HERE'S A MEAN ONE

A Chelsea man took a mean advantage of friend wife recently, we hear. Wife asked hubby for a little money to go shopping. "Certainly," said hubby, "would you rather have an old ten or a new one?" "Why, the new, of course," replied wife. "Fine," said hubby, "here's the new one—and I'm nine dollars to the good."

BOLD HOLD-UP IN ANN ARBOR

When Edward Peterson, the night cashier at the Michigan Union, was finishing counting the receipts at three o'clock Sunday morning he suddenly was confronted by a masked young man who held the point of a revolver toward him, grabbing with the other hand the money on the desk amounting to $836.

The robber, apparently an amateur in this business, was in such a hurry that he overlooked $150 in the open till of the cash register. The robbery evidently was committed by a man, who was well acquainted with the locality and the usages of the night cashier, who usually about two o'clock collects the money from the different cash registers. The robber escaped and only a meager description of his appearance could be made.

ACCIDENT ON GOOD ROAD JOB

John Spiegelberg Painfully Injured When Locomotive Crushes Foot.

John Spiegelberg's foot was painfully injured yesterday afternoon when a small pony type locomotive used on Federal Aid Road No. 35 backed on to it while he was at work floating the top of the freshly laid cement. No bones were broken, but the ligaments were torn loose and the injury is very painful.

Mr. Spiegelberg was working on the south side of the road, between the curbing and the railway track. His work of floating the cement required him to reach for some distance and his foot naturally extended back of him and over the track.

HOSPITALS ARE A BLESSING

Two Chelsea men have recently returned from long stays in hospitals, one in Grand Rapids and the other in Ann Arbor. Both submitted to serious operations, and are now back cured of their particular ailments, and eating their "three squares" like old timers. Both are "good scouts" and have a wide acquaintance in Chelsea and vicinity.

And after talking with each of these men we were impressed with the fact that they had only good words to say regarding their experiences in the hospital. They had had the best of care, thanks to an expert nursing system, and the surgeons had all won their confidence and friendship while correcting their physical troubles.

In a way, both men had enjoyed the experience—they had made many new friends and it is now a pleasure to them to tell others of their experiences.

What a blessing it is that modern civilization provides such efficient work-shops in which to give suffering humanity a general overhauling.

The average man will rush his automobile to a garage upon the first indication of disorder, but his own complicated body will go neglected for years until one day something gives out and he is rushed to the hospital for an emergency operation or a long seige of treatment. Wouldn't it be better if we took as good care of our bodily mechanism as we do of our automobiles, and parked ourselves in a hospital or a doctors office occasionally to make sure that everything is in good running order?

We have the word of these two "good scouts" that hospitals are not such bad places—why should we neglect having the "docs" give us the "once over" occasionally?

THE TRIALS OF A HOUSEWIFE

How They Have Been Endured and How Overcome by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Experience of a Providence Woman

Providence, R. I.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a female trouble and backache. I began just after my baby was born, and I did the best I could about getting my work done, but I had awful bearing-down pains so I could not stand on my feet. I read in the papers about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and the good it was doing other women, and I have got dandy results from it and will always recommend it. You can use these facts as a testimonial if you wish."—Mrs. HERBERT L. CASSEN, 18 Men Court, Providence, R. I.

Ohio woman for three years could hardly keep about and do her housework she was so ill. Made well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound: Fayette, O.—"For about three years I was very nervous and had backache, headache, dragging-down pains, could not sleep at night, and had no appetite. At times I could hardly do my housework. I got medicine from the doctor but it did not help me. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in a newspaper and took it with good results, and am now able to do my housework. I recommend your medicine to my friends and you may publish my testimonial."—Mrs. CHESTER A. BALL, R. 15, Fayette, Ohio.

An Illinois woman relates her experience: Bloomington, Ill.—"I was never very strong and female trouble kept me so weak I had no interest in my housework. I had such a backache I could not cook a meal or sweep a room without crying with pain. Rubbing my back with alcohol sometimes eased the pain for a few hours, but did not stop it. I heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and six bottles of it have made me as strong and healthy as any woman; and I give my thanks to it for my health."—Mrs. J. A. McQuitty, 610 W. Walnut St., Bloomington, Ill.

The conditions described by Mrs. Cassen, Mrs. Ball, and Mrs. McQuitty will appeal to many women who struggle on with their daily tasks in just such conditions—in fact, it is said that the tragedy in the lives of some women is almost beyond belief. Day in and day out they slave in their homes for their families—and beside the daily routine of housework, often make clothes for themselves and for their children, or work in their gardens, all the while suffering from those awful bearing-down pains, backache, headache, nervousness, the blues, and troubles which sap the very foundation of life until there comes a time when nature gives out and an operation seems inevitable. If such women would only profit by the experience of these three women, and remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the natural restorative for such conditions it may save them years of suffering and unhappiness.

