EARLY MORNING FIRE DOES LARGE DAMAGE

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Hamlin, on McKinley street, was discovered to be on fire about 5:30 this morning by John Beeler, who aroused the neighbors and an alarm was turned in. The members of the Chelsea fire department, as usual, promptly responded, and although they were handicapped with a broken hydrant which made their water supply short, they were able to save a portion of the building.

Mr. and Mrs. Hamlin and children were aroused from their slumber and escaped with but a limited amount of their wearing apparel.

When the fire was discovered the attic and roof was almost a solid mass of flames and but very little of the contents was saved. The building is practically a total loss, and was partially covered with insurance. The loss is about $5,000.

William Darwin Boyd.

The oldest son of Harvey C. and Mercy (Peck) Boyd, was born at Lima, Washtenaw County, Michigan, August 8, 1838.

He married Sarah A. Warner at the same place, June 27, 1866. After their marriage they commenced their married life upon a farm near Sylvan Center. Soon afterwards he sold the same and purchased a saw mill in the southern part of the town. He was elected to the office of township treasurer once or twice, and also was a prominent member in the Masonic Order here.

His wife was the daughter of Rev. Jerred Warner, a Methodist clergyman. To this union were born two children, Charles J. and Elba H. The former was born at Sylvan, Michigan, October 10, 1868, and the latter at the same place, November 1, 1870.

Mr. Boyd died April 2, 1922, at the home of his son, Charles, in Detroit. The funeral was held Tuesday, April 4, at 1:30 p. m., at the residence of his niece, Mrs. Edith Weber, in Chelsea, Rev. E. A. Carnes conducting the services. Burial at Maple Grove cemetery, Sylvan Center.

Mrs. Freer was born in Sharon on the farm at present owned by A. H. Kuhl. For many years Mr. and Mrs. Freer were residents of Chelsea and moved from here to Jackson, where Mr. Freer died.

She is survived by one son, William H. Freer, several grandchildren, and two sisters, Mrs. Billy J. Billings, of Toledo, and Mrs. Charles French, of Lansing.

Arbor Day.

The fiftieth anniversary of the first Arbor Day is April 22. The month brings also the ninetieth anniversary of the birth of the father of Arbor Day; the fiftieth anniversary of the establishment of the famous Arnold Arboretum, and the fortieth anniversary of the founding of the American Forestry Association at Cincinnati. Schools throughout the country are making arrangements to properly celebrate the day.

Storm Damage Great.

The worst sleet storm so far as the oldest residents of Chelsea can remember visited this part of the country on Thursday and Friday and the coating of ice hung on the trees, telephone poles and fences until Saturday afternoon.

Nearly all of the telephone poles and wire in every direction from Chelsea was either broken down from the weight of ice or falling limbs of trees. All telegraph service west of Chelsea was put out of commission Friday. The D. U. R. electric line was so badly disabled that their cars were laid up most of Friday afternoon and evening, but they resumed their runs Saturday forenoon.

The local factories shut down Thursday on account of being unable to get power from the Consumers Power Co., which supplies them. The power company succeeded in getting their lines in a partial state of repair Saturday.

The streets of Chelsea as well as many of the highways in the county were strewn with broken limbs and in many cases the rural highways were blocked with either fallen poles or trees.

Several of the dwelling houses in Chelsea were without electric light service, caused by wires being broken.

The telephone service between Ypsilanti and Jackson was entirely out of commission and it will require considerable money and time to repair the damages.

Many of the fruit trees in this part of the county have been badly damaged, as were the shade and forest trees.

The telegraph, telephone and power companies had a large force of men at work night and day on the damaged lines.

Cutting Roadside Trees Illegal.

Many people are not aware that they cannot cut trees within the public highways without making themselves liable to a fine or imprisonment. In the extra session of the legislature of 1921, a law was passed making it a misdemeanor to cut trees or shrubs within the limits of the public highways in the State of Michigan without a permit from the authorities having jurisdiction over such roads. The State Highway Commissioner has jurisdiction in the case of State Trunk Line and Federal Aided Roads, and Commissioner Rogers is determined that the law shall be strictly enforced as far as such roads are concerned in which he has the co-operation of the State Department of Public Safety and the county highway authorities.

Some violations of this act have been noticed, due to land owners cutting trees along their frontage in ignorance of this law. It should be understood, however, that the law makes no exceptions and any land owner who cuts trees in the highway along his land is liable to arrest, fine or imprisonment.

Somewhat similar laws have been passed in other states consistent with a progressive conservation policy. The people, not only of Michigan but of the whole country, are beginning to realize that the conservation of our tree growth is a vital necessity and there is a strong sentiment for the planting and preservation of trees along the highways. While trees add greatly to the beauty of a region, they are valuable to the land owners and to the public at large for many other reasons. Trees temper the climate and protect the land from washing; they give shelter to birds, the farmers' best friends; they serve as windbreaks to protect his crops; they furnish fruit, nuts and other food products and when properly conserved furnish a perpetual supply of timber. They add shade and beauty to the highway and add value to the adjoining farm lands by making farm homes more attractive. This may be a sentimental value but it is none the less real for it is a well known fact that land with trees is more desirable for a home than land lacking this natural attraction.

Michigan derives a large revenue from the summer tourist traffic and the conservation of her tree growth is absolutely essential to retain and increase this tourist and resort business.

