HEAVY RAIN.
Thursday afternoon updrafts were visited by a hard rain storm and in Ann Arbor there was just a nice shower while in Chelsea it didn't rain enough to lay the dust. Two miles north of here and three miles south and west of here it rained hard. The rain will do a great deal of good and will undoubtedly save the late strawberry crop.

ALUMNI BANQUET.
The annual Alumni Banquet of the Chelsea high school will be held at the Methodist church Tuesday evening, June 13, at 6:30 sharp. Price of the tickets has been changed from $1.25 to $1.00 and can be purchased from Herbert Schenk at the Farmer's and Merchant's Bank.

FLORAL BEDS FIXED BY M. C.
Improvements are coming fast to Chelsea. The Michigan Central has greatly improved the scenic beauty of the land surrounding the depot in the last few days. First the grass was put into shape and now flower beds have been set out. On the east side three beds are planted with astors and salvia, and carnas. The work done certainly does improve the looks of the property along the railroad track.

As a result of an accident on the good road near Sylvan Center, J. J. Baris of Chelsea is in a serious condition. A local physician was called and given aid and then rushed to a hospital in Ann Arbor. The extent of his injuries are not known except that he has a fractured shoulder also a bone broken in his ankle. Whether or not there are any internal injuries could not be determined as yet.

The members will raise their pigs under the supervision of the County Boys' and Girls' Club Agent, Mr. A. L. Watt and in cooperation with the Michigan Agricultural College and the U. S. Dept. of Agr. This is one of the important phases of Farm Bureau work being carried on in Washtenaw Co. Each club member is required to keep a record of his summer's work and write a report at the end of the season. In addition to this he has to exhibit his pig and will likely do this at the County Fair this fall where many cash and special premiums are being offered to club members.

PASS PROSPERITY AROUND

Every Business Man is Doing Something To Help Business. Are You?

By W. H. Rankin.

Everyone is getting together now and doing something to pass prosperity about. Ride out, through the farms. You will find busy men, decidedly more contented than a twelvemonth ago. The farmer is getting from fifteen to twenty per cent more for his general products than this time last year. He is ready to buy. He is buying.

He is doing his share. Because the farmer is buying local dealers are buying. Visit the merchants of your county, sent. They have written off their readjustment losses of the last two years. Their sales are increasing. Their stocks are being replenished to meet the steadily growing purchases by their customers. They are ready to buy. They are buying.

They are doing their share. Because local merchants are moving their goods, manufacturers are finding profits in adjusted prices. They are finding their orders increasing. Factories are running longer hours to take care of increased demands. More men are finding jobs open.

Each individual in the prosperity procession is pushing ahead the man in front of him.

Are you, as a farmer, doing your share of buying?

Are you, as a local dealer, doing your share of placing orders?

Are you, as a manufacturer, doing your share in giving good values at fair prices?

Are you, as a manufacturer, doing your share in opening up your plant, hiring men, advertising your goods, investing for prosperity?

Every dollar spent by you as a consumer means one more order from your merchant to his manufacturer. This means one more job for the manufacturer and one less man unemployed.

Remember, because you as a consumer are buying, and the retailer is restocking, and the wholesaler is ordering, and the manufacturer is advertising, prosperity is arriving. More laboring men are at work and are now buying. The mail-order houses are at the "back order" stage (i. e., they haven't enough goods to fill their orders). The automobile manufacturers are thirty to ninety days behind in making deliveries. The sales and advertising departments have done their part to bring back this prosperous condition in a large number of lines, especially those lines that "kept on advertising."

Every manufacturer or merchant who can advertise, whether in a large or small way, will find profit in advertising.

Because you, as a merchant or individual, advertise, the wholesaler will increase his orders, the retailer will make more sales, and the public will increase its wants and its purchases. As we increase buying and selling we will improve business conditions. Every business man is doing something to help business. Every farmer is doing something to help business. So is every advertising man and every publisher. Are you? Do so, and "help pass prosperity around!"

