Mr. Foster, who is Chelsea's oldest resident, familiarly known as "Uncle Robert," was born 97 years ago, January 26, in Stanfield, Lincolnshire, England, his parents being George and Elizabeth Smith Foster.

He was of a family of 13 children. The only school he ever attended was the Robert Raikes Sunday school in England, where he was taught to read. When he was seven years old he went to work as a shepherd boy, and at the age of ten was hired out as a common farm laborer.

When 19 years of age, he came to America, landing in New York May 21, 1844, making the trip in 35 days. Shortly after his arrival in company with two friends, he walked to Pittsburgh, in search of work, going by what is now the Lincoln highway.

Not finding what they wanted they returned to New York where Mr. Foster remained for three years.

In 1847 he came to Michigan with an uncle, Thomas Foster. They first went to Lyndon to the home of James Rowe, father of the late George Rowe, who lived on the farm now owned by C. A. Rowe. After a short visit Mr. Foster moved to Davison, a little settlement about one and a half miles west of the present site of Chelsea.

There he remained for nearly two years, until the place was destroyed by fire. Shortly afterwards Ellisha Congdon erected the first building in this village.

For several years Mr. Foster worked on the Michigan Central railroad, which was then new. At this time strap rails were in use and his work was the changing of these to the trails, the ends of which came together in a sort of pocket, and were fastened with wooden spikes.
In 1849 he was united in marriage to Miss Martha Dewey. After his marriage he worked for farmers, and was one of the best sheep shearers in the country.

Later he bought a farm one mile north of Chelsea, which was their home until the death of Mrs. Foster, July 1, 1902. Shortly afterwards, Mr. Foster and his daughter, Miss Lillian, came to Chelsea, where they have since resided.

For over 54 years Mr. Foster has been a devoted member of the Methodist church, having held nearly every official position, and only age compelled him to withdraw from official life.

Of a family of nine children he has eight still living. They are George H. Clarence A., Charles E., and Schuyler P., Mrs. W. K. Guerin and Miss Lillian Foster of Chelsea; Mrs. Gertrude Hammond of Owosso, and Mrs. Charles Hoover of Rosebush.

A daughter, Mrs. Lizzie Edson, died 30 years ago. He also has 19 grandchildren and 17 great grandchildren.

Mrs. Guy T. McNamara.

Miss Lila Chase, only child of Mr. and Mrs. John Chase, was born in Leamington, Ontario, March 28, 1892, and died at her home in Detroit, Sunday, March 19, 1922, from an attack of influenza.

She was united in marriage with Dr. Guy T. McNamara, October 13, 1916, and they have resided in Detroit since their marriage. Dr. and Mrs. McNamara spent the week-end, March 11 and 12, at the home of Mrs. Ella McNamara.

She is survived by her husband and father and mother.

The funeral was held at Cottam, Ontario, Wednesday afternoon. Miss Beryl McNamara and Mrs. Geo. P. Staffan off his place attended the services.

Legion Show Great Success.

The American Legion show, "The Brazilian Heiress," was presented to packed houses both Friday and Saturday evenings, at the Sylvan town hall. The show was considered by all who saw it to be the best home talent show ever presented in Chelsea.

The principals were excellent. Carl Chandler, who had the leading role, as Mr. Babberly, got many laughs from the audience during the entire show. Miss Wood was very pleasing in the role of Amy, as was Miss Israel who played the part of the Heiress. Herbert Kuhl was assigned to a difficult part which he played exceedingly well. Joe Schnebelt as Chas. Wykeham, proved himself to be a very finished performer. Mrs. Sorling and Mr. Shutes, the colored maid and man servant, received many laughs and much favorable comment.

Miss Jean Seyffrid, the youthful dancer, received tremendous applause on all of her offerings, and encore after encore was called for.

The chorus girls were the decided hit of the show. Each and every one of them are to be commended on, as to them goes the greatest amount of praise. The dances were all well staged and the costumes were very pretty. In summing it all up the Legion show is the best that has ever been presented in Chelsea and much credit goes to Mr. Howard Turnbull who produced the show.

The show was presented in Grass Lake Monday, and Dexter Tuesday, to capacity houses.

Pioneer Resident Honored.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Beach entertained a company of relatives and friends Thursday evening at their home on Jefferson street in honor of the 90th birthday anniversary of Mr. Beach's father, Abner Beach. A pleasant social time was enjoyed and refreshments were served. Out of town guests included Mrs. Ella Tuomey, Mrs. Olga Crittenden and Miss Caroline Whitaker of Ann Arbor.

Abner Beach was born March 16, 1832, in Steuben county, New York, and was the youngest of a family of 12. His parents were William G. and Polly Kellogg Beach. The family came to Michigan in 1838, spending one winter in Detroit, after which they took up land from the government and settled in Lima.

At that time the Michigan Central railway was laid only as far as Ypsilanti, the rest of the journey being made by stage. Mr. Beach was united in marriage with Miss Cynthia Dixon, November 6, 1866, and for 50 years they lived on the farm near Lima Center, where they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. Mrs. Beach died in November, 1916, and Mr. Beach has since made his home with his only son, D. E. Beach. Two weeks ago the family came to Chelsea to reside.

Reserves Defeat Ann Arbor.

Accepting the challenge of the Jones Junior High School of Ann Arbor, the St. Mary Reserves added another victory to their long string by defeating the University City quint 30 to 8 in a game here Friday evening.

The Ann Arbor lads were able to do nothing against the strong defensive play of the Reserves, caging but four field goals, all being "long toms." Every one of these were made in the first half, the Jones quint failing to make a single point in the final half.

As usual the Reserves' offense was highly effective, Madden leading in the scoring with nine field goals. Phil Hoffman scored five field goals and Paul Hoffman one. Much credit for the victory goes to the Eder brothers for their fine guarding.