It is expected that this new law, which not only protects existing roadside trees but also authorizes the planting of desirable trees and shrubs will materially increase the beauty of the highways and benefit the public at large as well as the abutting property owners by making the state more attractive to its residents and to the ever increasing number of people who spend their summer here.

ON THE MAKING OF MATCHES

Chinese Factories Now Are Producing Thousands of Tons, to the Great Alarm of Japan.

There is a joy in considering the old verse which told of seas having other seas upon their backs to bite 'em, the process continuing ad infinitum. Because out of the Far East comes the interesting intelligence that the Chinese have gone into the manufacturing of matches, and are so diligent and skillful in the business, that the Japanese trade is becoming fearful of their progress, as competitors, the Cincinnati Enquirer states.

Not so long ago the American markets were flooded with cheaper imitations of the cheap Swedish matches, which compete with the sturdier and more dependable flame-makers turned out as profusely in America. It was not thought that there could be made anything worse than the Scandinavian product, but when the Japanese fraud arrived, this view was revised sharply.

If it is possible that the Chinese have been able to make the matches at a lower cost than their Japanese rivals, then indeed they have accomplished the miraculous, and the world will applaud them for the feat. Apparently success has come to them, four large factories at Tien-tsin being needed to supply the demand, which is measured by the thousands of tons. If they are being shipped to this country, as undoubtedly they will be, it is to be hoped that the triumph over the low-grade Japanese imitation of the erratic and dependable Swedish splint has not been effected through the sacrifice of efficiency in striking fire and holding it. Nothing could be worse.

NEW WAY TO FOIL ROBBERS

Hard to Get Away With Satchel That Is Equipped With a Powerful Alarm Gong.

Holdup men who have been specializing in the robbery of bank messengers and pay-roll carriers will not rejoice in the invention of the latest security satchel, designed, as it is, to prevent their silent getaway, says the Scientific American. The satchel is ordinary enough in appearance, save that it is of steel. In the lid it carries a monster bell, operated by two dry cells, which are capable of ringing the alarm continuously for six hours. The switch is hidden in the grip handle and has two buttons so arranged that when the messenger discovers that he is being held up he can instantly push one of them.

The alarm will go off and stay off, and can be heard for a distance of half a mile. The second button is for previous adjustment, and leads to a delayed action that holds the ringing up for ten or twenty seconds—enough to enable the messenger to make his getaway from the immediate range of the holdup man before the latter discovers what he is up against.

We must agree with the inventor that no crook is likely to march through the streets carrying a ringing satchel, or to get very far with it if he attempts it.

Certainly, until the stick-up artists learn how to put the muffer on the bell instantly and permanently, the new trick ought to be effective. And that is all that could be asked, for the man who is coping with a robber must expect to change his plan of campaign as fast as the thief learns what it is.

Trackless Trolley Abroad.

From a German periodical, Elektrotechnische und Maschinenbau, we learn that electrically-driven buses connect Vienna with a suburb a short distance away. These trackless trolleys run on pneumatic tires and are fed from a double trolley line on which rolls a small contact-making carriage, connected with a flexible cable to the car. The length of this cable can be varied, as its end is wound around a take-up drum. Approaching cars have to stop when passing each other, exchange their cables and proceed again. The cars are driven by two motors, built into the rear wheels. They are multipolar, slow-speed, direct current 550-volt motors, transmitting their power directly without any gears. The buses accommodate 24 passengers, but can carry as many as 40.—Scientific American.

Something to Fall Back On.

Little Owen lived near a southern Indiana town where a hub factory had just been built. The new industry had just caused a great deal of discussion among his elders as to increased property values, sale of timber and opportunities for employment. Owen one day went across the sunny fields and up a hill to the old farmhouse where his great-grandfather was spending the summer afternoon on the wide porch. A short time afterward an aunt, listening to the conversation between the two, heard the following:

"Owen, what are you going to do when you're a man?"

"Well, I guess I'll be a preacher or maybe a teacher. When I'm not preaching or teaching I guess I'll work at the hub factory."

Wanted the Best.

"I want you to teach my son a foreign language," said a lady to a teacher of languages.

"What shall it be, madam?" the teacher replied. "Would you like Polish, Czechoslovakian, Armenian, or perhaps even Arabic?"

"Well," mused the lady, "which is the most foreign?"—Houston Post.

The Pseudo Husband

By DOROTHY WHITCOMB

Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.

Mrs. Edith Durham bowed slightly to the gentleman who took his seat beside her at her table aboard the trans-Atlantic steamship. The card upon his plate read "Mr. Durham," and evidently the steward had mistaken him for her husband. She smiled a little at this, because her husband was not accompanying her to New York.

Their conversation was of the usual polite, fragmentary order common to ocean travelers at their first meal.

They paced the deck together, and it was in the late afternoon when Edith Durham turned suddenly upon her companion.

"Does it strike you as ordinary," she asked, "that you have not told me your name?"

"My name?" inquired the man, taken aback. "My name is—James Richmond."

"I asked," said the woman coldly, "because I fancy most people in the first cabin believe that you are my husband. And," she continued, "it seems to me that you have done nothing to dispel that belief. You have not only taken Mr. Durham's seat, but you have kept at my side in an ostentatious manner."

"Mr. Durham is not aboard this ship," replied the other quietly.

"And pray how do you know that?" she demanded.

"I'm going to throw myself upon your mercy, Mrs. Durham," he said. "Let me tell you all before you say a word," Richmond continued.

