Save 50c to $1 Per Ton
Loading Hay

Get away from the tiresome job of pitching hay onto the wagon in the field. You can do this and still require less farm help and harvest the hay quicker.
You can save 50c to $1 in expense per ton by using a

JOHN DEERE NEW DEERE HAY LOADER

The New Deere is the loader with the flexible, floated gathering cylinder which automatically adjusts itself to handle successfully either the lightest swath or the heaviest windrow.

We would like to show you one of these loaders, and especially the floated gathering cylinder with its strong, spring steel gathering teeth which pick up only the clean hay. Come in Saturday and let us explain to you why it puts the hay on the center of the wagon. Ask us about the automatic coupling—how the loader can be uncoupled by the man on the top of the load.

While you are about it, examine the wheel-barrow mounting of this loader. Notice how the weight is carried on the hubs, causing the wheels to run true.

Come in and ask us about our line of hay tools.

PASTORS MEET HERE

The conference of Washtenaw county Evangelical churches in Chelsea closed Wednesday night after a two day session. The sessions were mostly taken up with regular business. The officers for the ensuing year were elected, Rev. A. Schaffner of Lansing being chosen chairman;
Rev. J. Wittbracht of Saline, secretary; and Rev. P. Luckhoff of Freedom, editor of the Washtenaw county evangelical tidings.

Preparations were made for the general conference to be held next fall in New Bremen, O. Several official delegates from this county will be sent. It was voted that the next conference be held in October at Freedom with Rev. Mr. Luckhoff.
The length of the conference was also changed from two to three days.
At the service held Tuesday evening,
Rev. G. A. Neumann of Ann Arbor and Rev. E. W. Webbing of Oscoda were the principal speakers and Rev. Schaffner read a theological paper. There were about 20 pastors from the county attending the convention.

Held Memorial Services.

Over 70 Knights Templar, led by the Masonic band and escorted by members of Golden Rule and Fraternity lodges, marched from the Masonic temple, in Ann Arbor, to Forest Hill cemetery Sunday where the impressive ritual of the order celebrating the memorial ceremony was held.

Arriving at the cemetery the Knights surrounded the grave of Charles E. Hiseck, past grand commander, where Prelate J. Fred Hoelzle and James M. Galbraith conducted the ceremony in an impressive manner.

Following the ceremonies, Sir
Knight Rev. Harvey C. Colburn, of the Ann Arbor commandery and pastor of the Congregational church at Ypsilanti, gave a short address.

Several Chelsea members of the Knights Templar were in attendance and the Masonic band is under the direction of Fred H. Lewis.

License to Fish.

The angler's license law, sponsored by the different sportsmen's organizations throughout the state has been passed by the state legislature and signed by Governor Groesbeck.
The law will be effective July 1 and makes it necessary for every resident of the state to obtain a fisherman's license before they can fish on any stream or lake. The license fee will be $1.00 and may be obtained from any county clerk, village or township clerk, or any game warden.
Children under 18 years of age do not require a license. People living on shores of streams or lakes will be furnished a license free of charge to fish in that stream or lake. The fee for the balance of 1921 shall be only 50 cents. Any person violating any of the provisions of this act, shall, upon conviction, be sentenced to pay a fine of $10 or 10 days in the county jail.

Timothy Maloney.

Timothy Maloney was born in Sylvan, October 12, 1855, and died at the hospital in Ann Arbor, Thursday, May 5, 1921, where he was taken on Monday of last week for treatment.

Mr. Maloney had been a life long resident of this community. He was united in marriage with Miss Barbara Meyers about fifteen years ago.

He is survived by his wife, two daughters, one son, one sister, Mrs.
Geo. H. Whittington of Lima, one half-sister, Mrs. J. Berry, of Chelsea, and one half-brother, Hugh Mc-Laughlin, of Swift, Minnesota.

The funeral was held in St. Mary church, Saturday morning, Rev. Fr.
VanDyke conducting the services.
Interment in Mt. Olivet cemetery.

Red Cross to Make Garments.

Once again the women of Washtenaw county are asked to mobilize for the Red Cross. Information was furnished by the Red Cross in Europe shows that there is instant need of 20,000 layettes and 2,000,000 garments for children.

Washtenaw county's quota is 2,000
garments, including layettes. Chelsea's quota is 5 layettes and 135 garments for children. We are asked to make these garments as soon as possible. Patterns and material will be sent to any who desire, by Mrs.
A. L. Steger.

Annual Reunion.