Editor's Note.—William H. Rankin is one of the most important of the advertising agents of this country. He is a deep student of business and economic conditions and is a firm believer in the home town newspaper as a means of reaching the great market of Country America.

Mrs. A. Munn who has been working at the Liberty cafe has resigned her position there and has gone to Jackson where she will live.

LET LASKER PINCH HIMSELF.

The breadth of vision of the American farmer as reflected through the American Farm Bureau, in connection with the development of an American Merchant Marine, is strangely at variance with that of Chairman Lasker of the Shipping Board, who has exhibited interest in the agricultural section of the country more in words than in action. Mr. J. B. Howard, President of the American Farm Bureau Federation, has written to the Shipping Board, approving government subsidy for ships until our flag can be established on the high seas, recognizing that the development of our foreign trade depends largely on our ability to distribute American products in American bottoms. What a striking contrast to the picaresque policy of the chairman of the Shipping Board—one of America's leading advertising men, who scorned every means of contact between the government and the sixty odd millions of the people in country America.

Lasker is on record as admitting that the American Merchant Marine never can be a success unless it is backed by the whole-hearted interest of the people in rural America. When he took hold of the shipping reins there was in hand—in fact, there had already started—a splendidly conceived plan of educational advertising aimed at teaching the Americans resident in interior towns and villages how closely their prosperity is related to the water railroads that must carry American goods to distant markets. This, however, did not please the worshipper of the Saturday Evening "Post." With a stroke of the pen, Lasker swept the whole of country America aside and began to pour American money into the columns of a number of the national weeklies and the influential cities. The poor little country publisher might go to the devil, and his reader, if he wanted facts relative to American shipping, must get them from some source other than his home town newspaper.

Lasker's move was announced as a suspension and not a cancellation of the plan, but experience shows this was but a sop to still the tongues of the men who, had they cared to do so, might have made matters mighty uncomfortable for the advertising shipping expert.

The people of country America still want to know what an American Merchant Marine will mean to them, because, when it comes to the spending of vast sums of money for ship subsidy they propose to have a voice in the votes of their representatives. Mr. Lasker may conduct his advertising business with a Czar like hand, but when it comes to spending millions of the public money, then he will find that country America has something to say. The despised little country publishers represent the interest of their readers who form a majority of the American population, and they propose to keep a sharp eye on Mr. Lasker's gymnastic exercises.

BOSTON GIVES US A NEW SENSATION.

Versed in forest lore and determined to prove that the primitive species has nothing on the modern flapper and her male companion, we hear that a young Boston couple propose to make a dash into the woods of Maine without food or clothing and there dwell for a period of six weeks, wresting their sustenance from Mother Earth. Boston has given to the world many a thrill from the day of the famous tea party to this year of our Lord, but this latest demonstration of the unique caps the climax. Still, the experiment may not be without its value. If the young couple—the young wife is twenty-three and her husband twenty-seven—manage to get along in their battle with nature, it may bring them a greater spirit of contentment, in that it may teach them how little they really need in this world, and make them more pliable to the exactions of the shoe trust, which has pinched the toes of New England and the pocketbooks of the whole nation for a good many years. The spot chosen for the experiment is one uninhabited by man, though reports have it as infested with wild beasts, and of course by the terrifying mosquito, which may prove the greatest obstacle to be overcome. When all is said and done, however, it would be more important if some one could demonstrate how a young couple can live in civilized surroundings on a modest wage and raise a healthy American family without turning the young wife into a drudge and the young husband into a slavish sycophant, lashed into obedience and sapped of all initiative because of dread of the future and the possible loss of a job.

WHAT'S THE COMBINATION?

Harry Sinclair set out in the oil business as an independent operator when the great mid-continent oil field was in its infancy as to production. Among the independents he was a pronounced success. He carried his interlocking companies to Wall Street, where after a time of cooling his heels in the outer offices of big business, he was admitted and let in.

Now it appears he is well within,—so far in that some of his companies are not without their federal interests with the Standard Oil Company of more ancient fame.