The Reserves took an early lead and were never in danger of being headed. At the halfway mark they were leading 18 to 8 and in the final half increased their margin to 30 to 8.

Four-Power Pacific Treaty to Be Ratified by Senate Unless All Signs Fail

MARGIN AT LEAST FIVE VOTES

Allied Reparations Commission Declines to Pay Bill for American Expenses on Rhine—Fighting in South Africa—India in Ferment.

By JOHN DICKINSON SHERMAN

THE four-power Pacific treaty, it was asserted last week, would be ratified by the senate, unless all signs should fail. A margin of at least five votes was predicted. It follows that the other six parts of the armament conference will be approved as a matter of course, if the treaty is ratified. An agreement to vote was reached Wednesday. It was further agreed to take no more votes on amendments or reservations before the final vote, and to limit debate. It looked last week as if Senator Underwood, minority leader, would come across with at least eleven votes, instead of the eight he was expected to deliver.

Early in the assault on the treaty came the charges that the treaty had been framed by the British and Japanese; that secret negotiations had been concealed, and that the American delegates had been imposed upon. Secretary of State Hughes thereupon stated that he wrote the treaty, that there was no mystery about the treaty and that it was a good treaty. He was modest about it and he was plain-spoken. His statement was made in the form of a letter to Senator Underwood of Alabama, one of the four American delegates, who as minority senate leader is charged with the onerous job of delivering enough Democratic votes to assure the ratification of the treaty. Secretary Hughes said, among other things:

"The treaty itself is very short and simple, and is perfectly clear. It requires no commentary. Its engagements are easily understood, and no ingenuity in argument or hostile criticism can add to them or make them other or greater than its unequivocal language sets forth. There are no secret notes or understandings.

"In view of this, the question of authorship is unimportant. It was signed by four powers, whose delegates, respectively, adopted it, all having made various suggestions. I may say, however, with respect to the general course of negotiations that after assent had been given by Great Britain and Japan that France should be a party to the agreement, I prepared a draft of the treaty based upon the various suggestions which had been exchanged between the delegates. . . . I should add that, in order to avoid any misunderstanding I prepared a memorandum to accompany the treaty with respect to its effect in relation to the mandated islands and reserving domestic questions.

"At this stage, while it was not strictly a conference matter, in order to insure publicity at the earliest possible moment, the treaty, as thus agreed upon, and before it had been signed, was presented by Senator Lodge to the conference in plenary session and its import and limitations stated. His statement met with the acquiescence of all.

"There is not the slightest mystery about the treaty or basis for suspicion regarding it. It is a straightforward document which attains one of the most important objects the American government has had in view, and is of the highest importance to the maintenance of friendly relations in the Far East upon a sound basis. As the President recently said, in his communication to the senate, it is an essential part of the plan to create conditions in the Far East at which the United States is entitled to be satisfied. We have long sought during peace. In view of this, and in view of the relation of the treaty to the results of the conference, its failure would be nothing short of a national calamity."

The senate debate over ratification confirms the wisdom of the President's choice of Senator Underwood as a conference delegate. There are those who consider the senator from Alabama one of the ablest men in public life. He certainly had a large opportunity for his skill as a debater when he attempted to round up his recalcitrant followers for ratification. The first day he stood for three hours before the Democrats he has led in so many partisan battles, arguing that they should forget party lines and join with the administration forces for ratification. It was almost exclusively a Democratic show, with the Republicans sitting on the sidelines and watching the astute minority leader fight it out with his unruly followers. The anti-treaty Democrats were trying to trap him into an admission that the treaty in effect constituted an entangling alliance. But he insisted on "conference agreement." Some of them "heckled" their leader. Only the unflinching good nature of the Alabamian saved off a stormy session. It was a situation that only an experienced and able man could meet.

Next came an assault on the treaty by Senator Borah of Idaho and Senator Johnson of California, Republican irreconcilables. They questioned the authorship of the treaty, despite the letter from Secretary Hughes. Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, majority leader, made them admit they had not meant to reflect on the veracity of Secretary Hughes. In effect the two senators assailed the treaty as a "quadruple alliance." Senator Lenroot of Wisconsin answered them.

The pro-treaty forces scored a victory Tuesday when they voted down an amendment by Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas designed to wreck the treaty. The Robinson amendment would have had the effect of converting the four-power pact into a league of nations. It pledged all the signatories to respect each other's territorial integrity and to commit no act of aggression against any nation outside the pact. Furthermore, it provided, in case of disputes, that outside nations interested should be invited to participate in conferences held under the terms of the four-power pact.

The vote was 55 to 30. Eleven members were absent. Six were paired. The five unpaired absentees are all counted for ratification. Four Republicans, committed against ratification, voted for the amendment: Borah of Idaho, Johnson of California, La Follette of Wisconsin and Francis of Maryland. Four Democrats voted against it: Underwood of Alabama, Pomerene of Ohio, Ransdell of Louisiana, and Williams of Mississippi. Later similar amendments by Senators Walsh of Montana and Pittman of Nevada, both Democrats, were voted down by substantially the same vote. Then a series of amendments and reservations was dumped into the hamper to be ready for presentation before the final roll call.

LIFE to Uncle Sam just now must seem just one treaty after another. Anyway, he presented last week to the allied reparations commission in Paris a bill for $241,000,000 for the expenses of the American army of occupation on the Rhine up to May 1, 1921. The allied commissioners registered frozen horror, but thawed sufficiently to stick the bill on a spindle. You see, they were engaged in dividing up among themselves a reparations payment of 1,000,000,000 gold marks by Germany and naturally regarded the presentation of the American claim—which to date is something like $260,000,000—as a very bad form. They therefore washed their hands of the matter and referred it to the allied governments.