The annual reunion of the 31st
Michigan Volunteers, Spanish-American War veterans, who were called Col. Gardner's "red necks," will be held in Detroit, May 15th, and plans are laid for having a big time. The reunion will occur on the 22nd anniversary of the date on which the regiment was mustered out of service at Savannah, Georgia. Colonel Gardner died last January in the west, but many of the old officers and members are expected to attend the reunion.

Dodging the Issue.

Mrs. Overwater had a deadly gleam in her eyes as she entered the butcher's and said in a withering voice:

"Mr. Aichison, how do you account for the fact that there was a piece of rubber tire in the sausage I purchased here yesterday?"

"Ah, my dear madam," responded the butcher, rising to the occasion,
"that just serves as an illustration of how the motor car is replacing the horse everywhere nowadays."

CHELSEA HIGH SCHOOL

PLAY A DECIDED SUCCESS

The play entitled "Princess Chrysanthemum," a Japanese Opera, given by the Chelsea High School Chorus
at the Sylvan Theatre, Thursday and Friday evenings of last week, was well rendered and was enjoyed immensely by the large audience present each evening.

Over fifty members of the high school took part in the entertainment, which consisted of three acts.
The scenery and costumes were descriptive of Japanese life and customs and added much to the enjoyment of the audience.

From the splendid manner in which each part was carried out, it can be seen that it took a large amount of work on the part of the Chorus and Bess M. Elliot, Director, who is to be commended for her work.

State High School Track Meet.

Small high schools of Michigan will have just as good a chance to win honors at this year's state track meet as will the largest city institutions. Three classes of competition, based on enrollment of the schools, have been announced, with identical prizes and honors attached to each classification.

The meet, which will be held at the Michigan Agricultural College on June 4, has been designated by the governing board of the Michigan Inter-scholastic Athletic Association
as the official state meet for 1921,
and will draw entries from schools
scattered over the entire state.

High schools of more than 500 enrollment are grouped in Class A of entrants; those between 250 and 500 are class B; and all under 250 will be known as Class C. This is the first year that there have been three classes at the M. A. C. state meet, the change having been made to insure a better chance for the smaller schools, who will now compete against institutions of their own rating. There will be 24 schools in class A; 37 in class B, and all the rest in class C, according to an announcement of C. L. Brewer, director of athletics at M. A. C., who has been appointed by the M. I. A. A.
Board as Director and Manager of the meet.

Trophies, which will be the same for all three classes, will include gold, silver and two bronze medals in each event, and cups for the winner in each class.

The standard list of national interscholastic events has been adopted for the meet. This includes both burdles, all runs up to and including the mile, the shot put and discus throw, broad and high jumps, pole vault, and half mile relay.

Entry blanks are being sent out to all state schools about the middle of May.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

The forty-seventh annual meeting of the Michigan Pioneer and Historical Society will be held at Lansing,
May 25 and 26.

A new plate glass was placed in the north section of the front of the Farmers & Merchants Bank, to replace one that was broken recently.

James Moran has sold his farm in Lyndon, including his live stock and tools, to David Minton, of Kentucky, who has taken possession of the property.

Monday, a colored man, driving a large touring car, ran into the boulevard lamp post on the corner at Vogel's drug store and broke several of the globes.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom S. Hughes and two sons and Mr. and Mrs. E. R.
Dahm and son and daughter, of Detroit, motored here to attend the "Princess Chrysanthemum" last Friday, returning home the same evening.

Two young men and a small boy,
while taking across the country,
attracted considerable attention on the streets here, Monday forenoon.
The men were drawing a large cart
that contained a camping outfit.

A fire in the woods on the farm of Dr. G. W. Palmer, in Lyndon, Sunday afternoon, burned over about three acres and it is thought that a quantity of the young timber was so badly damaged that it will probably die. It is thought that the blaze was started accidentally by some smoker traveling through the timber lot.

THE LAP OF FORTUNE

Ben Franklin said: "To be thrown on one's own resources is one's lot to be cast in the very lap of fortune."

Ben was a pretty wise old chap and in the above paragraph, in the language of the street, he "said a mouthful." In other words, a case of sink or swim teaches one to swim. In financial affairs, it means work and save in order to succeed. The dollars you earn are the ones you value and will keep. Are you struggling along on your resources? Then you are the very party we are anxious to help. We admire your pluck. Open an account with our Bank. We will stand by you.

THE U. S. ROYAL CORD

A famous tie—and a famous tread. Acknowledged among motorists and dealers alike as the world's foremost example of Cord tire building. Always delivering the same repeated economy, tire after tire, and season after season.

