DECORATION DAY EXERCISES WERE VERY APPROPRIATE

The Decoration Day exercises held in Chelsea on Tuesday was well attended and more veterans of the civil war were in attendance than there were last year. The members of the W. R. C. and the American Legion were also in line.

The Chelsea band, headed by Mr. Weber, a veteran of the Spanish-American war, as drum major, and Vance Ogden as marshal of the day, marched to St. Mary school and escorted the pupils who took part in the program, to Main street, where the G. A. R., W. R. C., and American Legion formed in line and marched on Park street to the public school grounds where a well arranged program was carried out. Village President, D. H. Wurster, acted as chairman and the program was as follows:

Selection by the band.
Prayer—Rev. E. A. Beatty,
Song—St. Mary school.
Reading of Logan's Orders—C. E. Bowen.

Selection by the band,
Lincoln's Gettysburg Address—Doris Foster.

Remarks for the American Legion—Rev. E. A. Carnes.

Selection by the band.

Flag drill by the public school.

The address was given by Rev. Griffin, a world war veteran, and pastor of the Presbyterian church, of Jackson, and was a very able one.

At the close of the exercises a line of march was formed on Park street, headed by the band, American Legion boys, autos with veterans of the civil war, members of the W. R. C., followed by the school children and the general public.

The line of March was on Park street to Main, down Main to Middle and to the cemeteries.

At the cemeteries the graves of the departed veterans were decorated and at the soldiers' and sailors' monument the last honors were paid to the departed comrades of the wars, salutes fired, taps sounded, and closed with a prayer by Rev. E. A. Carnes.

There are three veterans of the world war buried here, Lester Hall and William Mayer, interred at Oak Grove cemetery, and Herbert J. McKune buried in Mt. Olivet cemetery.

Mail Better Packages.

Postmaster Hoover says that if your package is worth sending it is worth good wrapping and packing.

He also says to wrap it with tough paper, tie it with a stout cord, write or print a plain address with ink, place return address in upper left corner, attach address to article itself inside the wrapper, enclose articles liable to breakage in corrugated paper or wooden boxes and pack in excelsior or similar substance. If contents are perishable or fragile, mark the package conspicuously or have mailing clerk do it for you.

Think of the miles it must travel, rubbing up against other parcels, handled and rehandled.

When ready to mail give it the "once over"—Address, return address, stamps, wrapper, packing.

Mail it early. Insure it.

Would Entertain Their Friends.

In a recent letter from Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Updike, former well known Chelsea residents, now residents of Hollywood, California, they send the following: "Please say to our Chelsea friends that we are still hale and hearty and enjoying life as best we can, and if they will all come and visit us, not in a body, but in small groups, we will entertain them as best we can and show them the beauties of Los Angeles."

Garment Company Operating.

The Goebel Garment Co. started up last week in their new quarters over H. J. Dancer's store, with about one-quarter of their usual number of employees, and their output was 125 dozen aprons for the week.

On Monday of this week they started with one-half of the usual force, with sufficient orders ahead for two weeks run and as soon as they can report they will have their full force of thirty at work.

At present one firm in the east is negotiating with the company to take the entire output of the factory. From all indications the owners will undoubtedly have to increase the working force and the number of sewing machines to keep up with the demand for their various line of garments.

Carl Bagge, president of the company, spent several days of this week out of town in the interest of the company.

Surprise Party.

On the occasion of her 60th birthday anniversary, Sunday, May 14, Mrs. Fred Eschelbach was pleasantly surprised by a number of relatives and friends. Guests present were her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. George Loeffler, sr., Mr. and Mrs. Edward Icheldinger and daughter, Roma, of Lansing, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Eschelbach and children, Mr. and Mrs. Ehms and Henry Ebersole of Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. George Eschelbach and family of Grass Lake, Mrs. Emanuel Eschelbach and daughter of Chelsea, Reta Schumaker of Bridgewater, Oscar Eschelbach of Chelsea, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Kuhl and daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Haist and family. The plates were laid for 26 guests. All departed having enjoyed a good time.

Cavanaugh Lake News.

Ransom Armstrong is having a garage with a capacity for four cars built next to his new store building.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Randall entertained at their cottages here, a party of sixty friends from Ann Arbor.

Mrs. G. A. Runciman has purchased the cottage owned by Carl Bagge and Reuben Hieber and is having extensive repairs made to the dwelling.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Smith on Sunday, entertained at their home, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Taylor, of Dansville, and Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Johnson, of Chelsea.

Glenn Brooks of Chelsea and Reuben Wagner of Ann Arbor, entertained at a week-end party in M. Brooks' cottage, a number of their friends from Ann Arbor.

Exit the Apple Barrel.

Michigan fruit growers for the most part believe that the old apple barrel must retire, along with the old oaken bucket, and that in future apples will be packed in cartons of different sizes. Nobody in a city wants a barrel of apples. The city consumer wants cartons of apples. This applies particularly to the city motorist. He wants a box of 8, 12, or 24 apples that he can carry in his automobile. Michigan growers would not advise adoption of the western method of 40-pound boxes for two reasons—first, because they are too large and unhandy for the customer, and second, because it will be more effective to have something that is original.—Michigan Investor.

Winans Family Reunion.

The Winans family held a reunion Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Winans. The dinner was furnished by Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Winans and Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Winans. Most of the members of the family were present and the event was a very enjoyable one.

The following from out of town were present: Hon. and Mrs. C. S. Winans, American counsel at Prague; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Winans, of Lansing; Mr. and Mrs. Willis Benton and daughter, Miss Winifred, of Jackson; Miss Clarice Winans, of Ann Arbor; Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Corwin, of Temperance, and Llewellyn Winans, of Chicago.

Cavanaugh Lake Grange.

Cavanaugh Lake Grange will meet at the church basement, Tuesday evening, June 6. Program as follows:

PETITIONS BEING SIGNED

FOR CEMENT PAVEMENT

A meeting was held in Firemen hall Thursday evening which was under the auspices of the Board of Commerce and it was largely attended by residents of South Main street.

E. G. Willeman, district engineer, was present representing the state highway department. Mr. Willeman had with him plans and the estimated cost of paving South Main street from the D. J. & C. electric line to the intersection of the territorial trunk line.

The state highway department will build a twenty-foot wide pavement in the center of the roadway, but insist that the street shall be paved from the D. J. & C. line to Pierce street the full width, with curbing in front of the property along the proposed roadway, making the street twenty-nine feet in width.

The state highway department would prefer to have the highway paved the full width, from Pierce street on the west side to the village limits, and the east side to the home of Miss Ida and Edward Helmrich. The reason for stopping at the Helmrich property on the east side of the street is that it would be very expensive to make the fill from there to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Alber. From the village limits, a distance of fifty-three rods the pavement would be twenty feet wide and in the center of the highway.

The proposed paved way will be built under what is known as the Covert highway act and in a portion of the State trunk line known as M92 which runs through Chelsea to Stockbridge and Lansing.

The proposed cost of the work for the extra width will cost the property owners and village for its proportion $2.25 per lineal foot frontage. The plans as drawn includes proper drainage. The twenty feet in the center of the highway is paid for by state, county and the township. The money for this improvement is raised by an issue of bonds which will run for a period of not less than three years or longer if it is so desired by the property owners in front of whom the work is done.

In order to secure the paved way it will be necessary for sixty per cent of the property owners to sign a petition to the state highway department on which the property owned by the signers is described. At this meeting most of the property owners present signed the petition and others who were not present are ready to sign and have the work done which will probably be started in August. At last reports the committee had the required number of signers.

School Notes.

The old custom of sneak day in Chelsea high school. Instead of this a day will be given each year to the Seniors for an outing. The Seniors were given last Monday, May 29. They traveled in autos to Whitmore Lake. Here they enjoyed a picnic dinner. After this they went to Lakeland and a very enjoyable day was spent by all.

