

LOCAL WOMAN HEADS
BIG HOME IN COLO.

About three years ago a great deal was established at Grand Junction, Colorado, for the relief and aid of crippled children. At the time of organization this part of the country was almost a barren waste but now modern systems of irrigation and farming it is a real land.

Miss Charlotte A. Steinbach of Chelsea was called to Grand Junction to help organize the new school. She has been there for some time and has seen the school built to a fine institution.

An article from the Daily Sentinel, of Grand Junction, the following appeared: That human life is sacred a thing ever to be disregarded, is the compelling principle which causes Colorado to care for her crippled and crippled, mentally and physically. In whatever form life comes, may not be denied and it must be protected. And when it is humanly possible it must be given a chance to grow and develop into something great.

The training school at the state has been in operation only since first of January, but it has attracted the attention of those most deeply concerned with welfare problems. It is a monthly party at the home of the chief guests the children—either 4 or 40 years old—whose birthdays fall in that month.

Miss Charlotte Steinbach, at the head of the training school has had experience with defective children at head of that branch of the public schools of Cleveland, Ohio, and she has great ability as a director and teacher of afflicted children. She is patient with endless patience, which is necessary to teach defectives, and she planned the routine of the school which makes it possible for teachers to do in even the best and most of private homes.

JUST A NEW FAD

And would you believe it? Yes sir, on Rapids is announcing a new fad. It may be old to some but to others it is novel and attractive. Girls on Rapids are wearing silk hose before, also short skirts—but the thing that is of interest is that the girls are buttoned up the back. Now you feature that? Black hose and pearl buttons up the back. Had not been for the short skirts the fad might have passed unnoticed as it is they did not. As to val- it is hard to say except that the fad may be used to cover or rather camouflage those annoying things called holes.

PATRIOTISM IS SHALLOW.

It is hard to call any one a slacker or not a patriot these days and often it is only a matter of thoughtlessness, but it would seem that when reminded a person could at least remove his hat when the colors pass. It is such a small matter, but it does mean a great deal.

Memorial day the flag was in full parade and yet but few people seemed to realize that it was their duty to remove their hats as the flag passed. Patriotism seems to be mighty shallow with some.

Two years ago if the flag passed as it did Tuesday and a person did not remove his hat, he was apt to have it knocked off. Today? Even when asked to take off their hats some seemed to look dismayed and perplexed at such a request. With some it was only a case of forgetting but with others, it looked a lot different.

There is not a person in the country that is not willing to use the flag as a protection when out at sea or in a foreign land, but at home to respect it is something different. It might do us all good to take heed lest some day we may need it to cover ourselves with, and then would we be deserving?

MEMORIAL EXERCISES

WELL ATTENDED.

The Memorial day exercises held in Chelsea were well attended, and were a fine success. The few members of the Grand Army residing here were out for the occasion and marched in the parade.

At 10 o'clock the Legion men assembled and marched with the band and the school children to the school yard. Here the program was enjoyed. Rev. Griffith of Jackson gave the address of the morning, his subject was "Roads of Remembrance." The selections by the band, the drills and songs by the school children, and the readings were all well delivered.

Following the program the procession again formed and marched to the cemetery where the finalities were given. After the flowers were laid on the graves and taps had been blown the procession returned to town.

The village was filled with people from all over the state.

The cemetery was beautiful with the many flowers laid on the graves. It was a beautiful Memorial day and one long to be remembered.

CHELSEA TRACK TEAM

DOES WELL AT MEET.

At a tri-county track meet held Saturday in Plymouth Chelsea scored 14 points. The meet was between Plymouth, Wayne and Chelsea. The team from Chelsea that was coached by Rev. Carnes was composed mostly of freshmen. The boys had been out only a few times to train and yet they were determined to go in for something.

The boys did well, and can be highly complimented on their loyalty and spirit. The Chelsea boys who scored were: George Norris; 2nd in shot put, and 2nd in the 440. Collins got 2nd in the 220 (which was run in the fast time of 25 flat) and 3d in the 100. The Chelsea relay team placed third.