The stripe around the sidewall is registered as a trade-mark in the U. S. Patent Office.

How you can measure tire value in 1921 —

"Any U. S. Tire is a universal full money's worth."

OFTEN it's surprising the number of different tire views that come out in a chance talk at the curb or in the leisure of a friend's garage.

Almost every day you come across the man human enough to believe he can outguess the cut-price tag on "job-lots," "discontinued lines" and "surplus stocks."

His opposite is the hard-pan car owner who sticks year in and year out to a standard brand as the only rational economy.

Many will remember the scarcity of U. S. Tires last year.

A hardship at the time, but a benefit now. There are no U. S. Tires to be worked off—no accumulations—no forced selling of any U. S. brand—no shipping of tires from one part of the country to another to "find a market."

There are 92 U. S. Factory Branches. Each one gets its share of U. S. Tires. There is a broad, constant, even distribution of U. S. Tires always going on from these Branches to the dealer.

Buy a U. S. Tire anywhere—in a community of 500 people or even less—and you get a fresh, live tire of current production—with all the original service and mileage the factory put into it.

The owner of a medium or light-weight car stands on equal ground with every other car owner.

Any United States Tire is a universal full money's worth—backed up with a leadership policy of equal quality, buying convenience and price for everybody.

Pineckey—Last week on Wednesday night the barn containing a fine young team of horses, a new Ford Sedan and other valuables belonging to Casimer Clinton burned. Nothing was saved. No insurance except on the sedan. Prompt work by the fire department saved other buildings and prevented a large conflagration.—Dispatch.

Hillsdale—During the past two months Hillsdale county has paid in bounties for noxious birds and animals over $9,600. Rats and woodchucks have cost the county nearly $7,000, and sparrows come next, with owls, weasels, and crows to help fill out the total and be ranked among the "undesirable citizens" of the fields and woods.

Dexter—The contract for grading and graveling the Portage Lake road has been let to C. L. Snyder and Son of Ann Arbor. The road is about five miles in length extending from the end of the present good road, north of Dexter village, to the Livingston county line, completing an improved road between Howell and Ann Arbor via Pineckey and Dexter.—Leader.

Manchester—Rev. Arthur Burch, of Sharon, who has charge of an Evangelical church at White House, Ohio, went there to preach his first sermon as their pastor Sunday, then returned here after Mrs. Burch, Tuesday. Jackson—A costly method of destroying the evidence is alleged to have been employed by unknown thieves who stole an Overland car belonging to A. W. Duvall of 1008 Francis street from a parking place between the postoffice and the Elks temple Saturday night. Sensing tragedy, he went downstairs and found Rhul, his young bride of six months, lying dead upon the cellar floor. In reaching for a bottle of milk at the top of the landing she had lost her balance and pitched headlong to the concrete floor. Her neck was broken. The fragments of the bottle were found beside her body.

Dexter—For the past two weeks Gilbert Madden has been engaged in putting down a drive well on the grounds of St. Joseph's parochial school. The well has now reached the depth of 242 feet, 71 feet in the bed rock. A flow of water has been struck which comes within 45 feet of the surface, but an unusual condition for this locality has developed, in the fact that the water is very salty. This was not discovered until after the well had been pumped out, and a considerable speculation has arisen as to what the mineral conditions of the water may be.—Leader.

Ann Arbor—Evan Essery, commissioner of schools, is receiving copies of The Western Times, a newspaper printed in Exeter, the capital of Devonshire, England. The paper is mailed to his office by relatives in the old country and started coming here to his father, 48 years ago. Many curious articles and phrases are in the sheet, according to Mr. Essery. One of the most recent was, "the drug his arm winding his automobile." The paper referred to the ladies who poured tea at supper as "pourers" and those who cut up the bread and spread the butter as "cutters up."—Times News.

Reparations Ultimatum and Protocol Handed to Germany by the Allies.

RUHR WILL BE OCCUPIED

Fehrenbach Cabinet Resigns After America Rejects Offer—Poles Invade Upper Silesia Plebiscite Zone—Panama Scorns the Warning of Secretary Hughes.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD.

Two things operated to prevent the occupation of the Ruhr district by the allied forces last week. One was the hesitation of Great Britain and Italy to exact the sanctions which France demanded and which everyone admits are warranted. The other was the time required to mobilize the French troops and move them over into German territory. The French minister of war, however, called to the colors about 140,000 men of the class of 1919 and started them toward the Ruhr, armed and equipped for real warfare.

