Must Attend School.

Every child under the age of 17 must attend the public schools this year. The state legislature enacted the James law in 1918, which goes into effect this year, giving the school authorities power to enforce this regulation. The original law called for attendance until 18 years of age, but an amendment secured during the last session of legislature by Representative Walsh of Grand Rapids lowered the limit one year. The law requires that the child, if not attending public, parochial or approved private school, must spend at least eight hours a week in attendance at the continuation school. Working permits and exemptions will be issued to no one under 16 years of age and in very rare cases for those over that limit. Exemptions are given children when two years of regular high school work have been completed. The eight hour attendance must be put in during regular school hours. Only bona fide day time classes are eligible to state and federal aid under the Smith-Hughes law, making this compulsory on the part of the school officials.

Carleton Memorial Association.

The annual meeting of the Will Carleton Memorial Association will be held in Hudson, Michigan, on Friday, October 21, 1921. The Lenawee County Federation of Women's Clubs has erected a large granite boulder at the old Carleton homestead two miles east of Hudson, and placed thereon a bronze tablet which will be unveiled with appropriate ceremonies. Hon. James Schermerhorn of Detroit, a former resident of Hudson and a well known orator will give the address at the unveiling of the monument. Edward A. Gest will write a poem suitable for the occasion and it is hoped he will be present to give the poem.

Charles P. Hartsoff

Charles P. Hartsoff was born in Unadilla township, February 14, 1847, and died at his home on Monday, October 10, 1921. Mr. Hartsoff was born on the farm where he died and had spent his entire life there. He was stricken with infantile paralysis on Tuesday preceding his death. He is survived by his wife, two sons, two daughters, and two brothers. An open air service was held at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon. Rev. Mack, of Gregory, conducting the services. Burial at Unadilla cemetery.

Corn Earworm.

According to officials of the Washtenaw County Farm Bureau, the corn earworm is active in late corn crops in the county. Husked corn and corn that is practically mature, will not be affected by ravages of the worm, officials state, as the insect favors grain that is in its milky stage.

The outbreak of its ravages, it is claimed, is not dangerous except for damage that might be done immediately. One sure way of destroying them where they are imbedded in a corn field, is to harvest the crop and plow the field this fall.

U. of M. to Have Homecoming.

October 22 has been set aside by the University of Michigan as homecoming day. The Michigan eleven will meet the O. S. U. eleven on this day and will be the day of Michigan's first conference struggle. Every effort will be made to bring back to Ann Arbor as many of the alumni as possible and all fraternities in connection with the college are being asked to make this date their homecoming date; also on this date will be the formal opening of the new stadium on Ferry field and the governors of Michigan and Ohio have accepted invitations to attend.

Winfield Scott Hawkins.

Winfield Scott Hawkins, was born in Michigan, July 24, 1848, and died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. George Fauser, of Lima, on Monday, October 10, 1921. Mr. Hawkins had made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Fauser for the past six years. He is survived by one daughter, one son, and a number of grandchildren.

The funeral was held at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fauser, Rev. H. R. Beatty officiating. Interment in Oak Grove cemetery.

Died Suddenly.

Henry Huel, aged 64 years, died suddenly Wednesday forenoon at his home in Freedom. He was at work plowing in a field on his farm and dropped dead about 8 o'clock. He was born in Freedom and had spent his entire life in that township. He is survived by his wife, four step-children, two brothers and three sisters.

Dr. Carl V. Weller, of the University of Michigan, will deliver an address on the control of cancer, at the M. E. church, Friday evening, November 4.

YOUNG COUPLE MARRIED

HERE SATURDAY EVENING

A pretty wedding took place at 8 o'clock Saturday evening, October 8, 1921, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Faist, of Orchard street, when their daughter, Miss Esther A. Faist, and Mr. Otto Lucht, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lucht, of Lima, were united in marriage.

The couple were attended by the brother, Arthur Faist, and sister, Miss Milda Faist, of the bride. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. W. Krause, and was witnessed by the immediate relatives of the young couple.

The bride is a graduate of the Chelsea high school, class of 1920, and for the past year has acted as cashier at Freeman's Store. The bridegroom has always resided on his father's farm in Lima.

A wedding supper was served following the ceremony and the couple left on a wedding trip to Chicago and points in the west. They will reside on his father's farm after their return here.

Near East Relief Plans.

Plans for the Near East Relief Campaign in Washtenaw county have been completed. Township chairmen have been selected by the county committee and chairmen in each school district have been chosen by most of the township chairmen. Already some of the districts are getting their grain together. October 20 is the day designated for delivery of grain to the elevators. The grain will be received at the following places in Washtenaw county: Manchester, Hoffer's Mill; Saline, Saline Mercantile Co.; Ann Arbor, Michigan Milling Co.; Milan, Auten Elevator Co.; Ypsilanti, Co-op Elevator; Dexter, Dexter Co-op Association; Chelsea, Wm. Bacon-Holmes Mill; Whitmore Lake, Michigan Milling Co.

Elevators will give receipts for the grain received. Washtenaw county's quota amounts to three carloads of wheat or its equivalent value in other grains. The Near East Relief committee advises that 95 per cent out of every dollar's worth of grain will reach the Relief District, to which it is consigned. Reports being received from the Near East Relief headquarters show that farmers are responding very well to the plan of assembling grain within the county, and if every person associated with this work will do his share, the drive will be put across in record time. The county committee is very anxious that the campaign be thorough, and brief, and every farmer do all he can to facilitate the assembling of the grain. The Michigan Mills are grinding the grain into coarse flour for the bran and middlings. The Michigan Milling Company has agreed to grind Washtenaw county's quota. They are anxious to start on the order and are planning to do so immediately after the 20.

One Hundred Years Ago.

The following figures taken from old records ought to make farmers of today feel like they were not the most unfortunate agriculturists of all times. These are prices prevailing just one hundred years ago: Wheat 25c per bushel, oats 12½c, potatoes 12½c, corn 12c, flour $1 per hundred, chickens 37c per dozen, eggs 3c a dozen, maple syrup 16c a gallon. These were the prices on such commodities only when taken in trade. The cash price was lower.

Christian Hinderer.

Christian Hinderer was born in Freedom, March 10, 1855, and died at the home of his son, George J. Hinderer of Sylvan, Sunday evening, October 9, 1921, cancer of the throat being the cause of his death.

Mr. Hinderer had resided in the home where he died for the last 42 years and had been an active farmer most of his life, retiring a few years ago.

He is survived by four sons, George J., Fred and Albert of Sylvan, and Augustus of Ann Arbor; three daughters, Mrs. Amanda Miles of Jackson, Mrs. Emma Behnke of Ann Arbor, Miss Bertha Hinderer of Detroit; several grandchildren, two brothers, and three sisters.

Starving European Children.

The American Friends Service Committee is conducting a campaign to raise funds to save the lives of 500,000 starving children in Europe. These children must be saved. $3,000,000 are necessary to carry on this great undertaking. Everybody is requested to aid this noble work of charity. Every dollar will be used to its full extent for the purpose of feeding these hungry children. 25c will feed a child for one week, $1 for one month, $10 for one year. A local committee is at work to interest sympathizers to aid the service committee. All donations can be deposited with Paul Schaible at the Farmers & Merchants Bank, who will forward same to the executive committee of Ann Arbor, from where it is sent directly to the Red Cross Society in Europe.

Quality of Potato Crop Good.

That the quality of the Michigan potato crop is good this year, although the crop volume is rather light, is the opinion of H. C. Moore, potato specialist at the Michigan Agricultural College. The crop should handle well in transit and in storage, as no serious developments of late blight have appeared in the state.

