RESIDENT OF CHELSEA FOR NEARLY FIFTY-FIVE YEARS

Christopher Klein was born in Dancoe, Mecklenburg-Schwarzen, Germany, February, 1840, and died at his home on South Main street, Wednesday, October 19, 1921.

Mr. Klein came to Detroit at the age of 16 years, with a married sister, and made his home in that city for 10 years. He was united in marriage with Miss Catherine Keusch, daughter of Michael and Catherine Keusch, in 1865, and they came to Chelsea, April 13, 1867. This has been the family home since that date. Mrs. Klein died March 24, 1874. His second marriage was with
Mrs. Mary Spath in 1876, and Mrs.
Klein died January, 1907.

Mr. Klein was engaged in business in Chelsea from the time he came here until he retired in 1895. When the Kempf Commercial & Savings Bank was organized in February, 1898, he was chosen a member of the board of directors, and has been on the board since that time and since the death of C. Kempf, he had also been vice president of the bank.

Mr. Klein was a charter member of Arbeiter Verein here, and the last surviving member of the original organizers of the society which was formed over 50 years ago. For many years he was a delegate from here
to the state meetings of the society.

He is survived by two sons, Lewis
F., of Chelsea, Julius M., of St.
Louis, Mo., two daughters, Miss Ida
T. Klein, of Chelsea, Mrs. Ignatius
Howe, of Jackson, two grandchildren, Miss Mary C. and Edward Howe, of Jackson, several brothers and sisters who reside in his native town in Germany, one nephew and five niece who reside in Tuscola county.

The funeral will be held in St.
Mary church, Saturday morning, Rev. Fr. VanDyke conducting the services. Interment in Mt. Olivet cemetery.

County Treasurer's Report.

County Treasurer Mabel E. Blum presented her report covering the period from January 1, 1921, to Ocvisors during the Thursday morning session. Supervisors visited the county farm in the afternoon on a port, the following sums were expended during the period mentioned:

listed as totaling $18,194.54, against the above balance. Mrs. Blum presented her bill for extra compensation for collecting, recording and filling dog licenses for the year 1921.

According to her bill, 3,081 dogs

service was ten cents each, or a total

visor Cook of Ypsilanti the report proper committee.

Chandler-Turnbull Wedding.

The marriage of Miss Esther A.
Chandler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
E. H. Chandler, and Mr. George W.
Turnbull, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. B.
Turnbull, took place in the First Congregational church, of Woodward avenue, Detroit, on Saturday, October 15, 1921, Rev. G. Glen Atkins conducting the services.

The couple were attended by Miss Grace Schenk and Mr. Carl Chandler, brother of the bride.

The bride is a graduate of the Chelsea high school and for a year
she was a member of a nurses' training class in one of the hospitals in Ann Arbor. The bridegroom is also a graduate of the Chelsea high school, was attending the U. of M.
when he entered the U. S. army and served some time with the A. E. F. overseas.

Mr. and Mrs. Turnbull will make their home in Detroit.

Washtenaw's First Hotelkeeper.

Not long ago we noticed the remarks about the Old Washtenaw House in "lower town" Ann Arbor, and the date when built, 1832.

Jay Everett's father must have been the first keeper of that tavern
as he held that position and in 1833
moved to Sharon township.

He took up government land,
which is the old Everett farm on the Manchester road, the most of which is now owned by a grandson, Henry L. Everett.

Jay Everett spent a quiet birthday at home, October 2, when he was ninety-four years old. His hearing is good, but eye sight very poor.
Snushiny days he enjoys walking out in the garden and yard but never alone, as his cane, his best friend, is his close companion. He is always glad to see his old friends.

Lucht-Merkel Wedding.

A very quiet wedding was solemnized by the Rev. Fr. James Cahalan, of Ann Arbor, Thursday, October 13,
when Miss Rosa Lucht, of Four Mile Lake, was united in marriage to Mr. Henry Frank-Merkel, of Chelsea.

The bride wore a gown of blue canton crepe with hat to match.

Miss Bertha Merkel, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, and Ferdinand Merkel was best man.

Mrs. Merkel graduated from the Chelsea high school and has been a very successful teacher in the rural schools.