A triangular track meet was held at Plymouth last Saturday, May 26. Chelsea won fourteen points. Donald Collins won second place in the 220 yard dash, third place in the 100 yard dash, and third in the relay. George Norris won second place in shot put, second in 440 yard dash and third in the relay. Wayne Beatty and Ray Loeffler also won third in the relay. Some of our best men were unable to participate in the meet. Had it not been for this handicap we would easily have won second place over Wayne. Although not winning first place this year, we are going to next year, because all of our best men were Freshmen this year except three.

Base ball games: Wednesday, May 31, with Grass Lake, at that place. Friday, Grass Lake comes here.

Preparations for the finest Junior Reception ever given are being made. It is to be given at the Macabees hall this Friday, June 2.

Final examinations are to be given next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

The Senior play given at the town hall last Thursday and Friday was a great success, under the direction of Miss Gardner.

Pioneer Meeting.

The 40th annual meeting of the Washtenaw County Pioneer and Historical Society will be held at the court house, Wednesday, June 14, 1922, at 10 o'clock a. m., and lasting through the day. The forenoon will be devoted to reports of the communities of the society. The afternoon will be devoted to short talks by older pioneers and heads of some of the different societies of the county, intermingled with music and singing. It is the wish of the officers that there will be a good attendance from the county, both old and young. Dinner will be provided for all who come at the Y. M. C. A. The officers are: M. S. White, President, O. C. Burkhardt, Treasurer.

down from the window and began to dance round his comrade, bellowing, "You let me up, you let me up, I didn't say anything." And upon his release he complained that the attack was unprovoked. "I didn't say anything on top to even hint you might want to go out and see if anybody in particular had got back to college yet. I didn't even mention the name of Dora Yo—Keep off o' me! My goodness, but you are sensitive!"

As a matter of fact, neither of them saw Dora until the first meeting of the Lumen, whither they went as sophomores to take their pleasure in the agony of freshmen debaters. Ramsey was now able to attend the Lumen, not with complacency but at least without shuddering over the recollection of his own spectacular first appearance there.

He had made subsequent appearances, far from brilliant, yet not disgraceful, and as a spectator, at least, he usually felt rather at his ease in the place. It cannot be asserted, however, that he appeared entirely at his ease this evening after he had read the "Programme" chalked upon the large easel blackboard beside the chairman's desk.

Three "Freshman Debates" were announced and a "Sophomore Oration," this last being followed by the name, "D. Yocum, '18." Ramsey made immediate and conspicuous efforts to avoid sitting next to his roommate, but was not so adroit as to be successful. However, Fred was merciful; the fluctuations of his friend's complexion were an inspiration more to pity than to badinage.

The three debates all concerned the "Causes of the War in Europe," and honors appeared to rest with a small and stout, stolidly "pro-German" girl.

"Here's a right pretty place, isn't it, Ramsey, don't you think?" Fred remarked innocently, as they were passing a lawn of short-clipped, bright green grass before a genial-looking house, fresh in white paint and cool in green-and-white awnings. A broad veranda, well populated just now, crossed the front of the house; fine trees helped the awnings to give comfort against the sun; and Fred's remark was warranted. Nevertheless, he fell under the suspicion of his companion, who had begun to evince some nervousness before Fred spoke.

"What place you mean?" "The Yocum place," said Mr. Mitchell. "I hear the old gentleman's mighty prosperous these days. They keep things up to the mark, don't they, Ramsey?"

"I don't know whether they do or whether they don't," Ramsey returned shortly.

Fred appeared to muse regretfully. "It looks kind of empty now, though," he said, "with only Mr. and Mrs. Yocum and their married daughters, and eight or nine children on the front porch!"

"You wait till I get you where they can't see us!" Ramsey warned him fiercely.

"You can't do it!" said Fred, manifesting triumph. "We'll both stop right here in plain sight of the whole Yocum family connection till you promise not to touch me."

And he halted, leaning back implacably against the Yocum's iron fence. Ramsey was scandalized.

"Come on!" he said hoarsely. "Don't stop here!"

"I will, and if you go on alone I'll yell at you. You got to stand right here with all of 'em lookin' at you until—"

"I promise! My heavens, come on!" Fred consented to end the moment of agony; and for the rest of the summer found it impossible to persuade Ramsey to pass that house in his company. "I won't do it!" Ramsey told him. "Your word of honor means nothing to me; you're liable to do anything that comes into your head, and I'm gettin' old enough to not get a reputation for bein' snatched."

own agility could not save him from Ramsey, and so found it wiser to contain an effervescence which sometimes threatened to burst him. Ramsey as a victim was a continuous temptation, he was so good-natured and yet so furious.

After Commencement, when the roommates had gone home, Mr. Mitchell's caution extended over the long sunny months of summer vacation; he broke it but once and then in well-advised safety, for the occasion was semi-public. The two were out for a stroll on a July Sunday afternoon; and up and down the street young couples lolled along, young families and baby carriages straggled to and from the houses of older relatives, and the rest of the world of that growing city was rocking and flapping itself on its front veranda.

"Here's a right pretty place, isn't it, Ramsey, don't you think?" I didn't say anything." And upon his release he complained that the attack was unprovoked. "I didn't say anything on top to even hint you might want to go out and see if anybody in particular had got back to college yet. I didn't even mention the name of Dora Yo—Keep off o' me! debater, who had brought with her and translated at slight abas-loot proofs (so she called them), printed in German, that Germany had been attacked by Belgium at the low instigation of the envious English. Everybody knew it wasn't true; but she made an impression and established herself as a debater, especially as her opponent was quite confounded by her introduction of printed matter.

When the debates and the verdicts were concluded, the orator appeared, and Fred's compassion extended itself so far that he even refrained from looking inquisitively at the boy in the seat next to his; but he made one side of a wager, mentally—that if Ramsey had consented to be thoroughly confidential just then, he would have confessed to feeling kind o' funny.

Dora was charmingly dressed, and she was pale; but those notable eye-lashes of hers were all the more notable against her pallor. And as she spoke with fire, it was natural that her color should come back quite flamingly and that her eyes should flash in shelter of the lashes. "The Christian Spirit and Internationalism" was her subject, yet she showed no meek sample of a Christian Spirit herself when she came to attacking war-makers generally, as well as all those "half-developed tribesmen" and "victims of herd instinct" who believed that war might ever be justified under any circumstances of atrocity. She was eloquent truly, and a picture of grace and girlish dignity, even when she was most vigorous. Nothing could have been more militant than her denunciation of militancy.

"She's an actual wonder," Fred said, when the two had got back to Mrs. Melg's afterward. "Don't you look at me like that; I'm talkin' about her as a public character, and there's nothin' personal about it. You let me alone."

Ramsey was not clear as to his duty. "Well—"

"If any person makes a public speech," Fred protested, "I got a perfect right to discuss 'em, no matter what you think of 'em"—and he added hastily—"or don't think of 'em!"

"Look here—"

"Good heavens!" Fred exclaimed. "You aren't expecting to interfere with me if I say anything about that little fat Werder girl that argued for Germany, are you? Or any of the other speakers? I got a right to talk about 'em just as public speakers, haven't I? Well, what I say is: Dora Yocum as an orator is just an actual perfect wonder. Got any objections?"

"N-no."

CRYSTAL DETECTOR EASY TO CONSTRUCT

Telephone Condenser and Receivers Can Better Be Purchased—Mounting the Set.

The material needed to construct a simple crystal detector is as follows: Piece of silicon or galena molded in a metal button, 25 cents.

Two binding posts, 20 cents. A block of shellacked or stained wood 3 by 3½ inches.

