We Always Treat You Right.

Mrs. Edward Fennell.

Miss Mary Doll was born in Buffalo, New York, March 29, 1867, and died at the U. of M. hospital in Ann Arbor, Monday morning, March 27, 1922, from an illness of three days with diphtheria.

When she was two years of age her parents moved to a farm in Dexter township, where she had spent most of her life.

She was united in marriage with Edward Fennell February 14, 1906, and they have made their home for some years on the farm that her parents settled on until Tuesday of last week when they moved to the farm of Johnson Brothers in Dexter township.

She is survived by her husband, three brothers, Edwin Doll of Lyndon, John Doll of Dexter township, William Doll of Chelsea; three sisters, Mrs. John Quirk of Detroit, Mrs. Peter Winkler of Lyndon, Mrs. Margaret Hindelang of Mishawaka, Indiana and several nephews and nieces.

The funeral was held Tuesday morning from St. Mary church, Rev. Father VanDyke celebrating the mass. Burial at Mt. Olivet cemetery.

Mr. Osler will give a lecture illustrated by moving pictures.

Additions to Botanical Garden.

Plans for the addition to the botanical gardens of the University of Michigan have been approved by the Board of Regents, and have been received by Prof. H. H. Bartlett of the botany department.

A propagation house is to be added to the west end of the present building, to be used for the purpose of starting seeds and cuttings.

Completed plans for the botanical gardens call for eleven greenhouses, but since 1916 construction work has necessarily been at a standstill, although the work of the garden has expanded as originally contemplated. The crowded condition will be temporarily relieved by the new building.

According to Professor Bartlett, the garden is now recognized as providing unexcelled facilities for advanced teaching and research in plant breeding and genetics.

More War Material Ready.

Five million board feet of lumber and $220,000 worth of other surplus war material, consisting of steam and gas engines and machine-shop equipment, all unused, recently was made available to State highway departments for road construction.

The material is to be distributed by the Bureau of Public Roads, United States Department of Agriculture, which were helpful to many States in road building last season. Most of the lumber was intended by the Army for the construction of a pier at Charleston, S. C., and is suitable for highway bridges. The machinery and equipment are stored as ordnance supplies at the Picatinny Arsenal, Dover, Delaware. This material is particularly in demand and an allotment has been requested by each of the 48 States.

Accepts Tax Commission Post.

R. J. Bird, who recently moved from Ypsilanti township to Ann Arbor, and who is a member of the board of Washtenaw county road commissioners, has been appointed an employee of the state tax commission as its representative in the southern two tiers of Michigan counties.

Mr. Bird will resign his county position when the board of supervisors meets in regular session next month. His new duties will commence early in April, and will consist of assessment reviews, with recommendations for adjustment to the tax commission.

BOARD OF COMMERCE

CIRCULATING PETITION

A petition is being circulated by the road committee of the Chelsea Board of Commerce to have both North and South Main streets cement paved, 18 feet wide, from the north corporation line to the paved way through the business section and on south from the end of the present pavement to the territorial road trunk line, known as Federal Aid Road M-17.

Main street is a part of a state trunk line road known as M-52 and it is claimed that it is the policy of the state highway department to cement pave a driveway 18 feet wide through all incorporated villages where the road runs.

There is about 53 rods south of the village limits to the territorial road that is included in the petition. In view of the fact that there is a portion of the distance already paved, it is believed that the petition will receive favorable action from the head of the state highway department.

The petition will be taken to Lansing in a few days and given to the proper authorities.

Field Mice Injure Trees.

Hundreds of Michigan fruit trees will die during the coming season and thousands of others will be unprofitable for years to come as a result of damage caused by field mice during the past fall and winter, unless proper care is taken of the injured trees, according to Prof. Roy Marshall of the M. A. C. horticultural department.

"Few fruit growers fully realize the extent to which field mice have girdled the trunks of three to twenty year old apple trees this year," said Professor Marshall in discussing the question.

Trees from which the bark has been removed for one fourth or more of the circumference should be bridge-grafted about the time the growth starts in the spring. The grafts should be placed about one to one and one-half inches apart around the tree. Detailed directions for the work may be had by writing the Michigan Agricultural College.

"The fact that the mice eat the bark at or just below the surface of the ground causes many of the injuries to be overlooked unless a careful inspection is made. The damage has been more prevalent in sod orchards where a harbor is provided by the grass and where runways are not disturbed by cultivation."

Little if any further damage will be done by the mice until late fall or early winter. Previous to such time, the mice should be poisoned by placing poisoned bait in the runways. Bait should be made by mixing powdered strychnine and bicarbonate of soda with moist crushed wheat.

Pig Survey to be Made.

A special report that will indicate the probable pig population of the leading swine states this spring and next fall will be made by the United States Department of Agriculture co-operating with the United States Postoffice Department early in May. It was announced Monday. Over 24,000 rural mail carriers connected with 9,600 postoffices in fourteen representative states will collect the necessary data about May 1.

The plan is to secure reports on simple card questionnaires from not less than twelve farms on each rural route in the various states. This information will be collected by rural mail carriers in the regular course of delivering mail and returned to the Postmaster for forwarding to the Department of Agriculture at Washington for tabulation. A card can be filled out in less than two minutes.

The states to be covered are Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, South Dakota, Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi. Special effort will be made to have the returns truly representative of the territory from which they are taken. From these "sample" returns, ratios, percentages, and state totals can be worked out and applied to the total number of all farms in these states.

The information on each card will be confidential, and only percentages and totals will be published. The card will indicate the total acreage in each farm and the total acreage of crop lands including hay land. The numbers of sows which have farrowed or are due to farrow between January 1 and June 30, 1922, will be shown, as well as the number of sows on farm last year which have farrowed between the same dates in 1921. Similar information will be given with regard to sows farrowing between July 1 and December 31. The average litter for 1922 to date of the return, and the average litter for the first and last six months of 1921 will be shown.

The questionnaire is so simply arranged that the giving of all this information requires the notation of only nine figures and the name and address of the farmer. The survey and estimate will be made at remarkably small cost.

An accurate estimate of the probable pig population for the year will be of great value to hog raisers. This information considered in connection with the estimated consumptive demand will enable growers to plan their operations and marketing so that the supply at all times will be in proper relation to the demand, which in turn will tend to stabilize prices throughout the year and prevent wide price ranges. Both the producer and consumer will be benefited by such a condition.

In the Circuit Court.

Five prisoners faced Judge George W. Sample in circuit court Saturday morning and all but one were remanded to jail for sentence.

Sam Stanich, of Ecorse, convicted of robbery armed, was remanded to jail until March 31 on information that his counsel intended to make a motion which, if granted, would necessitate a new trial.