The French press sets forth what is presumably the allied view: The United States declined to ratify the treaty of Versailles, hence it has no legal claim to payment under its terms. The United States made its own separate treaty with Germany; therefore it should do its own collecting from Germany. The British press—some of it—thinks that while Uncle Sam is unable to maintain the peace, he may have a moral right to take the money.

sooner? All of which lends emphasis to the saying of the Mar to the Street: "We have all the real money in the world and for that very reason not a single real friend." Evidently the new funding commission to see what can be done about the eleven billions of allied debts is in for an adventure.

DO YOU remember London Punch's famous cartoon depicting a family council of the British Lion's restlessness during the World War? Well, the Union of South Africa is sure restless. Last week saw the climax and suppression of the strike of miners which has held South Africa in its grip for more than two months. It had all the hallmarks of an attempt at revolution. The strikers captured half a dozen towns and nearly got possession of Johannesburg. Gen. Jan Christian Smuts, the premier, proclaimed martial law, called out all the government troops and took command in person. Censored reports show the killing of more than 1,000 strikers, police and soldiers. Grenades, bombs, machine guns, airplanes and tanks figured in the fighting; cities were bombarded; thousands of strikers were captured. It was real war for a week. The South African Industrial federation then declared the strike off and denied complicity in the rebellion. This man Smuts is a strong man. He has risen from a Dutch general in the Boer war to one of the leading statesmen of the British commonwealth of nations, as he calls it. Many believe Smuts to be the logical successor to Lloyd George.

NEW tangles mark the complicated situation in India. The arrest of Gandhi, leader of the non-co-operationists, was followed by widespread protests from all the Moslem world. Then Britain was startled by the unauthorized publication by E. S. Montagu, British secretary of state for India, of a telegram from the India government making demands for the restoration of Turkey. This constitutes an appeal to the world by a subordinate British government over the head of the imperial government. Lloyd George censured Mr. Montagu and demanded his resignation. Mr. Montagu resigned, but talked back, putting Lloyd George and Curzon on the defensive. Lord Derby was asked to take the secretaryship for India and declined. This, coming upon the failure of the unionists' meeting Tuesday to give Lloyd George a vote of confidence, has raised again the possibility of the resignation of the premier. His political enemies hold it impossible for him to retain the position. Nevertheless, it has been announced that Lloyd George and Curzon will attend the Genoa conference April 10.

REVISION of the Republican soldier bonus bill was finished Tuesday by the ways and means committee, which thereupon reported the measure to the house by a vote of 19 to 5. The program calls for prompt passage of the bill by the house. Report is that the senate will not accept the bill as it comes from the house and that a long delay in the senate finance committee is inevitable. The bill provides cash bonuses only for veterans entitled to less than $50. Four options are given to others: an adjusted service certificate, farm or home aid, land settlement aid, and vocational training.

IT LOOKS as if All Fools' Day would be celebrated by a strike of the coal miners. Secretary of Labor Davis did not succeed last week in getting the operators and men for conference on a new wage agreement. Neither side appears to care particularly whether or not the strike comes. The only consolation for the public lies in the probability that some of the mining districts will keep at work.

Mary Garden, Chicago's arbiter of high-priced stars, says that some of the high-priced stars must fill the house or take less pay or get out.

Uncle Sam is reported to be considering the negotiation of treaties with Great Britain and Cuba to put an end to liquor smuggling into the United States.

NAME ELECTED

JOHN E. NELSON, REPUBLICAN, ALABAMA, ELECTED MAINE MAJORITY LESS THAN IN 1920

Democrats Make Main Senator Choosing Than At Last General Election.

Augusta, Me.—The Republicans retained control of the third Maine congressional district in a special election Monday to fill the unexpired term of John A. Peters by a margin greatly reduced from that recorded by Mr. Peters in 1920.

John E. Nelson, Republican, was elected over Ernest L. McLean, Democrat, by a majority, with 56 small towns and plantations missing, of 4,394.

The total vote was slightly more than one-half of that cast in 1920, when women voted for the first time in Maine. This was partly accounted for by rain, snow and sleet throughout the day.

Mr. Peters, who resigned early this year to become federal district judge for Maine, was elected in 1920 by a majority of 19,357. The missing towns cast 3,200 votes in 1920, of which more than two-thirds went to the Republican nominee.

The new congressman and his opponent are lawyers and residents of Augusta.

In a statement after the election, Mr. Nelson said:

"I am extremely gratified at the results of this special election, held on one of the most inclement days of the winter, with the roads well-nigh impassable. The majority is all that the most sanguine Republican could have expected and has been equalled in recent years only at the time of the great Republican landslide of 1920. We have carried every county, every city and every large town but one in the district."

Mr. McLean said:

"The figures indicate a most decisive victory for the Democrats. The Republican majority of over 19,000 in 1920 will be very seriously cut, and this notwithstanding that the Republicans were strongly organized, had the benefit of a three-months' primary campaign to arouse their voters, and had the entire press of the district. The Democrats, disorganized, without any press whatsoever and with only a few weeks of campaign, have accomplished results which no one imagined possible four months ago."

CAR AND AUTO CRASH KILLS SIX

D. U. R. Official, Wife, Three Children and Guest Lose Lives.

Detroit—Edward H. Ives, assistant general superintendent of the Detroit United Railway, his wife, Gertrude, and three of their children, and 15-year-old Clara Stasiniewicz, a guest in their motor party, were killed when a speeding D. U. R. interurban crashed into their automobile near Capac, Sunday.

Edith Ives, 14-year-old, the lone survivor of the crash, escaped death when she leaped from the doomed automobile an instant before the collision.

MILL WORKER SHOT IN QUARREL

Monroe Employees Quarrel, One in Jail, Other in Hospital.

Monroe, Mich.—Mike Miller, 34 years old, Serbian paper mill employee, is near death in a Toledo hospital with a revolver wound below his heart, alleged by police, to have been fired by Cash Cochran, 22 years old, also a paper-mill employee, following a quarrel in a soft drink store, Monday evening.