A thin strip of sheet copper or brass ¼ inches wide by two inches long.

Mount the two binding posts on the block of wood as shown, fastening under one binding post a strip of copper or brass—see sketch—and under the other binding post a coiled up spring of fine springy copper or brass wire. By placing the button of metal containing the crystal of silicon or galena on the strip of metal and allowing the spring to make contact with the surface of the crystal the detector is complete and ready for operation.

Set Mounted on Base, With Connections Shown.

A complete crystal detector can be purchased from 75 cents to $2, depending upon the type.

Two other pieces of apparatus are necessary that cannot be readily constructed—they are the telephone condenser and the receivers. A telephone condenser to be used in shunt, across the phones can be purchased for about 50 cents.

For use with a radio receiver of this type it is recommended that a pair of 3,000-ohm, Murdoch type, No. 56 receivers, costing $6, be purchased. These are all the necessary parts needed for the complete receiver.

If it is desired, the three instruments, the tuner, the crystal detector and the telephone condenser, can be mounted on a stained base of wood, say, eight inches square and one-half inch thick. This will keep the component parts of the set together, making a compact unit of the whole and also be advantageous in that it will hold the instruments while adjustments are being made.

The sketch shows how the instruments are connected with each other and to the ground. The condenser is connected to one side of the tuner and to the crystal detector. The ground is connected to the other side of the phones, and the condenser and the tuner.

Lamp cord is excellent for connecting up small radio sets of this kind—it being a good conductor, well insulated and easy to handle.

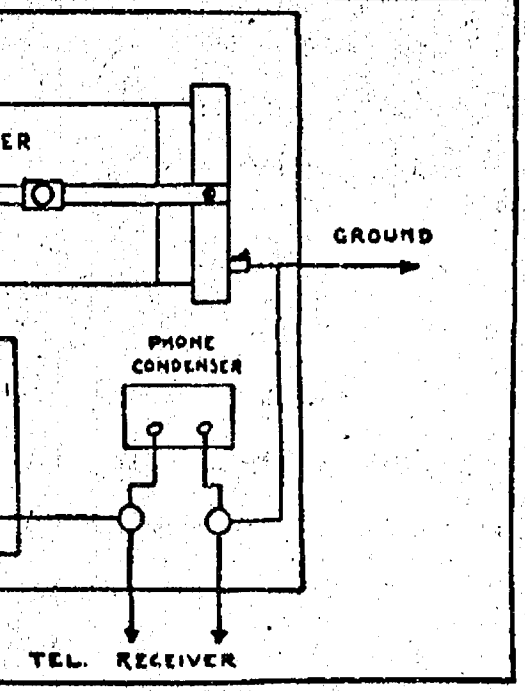

HOW TO LISTEN IN

There are two variables in our radio receiver that require adjustment when it is desired to listen-in: first, the detector, and second, the slide position on the tuner. Once the slide position has been determined for any given transmitting station, it is only necessary to adjust the detector to pick up that same station again.

To operate the receiver for the first time it is best to wait until some station like KDKA is transmitting between 8:30 and 9:30 p. m. Then adjust the detector by changing the point at which the spring and crystal of the detector make contact until, when a nearby electric light is snapped on and off, a click is heard in the head phones. The detector is now adjusted on a sensitive spot on the crystal. By changing the slide position, the transmitting station should be picked up.

After a station is once picked up it is an easy matter to adjust the detector and slider position until maximum response is obtained in the telephone receiver. With a simple set of the kind described in this and preceding articles and a little practice one soon becomes adept at picking up a given station. The entertainment derived from listening-in is usually well worth the time spent and the money invested.

VAGARIES OF VACUUM TUBES

Peculiar Actions That Always Astonish and Sometimes Frighten the Amateur Radioist.

Everybody who has had anything to do with vacuum tubes has from time to time had them do unexpected things and give results that at the moment seem beyond explanation.

The explanation of several characteristics of these miniature giants which are met with in daily operation is sure to prove of great interest to the amateur. In cases where the actions of the tube are not understood these peculiarities have sometimes frightened people.

One instance of a newborn fan's fright was brought to attention in a letter of inquiry. The instrument had just been set up and was being operated for the first time. "The tubes had been firmly adjusted and were just at the spilling point and—over they went, giving vent to the most unearthly sounds. The embryo enthusiast who looked upon the audion tube as an electric light, thought it was going to explode. He jumped away from the instrument and out of the room, and did not venture near it for several hours, and then only after reaching round the corner of the door with a long stick and pulling the battery switch off.

Similar instances have come to attention when bulbs generate vari-colored vapors in the vacuum chamber.

Moonshiners Using Radio.

Revenue officers seeking distillers of the far-famed and hardbitting "white lightning" in the mountains of Kentucky say that many raids made in the last few months have proven unsuccessful, due to the adoption of radiophone as a means of communication among the moonshiners.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promise of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments; corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcel Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores. Advertisement.

For Handsome Cars

EVERY MOTORIST who is proud of the appearance of his car will be interested in Corduroy Cords.

An exceptionally smart and distinctive appearance is given to the tire by the eight graduated corrugations on the sidewall.

At the same time, these corrugations constitute the strongest possible resistance to sidewall wear—that disagreeable condition for which there was no preventative until the advent of Corduroy Cords.

Corduroy Cords are thus doubly attractive—they look well and wear well.

That's what you want in a tire, isn't it? Then be sure to see the Corduroy Cord dealer before buying your next tires.

WHAT WE USUALLY FORGET

"Pretty soft for that man—he doesn't have a thing to worry about."
"Who?"
"That gray-haired gentleman over there. He has all the money he'll ever need."
"Oh! Do you know him?"
"Just by reputation."
"Well, he worked steadily 40 years, day and night, earning his right to rest now."

Worked Both Ways.

Hewitt—You look glum. What's the matter?
Jewett—Matter enough. I gave my wife a ticket to the town where her mother lives for a present.
Hewitt—That was nice.
Jewett—Was it? The confounded ticket was good in either direction and my wife sent it to her mother to come here on and I'm on my way to the train to meet her."

Talent Feared.

"You have not cultivated the arts of oratory?"
"My constituents say they don't want an orator in my place," replied Senator Sorghum. "They're afraid an orator might be out delivering lectures when he ought to be answering questions or keeping tabs on the congressional debates."

Sudden Activities.

"I understand there has been a crime wave in Crimmon Gulch."
"Nothing of the kind!" protested Cactus Joe. "Our beautiful and growing city has suffered in reputation simply because our new sheriff got restless and started diggin' up a lot of gossip that nobody has been payin' attention to for years."

Interesting Specimen.

"I'm afraid our boy Josh is a lounge lizard," said Farmer Cornstossel.
"He ain't," replied Josh's fond mother. "He's only a 'plesiosaurus'."
"How do you make that out?"
"I happened to see in the dictionary that 'plesiosaurus' means 'near lizard.'"

"Horrid? The ideal! Why, he got that in a football game."

Legislation.
Our legislature does not pause. To heed the speechless long since spoke. It's easier to make law laws Than to repair the ones we've broke.

The Exhausting Ordeal.
"Do you expect to do much work if you succeed in getting re-elected?"
"I'm not sure whether I'll be able to," replied Senator Sorghum. "The campaign promises to be so nerve-racking and exhausting that I may require almost the entire term of office to rest up for another one."

The Changeless Record.
"You would rather be photographed than interviewed?"
"I'm not so sure about that," answered Senator Sorghum. "If a photograph happens to present you in a disadvantageous attitude there's no chance for you to come out next day with a statement that it has been garbled."

Hard-Boiled.
"Don't you ever work?" asked the irascible citizen.
"I'm a student, sir," said the applicant for a thin dime.
"Of what?"
"Of humanity."