Some confusion regarding the Michigan crop has been caused this year by the indiscriminate use of terms in describing potato diseases. Early blight or tip-burn, has been serious in the state, but this disease does not affect the keeping qualities of the tubers, although it causes the death of vines in the field. Late blight does affect the keeping qualities of the tubers, but it is not common in Michigan this year.

Famous Pianist at Ann Arbor.

In a recent interview with Mr. Bauer, the famous pianist who is to open the Choral Union Concert Series at Ann Arbor, October 20, many interesting subjects, musical and otherwise were touched on, for Mr. Bauer is a cosmopolite and an intellectual of wide interests and varied experience. Mr. Bauer's insight into the trend of modern art and the life which it reflects, enables him to see essential facts with a clarity that is worth recording.

"A century ago," he said, "novels, dramas, etc., were built according to set rules. There was a hero, a villain, the good were rewarded, the evil destroyed. People held a naive view of life, a childish morality. Religious convictions, at that time, were primitive; good and bad were divided by a high fence. Today all that is vastly different, I believe. We are almost ready to believe that matters of life and destiny are not to be understood, that problems of ethics and morals are not easy of solution, that the beginning and end of things is beyond our knowledge or comprehension. Our literature, drama, music and art reflect this tendency very clearly. It is hardly necessary to dwell on the former; any book by Conrad or play by a serious dramatist show it clearly.

"All this is as true of music and musical interpretation as it is of the other arts. While music has always afforded a freer, more natural means of expression than the other arts, it also has its bounds. Today the accepted forms, sonata, concerto, symphony, etc., are more and more loosely construed.

"The interpretive musician strives nowadays to bring out the larger lines of a composition and its deeper meanings, rather than to render every note perfectly and exactly as it is written. He will take any liberty with it that he sees fit in order to bring out some hidden beauty or some new idea that he finds in it. Lights and shades, delicate and harsh, subtle and obvious, as they exist in life, are things that your modern musician strives for."

Other concerts in this series will be given by John McCormack, tenor, November 22; Ignaz Friedman, pianist, December 5; Fritz Kreisler, violinist, January 9; Erika Morini, violinist, February 3; Rosa Raisa, soprano and Giacomo Rimini, baritone, March 14.

Your Voice is Your

There is a peculiar quality in each human voice that is so individual that the very personality of the speaker is given out.

How often do your friends say to you, "Oh, I knew you by your voice?"

For this reason long-distance telephone conversations have an emphatic value aside from the convenience of an immediate reply to questions and the opportunity for discussion.

Send your own voice over the Long Distance wire in all important transactions and it is as if you had been present yourself. This is the satisfying way—the modern way to transact your affairs.

The following information about different classifications of Long Distance calls will aid you in using the telephone most economically and efficiently.

1. If you will talk to any person answering the telephone, the toll charge will be about one-fifth less than as if you had asked for a particular person at that address.
2. Such service between 8:30 P. M. and Midnight costs only about one-half the day rates and between Midnight and 4:30 A. M. it costs only about one-fourth the day rates.
3. Particular person calls are those in which you ask to talk with a particular person in another city. On this class of calls a report charge is made if the person asked for cannot be communicated with through no fault of the Telephone Company. This charge is not made if the connection is established. The report charge amounts to about one-fifth of the particular person rate.
4. Charges can be reversed only on particular person calls.

Stockbridge—There was considerable confusion Sunday morning in ringing the church bells. Part of the churches rang their bells on fast time, while the others went back to slow time. The school Monday morning went back to slow time.—Brief-Sun.

Dexter—A number of people have asked the Leader when the time will change back to Central Standard. While we have no official information on the subject, we would say that last year the date was the last Sunday night in October, at 12 o'clock.—Leader.

Ann Arbor—Bids, amounting to $230,000 have been accepted by the school board of Ann Arbor for the reinforced concrete, brick work, cut stone work and structural steel work on the three new ward school buildings to be built in that city. Detroit firms were the successful bidders.

Jackson—Tough, isn't it, when a mother and daughter engage in shoplifting. They were caught at it Saturday night in one of our 5-10c stores and taken to police headquarters. But the manager declined to make complaint and after being lectured by Chief Hudson they were released.—Evening Star.

Manchester—Work of graveling the new road west of town, Mr. Cooper informs the Enterprise, will be completed by the 1st of November. They are now at work at the Spaford farms. A new pit will be opened on the Glutz place, two miles west of town, where they will get gravel hereafter.—Enterprise.

Pinkney—Postmaster Murphy's countenance is illuminated by a broad smile this week. He isn't obliged to open the postoffice so early since the change in schedule brings the first mail here at 9:47 and the last at 4:44. The mail carriers however do not start out until after the first mail arrives.—Dispatch.

Ann Arbor—By the generosity of Regent W. L. Clements of Bay City the University of Michigan is about to come into possession of some 200 manuscript documents, at least one half of which pertain directly to America, some of which relate directly to the Revolutionary war, and throw new light upon that period. The papers are some that belonged to the late Lord Shelburne.

Ypsilanti—Officer William Vay was called Friday to the home of a Fifth ward resident where it was alleged the mother had gone away and left several small children. A neighbor took the children to her home, when the father appeared and accused the neighbor of interfering. The neighbor then notified the police. A warning was given the woman that unless she cared for her children better they would be taken away from her.

Milan—A pleasant family gathering occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jackson Sunday when the entire family was present. They consisted of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Nelson of Rochester, N. Y., Mr. and Mrs. Starr Voght and family of Detroit, and Mr. and Mrs. Wirt A. Cook and family. This was the first time in forty-six years that the brothers and sisters have been together and it was an occasion long to be remembered.—Leader.

Jackson—That a man's respect for the law may be more binding than the ties of relationship was illustrated here Thursday afternoon when Stanley Patierski, 18 years old, who is alleged to have failed to stop after running down and injuring a child, was surrendered to the police by his elder brother. Patierski will be arraigned in police court on a charge of failing to stop and give aid after injuring a person on the public highway.

Ann Arbor—Commercial tests have been completed by the materials testing laboratory of the engineering college, in connection with the development of a forged steel wheel, which the Jefferson Forge Products Co. of Detroit, is soon to place on the market. According to Professor F. N. Menefee, who with Professor W. E. Lay, conducted the tests, experts in steel forging say that the wheel is a notable contribution to the art of forging.

The apple crop in Michigan and in the United States as a whole will be the lightest since 1880. The present outlook is for a crop of 39 per cent of normal in the state. The pear crop is estimated at 521,000 bushels. The production of grapes is exceedingly earlier estimates and now promises 40 per cent of a crop.

Sold Historic Building.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Dewey have sold their home, known as the Old Walker Tavern at the junction of the Chicago and Monroe turnpikes in Cambridge to Rev. Frederick Hewitt of Detroit. The deal includes the house only and one acre of ground along the Chicago highway to the west, the price being $2600. The Deweys retain the barns except one shed which will be torn down on the line and they will soon commence the erection of a new farm home on the opposite corner which they own.

The Walker Tavern is known to all old timers of this section and is identified with all its early history. It was built at about the same time or before Michigan was admitted to the union as a state in 1837, probably two years before that time, and immediately following the completion of the Chicago turnpike. In 1838 Daniel Webster and traveling party were lodged at the tavern and in June 1847 J. Fennimore Cooper, wife, daughters and two Indian guides stopped at the tavern for a period and made side trips from here. "Oak Openings" was written by this great author as a descriptive story of this part of Michigan.

In 1863 it became the home of F. A. Dewey and family, being occupied by them over thirty years when it was purchased by W. C. Dewey, the present occupant.

Rev. Hewitt, the new owner, is an antiquarian. He has a cottage at Evans Lake where he has lately spent his summers and has collected many quaint and historical items in the way of furniture, furnishings and agricultural equipment of the pioneer times. It is reported that Mr. Hewitt will now make his summer home at the old hotel and that he will here collect and exhibit similar articles, giving the place as far as possible its old time appearance.—Brooklyn Exponent.