Chief of Police Irving MacKelley declares Cochran admits the shooting and said that he fired in self-defense, after Miller had drawn a knife.

Senate Provides Funds for New York-San Francisco Route.

Washington—The postoffice appropriation bill, carrying $23,773,000, was passed last Monday by the senate after a heated fight. The measure carries $69,809,000 more than as passed by the house, $50,000,000 of the increase going for federal highway aid.

The bill also carries provisions for restoring to service the New York pneumatic mail tubes and for continuing the New York to San Francisco air mail service.

NATIONAL CAPITAL AFFAIRS

Women Oppose Equal Rights Amendment

WASHINGTON.—Objection to any equal rights amendment to the federal Constitution, and to the latest bill adopted by the Wisconsin legislature and pending in nine state legislatures now in session, was unanimously expressed by women labor leaders called into conference by the legislative committee of the National Woman's Trade Union league. The delegates were all trade unionists from various parts of the country and collectively represented about 600,000 organized working women.

Mrs. Raymond Robins of Chicago, president of the league, said that danger to special laws protecting women in industry lurked in any blanket measure such as the constitutional amendment now under consideration by the National Woman's party, the tentative draft of which forbids "political, civil or legal disabilities on account of sex or on account of marriage unless applying to both sexes."

The most dangerous feature of the blanket bill proposed for action by all state legislatures is believed by the woman trade unionists to be in the provision giving women freedom of contract, which threatened to deprive women of the protection afforded by collective bargaining. The provision specifically exempting from the operation of the act laws regulating the employment of women in industry is declared by Mrs. Robins and Mrs. Mary Anderson of Chicago to be no protection at all, since in their view it is in direct contradiction to the freedom of contract provisions.

They agree that women are the victims in many states of unfair laws, but want these repealed severally and specifically.

The delegates will prepare a formal statement of their position, which is supported by the National League of Women Voters.

Bonus Bill to Be Pushed in Congress

REPUBLICAN leaders in congress have decided to force a bonus bill through despite the fact that any form of bill which can be passed cannot meet the approval of President Harding unless he should alter his attitude.

The sales tax as a means of raising revenue has been abandoned. The President said that was the only available means of revenue to justify the soldiers' compensation bill at this time. Therefore a bill that does not contain a sales tax might encounter a presidential veto. Realizing this, the Republican leaders are going ahead and have determined to take chances, believing it could survive a presidential veto.

A prominent member of the ways and means committee said that there are not sixty members of the house nor twenty members of the senate who are opposed to a soldiers' bonus. He said further that a majority of the Republican members had come to the conclusion that a bonus bill would not put the party in jeopardy at the forthcoming election.

These leaders are now leaning to a bill which will provide for revenue from interest payments on the foreign debt, no matter what may be recommended by the ways and means committee. The committee, however, is also leaning to this source of revenue, and it is predicted that such a bill would pass the house by an overwhelming majority.

When such a measure goes to the senate that body may amend it by providing an issuance of bonds or debt certificates of some kind. Both these measures would be diametrically opposed to the recommendations of the President. Whichever measure is then preferred by the majorities in the two houses, it is predicted, could be passed over a veto, should there be one.

Whatever might be the political effect of such a course, Republican leaders declare, would not be so serious as would the defeat of the bonus bill altogether, or the passage of that bill with a sales tax attached.

"The Abigail Adams Clothesline Story"

EVERY now and then an allusion to the "Abigail Adams clothesline story" gets into print. Doubtless there are many who do not know the story. They should. It's a classic and it's especially timely, now that "Uncle Joe" Cannon, who was first elected in 1870, has announced that he will not be a candidate for re-election. It's a good sample of the kind of parliamentary tactics that made Uncle Joe a power in his day. Here it is, in brief:

It was back in the early years of this century, while Uncle Joe was Republican floor leader and before he became speaker. Following a remodeling of the White House there was an auction sale of old furniture, including a sideboard. Thereupon a newspaper announced with great gusto that the sideboard had been presented to Mrs. Hayes by the young ladies of Cincinnati—to show their appreciation of her application of rigid "temperance" principles—and declared that only iconoclastic imperialism would dare to sell so priceless an historical relic.

Whereupon a Democratic member drew up a resolution of many whereases, demanding an investigation of the heinous transaction. Introducing it, he spoke at great length and with much vehemence. Really the Republicans didn't know just what to do about it. It was "peanut politics," but the situation was annoying.

Then up rose the member from Danville, Illinois. With the coat sleeve on his right arm drawn up to show several inches of white and the index finger of his left hand describing parabolic curves, Uncle Joe got recognition. With his very best poker face on he cried:

"Mr. Speaker, we are told that in the early days of this republic Abigail Adams hung out her laundry to dry in the East Room of the White House. Great Heavens, Mr. Speaker, where is that clothesline now?"

It is a Washington tradition that the uproarious yell of laughter that followed has never had its equal in the house of representatives.

"Upward Swing of Economic Pendulum"

BUSINESS throughout the country, progressing through well-defined circles, is nearing the point of the upward swing of the economic pendulum, according to the annual report of the federal reserve board transmitted to congress.

"There are those," the report said, "who believe that the beginning of revival is not far distant. When it does definitely set in it will be followed in due course by a new era of prosperity."

Business, in one of its "long swings" from prosperity, the report says, has followed its usual rotation, which it described as business activity and increased production; excessive expansion and speculation, followed hitherto by panic and forced liquidation; a long period of slow liquidation; business depression and stagnation, and then revival.

"In the light of recent experience," the report warned, "we should remember, when we again enter into a period of full prosperity, that a reaction will follow, sooner or later, and if the flow of the incoming tide can be controlled so that the crest may not be reached too rapidly, nor rise too high, the subsequent reaction will be less severe and the next period of industrial and commercial activity and general prosperity will be marked by surer methods, greater achievements along constructive lines, and by a longer duration than any which we have had before."

