

LATE DEVELOPEMENTS IN CHICKEN CASE

Embury's Parole Revoked; Remanded To Jail; Ralph Hadley of Lyndon Arrested; Pleads Guilty.

Developments in the chicken stealing case during the past week have resulted in Milburn Embury being recalled before Judge Sample, his parole revoked and his return to jail to await sentence. It is said that the conditions of Embury's parole were that he should not drive an automobile, frequent pool or billiard rooms, smoke cigarettes, etc. These the youthful prisoner deemed as too drastic and expressed himself so freely that Judge Sample revoked the parole, and has taken the disposition of the case under further consideration.

Another Arrest.
Ralph Hadley of Lyndon is now enmeshed in the dragnet being thrown out by the officers who are investigating the chicken stealing operations in Lyndon. He was taken to Ann Arbor, Wednesday morning, and pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny exceeding $25, admitting that he had been associated with Embury in stealing chickens. He claimed that he had helped Embury in order that the latter might pay for his automobile. Hadley is about 28 years old; Embury 17. He, too, has been remanded to jail for further investigation and sentence.

CHELSEA CAPITALISTS ARE INTERESTED

Detroit Packing Co. Held Annual Meeting; Peter Merkel Director.

Thirteen residents of Chelsea and vicinity were in Detroit, Tuesday, to attend the annual meeting and banquet of the Detroit Packing Co., in which they are interested. There are upwards of 20 stockholders in this vicinity, those who attended the meeting being as follows: John Lucht, Fred Gross, Fred Reichert, Herman Hayes, Lewis Eppler, Edwin Koebbe, John Heselschwerdt, Conrad Heselschwerdt, Henry Merkel, Ferdinand Merkel, Peter Merkel, Fred Klingler, and William Wheeler. There were about 800 stockholders present, about one-third of the total number. Peter Merkel of this place is one of the 15 directors of the company.

The Detroit Packing Co. some time ago purchased the plant of the Independent Brewing Co. and has remodeled it into a modern packing plant. Sausage and smoked meats are now being produced and when completed the daily capacity of the plant will be 1,000 hogs, 150 head cattle, 1,000 lambs, and 500 calves.

It is said that only 25 per cent of the meat consumed in Detroit is killed there, so that the new plant has an ample local field. Michigan grown stock will be used so far as possible, each of the stockholders being a buying agent in his locality.

-BUILDING UP CREDIT-

One of the problems in every business is building up credit.

Making loans is an important part of the banking business. The credit that can be granted is measured by the responsibility of the borrower, the security offered, the willingness and ability to pay promptly when due.

Men who give special attention to maintaining their credit are generally referred to as "lucky" in times like the present.

It is our greatest pleasure to assist customers in every possible way. Have the benefit of our advice and facilities.

HASTENED WITH GLAD NEWS

Footman Reasonably Felt He Had Something of Importance to Communicate to Employer.

Miss MacSwiney, the sister of the late lord mayor of Cork, relaxed enough at a dinner in New York to tell a story about the Irish earl of Dunraven.

"The earl of Dunraven," she said,
"has a magnificent country seat, Dun-raven castle, and Lord Lyons once sent him there a gift of a pair of enews."

"Those enews were named after their giver, and, as they were rare birds, a great desire prevailed at Dun-raven castle that they should propagate. This desire ran from the earl on down to the very stable boys.

"One day the earl was giving a statey luncheon when a footman rushed in, wild with excitement.

"Your lordship—oh, your lordship," he panted, "Lord Lyons has laid an egg."

Little Mary wished some cheese, and evidently thinking "cheese" was the plural form, asked: "May I have a cheese?"

One day she was told "to behave," to which she replied: "I am being have."

When Aunt Nell was sick she was interested in her various medicines and the difference between pills and tablets was explained to her. That evening she said to her father: "I wish you would buy me a writing pill."

Better Business.
Nine-year-old John's father is a labor leader and John bears much of "division of labor," etc., so he has already formed ideas on the subject.

He goes to church every Sunday with his mother, but the other evening a neighbor took him to prayer meeting for the first time in John's life. There was a testimony meeting.
John listened intently to each speaker, and on the way home commented on it. "I sort of like that idea of having several of the people preach," he said. "It gives them a chance to divide up the salary."

Catarh Can Be Cured Catarh is a local disease greatly influenced by constitutional conditions. It therefore requires constitutional treatment. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is taken internally and acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE destroys the foundation of the disease, gives the patient strength by improving the general health and assists nature in doing its work.

Searchlight for Night Flying.
A powerful searchlight of the new "dish" type has been built for the government for use in guiding aviators at night. This great beacon has approximately 3,000,000 candlepower.
It is operated by two enormous motors and it can "pick up" an aviator three miles in the air. The light is set upon a wheel chassis and can be easily moved about. It will be transported by motor car ahead of the planes each day to the spot where the landing is to be made at night, and its rays will guide the aviator to the ground.