To Increase Legume Acreage.

A state-wide campaign to increase the acreage of alfalfa and other leguminous crops in Michigan is to be launched in the near future, according to announcement of Prof. J. E. Cox, head of the farm crops department at the Michigan Agricultural College.

All other agricultural agencies in the state will be called upon to aid in the campaign, which is expected to be of far reaching importance to Michigan agriculture. Importance of legumes in good farming systems is apparent, and an effort will be made to acquaint the entire state with their value.

"The time is ripe to make Michigan a leading alfalfa state," says Professor Cox. "After twenty-five years of effort, alfalfa has arrived. With dollar wheat and fifty cent corn staring them in the face, farmers are regarding alfalfa as a mighty good money crop. In fact, it is one of the best in the state this year. With timothy and clover hay a failure in most sections, alfalfa fields showed up like oases."

"Like good clover, alfalfa is the foundation of successful farming. Good stands are of great benefit to future cultivated and grain crops. A man cannot grow this crop without becoming a better soils man, a better crop grower, and a better feeder of livestock. Increased acreages of alfalfa, sweet clover, clover, vetch and soy beans will be sought in the state."

The State Farm Bureau will be in a position to supply northwestern-grown alfalfa seed, and to aid in securing adequate supplies of lime and marl, and phosphate and other commercial fertilizers. Development bureaus, railroad agricultural departments, and local business organizations will also co-operate in the campaign.

Christmas Seal Sale.

Theodore J. Werle, of Milwaukee, has accepted the position of seal sale director for the Michigan Christmas seal sale this year. Mr. Werle has already assumed his duties and has begun the active work of organizing the state for the biggest seal sale since the Michigan association was organized.

Mr. Werle has had much experience in anti-tuberculosis work, having been connected with anti-White Plague activities in Wisconsin for the past ten years. He was connected with the first seal sale ever held in that state, and for a number of years he conducted a traveling clinic, first with horse and wagon and later by means of motorcycle transportation, visiting villages and crossroads and carrying the anti-tuberculosis message to the people all over Wisconsin by means of clinics, exhibits, lectures and motion pictures. This was one of the most picturesque and most effective bits of anti-tuberculosis work attempted in the United States up to that time.

For the past few years Mr. Werle has been in charge of the sanatorium propaganda work in Wisconsin and of establishing itinerant public health clinics. He has been a lecturer on tuberculosis for the past ten years.

He will give all his time to the Michigan seal sale until the close of the campaign in December.

If a city or town is good enough to live in, and good enough to take a salary from, it should be good enough to buy in. If the teachers, the preachers, the professors, the firemen, the policemen and the civic servants want increased salaries the most direct route to bring about that desired end is to keep money circulating in the home town.

Be Strong

THE strong and vigorous man or woman is envied by less fortunate humanity afflicted with aches, pains, infirmities and ailments. The sufferer says to himself, "If I could only be well, how happy I would be." For health is essential to the joy of living and it is wealth.

The kidneys almost literally wash the blood and keep it clean and free from impurities. When the kidneys are out of order, they fail to filter out this waste and poisonous matter. It remains in the blood, causing rheumatic pains, sore muscles and stiff joints.

Foley Kidney Pills

help the system eliminate this poisonous waste. They soothe, strengthen and heal sore, weak and diseased kidneys and bladder. When the kidneys are working properly, the refreshing sleep is possible, and health and strength come again.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Changes in Tax Bill Proposed By the Democrats and the "Agrarian Bloc"

GENERAL WOOD IS RETIRED

President Asks Local Co-operation in Relieving Unemployment Conditions.
—Premiere Briand and Lloyd
George May Attend the Great
Conference in Washington.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD.

The peril that resides in overwhelming majorities, always recognized by politicians, is being demonstrated again in the case of the tax bill. The senate Republicans have been split up into several groups that so far have been unable to agree on the changes to be made in the measure as passed by the house, and the Democratic minority, consequently, is hopeful of carrying out its program. The main features of this are:

A higher surtax rate than 32 per cent to affect incomes in excess of $500,000.

A graduated corporation income tax in place of the proposed 15 per cent rate.

Retention of the corporation capital-stock tax.

Repeal of the freight, passenger and Pullman transportation taxes and of the $2,000 exemption allowed to corporations.

Decreased normal income tax rates on incomes of $15,000 or less.

Senators McCormick, Capper, Leavitt and others of the so-called agrarian bloc, together with a number of other Republicans, have been working hard to devise a program that will be acceptable to a majority of the senate, and the one they have drawn up tentatively includes the following changes:

A graduated corporation income tax instead of a flat tax as a substitute for the excess profits tax.

Further reduction in the lower surtax rates on individual incomes, but an increase from the 32 per cent maximum in the bill to 50 per cent, which represents a compromise between the proposed maximum and the rate of 65 per cent present law.

Retention of the corporation capital stock tax which is repealed in the senate committee bill.

An increase in the higher rates of estate taxes.

Repeal of the taxes on freight, passenger, and express transportation.

Senator Smoot of Utah and a few others are advocating a 3 per cent production or manufacturers' sales tax, but the group above mentioned is opposed to this, and so is Representative Mondell, Republican leader of the house, who, after a conference with President Harding, asserted there was no chance that the house would accept anything of the nature of a general sales tax.

Last week the president let it be known that he wished congress to go ahead with its legislative program without thought of an early adjournment. There had been some anxiety in Washington lest the deliberations of the conference on limitation of armaments might be disturbed by the doings of congress if it were in session after November 11. But Mr. Harding is not at all worried by this. The tax bill is holding up all business in the senate except the treaties and the canal tolls bill. The treaties are to be voted on October 14 and the canal measure comes to a vote on October 10. If President Harding's preference is considered, the tariff bill will be taken up before adjournment, though many members of congress seem willing that it should go over to the next session.

Major Gen. Leonard Wood was confirmed by the senate as governor general of the Philippines and next day was placed on the retired list of the army, as was also Maj. Gen. Joseph T. Dickman. The brigadiers promoted to fill these vacancies in the list of major generals were Charles J. Bailey and Samuel D. Sturgis, and when he gave out these names, Secretary of War Weeks made it known that hereafter merit will be the test for promotion to the rank of brigadier general. Secretary Weeks, in a letter to General Wood, paid high tribute to the latter's achievements. "I do not consider," he wrote, "that it is too much to say that your efforts contributed more to remedy our unpreparedness for war than those of any other individual, and for this your country will give you credit long after the circumstances which denied you the privilege of commanding in battle the troops you trained are forgotten."

In accordance with the recommendations of the conference on unemployment, President Harding issued a public statement asking governors and mayors throughout the country to organize in each community machinery for the correction of economic conditions along the lines worked out by the conference. Local co-operation, he declared, is absolutely necessary to success, and to give national coordination to the efforts for rehabilitation, a central agency will be maintained in Washington under the auspices of the conference. Secretary Hoover appointed as head of this agency Col. Arthur Woods, former police commissioner of New York.

Mr. Harding believes that a large number of men now jobless would be given employment if congress would pass the railroads credit bill, which would mean the payment of about half a billion dollars to the railroads. Therefore he is urging that the measure be adopted at this session.

William Howard Taft was sworn in as chief justice of the Supreme Court of the United States last Monday and took his seat as the fall term of the court opened. Two days later he took off his gown and appeared before the senate judiciary committee to advocate enactment of a law creating eighteen additional federal judgeships. The Volstead act, he said, has added considerably to the congestion in the federal courts, and he continued: "I do not hesitate to say that I believe violations of the prohibition law will greatly increase before they begin to grow fewer."