Mary Thomas, negroess, tearfully admitted taking whisky to the Portland Cement company's plant at Four Mile Lake, and distributing it among the colored population there. She was arrested late Friday afternoon by deputy sheriff L. G. Palmer and taken to the jail.

Emma Spence and Clarence, both pleaded guilty to a charge of selling and furnishing liquor. They were remanded until Monday afternoon.

In the case of Ben Kirk, negro, charged with selling whisky, the sheriff was directed not to serve the commitment on condition that Kirk leave the state after a reasonable time.

Physician Raps Overeating.

Eating between meals seems to be a favorite practice among students at all times and in all places, but the recent introduction of various candy and ice cream combinations has added an element of seriousness to the problem, according to a member of the faculty of the medical school of the U. of M.

"Students eat an enormous amount of such confectionery, if we are to judge by the number that are sold around the campus," he said. "Ice cream and chocolate are perfectly good foods, of course, when eaten in proper amount, but this overstuffing which is being indulged in by students is piling up in their systems the nuclei for various disturbances which may have a most decided effect upon their health during later life."

Book of Michigan Lakes.

"The Inland Lakes of Michigan" by Professor I. D. Scott of the University of Michigan has just been received in the office of the Geological Survey Division of the Conservation Department.

This publication is the result of several summers' study of the lakes of Michigan by Professor Scott authorized by the former Board of Geological Survey. The studies were made under the direction of State Geologists R. C. Allen and R. A. Smith. The book contains careful description of the origin, history and present conditions of the lakes, their basins and shores, especially of the large lakes of the State and brief reviews of many of the smaller important lakes.

Tourists, students and teachers of physiography and owners of lands adjacent to the lakes will find the book interesting and valuable. It is copiously illustrated by excellent half-tones and many drawings.

Publications of the Survey are sent gratis to citizens of Michigan for postal charges only. The publication on the Inland Lakes is Publication 30, Geological Series 25, of the Michigan Geological survey, it may be obtained by addressing the office of the State Geologist.

Most Babies are Born in March.

"Most people are born in the month of —"

Various guesses are made from time to time. Usually the person guessing believes that the month in which he was born is the birth month of a plurality of people. He notices particularly when a person has a birthday in the same month that his occurs and so is prejudiced in his conclusions.

Highest birth rates are observed during the spring and summer seasons. Other things being equal the most births should occur in the months having 31 days. This leaves March, May, July and August—the 31-day months—as claimants for the largest number of births.

April reported a daily average of 281 births, or a total of 8,429, in Michigan in 1921. Though March, a 31-day month, reported the largest number of births, 8,584, its daily average was below that of April, being 277, while the average for the year was 263 daily.

In the period from 1910 to 1921 March leads with the largest number of births seven times, August four times and December once. In 1920, for no apparent reason, the months of January, May, June, July, August and September are credited with more births than March. When March leads it has been noted that August is usually the runner-up, and vice versa. In the world as a whole, however, statisticians have shown that June is the greatest birth month.

Studies in infant mortality prove that the late winter months with respiratory diseases and the mid-summer months with diarrheal diseases are the most dangerous periods for young children. "Mothers with young babies should endeavor to breast feed them throughout the summer preparatory to weaning them in the fall," warns Harriet Leck, R. N., director of child hygiene and public health nursing of the state department of health. "Weaning during the hot weather is a dangerous proceeding and should be avoided."

Hurlburt, former pastor of the Congregational church recently bought the Charles Reason home on Unadilla street, expecting to make this his future home, but since the purchase, Rev. Hurlburt has been seriously ill and has changed his plans about moving here in the near future.--Dispatch.

Jackson--Seven Jackson young men their ages ranging from 19 to 26, were arrested by sheriff's officers at Michigan Center late Saturday night, following what is said to have been an attempt to break up the dance. After being brought to Jackson the seven were released to appear in justice court Monday morning.--News.

Ypsilanti--The bad piece of road lying between Upper Cross street and the good roads has been closed to traffic on account of the bad condition it is in. This outlet to Ypsilanti is always bad at its best. Last year some work was done on it by the city, but as it looks today it was wasted money and effort.--Record.

Brooklyn--Eight Jackson high school students are implicated in breaking a large window and entering the Buchanan cottage at Eagle Point a week ago last Friday night. Four boys and four girls were in the disgraceful party. While prosecution and publicity are so far withheld they will be given a lesson such as they do not seem to have learned from good instructors and splendid privileges.--Exponent.

Manchester--People in the eastern part of the village were excited Friday morning at the great speed of a large automobile coming from the east on City Road, followed closely by another car. They turned off Water street circled a block and sped east again at the same tremendous rate, the rear car seeming attempting to catch up with the leading one, but what it was all about nobody seemed to learn.--Enterprise.

Ann Arbor--John K. Fairbairn of Joliet, Ill., a sophomore literary student in the U. of M. and a member of the varsity football squad last year, has been in jail for six days following his arrest by county officers on a charge of selling whisky. According to the police, Fairbairn has confessed to selling around the campus liquor brought from Detroit in an auto by an accomplice. Fairbairn was arraigned Friday afternoon, waived examination, and was bound over to the circuit court under $1,500 bail.

Jackson--Farm land in Jackson county is less valuable than that in surrounding counties, according to figures furnished by the farm bureau. Land is selling on an average of from $10 to $29 per acre lower than in Washtenaw, Ingham, Hillsdale and many other Michigan counties, it is stated. This is believed due to the fact that there is considerable sandy soil and undrained land in the county. A number of drainage projects are under way now, and completion of the work will enhance the county valuation, it is believed.

Ann Arbor--Claiming permanent injury as a result of an assault which he claims was made upon him last July near Dexter, Clyde A. Dixon of Dexter township started suit in circuit court Monday morning against George Federman, Detroit, asking for damages to the amount of $10,000. According to Dixon, who occupied the stand during a greater part of the forenoon session, he was driving his automobile near Dexter on July of last year, when Federman approached on a hay rigging, and refused to give Dixon half of the road, forcing Dixon into the ditch.

Four-Power Pacific Treaty Is Ratified by Senate After Bitter Debate.

HOUSE PASSES BONUS BILL

President Orders American Army Home From Rhine and Hughes Notifies Allies They Must Pay Expense Bill—Moslem Unrest.

By JOHN DICKINSON SHERMAN
The four-power Pacific treaty was ratified by the United States senate Friday, March 24.