"Two days ago I had dined at Princess restaurant, in Piccadilly. I strolled up toward Hyde Park in the evening, enjoying the summer air and thinking of my future. I had used life successfully; I was becoming known as a leader at the bar. Everything seemed rosy. I had reached Hyde Park before I was aware of it, and, entering, I seated myself upon a chair. As I sat there, concealed by a tree from passers-by, a hansom stopped. A man and a woman in evening dress got out. The man was mad with excitement; the woman was calm.

"He was talking like a maniac, threatening her, apparently."

"I gathered that they were husband and wife. He wanted her to divorce him and she refused. And at last he took her by the shoulders and struck her across the mouth."

"I sprang from my seat and drove my fist into his face. He fell back, striking a lamp-post with his head, quivered a moment, and lay still. When I raised him I could see at once that he was dead."

"I took the first train for Southampton and bought a ticket to America. I booked as James Richmond; my real name is Carlyle. I found, by inquiry, that you were traveling alone, though your husband's name was down upon the list."

He looked up for the first time. "If you will let me keep your husband's name," he said, "it will not harm or compromise you in any way. And I can land; otherwise I shall be arrested in New York."

Edith Durham placed her hand lightly on his.

"I will do as you ask," she said, in a voice trembling with emotion, "because of your sister's sake, and yours—and also for the sake of that unknown woman whom you so chivalrously defended, because—because I think she must be glad."

He carried Edith Durham's suitcase down the gangway at New York unmolested.

He helped her into a taxicab and placed her suitcase at her side. He raised his hat.

"I thank you for my sister's sake," he said. "We shall not meet again. I shall go West and you will return to England."

"I shall never go back to England," she said with sudden vehemence.

He felt that she had something of import to add. He waited. Suddenly she bent toward him.

"Don't you know me?" she asked, with a half sob. "That man was—my husband!"

Calhoun's Attitude on Slavery.

John C. Calhoun, American statesman, (1782-1850), was a supporter of slavery. At first his advocacy of slavery was merely incidental to his faith in states' rights, but gradually he came to look upon it not merely as necessary but as desirable. He was largely responsible for the admission of Texas to the union and therefore for the swiftly following Mexican war, but he ardently opposed that conflict. To the last he was active in his efforts for his beloved South, writing a final great speech in 1850 when he was so weak and ill that he had to allow it to be read by a colleague.—Kansas City Star.

"Read the Riot Act."

The use of this expression really applies to giving warning to those engaged in wrong-doing, and has its origin in the Riot act, an English statute of 1775. It provided that if 12 or more persons were assembled unlawfully and disturbing the peace, any mayor, justice of the peace, sheriff or undersheriff by proclamation could command them to disperse. If they refused and remained together for an hour after the proclamation, all of the persons participating were guilty of felony. Also anyone interfering with or preventing such proclamation was guilty of felony.

Unanswerable.

Mrs. Doolan's passion for fighting policemen makes her his majesty's guest at regular intervals.

"Halloo," said the prison visitor, resignedly, "you here again?"

Mrs. Doolan gazed at him with dignity.

"And wot of it?" she demanded.

"Wot I says to them coppers and the rest of 'em I says to you. If it wasn't for the likes of me wot would you all be doin' for a livin'?"—London Tit-Bits.

CLEVER SYSTEM OF SIGNALS

More Ingenious Scheme Than That Contemplated by Germans Probably Never Was Devised.

German war secrets are now being disclosed in scientific literature. At the close of the conflict the Germans in their laboratories were working on secret-signal lights of special character. To the ordinary observer nothing would be present to indicate that the light was sending out signals, but changes would be going on which would be apparent to an observer equipped to view it with a suitable optical device.

Different principles were employed for accomplishing this. In one of them polarized light was to be sent out by the signal, the character of which would change in accordance with the dots and dashes of the code. When viewed through properly fitted binoculars, the color would no longer be white but would alternate between red and green. In another method, a glass screen containing compounds of the rare element didymium was arranged to alternate in the beam of light with another screen of suitable shade. When the resulting light was viewed with binoculars equipped with prisms, a black line would appear in the yellow region of the spectrum formed whenever the didymium glass was interposed, permitting the signals to be read. Another method consisted in first breaking up the light at the source into a spectrum across which was placed one or more wires cutting out narrow regions of color, and these were arranged to be moved back and forth a short distance along the spectrum in signaling. The colors were then recombined into white light and transmitted. With binoculars provided with suitable prisms to re-form the spectrum, the signal was perceived in the motion of dark bands back and forth along the spectrum, corresponding to the movement of the wires at the transmitting station. One important application of this method of signaling would be at sea.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

SECRETED HIS LITTLE HOARD

Indiana Man Evidently Had Little Confidence in the Wearers of the Cloth.

After much persuasion, Mrs. Housewife, in Connersville, finally prevailed on her husband to let two ministers use their spare bedroom during a church conference.

A day or two later the telephone rang in the office of the factory where he worked and Mrs. Housewife insisted on talking to him. She was informed that he could be called to the telephone only on matters of sickness or death or of the gravest importance. She said it was all three combined, or words to that effect, and he was summoned.

Having difficulty in hearing on the telephone, the superintendent repeated the message.

"She says it is gone," said the superintendent.

"What's gone?" asked the puzzled husband.