Immediately after the wedding ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Merkel left on a trip to Niagara Falls and other eastern points. They will make their future home in Chelsea.

BANDITS CONVICTED AND SENTENCED TO PRISON

Two of the Italian gunmen who were charged with the murder of George Burg and his hired man, Henry Volmer, near Saline, last summer, have been convicted and taken to prisons, where they have commenced to serve their sentences.

Sam Mocerri, who was the first one tried, was found guilty of first degree murder and was sentenced to life imprisonment in Marquette prison in solitary confinement. A rather dramatic scene followed the announcement of the jury of their verdict, when an aunt of the convicted man called upon the almighty God to curse the members of the jury and the court officials and that the family would yet get all of them, even if they had to sell off their property to get means.
Mocerri was taken to Marquette
Monday.

Tony Spino was convicted of the murder of George Burg Friday,
and was sentenced by Judge Sample to life imprisonment at Jackson prison, at hard labor. His attorney did not put in any defense, and as Spino had admitted being present
when Burg and Volmer were killed, at the trial of Mocerri, his defense
would have been rather a slim one if his attorney had attempted to have cleared the man of the charge upon which he was convicted. Spino was taken to Jackson prison Saturday to begin his sentence.

The third man connected with the murder of Burg and Volmer, Peter Orlando, will be tried at the December term of the circuit court. Orlando was the owner of the automobile that carried the gunmen from Detroit to the Burg farm in Saline, and the principal witness that led to the conviction of Mocerri and Spino. One of the reasons for the putting off the trial of Orlando is in hopes that the other three men who made their get away may be captured, and the testimony of Orlando will lead to their conviction.
From all of the evidence so far presented, Orlando was not in the barn when the crime was committed but was in his auto and when the men left the barn, headed his car for Detroit at a breakneck pace.

One of the principal witnesses for the prosecution was the motorman on a D. U. R. at Saline, who took down the license number of the car after important witnesses were members of the Detroit police department who made the arrest of the three men.

It is hoped that the other men will be captured, and if found guilty, dealt with in the same way that the other men were. This is the only course to take with such characters if the public at large is to be protected, and the prosecution is to be complimented for their action.

Brednut is simply astonishing in taste, richness and texture. Everybody in your family will think it is fresh creamery butter. Nothing but the choicest butter fresh from the churn can equal it. Nobody can tell it from the most expensive cow butter.

Nothing like Brednut ever made before. Its remarkable flavor is the result of twenty years' experience in the manufacture of nut butter. Its surpassing richness is due to selected cocoanut cream and special pasteurized milk. Its butter-like texture cannot be duplicated—only the Brednut process, Brednut equipment, and Brednut care can produce it.

Brednut contains the same body-building and strength-building elements as creamery butter. It is unsurpassed for young and old. Children thrive on bread and Brednut. It makes the ideal spread for bread.

Brednut is wholesome—easy to digest. Contains no animal fat. Is pure and clean. Nothing more appetizing can be put on your table.

Yet Brednut with all its fresh creamery butter qualities costs you no more than ordinary nut butter. It gives you all the satisfaction of using the most expensive creamery butter on your table and in your cooking but at a fraction of creamery butter cost.

A Hard-Hearted Bishop.
An American divine, who has spent some time in Britain, tells of an English clergyman who once applied to his bishop for a living, saying that he would prefer an English benefice to one in Wales. The bishop demanded the reason for this preference, and the chaplain made reply:
"I should prefer an English living, since my wife does not speak Welsh."
"Your wife, sir? What has that got to do with it? She does not preach, does she?"
"No, my lord," replied the parson, "but she lectures."

Record Rainfall in Panama.
When 2.47 inches of rain fell in three minutes at Porto Bello, Panama, during the night of November 29, 1911, it was the heaviest rainfall ever recorded. This rainfall exceeded by 300 per cent the rate measured at Curacao, Arges, Roumania, in July, 1883, heretofore held to be the world's record, says H. C. Kael of the United States weather bureau.

So great was the Panama rainfall that all the conditions under which it was measured were carefully examined, in order that there might be no question as to the accuracy of the record. It was found that the circumstances corroborated the testimony of the recording instruments.