There is hardly a neighborhood in any town or hamlet in the United States wherein some woman does not reside who has been restored to health by this famous medicine. Therefore ask your neighbor, and you will find in a great many cases that at some time or other she, too, has been benefited by taking it, and will recommend it to you. For more than forty years this old-fashioned root and herb medicine has been restoring suffering women to health and strength.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent to you free upon request. Write to The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Massachusetts. This book contains valuable information.

HAD THE TEACHER GUESSING

Small Wonder That She Didn't Understand, but There it Was in the Book.

Georgie surveyed with puzzled eyes a sentence in his reading lesson. At last he raised his hand:

"Well, Georgie, what is it?" asked the teacher.

"What is a feebly, Miss Smith?"

"A feebly!" repeated Miss Smith, in astonished tones. "What do you mean, Georgie? Feebly is an adverb, not a noun."

Georgie was unconvinced. "It's something that grows," he said. "It says so here."

"Bring me your book," said the mystified teacher.

Whereupon Georgie complied and laboriously read out the sentence:

"The man—had a feebly—growing down—on—his chin."

POST GETS ARTISTIC RANGE

Chicago Organization Acquires Use of Famous World's Fair Field Museum Building.

The American Legion will soon have the use of a building known to millions in America as the embodiment of beauty in art and architecture, the old Fine Arts building of the 1893 World's Fair. The crack of art rifles will be heard in the famous structure, for it has been turned over to the Hyde Park post, No. 34, of the Legion in Chicago, as an indoor rifle range.

The large edifice, known as the old Field museum after the World's fair, was evacuated with the completion of the new Field museum. Various organizations of Chicago immediately besieged the park commissioners for permission to use the building, but the Legion post's request alone was granted.

Legionnaires now have a rifle range de luxe, one that will tend to erase the veteran's memories of sweltering days, shivering nights and cold, moist days spent in trying to locate the bullet-hole on the army's outdoor firing points. The building is so large that a 200-yard range was established without difficulty, along with the shorter distances.

Hungry Rooster Proves Gold Mine for Woman's Organization in Kansas.

How many grains of corn will a terribly hungry rooster eat after he has missed his meals for five hours? The Plymouth Rock in the photograph tucked away 253 grains in record time and made $28 for the Women's Auxiliary of the American Legion in Cinnaminson, Kan.

The bird was placed in a show window on the main street in the Kansas town. For five hours he scratched and crowded for provender, which was not forthcoming. Then 1,000 grains of tempting yellow corn were spread before him. Guesses as to how many grains of corn it would take to assuage his hunger were sold at ten cents each. In three hours Mr. Rooster had gulped 253 kernels of Kansas corn and retired for the night. Then he was sold twice, given back to the women, and was finally auctioned off. In all, he netted $28, a fraction more than $1.15 for every grain of corn he ate. Mrs. Lelah L. Klein, national executive committee woman from the Kansas department of the Auxiliary, headed the contest. One of the most active workers for the Auxiliary in her state, Mrs. Klein was educated in Wellesley college and in the New England Conservatory of Music. Her husband, who was a captain in the medical corps, was gassed in the Argonne-Meuse offensive.

Highway Improvement

REDUCING DAMAGE TO ROADS

Repair Bills Would Be Greatly Lessened by Placing More of Loads Over Front Axle.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Repair bills for damaged roads would be much reduced, engineers in the bureau of public roads report, after extensive experimental work. If motor trucks were designed to carry more of the loads put on them over the front axle and less over the rear wheels, as at present. In the average heavy truck of today the body is nearly balanced on the rear axle. When the truck strikes an obstacle or an irregularity in the highway, the damage done to the road surface by the rear wheels is much greater than it would be if the load were distributed on both axles.

Given a perfectly smooth road surface, traveled by a truck with perfectly smooth circular tires, there would be no impact, regardless of the speed or weight of load. Since such an ideal condition is practically impossible, road engineers recognize that all factors which increase or reduce the impact of a load are of the utmost importance in planning highway construction and regulation.

The placing of the larger part of the load on the rear axle is only one of several factors which lead to high impact forces. In general, the increased speed of the truck will increase the impact, hence the necessity for keeping the operating speed within reasonable limits. Roads kept as smooth as possible by careful maintenance will reduce the possibility of trucks exerting impact and pressure forces upon the highway surface. Cushion or pneumatic tires also reduce impact and cause less damage to the highways than those of hard rubber, especially if the latter are not kept in good repair.

