Lovell D. Loomis.

Lovell D. Loomis died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. R. B. Waltrous, in Sylvan, Saturday noon, October 1, 1921, after a lingering illness. He was born in Jackson, December 27, 1836 and was engaged in the grocery business in Jackson for several years. Later moving back to his farm in Sylvan township where he resided for about five years and from there he moved to Chelsea and was also engaged in grocery business for several years. He also conducted a grocery business in Grass Lake.

Mr. Loomis was a man of a very generous disposition, and seldom ever missed taking the boys and girls of the community to entertainments of various kinds, wherever he discovered that they had no funds to pay their way, and his purse was always open for worthy cases of charity.

In 1868 Mr. Loomis was married to Susan Fish Lawrence and to this union three children were born, Etta dying in infancy. Mrs. L. W. Ailyn of Wenatchee, Washington, and Mrs. R. B. He is survived by two daughters, two step-sons, eight grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

OVERLOADED TRUCKS ARE

CUTTING UP GOOD ROADS

The heavy loaded trucks and other vehicles that travel over the main road through the townships of Sylvan and Lima, and over the principle streets of Chelsea, are leaving them in a very bad condition and the work that was put on the road beds the first part of the season has been practically ruined.

Some of the trucks are carrying from three to four tons and with their solid tired wheels the roadway is soon cut full of ruts. The horse drawn vehicles are carrying from one and one half tons to two tons and as they all drive over the roads following a rain, the ruts are becoming deeper.

Early in the season highway commissioner Gage and overseer Keelan devoted considerable time and money in repaving the highway in Sylvan and had them in as good condition as it was possible to have them, but their labor is being fast destroyed. The truck drivers, in many instances, when they become stalled in the deep ruts that they have made, get boards or rails to put under the wheels, and when they get out of the ruts they drive on and leave the boards or rails in the highway just where they used them.

A few weeks ago the bridge across Mill Creek at the farm formerly owned by the Ives Bros., was thoroughly repaired and put in a safe condition, but today it bears a sign that states it is in a dangerous condition. Nearly all of the highways in the township that are used for detours by the public are more or less cut up and the same conditions exist in Lima wherever there is any heavy traffic.

The township of Sylvan will pay into the county road fund, if all of the taxes are paid, $6,267.66, and it is generally understood that the detour roads are to be kept up by the county road officials. So far this year they have expended but a small sum in the maintenance of the detour roads in Sylvan.

The Sylvan officials have decided that they will not expend any more of the public funds on the detour roads as it is useless to try to maintain the roads when the heavy loaded vehicles are constantly traveling the roads.

In Lima, the Municipal Contracting & Supply Co. who have a contract for the asphalt work on the territorial road trunk line, have laborers at certain points along the highway over which their trucks travel, who keep the ruts filled up and when they leave, the routes over which they draw loads will be in good shape.

Manchester—To show what a change has come over the country since the advent of the automobile, only 40 tickets were sold this morning at Manchester for the excursion to the Hillsdale fair, whereas 10 years ago 300 to 400 tickets were sold.—Enterprise.

Jackson—Thieves who stole an automobile Sunday night belonging to William Sibley, R. F. D. Ninth, abandoned the machine at the corner of Boland and Cooper streets, where it was found Monday morning. Before they departed they took with them a mat, a wrench and a coil.

Dexter—A business change of considerable local importance took place last week, when Harvey R. Blanchard sold his garage and Ford Sales Agency to Lewis Ernst of Dexter, and his brother, Ferdinand Ernst of Detroit, who will continue the business under the firm name of Ernst Bros.—Leader.

Brooklyn—At a well attended meeting of Brooklyn Pythians Tuesday evening sides were chosen for an attendance contest, the leaders being Joe Wright and Wake Fisher. The contest will start at once and will end with the first meeting in January when the losers will banquet the winners.—Exponent.

Manchester—After conference with local blacksmiths in an endeavor to induce them to reduce their prices to a certain schedule, the Co-ops have decided to open a blacksmith shop of their own. The original Huber garage on Railroad street has been rented and a forge is being built. Geo. Nishe, sr., has been employed as manager.—Enterprise.

Ann Arbor—Fire, starting from an unknown origin, completely destroyed the beautiful farm home of Justus Nixon in Ann Arbor township late Saturday night. The loss is estimated by Mr. Nixon at about $7,000 of which perhaps a third is covered by insurance. The farm is five miles from Ann Arbor and about a mile east of the Gleaner hall.