"Is that so?" Well, the specimen who is just now engaging your attention is a four-minute egg. Get out!"

Ironical.

Villain—At the blacksmith's.
Hero—You are having them forged.
Villain—Nay, nay. I am having them filed—Princeton Tiger.

What More Is Needed.
"But, my dear sir," protested the congressman to the applicant for a government job, you are totally unfit for the position you seek."

"And you have the heart to tell me that?" replied the applicant, as he looked at the congressman who had voted for him.

AIDS SICK AND WOUNDED MEN

Mrs. Maud Cudworth, Milwaukee, Wis., is known to Legion Boys Throughout the Mid-West.

Sick and wounded service men of the World war undergoing treatment

In Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky, Kansas and Missouri know or are going to know before the year is out of Mrs. Maud R. Cudworth, Milwaukee, Wis., a national vice president of the American Legion Auxiliary. It is the duty of local units of the Auxiliary in towns where ex-service men are in hospitals to keep the disabled men supplied with little comforts and delicacies not provided by the government. The women write letters to the patients, send them newspapers, books, magazines, fruit, bathrobes, bed slippers, candy, cigarettes and special articles that they desire. Under Mrs. Cudworth's supervision, as president of the national welfare committee of the Auxiliary, this work is being done in the middle western states over which she has supervision. Mrs. Cudworth personally visits disabled service men in the hospitals of her territory, hears their complaints and takes them up with the proper government officials.

A Legion post of 1,000 men in Milwaukee adopted Mrs. Cudworth as "Mother" because she lost her only son during the World war.

TWO KINDS OF PROFITEERS

Mrs. Henrietta Starkey, Le Sueur, Minn., Cited by Legion Boys as Most Valuable.

There were two kinds of profiteers during the war—one bad, the other good—the service men of Le Sueur, Minn., claim. One of the latter lives in Le Sueur and wears a cannon-mental decoration for the work which she did during the war to aid the various drives and the service men. She is Mrs. Henrietta A. Starkey, owner of a moving picture theater, whose constant willingness to throw open the doors of her amusement house for Liberty bond, Red Cross and other campaigns won her the plaudits of all and caused her bank account to diminish.

One of the things which Mrs. Starkey did to arouse war-time morale was to show the pictures of all the boys from Le Sueur who were in the service—237 in all. Lights and heat in her theater were all furnished gratis for war-time community gatherings. The cost of the films which were often shown at the Starkey theater was borne by its proprietor and the funds to help the service men were augmented so much more.

Le Sueur Legionnaires hold Mrs. Starkey up as the unusual who profited in their good will instead of cash.

GERMANY'S BIG LOSS IN WAR

Deaths Directly Traceable to the World Conflict Are Placed at About 12,000,000.

A study of the official records of the German war department shows that 46 men were killed and 109 wounded on the German side during every hour the World war raged. This estimate was arrived at after the archives had been probed by General Von Altröck, one of the German "high command."

It is also stated in the same report that the Kaiser had a total of 18,000,000 men under arms during the war, of which 1,808,548 were either killed outright or died of wounds or sickness incident to their service. The largest figures are those of the number of Germans wounded which General Altröck places at 4,243,770.

German deaths, directly traceable to the war, are placed at about 12,000,000.

Carrying On With the American Legion

Farmers gave 200 trees and the village gave a lot to the Elizabethtown (Ind.) post of the Legion when it wanted a community home.

A "Gold Star" Legion organization, open to parents, sisters and brothers of men who gave their lives in the World war, has been proposed.

A total of $83,000,000 yearly renewable term and converted government insurance is being carried by ex-service men in the state of Washington.

War-time draft dodgers are prohibited from holding public office in New York state, a bill sponsored by the Legion to that effect having passed the general assembly.

Legion posts have been formed in New Zealand and Denmark. Of 11,000 posts there have been a good growth, says the American Legion.

DAIRY POINTS

GIVE PUREBREDS MORE CARE

Dairyman Often Takes More Interest in High Class Stock Because of Possibilities.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
There is no good reason why it should cost more to care for a good herd of purebred dairy cows than it costs to care for the same number of good grades, although farmers sometimes believe that the purebreds are more expensive to keep. However, says the United States Department of Agriculture, the dairyman often does spend more on purebreds because he sees greater possibilities in them, and consequently takes more interest in them, feeding them better and building better barns to house them. He does not need to do this, but usually he finds that it pays him in gross returns and in net returns.

The results would have been the same, though possibly not in the same degree, if better care and feed had been given to a good grade herd. But it sometimes takes the stimulation supplied by the ownership of a few purebreds to induce a man to improve his practices.

TREATING STERILITY IN COW

Most Cases Become Chronic or Permanent Unless Properly Handled by Veterinarian.

In many herds where abortion disease is present, from five to ten per cent of the cows become sterile, or barren, and most cases become chronic or permanent unless they are treated by a qualified veterinarian. Dr. W. L. Williams of the New York State Veterinary college is to be given credit for the plan of procedure in handling these cows. The treatment should not be neglected too long after the cows manifest this symptom.

A thorough examination of the patient is necessary to locate the trouble either in the uterus, ovaries or fallopian tubes, and treated accordingly. It is not uncommon for a skilled operator to restore five out of six cases to a reproductive state under favorable conditions.

Cases of long standing should be sold to the butcher, as the treatment fails to help them. A case of more than eight months' to one year's standing is very discouraging to the operator, for he realizes that functional changes have taken place in the reproductive organs that will be difficult to correct by treatment. Therefore do not delay having an animal examined and treated in the beginning of the trouble instead of waiting until it is too late. The annual loss caused by sterility would be surprisingly high if survey could be made and accurate data obtained from the cattle breeders.

RATION MUST BE ATTRACTIVE

Dairy Cow to Do Well Requires Feed Containing Proper Elements for Milk Flow.

Cows won't do well on food that isn't palatable, say the feeding men at the New York College of Agriculture at Ithaca. Not only must the dairy cow's ration contain the proper elements if she is to be "worth her keep," but it must be so attractive to her that she will eat plenty and keep up a good flow of milk.

On the other hand, say the dairymen, it isn't wise to change a ration suddenly even to make it better. A cow is a delicate milk-producing machine, and sudden changes in her food are quite likely to upset some part of the machinery, with a resulting loss of milk.

The condition of the food probably has most to do with its palatability; moldy grains or roughage don't appeal to any self-respecting cow.

COWS ON PASTURE TOO SOON

Many Owners Expect Animals to Thrive on Thin Grass—Grain Must Be Supplied.

Owners of cows usually put them out on pasture too soon, expecting the cows to get all feed necessary from scanty early pastures. Until the pastures have made a good growth, cows will not do well, says the American Legion.

BEST SEED PEAS ARE PROFITABLE

Introduction of Undesirable Product Might Ruin Entire Output of Factory.

ALASKA VARIETY VERY RISKY

All Plants Must Ripen Uniformly and All Pods Must Be in Usable Condition at One Time—Other Canning Crops.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
Mixed or impure stock, under modern methods of harvesting and handling the pea crop for canning may result in the introduction of undesirable seed which may ruin the entire output of a canning factory, says the United States Department of Agriculture. The canner should buy direct from the seed-growing seedman rather than from a jobber. Particularly in the case of smooth Alaska peas, which furnish 55 per cent of the canned peas on the market, there is risk taken if a canner buys seed the history of which cannot be traced. The canner is in a much safer position if he buys only from seed growers who control their own stocks.

Must Be Productive.

To be a good canning pea, a variety must, first of all, be productive; all plants must ripen uniformly; all pods on individual plants must be in usable condition at one time—that is, none must be too ripe or too immature; the peas must remain green after processing. The introduction of the viner, which eliminates hand-picking of the pods, has had a decided influence on the varieties of peas used for canning.