Attorney General Daugherty, also before the committee, dissented with this opinion, saying prohibition cases have reached their peak and violations will decrease as the people want to see the law enforced and the tendency of state authorities to leave enforcement to the government is beginning to disappear. Mr. Daugherty should know what he is talking about, but the news columns of the daily papers do not bear out his assertion.

Col. Charles R. Forbes, director of the federal veterans' bureau, returned to Washington last week after an inspection trip throughout the country, and at once made a startling report to President Harding. He asserted that of the 100,000 disabled soldiers who are being given vocational education at the government's expense, 30,000 are being "farmed out" to sweatshops and "mushroom" institutions created for the purpose of getting federal trainees and government money.

Forbes declares the Chicago situation is especially bad in this respect and adds that it is nothing short of crime and slavery to put men in some of the places they have been put. He gave orders for the discontinuance of training at certain schools and institutions in Chicago. Chicagoans interested in the vocational training of ex-service men could not bring themselves to believe the truth of Colonel Forbes' accusations, though admitting there might be isolated cases of exploitation.

In an "authoritative" summary of the program the big powers are expected to bring to the conference on limitation of armaments and Far Eastern questions it is stated that Great Britain, France and Italy will try to make the cancellation of the allied debts to the United States of eleven billion dollars one of the subjects to be discussed. Of course they have not said this, but well informed persons believe that is their desire.

Now President Harding has made it known that he is opposed to having the matter of the allied debts brought up at all at the parley. He believes it can be better settled in other ways, and that the conference will have enough to do in considering the questions provided in the agenda as it now stands. He is extremely desirous that something big be accomplished in the reduction of armaments and the settlement of the pressing problems of the Pacific and the Far East and does not wish the work of the conference made more arduous by the injection of other questions.

When the French chamber of deputies meets on October 15, Premier Briand expects to obtain a vote of confidence, which would mean permission for him to attend the conference in Washington. Since he has declared his intention of coming Prime Minister Lloyd George has begun to think he, too, will be able to attend the parley, believing that the Irish peace negotiations will be so well under way that he can leave them to others for a few weeks. It is said, too, that Lloyd George hopes to arrange a preliminary conference with the representatives of France and Italy before they come over. Ostensibly this would be a meeting to consider the report of the League of Nations council on the division of the plebeian area of Upper Silesia.

Secretary Hughes has invited Holland, Belgium and Portugal to participate in the Washington conference when it is discussing questions relating to the Far East. These three nations have territorial interests in the Orient.

The assembly of the League of Nations ended its second meeting last week after re-electing Brazil, Belgium, China and Spain as the non-permanent members of the council. The proposed amendment or elimination of article X and the amendment of the article on registration of treaties went over to the next session, and in the matter of reduction of armaments action seemed to be blocked by the coming Washington conference. Nevertheless the assembly accomplished a good deal. The international court of justice was established, various important technical organizations were set up and other important steps taken.

Hungary, warned by the allies, agreed to withdraw entirely from Burgenland, the strip awarded to Austria by the treaty of Trianon. The trouble there, however, may not be ended, for the Hungarian government admittedly has lost control over the irregular troops that are holding a part of the territory and that so far have refused to get out.

A special committee of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States has just returned from a trip of investigation abroad and submits a report in which active American participation in the economic rehabilitation and stabilization of Europe is recommended. In every country visited, says the committee, the opinion was expressed that western and central Europe cannot be restored to conditions that approximate normal without American assistance. The conclusions of the committee, which should be especially grateful to French ears, are:

"The United States and the allies should present a solid front in demanding Germany make good in the matter of reparations."

"There should be formed an international commission of business men to add the reparations commission in working out difficult financial problems concerning reparations."

"The United States should not withdraw at this time its army on the Rhine."

"The world is operating on a basis of less than one-half of the pre-war standard."

"The consumption by 300,000,000 persons is reduced to 30 per cent of normal."

"France and other countries bordering on Germany need protection against future attacks."

"Financial aid cannot be extended to Germany to enable it to purchase raw materials with which to manufacture goods for the purpose of paying its obligations unless there remains a strong central government."

BABY'S BODY IN KIRBY CASE FOUND

HUDSON WOMAN, CHARGED WITH MURDER OF CHILD, TO BE TRIED THIS MONTH.

DEFENSE OPPOSED TO DELAY

Lack of Evidence As to Disposition of Body of the Baby Has Caused Many Delays.

Adrian, Mich.—When Mrs. Matie Kirby, Hudson W. C. T. U. worker and club woman, was arraigned before Judge Burton Hart Monday morning, charged with the murder of a grandchild born July 4 out of wedlock, it became known that the Lenawee county authorities have found what they believe is the child's body, heretofore a missing link in the chain of evidence against Mrs. Kirby.

Prosecutor Leland F. Bean refused to disclose where the body had been found, but did divulge that a bill presented to the county clerk by Dr. Charles S. Lane, of Hudson for two days' services "examining the corpse of an infant, taking measurements of bones, and other expert services on order of Leland F. Bean and O. L. Smith," concerned the Kirby case.

On request of Prosecutor Bean, the case of Mrs. Kirby was put at the foot of the calendar for the October term. With the entering of a plea of not guilty for his client, former Judge B. D. Chandler, announced that his defense was ready for trial and he declared he would oppose any move by the prosecution to delay trial until the January term.

Prosecutor Bean's request for a delay was based on the recent connection of Deputy Attorney General O. L. Smith with the case.

The volume of jury work that was announced as being ready for trial indicated that the panel will be kept here in continuous session until Thanksgiving time and court attendants are of the opinion that with that much time in which to prepare their case, the prosecuting officers will be ready with the Kirby trial when the regular jury call is finished.

During the justice court examination of Mrs. Kirby, no evidence was submitted by Prosecuting Attorney Bean to indicate the disposition of the body of the child after its alleged murder. During the last week John Due investigations in connection with the case have been conducted in Adrian and Hillsdale, by Mr. Bean, assisted by O. L. Smith.

PRISON BREAK TRIED AT IONIA

17 Inmates Held in County Jail Had Sawed Cell Bars.

Ionias, Mich.—Thomas Sherman, cook at the Ionia county jail, discovered a plot of several state reformatory prisoners temporarily confined at the jail, to escape shortly after midnight, Monday morning. The men had sawed their way out of the cell block in which 12 were confined, bound and gagged two county prisoners and were removing bricks from the outer wall of the jail when Sherman heard the noise. They were chased back to their cells.

Two hundred and fifty prisoners Monday appeared before Warden Burns and assured him that they might rely on them to prevent any attempt to escape from the dormitories and factory buildings where the main group of prisoners has been housed since the fire which destroyed the reformatory.

The debris has been practically cleared away from where the cell blocks formerly stood and everything will be ready for construction work as soon as the state is prepared to begin building new dormitories to replace these which burned.

SENATE VOTES FOR FREE TOLLS

Borah's Bill Now Goes to House
Where It Will Be Held.

Washington.—The Borah bill providing free tolls for American vessels using the Panama canal was passed by the senate this week.

The bill now goes to the house, where action on it is expected to be deferred until after the conference on limitation of armaments, Pacific and Far Eastern questions. The vote was 47 to 37.

The final ballot found party lines split, Republicans joining with Democrats either in opposition or support of it.

WOODWORTH TO BE APPOINTED

Lansing Man Sited for Internal Revenue Collector Job.

Charles Holden, of Grand Rapids, will be appointed collector for the western district, with headquarters in Grand Rapids.

This announcement was made Monday by Senators Charles E. Townsend and Truman H. Newberry.

LEGION MAN HOLDS RECORD

Former Lumber Jack Who Put College Professors to Flight in Intelligence Test.