Pinekey—Adolph Debus and Clyde Smith of Jackson, were arrested by Sheriff Teeple Monday afternoon on the charge of being intoxicated. They were arrested near Pinekey by the sheriff while he was driving to Howell from his farm. Both men pleaded guilty when arraigned in justice court. Debus was fined $50, while Smith paid $20.—Dispatch.

Dexter—At the Episcopal business meeting last Friday evening the treasurer reported the church free from any debts, with money in the treasury and most of the subscriptions paid. It was also agreed to raise another $100 on the salary if the present plan to discontinue the services at Brighton is carried out, leaving the rector two appointments instead of three.

Jackson—If there be those who think Jackson doesn't need a new court house they should have been in the main circuit court room Tuesday afternoon. Truckmen were unloading stacks of iron sewer pipe in the alley adjoining for a plumbing firm and the din was like that of a boiler shop. After the attorneys engaged in an important case had become desperate and Judge Parkinson had pulled his moustache to a frazzle he adjourned court till Wednesday. The plumbers won out.—Saturday Evening Star.

Young Men In History.

We are in the habit of thinking that our age is notable for young men being in charge of large affairs. As a matter of fact, though, the average of the men in George Washington's cabinet was under forty years.

Hamilton was thirty-two, Jefferson forty-six, Randolph thirty-six, General Knox thirty-nine, and Samuel Osgood forty-one.

At thirty, Alexander the Great longed for more worlds to conquer. Buddha, Mohammed and the Nazarene were in their thirties when they founded their respective religions.

The pictures that came down to us of the great men in former centuries were usually made in their old age—not during the period of accomplishment and activity. This leads us astray.

Young men have always done big things.—Ex.

The Cass County board of supervisors has offered a reward of $2,500 for the arrest and conviction of the slayer.

Owosso—A judgment of $50 has been given Emil Moss, of Owosso, against Henry Shellenbarger, a former Owosso special police officer, by a jury in Circuit Court. Shellenbarger arrested Moss last spring for violation of the prohibition law, but when the Supreme Court ruled that the evidence obtained without a search warrant could not be used, the case was dropped. Moss charged false arrest.

The girl accuses the couple of a serious offense against her. She was brought to this country, she said, by false stories of the affluence in which the Werners lived, but found them in a three-room shack at Farmdale.

Grand Haven—The hearing on the petition for an injunction brought by the Grand Rapids, Grand Haven & Milwaukee Railway company, against Walter Christensen, A. M. Wilmer, Leo and Archie Langlois, of Muskegon, and others, was adjourned 10 days, giving attorneys for the plaintiff time in which to file briefs. Moran's younger sister, 14, is alleged to have told Mohar that her father had killed a deer and needed help to drag it out of the woods. The girl started ahead and Mohar followed. Conference on Unemployment Is Working Rapidly to Solve
Its Big Problem.

RAIL WORKERS FOR A STRIKE

Democrats Fighting Against Ratification of Peace Treaties—France's Stand on Reduction of Land Armaments—Lloyd George Again Invites Irish to Personal Parley.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD.

Most important of last week's events in the United States was the opening of the national conference on unemployment. The social economists and capitalists of industry summoned to Washington by President Harding are not expected to work miracles or to find a way in which immediate and remunerative employment can be given all the millions of involuntary idle in the country, but there is reason to believe they can devise means for relieving the distressing situation. In a general way, the solution of the problem, as the leaders in the conference see it, is a plan of co-operation among employers and with governmental construction agencies to distribute, regulate and increase the volume of employment in slack seasons.

Among the broad phases of the problem, as stated by Secretary of Commerce Hoover, are:

A determination of the volume and distribution of employment. Emergency measures to provide employment and mitigate suffering that may arise during the coming winter. Measures which may aid in restoring commerce and employment to normal.

Immediately after the opening session nine subcommittees got busy, and so rapidly did they work that the conference reassembled Friday—a week earlier than had been expected—to consider a general emergency relief program. At this writing it is not possible to give an outline of this program, but some of its suggestions, made by the manufacturers, are as follows:

Unite existing private and public organizations to put through a constructive program for your community. See that there is a suitable employment exchange in your community. Assist private and public employers and labor organizations rather than have any single civic or family welfare agency or combination of agencies assume the full responsibility. Bring to the attention of public authorities specific recommendations for increasing volume of public work. Urge both private and public employers to distribute labor by rotation in shifts of three days or more at a time.

Persuade each industry to absorb definite quotas of unemployed. Urge not only private and public employers but individual householders and property owners to make improvements, repairs, and general sprucing up of properties.