When it is remembered that in the United States 0.25 inch of rain in five minutes is considered excessive, the magnitude of the Porto Bello down-pour can be imagined.

Synopsis.—Jane Harding, respectable and conservative old spinster—but never too old to think of marriage—with more money than brains, is inveigled by a strong-minded spinster, Miss Higgleby-Browne into financing an expedition to hunt for buried treasure on Lizard Island. Her niece, Virginia Harding, undertaking to stop her, gets on the vessel engaged for the hunt, and in the confusion is unwillingly carried along. By no means concealing her distaste for the expedition and her contempt for its members, Virginia makes the acquaintance of the Honorable Cuthbert Vane.

CHAPTER III.I Engage the Enemy.

It was fortunate that I slept well in my narrow berth on board the Itufus Smith, for the next day was one of trial. Aunt Jane had recovered what Mr. Tubbs, with deprecating coughs behind his hand, alluded to as her sea-legs, and staggered forth wanly, leaning on the arm of Miss Higgleby-Browne. Yes, of Miss Browne, while I, Aunt Jane's own niece, trotted meekly in the rear with a cushion. Already I had begun to realize how fatally I had underrated the lady of the byphen, in imagining I had only to come and see and conquer Aunt Jane. The grim and bony one had made my while the sun shone—while I was idling in California, and those criminally supine cousins were allowing Aunt Jane to run about New York at her own wild will. Miss Higgleby-Browne had her own collar and tag on Aunt Jane now, while she, so complete was her perversion, fairly hugged her slavery and called it freedom. Yes, she talked about her emancipation and her soul-force and her individuality, prattling away like a child that has learned its lesson well. "Mercy, aunt, what long words!" I cried gaily, sitting down beside her and patting her hand. Usually I can do anything with her when I get her up a bit. But the eye of Miss Higgleby-Browne was on her—and Aunt Jane actually drew a little away.

"Really, Virginia," she said, feebly endeavoring to rise to the occasion as she knew Miss Browne would have her rise, "really, while it's very nice to see you and all that, still I hope you realize that I have had a—deep Soul-experience, and that I am no longer to be trifled with and—prented as if I were—amusing. I am at a loss to imagine why you came. I wrote you that I was in the company of trusted friends."

"Friends?" I echoed aggrievedly. "Friends are all very well, of course, but when you and I have just each other, aunt, I think it is unkind of you to expect me to stay thousands of miles away from you all by myself."
"But it was you who sent me to New York, and insisted on my staying there!" she cried. Evidently she had been living over her wrongs.
"Yes—but how different!" I interrupted hastily. "There were the cousins—of course I have to spare you sometimes to the rest of the family!" Aunt Jane is strong on family feeling, and frequently reproaches me with my lack of it.

But in expecting Aunt Jane to soften at this, I reckoned without Miss Higgleby-Browne. A dart from the cold gray eyes galvanized my aunt into a sudden rigid alertness.
"My dear Virginia," she said with quivering severity, "let me remind you that there are ties even dearer than those of blood—affinities, you know, and—ah, in short, in my dear friend Miss Higgleby-Browne I have met for the first time in my life with a—Sympathetic Intelligence that understands me!"

So that was Violet's idea! I surveyed the Sympathetic Intelligence with a smiling interest.
"Really, how nice! And of course you feel quite sure that on your side you thoroughly understand—Miss Higgleby-Browne?"

Miss Browne's hair was rather like a clothbrush in her mildest moods. In her rising wrath it seemed to quiver like a lion's mane.
"Miss Harding," she said, in the chest-tones she reserved for critical moments, "has a nature impossible to deceive, because itself incapable of deception. Miss Harding and I first met—on this plane—in an atmosphere unusually favorable to soul-revelation. I knew at once that here was the appointed comrade, while in Miss Harding there was the immediate recognition of a complementary spiritual force."

"It's perfectly true, Virginia," exclaimed Aunt Jane, beginning to cry. "You and Susan and everybody have always treated me as if I were a child and didn't know what I wanted, when the fact is I always have known perfectly well!" The last words issued in a wail from the depths of her handkerchief.

"You mean, I suppose," I exploded, "that what you have always wanted was to go off on this perfectly crazy chase after imaginary treasure!" There, now I had gone and done it. Of course it was my red hair.

