SWIMMER IS SAVED SUNDAY AT LAKE

Cavanaugh lake nearly claimed another victim Sunday, when Miss Irene Widmayer, of Dexter, was spending the day at Wheeler's cottage and went in swimming with the rest. She is a good swimmer but when out in deep water she evidently became frightened.

At first her screams were thought to be in fun but when she had gone under it was realized that she was in danger. William Wheeler, of Chelsea, dove in with all his clothes on to save her.

Miss Widmayer is none the worse for her experience, except that she was greatly scared. Where she went down there is a considerable drop in the lake bottom making the beach dangerous.

M. U. R. MEN READY TO ARBITRATE

Trainmen of the M. U. R. do not like the proposed method of cut in wages and have suggested another plan. They are also willing to arbitrate. The willingness of both sides to arbitrate created a general hopefulness Monday night that the controversy might be settled amicably, without any interruption of service. The conference will be held this afternoon at two o'clock.

TWO KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Mrs. L. H. Johnson and Hugh Smith of Jackson were killed Monday night at 5:30 o'clock when the Ford coupe in which they were riding was struck by a Cincinnati Northern train at the first crossing south of Clarks lake.

Mrs. Johnson and Mr. Smith had been to Clarks lake cleaning the Johnson cottage and getting it ready for the Johnson and Smith families to occupy during the summer months.

Several eye-witnesses to the tragedy stated the Ford was traveling about 25 miles an hour and did not seem to slow down for the crossing. The train had just pulled out of Clarks lake station and was going about 20 miles an hour. The train stopped in three car lengths.

NINTH ANNUAL CAMP FOR BOYS.

The ninth annual Camp Birkett for boys will be held this year at Big Silver Lake. Camp Birkett is conducted by the Y. M. C. A. of Ann Arbor for boys. The camp will last two weeks, from July 10 to 22.

The camp is one of the best in the country and gives every boy a fine chance to enjoy the pleasures of camping and at the same time to be under the best of supervision. So far about 6 boys have signed up to go from Chelsea.

Every precaution is taken to give attention to the boys at the camp. They are taught to swim, to enjoy clean athletics, to swim, and to have a real good time. Only a limited number of boys between the ages of 12 and 16 can go. The time will be two weeks and each applicant must meet the requirements in order to go. The camp maintains a bank and store and the boys are allowed to spend just so much each day. Camp Birkett develops not only the physical side of the camper's life, but the intellectual, and serviceable sides as well.

Several members of the Chelsea band are going to Detroit to play at the Knight Templars Conclave, being held in that city this week.

WHITE ELEPHANT? NIX!

Expert says to believe it is to live in "Fool's Paradise"

If someone tells you that there are white elephants, don't you believe it. The animal doesn't exist, according to Mrs. Florence Meehan, famous Orient expert who aided Cecil B. Mille in the production of "Fool's Paradise" the producer's latest Paramount picture which comes to the Princess Theater next Wednesday and Thursday. She asserts the so-called white elephant is a mottled gray, with albino eyes, and white spots on the ears. It is these spots, according to Mrs. Meehan, which renders this species of elephant sacred in Siam, the king of which country has a dozen or more of them in his stables. "Don't look for a white elephant in 'Fool's Paradise,'" says Mrs. Meehan, for if you do you're doomed to be disappointed. The principal roles in picture are portrayed by Dorothy Dalton, Mildred Harris, Conrad Nagel, Theodore Kosloff, John Davidson and Julia Frayne.

CHELSEA LOSES TO LANSING TEAM 10-13.

Chelsea Independents suffered another defeat Sunday by the Oldsmobile team from Lansing. Both teams played good ball and a fine spirit was displayed on the field. It looked like Chelsea was going to win at the start of the game but a general break in the sixth inning gave the Lansing boys a start and they made good use of it.

Miller tightened up again and pitched good ball shutting the visitors out in the 8th. A ninth inning rally by the Independents looked like there was going to be another inning, but after scoring three runs the Oldsmobile team tightened and finished the game. The score was 13 to 10.

The local boys said that the Lansing team was the cleanest bunch of fellows they had met this season. The score by innings is:

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9
Chelsea.....0 2 3 0 1 0 3 10
Oldsmobile.....0 3 0 1 4 3 0 13

Michigan Happenings

Mason and Manistee counties, in which are located the cities of Ludington and Manistee, promise to become one of the chief salt-producing sections of the world as a result of recent developments. Ludington already has two salt companies in operation, one producing about 1,000,000 barrels a year and the other half that amount. A new plant is being constructed in Manistee, the output of which will equal that of both the Ludington concerns.