"She says the money's gone," repeated the superintendent, after inquiring of the woman.

"What money?" inquired the puzzled husband.

"Why, the money in the spare bedroom," she explained, through the superintendent.

"Oh," he said, his face clearing. "Don't worry about that. I took the money out of there and put it in the cowshed. I took no chances with them two fellers!"—Indianapolis News.

Largest Generator Built.

A 60,000-kva, 7,000-volt, three-phase generator, rated at 1,000 r.p.m., but designed to withstand 50 per cent increase in speed, has been completed by the Siemens-Schuckert works in Germany, according to the Electrical World. The largest rating provided in any generator previously built by this company was 21,500 kva, so that this order represents a big jump beyond all experience. The ability to withstand such overspeeding was also a severe requirement, owing to the utter lack of high-grade nickel steel at the time the unit was ordered. Owing to the size of the generator, special cars had to be built for the rotor and stator. The rotor gondola car had two ten-wheel trucks.—Scientific American.

First Canadian Marriage.

According to Johnson's "First Things in Canada," the first marriage celebrated in Canada was that of Etienne Couillard and Marie Hebert, the ceremony being performed at Quebec on August 20, 1617. The three hundred and fourth anniversary of that event was celebrated at Quebec on August 20 last. Many descendants of the couple took part in the celebration.

The bride at that first wedding was a daughter of Louis Hebert upon whom history confers the honor of having been the first Canadian farmer.

Cooperation Between President and Congress

Citation of Record of Legislation Refutes Charges of "Do Nothing" Congress and Shows Completion of Well Defined Program

U. S. REPRESENTATIVE FRANK MONDELL (WYOMING), REPUBLICAN FLOOR LEADER

The newly elected Republican Congress was convened in special session April 11, 1921, the nation was still legally at war with the Central Powers of Europe and the domestic problems confronting the country were of greater magnitude than any previous administration in the history of the United States had ever been called upon to solve.

The President and the Congress had a well-defined program of rehabilitation and reconstruction. In his address opening the special session of Congress the President asked the passage of a resolution declaring a state of peace between the United States and the Central Powers. He urged, in addition, the enactment of an emergency tariff, a permanent tariff, the creation of a budget system; legislation providing relief to agricultural interests; federal aid to public highways; a new tax law which would lessen the burden of public taxation and eliminate excess profits taxes; a consolidation of the various government agencies handling relief for ex-service men; a maternity and infancy welfare law; a law to punish lynching by federal statute; encouragement for and regulation of cable and radio service; and, above all else, rigid economy in appropriations for the operating expenses of the Government.

The best and the conclusive answer as to whether or not the Republican Congress has cooperated with the Republican President in carrying out the program is the citation of the record of accomplished acts. The Emergency Tariff was a law May 27. The resolution terminating a state of war between the United States and the Central Powers was in full force and effect July 2. The Budget Law was in force and effect June 10, in time to apply to the new fiscal year beginning July 1. The Sweet Bill to co-ordinate all agencies dealing with ex-service men was a law by August 9.

In order to assist the agricultural interests the Congress amended the War Finance Corporation Act, which provided a round billion dollars of new credit for agricultural and live-stock interests; passed the Packers and Stockyards Act, the Capper-Thacher Act to regulate grain exchanges and the Nelson-Curtis Act, which increased the funds available for farm loans in the sum of $25,000,000.

It enacted the Maternity and Infancy Welfare Act. It appropriated $75,000,000 for federal aid in building of public highways. It enacted a law for the protection of American owned cable and radio service. It enacted a new tax measure, which reduces the public taxation for the current year in the sum of $18,000,000, the bulk of which is saved to the man of medium income.

In addition to enacting the Budget Law creating the Budget Bureau, under which all economies which have been made by executive departments were made possible, the Congress, upon its own initiative, cut over $300,000,000 from appropriations requested by various departments and boards, thus carrying out the President's desire for rigid economy.

In addition to carrying out the President's program it enacted a restrictive immigration law. It amended the Edge Act in order to facilitate America's foreign trade. It reorganized the Philippine financial system in order to save the islands from bankruptcy as a result of maladministration under the Wilson regime. It reorganized the Indian Bureau and reorganized the Postal Service and readjusted salaries in that department. In fulfillment of the President's request, the House passed a permanent tariff measure—the Fordney Bill. The House also passed the Dyer Bill, which makes lynching a federal offense and provides for federal punishment of that crime.

In his annual message to Congress in December, the President made supplementary recommendations, among them being the enactment of a co-operative marketing law; the appropriation of funds to relieve the famine in Russia; the creation of a commission to handle the refunding of our foreign loans; and the enactment of legislation to stop the issuance of tax-exempt securities.

Every one of these recommendations has been enacted into law with the exception of the one regarding the issuance of non-taxable securities and a bill to carry that recommendation into effect is now well on its way through Congress.

This record shows that the House co-operated with the President exactly 100 per cent. In enacting such legislation as he recommended—a record of co-operation between the executive and legislative branches of Congress which has no equal in the annals of American legislation.

Cooperation Between President and Congress

Citation of Record of Legislation Refutes Charges of "Do Nothing" Congress and Shows Completion of Well Defined Program

U. S. REPRESENTATIVE FRANK MONDELL (WYOMING), REPUBLICAN FLOOR LEADER

The newly elected Republican Congress was convened in special session April 11, 1921, the nation was still legally at war with the Central Powers of Europe and the domestic problems confronting the country were of greater magnitude than any previous administration in the history of the United States had ever been called upon to solve.