The board confined its report to an account of the operations of the organization for the year 1921, without offering any suggestions for legislation affecting the board in the federal reserve system.

FRIEND OF THE LEGION MEN

Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis of Illinois Demands Square Deal for the Ex-Soldiers.

"The life of a judge is not all rosewater and violets," Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, who recently resigned, swore. The virtue Illinois ex-judge was used to being "between the devil and the deep blue sea," so many were the decisions he was compelled to give.

Much of the latter day vitality of this sturdy pioneer is thrown toward getting a square deal for ex-service men. Judge Landis has appeared before scores of American Legion posts to speak for the cause of rehabilitation and reconstruction.

"During the war I thought the people of America were made over," he said recently, addressing the Bloomington, Ill., commerce body. "Everyone got his feet off the ground. Everyone wanted to know, 'How can I best serve?' They gave so that the soldier in the trench could strike his heaviest blow. But with the armistice, all this went down in cold-blooded selfishness. If this isn't corrected, we will have won the fight but lost the war!"

Judge Landis, as baseball commissioner, reinstated Joe Harris of the Cleveland Indians, ruling that his being gassed in the war caused him to do things that he otherwise would not have done.

HEADS POST OF WAR NURSES

Miss Wilhelmina Weyhing, Also Head Nurse of Roosevelt Hospital, at Camp Custer.

Many years of unselfish service—years which have whitened her hair and softened her smile—have won for Miss Wilhelmina Weyhing, recently made head nurse at the Roosevelt American Legion Memorial hospital at Camp Custer, Mich., the undying respect of nurses everywhere, and the true reverence and devotion of her many patients.

Miss Weyhing is the first commander of the American Legion post composed entirely of war nurses in Detroit. Upon her appointment as superintendent at the Camp Custer hospital, she resigned her position as director at the reeling hospital in Detroit. Dr. F. B. Broderick, department welfare officer, said of her: "Nursing has been her life work and she has a war record which cannot be equaled by any woman in the United States."

In 1914 Miss Weyhing went to Serbia to aid in the typhus epidemic. She labored there unceasingly amid terrible conditions, and contracted the disease herself, which forced her to return in 1915. On her recovery, she was made chief nurse of Base Hospital No. 17, with which outfit she served at Dijon, France, for 21 months. Today, all her efforts are bent toward making the new Legion hospital a real home for tubercular veterans and as unlike a hospital, in atmosphere, as possible.

WILL COPY HOTEL-DE-VILLE

Reproduction of French Village is Planned at Medicine Park, Near Lawton, Oklahoma.

Stored somewhere in the A. E. F. doughboy's mind is a picture of a French village—the church, the hotel-de-ville, the estaminet. Very soon it will happen that the unsuspecting doughboy, rounding the base of the Wichita mountains in prosy Oklahoma will stumble upon this vision in real life.

A faithful reproduction of a French village is planned at Medicine park, near Lawton, Okla., as a recreation ground for members of the American Legion. Its hotel-de-ville will have an auditorium seating 1,000, and plans are under way to have Legion posts throughout the state erect their own cottages where members may spend their vacations.

Water and electric lights have been donated toward the project by a citizen of Lawton, and the native stone, which is abundant at the foot of the mountains, will make the cost of erecting the cottages small.

Carrying On With the American Legion

A free skating rink has been built by the American Legion post at Lake City, Minn.

John J. Payne, missing since his release from a German prison in 1918, is being looked for by the American Legion.

For proficiency "both in studies and in athletics," high school students are awarded cups and medals by Legion posts in Minnesota.

October 16, 17, 18, 19 and 20, have been set as dates for the fourth annual convention of the American Legion, which is to be held at New Orleans.

The KITCHEN CABINET

Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union
"Hang on more wood, the wind is chill. But let it whistle as it will. We'll keep our merry spirits still."
SEASONABLE GOOD THINGS

For variety try a:
Vegetable Curry.—Mix one cupful each of cooked carrots, potatoes, white turnips, cut into cubes, one cupful of canned peas and heat together in a double boiler. Pour over them one cupful of white sauce in which one tablespoonful of onion juice and one-fourth of a teaspoonful of curry has been fixed and cooked. On a large earthen plate pile up a border of mashed potato which has been seasoned with butter and milk, more highly seasoned than usual. Set plate in the oven until the border is nicely browned. Pour the vegetable curry into the potato border and sprinkle the whole with finely minced parsley.

Veal Rolet.—With a wooden potato masher or mallet pound slices of veal steak to one-fourth of an inch in thickness cut in pieces three by five inches. Chop the trimmings with one-eighth as much fat salt pork. Add by measure half as much bread crumbs as meat, season highly with salt, pepper, poultry seasoning, onion and lemon juice, with four fresh mushrooms chopped fine. Moisten the mixture with beaten egg and hot water as moist as possible and still hold its shape. Spread each piece of steak with a thin layer nearly to the edge, roll tight and fasten with small skewers. Shape the remaining mixture into balls and cook with the rolls. Dredge with flour and cook a light brown in butter. Place in a casserole, cover with thin cream and bake an hour.

Baltimore Mince Chicken.—Melt one-fourth of a cupful of butter, add one-fourth of a cupful of flour and stir until well blended; then pour on gradually while stirring constantly, one and one-half cupfuls of chicken stock. Bring to the boiling point, season with one and one-half teaspoonfuls of salt and a teaspoonful of paprika. Add one cupful of cream, one cupful of minced chicken, two-thirds of a cupful of cooked sweetbread cubes, one and one-half tablespoonfuls of truffles or chicken livers. Let stand in a double boiler to heat. Serve in a dish with mashed potato piped around the edge. Brown in a hot oven.