By agreement made ten days in advance the vote had been set for that date. It came as the climax to a week of strenuous oratory. The bitter debate was precipitated Monday when Senator Borah (Republican of Idaho) read into the record a steno-graphic report of a statement attributed to Paul D. Cravath, "the representative of the Morgans and the Ryans," to the effect that the United States had entered into a secret agreement to co-operate with Great Britain against Japan in the Pacific. Senators Lodge and Underwood, Republican and Democratic floor leaders and American delegates to the conference with Secretary of State Hughes and Elihu Root, denied the alleged Cravath statement. Senator Robinson of Arkansas, leading the Democratic opposition to the treaty, demanded a senatorial investigation and asked that Secretary Hughes and Mr. Root be called before the foreign relations committee. At this point Senator Lodge said:

"This debate is proceeding upon the theory that the four American delegates were not only ignorant and incompetent but that they were prepared to betray their country. It is an implication against the honesty and patriotism of the President. I believe that they are as patriotic and as desirous of protecting the interests of their country as those who are slandering them by implication and insinuations. I will trust the people of the United States to stand by the President and the four delegates in this great conference."

Later Mr. Cravath emphatically denied the statement attributed to him. Secretary Hughes wrote a letter in which he said:

"In my letter to Senator Underwood on March 11th, in relation to the four-power treaty, I said:

"There are no secret notes or understandings."

"Permit me to express the hope that the American delegates will be saved further aspersions upon their veracity and honor."

"To the Man in the Street the astonishing part of this is the fact that anyone—United States senator or anyone else—should expect to get across with charges, direct or indirect, against either the honor, the efficiency, the veracity or the patriotism of the four American delegates."

PASSAGE OF THE "four billion dollar" bonus bill was accomplished by the house Thursday, March 23, by a vote of 333 to 70, four voting present. A two-thirds majority was necessary to pass the bills under a suspension of the rules.

The bonus bill was put through in accordance with a program announced the preceding Tuesday. Chairman Campbell of the rules committee submitted a resolution providing for suspension of the rules. Chairman Fordney of the ways and means committee was recognized by the speaker for the offering of a motion to suspend the rules and pass the bill. Four hours of debate followed, with time divided.

Any forecast of the treatment of the bill by the senate is largely guesswork. Certain Republican senators have expressed opposition to the bill as reported to the house by the ways and means committee. It is common report that any bill passed by the senate will contain a provision setting forth the necessary taxation plan to pay the bonus, which is omitted from the house bill. Some political prophets predict a deadlock between the two houses. Nobody pretends to be able to say whether or not President Harding will veto the bill.

President Harding, upon his return from a short vacation in Florida, was called upon Monday, March 20, at the White House by a delegation from the house: Floor Leader Mondell (Wyoming) and Representatives Fordney (Michigan), Townner (Iowa), Campbell (Kansas), Longworth (Ohio) and Fess (Ohio). They discussed bonus legislation for two hours, with this result, according to the official communique:

"The legislative situation relating to the bonus bill was fully presented to the President, with detailed explanation of the provisions which remove the menace of excessive drafts on the treasury in the immediate future and avoid any program of added taxation. The President went over the entire situation with an appraisal of commitments made. He advised the committee that the legislation is a responsibility of congress, and in view of expressions previously made he did not think it essential to offer any recommendations."

The President's "expressions previously made" were recommendations of a sales tax to provide the revenue to pay the bonus or postponement of the passage of the measure until the funds were in hand. The delegation was divided as to whether the President would or would not veto the bill if passed.

Everybody was on hand when the house opened Monday and nobody seemed to know what Speaker Gillett intended to do. Garner (Democrat, Texas), asked that Mondell be given two minutes to tell the status of the regular order. The speaker announced that no one would be recognized that day to bring up the bill. Then there was a conference in the speaker's office. It got nowhere. The speaker held that he would not assume the responsibility of letting the bill come up until he had the express command of the majority members. Democratic members of the ways and means committee made a minority report which called the bill all the financial, economic and political names on the calendar. Tuesday a definite program for the passage of the bill Thursday by the house under a suspension of the rules was announced by the Republican leaders.

PRESIDENT HARDING has ordered all American troops in Germany returned to the United States by July 1, the beginning of the 1923 fiscal year. This was the American government's first answer to the refusal of the allied reparation commission to pay its bill for $241,000,000 for the expense of United States troops on the Rhine up to May 1, 1921, out of a billion gold marks recently paid over by Germany. The allies argue this way: The allies are not bound by the Berlin treaty, just as the United States is not bound by the Versailles treaty. America's claim is based on the Berlin treaty. Therefore the allies are not bound to pay the American claim.

Secretary of State Hughes has made the government's second answer. In effect he has served notice on the allies that they cannot dodge payment to hide behind a technicality which doesn't exist. Identical communications were placed Wednesday, March 21, by American ambassadors before the governments of Great Britain, France, Italy, Japan and Belgium. Secretary Hughes insists that the right of the United States to be paid is not only clearly equitable but free from any technical objection. He sets forth in detail this right, as established jointly under the terms of the armistice, the treaty of Versailles and the treaty of peace between the United States and Germany. He says the United States will welcome any suggestion from the allies for reasonable adjustment. And in the meantime they please refrain from giving effect to any arrangements for the distribution of German cash payments to the exchequer of the claim of the United States.

Evidently the situation is one which requires an able secretary of state. It apparently has many complications. In debate in the senate Senator Lodge said that our claim had nothing to do with either treaty, that it was based on an agreement made under the armistice and that evasion was a mere technicality. Senator Underwood agreed as to the technicality and then said this in effect:

"Nevertheless, payment rests in the reparation commission. The supreme war council—not to be confounded with the supreme council of the League of Nations—was given charge of winding up the war. We had a representative on that supreme council until after the defeat of the Versailles treaty. That supreme council turned over to the reparation commission the administration of the funds to be collected from Germany to pay the troops on the Rhine. The commission is now handling these funds. The only way we can get our share is to sit in at the reparation table."

Close observers in Washington say that the President's informal utterances indicate that he would look with favor upon the appointment by congress of an American representative on the allied reparation commission. He will not propose it, but he thinks congress should realize its necessity.

LOYD GEORGE has announced that he will attend the Genoa conference. Viscount Peel has accepted the post of secretary of state for India, after Lord Derby had declined it. So it looks as if the British cabinet crisis growing out of the indiscretion and enforced resignation of R. S. Montagu is over. Back of it, however, is a condition of world-wide interest—unrest and concerted action in the Moslem world of quarter of a billion fanatical religionists. What the Moslems consider the ill treatment of Turkey since the World war has bound them more closely together and quickened their activities. They appear to be in touch the world over and propaganda is everywhere. The demand of the Indian government for the restoration of Turkey is convincing evidence of Moslem solidarity. The sultan of Turkey as caliph of Islam is leader of all Mohammedans.