"Jane," uttered Miss Higgleby-Browne in deep and awful tones, "do you or do you not realize how strangely prophetic were the warnings I gave you from the first—that if you revealed our plans malignant influences would be brought to bear? Be strong, Jane—cling to the Dynamic Thought!"
"I'm clinging!" sniffed Aunt Jane, dabbing away her tears. "Really, Virginia," she broke out in a whisper, "it is not kind to say, I suppose, but I would just as soon you hadn't come! Just when I was learning to expand my individuality—and then you come and somehow make it seem so much more difficult!"

I rose. "Very well, Aunt Jane," I said, coldly. "Expand all you like. When you get to the bursting point I'll do my best to save the pieces. For the present I suppose I had better leave you to company so much more favorable to your soul development!" And I walked away with my head in the air.

It was so rufus in the air, and the deck of the Itufus Smith was so unstable, that I fell over a coil of rope and fetched up in the arms of the Honorable Cuthbert Vane. Fortunately this occurred around the corner of the deck-house, out of sight of my aunt and Miss Browne, so the latter was unable to shed the lurid light on the episode which she doubtless would if she had seen it. Mr. Vane stood the shock well and promptly set me on my feet.

"I say!" he exclaimed sympathetically, "not hurt, are you? Bestly nuisance, you know, these ropes lying about—regular man-traps, I call 'em."
"Thanks, I'm quite all right," I said, and as I spoke two large genuine tears welled up into my eyes. I hadn't realized till I felt them smarting on my eyelids how deeply hurt I was at the unnatural behavior of Aunt Jane.

"Ah—I'm afraid you are really not quite all right!" returned the Honorable Cuthbert with profound concern. "Tell me what's the matter—please do!"

I shook my head. "It's nothing—you couldn't help me. It's just—Aunt Jane. She has let this awful Higgleby-Browne person get possession of her, body and soul!"

"Oh, I say, aren't you a bit rough on Miss Browne? Thought she was a rather remarkable old party—goes in strong for intellect and all that, you know."
"That's just what fooled Aunt Jane so—but I thought a man would know better." My feathers were ruffled again.
"Well, fact is, I'm not so much up in that sort of thing myself," he admitted modestly. "Rather took her word for it and all that, you know. There's Shaw, though—cleverest chap going, I assure you. I rather fancy Miss Browne couldn't pull the wool over his eyes much."

"She evidently did, though," I said snappishly, "since he's let her rope him in for such a wild goose chase as this!"

"Oh, really, now, Miss Harding, you don't think it's that—that the thing's all moonshine?"

"Why, what else can it be?" I demanded, driven by my wrongs to the cruelty of slandering his illusions. "Who ever heard of a pirate's treasure that wasn't moonshine? The moment I had read Aunt Jane's letter telling of the perfectly absurd business she was setting out on I rushed down by the first boat. Of course I meant to take her back with me, to put a stop to all this madness; but I was too late—and you are glad of it, I dare say!"

"I can't help being glad, you know," he replied, the color rising to his innocent cheeks. "It's so frightfully funny having you alone. Only I'm sorry you came against your will. Rather fancy you had it in your head that we were a band of cutthroats, eh? Well, the fact is I don't know much about the two chaps Miss Browne picked up, though I suspect they are a very decent sort. That odd fish, Captain Magnus, now—he was quite Miss Browne's own kind. I assure you. And as to old H. F. Tubbs, you know—Miss Browne met up with him on the boat coming down. The run old chap got on her soft side somehow, and first thing she had appointed him secretary and treasurer—as though we were a meeting of something. Shaw was quite a bit upset about it. I say, Miss Harding, you're bound to like Shaw no end when you know him—he's such a wonderfully clever chap!"

I had no wish to blight his faith in the superlative Mr. Shaw, and said nothing. This evidently pleased him, and he continued to sound the praises of his idol. It seemed that as soon as Miss Browne had beguiled Aunt Jane into financing her scheme—a feat equivalent to robbing an infant-class scholar of his Sunday school diploma—she had cast about for a worthy leader for the forthcoming Harding-Browne expedition. All the winds of fame were bearing abroad just then the name of a certain young explorer who had lately added another continent or two to the British empire. Linked with his were other names, those of fellow adventurers, which shone only less brightly than that of their chief. One Dugald Shaw had been among the great man's most trusted lieutenants, but now, on the organization of the second expedition, he was left behind in London, only half recovered of a wound received in the Antarctic. His old companions had taken again the path of glory, and were far on their way back to the ice-fields of the South pole. Only Dugald Shaw was left behind.