Not Up to Sample.
"It was a case of love at first sight when I met Billy." "Then why didn't you marry him?" "I met him again so often."

What More Did He Want?
Achilles was sulking in his tent.
"Why don't you build a tax-exempt house?" we demanded.

Much Appreciated.
"They say an hour early in the morning is worth two in the afternoon."
"So it is, if you can have it in bed."

LITTLE LADIES'
SUMMER DRESSES

LABOR with what zeal they may, something still remains for mothers to make for their little ones, but the work is not much of a task when the matter of material and style are decided on. In materials we find plain chambray, small plaid and checked flannels, light and dark satens, doted flannels, voiles, organdies and infinites, all in pretty, live colors (with a spice of black and navy blue) make up the color story as told by the shops; chambrays, gingham and satens, and tulle for special occasions.

For the small fry, from two to six years old, rompers divide favor with dresses and the latter are provided with bloomers or short pants to match.
Nothing is in greater favor than mon-ing little peg-top bloomers of plain chambray, in blue, green, light brown or other colors, made with round neck and elbow sleeves. Very simple stitchery is the usual finish for them.
Dresses with bloomers to match are cut either in the sack pattern with small yoke, or with a short bodice and knee-length skirt. A pretty model appears at the left of the two shown

Approved Styles in Coats

THOSE who have postponed the acquirement of a spring coat until now, may congratulate themselves that the styles are crystallized and that therefore it is easy to make a choice.
Coat styles have gone from good to better and it will take a capricious and hypercritical person to journey far in the displays without growing enthusiastic over the latest offerings of the designers. There are several good, distinct styles to choose from, with those showing the influence of the cape, dominating the season.

This feature is given prominence in the handsome coat shown at the left of the two illustrated here. The body of the coat is full and hangs straight with ripples at the bottom, in the manner of a long cape, the sleeves simulate a shorter cape and the embroidery, used for embellishment, follows the lines of a still shorter cape, or deep cape collar. By these means the designer attains his approval of cape styles in coats and accomplishes a successful garment. It is of tan-colored

GIRL GETS SERVICE MEDAL

Emblem Presented to New York High School Miss in Recognition of Patriotic Work.

As a tribute to her patriotic services during the World war, Miss Pauline Henkel, a fourteen-year old New York high school girl, was presented with a patriotic service gold medal by F. W. Calbraith, Jr., national commander of the American Legion, in honor of S. Hankin Drow post. The presentation ceremonies took place at front of the Fifth Avenue public library in New York city.

The guard of honor for Miss Henkel, who is known as the "Little Colonel," was composed of members of the marine corps under command of Lieutenants Miller and Campbell and Sergeant Janssen, congressional medal of honor man.

Although she was only ten years old at the start of the World war, the Little Colonel sold $3,330.250 worth of Liberty bonds, more than any other minor in the country, and also was recognized as one of the most effective patriotic speakers and war workers in America.

With the return of the American soldiers to their native land, Miss Henkel is still devoting herself to their welfare, as attested by the following quotation from her speech of acceptance:

"The happiest moment of my life will be when it is a fact that the wounded, disabled and unemployed of our boys have been taken care of in a manner befitting the sacrifices they have made. The cause of the disabled

MISS PAULINE HENKEL.

should come above everything else in our hearts. Let us take care of the men who saved our country; we owe them an obligation we cannot afford to ignore."

MAY MORNING

By MOLLIE MATHER.

John Towne drove through the village on his quickest route to the city beyond. The ride was longer than he had anticipated, in his wish to avoid close trains, and the spring time vista of field and meadow, brought from him no conscious admiration. Above all things, was John practical, and this journey but a necessary factor in a necessary arrangement of his life's future plan. Jeremy Dawn, the successful president of the great company in which John Towne himself had made his way, was dead. Jeremy Dawn had died several months ago; but John, installed as succeeding president, had been too busy to seek the carrying out of the plan which his superior unfolded to him on his sick bed.

The capable junior member of the business concern was well aware of the need of an efficient address in his home. The pretentious building that John had fitted for a dwelling, was to him merely a well ordered instrument. Upon several past occasions where he had been a guest at Mr.
Dawn's summer home, John had regained the value of a woman's hospitality and home management. The peace and intelligence of Mrs. Jeremy Dawn charmed him. John Towne pictured his future wife as just such a woman and dispirited of finding this paragon of choice. Now, the wife that Jeremy Dawn had named for him was no other than his own daughter, the daughter of this perfect woman. The girl had been at college, John remembered, during his visits to the Dawn's home, but he had absolute confidence in his shrewd old friend's judgment.

As John Towne reached the last hill he decided, worried of rough roads, to leave his car in town and continue the journey by rail. He drove up to a girl seated on a stile and asked the way to the village station.

"I have," John told her crossly, "just ten minutes to make my train."

"That," pleasantly remarked the girl in the red sweater, "is nothing in my young life."