With such material in school there is no reason why next year a fine team cannot be developed that will be able to compete with any of the schools around here.

YOUR HAND
How to Read Your Characteristics and Tendencies—the Capabilities or Weaknesses That Make for Success or Failure as Shown in Your Palm

THE HAND OF A CLERGYMAN

RELIGIOUS feeling is shown by the fingers of a hand, with long first joints. This shows also great power of intuition. A cross upon the mount of Apollo, lying at the base of the ring finger, is held to indicate deep religious feeling by some writers of chiromancy.

Dignity is, of course, absolutely essential to the successful clergyman, and this is marked in the hand by a long and strong third or lowest phalanx of the finger of Jupiter, the forefinger.

If the third phalanx of the finger of Saturn, or middle finger is long and strong, it is an indication of generosity of nature. The second or middle phalanx of the third or ring finger (the finger of Apollo) shows, if strong and well developed, a love of work, and great energy in carrying out one's designs.

Of course, the clergyman, if he is to preach well, must be possessed of eloquence, and this trait is marked in the hand by a strong tip of the little finger the finger of Mercury.

PEANUTS High Food Value.

Peanuts are high in food value, says the United States Department of Agriculture, but there is no foundation for the report that peanuts promote the growth of hair. Investigation carried on in the bureau of chemistry with regard to the chemical and nutritive properties of the proteins of the peanut have demonstrated that, aside from the oil, which is easily digested and which furnishes a large amount of fuel or energy, the shelled peanut contains about 20 per cent of protein of a high nutritive quality.

Detroit not only has the lowest death-rate of any large city in the country, but within the last year actually restored to normal health 97 of the 100 tubercular babies treated in the city tuberculosis institution at Northville, according to a statement made by Dr. Henry F. Michigan Happenings

Judge Harry J. Dingeman, in circuit court at Detroit, held valid the divorce granted by him March 29, last, to the wife of Oliver Morosco, theatrical producer. The finding, based on a report by Edward Pokorny, friend of the court, declared that Morosco did not have a legal residence in Michigan for two years prior to the filing of his suit.

A search and seizure warrant for evidence thought to be in private dwellings in violation of the prohibition laws must contain some positive information instead of "information and belief" according to a decision of Judge C. M. Browne, of the Saginaw circuit court, handed down in the case of Fred Rohn, of Jonesfield township, who was being tried on a charge of possessing liquor.

H. C. Plitz, Kalamazoo jeweler, pleaded guilty over the telephone to having driven through a funeral procession in Chicago and he was fined $5 and costs by Justice William P. Jones. Plitz disavowed a warning by Deputy Marshall Hollenbeck. The incident has led to a movement for increasing the penalty attached to the offense.

William Ahner, a Kalamazoo traveling salesman, narrowly escaped death when he vainly tried to save Henry Doolley, freight agent at Monticello Junction, who was electrocuted by the interurban third rail. Doolley had assisted in putting repairs on a car, and was mounting the platform when the trolley current was reconnected through his body.

Frank O'Brien, sheriff of Delta County, of which Escanaba is the seat, resigned rather than face charges which were about to be brought against him in connection with liquor, gambling and vice conditions in Delta County. George Harvey, of Escanaba, has been appointed to succeed him, with Louis Danielson as under-sheriff.

Jesse Woodman, of Paw Paw, will have the honor of formally opening Dr. David Friday with the presidency of the Michigan Agricultural college, at the inauguration ceremonies in Lansing, Wednesday, June 21, in connection with the commencement exercises that will be held at the same time for the graduating class.

Following a conference between Dr. R. M. Olin, state health commissioner of public safety, and Attorney General Meritt Wiley, a detachment of state police was ordered to accompany Dr. George Ramsey, deputy state health commissioner, to Ontonagon with instructions to virtually take over the village government. According to reports that reached Lansing, the village administration has refused to take the precautionary steps in the face of a typhoid fever epidemic.