"And so," the even voice flowed on, "when I ran on to him in London he was feeling fearfully low. I do assure you. A chap of his sort naturally hates to think he's on the shelf."
"Well, old Shaw was fancying there was nothing for it but to go back to his place with the P. & O., which seemed a bit flat after what he'd been having, and meant he would never get beyond being the captain of a liner, and not that for a good many years to come, when a cable came from this Miss Higgleby-Browne offering him command of this expedition. Ah, neither of us had ever heard of Miss Higgleby-Browne, we were a bit floored for a time. But Shaw smoked a pipe on it, and then he said, 'Old chap, if they will give me my figure, I'm their man.' And I said, 'Quite so, old chap, and I'll go along, too.'"

"I had to argue quite a bit, but in the end the dear old boy let me come—after wiring the pater and what not. And I do assure you, Miss Harding, it strikes me as no end of a lark—besides expecting it to put old Shaw on his feet and give us huffus of money all round."

Well, it was a plausible story, and I had no doubt, so far as the Honorable Cuthbert was concerned, an absolutely truthful one. The beautiful youth was manifestly as guileless as a small boy playing pirate with a wooden sword. But as to Mr. Shaw, who could tell that it hadn't after all been a trumped-up affair between Miss Browne and him—that his surprise at the message was not assumed to throw dust in the eyes of his young and trusting friend? So great was my faith in Aunt Jane's gullibility, so dark my distrust of Miss Browne, that all connected with the enterprise lay under the cloud of my suspicion. Mr. Shaw, after even a casual glimpse of him, one couldn't picture as a victim. I felt that he must have gone into the enterprise with his eyes wide open to its absurdity, and fully aware that the only gold to be won by anybody must come out of the pocket of Aunt Jane.

As these reflections passed through my mind I looked up and saw the subject of them approaching. He lifted his helmet, but met my eyes unsmilingly, with a sort of sober scrutiny. He had the tanned skin of a sailor, and brown hair cropped close and showing a trace of gray. This and a certain dour grim look he had made me at first consider him quite middle-aged, though I knew later that he was not yet thirty-five. As to the grimeless, perhaps, I unwillingly conceded, part of it was due to a scar which seemed the right temple to the eyebrow, in a straight line.

He was welcomed by Mr. Vane with a joyous thump on the shoulder-blade. "I say, old man, Miss Harding has turned out to be the most fearful doubting Thomas—thinks the whole scheme quite mad and all that sort of thing."

"Yes, but Columbus did not invade a convincing old lady to go along with him."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)A Conundrum.

"Father," said a little boy thoughtfully, as he watched his parent collect his notes and arrange the slides for a parish entertainment, "why is it that when you spend your holiday in the Holy land you always give a lantern lecture on it? You never do when you have been to Paris!"—London Morning Post.

MOTHER! OPENCHILD'S BOWELS WITH CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP

Your little one will love the "fruit" taste of "California Fig Syrup" even if constipated, bilious, irritable, feverish, or full of cold. A teaspoonful never fails to cleanse the liver and bowels in a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the sour bile, and undigested food out of the bowels and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup," which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.—Advertisement.