The return on a planting of peas for seed is far less than that on either corn or tomatoes, two other important canning crops, and the utmost care is necessary throughout the growth of the seed crop to discover and weed out undesirable types of volunteer plants or those due to warehouse mixture, so as to keep the stock uniform. The seedman sows about three bushels of peas per acre, getting a return of 15 bushels. Three of these must be kept for stock seed, leaving 12 bushels to sell. The eastern grower for the cannery plants four or five bushels to the acre, so that the average seedman's acre of peas supplies about three acres for the cannery.

An acre of corn yielding 40 bushels would provide seed for 100 acres of canning crops, and an acre of tomatoes yielding 100 pounds of seed would plant 1,000 acres in canning crops. With this small relative return per acre, the seedman must take every precaution to maintain the purity of his stock, or he may run the risk of very heavy losses if he loses his reputation for good seed. It is safest for the seed-growing seedman not to purchase seed, especially of the Alaska variety, in which impurities cannot be detected in the samples, unless he controls the original stock.

A new farmers' bulletin, No. 1258, "Seed Peas for the Canner," by D. N. Shoemaker, horticulturist, has been issued by the United States Department of Agriculture, and may be obtained upon application to the department at Washington, D. C.

PUT TREES ON WASTE SPOTS

Conditions Demand That All Land Should Produce Something—Trees Are Favored.

Modern conditions demand that all the wastes and leaks be eliminated, and this means that all the land should produce something. It is not always possible to make every portion of the farm area yield annual crops, but in such cases one may wisely and profitably try trees. If one-twentieth of each farm tract were set aside for forestry, in time there would be timber to spare.

A great many cliffs and hill-sides along our many rivers and streams are fit for little else, and hill land that is very stony may be planted to post-timber trees with much profit. Black locust and catalpa are the most profitable for posts, the locust being given the preference on account of its member of growth being smoother and the quality of timber the very

TURKEYS YIELD GOOD PROFIT IN OKLAHOMA

Woman Substitutes Purebreds for Scrub Stock.

Despite Heavy Losses to Flock, Due to Conditions That Might Not Occur Elsewhere, Return of $1,525 Is Made.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
A return of $1,525 from turkeys in two seasons was obtained by an Oklahoma woman in spite of heavy losses in her flock, due to conditions that might not occur elsewhere. The Greer county extension agent convinced her that it would pay to follow the advice of the United States Department of Agriculture and the state agricultural college and substitute purebreds for her scrub stock. He also gave her information on the management of her flock.

She started with 10 hens and 1 tom of the Mammoth Bronze variety. From these she raised 122 young turkeys, but lost 50 of them in a sudden hail storm. The rest she sold as breeders, advertising them in a farm journal. They netted her $900, or an average of $12.50 each.

This year she started with the same number of breeders and obtained 145 young poults. Unfortunately one of the farm hogs was fond of turkey, and destroyed all but 51 of the flock before the depredations were traced to him. At about $12 apiece, however, the remaining 51 brought $612.

Other instances of successful turkey raising reported by the extension agent of Greer county show a total profit of $2,418.90 on the sale of 210 turkeys and 12 dozen eggs out of 228 turkeys in different flocks.

GET BETTER SIRE EMBLEMS

Oldham County, Kentucky, Live Stock Owners Given 46 Certificates in One Day.

In one day recently the United States Department of Agriculture issued 46 emblems of recognition to live stock owners in Oldham county, Ky., who are now using purebred sires exclusively for all classes of live stock kept.

This county has eradicated scrub sires from about half of the territory in the county, according to a report received from Wayland Rhoads, extension specialist of the Kentucky Agricultural college.

Wayne county, Ky., likewise is active in replacing scrub sires with good purebreds. The department recently issued "better-sires" emblems to 44 Wayne county stock owners. Bull sales are being held by local breeders in both counties to bring about a wider distribution of good purebred bulls.

INITIAL SEASON OF CLOVER

It May Be Pastured From Middle to Close, But Not Too Close—Cure Hay in Shock.

The growth produced the first season by sweet clover is similar in quality to alfalfa. It may be pastured from the middle of the season to the close, but should not be pastured so close as to injure the plants. The growth the second season is much coarser and if used for hay should be cut before it reaches a height of 30 inches. A high stubble should be left as the second growth starts from buds on the cut-over stems. If cut too close to the ground, no second growth will be produced. The hay should be cured in the windrow or shock to prevent the loss of leaves and too rapid curing.

SHEEP DESTROY MANY WEEDS

Animals Devour Noxious Plants in Pastures, Grain Fields and Clear Fence Rows.

Sheep eat more weeds than any other class of live stock, except goats. Sheep will eat ninety per cent of all troublesome weeds. They will destroy weeds in pastures, in grain fields and corn fields after harvesting, and clear the fence rows. However, sheep are not such scavengers that they can thrive on refuse and weeds alone. In order to get sheep to eat leaves on shrubs, the tenderer grasses must be scarce. Goats are better adapted to clearing brush land than are sheep. Some farmers consider sheep necessary just as a means of controlling weeds.

CECIL B. DEMILLE

PRODUCTION

"Fool's Paradise"

WITH

DOROTHY DALTON, MILDRED HARRIS, CONRAD NAGEL, THEODORE KOSLOFF, JOHN DAVIDSON, JULIA FAYE.

This is what you will see:

Thrilling events on the Mexican Border, seething with deeds of bandits, gamblers and soldiers of fortune.

A vast and gorgeous temple in a towered City Beautiful, built on teeming lagoons.

Dances Siamese, dances Parisienne, and marvelous skating dancers whirling through the Ballet of Ice.

Hundreds of alluring beauties of the Orient, bewitchingly attired.

Strange heathen rites of hordes of worshippers in jewelled cloth of gold.

Spectacular uses of elephants, bears, snakes, peacocks, crocodiles and dogs. (The crocodile fight is the most blood-stirring sensation ever shown on the screen.)

Revel scenes, street scenes, boudoir scenes, feud scenes, theatre scenes, vision scenes, storm scenes, fire scenes, war scenes, water scenes.

And weaving these wonders all together into the greatest entertainment DeMille has ever made is a poignant, glorious story of human hearts!

Fordson Often Does More In a Day Than Six Horses

The Fordson substitutes motors for muscles.

The Fordson substitutes tractor wheels for the legs of man and horse.

The Fordson takes the burden off flesh and blood and puts it on steel.

It allows the farmer's energy to be devoted to management, and not merely to operation. It gives him time. It cuts his producing costs.

There's a big story of savings made possible by the Fordson. Let us tell you. Write, phone or call.

Firestone

CORD TIRES

The tire section above at the left shows the condition of a Firestone 33x4 1/2 Cord Tire after 20,994 miles on a Yellow Cab in Chicago.

The section at the right was cut from a new Cord of the same size. Careful measurements show that only 1/3 of the tread of the tire on the Yellow Cab has been worn away after this long, grueling test. The carcass is intact after more than 11,000,000 revolutions.

Firestone Cords have averaged over 10,000 miles on Chicago Yellow Cabs (1,200 cabs all Firestone equipped). In thousands of instances, they have given from 15,000 to 30,000 miles.

Look at the tread—scientifically angled against skid, massive and heavy in the center where the wear comes, tapered at the edges to make steering easy and to protect the carcass against destructive hinging action of high tread edges. The carcass is air bag expanded to insure uniform tension and paralleling of every individual cord. It is double "gum dipped" to make sure that each cord is thoroughly insulated with rubber.

This is the reason why Firestone Cords unfailingly deliver extraordinary mileage. It explains the unanimous demand of thoughtful tire buyers for these values. The local Firestone dealer will continue to provide the personal service that makes Firestone tire comfort and economy complete.