EUROPE is confronted by the danger of a devastating plague of typhus, according to the health department of the League of Nations. Ten million emigrants bearing typhus germs are bearing down on the western frontiers of Russia and no barrier European nations can erect will stop this panic-stricken horde of peasants fleeing from famine and death. Already the Polish barrier has been broken down; 600,000 Russians have swarmed into Eastern Galicia. Everywhere the route of the hordes is lined with unburied corpses. In the famine districts they are dying so fast that little effort is made to bury the dead. The league will attempt to establish a sanitary cordon. Bayonets will be abandoned and an attempt made to cleanse and cure the millions.

MAINE furnished the first test of strength in the congressional elections. John E. Nelson, Republican, defeated Ernest McLean, Democrat, in a special election in the Third district. The Republican victory was in the face of "Democratic weather." The Democrats cut down the majority, however, in a district which is normally strongly Republican, basing their campaign largely on the bonus and treaty issues. Query: What does the test of strength show?

STEFANSSON, the Arctic explorer, has planted the flag of Great Britain on Wrangel Island and claimed the same, in 1881 Capt. C. L. Hopper of the Corwin and Lieut. Robert M. Berry of the Rodgers landed on Wrangel Island, erected an American flag, took possession in the name of the United States by right of discovery and left a written record in a cairn. The island is important—if it is important—because of strategic dominance of northeastern Siberia.

DETROIT—Michigan's medical fraternity, including the state medical and dental societies, Detroit College of Medicine and Surgery and state department of public health, Monday night was committed to a state-wide program of education in health matters that opened a novel era of service to the citizens of the state.

The educational program was approved at a dinner at the Detroit club presided over by Marion L. Burton, president of the University of Michigan, following a series of conferences at which the general details of the plan were agreed upon.

This campaign provides for the sending of members of the state medical and dental societies, of the faculty of the state university and of the state department of health into any part of Michigan where they are invited by schools, clubs, women's organizations and all kinds of societies to address mass meetings on health subjects, without cost to the public or the organization.

The campaign was initiated by the state university medical society and was accepted by authorized representatives of the four most conspicuous organizations in the state having to do with the public health. It embraces medical men of the state and of the middle west who stand at the top of their profession.

The purpose of the program, which was adopted, and which will be in operation within the next 10 days or two weeks, was explained by speakers at the dinner to be a state-wide effort to carry to the men and women of Michigan an adequate knowledge of fundamental ascertained facts in regard to health and disease.

DUMP LIQUOR IN CHICAGO RIVER
350,000 Gallons Poured by Federal Prohibition Force.

Chicago—Federal prohibition agents dumped 350,000 gallons of wine, beer and whiskey into the Chicago river while several thousand persons gathered along the bank to watch the performance.

The liquor was ordered dumped into the river by Prohibition Director Gregory, despite the fact that Federal Prohibition Director Haynes at Washington had suggested in a long distance telephone call that it would bring undesirable publicity and present too ostentatious a display.

Mr. McGregor said it was necessary to dump the liquor to provide storage space and that he tried to carry out his plans secretly, but that in some way they had become known.

DETROIT MAYOR SUES DOCTOR
Asks $10,000 for Alleged Libel in Row Over Dr. Lorenz.

Detroit—Suit for $10,000 damages has been filed on behalf of Mayor Copeny by Alfred J. Murphy in circuit court, against Dr. William J. Dubois of Grand Rapids, chairman of the council of the Michigan State Medical society, alleging libel. The state council had held a stormy session in Detroit over the recent controversy about the invitation to Dr. Lorenz, and that controversy now bids fair to get a thorough airing.

The $10,000 damage suit, which was suppressed, is understood, to be based on a circular sent out by Dr. Dubois during the hot warfare which followed the invitation to Dr. Lorenz to visit Detroit.

BERLIN WON'T PAY TAX LEVY
Wirth Declares German Government Will Spurn Allies Demands.

Berlin—Chancellor Wirth told the premiers of the Federated States and Reichstag, representing the majority Socialists, Democrats, Clericals and the German people's party that the German government would inform the allied reparation commission that the 600,000,000 marks tax levy was not feasible, and that financial control of Germany, as stipulated in its note of last week also must be declined.

MAY DECLARE MILITARY LAW
Situation in Belfast Called Worse Than Rest of Erin.

London—The possibility of establishing martial law in a part of Belfast was foreshadowed by Winston Spencer Churchill, secretary for the colonies, in the house of commons Monday night.

He declared the situation in Belfast was far worse than in all the rest of Ireland and that the government was prepared to consider martial law with the military authorities.

Earning His Pay.
The story is told that a perspiring writer working on a soap campaign produced this:
"The alkaline elements and vegetable fats in this product are blended in such a way as to secure the highest quality of saponification along with the specific gravity that keeps it on top of the water, relieving the bother of the trouble and annoyance of fishing around for it in the bottom during his saponification."
When this piece of copy reached the advertising manager, he substituted for these two words, "it floats," "it sinks," which of these pieces of copy would you be willing to pay the most money?—Fortnes Magazine.

WASHINGTON SIDELIGHTS

Why Congressional Record Has Beats

WASHINGTON.—There is just enough justice in the complaints heard in Congress from time to time of the failure of the American press adequately to report its proceedings to justify them, as a matter of abstract truth. That the newspapers do not tell what is going on in Congress is a statement which cannot be sustained; that the newspapers do not tell all that occurs at the capitol day by day is a self-evident fact. Substantially a cross-section of the processes of legislation in the making is presented to the country with every rising sun, and there are fundamental reasons why considerations of relative importance must be borne in mind. It is no longer possible for the newspapers to give full reports of the proceedings of senate and house, and the operations, investigations, inquiries and conclusions of their various committees. In the Sixty-sixth congress no less than 16,239 public bills and 431 joint resolutions were introduced in the legislative grist mill of the house of representatives, and more than 5,000 in the senate, of which 401 of the former and 98 of the latter class became laws. In addition to the 124 private bills and resolutions which were enacted. Not even congress itself is able to visualize at a single sweep of the eye a labor so vast in scope. A follow-up system of federal publicity, probably through the executive departments, to keep the country informed, might be desirable. No single newspaper can report adequately every new act of congress and every intermediate step taken in the process of converting the twenty-odd thousand bills into the give hundred-odd laws. But it may be taken for granted with safety that there is adequate presentation by certain of the newspapers of every act and process of legislation of special interest to their particular constituencies.