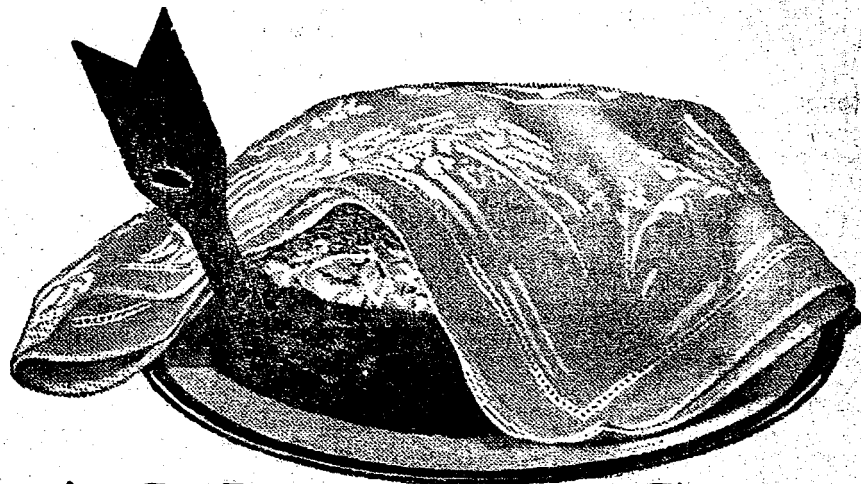

ARE MANY KINDS OF SALMON

Bureau of Fisheries, in Report on Pacific Fisheries, Lists Large Number of Varieties.

Salmon is salmon to most persons, but there are many kinds of salmon to those who know a "hawk from a hand-saw" and a salmon from a salmon. The bureau of fisheries, in a report on Pacific salmon fisheries, lists the following Pacific species of the renowned fish. Chinook, quinnat or king salmon; humpback or pink salmon; dog or chum salmon; sockeye blue-back or red salmon; silver or coho salmon, and steel-head trout. All these salmon, with the exception of the steel-head, are included in the genus "oncorhynchus," and that tough-looking word is made up of the Greek word "onkes," meaning a barb or a hook, and another Greek word "rynchus," meaning a snout, so that genus of fish is distinguished by a "hook snout." The steel-head trout, classed as a salmon, belongs to a closely related genus called "salmo," which is a word probably derived from the Celtic and the significance of which is disputed.

Some women jump to conclusions because they want to see how the story is going to end.

Kids Spurn Gifts of Pennies.

Once upon a time children would be glad to get a penny or two a day from their parents. Today, as any mother will tell you, nothing less than a nickel measures up to their standards of daily needs. It is usually 6 cents.

"Aw wunday want?" exclaimed little Johnny the other day when his mother forgot herself and offered him 2 cents. "How da ya 'spect a feller to get anything for a couple cents? The cheapest ice-cream cone in Cheap Joe's is a nickel, an' I can't go to the movies for less'n 11 cents. An', anyway, ain't dad makin' more money than he uster?"—New York Sun.

Convincing Evidence.

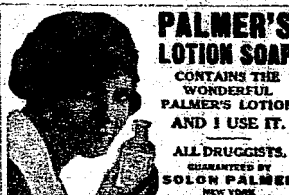

Seven-year-old Sammy had so great a capacity for griddle cakes that he was a marvel to the family.

"Have you ever in your life had all you could eat?" asked the grandfather one day.

"Yes, sir," said Sammy. "Lots of times."

"How do you know when that time comes?"

"Why, I eat and eat until I feel a pain, and then I eat one more to make sure."—Harper's Magazine.

BREVITIES

Pinckney—The clocks of this village are to be turned back one hour Saturday, October 29.

Grass Lake—The mystery deepens in the disappearance of De Vere Carter. Nothing has been heard from him and no good reason has been found for his going away.—News.

Howell—The board of supervisors are in session this week. The board is faced with a large tax to be spread against their constituents. The board of supervisors however are not to blame. So don't place the mistake you made on the board of supervisors.—Democrat.

Manchester—Farmers are trying to protect the few pheasants, quail, etc., that have been living on their farms the past summer, from the strange gun-toter who shoots everything at sight, regardless of the law. They are posting notices, prohibiting trespassing on their lands.—Enterprise.

Jackson—Through the efforts of Supervisor Howell the board offers $1,000 reward for the arrest of the murderer of Louis Woloshen, the Cooper street merchant, who was shot to death the night of September 10. Little effort has apparently been made to apprehend the cowardly murderer.—Saturday Evening Star.

Ypsilanti—Mrs. William Maxwell on Thursday withdrew a complaint against her father, Austin Lucas, in which she had charged him of incest. The complaint was signed by Mrs. Maxwell against her father after the latter had William Maxwell arrested on a charge of perjury in securing a marriage license. The case against Maxwell was dismissed two weeks ago by the prosecuting attorney.