Positions as instructor in philosophy, bacteriology and English have been offered by several large universities to Michael J. Nolan, Seattle, Wash., before the war a lumberjack, during it a sapper in the Royal Engineers and after it a patient in army hospitals for 49 weary weeks.

Shortly after America opened hostilities with Germany, Nolan, 35 years old, tried to enlist. He was refused enlistment because of his age, but he went to Canada and took on with the Dominion forces. Following severe service in France, he was invalided to a hospital at Folkestone, England, where he suffered from shellshock, influenza and jaundice all at the same time. He was held there for almost a year.

When he reached Seattle in 1919 he was so weak that he could not lift his hand to shave himself. He entered the University of Washington for vocational education in December, 1919.

Nolan's remarkable accomplishments in collegiate intelligence tests have been announced to the country. Competing with four professors, he answered without error 60 questions in 62 seconds while the brightest of the professors answered but 54 in 30 minutes. Due to his ability, Nolan is finishing a four year complete course in 18 months.

The intellectual giant, below the average physically, is a native of Wexford, Ireland. He is a member of Rialter-Noble post, the American Legion, in Seattle.

SEVERAL JOBS AS CHAPLAIN

Toledo (O.) Divine Is Much in Demand
With Veterans' and Other Organizations.

Chaplain for six different organizations, Rev. E. F. MacLane, Toledo, O., is a dangerous contender for the chaplain "sky pilot" belt.

Every time another organization elects him chaplain, he says he feels like Bob Fitzsimmons, the former world's heavyweight, who, after receiving a telegram announcing the birth of a son, cried: "Hooray, I'm another father!"

Chaplain MacLane was wounded while "sky piloting" the Thirty-seventh division in the Meuse-Argonne offensive. Returning to Toledo after the war he joined the Harry E. Kern post of the American Legion and they at once elected him chaplain. He also is chaplain of the Lucas County (Ohio) council of the Legion and of the following other organizations: Soldiers class of the Toledo Scottish Rite; Thirty-seventh Division Veterans' association; Second regiment, Ohio National Guard; and Toledo chapter, Disabled Veterans of the World War.

SHE'S DRY LAND SAILOR ACE

Michigan Girl Prize Winner in Canoe
Carnival Served as Yeoman
F. First Class.

The standing joke that the war-time Yeoman could not tell the difference between a schooner and a scow loses its tang when one considers Miss Ethelyn Miter, a so-called dry-land sailor, who won a prize in the recent canoe carnival at Belle Isle, Detroit, Mich.

Miss Miter of Benton Harbor is a young woman, first class in the bureau of navigation at Washington, where she knew all about salt water craft, at least from the pictures and records. It may have been there that she learned the fine points of driving the rocky skiffs through the best of the gobs who competed against her in the water carnival.

"I believe that a girl can paddle her own canoe, too, literally and figuratively," Miss Miter says. She was one of the organizers of the Benton Harbor post of the American Legion and in the race the Legion colors flew from her winning craft.

To Honor General Ward, Americans in China will make pilgrimages to the grave of Gen. Frederick Ward, the American, on Memorial day hereafter, the custom being instituted this year by the American Legion post of Shanghai. While the Civil war was being fought in America, General Ward, under commission of the Chinese government, organized what afterwards was known to the Chinese as the "Ever Victorious Army" and suppressed the great Taiping rebellion. While directing his attack on the town of Tsz Ki, the American, formerly an officer on a Chinese gunboat, was killed at the head of his troops. The Chinese erected a monument to him at Sungking, where he fell.

Embarrassing, Indeed!

Economizing might be all right, but first know your location! I went into a two-priced millinery store and after trying on several hats and not caring particularly for any, realized that it was next to impossible to get away without a purchase. Finally I said I had no money, but selected a hat for them to put away for me, and promised I would surely return for it the next evening. I breathed relief when I made my exit, and passing a store a few doors away, entered upon seeing a hat much to my taste, and after trying it on decided I really would buy it. As I was about to take the money from my purse, to my surprise the manager of the first store (he owned both, I later learned), entered, and seeing me, cynically smiled and said: "Don't waste your time on this customer—she's only sightseeing and has no intention of buying." My embarrassment, together with anger, was the limit, and I arose in a rage and left the store.—Chicago American.

Lost "Victory" Recovered.

Dust-covered and forgotten, two big packing cases have been reposing in the yard of federal parliament house. They had been received twelve months ago from London, and had been "dumped" with other stores in an out-of-the-way place. Recently one of the cases was opened and was found to contain a female figure in bronze with a helmet on her head. This was intended to represent Victory and was designed to commemorate the heroism of Australian soldiers. The statue was a gift of the commonwealth by Bertram Mackennal, the Australian sculptor. The smaller case contained the base of the statue. The unfortunate oversight has been rectified and Australia's thanks have been sent to Mr. Mackennal.

Engineering Triumph.

A daring engineering feat was performed in Pittsburgh recently when a nine-story modern building, filled with hardware, was moved a distance of 75 feet by 12 laborers. Ninety-pound rails, 120 of them, made the tracks on which the structure was moved. The sidewalks and basement of the building, including a big engine and boiler that continued to function, went along with the building. Customers passed to and from the building as though nothing was happening.

Never Struck by Lightning.
An automobile is the safest place in the world to be in a thunderstorm, as there is no case on record of an automobile being struck by lightning. This is due to the fact that the rubber tires act as non-conductors, and unless the car is submerged in water, or the tires are deflated so that the rims form a contact with the ground, there is not the slightest chance of a car being struck by lightning.—Ex.

TALC IS FOUND IN CANADA

Non-Metallic Mineral Largely Used in Manufacture of Rubber Goods.

Among Canada's more useful non-metallic minerals talc is probably the most adaptable and widely used, entering into the finishing process of some of the most common commodities.

Talc, sometimes designated soapstone, asbestos, french chalk, mineral pulp, talcalay and verdolite, is found in Cape Breton and Inverness counties in Nova Scotia; Frontenac, Hastings, Leeds, Lennox and Renfrew counties and Kenora district in Ontario; Beauce, Brome and Megantic counties in Quebec, and in the Leech river section of the Victoria mining division of British Columbia. In color it ranges from white to grayish green, while to the touch it has a soft and apparently greasy or slippery feeling. It is a non-conductor of heat and electricity and is resistant to most chemical action.

Its chief uses are as a filler in the finishing of a window blind cloth. This is largely used in the manufacture of rubber goods.

From Africa.

The "Greatest Show on Earth"—one of them—was touring Georgia and having trouble with its small but select menagerie. Therefore, the management of the show advertised for an assistant animal trainer. A husky black gentleman applied, was accepted and went to work.

When the time came to feed the animals, though, his nerve faltered, especially when he was obliged to open the lion's cage.

"Oh, Lord," he prayed, "as ye was wid Dan'l in the lion's den, so be wid me now."

Whereupon a voice issued from the king of beasts:

"Nebukh'zard de Lord and Dan'l, big boy. Dis yere lion's yo' own countryman. Jes' bustle wid dat chow."—American Legion Weekly.

Gland Causes Divorce.

The increased prevalence of divorce in proportion to the growing wealth of the country was attributed by Dr. Ernest E. Tucker of New York at the annual convention of the American Osteopathic association to a change in function of the pituitary body, one of the smaller of the so-called ductless glands, which, he said, is about the size of a pea and is hidden on the underside of the brain.

TAKES CARE OF 5 CHILDREN

Mrs. Taylor's Sickness Ended by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Roxbury, Mass.—"I suffered continually with backache and was often dependent, had dizzy spells and at my monthly periods it was almost impossible to keep around at my work. Since my last baby came two years ago my back has been worse and no position I could get in would relieve it, and doctor's medicine did not help me. A friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have found great relief since using it. My back is much better and I can sleep well. I keep house and have the care of five children so my work is very trying and I am very thankful I have found the Compound such a help. I recommend it to my friends and if you wish to use this letter I am very glad to help any woman suffering as I was until I used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

Mrs. MAUDE E. TAYLOR, 5 St. James Place, Roxbury, Mass.