DRIVERS CAN IMPROVE ROADS

Wear to Surface Can Be Prevented by Driving Over Middle and Other Less Used Parts.

Drivers can prevent wear to the surfaces of the roads and even improve their condition if instead of driving in one track or on the edge of the road they will drive over the middle and other less used parts of the road when traffic permits. The one thing that is fatal above all things to road surfaces, whether dirt or paved, is driving in tracks, which subjects one small part of the road surface to all the traffic and damage that the whole road accommodates. Traffic should be evenly distributed over the entire surface of the road, and a little thoughtfulness and care in this respect on the part of drivers will do much to add to the permanence and excellence of our roadways.

GOVERNMENT AID FOR ROADS

Up to November 1, $72,744,000 Had Been Expended, and $121,322,198 More Allotted.

Discussing progress in road construction since enactment of the federal aid legislation four years ago, Thomas H. McDonald, chief of the bureau of public roads, reported that up to November 1, 3,190 miles of "first class" highway had been completed. As its share of the cost the federal government had expended $72,744,000 and allotted $121,322,198 more. Other results of national legislation, Mr. McDonald said, had been the establishment of state highway departments in five states and the reorganization of such departments in 20 other states.

Road Work in France. Road construction cost in France during pre-war years, $13,085 per mile, but has since then increased 250 to 300 per cent.

Badly Worn Tires Prohibited. In Connecticut, the use of badly worn or partially destroyed tires on the highways is strictly forbidden.

Total Highway Mileage. Highway mileage in the United States now totals 2,478,552 miles, or ten times the mileage of the railroads.

GLORIA

By MOLLIE MATHER.

(Copyright, 1921, Western Newspaper Union.)

Gloria was so light haired and fleet of foot, that she seemed to Everton, like an elusive bit of this-world. When he would glimpse her shining head at the foot of the garden, and go swiftly in pursuit, Gloria would be sure to disappear, her golden head popping out to mock him presently, from an upper window. It was this elusiveness of the girl which first drew, and then piqued his fancy. Everton, of the old and honored Everton's, was not usually evaded by the fair sex. And if Gloria seemed to him a bit of this-world, Everton, upon his part, impressed the girl just at first, ponderously, and as an old, young person of depressing character. Frankly, she did not care to know him. She had heard so much from grandmother, since her arrival at the home-stead, concerning the desirability of this same dignified young man as a future husband, that she was in revolt at the possibility.

To Gloria, families of old and unquestioned standing or circumstances of like unquestioned stability were matters of indifference. She had come to enjoy in full the novel experience of country life, and the sweet old experience of occupying the very room that her own mother had occupied in her far-away girlhood. After that, Gloria wanted to go back to her father. The mother, whose picture on the wall was so like herself, had died before she might even become a memory.

Father Bob, Gloria preferred to call him "Bob," had cared for her in childhood as tenderly as that mother might have done, and had sent her later with tears in his eyes—away from him to school. And though Bob's money was hard won, Gloria never looked for the things that her associates enjoyed. She looked forward to graduation, merely as a time when she would be reunited to her father, and then he had sent her abroad. Upon her return he urged that she try life in her grandmother's home. Gloria was grieved at Bob's desertion. It was difficult for her to see the unselfishness of his plan. When Mrs. Everton Blaine learned of her son's infatuation for the little stranger, she was distressed.

Mrs. Blaine remembered Gloria's mother as a graceful young person who had married out of town, and gone away, never to return. Everton came to her with the startling announcement of his engagement. Gloria had consented to marry him, he said joyously.

"Everton," she bemoaned, "if you had but waited! Now, your engagement will only have to be broken. As Everton may not bring dishonor upon his family, I am sure, no Everton would."

Her son flamed. "Dishonor!" he exclaimed. Mrs. Blaine nodded sadly.

"If not," she said, "how do you explain the fact of the girl being engaged to you, professionally in love with you, and being each evening not only in the company of a flashy-looking individual—but being—yes, my dear, in the man's embrace as well."

"I don't believe it," Everton cried. "Then you must disbelieve your mother's word," she told him, for I have repeatedly witnessed that embrace from my seat in the car. The girl upon whom you have wasted your affection, was evidently keeping a tryst each time I saw her, with her companion on the bridge by the mill."