Brighton—The fire bell roused a large part of town Sunday night about twelve o'clock when it was discovered that Will Jarvis' barn was burning. The barn was all ablaze before it was discovered and nothing could save it. A Ford touring car burned with it. The fire appeared to have started in the west end, opposite the car, and the cause was not known. There was insurance on the barn but not on the car.—Argus.

Dexter—Eightieth anniversary services will be held at the Methodist Episcopal church of Dexter next week, the celebration starting Sunday, October 23, and extending through the following Sunday. Rev. J. Albert Phillips, pastor of the church, is in charge of the plans for the celebration and expects several hundred people at some of the larger meetings during the home coming week. A special history of the church and town has been prepared under his direction and will be read at the celebration.

Plymouth—Stabbed to death as he slept in a hotel here, the body of Sam Perrone, 32, was found Sunday after his roommate, Joseph Russo, 25, was taken into custody in Toledo as a suspicious character and told the officers there, it is alleged, that he had slain Perrone. Hotel guests and Plymouth officials knew nothing of the slaying until Toledo officers communicated Russo's story to them and asked for verification. Perrone was a single man employed as a section hand on the railroad here and had lived in Plymouth about seven years. Russo also is single, worked with Perrone and roomed with him for about two years.

Stockbridge—The school here was closed Monday for two weeks, owing to the diphtheria epidemic. There are some eight or ten cases, but none are regarded as serious. It is hoped at the end of two weeks all danger of further spread of the disease will be over. One death occurred Sunday, the victim being Howard Crego, 13 years old son of John Crego. The boy was going home Friday previous on his bicycle, when he suddenly fell from the wheel, ill. He was taken home and the progress of the dread disease was rapid. Two other deaths have occurred here since the first case some six weeks ago, but in both instances the disease was aggravated by exposure.

Jackson—Farmers own the land along the side of the road in the country and have a right to cultivate that land out to the traveled portion. To take nuts, berries, fruit and anything else growing along the side of the road is trespassing and stealing. To take a bushel of nuts from a tree along the roadside is an offense of the same sort as it would be to go into a farmer's field and steal corn or other produce. A number of complaints have been made that people from the city help themselves to anything along the road. Most of the streets in town belong to the city and the city has deeds to them but it is different in the country according to attorneys.—News.

Ann Arbor—Charging that Andrew J. Sawyer, Jr., attorney at law, has been guilty of unprofessional and unlawful conduct in the practice of law and asking that he be disbarred from further practice in this county, a committee from the Washtenaw Bar association, composed of Arthur Brown, Victor H. Lane and Victor VanAmeringen, has laid its charges before Circuit Judge Charles B. Coltingwood of Lansing who has issued a summons to Mr. Sawyer to appear and answer the charges. The summons was served on Mr. Sawyer Wednesday evening. The charges, which were filed in the county clerk's office cite several instances in which Mr. Sawyer is said to have used unlawful means while practicing law.—Times News.

Cancer Toll For State.

Cancer, which killed 3,109 people in Michigan in 1920, was the cause of 232 deaths in the second congressional district outside of Wayne county, according to statistics compiled by the state department of health for Dr. John A. Wessinger of Ann Arbor, district chairman of the American Society for the Control of Cancer, for use during "National Cancer Week" from October 30 to November 5.

This number of deaths corresponds to a cancer death rate for the district of 136.4 per 100,000 population. The average cancer death rate for the state in 1920 was 83.3; for the first 8 months of 1921 it averaged 85.6.

Contrasted to this is the state tuberculosis death rate for 1921 of 79.9. Tuberculosis, it is pointed out, attacks its victims from infancy to old age; cancer, however, finds 92.3 per cent of its victims among persons more than 40 years of age, only 7.7 per cent of all cancer deaths occurring among younger persons.

Of the 232 deaths reported in the second congressional district cancer of the stomach and liver caused 109 deaths, cancer of the intestines 42, of the female genital organs 37, of the breast 25, of the mouth 18, of the skin 3, and of other organs 48.

"Any disease which kills as many people as cancer, confining its ravages generally to a small group, deserves the most serious consideration of the medical profession and the public," comments Dr. R. M. Olin, commissioner of health.

