FOR A SMALL GARDEN

Planting May Be Expedited By Making Preliminary Draft On Paper.

A definite plan for the garden should be drawn on paper before any planting is done, suggest garden specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. First determine the exact dimensions of the available land; then ascertain which parts of the garden will be best adapted to certain crops, especially those that require a large amount of sunshine. Outline the garden plan on paper and sketch in the crops that are to be planted upon each part.

In planning a garden it should be borne in mind that certain crops, such as lettuce, radishes, and early beets, can frequently be grown in the same rows with other crops and be removed before the main crop attains sufficient size to require the entire space. It should be remembered, also, that carrots, beets, salsify, early turnips, parsnips, and all crops of that type may be grown in rows 12 to 18 inches apart and will occupy a comparatively small amount of space if grouped together. The taller growing crops, such as pole beans, tomatoes trained to stakes, and sweet corn, should be planted at one side of the garden where they will not shade the smaller crops.

The Call Of Spring

Arrange Rows for Convenience.

It is generally conceded that the rows should run north and south; however, it is more important to arrange the rows for convenience of cultivation than for exposure to the sunshine.

Due consideration should be given to both companion and succession cropping. By companion cropping, the plan of planting two or more crops together and removing those that mature first is followed. By successive cropping one crop follows another, keeping the land fully occupied all the time. Thus, early cabbage may be followed by celery or late tomatoes; early corn or early Irish potatoes may be followed by turnips, late beans, late beets, or late cabbage. The arrangement of crops, however, depends somewhat upon the locality and length of the season.

PROTECTING THE FISH SUPPLY.

The young editor of the Brighton Argus is perturbed over the proposed fishing license bill—he evidently begrudges the payment of one dollar a year to preserve for the future the joys of an occasional day's angling on some inland lake. Personally, the editor of the Tribune believes the fishing license bill has merit.

In past years the State has appropriated funds for conducting fish hatcheries, etc., but we understand that little or no money will be available for the purpose this year. The proposed licensing of anglers would provide funds for the restocking of our ponds and lakes and those who enjoy the fishing so provided would pay for the privilege.

Why any true sportsman should hesitate to pay so little as one dollar for a fishing license is beyond our comprehension. He will spend much more than a dollar for fishing tackle, and perhaps for gasoline to drive to his favorite fishing ground; so that the cost of the license is really only a comparatively small part of the expense of a fishing excursion; and the boys and girls under 18 are exempted from the provisions of the bill.

Back in the late 90's the writer spent three summers in Wyoming. Only a few years before buffalo had roamed those plains in countless herds, but then only an occasional skull could be found. In the 90's antelope were plentiful, but now they too are gone; and we can well conceive that in a few short years Michigan's beautiful lakes will be practically devoid of fish life unless funds are provided to restock the inland waters each year.

Perhaps, as the Brighton editor says, the proposed bill "is lacking in common sense and justice," but we can't see it that way. For years Michigan has maintained state fish hatcheries at public expense—we've all paid a tax to support them whether we fished or not. Under the terms of the proposed license bill only those who fished would support the fish hatcheries, and those who did not fish could save their dollar. We are inclined to the opinion that the Brighton editor has not considered all the angles of this proposed angling bill—he's only seen the cork bobbing on the surface.

SUICIDE'S BODY UNCLAIMED.

The body of the man, supposed to be John August Anderson, found a week ago Saturday in Chris. Heydlauf's woods, is still unclaimed and probably will be sent to Ann Arbor.

A letter received yesterday from the minister of the Swedish church in Denver which Anderson attended gave a little information, to the effect that Anderson had sold a cottage and two lots in Denver, before leaving there in January, for $250. An account of his expenses since leaving Denver shows how a large part of this money was spent for railroad fare, board and lodging, etc.

The letter stated that the writer believed Anderson had a wife and family living in New York state.

RAILMEN ASK FOR LABOR CONFERENCE

YIELD TO PRESIDENT HARDING'S PLAN TO END DISPUTES ON WORKING CONDITIONS.

LABOR'S RIGHTS ARE OUTLINED

Name 12 Points to Be Settled and Ask Federal Labor Board to Conduct Conference.

Chicago—Five railroad labor unions with 500,000 members have submitted to President Harding's labor plan for ending industrial disputes between the roads and their workers, proposing that the president call a conference of representatives of both sides at which new rules governing working conditions would be worked out to take the place of the national agreements, now in dispute before the railroad labor board.