The State Department of Public Safety will give the radiophone a try-out soon, according to Col. Roy C. Vaudercook, commissioner. Automobiles and motorcycles of the State Police will be equipped with receiving outfits and orders directing their movements will be sent from the Michigan Agricultural College station. If the plan proves successful, it is probable that the department will erect six large sending stations to be used permanently.

Although the 10 per cent reduction in freight rates, announced several days ago, will have no bearing on the rate hearing before the Michigan public-utilities commission, William A. Slater, traffic manager of the Grand Rapids Association of Commerce, declares it will benefit business generally in western Michigan. The new rate, Slater points out, does not remove the alleged discrimination against shippers of this state.

The Lansing city council has taken steps to prevent the dependent poor of the city from buying gasoline for their automobiles. According to a report to the council, supposedly destitute families have received bounty from the city and when social workers went to pay the customary follow-up call, it was found the family was out-riding and that money advanced by the city actually had been spent for gasoline.

Joseph Widgren, of Cadillac, was driving his automobile up the Glen Garry Hill, 30 miles west of the city and at the top of the hill, the automobile plunged from the roadway and rolled down a 100-foot embankment. The machine turned over three times before it reached the foot of the embankment, where it crashed against a stump. Widgren was removed from the wreckage with only slight injuries.

A ban has been placed on women wearing knickers on the streets of Travers City by Mayor L. Swanton, who has given Chief of Police Blacken instructions to arrest any girl or woman on the streets in knickers. "The morals of the present generation of boys are being attacked," Swanton said, "and I propose to see that they are no longer tempted by immoral dress."

Declaring that living costs had not declined more than 3 per cent while the labor board would reduce the wages of its railway men-members on an average of 3.2 per cent, the executive council of the United Brotherhood of Maintenance-of-way employees and Railway shop laborers ordered the taking of a strike ballot at a meeting at its Detroit headquarters.

A demand that railroad crossing protection be provided by the Michigan Central Railroad at every crossing in Kalamazoo county will be made by Marvin Schaberg, city attorney, at the request of the Kalamazoo city commission.

Fred O'Melay, postmaster of Hillsdale, has received notice from the secretary of the National Association of Postmasters that he is one of four postmasters selected to act on the membership committee.

Nearly 200 delegates attended the Michigan Federation of Postoffice Clerks' meeting at Ann Arbor, May 30. The conference was joined by members of the state letter carriers' association, which also was in session. The next meeting of the Michigan federation of postoffice clerks will be held in Battle Creek, May 30, 1923.

THE COAL BARONS SIT TIGHT.

The complacency of the coal operators in the light of the coal strike, bodes ill for the public next winter. Were the operators suffering, they would squeal so loud that their cries would be heard from coast to coast. Their silence indicates simply that they have the situation in hand—financially. In brief, it will be found there is already mined and awaiting higher prices, a supply of coal perhaps sufficient to take care of winter needs with a short market and high cost to the public, but the black diamonds will be carefully concealed until the proper time comes. In the meantime, the miners are to be taught a lesson.

Every indication is that the winter will see the delivery of a poor quality of coal in all towns and villages with increased coal bills for the people. This whole difficulty comes as a result of the unscientific manner in which labor is distributed. Excess of employment hours and pay, and then no labor at all works poorly for both worker and public. Human nature is a factor that must be counted on. When a workman gets fifty dollars a week for ten weeks and then nothing for ten weeks, he never is as well off as when he gets twenty-five dollars for twenty weeks. His standard of living is automatically raised during the period of unusual prosperity and in the period of depression it is doubly hard for him to get "back to normalcy," when, as a fact, he finds he must get back more nearly to starvation. Government investigations, of course, are usually more or less farcical, costly to the people and non-representative, but it would be highly beneficial if the government could work out some specific plan and back it up by commandatory legislation that would bring about a steadier labor condition. In many cases the unions have the country by the throat and they do not seem averse to squeezing the public windpipe. At the same time the world's happenings point with a warning finger to the folly of oppressive warfare on the men who do the manual labor of the hour. Certainly the man willing to work should be reasonably assured of steady labor.

MEANS $127,000,000 TO THE FARMERS.

Unless the railroads block the order of the Interstate Commerce Commission reducing freight rates ten per cent., by tying up the matter in the courts, the reduction will mean $127,000,000 to the farmers of the country. The shippers have netted $55,000,000 as a result of the temporary period on agricultural commodities granted for a temporary period of six months as a result of the American Farm Bureau Federation protest. Another $39,000,000 was saved to the shippers in the reduction made in the Western Hay and Grain case. Other reductions show that since the farmer pays 55 per cent. of the freight he will in all get the benefit of $220,000,000, and as ninety-three millions have already been saved there would be a balance of $127,000,000 to the credit of the farmer. This is a splendid justification for the work of the Farm Bureau. It is a clear demonstration of its advantage to every tiller of the soil.