Supreme Court Upholds Woman Suffrage

CONSTITUTIONALITY of the woman's suffrage, or nineteenth amendment was sustained by the Supreme court in a unanimous decision rendered by Justice Brandeis. The challenge came from the state of Maryland, where Oscar Lester and others sought to prevent the registration of two women as qualified voters in Baltimore. Lester and his associates contended that the constitution of Maryland limited suffrage to men, that the legislature of Maryland had refused to ratify the woman's suffrage amendment and that the amendment had not become a part of the federal constitution. The Maryland state courts sustained the amendment. The contention that an amendment to the federal constitution relating to additions to the electorate cannot be made without the consent of the state, the court disposed of by reference to the fifteenth or equal suffrage amendment, declaring that "one cannot be valid and the other invalid." It pointed out that the validity of the fifteenth amendment had been recognized for half a century. The suggestion that several of the 36 states which ratified the nineteenth amendment had provisions in their state constitutions which prohibited the legislatures from ratifying, could not be entertained, the court stated, because the state legislatures derived their power in such matters from the federal constitution which "transcends any limitations sought to be imposed by the people of a state." The remaining objection that the ratifying resolutions of Tennessee and West Virginia were inoperative, because adopted in violation of legislative procedure in those states, may have been rendered "immaterial," the court declared, by the subsequent ratification of the amendment by Connecticut and Vermont. The contention was disposed, however, on a broader ground.

Economy May Strike Remount Service

Fears that "attempts to curtail appropriations for the remount service" may be made in congress are expressed in communications received by the War department from horse breeders. Work formerly done by the Department of Agriculture in connection with improvement of the farm horses is now handled by the remount service, and the farmers' representatives have filed protests with members of congress against any slash of the military budget which would interfere with this activity. The remount service has 200 stations valued at more than $500,000, and has mapped out a program for their employment in 40 states during the year in co-operation with farmers, as it has been found that the most desirable type of horse for army use is exactly the type best fitted for farm work. A message to Col. F. S. Armstrong, chief of the remount service, signed by representatives of more than 40 horse breeders' organizations in the New England states, New York and Pennsylvania, said the work carried on by the service is "of incalculable value to the horse-breeding industry of the country." "We especially protest," it said, "against the proposal to abandon the remount depot at Front Royal, Va., the only remount depot in the east or south." The Utah Cattle and Horse Growers' association transmitted a resolution endorsing plans of the remount service and urging congressional support of this work by sufficient appropriations. The service was allowed $150,000 in the current army bill, a reduction from $250,000 the year before, and plans for the coming fiscal year contemplate continued operation of three depots—Front Royal, Fort Robinson, Neb., and Fort Reno, Okla. The fourth depot, now in operation at Fort Keogh, Mont.—is scheduled for abandonment because of limited funds.

Navy Is Getting Down to Brass Tacks

SECRETARY DENBY ordered 50 additional destroyers and nearly three-score auxiliary naval craft placed out of commission to conserve fuel. The destroyers are in addition to the 100 ordered out of commission recently, and will leave in the navy 79 destroyers in full commission and 40 with heavily reduced complements aboard. Among other vessels besides destroyers ordered out of commission are five oil ships and one collier, two store ships, four mine layers, six mine sweepers and Eagle boats and 14 tugs and towing vessels. Two gunboats, the Albany and the New Orleans, now on Asiatic station duty, also will be placed out of commission and sold as soon as they can be brought home. They will be replaced in Asiatic waters by the gunboats Sacramento and Asheville. Secretary Denby said the ships ordered out of commission today and the hundred destroyers previously retired as an economy measure were in addition to 92 other ships of the navy placed out of commission since he took office a year ago. The department in that time, he added, has sold 257 obsolete or auxiliary naval craft and now has on sale 62 additional ships. The American navy will continue to function, effecting all the economies already instituted until and unless a congressional mandate is received, directing otherwise, Secretary Denby says, in connection with action in the house on the navy's fuel estimate. Without a record vote the house passed and sent to the senate a bill appropriating approximately $108,500,000 to meet deficiencies. A provision which would limit to $4,300,000 the amount the navy department would spend for fuel during the next four months remained in the bill.

DAILY TALK

CLEAN PACKAGE FOR BUTTER

Carefully Packed Product Gives More Enjoyment to Consumer Than Slip-Shod Parcel.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
For the same reason that a man prefers to eat his meals from a clean tablecloth he prefers to get the butter he eats in a clean and attractive package—it helps him to get more enjoyment from his food and that means he really gets more value out of it, even though carefully packed products may contain just as much food value as those that are put up carelessly. The package into which butter is put is of more importance than most food packages, because the product which it holds is extremely sensitive to outside influences, especially odors. Men who have made a business of studying market conditions and methods have long given attention to the package problem and they are still at it. This year at the National Dairy show, held in St. Paul, Minn., October 8 to 15, the United States Department of Agriculture had an unusual show of butter packages that proved of as much interest as a lot of curios. The department has collected packages from the various countries of the world that make butter in considerable quantities, and they were shown in comparison with packages that are used in our own country. In addition there were examples of good and of poor packing.

FAVOR SWEET-CREAM BUTTER

Product in Storage for Year at Norfolk, Va., Scores Higher Than That on New York Market.

After remaining in storage for one year, samples of sweet-cream butter recently inspected at Norfolk, Va., scored higher than the highest score for butter quoted on the New York market. These samples, which received scores averaging 93.47, were representative of 1,000,000 pounds of butter packed for the United States navy under the supervision of the United States Department of Agriculture. The scoring was done by a specialist from the dairy division and a representative of a commercial butter firm in New York city.

"This butter, which was made for the navy last year," said the inspector, "was of such fine quality that we cannot neglect the opportunity to comment upon the comparatively small amount of extra work required to produce a product of this quality as compared with the average butter found on the large markets."

This butter was made from a perfectly sweet cream, with a comparatively high salt content and low moisture. The moisture content did not exceed 13.5 per cent. After one year in storage only one sample scored as low as 92%. Of the other 50 samples, 24 scored 94, two scored 93 1/2 and 24 scored 93.

Consumers who are accustomed to a pronounced flavor in butter do not at first show favor to sweet-cream butter as it is somewhat lacking in this respect when fresh. A demand for sweet-cream butter, however, is growing steadily, according to butter dealers handling this product. On being held in storage the flavor becomes more pronounced, and for this reason sweet-cream butter is often scored higher after storage than when fresh. For storage purposes such a butter is far superior to the ordinary butter, which usually loses in quality during the storage period.

LEGION AND DUST RELATION

Earl Vance, Miles City (Mont.) Ex-Soldier, Did Not Quit When the War Ended.

Before the war, Earl T. Vance was a stenographer. He could scarcely typewrite for 30 seconds without making a mistake, but when he got into aviation he managed to fly 1,000 hours without an accident. Lemuel Bolles, national adjutant of the American Legion, was so impressed with this record that, after turning down dozens of offers to ride, he took his first flight with Vance while touring the country in Montana. Vance had returned from his airplane honeymoon, which he devised as a means of avoiding old shoes and rice, and which his bride thought was "too thrilling for words." When Vance got out of the service, he found himself in Texas. Not being entirely decided on the best place to live, he stepped into a plane and started "north." When he arrived over Montana he looked down and thought the country looked good. So he landed, and he is in Miles City, where he runs an airplane company. Doctors, and even horse doctors, patronize his taxi service to make their long calls—Montana miles being among the longest in the world. Vance always makes it a point to fly to conventions of the American Legion.

