and saves the farm help problem.

The construction of the Moline-Universal is the most advanced on the market. Perfected four-cylinder overhead-valve motor, electric starting and lighting system, and complete enclosure of all working parts are only a few of the leading features.

Examine this machine for yourself at our place of business.