For several days the supreme council, in session in London, argued over the reparations and sanctions. Lloyd George and Count Sforza delaying final decision as long as they could, while Premier Briand insisted on speedy action. Lord Curzon was singularly stubborn in contesting the French propositions and in the effort to delay matters he persuaded the council to summon to London the entire reparations commission. Early in the week Secretary of State Hughes had replied to the German note, saying that the offer of Berlin was not, in the opinion of the American government, worthy of transmission to the allies, and expressing the hope that Germany would "at once make directly to the allied governments clear, definite and adequate proposals which would in all respects meet its just obligations."

The wording of this note made it clear that America would not interfere, but the British and Italian members of the council still hoped Doctor Simons would come across with a new offer that would make the seizure of the Ruhr unnecessary. On Wednesday, however, they gave in and a final agreement was reached regarding the ultimatum and protocol to Germany. Next morning the documents were signed and the ultimatum, giving Germany six days to accept, was handed to Doctor Stanner, German ambassador to Great Britain. The allied reparations commission carried the protocol to Paris and handed it to the German representatives there.

The total sum demanded from Germany was increased from 132,000,000, 000 to 135,000,000,000 gold marks by the inclusion of the sum due Belgium for her debts to the allied nations. Germany is to acknowledge the indebtedness by the issue of bonds in three sections, the first immediately, the second in November and the third according to her ascertained ability to pay. Germany is ordered to pay 2,000,000,000 gold marks annually and, in addition, 26 per cent of the value of her exports. When these payments exceed the interest on the bonds issued the reparations commission is entitled to require the issue of further bonds to the amount of the annual income. It was also decided that the proceeds of certain German revenues, such as the customs, should be appropriated to the service of the debt.

To enforce compliance with the demands of the allies France will occupy the Ruhr district on May 12, her troops being accompanied by relatively small detachments of British and Belgian soldiers, and it is probable the British and French navies will at least make a demonstration in the North sea and the Baltic, possibly establishing naval control of Bremen, Hamburg and Stettin. Concerning this it was felt the advice of the United States should be obtained.

Meanwhile the German cabinet was holding futile sessions trying to frame a new offer, and on Wednesday Chancellor Fehrenbach, Foreign Minister Simons and their colleagues gave up and resigned. At this writing it is understood Doctor Stanner, leader of the people's party, will be chancellor, and Dr. Mayer-Kauffmann, German ambassador to France, will be foreign minister. The collapse of the German cabinet had no effect on the plans of the allies.

The United States doubtless will take no part in the military occupation of the Ruhr district, but it may soon be a party to the enforcement of the reparations terms. The supreme council has invited President Harding to name representatives in the council and the reparations commission, and there is reason to believe the invitation will be accepted. The administration, it is said in Washington, desires to participate in the work of the commission to promote American interest in a permanent settlement.

Enraged by reports that the allies' plebiscite commission had recommended that only the Krynitz and Pless regions in Upper Silesia be awarded to Poland and that the rest of the territory be given to Germany, some 20,000 Poles, well organized and armed, invaded Upper Silesia, seized a number of important cities, cut the communications with Germany and at latest reports were advancing on Oppeln, north of the Oder river. The French, British and Italian control officers and their small bodies of troops were unable to cope with the situation and the whole region was overrun. The peasants there siding with the Polish invaders. At Gross Strehlitz Italian forces commanded by Colonel Bond, an Englishman, resisted the Poles who sought to occupy the city and an artillery engagement ensued.

The German government, of course, formally protested against this action of the Poles to the allied governments, and the latter took immediate steps to regain control of the situation, declaring martial law in the plebiscite zone and sending troops against the invaders. It was admitted that it would be hard to oust the Poles, and the alleged fact that their course was tacitly approved by the French authorities there created considerable ill feeling between the British and the French. Premier Briand, however, asked Prince Sapleha, Polish foreign minister, now in Paris, to transmit to the Polish government a request to end the disturbances in Upper Silesia. When the allied supreme council adjourned its London session it was said it would soon meet again in Oostend to take up the Upper Silesia question.

Now that the senate has adopted the Knox peace resolution, it is up to some one to devise our further procedure in the matter of restoring our relations with Germany. In the final debate on the resolution Senator Lodge admitted the Versailles treaty could not be so amended as to meet the requirements of the United States, as President Harding hoped, and that a new treaty must be negotiated. This, of course, is pleasing to the "irreconcilables," who now believe the Versailles pact never will be resubmitted to the senate. And, as has been said before in this review, it is difficult to see how that treaty can be separated from the League of Nations covenant. The situation is not satisfactory to the majority of Americans, nor to our associates in the war. German officialdom was glad to hear of the adoption of the Knox resolution, though there is no hope there of an early resumption of diplomatic and commercial relations with America.