Sinclair was recently reported as having come close to a corner on all the available oil land in the world. And among the available lands he was fortunate enough to find ways and means to lease the Federal oil lands reserved for sources of naval supply.

Now Senator LaFollette, who is just as apt to be right as wrong, demands a Federal investigation into naval oil fields, and why these oil deposits are subjected to being greatly depleted by the Sinclair exploitations.

What is an independent oil operator? When does an independent become a combine and the benefactor of special grants and privileges? These are questions that the "independents" such as Sinclair and his companies are still of the "independent" class, how is it that he is privileged to get on, or at least next to government oil lands which carry the "keep off the grass" signs for them.

What's the combination that gets into this Federal vault of fluid gold?

Some men just look mean—in self-protection.

Pictures speak all languages and talk to all ages.

Little tricks fool little people for a little while.

ANGORAS ARE HIGHLY USEFUL

Animal is Disease Resistant, Thrives on Detrital Plants and is Profitable.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The Angora goat, disease resistant, thriving on the twigs, buds and leaves of brush and other detrital plants, and supplying excellent meat and highly useful hair and skins, is still unknown to most people of this country which is one of the largest raisers of Angoras in the world. These are a few of the interesting facts brought out in a recent Farmers' Bulletin 1203, The Angora Goat, published by the United States Department of Agriculture, which contains detailed information about these useful animals from a brief history of their development down to management of goat ranches, the marketing of mohair, and the treatment of diseases.

Texas is the leading goat-raising region of the United States, having more Angoras than all other states combined. Conditions of topography, altitude, climate, and price of land have all joined to help make the ranches successful. Open brush range, similar to that in Texas, makes the remaining part of the Southwest second in Angora ranching. Many fine orchards in the Northwest stand on land that was brushed off by the goats, and there is much land in that region that is adapted for permanent goat ranching. The Ozarks, in southern Missouri and northern Arkansas, contain many hands of Angoras and will support more on a permanent brush-utilizing basis supplemented with winter feeding. Outside the areas where there is typical goat range Angoras may be used for brush-clearing by handling them much as sheep are handled.

The bulletin may be obtained free by addressing the Department of Agriculture at Washington, D. C.

ALFALFA TEA NOT IN FAVOR

Evidence Does Not Show Any Great Advantage to Be Gained by Use of Liquor.

Alfalfa tea, made by pouring boiling water on hay and allowing it to steep for a few hours, or by stirring alfalfa meal into cool water and straining the mixture after several hours, has been highly recommended from time to time for feeding young animals, but the evidence reviewed by the United States Department of Agriculture does not show any great advantage to be gained through the use of this liquor. Some experiment stations have found that pigs made better gains when cornmeal and middlings were mixed with alfalfa tea rather than water, but the additional gains were hardly enough to pay for the increased expense. Calves fed alfalfa tea made poor gains and suffered much from scours. On the whole, the practice of making this tea for live stock should be discouraged, says the department.

BELL TRANSMITTED SPEECH WITHOUT WIRES IN 1880

Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone, in 1880 established his claim to recognition as a pioneer "wireless" enthusiast. He succeeded in transmitting speech, without the use of wires, over a distance of some 200 yards. His method was to produce a beam of light varying in intensity, its fluctuations being produced by the vibration of a diaphragm by sound waves. At the receiving end the beam of light was concentrated upon a cell containing selenium, the electrical conductivity of which varies in accordance with the amount of light to which it is exposed. The cell, in turn, controlled a current running to a receiver diaphragm and transformed the light waves into electric waves and then into sound waves.

SYNOPSIS
CHAPTER I.—Wealthy and highly placed in the Chicago business world, Benjamin Corvet is something of a reclusive and a mystery to his associates. After a stormy interview with his partner, Henry Spearman, Corvet seeks out a young woman, Constance, who is a business partner, Lawrence Sherrell, and goes from her to a certain apartment in Blue Island, Kansas. Alan Corvet has written to a certain Alan Conrad in Blue Island, Kansas, and has received strange agitation over the matter.