Mrs. Victor Waken has filed suit for $100,000 against the Standard Oil company for injuries to herself and loss of her husband in the explosion of a gasoline tank which wrecked their farm home in Royal Oak township last December. This is the fourth suit to be filed as a result of the accident, which is blamed to mixing kerosene and gasoline in the company's tanks, a total of $278,000 damages being asked this time. Seven other suits are expected to be filed for $50,000 each.

Henry Lancour, of Perkins, Delta county, candidate for the Republican nomination for sheriff, was found guilty of violating the prohibition law by a jury in federal court at Marquette. He does not withdraw from the race he will have to direct his campaign from the Detroit house of correction, as Judge C. W. Sessions sentenced him to serve six months. He was convicted of selling moonshine.

"I have come to your home to die," Matthew Barrett told his aunt, Mrs. Kaiman Barman, Flint, when he arrived from Chicago. Mrs. Barman thought he was joking. The next morning she found his body hanging in an archway in her home. He had hanged himself with a towel. Barrett leaves a widow and four children. He was 25 years old and had recently suffered a nervous breakdown.

The jury hearing Calvin Jones' claim at Cassopolis for $15,000 from the First State Savings bank, Marcellus, now in the hands of the receiver, reported a "disagreement" after being sequestered six hours. Jones with other creditors of the Farmers and Merchants bank, Jones, Mich., that failed, contended the Marcellus bank was the parent institution.

The trial of Swan Alfred West, former bookkeeper of the Michigan state branch prison at Marquette, charged with embezzling funds entrusted to his care, began in circuit court with Judge Richard C. Flannigan, of Norway, presiding. The case grew out of an investigation more than a year ago, when 12 indictments were returned.

ANN ARBOR PLANS FOR LEGIONAIRES

Expects Over 5,000 to Attend Fourth State Convention—Landing Will Be Speaker.

Ann Arbor—Five thousand delegates and visitors are expected to attend the fourth state convention of the American Legion here September 6 and 7. The Michigan Legion is now in the best of health, condition of its history, so that the large attendance seems assured.

All the sessions of the convention are to be held in the Hill auditorium, located at the university, while the delegates and visitors will be housed in the quarters which students occupy during the school year.

It was announced by officials from the Legion department headquarters, that Judge Kenneth M. Landis had accepted an invitation to address the convention on the first day, and that Congressman Joseph W. Pordney and Secretary of the Navy Donnell had accepted the invitation to speak, providing Congress was not in session at that time necessitating their presence in Washington.

Among the state officials who attended the informal dinner held here recently were Department Commander Paul A. Martin, Department Vice-Commander Frank B. Broderick, Department Adjutant Lyle D. Tabor, and Past Department Commander Angus H. Ganssner.

In his talk at the dinner State Commander Martin declared for a re-formation of patriotism and a re-education of the principles and ideals on which this country is founded. He declared that when the country is in need of more patriots and more patriotic citizens more people willing to put something into their communities rather than those always seeking what they can get out of them.

LEGION LEADERS TO TAKE PLANE

Eddie Rickenbacker to Pilot National Commander McNider to Alpena Celebration.

Detroit—Harford MacNider, national commander of the American Legion and officials of the Michigan legion department of the Legion, will go by airplane from Detroit to Alpena some time during the coming summer to permit the commander to dedicate Alpena's new memorial building. Announcement that the trip would be made by air and that Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, the American ace, now a resident of Detroit, would pilot the plane, is made at state headquarters of the Legion here.

The Alpena building is described by state Legion officials as one of the finest in the country in a class of Alpena's class. Date for the dedication will be set later, dependent upon arrangements that can be made by Commander MacNider to visit Michigan.

The state officials who will make the trip are Commander Paul Martin of Battle Creek, Adjutant Lyle D. Tabor of Detroit, Dr. Frank B. Broderick, welfare officer, Detroit, and probably John G. Emery, former national commander.

"HOME TOWN" PAPERS FOR HOSPITAL VETS

American Legion Plans Service Through Co-operation of Newspaper Publishers.

