

PINCKNEYITE RESCUED FROM 25-FOOT WELL

Harry Utchenik Buried In Cave-In Saturday; Dug Out After 48 Hours Imprisonment.

Harry Utchenik, 29 years of age, who was buried in a 25-foot well in Pinckney, Saturday afternoon about three o'clock, when it caved in, was rescued yesterday afternoon about two o'clock.

The stones and dirt wedged near the bottom of the well so that Utchenik was not crushed by their weight and a small opening permitted the passing of food and milk to the imprisoned man, and also gave him air.

Aid was summoned from the surrounding towns, including Ann Arbor and Jackson, but the rescue was a perilous business as there was constant danger of dislodging the mass of earth and stones and of sending them down onto Utchenik. A crib-work was built to hold back the earth and Utchenik was released about 48 hours after the cave-in occurred, seemingly little the worse for his harrowing experience.

FARM HOUSE BURNED.

The house on the John Kilmer farm, located a half mile west of the Everett school house in Sharon township, was destroyed by fire Sunday noon, including the contents.

Mr. Kilmer had been away from the house only a short time to take dinner with his brother-in-law.

Before leaving he fixed the furnace fire, first placing a chunk of green wood and some soft coal on the fire, and then closing up the drafts. It is supposed that gas generated, exploded and blew the dome off the furnace, scattering the fire and setting fire to the woodwork.

Mr. Kilmer recently sold his stock and tools at auction and had purchased a home in Chelsea. The farm he had arranged to sell to Otto Mayer, although the deal had not been consummated. Mr. Mayer had moved a large part of his household goods to the Kilmer farm and they were burned, also.

The household goods of both parties were insured. The house was insured for only $2,200, which is less than half the estimated cost of replacement, it is said.

LIFE WORTH LIVING IN SMALL TOWNS

Henry Ford Believes In The Smaller Community; Declares Horses And Cows Are Doomed.

Cities will disappear as great manufacturing centers; horses and cows will be superseded by concentrated energy. This, in the opinion of Henry Ford, is a glimpse into the future if his plans, which involve the expenditure of millions during the next few years, are realized.

Mr. Ford recently unfolded his plans to put industry "where it belongs"—away from the present congested centers with their unwholesome aspects for workers, concentrations of parasitic manipulation in the necessities of life and other clumsy features. He believes that manufacture, agriculture and transportation can work to better advantage if grouped about small communities. This interview with Mr. Ford was published in a recent issue of the New York Tribune.

Big Cities Are Unnatural. "Cities have come to be unnatural," said Ford. "They cause unnaturalness in men's minds. They have created a condition which is robbing agriculture of its man power, robbing the worker and the manufacturer both of normal human conditions which exist and have created the spectacle of the farmer's products having to be transported to these great centers, to be treated or milled or manipulated before they are transported back again to the smaller communities to be sold back to the farmer. These conditions are artificial."

"The Ford company plans to get a large part of its manufacturing away from the great cities. We plan and are putting the idea into operation to utilize the water power of small streams throughout the country for making each one a small part of our machinery. During the next few years we will enter into the smaller towns and even villages where the townspeople and the farmer, if he cares to, may have all the work he wants when he is not busy on the farm and so add to his earnings.

"The food raising season is comparatively short and the farmer is today the slave to enforced idleness and a few cows in winter. The cities with their concentrations of industry are responsible. The farmer will see the day when both the horse and the cow are done away with. The horse will go because of the concentrated energy of automobiles and tractors. "But what about cows and their milk?"

"It is a simple matter," he replied, "take cereals and make them into a milk which is superior to the cow's and much cleaner. The cow is the crudest machine in the world. Our laboratories have already demonstrated that cow's milk can be done away with and the concentration of the elements of it manufactured into scientific food by machines far cleaner than cows and not subject to tuberculosis."

"But what about meat which the cow also provides?" "Meat is not essential," he declared. "A scientific food, such as I have described, will not only take the place of milk, but meat. As for the horse, he is a 1,200-pound, bulky 'haystack' one horse-power. A little machine of half his size is equal to 20 of him."

Demonstrating his claim that farmers may work in factories in small communities, where all the essentials of life can be had as well as in the cities; Mr. Ford said that his company would be prepared to give financial aid and co-operation to the towns and villages it locates in the building of others and other needs.

"One of the first demonstrations of our plan is being made in a town of 1,500 inhabitants, Northville, 20 miles from Detroit. Our factory there employs 250 men in the exclusive manufacture of valves which we use both for the car and tractor. The transportation is by motor truck on good roads, the deal system of short haul transportation.

"The town needs a sewage system which the company is prepared to build in co-operation with the townspeople so that there will be no need of under heavy issues of bonds—a long standing evil from which no one profits but parasitic non-producers such as cities are filled with. The community system in every small town will be of the 'we locate, we improve' type, need not be limited to sewers."