For Ten Dollars and Ninety Cents—This 30 x 3½ Usco

THE 30 x 3½ tire situation today is just this—

The man who buys an USCO at $10.90 is justified in believing that his money is going farther in tire value than it ever has gone or could go before.

Naturally he appreciates the quality of USCO. That was established long ago.

It is still fresh in his mind that USCO led the national market into the $10.90 price range.

The makers of U. S. Tires always intended the 30 x 3½ USCO to be the highest value in its field.

At $10.90 it creates a new classification of money's worth.

Pineknay—The mail service on the Michigan Air Line in and out of Pineknay should be "investigated" by the postoffice department. Many complaints for poor service are registered at this office. REFUSE TO ACCEPT "SMITH"

Members of That Family Have Hard Work Convincing Strangers That the Name Is Real.

"It isn't the fact that Smith is such a common name that I dislike it," said Miss Smith, according to a New York Sun writer, "but the fact that every one who wants to give a fictitious name just says she's Miss Smith. Every time I have to introduce myself somebody sort of snickers about it and supposes my name is Gugenheimer or Cafferey or something else. Take my sister and myself, for instance. We often go out together to the rink or down in the village for supper."

"There's always some nice boys around who want to dance with us or skate around a couple of times. Of course, you don't need any official introduction these days, and the boys know it. So they come over and in a little while they're telling us where they work and their telephone number and how we look like their sisters, and all that. It's all right, too, because you get used to that way of getting acquainted, and it's much better than some funny guys, who try to hand you a line that they're in the movies or doing fiction writing."

"Well, anyway, pretty soon, if they like us, they say, 'You're a pretty nifty little dancer. I'd like to see you again. You know all about me, so tell me your name, will you?' Then when I say Miss Smith, they say, 'Come on, quit your kidding. That doesn't mean anything to me. Tell me your real name.'"

"When I insist my name is Smith, they say, 'What's the matter? You're married or something.'"

"So we don't tell our real names any more. We say we're Miss Cooper or Stuyvesant or something else, and since we don't look like sisters we each have to use different names to be believed. Funny, isn't it?"

BELIEF HAS A FOUNDATION

Idea That Seventh Child of a Seventh Child Is "Gifted" Not Altogether a Fallacy.

The seventh child of a seventh child (sometimes "the seventh son of a seventh son") is supposed to be gifted with the power of curing headaches and more serious ailments by the laying on of hands, and to have other magical powers. In other words, he is supposed to have a "gift."

Among the later discoveries in eugenics was that the younger children of very intelligent men inherited more of their father's intelligence than did the older children; or, as sometimes happened, that the children of a younger son were supremely gifted with intelligence. The reason for this—according to eugenic theories—is that talented men or women, like many others, usually marry when fairly young if they marry at all. The older children of such a talented man have therefore the tendency to inherit only what mental qualities he may have developed at that time.

But supposing that the talented man, as is usually the case, continues to develop amazing mental qualities, then if he has children when his brain is completely mature, those children will probably inherit their father's matured mentality; or, if they do not inherit it, their children (the clever man's grandchildren) receive the inheritance.

Writers Got Money In Advance.

The Seventeenth or Eighteenth century author traded rather more on the trustfulness of the public than does the new school, for he peddled his book before it was written and sometimes spent the proceeds before he had completed half a dozen chapters. The only difference is that his peddling was particular rather than general; he went round the houses of the great and wealthy with his "plan," and the great and wealthy, generally in sufficient numbers, got rid of him by agreeing to have their names put down for a subscription. If they were very great or very wealthy they might expect a dedication thrown in, as it were, in which respect the modern peddler has no advantage, for no obligation is implied in the purchase of a copy of the book.—Manchester Guardian.

Known by Their Hats.

All the various tribes of Persia are to be distinguished and recognized by their headgear. So, at the capital, Teheran, there is to be seen a greater assortment of hats and headgear than in any other place in the world. Some are picturesque, some are ludicrous. The Kurds, of which there are 600,000 in the country, wear a hat which looks like an inverted coffee pot, black, bound round with gay-colored handkerchiefs. That of another tribe is of white felt, resembling in shape a preserving kettle. Hats are exclusively the privilege of men. Women do not wear headcovering.

"Playful" Indeed!

In his book, "Flashlights From the Seven Seas," the Rev. William L. Stidger, of Detroit, says the Battaks of Sumatra have what he refers to facetiously as a "playful" custom of getting rid of their old men. When a man gets so old that they think it is about time for him to tell his last tale, they put him up a coconut tree. Then all the young bucks of the village get together and try to shake him down. If he is too feeble to hold on, and

While the Standard's department devoted to news and matters of interest to the boys who were "over there," and is prepared at American Legion national headquarters, this material should interest every reader of the Standard.

For instance, isn't it of tremendous interest to know that the American Legion arranged to have the grave of every American boy in foreign cemeteries decorated on Memorial Day just as though those boys had been buried on home soil?

The American Legion department appears in the Standard weekly.

WASHINGTON SIDELIGHTS

Boulder May Rival Gatun and Assouan

WASHINGTON. — Legislation to carry into effect the recommendation to congress made recently by Secretary Fall for the protection and development of the lower Colorado river was proposed in a bill introduced in the house by Representative Swing, Republican, California. The measure calls for an appropriation of $70,000,000, and authorizes the construction of a dam creating an immense reservoir at Boulder canon on the Colorado river, near the Colorado-Nevada line. "The dam would be sufficient," Representative Swing said, "to store the entire flood waters of that river in any year, and completely remove the constantly recurring serious menace from annual floods to the Imperial valley, California; Yuma, Ariz., and many other thriving communities on the lower Colorado."

Mr. Swing said the unified project will provide homes and farms for thousands of ex-service men and women, as the secretary of the interior is authorized under the bill to use the stored waters to reclaim arid lands below, of which the government itself owns about 300,000 acres, now worthless, but highly productive when water is put upon them.

The building of this dam will make possible the creation of 750,000-horsepower of electrical energy much needed to supplement our rapidly diminishing oil supply. Ready markets for this power exist in the mines of Utah, Arizona and Nevada, the railroads in the southwest and in the cities of southern California. The power privileges at the dam will be sold or leased under governmental regulations, which will guarantee an equitable distribution among the various states and communities.

The proceeds from the sales and leases of the power will pay the cost of the dam. The cost of the irrigation work and canals will be repaid by the lands benefited.

Old Naval Officers Face Hard Times

FIFTY-NINE old sea dogs of the American navy are in trouble. This is a group of naval officers who in some cases have served as far back as 1808 and were formerly officers of the naval auxiliary service. It appears that in the days in which they took an active part in the navy, they received some sort of an indefinite promise that they would never be relieved from duty as long as they were alive, and also that in later years their families would receive pensions. The branch of the service in which they served was organized in 1808 to command naval supply vessels. But in the emergency of 1917 congress arbitrarily forced these old-time auxiliary officers into the newly organized naval reserve. Under their auxiliary organization they were accorded the same amount of pay and other benefits as the regulars. But since their enforced entry into the naval reserve of 1917 they have become a part of the organized reserve, which under the present naval bill will be greatly reduced.

Commander William Prideaux, who was the first officer of the supply ship Zafro, which went with Admiral Dewey's fleet into Manila bay in 1898, and who has ever since worn the naval uniform and is commanding officer of the training ship Rappahannock at San Diego, Cal., in a letter to President Harding has appealed to him to ask for the setting aside of the small amount of pay that will keep those 59 old sea heroes from starvation, if the reduction should go through. He says that there are two simple means whereby the unfortunate condition could now be remedied.

The first is to transfer those officers to the regular service as an extra number in the grade out of the line of regular promotions and retain them for service on auxiliary ships.

The second is that retirement pay privileges equal to those accorded regular officers should, at least be provided. The latter would cost the government only $60,000 a year.