The little republic of Panama is going around with a chip on her shoulder and is talking back to Uncle Sam. Secretary Hughes warned Panama that unless she acts voluntarily in a reasonable time the United States will take steps to compel her to transfer jurisdiction of the disputed Coto territory to Costa Rica and to abide by the White award. President Porras asserts that Mr. Hughes' note has not changed the attitude of Panama and that she "feels backed in her right in refusing the White award," her position being supported by the opinion of Doctor Bustamante of the University of Havana, an authority on international law. Porras concludes:

"Panama feels sure that the American government will cease its endeavors in recommending acceptance of a decision upon which public opinion already has uttered its last word and which has become an adjudged matter. Panama refused the White decision with the same right and for almost the same reasons that the United States government declined in 1911 to accept the decision of the king of the Netherlands in a boundary litigation with Great Britain."

President Harding won the first part of his fight for a big navy, the naval committee of the senate having reported the navy bill with provisions for funds not only for completing the 1916 building program but also for a personnel 20,000 in excess of the 100,000 proposed by the house. Besides this, the committee refused to incorporate in the measure the proposal of Senator Borah authorizing and requesting the President to invite Great Britain and Japan to a disarmament conference in Washington. Borah will make a fight for his amendment on the floor of the senate and Senator Pomerehne also has a similar amendment which he will introduce.

The senate committee increased the house total of $306,000,000 to $496,500,000, or the same figure in the bill as it failed in the senate last March.

The senate passed the Dillingham immigration bill, which limits immigration to 3 per cent annually of persons of various nationalities in the United States in 1910. Only Reed of Missouri voted in the negative. The measure went to conference and it was expected the house would accept the senate bill and that it would be signed by the President. It becomes effective within fifteen days after enactment and remains in force until June 30, 1922. The measure would permit the landing in America of about 350,000 immigrants in the next twelve months.

In the Republican presidential preference primaries last year North Carolina went for Hiram Johnson. In the Republican national convention Delegate David H. Blair refused to abide by those instructions and voted for Warren G. Harding. A few days ago President Harding nominated Mr. Blair for the important office of commissioner of internal revenue and the nomination came before the senate in executive session. There was a stormy debate, the opposition being led by Senator Johnson, who told of Blair's action in the convention and asserted that "a man who will violate his own state's laws is unfit to administer the nation's laws."

A second objection made by Johnson was connected with tax returns. He said: "Mr. Blair's father-in-law is one of the richest men in North Carolina and he sought, by forming a partnership with his family, to lessen the amount of his income tax." The nomination was referred back to the senate finance committee, which, on Saturday, began a thorough investigation of Johnson's charges.

Senator Truman H. Newberry of Michigan is set free from all charges of violation of the federal corrupt practices act. The United States Supreme court set aside the conviction of Newberry and 16 other defendants, the majority opinion holding that the law under which they were convicted is unconstitutional. All the justices agreed that the conviction should be reversed, but three of them held that congress, under the provisions of the original Constitution, has the power to regulate primaries.

REP. FRANKHAUSER TAKES OWN LIFE

THIRD DISTRICT CONGRESSMAN IS FOUND IN BATH TUB WITH SLASHED THROAT.

KEPT FROM DUTIES BY ILLNESS

Elected Last November in Three-Cornered Fight, Was Prominent in Hillsdale Public Life.

Battle Creek.—William H. Frankhauser, of Hillsdale, representative of the Third Michigan congressional district, committed suicide at the Battle Creek sanitarium here late on the afternoon of May 9 by cutting his throat and slashing his abdomen with a razor. He was dead when found, his body lying in the bathtub of his room. Congressman Frankhauser, because of continued ill health, dating almost from the time of his election in November, had not assumed his active duties in the present special session of congress, but had planned to do so soon, his friends were advised.

Body Found in Bath Tub.

A few days ago, accompanied by his wife and his brother, Dr. S. B. Frankhauser, he came to the local sanitarium for a rest, and at his own request was assigned an attendant. The tragic death was discovered when the attendant returned to find the door locked. Dr. R. F. Wafer was called and upon his orders the room was broken into. Congressman Frankhauser's body was found. He had evidently first tried to reach a vital organ by slashing his abdomen, and then decided to cut his throat.

Coroner Carl Gray decided an inquest was unnecessary. Congressman Frankhauser was 58 years old and is survived by his widow, one son, and a daughter.