Backache is one of the most common symptoms of a displacement or derangement of the female system. No woman should make the mistake of trying to overcome it by heroic endurance, but profit by Mrs. Taylor's experience and try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

TAILORED DAYTIME FROCKS AND FRIVOLOUS NEGLIGEEES

"A L.L. in the blue, unclouded weather" of autumn we shall see such handsome examples of the tailored dress, as that one pictured here, usurping the place of the costume suit. When the air is keen a scarf or small wrap, or a mere choker of fur, will provide that note of warmth that may be needed.

Fashion, having determined upon simple lines in day-time dresses, decrees that their decorations shall make them interesting. The most is made of opportunity for embroidery, coats and blouses, jackets and coats in soft colors in which silks and laces join hands with ribbons and flowers to make the airiest of garments. But the season strikes a new note by presenting us with negligees made of black crepe de chine with black fringe, or lace or panels of georgette as decorative features, and nothing relieves this all-black on some of the models. Others show small ribbon roses in gay colors set at the bottom of panels.

Another negligee sent over by Paris is more cheerful and more promising.

or other embellishments on them, and sashes or girdles have become important. In the dress pictured the sash is of very wide, brocaded ribbon, finished with a deep fringe, and the embroidery on the bodice and skirt is ingeniously placed to make a setting for it.

The length of this dress, its sleeve and general outlines may be taken as a criterion of the mode in tailored frocks. The embroidery is simple and used with a refreshing reserve, in a season that presents many examples of over-decoration. Any of the usual wool suitings may be used for it, with the revers on the bodice and the sleeve facing made of satin or of ribbon like that in the sash.

In considering a new day-time frock, it is worth while to take note of all

It is a slip-over made of ratine in high colors and ornamented with applique flowers in silk or embroidered in lively colors. They are simply a strip of ratine, twice as long as the slip-over, and folded midway of its length. The neck opening is cut out at the fold, as in slip-over blouses, finished with buttonhole stitch in heavy silk and furnished with cord or ribbon ties at the front. A little drapery on the hips at each side takes up the sag of the side seams.

The simple negligee shown here is a fragile affair that does not concern itself with the matter of warmth. It is made of pink crepe de chine, lace, ribbon and a little figured georgette, and is worn with a yokelet of the same fabric edged with lace. The cap employs fillet lace with georgette

A Simple Negligee.

The important style points that distinguish this season: the prominence given to new departures in the shapes of sleeves, narrow fringes of monkey fur and silk fringes, new neck lines, girdles of metal, beads and composition.

Within the walls of home, cheerful breakfast coats and frivolous negligees continue to help us start the day right and spend idle hours in comfort. These pretty garments show no radical departures from the negligees of yesterday—they still include Japanese and Chinese

In a narrow border, and satin ribbon to make a becoming composition piece, and the satin mules and silk hose announce their fitness for such fine company.

PLANT DISEASES TAKE HUGE TOLL

Farmer Suffers Loss of Income and Consumer Compelled to Pay Higher Prices.

CONTROL OF PESTS IS URGED

Can Be Brought About Only Through Pains-taking Technical Research, Followed by Adoption of Remedies by Farmers.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

When a plant disease or some other crop pest destroys an important crop throughout a large area, it is easy to see how dangerous these pests are to both to agriculture and to the country. The farmer whose crop is destroyed suffers through loss of his income; the consumer often through abnormally increased cost of his food supply. Occasionally, as in 1916, when the wheat crop of the United States and Canada was reduced approximately 250,000,000 bushels by black stem rust after the entire expense involved in its production, except that of harvesting and threshing, had been incurred, the result is so serious as to endanger the stability of banks and of business generally in the devastated region and even, as in that case, to threaten the future of nations through impairment of food supply when needed for winning the great war.

Take Heavy Toll on Crops. But spectacular and widespread destruction of crops is by no means the only harm worked by plant diseases. Every season and in substantially every important producing section they take heavy toll on crop production. Their existence without control constitutes one of the chief hazards which the farmer encounters, increasing his cost of production and ultimately the price which consumers must pay.

It has been difficult to determine even approximately the amount of damage done by plant diseases, but very careful estimates recently made by the pathologists of the state experiment stations and the Department of Agriculture indicate that in 1919 the production of ten of the important cereal, fruit and vegetable crops was reduced more than 650,000,000 bushels by plant diseases. This estimate does not include damage due to insects nor to adverse climatic conditions.

When it is remembered that substantially equal expenditures for labor and other items up to the point of harvest are required for the diseased and the healthy crops, it is clear that these pests constitute a most grievous and dangerous overload on agriculture, our basic industry.

Must Aid Stabilization. That stabilization of agricultural production, which is highly desirable from the standpoint of business as well as of the producer and the consumer, can only come when farmers generally are able so to shape their plantings that, with normal weather, the acreage planted will produce the approximate quantity required to meet the consuming demand. Until this is accomplished, seasons of shortage with prices painfully high to the consumer are certain to be experienced. Along with these will come years of excessive production in which the producer is compelled to bear destructive loss because prices are below the cost of production. For the correction of this destructive alternation of too little and too great crop production the development of effective control of plant pests is one of the most important factors.

SAVE CORN FOR EXTRA SEED

Excellent Plan to Select Enough to Serve for Two or Three Years' Plantings.

When corn is selected from the field for seed, the United States Department of Agriculture urges that enough seed be selected to serve for two or three years' plantings. This is essential in the origination and perpetuation of high-yielding varieties adapted to local conditions. Seed corn that matures well and dries out promptly without injury will keep its good germinating and yielding power for four or five years. Often a bad season will prevent the selection of desirable corn for seed. But home-grown seed corn of the best quality can be always available by protecting a sufficient quantity from moisture and from insects and other animals.

DIG POTATOES WHEN SOIL IS QUITE DRY

Tubers Are Matured When Vines Begin to Drop Off.

Care Should Be Taken to Avoid Spear-ing or Cutting Them—Store in Cool, Dry and Well Ventilated Cellar or Pit.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Potatoes require 90 to 100 days after planting before any will be ready for use. The tubers are not fully matured until after the vines die, or at least ripen and shed most of their foliage. Late potatoes in the Northern and Northeastern states are frequently caught by frost before the vines ripen, so should be dug just about the time frost first strikes them. Potatoes should be dug when the soil is reasonably dry, so that it will not adhere to them. A spading fork or a potato hook is best for digging them and great care should be taken to avoid spearing or cutting them in digging. Only a small quantity should be turned out at once, as they will become unsound if exposed more than an hour or two.

Store potatoes in a cool, dry place where they will get plenty of ventilation and be in the dark. Potatoes must not be allowed to freeze either before they are dug or while in storage. A good, cool, well-ventilated cellar or storm cellar forms a suitable storage place for potatoes and under proper conditions will keep through the winter and into the early summer. Another method is to bury the potatoes in a pit outdoors and cover them so that frost cannot get to them.

SOME EGG SHIPPING 'DON'TS'

Department of Agriculture Offers Few Practical Hints for Benefit of Poultrymen.

Here are some "don'ts" offered by the United States Department of Agriculture that many times mean the difference between a loss or a profit in shipping earload eggs:

Don't waste time and labor by using cheap cases; time and labor are precious.

Don't save pennies by buying poor filters and flats when you lose dollars in broken eggs. The saving of one egg would pay for the extra cost of a set of No. 1 filters.

Don't nail braces to sides of car against an incomplete top layer; they seldom hold in place and often are the cause of damage. They injure the efficiency of the car insulation. The use of small under-case braces will prevent all of this.