The President and the Congress had a well-defined program of rehabilitation and reconstruction. In his address opening the special session of Congress the President asked the passage of a resolution declaring a state of peace between the United States and the Central Powers. He urged, in addition, the enactment of an emergency tariff, a permanent tariff, the creation of a budget system; legislation providing relief to agricultural interests; federal aid to public highways; a new tax law which would lessen the burden of public taxation and eliminate excess profits taxes; a consolidation of the various government agencies handling relief for ex-service men; a maternity and infancy welfare law; a law to punish lynching by federal statute; encouragement for and regulation of cable and radio service; and, above all else, rigid economy in appropriations for the operating expenses of the Government.

The best and the conclusive answer as to whether or not the Republican Congress has cooperated with the Republican President in carrying out the program is the citation of the record of accomplished acts. The Emergency Tariff was a law May 27. The resolution terminating a state of war between the United States and the Central Powers was in full force and effect July 2. The Budget Law was in force and effect June 10, in time to apply to the new fiscal year beginning July 1. Administration Puts Business in Government

Encourages Individual Initiative, Establishes Budget System, Reduces Onerous Taxes, Restores Public Confidence and Stands for Sane Policies

U. S. REPRESENTATIVE HOMER P. SNYDER (NEW YORK)

The Republican administration came into authority in March, 1921, pledged to put more business in government and to have less of government in business. That pledge has been liberally redeemed. One of the first things which the Republican administration did was to impress upon business interests that it was up to them to become self-reliant if they wished to become self-sustaining; that they must begin to work out their own salvation instead of running to the Government for artificial stimulus. Legislation has been enacted wherever it could prove helpful, but it has not been permitted to take the place of individual energy and thrift.

Simultaneously with the elimination of Government in business there was an injection of business in Government. Perhaps what will go down as one of the greatest pieces of constructive legislation of the last half century was the enactment of a law creating a Budget Bureau, which made it not only possible but mandatory for the first time in the history of the United States Government to conduct the Government's business in an orderly manner. It is largely due to the inauguration of this budget system that the daily operating expenses of the Government have been reduced in the aggregate over $2,000,000 a day under this administration.

The business interests of the country were given consideration in the enactment of the new tax measure. Surtaxes were decreased, excess profits taxes were abolished altogether, and the shipping interests of the United States—which include practically every business and industry—were relieved from the burdensome transportation taxes that were levied upon freight, express and passenger traffic.

The Edge Act to facilitate the organization of corporations to promote exports was amended in order to render needed assistance to business interests endeavoring to expand America's markets in foreign countries, thereby increasing production and employment at home.

By rendering assistance to the agricultural sections the Congress kept alive the buying power of over half the nation's population. This aid, although extended directly to agriculture, was of vital importance to business.

Although no act of Congress figured in the process, nevertheless, the influence of the Republican administration, of which the Congress is a part, gave such confidence to the business world that within a year from the time the Republican party took control of all branches of the Government prices of practically all sound securities advanced materially. The most outstanding example of this is the increase of 15 per cent. in the value of $18,000,000,000 worth of outstanding Liberty bonds.

As another reflex of the influence of the Republican administration, interest rates have been lowered from 7 per cent. to 4½ within 12 months, thus releasing money at a reasonable rate for the use of business interests.

No one has the temerity to deny that business conditions today, compared with a year ago, are not infinitely better and that prospects are undoubtedly for further improvement. There is no other explanation for this transformation in the business world except the 12 months' application of Republican policies and the certain knowledge throughout the business world that the influences and policies of the Republican Party, which will direct the affairs of the nation for the next two years, are constructive influences that make for accumulation rather than waste, assist legitimate activities, stand four-squared for the protection of capital and labor and stand equally firm against the fallacious theories of Communism and Socialism.

In brief, the commercial optimism with which the people of all classes in the United States face the coming year must be wholly attributed to the fact that all branches of the Government of the United States are now in control of the Republican Party.

Tom Aids His Benefactor

By MARVIN ST. JOHNS

Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.

Marvin Farrar paced up and down the office of Peter Moore, lawyer, in a no enviable frame of mind. The very thought that he was forced to wait and possibly later truckle with an individual of the homo-byena genus, Moore, irritated him.

Moore, potflogger and rascal, had not yet arrived, and young Farrar galled under a yoke already fitted to his shoulders. There was a timid knock at the door, and he said "Come in," mechanically.

"Are you in want of an office boy?" inquired a lad.

What cared Marvin Farrar for office boys? He started a scowl at the intruder. Then something in the wistful earnest face appealed to his better instincts.

"I fancy not, son," replied the higher self Farrar, who did not, however, feel particularly elevated at just that moment. "Looking for work?"

"For three days, and no luck," was the reply, "and"—the little fellow choked up, then manfully dashed away a stray tear or two and added resolutely: "I've got to find something today."

"You mean—hungry?" guessed the quick-witted Farrar. "Here, go get a good square meal and you'll be in better trim to buckle up against disappointment. Try the department stores," he shouted after the boy, as the latter, bubbling over with gratitude and delight, a bright silver dollar in his hand, went on his way with a shining face.

On the heels of the departing lad Peter Moore bustled.

The lawyer threw up the window opening on a court for ventilation, and briskly drew some documents from his desk. He selected one. He held it up for the inspection of his visitor.