CHAPTER II.—Corvet's letter summons Constance, a youth of unknown parentage, to Chicago.
CHAPTER III.—From a statement of Sherrell it seems probable that Corvet is Corvet's illegitimate son. Corvet has decided to leave his home and go to Chicago.

CHAPTER IV.—Alan takes possession of the new home.
CHAPTER V.—That night Alan discovers a man ransacking the desks and bureau drawers in Corvet's apartment. The intruder, who appears to think him a ghost and raves at him. After a struggle the man escapes.

CHAPTER VI.—Next day Alan learns from Sherrell that Corvet has decided his entire property in Chicago is to be sold. Alan is astounded at the discovery that he is the man whom he had found in his house the night before.

CHAPTER VII.—Alan tells no one of his strange encounter, but in a private interview tells Spearman with the fact. Spearman laughs at and derides him.

CHAPTER VIII.—Corvet's Indian servant, Wassaquan, tells Alan he believes his employer is dead. He also tells him the legend of the old superstition beats once for every life lost on the Great Lakes. Twenty years before, the great freighter, the Waka had gone down with twenty-five on board, but the drum had sounded for twenty-four, leaving the inference that one person had been saved, since it was general belief that the drum never failed to sound for the dead. Alan, who had made a disturbance at his house, Alan is slugged and rendered unconscious.

CHAPTER IX.—Conrad recovers, and the affair remains a mystery.
CHAPTER X.—Alan learns from Wassaquan that it was Corvet's habit to keep the sum of $1,000 in the house, apparently to meet the demands of a certain man who appeared periodically. In the absence of Wassaquan, "Luke" comes to the house demanding to see Corvet. He is evidently in a dying condition, due to alcohol and exposure. Conrad tries without avail to gain him to explain his connection with Corvet. The man dies. Wassaquan gives Conrad a paper on which is a list of names.

CHAPTER XI.—From the document Alan thinks he may have a clue to the mystery surrounding Corvet's life and disappearance. He leaves Chicago to visit Lake Michigan ports in search of the persons whose names were on the list.
 "How quickly you came!"
 "You let yourself think you needed me, Connie!"
 "I did."
 He had caught her hand in his and he held it while he brought her to the porch and exchanged greetings with her mother. Then he led her on past and into the house.

When she saw his face in the light, there were signs of strain in it.
 "You're tired, Henry!"
 He shook his head. "It's been rotten in Chicago; then I guess I was mentally stoking all the way up here, Connie. But first, where are the things you wanted me to see?"

She ran upstairs and brought them down to him. Her hands were shaking now as she gave them to him; he could not exactly understand why; but her tremor increased as she saw his big hands fumbling as he unwrapped the muffled and shook out the things it inclosed. He took them up one by one and looked at them, as she had done. His fingers were steady now, but only by mastering of control, the effort for which amazed her.

"He had the watch in his hands."
 "The inscription is inside the front," she said.
 She picked the cover open again and read, with him, the words engraved within.

"As master of . . . What ship was he master of then, Henry, and how did he rescue the Winnebago's people?"
 "He never talked to me about things like that, Constance. This is all!"
 "Yes."
 Henry put the things back in the box. "Of course, this is the end of Benjamin Corvet."

"Of course," Constance said. She was shaking again and without willing it, she withdrew a little from Henry. He caught her hand again and drew her back toward him. His hand was quite steady.

"You know why I came to you as quick as I could? You know why I—why my mind was behind every thrust of the engine?"
 "No."
 "You don't? Oh, you know; you must know now!"
 "Yes, Henry," she said.

"I've been patient, Connie. Till I got your letter telling me this about Ben, I'd waited for your sake—for our sake—though it seemed at times it was impossible. You haven't known quite what's the matter between us these last months, little girl; but I've known. We've been engaged; but that's about all there's been to it. Don't think I make little of that; you know what I mean. You've been mine; but—but you haven't let me realize it, you see. And I've been patient, for I knew the reason. It was Ben poisoning your mind against me."