Don't waste ice and refrigeration by stowing the load so as to make air circulation in the car impossible.

Don't tie up your money in freight claims because of a loose load. Tie up the load and leave the money loose to work again.

IMPURITIES IN CLOVER SEED

In Recent Purchase North Carolina Farmer Finds Weed Seeds of Various Kinds.

A farmer in Rowan county, N. C., was about to purchase some clover seed last spring from one of his neighbors, preparatory to seeding down his wheat acreage. He noticed that the seed was somewhat impure, and was reminded of the warnings so frequently given by the county agent in respect to pure seed. He asked to have a small sample tested for purity by the state seed laboratory at Raleigh. The sample was reported on merely as "No. 9." Each pound was found to contain approximately 65,000 buckhorn seeds, 2,282 dodder, 2,622 wild carrot, 2,203 black-seeded plantain, 414 curled dock, 276 Venus looking-glass, 139 each of crab grass and green foxtail—a total of 83,140 weed seeds in each pound. This would, no doubt, be sufficient to seed the man's land to these pests for the next decade to the detriment of his wheat crop. Although this sample was from the county agent's office, on casual inspection it indicated only ordinary impurity. A laboratory test is a safe check even on the purest farm seeds.

Relatively Few Hens Will Prove Profitable After Their Second Laying Season.

Hens showing indication of having been good producers throughout the year should be retained for the next year regardless of their age, but relatively few hens will prove to be profitable producers beyond their second laying year if of the heavier breeds, such as the Plymouth Rock, Rhode Island Red, Wyandotte or Orpington, or beyond their third laying year if of the lighter breeds such as the Leg-horn.

SOFT ANSWER IN SWEDISH

"Explanation" That More Than Satisfied the Offended Representative of the Law.

A pretty young Swede and an American girl were crossing the Ellipse, regardless of a lettered warning to keep off the grass. A bicycle policeman wheeled up to ask if they couldn't see the sign, whereupon the American whispered to the other to answer him in Swedish. The little foreigner burst forth in excited mystifying language and the other girl chimed in with the few words of her own acquired stock. Realizing the impossibility of enforcing the law on two young and attractive aliens, the officer not only permitted them the right of way but took the trouble to point out the monument, government buildings and like public views.

When she got the chance the American girl asked her friend what she had said to the policeman—and that upholder of the law may be interested in the answer.

"Answer the question," commanded the hardhearted registrar.

"But, boss," protested Aunt Susan, "I don't like to. He's got a wife and five children."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Readers of this Paper

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it. Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble or the result of kidney or bladder disease. If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer pain in the back, headache and loss of ambition. Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be despondent; it makes any one so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine, will do for them. By enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. ## Do You Look Forward To a Good Night's Rest?

Do you regularly anticipate a refreshing sleep? Or do you dread going to bed, only to stare, sleepless, at the walls? The difference between sleeping and staring is simply a matter of nerves.

When your nervous system is in a sound condition, you are certain to sleep well. But when your nerves are worn out and beyond your control, your rest is broken and your awakening leaves you languid and irritable.

Doctors know that much of the nerve disorders result from tea and coffee drinking. The drugs in these drinks over-stimulate, often causing the serious ills which result from disturbing the regular bodily functions. It is for your health's sake that many doctors now say you should quit tea and coffee. Drink Postum, the delicious meal-time beverage instead! In flavor it is much like coffee.

Postum is fundamentally a nerve strengthener because it lets you get sound, restful sleep. Postum's carefully-made cereal beverage, and the secret of its popularity is its protection to health and its delicious flavor.

Ask your grocer for Postum. Drink this hot, refreshing beverage in place of tea or coffee for 10 days and see what a wonderful difference it will make in the way you feel.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in the) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes.

SPANISH DOUBLOONS

APOLLO.

Synopsis.—Jane Harding, respectable and conservative old spinster—but never too old to think of marriage—with more money than brains, is inveigled by a strong-minded spinster, Miss Higgleby-Browne into financing an expedition to hunt for buried treasure on Leeward Island. Her niece, Virginia Harding, learns of it by letter, makes a hasty trip to the Panama Canal and catches the steamer. She demands her aunt. "Another lunatic!" yells the captain.

CHAPTER I.—Continued.

This, then, was Miss Violet Higgleby-Browne. I saw a grim, bony, stocky shape, in a capacious costume to my aunt's. Around the edges of her cork helmet her short iron-gray hair visibly bristled. She had a massive head, and a seamed and rugged countenance which did its best to live down the humiliation of a ridiculous little nose with no bridge.

But what riveted my eyes was the deadly glare with which hers were turned on me. I saw that not only was she as certain of my identity as though she had guided me from my first tottering steps, but that in a flash she had grasped my motives, aims and purposes, and meant once for all to face, out-general and defeat me with great slaughter.

So she announced to the company with deliberation: "The Young Person is mad!"

It nettled me extremely. "Mad!" I flung back at her. "Because I wish to save my poor aunt from such a situation as this? It would be charitable to infer madness in those who have led her into it!"

When I reviewed this speech afterward I realized that it was not, under the circumstances, the best calculated to win me friends.

"Jane!" said Miss Higgleby-Browne in deep and awful tones, "the time has come to prove your strength!"

Aunt Jane proved it by uttering a shrill yell, and clutching her hair with a reckless disregard of its having originally been that of a total stranger. So severe were her shrieks and struggles that it was with difficulty that she was borne below in the arms of two strong men.

I had seen Aunt Jane in hysterics before—she had them that time about the convict. I was not frightened, but I hurried after her—neck and neck with Miss Browne. It was fifteen minutes before Aunt Jane came to, and then she would only moan. I bathed her head, and held her hand, and did all the regulation things under the baleful eye of Miss Browne, who steadfastly refused to go away, but sat glaring like a gorgon who sees her prey about to be snatched from her.

In the midst of my ministrations I awoke suddenly to a rhythmic heave and throb which pervaded the ship. Dropping Aunt Jane's hand I rushed on deck. There lay the various pieces of my baggage, and in the distance the boat with the two brown rowers was skipping shoreward over the ripples. As for the Rufus Smith, she was under way, and heading out of the roadstead for the open sea.

I dashed aft to the captain, who stood issuing orders in the voice of an aggrieved fog-horn.

"Captain!" I cried, "wait; turn around! You must put my aunt and me ashore!"

He whirled on me, showing a crimson angry face. "Turn around, is it, turn around?" he shouted. "Do you suppose I can loaf about the harbor here a-waitin' on your aunt's fits? You come aboard without me askin'. Now you can go along with the rest. This here ship has got her course set for Frisco, pickin' up Leeward Island on the way, and anybody that ain't goin' in that direction is welcome to jump overboard."

That is how I happened to go to Leeward Island.

CHAPTER II.

Apollo and Some Others.

The Rufus Smith, tramp freighter, had been chartered to convey the Harding-Browne expedition to Leeward Island, which lies about three hundred miles west of Panama, and could be picked up by the freighter in her course. She was a little dingy boat with such small accommodations that I cannot imagine where the majority of her passengers stowed themselves away. My aunt and Miss Browne had a stateroom between them the size of a packing-box, and somebody turned out and resigned another to me. I retired there to dress for dinner. In the haste of my departure from San Francisco I had not brought a trunk, so the best I was able to produce in the way of a crusher for Miss Higgleby-Browne and her fellow-passengers was a cool little white gown, which would shine at least by contrast with Miss Browne's severely utilitarian costume. White is becoming to my hair, which narrow-minded persons term "red," but which has been known to cause the more discriminating to draw heavily on the dictionary for adjectives. My face is small and heart-shaped, with features strictly for use and not for ornament, but fortunately inconspicuous. As for my eyes, I think tawny quite the nicest word, though Aunt Jane calls them hazel and I have even heard whispers of green.