So we went strolling,
Down by the rolling, down by the rolling sea;
You may keep your croak for other folk
But you can't frighten me! —Kipling.

SEASONABLE DISHES

The appetizing flavor of smoked fish when enjoyed may be used in the following dish with enjoyment.

Savory Smoked Fish.—Cut one pound of smoked fish into strips, put over the fire in cold water, let come to a boil slowly, then cook ten minutes. Heat one cupful of stock with one-fourth of a cupful of tomato sauce and vinegar, one tablespoonful of made mustard and a few dashes of cayenne. Drain the fish, saute on a hot pan in a little hot butter, then add to the hot stock; thicken the butter in the pan with two tablespoonfuls of flour; stir this into the saucepan containing the fish and stock, cover and simmer for five minutes. Serve on a hot platter, surrounded with split and toasted crackers.

Ham En Casserole.—Order a slice of ham cut two inches thick, wipe and remove the outside edges of fat, put into a frying pan, cover with tepid water and let stand over night or for several hours. Wash and pare medium-sized potatoes and cut in very thin slices (there should be two and one-half cupfuls). Put ham in the casserole and cover with potatoes; add milk to cover, about two cupfuls. Cover and cook slowly one and one-half hours in the oven.

Easter Dumplings.—Cook in a double boiler until very soft, one cupful of well-washed rice in three to four cupfuls of boiling water with one-half teaspoonful of salt. Pare and core six small-sized apples. Cut six squares of cheese-cloth in eight or nine-inch squares, dip into boiling water and wring out quickly, then dredge each with a layer of rice a quarter of an inch thick, place an apple in the center, fill the cavity with a spoonful of jelly, tie up the cloth and drop into boiling water to cook for one hour. Before serving remove the dumpling cloths; carefully arrange the balls on a dish with a circle of whipped cream.

Lemon Sauce.—Mix carefully one tablespoonful of cornstarch and one cupful of fine granulated sugar, a little salt, and one cupful of boiling water, while heating constantly. Cook five to six minutes, add two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and a grating of the rind, two tablespoonfuls of butter and a generous grating of nutmeg.

WRIGLEY'S

AFTER EVERY MEAL

Select your food wisely, chew it well, and—use WRIGLEY'S after every meal. Your stomach will thank you. It is both a benefit and a treat—good, and good for you. And, best of all, the cost is small.

Drawn from actual photograph of Daryl Wilson, son of Mrs. Margaret Wilson, 1110 Eighth Street, Milwaukee, Wis.

Are you as justly proud as this boy's mother?

DARYL WILSON is the kind of baby every mother wants her child to be. He is strong, sturdy, handsome. He has been voted the best baby in two baby shows in Milwaukee, Wis., where he lives.

Mrs. Wilson attributes his fine health to Eagle Brand, on which he was raised. Mrs. Wilson was an Eagle Brand baby too, so of course she brought up her little son on it. This is one of the thousands of cases where Eagle Brand has been the accepted baby food for several generations in the same family. In some cases grandmother, mother, and child were all reared on it. For Eagle Brand has been the standard for sixty-four years.

No thoughtful mother would experiment with her baby. Mother's milk is best, of course, but if it fails for any reason, Eagle Brand is the natural substitute. Eagle Brand is not a "prepared" food at all. It is nothing but pure milk and pure sugar combined. Mothers all over the country have written us of the wonderful results they have had in feeding it to their babies. And doctors recommend it in stubborn feeding cases—it is so very digestible.

Eagle Brand Milk is entirely safe, pure and uniform. Each can is like the last, so that there is not the slightest variation in baby's food—a most important consideration according to modern specialists. And you can buy Eagle Brand anywhere. Get it in quantity so that you always have a supply. Even in hot weather the unopened cans keep indefinitely.

Are you keeping a record of your baby's characteristics, sayings, etc.? You will treasure it in later years. Write for our beautiful little record book "The Best Baby". It will be sent you FREE, together with an Eagle Brand Feeding Chart.

Ramsey Milholland

THE FIGHT.
Synopsis.—With his grandfather, small Ramsey Milholland is watching the "Decorated Day Parade" in the home town. The old gentleman, a veteran of the Civil war, endeavors to impress the youngster with the significance of the great conflict, and many years afterward, Ramsey is not distinguished for remarkable ability, though his pronounced dislikes are arithmetic, "Recitations" and German. In sharp contrast to Ramsey's backwardness is the precocity of little Dora Yocum, a young lady whom in his bitterness he denominates "Teacher's Pet."

Here was a serious affront, at least to Ramsey Milholland's way of thinking; for Ramsey, also now proved sensitive. He quieted his friends—"Shut up!"—and advanced toward Wesley. "You look here! Who you callin' pups?"

"Everybody!" Wesley hotly returned. "Everybody that goes around mentioning ladies' names on the public streets are pups!"

"They are, are they?" Ramsey asked hotly. "Well, you just look here a minute; my own father mentions my mother's name on the public streets whenever he wants to, and you just try callin' my father a pup, and you won't know what happened to you!"

"What'll you do about it?"

"I'll put a new head on you," said Ramsey. "That's what I'll do, because anybody that calls my father or mother a pup—"

"Oh, shut up! I wasn't talkin' about your ole father and mother. I said everybody that mentioned Dora Yocum's name on the public streets was a pup, and I mean it! Everybody that mentions Dora Yocum's name on the pub—"

"Dora Yocum!" said Ramsey. "I got a perfect right to say it anywhere I want to. Dora Yocum, Dora Yocum, Dora Yocum!"