The proposal was contained in a statement by representatives of the five mechanical unions and was sent to the president by B. M. Jewell, president of the railway employees department of the American Federation of Labor.

It proposed that all wage disputes be held in abeyance pending the conference, holding that the matter of wages could be adjusted quickly to the question of rules had been settled.

The telegram was sent in response to a request from President Harding at the recent conference he held with Jewell that labor submit its plan for ending the railroad industrial troubles. It included 12 points which were termed "labor's self-evident and inalienable rights," which, it said, would have to be settled at the proposed conference and specified that the national agreements should not be discontinued in any way pending outcome of the proposed conference.

It was suggested the conference be held under jurisdiction of the railroad labor board, which would have full authority over it.

Included in the 12 points which the union said should be upheld were the basic eight-hour day, the right of collective bargaining, the right of each craft to decide what organization should represent it in any conference with employers and adjustment of "proper pay" for overtime work.

He has been sentenced to Jackson prison for a term of from two and one-half to five years.

CENSORSHIP BILL PASSED BY HOUSE

MANY AMENDMENTS TO MOVIE MEASURE PERMIT ENOUGH VOTES FOR APPROVAL.

TO RUSH BONUS LEGISLATION

Believed Enabling Measure Can Be Passed Before April 29 and Held for Governor's Signature.

(From Staff Correspondent.)

Lansing—The Strom moving picture censorship bill went through the house of representatives by a vote of 84 to 10 when it came up for final passage, despite the many assertions of its opponents that no censorship bill could get by.

The bill as adopted is far from what the original bill introduced early in the session aimed to provide. In fact, so many alterations were made to the original measure that a substitute bill was printed and reported to the house committee of the whole and this was further amended, but only along lines suggested by Rep. Strom. Efforts to include moving picture advertising in newspapers in the scope of the bill were defeated. Supporters of the measure said such an amendment would involve the freedom of the press and was made with a view to damaging the bill.

As finally adopted by the house the bill provides that the state administrative board may censor moving pictures and prohibit the showing of those that are immoral. Opponents of the bill declare that in this form the bill amounts to little, but they also declare their belief that they can defeat it in the senate.

House Changes Income Tax

After one defeat in the house the Mosier joint resolution to amend the state constitution so as to provide for a state income tax, was taken from the table and passed. It lacked one vote of the necessary two-thirds when first voted upon and had two more than it required when it went through. It passed after an amendment was made exempting corporations from the proposed income tax because they are to be taxed under the new corporation tax measure. If the senate accepts the Mosier resolution in its present form, by which it calls for a tax on all individual incomes in addition to the federal income tax, the issue will go to the people for a vote at the general election to be held in November, 1922.

The impressive victory won in the recent state election by the amendment to provide $30,000,000 by a bond issue with which to pay a bonus to all Michigan world war veterans has inspired the legislature to proceed at once with the passage of legislation to put the payments into effect at the first possible moment. A bill introduced early in the session by Rep. Jensen is still pending and another was introduced by Rep. Dacey, of Detroit, the day after election, to carry out the bonus payments. The bills provide for $15 a month for time spent in the service of Uncle Sam.

The amendment takes effect on May 4, thirty days after the election. It is believed that the legislature may pass the enabling legislation before April 29, the proposed date of business adjournment, if it is held back so that it does not reach the governor for his signature until May 4.

May Buy Custer Building.

In addition to the bonus payment to soldiers, Rep. Culver has introduced a bill calling for the purchase by the state of the Community house at Camp Custer. and its presentation to the American Legion to be used as a hospital for disabled and distressed world war veterans. The building was sold for $50,000 on time payments to the International Resort association, but it is believed it can be taken back again without any extra expense to the state.

The house has passed the bill offered by Rep. W. F. Miller to reduce the interest penalty on delinquent taxes from one per cent to three-fourths of one per cent a month. It also has passed the Vice bill to recreate revolving funds for drains in counties and the Dafee bill to make it optional for counties to pay sheriffs and their deputies straight salaries in lieu of fees.

The Condon bill, aimed at automobile thievery, and adopted some time ago by the senate, was passed by the house and now goes to the governor. It requires that all owners of automobiles must have certificates of ownership of their cars, issued by the secretary of state, after July 1, 1922. Dealers in second hand cars also must keep complete records of all cars bought and sold by them. Whenever a car changes hands the certificate of ownership must have the change recorded upon it. The penalty for violating the law is set at $5,000 fine and imprisonment up to ten years.

Penalize Negligent Autolists.