It remains to be seen whether the railroads will accept the decision. Naturally they will squeak, and make out a telling case on paper. The plain fact, however, is that a still greater leveling process must be passed through before equity is established. Summed up, the American railroads must either show more competent management, or face anew the agitation for government ownership. The business of the country has been hurt immeasurably and the public badly injured by the preposterous passenger rates, and it needs no argument to prove that business readjustment has been held back persistently by the burden of freight charges. If the railroads are wise they will accept the finding of the commission without contest. It is time the farmers came into a little of their own.

SUMMERTIME IS DYING TIME.

As a nation we are nothing if not original—perhaps spectacular, so a splendid opportunity presents to cap the climax and reach the unique in the public interest. When the developments involving the obtaining of a pardon for Charles W. Morse come sharply to the front—and they will—let us have as the leading witness, Chief Justice Taft of the Court of Appeals. Justice Taft is beloved by all the people. He is one of our most distinguished and honored citizens. As a witness he would be a top notcher, and there is no doubt he could throw much light on the Morse situation. Ten minutes of testimony by Justice Taft under skilled guidance would unfold to the people the whole story of the Morse pardon, and show the strings that were pulled to draw the wool over the eyes of the good-natured president of that time. The story would be illuminating and sufficiently dramatic to meet the demands of the yellowest of the yellows. Perhaps this consummation devoutly to be wished may become reality, because news developments are unusually rapid, so rapid, in fact, that it would seem to be time for Mr. Morse to begin dying again.

DON'T BE A DRONE.

"The man who thinks he is too good to go into politics is the worst thing possible for his country," remarks the Washington Post. There is much food for thought in the suggestion. It has long been noted that critics of our political system are never those who have sincerely worked for its betterment. Their self constituted role is to denounce loudly everything savoring of "politics," and to cast as much approbrium on the term as possible. It is due to those malcontents that there are so many people in our country today who think they have done their full duty when they have gone to the polls once a year and cast their vote for candidates that others have chosen. The politician, the man who interests himself in the nomination and election of public officeholders, should be among the most honored of our citizens. We should all be politicians, and devote sufficient of our time and talents to fill our offices with individuals of proved honesty and ability. Only by so doing can we hope to maintain and raise the standard of government.

Most businesses are big because big men are behind them.

Legislation is always a few jumps behind the crooks.

LIVE STOCK FACTS

INTEREST IN BETTER Sires

Records Show Campaign for Purebred Has Extended to All States and Island Possessions.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
With exactly 5,900 persons enrolled in the "Better Sires—Better Stock" campaign at the close of the calendar year 1921, records of the United States Department of Agriculture show a continued interest in this work which has extended to all states and several island possessions. During the year the number of live stock owned by the persons enrolled increased from about 400,000 to 750,000. The figures include both male and female stock. All of the males are purebred, and the females, which may be of varied breeding, are bred in all cases to purebred sires.

It is noteworthy that 58 per cent of all female stock listed in the better sires campaign are purebred. This figure is 1 per cent higher than a year ago. The effect of the use of purebred sires in reducing the number of scrub animals on farms is shown by the small proportion of scrubs in herds and flocks headed by purebred males. The figure at the end of the calendar year 1920 was 2.1 per cent and for 1921, 1.9 per cent scrubs in such herds.

At the request of several state extension workers a special report has been made for the last three months of 1921 with respect to progress by states. Enrollments of persons agreeing to put their live stock on a purebred sire basis totaled 718. The greatest activity during the quarter was in Ohio, Nebraska coming next, followed in turn by Washington, Virginia, Kentucky, and North Dakota, in the order named.

The leading counties during the quarter were Hardin County, Ohio, with 100 persons signing enrollment blanks. Kittitas County, Wash., was second, with 56 enrollments; Belmont County, Ohio, 40; Grand Forks County, N. D., 37. Other active counties were Ellis, Okla.; Gallia, Ohio; and Lewis, Wash. These results make Hardin County, Ohio, with a total of 106 enrollments, the third highest county in the United States, the first and second being Pulaski County, Va., 446, and Greenville, S. C., 170.

The widespread interest in the use of purebred sires as a means of improving live stock is evident from the number of counties where the work has already gone forward. Live-stock owners in 648 counties, and, in addition, in the islands of Guam and Porto Rico, were participating in the work at the end of the calendar year.

BULLETPROOF BURGLAR.