"Thirty years ago," says Dr. Olin, "early signs of appendicitis were little recognized and the mortality from the affection was great. This generation has seen appendicitis controlled by early examination, diagnosis and treatment. Is it too much to hope that similar control of many forms of cancer will be effected as soon as the public realizes the imperative need of early diagnosis and treatment?"

Special Offers Introducing Brednot, the New Nut Butter, to the Readers of This Paper.

Brednot is the result of twenty years' experience in the manufacture of nut butter. It is the final work of an expert who has been responsible for most of the other nut butters now on the market and it therefore is the finest product of the kind that has ever been perfected.

Brednot is not intended to be merely a substitute for butter. It is better than butter in a great many ways. It is absolutely uniform in quality; it is made in a faultlessly clean factory under Government supervision; it is made only of the choicest vegetable products, the cream of selected coconuts being its chief ingredient. In texture, flavor, richness and appearance on the table, not even experts can distinguish it from the choicest, freshest creamery butter. Only 10 per cent of all the creamery butter that is produced can equal Brednot in the qualities required for a perfect butter spread.

Brednot is sold on a strictly money back guarantee. Any package that is not entirely satisfactory may be returned and the price will be refunded. The manufacturers run no risk in making this guarantee because Brednot is churned fresh daily and stays fresh long enough for even the smallest family to use a pound.

To induce every housekeeper in this vicinity, whether she has been using creamery butter, country butter, nut butter or oleomargarine to try Brednot, all dealers handling this product are making a special offer of a pound of Brednot for 24 cents and introductory coupon, which the dealer will supply on request. This coupon offer is good only until October 29, 1921. We therefore suggest that you ask your dealer at once for one of these coupons and secure a pound of Brednot at the special introductory price.

So that housekeepers will give Brednot a thorough trial, dealers also are authorized to present a pound of Brednot free of charge to every customer who turns in five empty Brednot cartons. This offer is good until November 26, 1921. It thus enables every housekeeper to secure at least one free pound of Brednot. Homes where a great deal of butter is used will have the opportunity of securing two or more free pounds of Brednot within the time specified. A free pound will be given for every five empty cartons turned in to the dealer.

Every reader of this paper should be sure to take advantage of these two remarkable offers. These offers in themselves indicate how much confidence the manufacturer has in his product and how good a product it must be.

A CHELSEA INTERVIEW

Mr. Hyzer Tells His Experience. The following brief account of an interview with a Chelsea man seven years ago, and its sequel, will be read with keen interest by every citizen.

Chas. Hyzer, Madison street, Chelsea, says: "Several years ago while living in Ypsilanti, I was a sufferer from kidney trouble and backache. Sharp, shooting pains through my kidneys made work a burden. If I stooped I could hardly straighten again. Finally a friend who had used Doan's Kidney Pills with good results told me to try them and after using them I soon received relief. Three boxes cured me. I am glad to say Doan's are a fine remedy."

Mr. Hyzer gave the above statement March 1, 1915 and on April 27, 1920, he added: "I am glad to again recommend Doan's Kidney Pills and confirm my statement which I gave in 1915, regarding the merits of this remedy. The cure they made for me at that time has remained permanent."

This is the Stove Polish YOU Should Use

It's different from others because more care is taken in the making and the materials used are of higher grade.

Black Silk Stove Polish

Makes a brilliant, silky polish that does not rub off or crust off, and the shine lasts four times as long as ordinary stove polish. Used on enamel stoves and sold by hardware and grocery stores. If you don't find it in the store, write to us and your dealer is authorized to refund your money. It's no equal for stove polish. Made in U.S.A. or made in U.S.A.

Despite her advancing years, Mrs. Rowe is well preserved, both mentally and physically, and during the many years of her residence in this community, her bright cheerful disposition and sterling Christian character have won for her a host of friends.

After a short program, consisting of Bible reading, song, and prayer, the reading of an appropriate poem by Mrs. Carl Eitel, Mrs. H. Gieske, in behalf of the guests, presented to Mrs. Rowe a pretty flowering plant.

As the ladies came with well filled baskets, a bounteous luncheon was served. After several hours of pleasant social intercourse, all wended their way homeward, wishing Mrs. Rowe many happy returns of the day.