"All right then, you're a pup!" Ramsey charged upon him and received a smacking blow full in the face, not from Mr. Bender's fist but from the solid bundle of books at the end of the strap. Ramsey saw eight or ten objectives instantly: there were Wesley Benders standing full length in the air on top of other Wesley Benders, and more Wesley Benders zig-zagged out sideways from still other Wesley Benders; nevertheless, he found one of these and it proved to be flesh. He engaged it wildly at fist-cuffs; pounded it upon the countenance and drove it away. Then he sat down upon the curbstone and, with his dizzy eyes shut, leaned forward for the better accommodation of his ensanguined nose.

Wesley had retreated to the other side of the street, holding a grimy handkerchief to the midmost parts of his pallid face. "There, you ole d—n pup!" he shouted, in a voice which threatened a sob. "I guess that'll teach you to be careful how you mention Dora Yocum's name on the public streets!"

At this, Ramsey made a motion as if to rise and pursue, whereupon Wesley fled, walling back over his shoulder as he ran, "You wait till I ketch you out alone on the public streets and I'll—"

His voice was lost in an outburst of hoisting from his former friends, who sympathetically surrounded the wounded Ramsey. But in a measure, at least, the chivalrous fugitive had won his point. He was routed and outdone, yet what survived the day was a rumor, which became a sort of tenuous legend among those interested. There had been a fight over Dora Yocum, it appeared, and Ramsey Milholland had attempted to maintain something derogatory to the lady, while Wesley defended her as a knightly youth should.

gave never the slightest sign of comprehending that there had been a fight about her. Having no real cognizance of Messrs. Bender and Milholland except as impediments to the advance of learning, she did not even look demure.

CHAPTER IV.

With Wesley Bender, Ramsey was again upon fair terms before the winter had run its course; the two were neighbors and, moreover, were drawn together by a community of interests which made their reconciliation a necessity. Ramsey played the guitar and Wesley played the mandolin.

All ill feeling between them died with the first dust of spring, yet the tinkling they made had no charm to soothe the savage breast of Ramsey whenever the Teacher's Pet came into his thoughts. He day-dreamed a thousand ways of putting her in her place, but was unable to carry out any of them, and had but a cobwebby satisfaction in imagining discomfitures for her which remained imaginary. "Just once!" he said to Fred Mitchell. "That's all I ask, just once. Just glume one chance to show that girl what she really is. I guess if I ever get the chance she'll find out what's the matter with her, for once in her life, anyway." Thus it came to be talked about, and understood and expected in Ramsey's circle, all male, that Dora Yocum's day was coming. "You'll see!" said Ramsey. "The time'll come when that ole girl'll wish she'd moved out of this town before she ever got appointed monitor of our class! Just you wait!"

They waited, but conditions appeared to remain unfavorable indefinitely. Perhaps the great opportunity might

"For Heaven's Sakes," Heinie Krusemeyer Demanded, "Can't You Shut Up?"

Have arrived if Ramsey had been able to achieve a startling importance in any of the "various divergent yet parallel lines of school endeavor"—one of the phrases by means of which teachers and principal clogged the minds of their unarmed auditors. But though he was far from being the dumb driven beast of misfortune that he seemed in the schoolroom, and, in fact, lived a double life, exhibiting in his out-of-school hours a remarkable example of "secondary personality"—a creature fearing nothing and capable of laughter; blue eyed, fairly robust, and anything but dumb—he was nevertheless without endowment or attainment great enough to get him distinction.

He "tried for" the high-school eleven, and "tried for" the nine, but the experts were not long in eliminating him from either of these competitions, and he had to content himself with cheering instead of getting cheered. He was by no manner of means athletic, or enough of anything else, to put Dora Yocum in her place, and so he and the great opportunity were still waiting in May, at the end of the second year of high school, when the class, now the "IO A," reverted to an old fashion and decided to entertain itself with a woodland picnic.

They gathered upon the sandy banks of a creek in the blue shade of big, patchy-barked sycamores, with a dancing sky on top of everything and gold dust atwinkle over the water. Hither the napkin-covered baskets were brought from the wagons and assembled in the shade, where they appeared as an attractive little meadow of white napery, and gave both surprise and pleasure to communities of ants and to other original settlers of the neighborhood.

through the weeds that bordered it. Two snail-bait fishermen established themselves upon a bank up-stream, with hooks and lines thoughtfully brought with them, and poles which they fashioned from young saplings. They took mussels from the shallows, for bait, and having gone to all this trouble, declined to share with friends less energetic and provident the perquisites and pleasures secured to themselves.

Albert Paxton was one person who proved his enterprise. Having visited the spot some days before, he had hired for his exclusive use throughout the duration of the picnic an old rowboat belonging to a shanty squatter; it was the only rowboat within a mile or two and Albert had his own uses for it. Albert was the class lover and, after first taking the three chaperon teachers "out for a row," an excursion concluded in about ten minutes, he disembarked them; Sadie Clews stepped into the boat, a pocket camera in one hand, a tennis racket in the other; and the two spent the rest of the day, except for the luncheon interval, solemnly drifting along the banks or grounded on a shoal. Now and then Albert would row a few strokes, and at almost any time when the populated shore glanced toward them, Sadie would be seen photographing Albert, or Albert would be seen photographing Sadie, but the tennis racket remained an enigma. They were sixteen, and had been "engaged" more than two years.

On the borders of the little meadow of baskets there had been deposited two black shapes, which remained undisturbed throughout the day, a closed guitar case and a closed mandolin case, no doubt containing each its proper instrument. So far as any use of these went they seemed to be of the same leisure class to which Sadie's tennis racket belonged, for when one of the teachers suggested music, the musicians proved shy. Wesley Bender said they hadn't learned to play anything much and, besides, he had a couple of broken strings he didn't know as he could fix up; and Ramsey said he guessed it seemed kind of too hot to play much. Joining friends, they organized a contest in marksmanship, the target being a floating can which they assailed with pebbles; and after that they "skipped" flat stones upon the surface of the water, then went to join a group gathered about Willis Parker and Heinie Krusemeyer.