A man wearing 25 pounds of armorplate a quarter of an inch thick beneath his shirt was arrested in Los Angeles. He also had typewritten instructions from a "burglars' correspondence school," and was armed. The armor was found when a policeman trapped the man inadvertently and heard the ring of metal.

Pinchots are Pals in Their Victory

As soon as the returns proved that Gifford Pinchot had smashed the political machine of Pennsylvania, the most conservative stronghold of the Republican party, the smile of victory illuminated the face of the victor and his wife. Mr. and Mrs. Pinchot were caught by the camera man just as he said: "Smile girl, smile, for we win."

The INDIAN DRUM

by William MacHarg and Edwin Balmer

Copyright by Edwin Balmer

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I.—A wealthy and highly educated Chicago business world, Benjamin Corvet is something of a mystery to his associates. He has a stormy interview with his partner, Henry Spearman. Corvet seeks Constance Sherrill, daughter of the late Justice Sherrill, and she promises to marry him. Corvet has written to a certain man in Chicago, in Blue Rapids, Kansas, and a cablegram is sent over the wire.

CHAPTER II.—Corvet's letter summons a youth of unknown parentage, a Chicagoan, to his home.

CHAPTER III.—From a statement of Corvet, it seems probable that Corvet is a legitimate son. Corvet has decided to leave his home and go to Chicago.

CHAPTER IV.—Alan takes possession of his new home.

CHAPTER V.—That night Alan discovers a man ransacking the desks and bureau drawers in Corvet's apartments. The man is a stranger, who appears to think him a host and raves of the "Miwaka." After striking the man, Alan escapes.

CHAPTER VI.—Next day Alan learns that Corvet has died. He is introduced to a man, who is the man whom he had found in his house the night before.

CHAPTER VII.—Alan tells no one of the strange encounter, but a private investigator takes Alan to the fact, and Alan laughs at it.

CHAPTER VIII.—Corvet's Indian servant, Wasequum, tells Alan he knows the legend of the Indian Drum, which according to old superstition beats once for every life lost on the Great Lakes. Twenty years before, the great freighter Miwaka had gone down with twenty-four lives on board, leaving the inference that one person had survived since it was a general belief that the drum never beats.

CHAPTER IX.—Corvet recovers, and the affair remains a mystery.

CHAPTER X.—Alan learns from Wasequum that it was Corvet's habit to keep the sum of $500 in the house, ready to meet the demands of a certain "Lucky," who appeared periodically in an absence of Wasequum. "Lucky" is evidently in a dying condition, due to a cholera and exposure. Corvet tries to get him to explain his connection with Corvet. The man dies, and Alan gives Corvet a paper on which is a list of names.

CHAPTER XI.—From the document Alan thinks he may have a clue to the mystery surrounding Corvet's life and disappearance. He leaves Chicago to visit Lake Michigan ports in search of the persons whose names were on the list.

There, inside the cover as she had thought it would be, was engraved "Alan." Sand had seeped into the so; the inscription was obliterated.

"For his courage and skill in the rescue of the passengers and crew of the steamer Winnebago."

Constance choked, and her eyes filled with tears.

ago rounding Point, Lake Erie, Nov. 20, 1890, this watch is donated by the Buffalo Merchants' Exchange."

Uncle Benny's name, evidently, had been engraved upon the outside. Constance could not particularly remember the rescue of the people of the Winnebago; 1890 was years before she was born, and Uncle Benny did not tell her that sort of thing about him.

Constance left the watch open and, glancing a little, she gently laid it down upon her bed. The pocketknife had no distinguishing mark of any sort. The coins were abraded and pitted disks—a silver dollar, a half dollar and three quarters, not so much abraded, three nickels, and two pennies.

Constance choked, and her eyes filled with tears. These things—plutiny were the things found in Uncle Benny's pockets—corroborated only too fully what Wasequum had believed—that Uncle Benny was dead. The muffled and the scrap of paper had not been in water or in mud. The paper was written in pencil; it had not even been mentioned, and would have blurred. There was nothing upon it to tell how long ago had been written, but it had been written certainly before June 12, after June 12, it said.

That day was August the eighteenth. It was seven months since Uncle Benny had gone away. After his strange interview with her that day, his going home, had Uncle Benny told her about his death? There was nothing to show that he had not; watch and coins must have lain address at which he can be reached by telephone or mail—or where a messenger can find him—it will oblige us very much and will be to his interest." She hesitated, about to sign it; then, impulsively, she added:

Octogenarian But a High Flier

Adolph Mullen, 85 years old, a retired farmer, saw an aeroplane for the first time a week ago, and decided to fly from Queens Aerodrome, Long Island, to his old farm near Albany. He says he enjoyed the thrill of his young life. Photo shows the aged Mr. Mullen giving good-bye as plane left the ground.