"SERVICE" FOR LEGION ALSO

Raymond Brackett, of Marblehead, Mass., "Delivered the Goods" During the World War.

When Raymond O. Brackett was running a hotel in Marblehead, Mass., he believed in giving his guests "service." When his patrons ordered up an oyster stew, they were sure to find plenty of oysters in it.

When the war began to be mentioned in the papers, Mr. Brackett, whose grandfather, uncle, and great-uncle all had been in the army in the Civil war, closed his desk, hung up his "be back later" sign, and joined the navy. The Germans having ordered up a war, Mr. Brackett, in his customary style, saw to it that they got "service." If war was what they wanted, he was willing to fill their order. On October 1, then a full-fledged lieutenant, he steamed out in his U. S. S. Lake View and filled the North sea so full of mines that there was very little actual water left. It was on the Lake View that he witnessed the sinking of the German fleet at Scapa Flow.

When Lieutenant Brackett returned he took down his sign, opened his desk, and found a notice of his election as one of the national vice-commanders of the American Legion. In which capacity he is still giving "service."

USED FLAG FOR DUST CLOTH

Tampa Legion Man Causes Investigation When He Witnesses Desecration of Starry Banner.

A man stood wiping off his automobile. It was rapidly taking on a glorious luster—the sort of sheen that is spoken of in advertisements of furniture polish, but which is seldom seen. It was a lustre that brightened the very streets of Tampa, Fla., where the automobile stood. It threw back the rays of the sun and mirrored the figure of the tolling man. Attracted by the light, a member of the American Legion post at Tampa drew near the scene, and finally made out that the man was wiping the car with a large American flag. The stars and stripes were being rubbed ingloriously from the radiator cap to the tail light and back again. It was such an unusual case that the Legion man had a special committee appointed.

After much deliberation, the committee reported that the offender was "simply ignorant." Steps were taken immediately to show the naive auto-wiper why he was using the wrong sort of dust cloth.

Carrying On With the American Legion

Baseball is in full swing with the American Legion in Buenos Aires now.

Twenty-two squares of Quincy, Mass., have been dedicated by the American Legion to as many war dead.

King Victor Emmanuel favors the plan of having 1,000 British and 1,000 American soldiers visit the Italian battle front next summer.

"Start them right" is the motto of the American Legion at Colono, N. D., which has taken over the instruction of the local troop of boy scouts.

Borrowing American Legion buttons to obtain sympathy in the courts has been a practice of prisoners in the Los Angeles county jail. The judge is "wise" now.

Corduroy Cords

Rut Proof

Corduroy Cords were designed to achieve the irreducible minimum in sidewall wear.

This has been accomplished by moulding eight graduated corrugations in the sidewall, thus interposing a wall of live rubber between curbs, ruts, etc., and the tire.

In addition Corduroy Cords have a smart, clean-cut air which enhances the appearance of any car.

In most towns one of the best dealers features Corduroy Cords. Be sure you examine Corduroy Cords before making your next investment in tires.

Sold by the Drop.
A well-dressed woman stopped in front of the perfume counter in one of the uptown stores, says the Indianapolis News.
"I would like some good perfume," she told the clerk.
"Wanting to a bottle filled with perfume costing $3 an ounce, she asked to sample it."
Because the woman looked as if she might make a purchase, the clerk, in violation of the store rules, for perfume deteriorates when opened, permitted the woman to take a whiff of it.
"Now, that's pretty good," the customer replied. "I think I'll take a quarter's worth."
"Why, Madam," the astonished clerk managed to answer, "you've already had a quarter's worth."

Heaven!
Jimmy was very fond of bread and preserves, and one day just before supper he came in, asking:
"Mother, may I have some bread and preserves?"
"Jimmy, I've told you a dozen times that you cannot have preserves before supper. Run out and play a while."
"Well, I hope I die soon," Jimmy said as he was leaving his mother's presence.
"Why, Jimmy?" asked his mother.
"Well, I'll be sure to get lots of preserves in heaven," he answered.
"Who told you so?" asked his mother.
"Well the Catechism says the Lord makes, preserves and redeems us," answered the theological Jimmy.

HURT?

Ramsey Milholland

By BOOTH TARKINGTON

Copyright by Doubleday, Page & Company

HIS FIRST LOVE.

Synopsis.—With his grandfather, small Ramsey Milholland is watching the "Decoration Day Parade" in the home town. The old gentleman, a veteran of the Civil war, endeavors to impress the youngster with the significance of the great conflict, and many years afterward, Ramsey is not distinguished for remarkable ability, though his pronounced dislikes are arithmetic, "Recitations" and German. In sharp contrast to Ramsey's backwardness is the precocity of little Dora Yocum, a young lady whom in his bitterness he denominated "Teacher's Pet." In high school, where he and Dora are classmates, Ramsey continues to feel that the girl delights to manipulate her superiority, and the vindictiveness he conceives becomes alarming, culminating in the resolution that some day he will "show her." At a class picnic Ramsey, to his embarrassment, appears to attract the favorable attention of Miss Mila Rust, a young lady of about his own age and the acknowledged belle of the class.

"I don't see it," he murmured huskily, afraid that she might remove her hand. "I can't see any fish, Mila."
She leaned farther out over the bank. "Why, there, goosie!" she whispered. "Right there."
"I can't see it."
She leaned still further, bending down to point. "Why, right there!"
At this moment she removed her hand from his shoulder, though unwillingly. She clutched at him, in fact, but without avail. She had been too amiable.

A loud shriek was uttered by throats, able to vocalize, just then, than Mila's, for in her great surprise she said nothing whatever—the shriek came from the other girls as Mila left the crest of the overhanging bank and almost horizontally disappeared into the brown water. There was a tumultuous splash, and then of Mila Rust and her well-known beauty there was nothing visible in the superficial world, nor upon the surface of that creek. The vanishment was total.

"Save her!"
Several girls afterward admitted having used this expression, and little Miss Floy Williams, the youngest and smallest member of the class, was unable to deny that she had said, "Oh, God!" Nothing could have been more natural, and the matter need not have been brought before her with such insistence and frequency, during the two remaining years of her undergraduate career.