Indianapolis, Ind.—Copies of the "home town" newspaper for each of the more than 30,000 veterans of the world war who are now confined to various government and private hospitals throughout the United States as the result of sickness or wounds incident to war service is included in plans which the American Legion is working on for making brighter the lives of these men.

Many Michigan newspapers now send free copies to the American Legion tuberculosis hospital at Battle Creek.

Preliminary steps which the ex-service men's organization has already taken to obtain this needed data shows that thousands of the wounded veterans receive practically no information of what is going on "back home."

When the information has been gathered, Legion officials in each town with an ex-service man in a hospital will ask the co-operation of the newspaper editors in an effort to obtain the papers gratis.

PROTEST SHOWING DEMPSEY FILM

In a resolution sent to Department Headquarters, the Frank Wentland Post No. 253, Royal Oak, Michigan, voiced a vigorous protest against the sponsoring of the Dempsey-Carpenter pictures being shown in Detroit under the auspices of the Barker and Boardman Posts.

The Post's objection, according to the resolution is that Jack Dempsey is known to have wilfully evaded active service in the World War, and as such a person should not merit the moral or financial support of any veteran organization.

AIMS FOR 2.75 CIDER

CHARMING SMALL BUNGALOW HOME

Inexpensive to Build and Modern in Every Respect.

FIVE WELL-ARRANGED ROOMS

Quaint Air About This Dwelling That Sends Out Strong Appeal and Its Inherent Coziness Is in Its Favor.

By WILLIAM A. RADFORD

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF CHARGE on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 1827 Prairie avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose two-cent stamp for reply.

Ten years ago, we thrashers, people would not have been wildly interested in a home-building show. Homes were reasonable, in fact some landlords were offering houses in the form of one, two or three months' free, and building costs were low. People had something else to think about.

But today, Ah!—it is quite different. The subject of homes, rents, building costs and labor troubles are makes dancing in the home a common practice and the large living room is an important accessory after the fact.

The interior opening between living and dining rooms in this home makes the two rooms practically one large room. It is a wide opening without any doors or colonnades. The dining room is the same size as the living room. When considered together, there is an expanse 17 by 25 feet, which is as large as the living room in a big home.

Continuing straight back to the rear, the visitor finds the kitchen, a small room—10 by 5 feet 6 inches, sufficiently large for this home yet ideal from the standpoint of the housewife who has to cover enough territory as it is. There is no excuse for wasting a lot of expensive building space in a kitchen when built-in space-saving features will take care of the requirements.

As to sleeping quarters, there are two bedrooms located along the right side of the house with bathroom between. One bedroom opens into the living room, the other into the dining room. They are not large, 9 by 12 feet, but not small enough to cause skimping. Each bedroom has two large windows.

All things considered, this makes an ideal practical five-room dwelling, suitable for the average small family of one or two children. There is a genuine need for homes of this type to stem the tide towards fast dwellings which, possessing some desirable features, tend to destroy many of the finest benefits of home life, and to lessen civic interest on the part of all absorbing, and it seems everyone from the stenographer to the boss himself is keenly interested. This has come about through reversal in conditions. Rents are no longer low, in fact they have reached the point where many families cannot pay; buildings are scarce; there are at least 1,500,000 homes short, not to mention other types of structures, and practically everyone is affected.

As a consequence the idea of a home-building show attracts immediate and keen interest. In three large cities this spring shows of this kind will be held and no doubt all records for attendance will be broken. People are interested in home-building ideas, and judging by the latest reports from various building commissions' offices, many of them are building their own homes this spring.

The number of permits has jumped—past records are left far behind.

These people are looking for ideas in building, because they have come to realize fully that home ownership is the short and direct cut to happiness. They want ideas. And we hope to help them.

For those who are limited in means, who want the best their money can get, we suggest that they pause a moment and consider the delightful small home shown here with floor plan.

A glance at the picture shows a very attractive cozy design, built of frame with brick steps and front porch. There is a quaint air about the dwelling that sends out a strong appeal and its inherent coziness is a quality in its favor. The design does not call for any special construction and, being more or less rectangular, there will be no extra expense in construction. In fact it is designed to offer the builder something worth while at a very reasonable outlay.