"There is your note, Mr. Farrar," he said, "due a month ago; sum $2,000, duly signed and no notation of payment. It is one of a number of notes which Luke Darrell put up with us for collateral six months ago. He failed to redeem it. As our property, we must insist on payment."

"But it has been paid already, as I wrote you," declared Farrar insistently.

"Have you a receipt?"

"I took none. I had every confidence in the world in Luke Darrell. I met him on the street, on my way to his office to take up the note. He accepted the money and promised that the cancelled note would be mailed to me next day. The ensuing one I learned he had absconded—a bankrupt, forger, and fugitive from justice."

"We will give you forty-eight hours to pay the note or renew it with your property as security," was the lawyer's ultimatum, and he accompanied his grim perturbed visitor to the door.

Marvin Farrar went on his way with a heavy heart. He had begun fond dreams of another savings period to furnish up a home for his dance, Winifred Thearle.

And now—two years' hard work lost; a mournful message to take to poor Winnie! It was pitiful, but he could not afford to lose heart. Within an hour he was at the Thearle home and was telling the whole sad story to Winnie, sobbing brokenly on his shoulder at his misfortune and distress.

The little fellow Marvin had helped, and then completely forgotten, had made for the nearest restaurant with his precious silver dollar. And it further chanced that the lively-eyed Tom Chubb—for that was his name—note two papers fluttering along the pavement in his course. He glanced over one. It was a letter from another city, and it was signed "Luke Darrell." The other paper was the note Lawyer Moore had shown Marvin Farrar.

The note was made out to Luke Darrell and the letter was signed Luke Darrell.

Then he set at work to locate the signer of the note—Marvin Farrar.

"I am looking for a Mr. Marvin Farrar," reported young Tom, as he came up the steps to face the lovers, seated in a hammock.

"Hello!" ejaculated Marvin. "Why, I seem to have seen you before."

"Why, so you did!" cried Tom, brightening up as if by magic. "Isn't it queer, sir? I've been looking for you a long time."

"What for?"

"These"—and Tom handed over letter and note. "Are they yours, sir—are they of any importance?"

That question was not answered for Tom, except in the finding for him the next day of an excellent situation. The letter referred to "pushing every claim, collected before or not," and the note once paid, placed Marvin in a position to readily unmask the tricksters and avoid their further extortion.

So Marvin and Winnie did not have to wait two years, and Tom Chubb was a guest of honor at their wedding.

His Voice Is Still.

"Professor Diggs, have you ever discovered a buried city?"

"Oh, yes."

"And what do you chiefly enjoy about that kind of work?"

"Well, for one thing, when you unearth a city that has been buried for 2,000 or 3,000 years you don't have to listen to the reminiscences of the oldest inhabitant."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Fur Market Shifts to China.
Because of the disturbed conditions in Russia, Lelpzig has been deprived its place as the fur center of the world, which has now been shifted to Mukden, China. Many American firms have representatives located there. Prior to 1915 practically no shipments of furs were made from Mukden, whereas the value of such shipments amounts to $2,500,000 annually.

WILL MEAN MUCH TO ARIZONA

New Mexican Harbor, Soon to Be Developed, of Vital Interest Also to Southwestern States.

The new Mexican harbor at Rocky Point, on St. George's bay, which, dispatches state, is to be developed very soon, will open to passenger traffic and commercial development a rich portion of the southwestern United States, as well as a part of the North American continent on the Gulf of California that is little known and explored, according to a bulletin of the National Geographic society from its Washington headquarters.

The Bay of St. George marks the northern limit of deep water in the Gulf of California, and when its new harbor is connected by a short spur of track with the railroad already in existence, there will be an all-water outlet through the Panama canal to eastern United States for the mines of Arizona. Once, just after the Civil war, the people of the Arizona mines had all their supplies brought them from California by water, the ships steaming down the California coast up the Gulf and the Colorado river to Yuma, and now it seems that the old method of handling their products will come into vogue again.

Spread of Dental Clinics.

According to returns received in reply to a questionnaire recently sent out by the United States bureau of education, 280 cities in the United States have established dental clinics in connection with their public school systems. Massachusetts outranks all other states with respect to number of cities maintaining dental clinics, laying claim to 34 of the total of 288; then comes New York state with 23, New Jersey, 21; Illinois, 17; Michigan, Ohio and Wisconsin, 16 each; Indiana and Pennsylvania, 14 each; California, 11; Rhode Island, 8, and the remaining states, from 7 to 8 each.

To Telephone Users---

A Giant Cut The Wires

Our entire long distance wire system in southern Michigan and many of our smaller exchanges was crushed and wrecked in the sleet storm a week ago.

Every city suffered, even those not touched by the storm, because of severed lines to other points.

The material loss is very great. The cost to business cannot be estimated.

But our men, augmented by hundreds, pushed out into the storm zone by train, by truck and on foot, working night and day to restore service.

We realize the importance of the wires to the conduct of business and to the people of our cities and our country districts. Therefore we are doing our utmost to re-establish the lines of business and social communication.

But, the wire system that took years to build and perfect and that was destroyed in a night, cannot be rebuilt in a day.

We, therefore, appeal to all users of the telephone to be patient in this emergency.

Our promise is, that the emergency service already established will be strengthened rapidly and that permanent reconstruction will be pushed with all speed.