Congressman Frankhauser was one of the best known citizens of the Third congressional district composed of Kalamazoo, Hillsdale, Eaton, Branch and Calhoun counties. His nomination was won in the Republican primaries, after a spirited contest with two opponents, Mrs. Helen Curtiss Stetler and Elton R. Eaton, both of Kalamazoo.

Was Successful Lawyer.

Hillsdale.—Mr. Frankhauser was born in Wood county, Ohio, on March 5, 1863, and moved to Michigan with his parents at the age of 12 years, first living at Monroe, for about four years, and coming to Hillsdale, Hillsdale county, nearly 4 years ago.

His father was an evangelical minister and for many years held the office of presiding elder in that church. Mr. Frankhauser taught district school in the vicinity of Litchfield beginning in the fall of 1880, and continuing for 10 winters, working on the farm summers. At 26 years of age, he read law in the office of Guy M. Chester, now circuit judge, and was admitted to the bar a year later, since which time he was practiced law in Hillsdale city with splendid success.

MAN HURT IN FIGHT OVER GIRL

Former Soldier Grabs Shotgun from Assailant and Strikes Back.

Battle Creek, Mich.—Andy Naglich has found that it is sometimes of no advantage to be at the trigged end of a shotgun. After he fired several times, it is alleged, at Frank Sampson, soldier, during a quarrel in the Naglich home, Sampson took the gun away from him and broke his skull with the butt end of the gun.

Naglich is at Nicholas hospital. Sampson is detained by the police. Police say both men had been drinking and became involved in difficulties because of the attention both were paying to a girl 17 years old.

NEWBERRY RESUMES HIS SEAT

Michigan Senator Answers Roll Call for First Time in 13 Months.

Washington.—For the first time in a year and a half, Michigan is represented in the senate by her "full quota." Senator Truman H. Newberry immediately upon the call of the session for this week took his seat and answered "present" when his name was called on the roll.

His appearance caused a number of senators to rush over to his seat and shake hands with him. Senator Lodge, the Republican leader, was particularly cordial in his greetings. A few of the Democrats joined the Republicans in their felicitations.

FOR U.S. CONTROL OF PRIMARIES

Senator Johnson to Present Resolution for Amendment.

Washington.—As a result of the supreme court decision in the Newberry case holding that congress lacks power to regulate primaries, Senator Johnson of California will introduce in the senate a resolution providing for a constitutional amendment authorizing federal control of primaries for the nomination of senators, representatives and delegates to presidential conventions.

SUFFERING OF A LIFETIME ENDED

"Words Can't Express Gratitude I Feel Toward Tanlac," Says Mrs. Burrington.

"From childhood until I got Tanlac, I suffered from indigestion and stomach trouble," said Mrs. J. A. Burrington, 540 Stanford Ave., Los Angeles.

MRS. J. A. BURRINGTON
Los Angeles, Calif.

Calif., "and that's been a long time, for I'm now in my sixty-eighth year. I remember when I was a child I was kept on a strict diet of Rice water and milk for weeks and I have been in constant distress all these years. I suffered terribly from bloating and had to be very careful of what I ate. I became so weak and nervous I could hardly go about my housework and was in a miserable condition."

"About two years ago my husband got such splendid results from Tanlac he insisted on my taking it and the medicine wasn't but a little while in ridding me of my troubles. It gave me a splendid appetite, and I could enjoy a good hearty meal, even things I hadn't dare touch before, without any fear of it troubling me."

"Then I had the influenza and became dreadfully sick and weak, but my stomach kept in good order and it only took four bottles of Tanlac to build me up again to where I'm now feeling better than at any time I can remember. I have gained eleven pounds in weight, too, and words can't express the gratitude I feel toward Tanlac. I keep Tanlac in the house all the time now, for I know it is a medicine that can be depended upon."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.—Adv.

SWAMP-ROOT FOR KIDNEY AILMENTS

There is only one medicine that really stands out pre-eminent as a medicine for curable ailments of the kidneys, liver and bladder.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root stands the highest for the reason that it has proven to be just the remedy needed in thousands upon thousands of distressing cases. Swamp-Root makes friends quickly because its mild and immediate effect is soon realized in most cases. It is a gentle, healing vegetable compound.

Start treatment at once. Sold at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

ADVICE WANTED.

"I'm in a fix with my girl!" said young Dubb, disconsolately.

"Why," replied his sympathetic friend, "what's the matter, my boy? Have a row?"