Passing from the outside, one finds the front door opening directly into a large living room, 17 feet 6 inches by 12, feet 6 inches. The space that would ordinarily be used for a front hall or vestibule has been added to the living room, making that room large and infinitely more comfortable. Windows on two sides provide ample sunlight and ventilation. No matter how small the house these days, the living room is large because it has come to be considered practically the heart and end-all of family life. It is the recreation center, lounging room and informal gathering place as well as the reception room for state affairs. The advent of the phonograph the individual. A home owner is a responsible citizen because he has something definite at stake. He pays taxes direct and consequently is interested in the way in which they are being expended. He is not a "float-er," not a straw to be tossed about on the waves of uncertainty.

Lord Byron at "Full Scandal."

Once Lord Byron had arrived at the stage of what J. A. Strahan, writing in the Edinburgh Review, calls "full scandal," English society, with the sole exception of Lady Jersey, shunned him as it would shun the bubonic plague. Lady Jersey insisted on entertaining him. Fashion came to her house and bowed down its head to the great hostess, but turned up its nose at her greater guest.

In passing by him, ladies picked up their gowns lest they be contaminated by his touch. And yet, according to Mr. Strahan, there was no man in England, with the exception of Napoleon and the Duke of Wellington, in which the English public was more interested. At his hotel women of position bribed the chambermaids to let them take over their clothes and duties for the evening, so that they might have a near look at the monster. At Venice it was impossible for Byron to go out in a gondola without having all the visiting Englishmen rush to their windows, throw back the curtains and exclaim, "There he goes!"