Has Water Site in Ohio. Ford announced that his company had taken over a water site at Hamilton, Ohio, and had entered 15 other small communities. "Our plan is not to be confined to one portion of the United States. England offers many opportunities of this kind."

"The idea in the smaller community is to get it and do it. These farming communities need their manpower and improved mechanical farming methods will eventually give men time to think of other things than being held to crude farms, slaving through the winter for a few cows. The farmer may work in one of our factories until the time comes to plant crops. There will be no need for him to leave the farm or its surroundings for the unnatural conditions of American cities, with their injurious effects on mental, moral and physical life.

Fewer Poor in Small Cities. "There are fewer needy people in smaller communities than in cities. In the town of Dearborn we have only three cases to look into, whereas in Detroit there have been too many." Dearborn was the first location of the Ford "Tractor" plant and was Ford's birthplace. There he still lives. In this town, once a small village, there are entire streets of attractive, well built buildings put up by Ford for employees at a cost of about $2,000,000 during the last two years.

A few employees of the Dearborn plant are sent each season to work 5,000 acres of land. The Ford school where about 200 boys are preparing for executive work, will also have a taste of agriculture. Before the Ford tractors are prepared for market they will be tested for one day by the boys on outdoor work. Practical agriculture on a considerable scale will be done, Ford explained. These youngsters have their own bank accounts provided by the manufacturer personally during their tutelage.

"How long before a 'dent' will be made on American cities by your plan in your opinion?" Ford was asked. His answer was as follows:

A Delphic Answer. "Twenty-five years ago there were only three or four motor cars in the world. There were no electrical street cars 30 years ago. There were no farm tractors, wireless or airplanes 15 years ago. There were few telephones 35 years ago."

"The thought struck the interviewer that it may be that the next half century will see the beginning of a cowless, horseless, milkless, meatless era in which the city laborer has become a joint mechanical farmer-laborer, and the farmer has become a laborer-farmer. It is the dream of a millionaire auto manufacturer who dreamed 15 years ago that autos should be articles of bulk production.

Henry Ford did not impress one as a dreamer, when he said: "The great thing about organization is that when men get control they proceed to build fences around themselves and begin to exploit other men to pile up greater wealth. They become like little nations, ready to quarrel with other little nations. That is the thing we are breaking up in our organization. The whole thing sifts down to the care and assistance you give the people working for you."

Officials around the manufacturer are said to be converts to his "back to the small town idea." They believe it will come about like the telephone, the auto, wireless, the street car and the other things, undreamed of half a century ago.

The uncle of the bride, Rev. A. Schoen, played Lohengrins wedding march. The bride wore a dress of white satin and carried a bouquet of white roses and carnations. The bridesmaid, Miss Ruth Grau, sister of the groom, attended the bride and wore a dress of pink satin and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. The groom was attended by Mr. Elmer Kuebler, cousin of the bride.

At four o'clock a two course wedding supper was served to about fifty-five guests by the Misses Lelia Trinkle and Esther Eisele. The color scheme, pink and white, was carried out throughout the house. The couple received many beautiful gifts. After March third Mr. and Mrs. Grau will be at home on the Matthew Kuaterer farm.

For the first two years after reaching Saline, it was rung at noon each and every day as was common at that time in many places.—Observer.

PINCKNEY—The Edison workmen are making good headway in the village. The poles are all set, linemen are busy putting up the wires, and from present indications private consumers will be furnished with Edison service about the first of the month. Many houses will have to have slight changes in the wiring where the wires enter the buildings, the present way being dangerous and contrary to state fire regulations. These changes however, will not be very expensive and are necessary for safety.—Dispatch.

$500,000 FOREST PLANTED IN STATE

PUBLIC DOMAIN COMMISSION HAS NINE FOREST TRACTS UNDER CULTIVATION.

WOOD FAMINE SEEN BY LUSK

Work of State Offset By Decline in Reforestation Conducted By Private Enterprises.

Lansing.—Nine forest tracts, averaging about 18,000 acres each, are under intensive cultivation by the state, according to Commissioner Lusk, of the state public domain department.

A policy has been adopted, Mr. Lusk said, of using more of the land which is turned over to the state through failure of owners to meet tax assessment for reforestation purposes.

The rotation system used on the various tracts is one which will find culmination probably 30 or 40 years hence, Mr. Lusk explained. At that time it is expected the tree "crops" will have sufficiently matured so that each year a quantity of timber can be cut. For every tree cut another will be planted.

That this method of reforestation will eventually become a paying proposition for the state is the claim of the commissioner. Five hundred thousand dollars has been expended so far in furthering reforestation projects. The land on which this money has been spent has increased in value.

To offset the growth of timber by the state, however, private enterprise in reforestation is showing a decline, according to reports received at the public domain offices. The fact that the crop when timber is planted, is so slow in developing is attributed as the chief reason.

The Michigan Agricultural college, co-operating with the public domain commission, is making an effort to interest private owners in private reforestation, but the response, Mr. Lusk said, is very slight. Commissioner Lusk sees in the situation a wood famine in a comparatively few years unless private owners can be induced to take up reforestation.