FRANZ C. KUHN, President.

Editors to Hold Meeting.

Editors and publishers of Michigan weekly papers will gather at the Michigan Agricultural college on April 14 and 15 for business conference, according to announcement sent out recently by Slim R. Wilson, of Saline.

Decision to hold an April meeting was made at the time weekly editors met at East Lansing in January. Vital subjects such as organization, advertising, and subscription rates will be up for discussion at the conference.

G. L. Caswell, of Iowa, who has done more for the publishers of his state in the way of organization and development of national advertising than any other man anywhere in the country, will address the editors on Friday afternoon, April 14.

It will soon be time to hear from the chap who always predicts a fearfully hot summer.

Members of the state police have been fitted out and are now wearing their new dark gray uniforms which are generally considered a big improvement over the khaki suits formerly worn by the men. The new uniforms are the same as those worn by the state police of Pennsylvania and Maryland. While the new uniforms excel the old ones in quality, a savings of $20 on each was also realized. The new ones cost about $36 each.

Lung Weakness
Hacking Cough

Thursday Health Talk No. 12,
by H. H. Beatty, Chiropractor

Many sufferers from terrifying lung diseases that hang on and on, threatening at any time to become virulent, have no realization of the fact that chiropractic spinal adjustments will go directly to the seat of this trouble and remove the cause.

Health turns the Clock
Backward

If the spinal nerves to the lungs are under pressure it is most reasonable to expect lack of tone, weakness and disease. Chiropractic spinal adjustments by freeing the nerves for their work give Nature a chance and health results.

Suffered 15 Years.

"For fifteen years I had headaches, asthma, indigestion, lung weakness and a hacking cough, very inactive bowels for which I had to take purgatives and cathartics. I tried many different methods without relief. After taking several courses of chiropractic spinal adjustments, I can thankfully state that chiropractic has made me well in nearly all of the troubles. I weigh more and feel better now than in many years. I shall be glad to refer anyone to the chiropractic method for I firmly believe it is the only method that can do any one any permanent good."—Mrs. Dora B. Taylor, Chiropractic Research Bureau Statement No. 1305H.

BREVITIES

Jackson—Eleven permits for new buildings were issued by the city authorities Monday.

Ann Arbor—E. A. Gallup, city forester, estimates that the loss suffered by the city shade trees from the sleet storm last week will reach $20,000.

Howell—According to the last issue of the Livingston Democrat, Howell is assured of one new factory and has fair prospects of landing another large factory.

Dexter—Miss Adelaide Schoen has taken the position of bookkeeper for the Dexter Agricultural Association, made vacant by the resignation of Miss Hazel Groner.

Ann Arbor—Jacob Goffe, Jack Sands and Jack Isaacs all have been bound over to the circuit court under nominal bail on charges of arson in connection with the fire at the Ann Arbor Stamping and Metal company plant December 31, 1920.

Ann Arbor—Nineteen automobile drivers were arrested by police Saturday night for parking without lights. The arrests were made on South Division, Thompson, Ingalls, Lawrence, North State, Catherine and South Thayer streets and on Washenaw, University and Jefferson avenues.

Manchester—Farmers have drawn a good many logs to the Iron Creek saw mill or to some of the portable mills, to be sawed into timber and planks for use in buildings and for repairing various things. They find it convenient and economical to have a wood lot on the farm.—Enterprise.

Howell—Two Detroit truck drivers and one farmer from Green Oak were called into Justice W. P. Tooly's court during the past week and paid fines from $25 to $50, for passing over the highway with overloaded trucks. The officials are very pronounced in the enforcement of the state law in this respect.—Democrat.

Stockbridge—Last Thursday night someone (evidently very 'dry') took a small window out of D. N. Collins' barn and helped themselves to a barrel of vinegar. D. N. says if they will let him know when they will call again he will have a head of cabbage handy and they can use the vinegar better with a boiled dinner than drinking it.—Brief-Sun.

Ypsilanti—It is now an assured fact that the Saxon Motor company will move its factory to Ypsilanti. Wednesday morning representatives of this company met at the Board of Commerce and the papers were signed for a lease of the new Apex Motor company's factory for a period of three years, with an option of purchase. The company took possession of the building April 1st.—Record.

Ann Arbor—Erection of a modern three-story brick building to house the Salvation Army of Ann Arbor, at a cost of $25,000, is the goal set by the army of that city. A campaign for funds will be held April 17 to 25. The Salvation Army already owns its lot at the corner of Fifth avenue and Washington. The county outside of Ann Arbor will be solicited, as the building is to serve not only the needs of Ann Arbor but the county as well.

Brighton—Brighton has been looking for manufacturing development from outsiders, and now it comes from its own midst. Dawitt C. Cooper has purchased the Western House property for the purpose of manufacturing cement blocks. The deal was closed this week whereby Mr. Cooper took over the landmark hotel and land adjoining from E. King, well known noodle manufacturer of Chicago, and formerly of Brighton. The property has been owned by the King family for over 40 years.—Argus.

Munith—At a meeting of farmers and merchants of Munith and vicinity Wednesday, March 29, a new bank was organized, under direction of D. W. Zintsmaster, starting with a working capital of $25,000. The meeting was held in the building which is to be the location of the bank, a practically new brick structure situated on the east side of Main street. The following officers were elected: President, William E. Fleming; vice president, O. F. Moeckel; cashier, Glenn H. Mayer; secretary, Peter V. Oik; board of directors, Messrs. William E. Fleming, O. F. Moeckel, Peter V. Oik, Stephen O'Brien and John G. Harr.