No Accommodations for the Tenderfoot

THE following information is contained in a bulletin issued by the Department of the Interior:

Officials of the Alaskan engineering commission state that, now that steel has been connected on the Government Alaskan railroad from Seward to Fairbanks, a large volume of tourist travel is expected to be handled over that road this coming summer. Not only is it a wonderfully scenic ride, but the Mount McKinley National park, which the railroad closely approaches, will be an added attraction.

However, tourist travel within the park will be possible this year for only the most hardy traveler. Not only are there absolutely no accommodations within the park, but there are no roads and at present, not even a well-constructed trail. The park railroad station, McKinley Park station at Riley Creek, is about fifteen miles north of Broad Pass, through which the railroad crosses the main Alaska range. Here is being constructed by Maurice Morino, a local homesteader, a large log roadhouse to accommodate local travel. Mr. Morino has also made application to erect this coming summer six shelter tents within the park, which will contain stoves and bedding for travelers who, however, must bring their own food supplies.

Another local homesteader, P. J. Lynch, will also conduct a roadhouse at McKinley Park station. These accommodations are principally for miners and prospectors going into the Kantishna mining district. The few tourists who may desire to get into the park to view the wild herds of caribou and mountain sheep to which the park offers sanctuary will be able to outfit with pack animals and secure guides at McKinley Park station.

Travel conditions and hotel accommodations along established lines of transportation by railroad, automobile and river steamer will be about as in the rural districts of the United States, but travel away from the established lines is practically impossible at present.

League of Nations and Size of Armies

BIRTHS, marriages, mortality and health among the peoples of the member states of the League of Nations will figure strongly in studies now in progress in Geneva to pave the way for ultimate reduction of the size of armies. A copy of a draft program to guide studies of specialists selected by the league's temporary mixed commission has reached the Washington government through unofficial sources.

The draft program was prepared by Professor Benini and submitted to the commission for circulation among the member states. It is a voluminous document containing the information as to the health and condition of national armies, which it would be necessary to obtain and formulate for comparative studies for the purpose of arriving at a correct estimate of the military power of each state.

Each phase of the problem of military strength analysis—economic, social, political, geographical, racial and national—is covered in the draft program. It is a comprehensive document, and it is expected that it will be of great value in the future.

"Fame is what you have taken,
Character is what you give;
When to this truth you waken
You then begin to live."

A FEW WORTH WHILE CONFECTIONS

The best never-fail fudge, the recipe for which has been given before many times, is the following:

Chocolate Nut Fudge.—Take two cupsful of granulated sugar, one-half cupful of milk, one-third cupful of corn syrup, two tablespoonsful of butter and one to two squares of chocolate. Boil to the soft ball stage, flavor with vanilla, let stand until partly cool, then stir until creamy. Pour into a greased pan and mark off into squares or drop by spoonfuls on a buttered sheet, adding nuts if desired.

Ginger Fudge.—Take one-half table-spoonful of butter, one cupful of milk, and two cupsful of sugar, boil to the soft ball stage, set in cold water and when cool, beat until creamy. Add one-fourth of a pound of diced crystallized ginger and one-half cupful of shredded coconut. Cut in squares.

Coconut Dream.—Cook together one and one-half cupsful of sugar, two teaspoonfuls of butter and one-half cupful of milk, to the soft ball stage. Add one-third of a cupful of shredded coconut and figs, cut in bits. Add one-half teaspoonful of vanilla for flavoring. Stir until creamy, drop by spoonfuls on waxed paper. This makes twenty pieces.

California Grilled Almonds.—Take one cupful of sugar, two table-spoonfuls of orange, two table-spoonfuls of lemon juice. Blanch the almonds and dry thoroughly. Boil the sugar and fruit juices until the syrup forms a thread. Add the almonds and cook until the syrup turns yellow. Remove instantly and stir until it sugars. Cool; separate the almonds.

Sierra Turkish Delight.—Take two cupsful of apricot pulp, one and one-half pounds of powdered sugar, one teaspoonful of cornstarch, three teaspoonfuls of lemon juice. Cook the apricots, sugar, starch and juice; cool and pour on to a powdered sugar board. Cut in squares when cool. Almond flavoring may be used. To prepare the pulp, stew and strain dried apricots.

Honey Gingerbread.—Beat one cupful of honey and add one-half cupful of butter or shortening just before it begins to boil; remove from the heat and add one-half cupful of sour milk, two well-beaten eggs, two cupsful of flour, one-half teaspoonful each of cinnamon, salt and ginger, and one and three-fourths of a teaspoonful of soda. Bake in a moderate oven.

"God sends meat, and the devil sends cooks."

SEASONABLE GOOD THINGS

Now is the time when the fresh mushroom is abroad in the land and the delicious vegetable adds much to our menu.

Mushrooms on Toast.—Peel the caps and remove the stems from one-quarter of a pound of fresh mushrooms. Brush the wires of a hot broiler with olive oil. Place the mushrooms on the broiler gill side down, hold the gill side over the fire or if a gas broiler under the flame for three minutes, turn the broiler, put a piece of butter in each cap and cook on the other side for three minutes. Arrange on slices of toast well buttered.

Asparagus Soup.—Wash a bunch of asparagus, putting the tough portions into the kettle and cooking them for half an hour, then remove before adding the tender parts, add one-half cupful of rice and cook all until tender. Cook the tender tips in a well seasoned broth adding the liquid in which the tough portions were cooked. Serve well seasoned, passing grated cheese with the soup, which should be very thick.

Potato Cakes.—Take two cupsful of mashed potato, one egg well beaten, and two table-spoonfuls of milk. Mix all together, adding salt and pepper to season. Add a little flour and form into ten balls. Pin around each a strip of bacon, using a toothpick for a skewer. Set in a hot oven or under a broiler until the bacon is brown and crisp. Serve at once.

Lamb Pigeons.—Cut four slices from the narrower end of a leg of yearling lamb, remove the bone and pound the meat flat, spread with well seasoned forcemeat and minced pork with scraped onion, minced clams and mushrooms mixed with bread crumbs, seasoning with such other seasonings as desired. Roll each cutlet and tie firmly with a string. Spread with butter or other sweet fat, dredge with flour seasoned with salt and pepper and place on a rack in a baking pan, in a hot oven. Have the oven very hot for the first ten minutes, then lower the heat, pour over them a pint of water, and baste with the water and drippings every ten minutes.

CAPE FOR SUMMER WEAR; FROCKS FOR GIRL GRADUATES

A DEBUTANTE in the world of fashion has had its picture made and is herewith presented. It is something very new and simple, in a cape for summer wear, and makes its entry in the company of other pretty clothes for outdoor—with every chance to become a favorite. It has taken up with the whim for yarn trimmings and looks as if it were knitted instead of woven. There are points that will count in its favor, for fashion has her eyes glued upon new diplomaward, and one of their great days is dawning. Commencement are about to be staged. They prove the most engrossing subject in the minds of everybody concerned, with what shall I wear, uppermost among the details under discussion.

Having made a little journey of research long before commencement day peeped over the horizon, the style reporter gathers that the first thing for the girl graduate to decide is the matter of silhouette. She is to choose knitted things just now and it looks as if there were small chance of distracting her attention from them.

There are several fabrics that might be used for a cape of this kind, as wool or silk jersey cloth, tweed, sponge, ratine and the heavier crepes. It is merely an oblong piece of goods shirred across the back and shoulders and joined to a narrow flat scarf. The loop fringe and cross stitch band that trim it are done in wool yarn.

Some very pretty and practical capes of tweed are finished with a binding of ribbon and there are many plain tweed capes that make just the between the piquant and demure bouffant skirt.