Ramsey was one of those who heard this exclamation, later so famous, and perhaps it was what roused him to heroism. He dived from the bank, headlong, and the strange thought in his mind was "I guess this'll show Dora Yocum!" He should have been thinking of Mila, of course, at such a time, particularly after the little enchantment just laid upon him by Mila's touch and Mila's curls; and he knew well enough that Miss Yocum was not among the spectators. She was half a mile away, as it happened, gathering "botanical specimens" with one of the teachers—which was her idea of what to do at a picnic!

Ramsey struck the water hard, and in the same instant struck something else harder. Wesley Bender's bundle of books had given him no such shock as he received now, and if the creek bottom had not been of mud, just there, the top of his young head might have declined the strain. Half stunned, choking, spluttering, he somehow floundered to his feet; and when he could get his eyes a little cleared of water he found himself wavering face to face with a blurred vision of Mila Rust. She had risen up out of the pool and stood knee deep, like a lovely drenched figure in a fountain.

Upon the bank above them, Willis Parker was jumping up and down, gesticulating and shouting fiercely. "Now I guess you're satisfied our fishin' is spool!" Why not you listen me? I told you it wasn't more'n three foot deep! I and Heinie waded all over this creek gettin' our bait. You're a pretty sight!"

Of Mila he spoke unwittingly the literal truth. Even with her hair thus wild and sodden, Mila rose from immersion blushing and prettier than ever; and she was prettiest of all when she stretched out her hand helplessly to Ramsey and he led her up out of the waters. They had plenty of assistance to scramble to the top of the bank, and there Mila was surrounded and borne away with a great clacketing and tumult. Ramsey sat upon the grass in the sun, rubbed his head, and experimented with his neck to see if it would "work." The sunshine was strong and hot; in half an hour he and his clothes were dry—or at least "dry enough," as he said, and except for some soreness of head and neck, and the general crumpledness of his apparel, he seemed to be in all ways much as usual, when shouts and whistlings summoned all the party to luncheon at the rendezvous. The change that made him different was invisible.

Nothing more had been seen of her.

granted that he was to sit next to Mila at the pastoral meal. She herself understood it, evidently, for she drew in her puckered skirts and withdrew any words made a place for him beside her as he driftingly approached her, affecting to whistle and keeping his eyes on the foliage overhead. He still looked upward, even in the act of sitting down.

"Squirrel or something," he said feebly, as if in explanation.

"Where?" Mila asked.

"Up there on a branch." He accepted a plate from her (she had provided herself with an extra one), but he did not look at it or at her. He continued to keep his eyes aloft, because he imagined that all of the class were looking at him and Mila, and he felt unable to meet such publicity. It was to him as if the whole United States had been scandalized to attention by this act of his in going to sit beside Mila; he gazed upward so long that his eye-balls became sensitive under the strain. He began to blink. "I can't make out whether it's a squirrel or just some leaves that kind of got fixed like one," he said. "I can't make out yet which it is, but I guess when there's a breeze, if it's a squirrel he'll probably hop around some then, if he's alive or anything."

It had begun to seem that his eyes must remain fixed in that upward stare forever; he wanted to bring them down, but could not face the glare of the world. But finally the brightness of the sky between the leaves settled matters for him; he sneezed, wept, and for a little moment again faced his fellowmen. No one was looking at him; everybody except Mila had other things to do.

Having sneezed involuntarily, he added a spell of coughing for which there was no necessity. "I guess I must be wrong," he muttered thickly.

"What about Ramsey?"
"About it's been a squirrel." With infinite timidity he turned his head and encountered a gaze so soft, so halting, that it disconcerted him, and he dropped a "drumstick" of fried chicken, well dotted with ants, from his plate. Scarlet he picked it up, but did not eat it. For the first time in his life he felt that eating fried chicken held in the fingers was not to be thought of. He replaced the "drumstick" upon his plate and allowed it to remain there untouched, in spite of a great hunger for it.

Having looked down, he now found difficulty in looking up, but gazed steadily at his plate, and into this limited circle of vision came Mila's delicate and rosy fingers, bearing a gift. "There," she said in a motherly little voice. "It's a tomato mayonnaise sandwich and I made it myself. I want you to eat it, Ramsey."

His own fingers approached tremulously as he accepted the thick sandwich from her and conveyed it to his mouth. A moment later his soul filled with horror, for a spurt of mayonnaise dressing had caused a catastrophe the scene of which occupied no inconsiderable area of his right cheek, which was the cheek toward Mila. He groped wretchedly for his handkerchief but could not find it; he had lost it. Sudden death would have been relief; he was sure that after such grotesquerie Mila could never bear to have anything more to do with him; he was ruined.

In his anguish he felt a paper napkin pressed gently into his hand; a soft voice said in his ear, "Wipe it off with this, Ramsey. Nobody's noticing."

So this incredibly charitable creature was still able to be his friend, even after seeing him mayonnaised! Humiliatingly, he did as she told him, but avoided all further risks. He ate nothing more.

He sighed his first sigh of inexpressible relief, had a chill or so along the spine, and at intervals his brow was bedewed

Within his averted eyes there dwelt not the Mila Rust who sat beside him, but an iridescent, frugile creature who had become angelic.

He spent the rest of the day dawdling helplessly about her; wherever she went he was near, as near as possible, but of no deliberate volition of his own. Something seemed to tie him to her, and Mila was nothing loth. He seldom looked at her directly, or for longer than an instant, and more rarely still did he speak to her except as a reply. What few remarks he ventured upon his own initiative nearly all concerned the landscape, which he commented repeatedly in a weak voice, as "kind of pretty," though once he said he guessed there might be bugs in the bark of a log on which they sat; and he became so immoderately personal as to declare that if the bugs had to get on anybody he'd rather they got on him than on Mila. She said that was "just perfectly lovely" of him, asked where he got his sweet nature, and in other ways encouraged him to continue the revelation, but Ramsey was unable to get forward with it, though he opened and closed his mouth a great many times in the effort to do so.

At five o'clock everybody was summoned again to the rendezvous for a ceremony preliminary to departure; the class found itself in a large circle, standing, and sang "The Star Spangled Banner." Ordinarily, on such an open-air and out-of-school occasion, Ramsey would have joined the chorus uproariously with the utmost blatancy of which his vocal apparatus was capable; and most of the other boys expressed their humor by drowning out the serious efforts of the girls; but he sang feebly, not much more than humming through his teeth. Standing beside Mila, he was incapable of his former inequalities and his voice was in a semi-paralyzed condition, like the rest of him.

Opposite him, across the circle, Dora Yocum stood a little in advance of those near her, for of course she led the singing. Her clear and earnest voice was distinguishable from all others, and though she did not glance toward Ramsey he had a queer feeling that she was assuming more superiority than ever, and that she was icily scornful of him and Mila. The old resentment rose—he'd "show" that girl yet, some day!