The house also passed the Johnson bill dealing as negligent manslaughter the killing of any person with an automobile recklessly driven. The bill failed to get the needed 51 votes when first up on third reading, but was passed when amended so as to leave to juries the question of the speed of a car at the time of a fatal accident.

A public hearing was given on Rep.

O. F. Miller's proposal to place all churches, hospitals and charitable institutions on the tax rolls at which arguments on both sides of the question were made by interested parties. The senate has adopted the house bill to create the department of industry and labor and it now goes to the governor. The measure nearly went into the discard in the senate because of efforts to make the salaries of the three department commissioners $5,000 a year. The salaries are left at $4,000 in the bill as adopted.

Another salary argument is in progress among senators over a bill introduced by Senator Brower to have the auditor general, state treasurer and secretary of state paid $2,500 a year extra compensation for their services on the state administrative board. Their salaries now are $2,500. Auditor General Fuller has stated that he does not believe such extra payment would be legal unless voted by the people and that he would not accept it from the legislature.

The house has reconsidered the vote by which it failed to pass the bill increasing mothers' pensions and tabled the measure for future reference.

To Discuss Utilities Question.

With legislative lines tightening in anticipation of the rush that will precede the closing days of the session a few weeks hence, the fate of the numerous public utilities bills before both houses is beginning to attract much attention. This week there will be held a big public hearing on all these measures and immediately afterwards will come the tug-of-war which will settle the utilities legislation of the present session.

Held in committee since the session was young are two bills, one in the senate and one in the house, which would strengthen the power of the state public utilities commission to a considerable degree. The senate bill was introduced by Senator Don Osborn, of Kalamazoo, and the house bill by Rep. Rafoe, of Alpena. Both bills have drawn the fire of the League of Michigan Municipalities and the effect was observable when the Osborn bill was reported out finally to the senate. Amendments made to it aim to safeguard all franchise agreements still in existence between municipalities and utilities corporations; to have local representation for the state utilities commission where that is deemed necessary; to place bus lines under the control of the state commission; and to exclude Highland Park from the jurisdiction of the commission. The city of Detroit already was exempted. The prospects are that the big battle will come over the Osborn bill and that the house will mark time until the senate disposes of it. If the senate adopts the Osborn bill the house may consider it in connection with the Dafee bill.

Change in Judicial Circuits.

The house killed the bill to increase bill to place Tuscola county with Lapeer in one judicial circuit and leave Huron and Sanilac to form another. The senate also adopted the Vandenhoeke resolution calling on Congress to speed up the lake-to-ocean waterway project as a means of relieving the congested transportation situation in the central western states. The house has approved the plan to make a rate of interest of five and one half per cent on good roads bonds instead of five per cent, in order to make the bonds more attractive to investors. The bill providing for this also permits the issuance of a maximum of ten millions of dollars worth of road bonds annually and places the financing in the hands of the state administrative board.

The Byrum bill to prohibit local agents and dealers from receiving commissions on road material which does not pass through their hands was killed by the house in the belief that the state would save nothing and the agents lose. The senate has passed the Wood bill to restore party enrollments and the Smith joint resolution to submit an amendment allowing cities to acquire for park purposes by condemnation an excess amount of land. The first conferences of the session between the two houses were over minor measures, one raising fees paid by notaries in applying for commissions and the other a fish bill.

Much interest attaches to a joint resolution introduced by Rep. Liddy, of Detroit, proposing to amend the state constitution so as to remove the clause requiring that a county retain a member of the state house of representatives if it has a moiety of the required population under the last census. This would allot house memberships on a straight population basis and Wayne county would secure 30 to 32 members under the apportionment in the next legislature, while several counties throughout the state would lose memberships. Wayne now has fourteen house seats, having failed to gain any in 1913 when the last apportionment was knocked out in the supreme court because it sought to take seats in the house away from counties which had a moiety of the required population.

Senator Phillips has introduced a bill to replace the present board of pardons with a commissioner of pardons who would be paid a salary of $5,000 a year. Rep. Stevenson has put in a bill to have good time allowed to prisoners deducted from their minimum sentences and to prevent judges from recommending any special time of serving a sentence, under the indeterminate sentence act. ## Catarhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear.

Catarhal Deafness requires constitutional treatment. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is a constitutional remedy.
Catarhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound of imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation is removed, your hearing may be destroyed forever.
HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE acts through the blood on the mucous surface of the system thus reducing the inflammation and restoring normal conditions.