Formulate standards and rules for temporary employment for those out of work dealing with rotation of shifts; wages—preference to resident family men, etc. See that decent sanitary accommodations for homeless men are made and differentiate between resident and floating unemployed. Discourage migration of unemployed to and from your community. In opening the conference President Harding warned it that the administration would be opposed to any plan that involved a further drain on the public treasury. In this he differs with the policy followed in England, where, of course, the conditions are not the same. The British government has been paying out many millions of dollars in unemployment insurance, and the situation there seems to be growing worse. Lloyd George admits it is "appalling." Last week many coal mines in South Wales were closed down, and to add to the trouble, the period for which the state subsidy of mine wages was granted expired Friday, and the country faced the possibility of another great miners' strike.

Our own strike threat comes in the railway work. For days the votes of the rail union members have been coming in to headquarters, the question being whether there shall be a walkout because of the reduced wages established by the federal railway labor board and the working agreements and conditions decreed. The vote of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen already has been counted and is announced as being 90 per cent in favor of a strike. The votes of the other brotherhoods are being counted, and it is taken for granted that they will solidly support the stand taken by the trainmen. Of course this does not mean that a strike is a certainty, for the final decision rests with the brotherhood officials and grievance committees. Many of the officials are very reluctant to issue the order that will tie up the country's transportation facilities.

Unexpected opposition sprang up to the ratification of the peace treaties with Germany, Austria and Hungary, even with the senate committee's reservation providing that America's representation on the international commissions must be decreed by congress. The Democrats decided to fight the pact to the end, and it was reported that they were receiving the active support of former President Wilson. They prepared a series of reservations of their own. With the approval of the President, the Republican leaders undertook to hurry up the ratification by means of night sessions of the senate, and Mr. Lodge, it was said, told Mr. Harding that enough votes were in sight whenever it came to final action. It was stated that twenty Democrats and three Republicans favored that rejection of the treaties. This would not be enough to block ratification, and besides, some of them probably would accept the pact with reservations designed to carry out the idea of closer participation in European affairs.

In the rebuff, also, there was much opposition to the treaties as they stand, especially to the acknowledgment by Germany of its guilt in starting the war. They held that the former Kaiser's government, and not Germany, was responsible for the conflict. What worried Germany more than treaties last week, however, was the fact that it was on the brink of a tremendous financial panic. Chancellor Wirth announced the country would go bankrupt if it was forced to pay the next indemnity installment of a million marks in gold, and the German money market promptly collapsed. The value of the mark has fallen to a ridiculously low point, and for this the financial speculators are blamed, the press denouncing them as "reasonable hyenas."

Premier Briand has announced that he and the rest of the French delegates to the conference on Limitation of armaments and Far East questions will sail for the United States on the steamer Lafayette probably November 1. Though in other matters the Frenchmen may come with open minds, on one point they will bring a fixed determination. They will refuse to discuss the reduction of land armaments unless they are fully assured of the support of the allies in case Germany attacks France. The French now have an army of about 750,000, the largest and best in the world, and they have no intention of reducing its size or efficiency as long as Germany remains the menace to France, which they consider her to be. It is said that Marshal Foch is likely to present to the conference the French reasons for opposing a reduction of land armaments unless some new security is offered France in place of the provisions of the Versailles treaty, which America has declined to accept.

Japan's delegation to the conference is to be headed by Prince Iyeyasu Tokugawa, who, if the feudal system had not been abolished in 1867, would now be the shogun, or virtual ruler of Japan. He is the head of a great family and is considered Japan's strongest man.

This week the members of the American delegation are conferring on the policies to be urged by them. It is known that they will stand firm for the practical and against the visionary and that they are agreed that complete disarmament is impractical at present; but they believe that an international agreement to restrict and reduce armaments gradually may well be reached. Our delegates are of the same mind as the President in holding that the proposal of the pacifists that the United States reduce armaments even if the other nations refuse is utterly foolish.

The League of Nations had a flare up over this question last week. The British and French delegates opposed a resolution calling on a fixed commission to make general proposals for reduction of armaments, and Lord Robert Cecil, representing South Africa, declared it was vital for the league and for peace that something be done, and that Great Britain and France should either present their own proposals or cease obstructing the projects put forward by others. The resolution was adopted. A committee named to submit an opinion on the competence of the league to revise treaties, as was asked by Bolivia in the case of the Peru-Bolivia pact, found that the assembly cannot of itself modify any treaty, that being solely within the competence of the contracting parties.