Five minutes after the gong sounded I walked into the cabin. Miss Browne, Captain Watkins of the freighter, and half a dozen men were already at the table. I slid unobtrusively into the one vacant place, fortunately remote from the captain, who glared at me savagely, as though still embittered by the recollection of my aunt's fits.

"Gentlemen," said Miss Browne in icy tones, "Miss Virginia Harding."

Two of the men rose, the others stared and ducked. Except for Miss Browne and the captain, I had received on coming aboard only the most blurred impression of my fellow-voyagers. I remembered them merely as a composite of khaki and cork helmets and astounded staring faces. But I felt that as the abettors of Miss Browne's hostile and sinister atmosphere enveloped them all.

Being thus in the camp of the enemy, I sat down in silence and devoted myself to my soup. The majority of my companions did likewise—audibly. But presently I heard a voice at my left:

"I say, what a jolly good salior you seem to be—pity your aunt's lot!"

I looked up and saw Apollo sitting beside me. Or rather, shall I say a young man who might have walked out of an advertisement for a ready-made clothing house, so ideal and impossible was his beauty. He was very tall—I had to tilt my chin quite painfully to look up at him—and from the loose collar of his silk shirt his throat rose like a column. His skin was a beautiful clear pink and white just tinged with tan—like a meringue that has been in the oven for two minutes exactly. He had a straight, chiseled profile and his hair was thick and chestnut and wavy and he had clear sea-gray eyes. To give him at once his full name and titles, he was the Honorable Cuthbert Patrick Rutledge Vane, of High Staunton Manor, Kent, England. But as I was ignorant of this, I can truthfully say that his looks stunned me purely on their own merits.

"What Will She Do if She Meets a Cannibal and He Tries to Eat Her?"

Outwardly calm, I replied, "Yes, it's too bad, but then who ever dreamed that Aunt Jane would go adventuring at her time of life? I thought nobody over the age of thirteen, and then boys, ever went treasure-hunting."

"Ah, but kids of thirteen couldn't well come such a distance on their own, you know," returned Apollo, with the kindest air of making allowance for the female intellect.

I hurriedly turned the subject. "I really can't imagine Aunt Jane on a desert island. What will she do if she meets a cannibal and he tries to eat her?"

"Oh, really, now," argued the paragon earnestly, "I'm quite sure there's no danger of that, don't you know? I believe there are no natives at all on the island, or else quite tame ones, I forget which, and there are four of us chaps, with no end of revolvers and things. Mr. Shaw—sitting opposite Miss Browne, you know—is rather running things, so if you feel nervous you should talk to him. Was with the South Polar expedition and all that—knows no end about this sort of thing—wouldn't for a moment think of letting ladies run the risk of being eaten."

I peeped around Apollo for a glimpse of the experienced Mr. Shaw. I saw a strong-featured, weather-beaten profile, the face of a man somewhere in his thirties, and looking from this side view at least, not only stern but grim.

I made up my mind at once that the backbone of the party, and inevitably the leader in its projected villainies, whatever they might be, was this rugged-looking Mr. Shaw. You couldn't fancy him as the misled follower of anybody, even the terrible Violet.

As it seemed an unpropitious moment for taking counsel with Mr. Shaw about cannibals, I tried another tack with the beautiful youth at my side.

"How did you like Panama?" I fancy the old town is very picturesque."

"Oh, rather!" assented Mr. Vane.

"At least, that is what those painter chaps call it—met a couple of 'em at the hotel. Beautiful little narrow streets and houses in a shocking state and all that. I like to see property kept up, myself."

"I am afraid," I said severely, "that you are a philistine!"

He blinked a little. "Ah—quite so!" he murmured, recovering himself gallantly. "One of those chaps that backed Gollath against David, what?"

From this conversational impasse we were rescued by the interposition of the gentleman opposite, whose small twinkling eyes had been taking me in with intentness.

"I did some dittin' about that little old burg on my own hook," he informed us, "and what I got to say is, it needs wakin' up. I might have took a hand in it myself. If I hadn't have met up with Miss Browne and your aunt. Yes, sir, I had a sick little proposition or two up my sleeve. Backed by some of the biggest capital in the U. S. A.—in fact, there's a bunch of fellows up there in God's country that's pretty sore on old H. H. for passin' things up this way. Kept the wives humbly for two-three days, till they seen I wasn't to be switched, and then the Old Man himself—no use mentionin' names, but I guess you know who I mean—Wall Street would, quick enough, anyway—they Old Man himself threatened to put his yacht in commission and come down to find out what sort of little game H. H. was playin' on him. But I done like Br'er Rabbit—jest lay low. Hamilton H. Tubbs knows a good thing when he sees it about as quick as the next one—and he knows enough to keep mum about it, too!"

Three or four rough-looking men, of whom one, a certain Captain Magnus, belonged to our party, and the rest to the ship, continued vigorously to hack their way through the meal with clattering knives and forks. Of other sounds there was none. Such gloom weighed heavily on the genial spirit of Mr. Tubbs, and he lightened it by rising to propose a toast.

"Ladies and gentlemen, to her now unfortunately laid low by the pangs of mal de mer—our friend and bonny dear, Miss Harding!"

This was bewildering, for neither by friend, nor foe could Aunt Jane be called upon. Later in the light of Mr. Tubbs's passion for classical allusion, I decided to translate it bona dea, and consider the family complimented. At the moment I sat stunned, but Miss Browne, with greater self-possession, majestically inclined her head and said:

"In the name of our absent friend, I thank you."

In spite of wistful looks from the beautiful youth as we rose from the table, and the allurement of a tropic moon, I remained constant to duty and Aunt Jane, and immured myself in her stateroom, where I passed an evil-smelling evening listening to her moans. She showed a faint returning spark of life when I mentioned Cuthbert Vane, and raised her head to murmur that he was Honorable and she understood though not the heir, still likely to inherit and perhaps after all Providence—

The unspoken end of Aunt Jane's sentence pursued me into dreams in which an unknown gentleman obligingly broke his neck riding to hounds and left Apollo heir to the title and estates.

"I say, Miss Harding, you're bound to like Shaw. No end—"

Has Light of 500 Million Candles. A one-half billion candlepower searchlight, the most powerful in the world, whose rays can be seen for 70 miles, has just been received at San Francisco, where it will be installed on Mount Tamalpais, at the entrance to the Golden Gate.

The light is ten feet high, weighs nearly three tons and has a 60-inch lens. A man standing ten miles from the light could read a newspaper. Ten feet away he would be able to light a cigar by means of it. A citizens' committee of San Francisco is arranging for the searchlight, which will shoot its rays out across the Pacific ocean and give the first indication to incoming steamships that land is near. W. D. A. Ryan, the illuminating engineer who lighted the Panama Pacific International exposition, first suggested the use of the light to stand as a sentinel at the Golden Gate.

Sold Gun Illegally

Two men, arrested three weeks ago in Ann Arbor on a charge of illegally selling a gun, pleaded guilty in circuit court Friday morning and were sentenced. Frank McDonald of Chicago was arraigned first, and claimed that his rights as a citizen had not been respected.

He claimed that he was in the jail over two weeks before he was allowed to confer with counsel. Asked if he had been abused in any way, he replied that he hadn't. He pleaded for another chance, and said that he had sold the gun in order to purchase food until he could obtain work.

It was claimed that his actions with other prisoners at the jail since his incarceration warranted a prison sentence, and Judge Sample sentenced him to a term of from six months to one year at Jackson prison, with a recommendation of six months.

His companion, George Gordon, also of Chicago, was placed on probation for three years, with the condition that he remain out of Michigan and report to officials here each month.