"No, it isn't that. You see, I've been saying so many nice things to her that she's getting conceited. I can't stop it and I can't keep it up."

"Can't, eh? Why not?"

"Well, you see, if I keep on she'll begin to think she's too good for me, and if I stop she'll think I don't care for her any more."

An Old Favorite.

"How did Mr. Garboline enjoy the concert?"

"He didn't know what it was all about at first, but he showed symptoms of life when the prima donna responded to her third encore."

"Test"

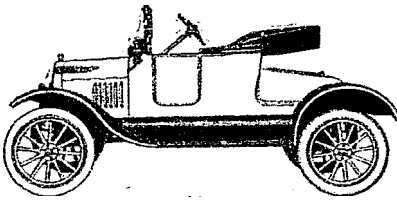

"She sang 'Annie Laurie.' He recognized that tune as one he used to play on the harmonica."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Need Funds for Nursing Service.

The committee in charge of the public health nursing service for Washtenaw county met recently with the chairman, F. D. Van de Walker at his office in Ypsilanti.

After listening to the report of work accomplished to date by the county nurses and to the treasurer's report, the committee discussed ways and means. The treasurer's report had shown that the funds for carrying on the work are practically exhausted and the report of the work as read by the supervisor, convinced her listeners—if they needed convincing—that it is altogether too important to abandon.

The idea was advanced that, since it is the rural districts that receive the benefits of this service those districts should be willing to bear the expense and probably would be willing to do so if the matter was presented to them. Accordingly a plan was evolved to put an educational campaign in each school district in the county, presenting the matter to the voters at every opportunity between now and the annual school meetings and at those meetings ask the voters to appropriate a sum of money for this purpose.

The committee was confident that the many families in the country who have known of or been personally benefited by the faithful work of the nurses would readily respond to this appeal rather than have the work discontinued. Such funds would not be available for several months, however, and in the meantime something must be done to raise funds for the present need.

It was suggested that this might be done by putting on a country-wide charity ball, a whirlwind of excitement in some public hall of each town and village in the county, all on the same evening if possible, if not all within a few days, with one ticket good for all.

No one had a better plan to offer and the committee adjourned with the understanding that the representatives of the several towns were to work the affair out in their own communities.

Our attention has been called to the fact that some of our local boys are in the habit of shooting birds at every opportunity they get. Although it may be good sport for the boys, there is a stringent law against the killing of song birds, and the violators could be prosecuted. We hope the boys will take heed and shoot at some better mark than the birds.

Some Legislative Measures.

Big things were accomplished by the 51st session of the Michigan Legislature. Not since the days of the last constitutional convention has any body of law makers made such fundamental changes in state government. Nearly all of the existing boards, commissions, departments, and offices were abolished and five centralized departments substituted. These new departments are: State departments of agriculture, conservation, industry and labor, public safety, and public welfare. Establishment of these new departments will promote efficiency of state administration and centralize authority and responsibility.

Law makers have, however, had time to enact a score of measures of direct benefit to farmers. These twenty laws probably embody more real constructive agricultural legislation than has ever been passed by any previous session of the state Legislature. Its enactment at this time is regarded as significant, coming as it does during the first year in which 97,000 farmers are organized into a state farm bureau. Never in history have the desires of Michigan agriculturists received such careful and respectful consideration in legislative halls and committee rooms.

Probably Michigan agriculture will remember the session of 1921 longest because of the creation of the departments of agriculture and conservation, for it is generally conceded that the replacement of the former multiplicity of state agencies by these two centralized departments marks an important step in the securing of a unified and effective program for the advancement of Michigan's agriculture and the conservation of her various natural resources, including forests, mines and minerals, water power, fish, game and birds.

II. THE IMPOSSIBLE—Continued.

"Why," he broke out furiously—"if you do not know me, how is it you know me so well? When, suspecting the truth—but never how hideous it was—I followed you back to New York yesterday; when I traipsed for hours the streets where I had met and loved and wooed you and, as I thought, won your love; when at length I caught sight of Carnahan and dozed him from bar to bar, without his knowledge, until finally he reeled into that infamous place, and I, suspecting he might have had you imprisoned there, got a detail of police from the station round the corner; when we broke in, and I found you half-demented with fear, and you saw me and came running into my arms; when that happened—if you were and are not Leonora—how did you know who I was, how came you at sight to cry out my name, Mario?"

She begged his charity with clasped hands.

"If you will only listen, I can explain."

With a curt nod he consented, turned his back to the fire, folded his arms. His eyes held a sardonic gleam.