John stared, then he glared; which appeared to the pretty creature interesting but not disturbing. She continued the hum of her song as she started down hill. All at once, John realized amazingly the beauty of the morning, that pink flowers peeped between green leaves; that the girl's cheeks were rose pink too, that violets bordered the country road, that the girl's eyes were as deeply blue. She glanced back over her shoulder presently, and smiled. John found himself giving an answering grin. It was very strange—it was undeniably—but he wanted more than anything to hear her saucy speech again.

"As I am going your way," he condescended, "I might as well take you with me."

The girl tilted her chin. "Nobody asked you too, sir," she quoted.
With an impulse inexplicable, he sought to detain her.

"You are on your way to the village?" she persisted.

The girl looked demurely down at her pail.

"I was about to carry the milk into the farm house," she said.

As he lingered a shrill whistle sounded, the girl turned to him.

"Your train has gone," she announced.

John Towne's impatience had vanished.

"There will be no other going out until tonight," he stated calmly.

"I wonder if I could persuade them to give me luncheon at your farm house? I am beastly hungry."

The girl nodded in friendly fashion.
"It's a country appetite," she explained, "I will fetch you sandwiches."

She sat beside him as he ate.
"I would like," said John Towne, "to know your name." The girl laughed, turning her eyes upon him.

"I," she replied, "am just May Morning."

"I thought you were," John agreed,
"when I first looked at you, all rose and violet, and laughing sunshine."

She frowned.

"When I saw you," she retorted, "I thought first of your distressing humor."

"I was starting on a serious errand," explained John Towne.

"I know," the girl said unexpectedly, "you were going to see Mary Dawn, to ask her to be your wife. I will tell you something; you may save the trouble. Mary Dawn is not in the city, for she ran away to avoid refusing. She did not care to be handed over like a package; you see, and neither would you care for her. She is most unlike her mother, whom you admire, and she has old-fashioned ideas about love.
So you'd better turn your automobile around, John Towne, and be on your way home."

"You know my name?" the man asked, wondering, "you know all this —how?"

The girl smiled sweetly.

"Your photos are all over my father's hall," she explained, "While I, myself, am Mary Dawn. My friends changed that name to 'May Morning'."

Suddenly, serious, she leaned closer.
"I came to the farmhouse to purposely say 'no' to you," she confessed, "to show you in time, your mistake."
"And I," John Towne answered gravely, "admit no mistake. In fact, my purpose grows. For I find, May Morning, that I, too, have a certain old-fashioned idea—about love."

PROMINENT NEW YORK
MAN PRAISES TANLAC

John F. Hyatt, of Albany, N. Y., Is Relieved of Severe Attack of Rheumatism of Many Years'
Standing.

JOHN F. HYATT
227 Pearl St., Albany, N. Y.

"I am now seventy-two years old and am just getting rid of a fifteen year case of rheumatism that had me so crippled up I could not walk," said John F. Hyatt, 227 Pearl St., Albany, N. Y., in relating his remarkable experience with Tanlac, recently. Mr. Hyatt was chairman of the committee in charge of building the Albany County Courthouse and was four times elected a member of the County Board of Supervisors. At present Mr. Hyatt is Assistant Superintendent of the Albany County Courthouse, with offices in the building.

"I don't believe," he continued, "anybody could have rheumatism any worse than I did, and my case was of such long standing I didn't expect to ever get over it. I was unable to walk except for a short distance, supported with a cane, and even then the joints struck me every time I took a step. My legs, hips and ankles hurt something awful and my joints were stiff and aching. I couldn't cross my leg without having to lift it up with my hands, and to turn over in bed, why, the pains nearly killed me."

"My appetite was gone and the sight of food nauseated me. My stomach was out of order, and I had a sluggish, heavy feeling all the time.
I was weak, off in weight and discouraged so that it looked like I might as well quit trying to ever get well."

"I had no idea Tanlac would relieve my rheumatism when I began taking it last Spring. I took it because I saw where it would give a fellow an appetite. Well, sir, I was the most surprised I ever was in my life when the rheumatic pains began to ease up.

I took seven bottles in all and, it's a fact, I didn't have an ache about me, was eating fine and staidly felt like I had been made over again."

"I have been in the best of health ever since, with only a slight twinge of rheumatism at intervals. I do not need my cane now, but as I had been unable to walk without it for several years, I got into the habit of carrying it and so still take it along. I am enjoying life and health once more and can conscientiously recommend Tanalac as the greatest medicine I have ever run across in all my experience."

Tanalac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.—Adv.

VIOLENT BRAKING

If brakes are violently applied, tires are called upon to check within a few yards the entire momentum of the car.

Michelins stand up better than other tires under such punishment. The unique toughness of the black Michelin tread gives these tires unequalled wear-resistance. The extra traction-surface of the Michelin tread minimizes wear by distributing the wear over a greater area. And the extra thickness of the Michelin tread makes both these forms of protection doubly effective.

The harder the service, the more important that you have Michelins.