Without response the son turned blindly, and made his way toward the same hidden little bridge. He scarcely realized why he chose that direction or why he was going. But as he approached in the deepest misery that he had ever known, he saw Gloria there before him, her blonde head swaying in its this-world fashion, in evident time to some merry tune that she was humming. And near her stood the man; fashionably flashy, as his mother had said, but with handsome eyes resting in unmistakable tenderness upon the girl's face. Without a quiver, Gloria beckoned her lover. Confusedly Everton came. "This," she said gently, "is my dear, dear father. Mother ran away with him years ago, Everton, and married him. Had I been in her place I should have done the same. Father happened to be a young traveling circus man then, and mother's people never forgave. Now, father owns that circus and loves still every animal and every creature in it. He is trying to persuade me to allow him to efface himself for my sake, to forego the best father a girl could know, because of the difference of his life from the lives of your people. I had not thought of that difference."

The blonde head bent to rest against the gray lined shoulder. "I love you both," Gloria said, "but I must be true to Bob."

"Good-bye, Everton."

Then Everton Blaine, smiling his vast relief, put forth his hand to Gloria's father.

"Why should it be good-bye, dear-est?" he asked.

Superstitious Persuasion. "Do you influence your wife's opinions?"

"Yes," replied Mr. Mockett. "But I have to go about it with great tact. The best way is for me to put a little extra pressure on the outboard so it'll answer questions according to my way of thinking."

THREE YEAR OLD WASHED ASHORE

Mrs. Dingman Tells of Adventure of Childhood When Father's Ship Was Wrecked.

RELATES LATER EXPERIENCE

Declares That the Way Tanlac Restored Her Health Is More Remarkable Than Anything She Has Ever Had Happen to Her.

"I've had some remarkable experiences in my life, but none more wonderful than the way Tanlac overcame my troubles and made me gain twenty pounds," was the statement of Mrs. Christina K. Dingman, 1216 Albee St., Oakland, Calif. One of the experiences to which Mrs. Dingman refers is well known to her friends. When a child of three years, accompanying her father, a noted sea captain, on an ocean trip, the vessel was wrecked, but she was almost miraculously saved, the small box into which she was put being washed ashore. According to her statement, Mrs. Dingman enjoyed the best of health until three years ago when she began to suffer from a bad form of stomach trouble and later from rheumatism. How she was completely restored to health is best told in her own words:

"Nobody knows how I suffered for the past three years. No matter how carefully I ate I would endure agonies afterwards from smothering and sinking spells. Sometimes they were so severe I would fall to the floor and would have to be carried to bed. I went for days at a time without eating, as I dreaded the misery I knew would follow, no matter what I ate. Then rheumatism set in and my shoulders and arms hurt me so I couldn't comb my hair. My back felt like it was breaking in two."

"I was almost in the depths of despair when I began on Tanlac, but this grand medicine has made me a well and happy woman. I do not even trouble with constipation now, thanks to the Laxative Tablets, which are far superior to anything of the kind I ever tried. It seems almost too good to be true, but here I am in the best of health and spirits after I had given up hope, and I'll always praise Tanlac for it."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.—Advertisement.

Unsuited. Bing—"Has she many suitors?" Sting—"Oh, yes, but none of them do." Bing—"Do what?" Sting—"Sue for."

YOU WILL LIKE TO TRY THESE.

Those who are fond of green peppers will like to try:

Green Peppers Stuffed With Rice.

Take six small even sized green peppers, cut in halves lengthwise, wash and remove all seeds and white fibers. Scald with boiling water, boil three minutes, then drain. Boil rice in salted water until tender, using one-half cupful of butter, one fourth of a teaspoonful of poultry seasoning, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt, or more to taste, one egg, and beat and mix well. Fill the pepper shells. Put one-fourth of a cupful of butter fat, or four slices of bacon in the pan, bake until firm and lightly browned, using the bacon fat for basting. Serve with lamb fricassee.

Hot Water Ginger bread.

Take one cupful each of sugar and molasses, one-half cupful of melted fat, one egg beaten, a teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of ginger, three cupfuls of sifted flour, and when all are well mixed add a teaspoonful of soda dissolved in one cupful of boiling water. Stir until smooth, pour into a

Important to all Women Readers of this Paper

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it. Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease. If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer pain in the back, head-ache and loss of ambition. Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be dependent, it makes any one so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmers' Swamp Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp Root will do for them. By enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmers & Co., Birmingham, N. Y., you may receive sample size bottle by Parcel Post. You can purchase medium and large size bottles at all drug stores.—Adv.

Spiritual Truth.

"Give me a bit of I believe the message these mediums are after getting from the dead," declared Dugan. "You can't be telling whether they're true or not."

"More food, ya. You can and I can prove it," contradicted Monahan. "By mistake in the war, and one day my sister went to a medium who told her I was wishing I was back on earth. And at the very time I was on a transport in a high sea, I've mind!"—American Legion Weekly.