"I am listening."

She made impulsively to speak, but uttered never a sound. Her heart misgave her. The story she must tell, it she were to explain, was even more preposterous than that which he was refusing to credit. It would only earn his deeper scorn. Her eyes turned blank, her face expressionless.

"I am waiting," he prompted.

She looked away, and drooped, discouraged, despondent.

"Forgive me," she said in a weak voice. "After all, I hardly know how to explain. I can only ask you to be kind—believe me when I tell you I'm not your wife, not Leonora."

His eyebrows clinched. "Who, then, am I to believe you are?"

"My name is Priscilla Maine. I—"

"I know no person of that name."

"No, we never met—"

"Still, you are well enough acquainted with me to use my Christian name at first sight of me—without even the formality of an introduction!"

She confessed subduely: "I can't explain. It's impossible. But what I have told you is true: I am Priscilla Maine."

"And you, whom I have never met—you tell me—you know so much about me that you knew I had gone to New York, promising to return in time for dinner, leaving my wife alone with the servants; you know she had disappeared. Perhaps you knew even her?"

Overlooking the sarcasm she declared: "As well as I know myself."

"At last!" he offered her an ironic bow—"something I can believe!"

"You can convince yourself," she suggested. "If you will get New York on long distance, call Murray Hill two-three-six-one, and ask for Mrs. Trowbridge."

"Well, what then?"

"She will tell you her niece, Priscilla Maine, has been missing since last night."

"And what, pray, will that prove?"

"You may listen while I talk with her. Her replies will prove I am Priscilla Maine."

He shrugged. "But you know very well there is no telephone within ten miles of this camp."

In consternation she dropped back into her chair and sat trying to think. Would it do any good to tell him the history of her dreams? Could she herself be convinced against her will by such a story?

The answer came from Mario.

"It is useless," he said wearily. "No; do not interrupt me. Say nothing more."

"But I must make you understand, I must!"

"No, Leonora; I already understand too well. You have found it difficult to escape me, you invent this cock-and-bull yarn to spare my feelings. A mistaken kindness. No matter; you make your wish clear. I am to believe you think you are not my wife. So be it; I will believe that, but I can do so only at a price."

"Tell me what you mean."

"If I am to believe that you believe you are not Leonora, I must believe that you are mentally deranged." He pondered gravely. "It is possible terror and suffering have so worked upon you—"

"Mario!" she pleaded—"you can find out the truth if you'll take me to the nearest telephone—whether it's ten miles or fifty—now, tonight, in your motor car."

"It is too late. These good people hereabouts go early to their beds. Shall I disturb them for no purpose other than to humor a mad freak?"

"Then let me go—"

"Alone?"

"I'm not afraid."

"But I am afraid for you. Remember how I found you last night, in peril of your life. Shall I trust you again to run yourself into God knows what danger? You need not ask that of me, Leonora."

"What am I to do?" she cried, wringing her hands.

"Decide yourself. Go to your room, rest quietly for tonight. In the morning, possibly, you will feel better, or possibly you will see how futile it is to try to deceive me; you will want, perhaps, to tell me the truth."

"I have told you nothing else!"

"Then confess to the whole truth; you do not love me."

She was dumb.

A gust of rage shook him violently. Standing over her with hot eyes in a blazing face he raised quivering arms as if tempted to strike her.

"Confess!"

"I can't," she said sadly.

The statement was like a slap to him, its shrewd simplicity rendering it the more stupefying. He started, gaped, his arms fell, then rose to seize her shoulders.

"What did you say?" he demanded, his voice breaking. "You love me?"

She nodded with swimming eyes and the quivering mouth of a child. He tried to draw her to him, but she held back.

"No, Mario—please!"

"But you have just admitted that you still love me!"

She endured his gaze with an adorable bravery.

"I have always loved you—ever since Leonora loved you—and as well."

"Then you still insist—?"

"I am not your wife. I have never seen you before tonight—except—"

She stammered into silence. If it were humanly possible to render the situation more impossible than it was, she could achieve that by rounding out the phrase that had died on her lips: "except in dreams."

"Except—?"

"Please don't ask me. I can't tell you—not tonight. Tomorrow, perhaps, Mario; please be kind to me now, let me go."

"Then be pitiful to me, be still more kind. Take me to New York tonight, take me to my aunt, Mrs. Trowbridge."

"What?" His tone changed again, becoming thick with resentment and suspicion. "You are at that again?"

She confessed subduely: "I can't explain. It's impossible. But what I have told you is true: I am Priscilla Maine."