Once more Premier Lloyd George has sent his "last word" to rebellious Ireland, and this time it really sounds like the last. Briefly, the premier tells De Valera that the British government, though sincerely desirous of peace, cannot enter into a conference on the basis of the Irish leader's communications, because, despite De Valera's personal assurance to the contrary, it might involve the government in a recognition of Irish independence "which no British government can accept." Nevertheless the government feels that conference is the most practical way of accomplishing reconciliation and settlement, and therefore Lloyd George extends to De Valera a fresh invitation to a conference in London on October 11. Arthur Griffith, who will head the Irish delegation if the conference is held, has declared the Sinn Fein has never asked the British government to recognize the independence of Ireland as a preliminary to a conference. This leads to the belief that the Sinn Fein can now accept Lloyd George's invitation without stultifying itself.

The senate has received majority and minority reports from its committee on privileges and elections on the Ford-Newberry senatorial election contest from Michigan. In two respects the reports agree—that Henry Ford was not elected, and that too much money was spent in the Michigan primary. On all other major issues they diverge. The majority report clears Newberry of all charges, including corruption, declares him the duly elected senator and recommends that he be seated. The minority report, signed by Democrats, finds Newberry was elected by corrupt and illegal methods and recommends that his seat be declared vacant. Final action by the senate may not be taken for several weeks. There is little doubt as to what it will be. Meantime, it is understood Mr. Newberry will not attend senate sessions.

The War department has made public its plan for the creation of the organized reserve of the army on a basis that will permit the quick mobilization of more than 4,000,000 fighting men. Twenty-seven infantry divisions of the reserves are provided for, numbering from the Seventy-sixth to the One Hundred and Fourth, thus preserving both in number and the governing location where each regimented the 16 wartime national army divisions. The same territorial distribution as to armies and army corps areas is followed as in the regular army organization and the present structure of the National Guard. The three arms of national land defense forces will be on an identical basis, with control decentralized from Washington and all three in the hands of the corps area commanders.

HARDING ASKS UNITED ACTION

Appeals to Governors and Mayors to Organize for Job Relief.

Washington.—President Harding late Monday called for "unity of action" throughout the nation in meeting the problem on unemployment and issued an appeal to governors, mayors and town officials to take immediate steps to carry out the program of the national unemployment conference.

Washington.—Advisability of a federal bond issue to create a fund for making loans to aid municipal public works in years of depression when jobs are scarce was under consideration Monday by sub-committees of the national conference on unemployment. Such a proposal has been suggested to the conference as part of a plan for permanent safeguards against bad years for the nation's workers.

BLAMES UNKNOWN ASSAILANTS

Barry Farmer, Badly Wounded, Says Robbers Slew His Wife.

Hastings, Mich.—That his wife was strangled by three unknown assailants, who threw her body in a cistern, then attacked him, slashed his throat from ear to ear and left him for dead pinned between the bed and the wall, setting fire to the house and barn before they left the place, was the story told authorities by John Baverstock, Middleville farmer, who is slowly recovering in Fennock hospital here from his wounds.

Neighbors found Mrs. Baverstock's body in the cistern when a bucket brigade undertook to put out the fire, after Baverstock, sans clothing and bleeding from his wounds, aroused them at 3 o'clock in the morning by pounding on the window.

PICKED OUT WRONG COLLEGE

Mrs. Cassidy's Own Fault That She Did Not Hear From Her Daughter Regularly.

Mrs. McIntyre was calling upon Mrs. Cassidy, whose husband was in affluent circumstances and whose daughter had, therefore, been sent away to college.

"By the way," said Mrs. McIntyre, when the two had been gossiping for awhile, "where is Clara? I haven't seen her for an age."

"Clara is at college," promptly responded the fond mother, and then added: "And I am so worried about her. I haven't had a letter from her for nearly two weeks."

"There is where you made a mistake," was the prompt rejoinder of Mrs. McIntyre. "Instead of letting her go to college, why didn't you send her to one of those correspondence schools?" —Philadelphia Ledger.

The Evidence is at Your Door.

Chelsea proof is what you want and the statement of this highly respected resident will banish all doubt:

C. Lehman, 420 Garfield St., Chelsea, says: "Several years ago I was bothered with weak kidneys and backache. There was a general lameness across the small of my back and my kidneys were irregular in action. Nights I was restless and felt all tired out. Finally I used Doan's Kidney Pills which I saw highly advertised and their use put a stop to the trouble. My kidneys became normal and the lameness left my back. I am glad to recommend Doan's because I have found them to be a splendid remedy."

(Statement given March 1, 1913.) On April 27, 1920, Mr. Lehman added: "I still use a few Doan's now and then when I find my kidneys require a tonic and they always bring the same good results as when I endorsed them in 1913."