"I trust you know that we have Alan's interest at heart and that you can safely tell us anything you may know as to where he is or what he may be doing. We all liked him here so very much."

She signed her name. There were still two other letters to write. Only the handwriting of the address upon the package, the Manitowoc postmark and the shoe box furnished clues to the sender of the ring and the watch and the other things. Constance herself could not trace those clues, but Henry or her father could. She wrote to both of them, therefore, describing the articles which had come and relating what she had done.

The next noon she received a wire from Henry that he was "coming up." It did not surprise her, as she had expected him the end of the week.

Later that evening, she sat with her mother on the wide, screened veranda. The lights of some boat turning in between the points and moving swiftly caught her attention. As it entered the path of the moonlight, its look was so like that of Henry's power yacht that she arose. It was his way, as soon as he had decided to leave business again and go to her, to arrive as soon as possible; that had been his way recently, particularly. So the sight of the yacht stirred her warmly and she watched while it ran in close, stopped and instantly dropped a dingy from the davits. She saw Henry in the stern of the little boat; it disappeared in the shadow of a pier. . . . she heard, presently, the gravel of the walk crunch under his quick steps, and then she saw him in the moonlight among the trees. She went down on the path to meet him.

MICHIGAN STATE FAIR.

How the need of $500 once threatened to defeat the first state fair in 1849 and much of the strife surrounding the pioneer exposition was revealed by G. W. Dickinson, secretary manager of the Michigan State Fair in an address over the radiotelephone from station WCX in Detroit.

"Making the State Fair Interesting" was the subject Mr. Dickinson talked about to thousands throughout the nation who were his "listeners in."

Mr. Dickinson traced the progress of the first fair which was held on a farm lot in Detroit where is now Grand Circus Park, which drew the magnificent gate of $3,923, and compared it with the 1921 exposition which drew nearly a half million people and helped to boost the value of the fair properties to millions of dollars.

Governor Epaphroditus Ransom, who was a farmer and keenly interested in what were in 1849 considered the modern improvements of farm life, played an important role in the success of the fair of 1849, which otherwise might have failed, Mr. Dickinson said Gov. Ransom took the fight into the legislature and won an appropriation of $1,000 for the fair, but later, this amount was cut to $400 to allow money for a fitting farewell to the boys who were going to the war with Mexico.

Mr. Dickinson predicted a far greater fair this year with even more diversified interests and mentioned as one of the important features of it, the radio exhibition to be held.

BREAD.

Don't throw crusts of bread out. They will answer for breeding meat, etc., if you will let them dry thoroughly and then roll fine.

FAIR NOTES

The grading for the cattle barn which will be 120 feet long and 72 feet wide; and accommodate 6 rows of cattle, has been completed. The building will be constructed on a concrete wall, the tract for which will be let for the next day or two. It is planned to construct this building at once.

Over one hundred and seventy five life memberships have been sold to date. Persons desiring to join the Fair Society need not wait to be solicited but may send their check for $25.00 to the County Fair Society, Court House, Ann Arbor. A number have already done this. This will save a great deal of time and hard work in getting the necessary 500 members.

The work on the track is about 1/2 finished and the first section of box stalls for 30 horses is finished. Work on another section for 12 horses will be begun at once.

KEEP WIRELESS EQUIPMENT AWAY FROM POWER LINES

The Consumers Power Co. is anxious to co-operate wholeheartedly in stimulating interest in enthusiasm in wireless communication. It is experimenting with radio to supplement its present load despatching system. It aims to foster the safe and rapid development of the wireless in Michigan.

Serious accidents in other states, due to fouling of radio aerials with power lines have demonstrated that there may be a very real hazard to life, limb and property unless the antennae for sending and receiving is so installed as to obviate any possibility of the wireless equipment coming in contact with energized power lines.

With this thought in mind and with the idea of stabilizing and safeguarding the development of the radio in Michigan, The Consumers Power Co. requests all persons interested in radio installations to be warned against:

- Attaching Wireless Aerials to any pole carrying wire.
- Stringing Radio Antennae over or under any other wires.
- Anchoring Aerials to any but substantial supports.
- Climbing poles on which wires are strung.

The Company also desires to take this opportunity to renew its warning to the public in general against:

- Touching any wires found dangling from poles or trees or lying on the ground.
- Flying kites with metal kite strings.

The Company respectfully requests the co-operation of the people and the authorities and especially the parents, surely in the interests of public safety.