If the maid elects to be picturesque in a full skirt she may join it to a rather snug bodice with sleeves a little shorter than elbow length. In necklines there are the square, "V" shaped, and bateau lines to be selected according to their becomingness, and in materials organdie, taffeta, or other crepes weaves insure the success of this style. They all lend themselves to narrow ruffles and puffs to cordings and shirring, and narrow ribbons seem to be made for them. How sufficient unto itself organdie is, may be gathered from the pretty frock pictured, in right sort of accompaniment for spring street frocks. Crepe de chine and heavier crepes and silks are promoted for long afternoon and evening wraps, and reveal the cape in many modifications. These are usually lined with crepe de chine in a contrasting color, as black and gray or blue lining. Dark brown crepe de chine is sponsored by great names in capes and cape wraps for summer afternoons.

Girls in the class of '22 have nearly reached the end of the long jour-which the skirt is just one ruffle after another, each edged with a little frill. The bodice is finished in the same way, and even the short sash is made of organdie. The variety in these organdie frocks is endless, and those of taffeta are built on the same lines.

BOBBY'S "GIRL"

By MALCOLM BROWN

Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.

The little, fashionably dressed woman with the long, straight hair, looked hopelessly at the long line of push-buttons and letter-boxes on either side of the door before she found the name. At last, with a little reckless gesture, she pressed the button. The hall door clicked, and she began the long tramp upstairs. When one calls at an apartment house one always finds the person sought for on the top floor.

At the head of the fifth flight a door clicked open. Mrs. Van Leyden found herself looking into the face of a young, dark-haired woman.

"Miss Farrell?" she asked.

"Come in," replied the other shortly. She led her into a gaudily furnished room, in the middle of which, upon a hard, straight, velvet-covered chair, sat a fat woman in middle life, evidently Miss Farrell's mother, for, except for the added years and embonpoint, the features were almost identical. Mrs. Van Leyden looked at the daughter and at the mother and shuddered involuntarily.

"Mamma!" said Miss Farrell.

"Oh, all right," said the stout woman, and, taking the paper which she had been reading, withdrew into an inner room.

"What can I do for you, Mrs. Van Leyden?" said the visitor.

"A light of understanding came into Miss Farrell's eyes.

"Not Bobby Van Leyden's mother?" she asked, apparently much amused.

"Robert Van Leyden, my son," answered the other quietly.

"Then I guess I know what you've come for," retorted Miss Farrell. "Sit down, won't you? Well, stand if you prefer. You have heard that Bobby's mashed on me and want to stop it before it gets to the wedding bells? Well, don't trouble about that."

"I have no fear of that," said the visitor.

"Some people," said Miss Farrell, "think that if a woman is on the stage she doesn't amount to much. And that's where they guess wrong. Why, if my Joe even heard of Bobby's notes he'd wring his neck."

"You are engaged then?" inquired the visitor, more gently.

"To the best man in the world," answered Miss Farrell, twirling a solitary upon her finger. "And for Joe's sake—and perhaps for Bobby's girl, though she'd be well rid of him, in my opinion—I'll do what I can."

"That's good of you."

"Will your husband take you to the Imperial tomorrow night at eleven if you ask him?" inquired the actress.

"Of course he would. But what are you going to do?"

"Fix Master Bobby. Will you be there?"

"I will," answered Mrs. Van Leyden.

It was in a frenzy of fear and agitation that Mrs. Van Leyden took her place opposite her husband at the Imperial supper table the next evening.

Suddenly she started. Bobby was coming in!

But was this Bobby, who took a seat at the supper table—this immaculately attired young man who sat down at the farthest table, half hidden under the palms? And this hang-dog look in his eyes—she had never seen that before. And the woman with him!

A stout, middle-aged woman of forty-five or so, with a huge red hat from which depended five pink ostrich plumes, a yellow evening gown trimmed with violet bows, a pair of short, black gloves, a rapid smile, and an umbrella!

It was Miss Farrell's mother. And suddenly she understood.

"Say, Madge, I don't know what your game was, but it was the dullest evening I ever spent," complained Mrs. Farrell as she got home, weary and cross, at one o'clock. "I fooled that young fellow all right—anybody could fool him. He thought I was you all along. But what's the game?"

"Oh, just part of the week's work, ma," answered her daughter wearily.

Intelligent Help.

Entering her sitting room one evening recently a suburban resident beheld one of her window curtains ablaze from having come in contact with the gas jet. She called to the cook to bring a dishpan of water in a hurry, but that lady did not arrive on the scene until after the man of the house had rushed in, torn down the curtain and stamped out the flame. "Why didn't you hurry?" they asked the cook, reproachfully. "Hurry?" she repeated, "Wasn't I hurrying as fast as I could? I had hot water in the dishpan to throw out and get some cold water. You didn't want me to come in and throw hot water on the fire and make it worse, did you?"

The Spanish Main.

The Spanish Main is the name applied to the waters along the coast of South America, formerly so called because frequented by Spanish vessels and somewhat under the jurisdiction of Spain. The name was popularly given by English voyagers during the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries to the north coast of South America between the Orinoco river and the Isthmus of Darien (now the Isthmus of Panama) and also to the Spanish provinces of Central America bordering on the Caribbean sea. The expression "Spanish Main" also is used to denote the Caribbean sea itself, especially in connection with the buccaniers who infested those waters.

YOUNG MOTHER NOW STRONG

Her Mother's Faith in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Led Her To Try It

Kenosha, Wisconsin.—"I cannot say enough in praise of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My mother had great faith in it as she had taken so much of it and when I had trouble after my baby was born she gave it to me. It helped me so much more than anything else had done that I advise all women with female trouble to give it a fair trial and I am sure they will find as I do about it. Mrs. F. P. HANSEN, 508 Symonds St., Kenosha, Wisconsin."

A medicine that has been in use nearly fifty years and that receives the praise and commendation of mothers and grandmothers is worth your consideration. If you are suffering from troubles that sometimes follow child-birth bear in mind that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a woman's medicine. It is especially adapted to correct such troubles.

The letters we publish ought to convince you; ask some of your women friends or neighbors—they know its worth. You will, too, if you give it a fair trial.

Clown Band at Circus

They're coming to town, the clowns, the elephants and everything. John Robinson's circus will exhibit at Jackson on June 8, and with the show, say the advance men, are fifty of the funniest fellows, the merriest, merry "Joey's" that ever swung a stuffed club or cracked each other in delicately with the time-honored slapstick. Among them are a half dozen producing clowns, fellows who carry their own troupes of funsters and their own props, as the paraphernalia of their act is called. These fellows have built burlesques of every event now being recorded in the daily press.

They ride a tableau wagon in the street parade and they constitute the funniest jazz bands this side of the equator. Big clowns, little clowns, fat clowns and slim clowns—they all puff lustily on their horns and trombones while their band wagon goes rolling along. In the performances, they have a hundred stunts which they pull in the rings, on the stages, in the air and on the track. They are always on the job and they will bet that they can make you laugh as you never laughed before, for they are the pick of American and European fun-makers.

Former Michigan Nurse

Miss Mary E. Marshall, formerly of Michigan, now head of the nursing division of the National Tuberculosis Association, is the author of an article on "Nursing Care for the Tuberculosis" which will form a part of "The Encyclopedia of Nursing," to be published by the MacMillan Company. Since leaving Michigan Miss Marshall has become a national figure in nursing.

She was superintendent of nurses during the tuberculosis survey conducted a few years ago by the State Board of Health under the direction of Dr. William De Kleine, and in that capacity she visited nearly every city and hamlet in the entire state.

During the past year, in her work for the National Tuberculosis Association, Miss Marshall has visited all parts of the United States in the way of organizing the nursing service; and many of the ideas that she gained during her service in Michigan are being put into operation in this national work.