DENBY APPOINTMENT SURPRISE

Michigan Cabinet Appointee Says He Was Not Expecting Office.

Atlantic City.—The selection of Edwin Denby for secretary of the navy in President-elect Harding's tentative cabinet draft was as much of a surprise to Mr. Denby as it was to the general public.

He told 50 Kansas educators aboard a train bound for Atlantic City that the news of his selection came to him "as a bolt out of a blue sky."

"Three days ago," Mr. Denby was quoted by H. D. Ramsey, one of the educators, "I had absolutely no suspicion that I was to be appointed secretary of the navy or to any other post in the cabinet."

New York.—Starving China is expected immediately to succeed the children of Europe in the hearts of generous America, said Thomas W. Lamont, chairman of the China famine fund committee.

Chorus of "Noes" Kills Proposed Anti-Smoking Measure in House.

There was a shouting of "noes" when a Senate amendment to the Sundry Civil Bill, directing heads of departments to issue anti-smoking orders in Government buildings, came up for its first test. Less than a score of members supported it. The law was designed as a protection against fire.

Captain Brock, a native of North Devonshire, England, distinguished himself also in the East Indian revolution.

Another Job for Tumulty.

Washington.—President Wilson has taken steps looking to the appointment of Joseph P. Tumulty, his secretary to the international joint commission on the Canadiana boundaries. Senator Mark Smith, of Arizona, has already been appointed to this place, but has not qualified, and it is understood that the president now has another appointment in view for Senator Smith. The position would pay Tumulty $7,500 a year and would not interfere with his law practice.

He said that the owner might prosecute as a violation of the prohibition law.

MANY KILLED IN TRAIN COLLISION

M. C. AND N. Y. C. EXPRESSES CRASH AT PORTER, IND., AND OVER 100 ARE INJURED.

ENGINEER DISREGARDS WARNING

Passes Red Flag Signals and Gets Half Way Over Crossing When Other Strikes.

Porter, Ind.—Forty persons were killed and 100 were injured in a wreck of Michigan Central and New York Central passenger trains in this city at 6:20 o'clock Sunday evening, according to officials of the Michigan Central railroad.

The Michigan Central train is known as "The Canadian" and was due in Detroit at 12:10 Monday morning. The New York Central train was No. 151, known as the Interstate Express. It was bound to Chicago from Boston. Both trains were made up almost exclusively of Pullman cars.

"The Canadian," operated between Chicago and Montreal, with through coaches to New York City, was made up chiefly of Canadian Pacific equipment. It carried passengers for Detroit, and intermediate points between Chicago and Montreal and New York.

Scores of passengers, pinned in the wreckage of the coaches, were burned by the fire which broke out immediately, but was later extinguished by the volunteer fire department of the village.

According to first information the engineer on the Michigan Central train ran past two red signals which had been set to give the Lake Shore train the right of way.

Among the dead known on the New York Central train were the two engineers. The engineer of the Michigan Central is missing. It was reported that he leaped from his cab when he saw the oncoming New York Central train.

The tracks of the two railroads intersect here at a sharp angle, being almost parallel. The Michigan Central train was believed to be crossing the intersection when it was derailed. The towerman was blamed by railroad officials for allowing the Michigan Central train to attempt to cross ahead of the westbound train.

JAPAN WANTS CONTROL OF YAP

Protests Claim of U. S. to Island Wanted for Naval Base.

If President Wilson made oral reservations to the council, it is declared that Japan was not represented and has no official cognizance of this.

"My mother-in-law and both myself and children were in a rundown, weak condition, and we all had coughs and felt miserable. Some of us had no good appetite. Meantime didn't want anything to us, and none of us had enough ambition to do anything. We just dragged around until one night I read about this wonderful new tonic, Earle's Hypo-Cod in the newspaper. We got a couple of bottles down at the drug store, and it did wonders for us. Our appetites came back almost overnight. Our coughs soon left us and we all gained in strength and every one of us felt as good as ever. I never praise it too highly, and people here in Lansing think so much of our druggist has a hard time keeping a stock on hand. I wish I might see you face to face and use Hypo-Cod, I declare Mrs. Albert Henks, 201 Allen St., Lansing, Mich.

It is easy to increase the family appetite and to drive away winter coughs, colds and catarrhal troubles. This new, more modern, powerful and palatable combination of Hypophosphites, salubrious extractives of Liver Oil, Malt, Iron and Wheat Chlery extract preparation does its work sooner and is able to take the children love it. The name Earle's Chemical Co. is a guarantee of finest quality in medicine. By taking this splendid new tonic right now at the season of the year it is possible to avoid winter coughs, colds, and most serious sickness all winter long. Hypo-Cod fortifies the system quickly. Dry it all at the nearest drug store tonight and get a bottle. The cost is trifling compared with better health.—Adv.