For That Cough After the "Flu"

Lingering colds and coughs that follow the grip or influenza are difficult to overcome, but many such sufferers have found relief in Foley's Honey and Tar.

Says It Is Worth $50.00 a Bottle

Wm. Barnes, San Antonio, Tex., writes: "Foley's Honey and Tar is undoubtedly the best cough remedy in the world. I know this is so because I found it to be so. Actual experience taught me. It has been worth $50.00 a bottle to me. Early in the season I had the 'flu,' which left me weak and with a persistent cough. The cough hung on and I became much worried about it. Someone advised me to try Foley's Honey and Tar and I began taking it that night. I have now completely recovered and don't cough at all."

Foley's Honey and Tar COMPOUND

AN OLD RELIABLE FAMILY REMEDY, recommended for coughs, colds, tickling of the throat, spasmodic croup, whooping cough, hiccups, and bronchial coughs, hoarseness, etc.

All users praise its prompt and efficient action. Absolutely safe. Contains no opiates.

Auto Turned Turtle

H. B. McDermid, accompanied by Mrs. J. C. Bartlett, who were on their way from Detroit to the home of Mr. McDermid's parents in Battle Creek, last Friday afternoon had a narrow escape from what might have been a serious accident, when the auto which they were driving overturned on the curve near the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Smith of Selo. Mr. McDermid was driving at quite a high rate of speed and when he applied the breaks at the curve the car turned completely around, went down the bank and turned turtle. Neither occupant received any serious injury. A local garage was called and brought the machine here where it was repaired.

Batteries Require Good Battery.

"Radio service," said Mr. Ernest Wagner, manager of the local Excide Service Station, "requires a battery with a dependable voltage; that is, a battery whose voltage, after a few minutes' use, will not drop to point where it becomes necessary to make frequent adjustments of the apparatus."

"There is only one way to be assured of this, and that is, to buy only new batteries and only those made by a firm with a reputation for making dependable batteries."

"Also, it is very desirable and really important to buy a battery that has behind it a service organization which will help the radio far prolong the life of his battery."

"Much depends on the proper care of a storage battery, as many motorists who use them in their cars will testify. This doesn't mean that storage batteries are hard to care for, but on the contrary, the rules are so few and simple, that many people fail to be impressed by the importance of rigidly following them. In this, the proper service organization can help by teaching the radio fan how to take care of his battery."

"Then a lot of radio fans don't know what kind of a battery to buy, as such terms as 'voltage' and 'ampere hours' are bewildering. We are answering questions every day at our service station and we are glad to tell any radio enthusiast or prospective owner of a set, all we know about batteries and we issue a broad invitation to the good folks of Chelsea, to use this service to the limit."

Acetylene Welding Has Wide Range of Heat in Working of Metals

When the acetylene welding first came onto the market, which was several years ago, it was with the expectancy of regulating the heat of the welding point in such a way that, if the welder chose, he could fuse anything with a heavy flame to a melting stage and with the reduction of the flame the heat could be so reduced that the metal being worked would not be burned.

According to F. R. Belcher, the welder here in Chelsea, not only can parts be welded but in the instance of worn places, the part can be built up, that is, metal can be added to the worn part and worked into the part itself so that it actually becomes one piece and at times in some machines proves even stronger than the original part.
F. R. Belcher does a large amount of the welding done in Chelsea, and vicinity and not only the factories here, but the farmers have found it much cheaper to have parts built up or welded than to buy an entire new part when their machinery becomes damaged. Autoists, when a part becomes broken on the car that is one which can be welded, are taken care of in the same way. And the householder with broken grates, beds, wringers, etc., finds the acetylene welder a money saver in that many times it saves the buying of an entire new machine or an expensive new part—Advertisement.

An unusually large flock of wild geese passed over Chelsea Sunday evening, flying in a northwestern direction.

Hours instead of Days

On Fordson farms, hours instead of days are required for the plowing. Late Spring with the usual rush of field work does not make the Fordson farmer wonder whether he can get all the crops in, and still do the work in the way that will insure a fair chance for the crop to mature.

And on the Fordson farm, the Oliver No. 7—the special plow for the Fordson—is as dependable a part of the equipment, as the red Oliver horse drawn plow has been for over sixty-five years.

Built to meet the exact requirements of the Fordson, the No. 7 operates at greatest efficiency with the tractor. On thousands of Fordson farms since the first tractors went into the service of agriculture, the Oliver No. 7 has proved its value.

For conditions making desirable a sulky, the No. 3 sulky, with either turning or brush base is supplied.

The price at which complete Fordson farming equipment can be purchased is surprisingly low.

For practical demonstration and full information, see the nearest Fordson dealer.

Oliver No. 7, two bottom gang, chilled, combined rolling coulters and jointers, $72.00
Oliver No. 7, two bottom gang, steel or combination, combined rolling coulters and jointers, $75.00

For plain jointers taken instead of the combined rolling coulters and jointers, a reduction in price is made.

Beating, sweeping or shaking Rugs the old way cannot remove more than the surface dirt, while it may break the warp and crush the nap.

Take any Rug that has been thoroughly broom swept and then go over it with a Hoover or Torrington Electric Vacuum Cleaner.