When the song was over, cheers were given for the class, "the good old class of Nineteen Fourteen," the school, the teachers, and for the picnic, thus officially concluded; and then the picnickers, carrying their baskets and faded wild flowers and other souvenirs and burdens, moved toward the big "express wagons" which were to take them back into the town. Ramsey got his guitar case, and turned to Mila.

"Well—g-by."
"Why—well," said Mila. "Anyway, not yet. You can go back in the same wagon with me. It's going to stop at the school and let us all out there, and then you could walk home with me if you felt like it."

"Well—well, I'd be perfectly willing," Ramsey said. "Only I heard we all had to go back in whatever wagon we came out in, and I didn't come in the same one with you, so—"
Mila laughed and leaned toward him a little. "I already 'tended to that,' she said confidentially. "I asked Johnnie Flske, that came out in my wagon, to go back in yours, so that makes room for you."

"Well—then I guess I could do it." He moved toward the wagon with her. "I expect it don't make much difference one way or the other."

"And you can carry my basket if you want to," she said, adding solicitously, "unless it's too heavy when you already got your guitar case to carry, Ramsey."

This thoughtfulness of hers almost overcame him; she seemed divine. "I'll be glad to carry the basket, too," he faltered. "It—it don't weigh anything much."

"Well, let's hurry, so's we can get places together."
Then, as she maneuvered him through the little crowd about the wagon, with a soft push this way and a gentle pull that, and hurried him up the improvised steps and found a place where there was room for them both to sit, Ramsey had another breathless sensation heretofore unknown to him. He found himself taken under a dove-like protectorship; a wonderful, inexpressible being seemed to have become his proprietor.

"Isn't this just perfectly lovely?" she said cooily, close to his ear. He swallowed, but found no words, for he had no thoughts; he was only an incoherent tumult. This was his first love.

"Isn't it, Ramsey?" she urged. The coo voice had just the hint of a reproach. "Don't you think it's just perfectly lovely, Ramsey?"

"Yes'm."

The acquaintance progresses, Ramsey and Mila openly "keeping company."

MOTHER! CLEAN

CHILD'S BOWELS WITH CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, give a teaspoonful to cleanse the liver and bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.—Advertisement.

A UNION OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Healthy Housewife—Happy Home

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Helped Form Many

For the ailing, half-sick housewife such a union is impossible. Often times even the slightest form of housework cannot be accomplished. Yet the work must be done.

Many women struggle along for years suffering from some form of female trouble that makes their lives miserable and their homes far from happy.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped thousands of just such women regain their health and strength. Just give your thought to the following letters and remember that the women who wrote these letters knew how they felt before taking the Vegetable Compound and again afterwards. It helped them—let it help you.

Had Nervous Spells
Horatio, Ark.—"I had nervous spells and awful bad feelings. My right side and my back hurt me all the time and I had been going down in health for six or seven years. For three years I had not been able to do my work without help. I weighed only 95 pounds when my husband's mother persuaded me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Now I heartily recommend it to all suffering women, as I have gained weight and health. I can do all my work, anything I want to do."—Mrs. JIM REARICK, Horatio, Arkansas.

Why Jones Wanted to Die

Death an Easy Matter Compared to Explanation He Had to Make to Employer.

The other day Jones received two letters. One was from his friend, Jack Smith, asking him to play in a football match, the other was an invitation from his employer, whose name was also Smith, to spend the day at his home.

Now Jones had long admired from afar his employer's daughter, so this invitation was like opening the gates of Paradise to him.

He sat down and wrote a brief note of acceptance, while to his other friend he sent a scrawl across an old half-sheet.

A few hours later Jones was surprised to see Jack Smith burst into his room exclaiming: "Why aren't you ready?"

"Ready? I wrote and told you I couldn't play."

"Nonsense. You wrote me a courteous note accepting my invitation. I

Deserved Reward.
"You raised the salary of that new reporter of yours?"

"I certainly did," replied the editor, "although he had been working for me less than a week."

"He must have shown conspicuous ability."

"Yes, I sent him out to 'cover' a trial where the defendant was represented by a woman lawyer. He wrote a column about the case and never once referred to her as Portia."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

HAVE SYSTEM OF SIGNALING

Naturalist Declares That Birds Convey Messages to Each Other by Moving Their Tails.

Do birds signal to each other with their tails? They do, says that enthusiastic naturalist, Ernest Thompson Seton. Each family has a signal code, or, at least, he says, in each family of birds there seems to be one species that makes wig-wag signals with its tail to others of its kind. And in nearly every case the tail so used is decorated with colors or with white spots, bars and blotches, so as to make it more easily seen from afar.

The best known of these tail wags is the robin. The clear white spots at the corners are very plain at the robin alights and then, for the benefit of "whom it may concern," gives the wig-wag sign of his race—a wag down to right, and then a wag down to left, so the tip makes a cross in the air when he makes the full sign.

The phoebe makes an extraordinary performance with his tail, often winging it in a complete circle.

Olive Is Ancient Fruit.
It is doubtful if there are many fruits that have been known to man longer than the olive. Records show it was cultivated by the Egyptians more than 4,000 years ago, and olive and the olive tree are mentioned often in the Bible and all ancient writings. Asia Minor is supposed to have been the original home of the olive. The trees often reach a great height and a very old age—some of them in parts of southern France being nearly 2,000 years old.

Civility.
"Who's that fellow that cursed me a minute ago?" "That's the civil engineer." "What's in a name anyhow?"

She Walked With a Cane

Thursday Health Talk No. 11,
by H. H. Beatty, Chiropractor

Neck
Turns
Backward

Just how a child comes by displacements of the spinal vertebrae is not hard to appreciate if you watch them at play. They get some hard falls and jolts, and unless the spine is given attention every now and then some chronic ailment is apt to develop. It was thus with Violet Watson. Something threw the proper vertebrae out of alignment and Rheumatism resulted. For years she walked with a cane.

Rheumatism is due to pinching of spinal nerves to the kidneys and liver. This results in sluggish activity of these two eliminating organs. As the waste poisons accumulate in the system the symptoms develop that warrant the physician in calling it rheumatism. The chiropractor brings the patient back to health by eliminating the cause—spinal nerve pressure—and when this pressure is gone Nature gradually clears the system of waste poisons and the sufferer becomes well.

Bedfast for Seven Months—
Now Well.

"My daughter, Violet Watson, was ill ten years with rheumatism. In her last attack she was bedfast seven months. Her case was pronounced hopeless and we turned to chiropractic. After a time she threw away a cane she had used for years. Today she is in perfect health. I can sympathize with all such sufferers, and recommend chiropractic."—William R. Watson, Chiropractic Research Bureau, Statement No. 1223M.