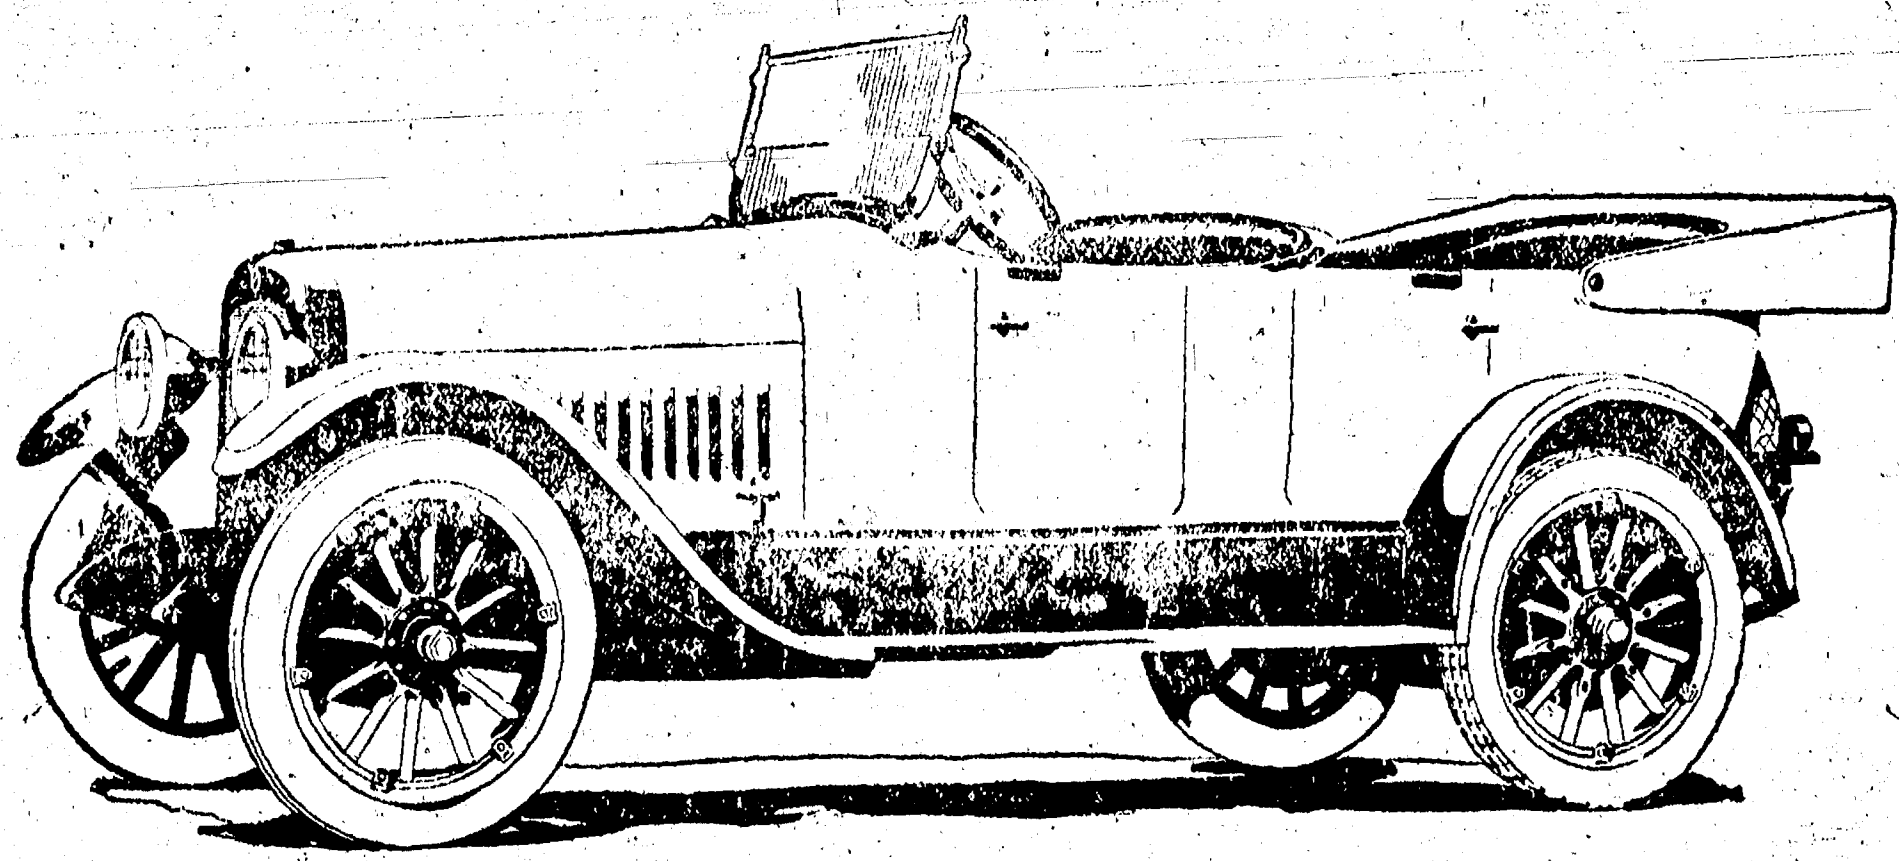

The Retort Courteous.

The mid-Victorian Lady set out on a quest for photograph records of a gay and jolly variety. The day was sad and dreary, wet under foot, foggy and generally miserable. The shop she entered was manned by a completely discouraged and disheartened group of sales people. The girl at the phonograph shop was plainly given over to the most gloomy forebodings. Abandoned to depression, her frock sagged, her hair was listless and drooping. Into this brooding melancholy the mid-Victorian Lady ruthlessly broke, and, intruding upon the secret sorrow of the Gloomy One, briskly demanded: "Have you 'Smiles'?" The saleslady surveyed space and in a colorless monotone droned: "All out," as though she secretly rejoiced in the fact. "You look it!" rejoined the would-be purchaser, at which smiles appeared on the faces of all beholders, whether the shop could dispense them or not.—Exchange.

FOURISHED GUN.

When James Carboof White Plains, N. Y., playfully flourished a revolver in collecting rent from a tenant, he got his money, but it cost him $100 when he pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor in court.

The girl who only got an ice cream soda for her first kiss has a daughter who wants a limousine.