No fish had been caught, a lack of luck crossly attributed by the fishermen to the noise made by constant advice on the part of their attendant gallery. Messrs. Milholland, Bender, and the other rock throwers came up shouting, and were ill received.

"For heaven's sakes," Heinie Krusemeyer demanded, "can't you shut up? Here we just first got the girls to keep their mouths shut a minute and I almost had a big pickerel or something on my hook, and here you got to up and yell so he chases himself away! Why can't nobody show a little sense sometimes when they'd ought to? A fish isn't goin' to bite when he can't even hear himself think! Anybody ought to know that much!"

But the new arrivals hooted. "Fish!" Ramsey vociferated. "I'll bet a hundred dollars there hasn't been even a minny in this creek for the last six years!"

"There is, too!" said Heinie, bitterly. "But I wouldn't be surprised there wouldn't be no longer if you got to keep up this noise. If you'd shut up just a minute you could see yourself there's fish here." Ramsey leaned forth over the edge of the overhanging bank, a dirt precept five feet above the water, and peered into the indeterminate depths below. The pool had been stirred, partly by the ineffectual pokings of the fishermen, and partly by small clouds and bits of dirt dislodged from above by the feet of the audience. The water, consequently, was but brownly translucent and revealed its secrets reluctantly; nevertheless certain dim little shapes had been observed to move within it, and were still there. Ramsey failed to see them at first.

"Where's any ole fish?" he inquired, scornfully.

"Look!" "Look!" whispered the girl who stood nearest to Ramsey. She pointed. "There's one. Right down there by Willis' hook. Don't you see him?"

Ramsey was impressed enough to whisper. "Is there? I don't see him. I can't—"

The girl came closer to him and, the better to show him, leaned out over the edge of the bank and, for safety in maintaining her balance, rested her left hand upon his shoulder while she pointed with her right. Thereupon something happened to Ramsey. This touch upon his shoulder was almost nothing, and he had never taken the slightest interest in Milholland (to whom that small warm hand belonged), though she was the class beauty, and long established in the office. Now, all at once, a peculiar and heretofore entirely unfamiliar sensation suddenly became important in the upper part of his chest. For a moment he held his breath, an involuntary action—he seemed to be standing in a shower of flowers.

"Don't you see it, Ramsey?" Milholland whispered. "It's a great big one. Why, it must be as long as—as your shoe! Look!"

"I am rejoicing, sir," said Bunker, the poor bookkeeper, "over the birth of twins."

"Yes, so it is," was agreed. "You are looking very happy this morning."

"Happy? I haven't been so happy in three months."

"What has occasioned your happiness?"

"When my mail came in an hour ago it brought to me a coal bill, a bill from the grocer, a letter from my landlord raising my rent, and a doctor's bill two years old. Also a notice that my taxes had not been paid and a gas and electric light bill."

"It was enough to fairly crush one and I can't see how you can be happy."

"Why, it is a very simple thing. All I had to do was to put the bills in the fire, and forget all about their arrival. Yes, sir, it is a mighty pleasant day when you have trouble on your mind the best way is to burn it up."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Wishing for sleep is a poor way to get it

A LITTLE wisdom in the daytime is a better assurance of rest than any amount of anxious wishing when nerves are a-jangle at night.

What you do at noon often has more influence on sleep than what you want and hope for, at midnight.

Coffee's drug element, caffeine, whips up the nerves, and when its use is continued there's usually a penalty which no amount of mental effort can avoid.

The part of wisdom, as so many thousands have found, is to turn away from nerve-stimulation and adopt rich, delicious Postum as the mealtime drink. Postum delights the taste, but brings no disturbance to nerves or digestion. Even the little children can share in the enjoyment of Postum at any meal.

It's better to anticipate warning than to be driven by them. It's better to encourage and preserve sound nerves and complete health than to listen to the clock at night and say, "I wish!" ## He Had Never Had a Stomach

Thursday Health Talk No. 9,
by H. H. Beatty, Chiropractor

A Western mining engineer was being interviewed by a magazine writer. Though he had spent his life at it he criticised everything and refused to see anything interesting, hopeful or human in mining. Then the interviewer switched to the subject health. The truth came out. The mining engineer had never had a stomach. He was tortured and soured by everything he ate.

When there is stomach trouble of this character, the cause is in the spine, as otherwise a change of diet, or a reduction in the amount of food would give relief. The chiropractor by chiropractic spinal adjustments of the vertebrae pressing upon spinal nerves to the stomach lifts the pressure and nature restores normal digestive vigor. A good stomach makes an optimist.

Studebaker Merit Wins

Studebaker is a specialist. Builds nothing but Sixes. Its efforts are not scattered. Its entire resources, unsurpassed in the automobile industry, are devoted to a single, fixed purpose:—to build well, by using the finest materials, and most skillful workmanship and to sell at the lowest prices possible.

How well Studebaker has succeeded is best answered by the records. In the calendar year of 1921, Studebaker produced and sold more six cylinder cars than any other manufacturer in the world.

From present indications the sales record of Studebaker cars in 1922 will greatly exceed 1921. Reports from Studebaker dealers from all parts of the country show a big increase in sales this year over the same period of 1921. Shipments of cars from the Studebaker factories this year are 106 per cent more (at the time this ad was written) than for the same period of 1921.

That's proof that merit wins. Buyers will not be fooled by wild misrepresentations. Motor cars are now being bought on the basis of merit.

The intrinsic value of today's Studebaker cars surpasses pre-war values. Never before have we given so much positive value for the money.

Instead of skimping the real value in order to reduce the cost, low prices of Studebaker cars are due to strict economy, skillful purchase of materials, a high degree of plant efficiency and well-known, continuous large volume.

Each Studebaker model is hundreds of dollars lower in price than cars of comparable quality.