"Not No, Henry!"
 "You've denied it; I've recognized that you've denied it, not only to me and to your people, but to yourself. I, of course, know, as I know that I am here with your hand in mine, and now we will stand before the altar together, that he had no cause to speak against me. I've waited, Connie, to give him a chance to say to you what he had to say; I wanted you to hear it before making you wholly mine. But now there's no need to wait any longer, you and I. Ben's gone, and now I can come back. I was sure of that; but what you wrote me, so this time when two on his lists, he had said to himself, as the blood picked queerly under the skin, that the fact might be a mere coincidence. When he established it also as affecting the fate of the third and of the fourth and of the fifth, such explanation no longer sufficed; and he found it in common to all fourteen, sometimes as the deciding factor of their fate, sometimes as only slightly affecting them, but always it was there.

In how many different ways, in what strange, diverse manifestations that single circumstance had spread to these people whom Alan had interviewed! No two of them had been affected alike, he reckoned, as he went over his notes of them. Now he was going to trace those consequences to another. To what sort of place would he bring him today and what would he find there? He knew only that it would be quite distinct from the rest.

The driver turned aside from the road across a cleared field where was showing the passing of many previous vehicles; crossing this, they entered the woods. Little fires for cooking burned all about them, and nearer were parked an immense number of farm wagons and buggies, with horses unharnessed and munching grain. Alan's guide found a place among these for his automobile, and they got out and went forward on foot. All about them, seated upon the moss or walking about, were Indians, family groups among which children played

EMERY STILL ACTIVE FOR WORLD WAR VETS

JOHN G. EMERY

John G. Emery, of Grand Rapids, former national commander of the American Legion, still retains his interest in Legion affairs, and is a member of the board of the Legion tuberculosis hospital at Battle Creek, one of the finest in the country. It is being enlarged to accommodate 400 patients.

LEGION TO CARE FOR VET'S ORPHANS

Cottage Group Planned Where Children May Find a Home.

Detroit—Tentative plans for a children's colony in Michigan where the American Legion will care for orphans of men killed in the war or who died of injuries as well as children from homes of war veterans who have become destitute, have been formulated by state officers of the Legion.

Under the present plan the colony,
said to set a precedent in American Legion activities will be in operation within a year.

The plan has been adopted as an ideal program by the national Legion organization.

Six Michigan communities already have offered free sites to the colony, and have pointed out the advantages of their respective locations.

An effort will be made to obtain land near a lake in order that the children cared for will have diversified recreational advantages.

The children will live in semi-modern cottages of several rooms each, between six and nine youngsters being assigned to each home. A cottage mother, probably the widow of some war veteran, is to be placed in charge of each cottage. She will receive shelter, food and clothing as recompense for becoming the "mother" of the children.

As conceived by Paul Marth, Battle Creek newspaper man and state commander of the Legion, the plan provides for making each cottage a memorial to some dead war veteran, the homes being provided by relatives of the victims as memorials to them.

John G. Emery, former national commander of the Legion, is to serve on the committee to choose a site for the colony.

Why Suffer from Rheumatism?
Do you know that nine out of every ten cases of rheumatism are simply rheumatism of the muscles or chronic rheumatism, neither of which require any internal treatment? The pain may be relieved by applying Chamberlain's Liniment, which makes sleep and rest possible, and that certainly means a great deal to any one afflicted with rheumatism. Adv.

Devotional-Volcanic Outburst.
Rising to a height of 13,000 feet, only a few miles from Kilauca, is the great volcano of Mauna Loa, which has intermittent eruptions, the last one of great violence beginning in October, 1919, and continuing for five months, the flow coming from a split in the mountain far down upon its flank. The black rolls of treacle lava flowed for miles through the sand flats, forests and bare rock slopes, finally emptying into the sea, where giant clouds of steam rose day and night. Myriads of sea fish were killed by the boiling water.

Hall's Catarrh Medicine
Those who are a "run down" and will notice that Catarrh bothers them much more than when they are in good health. This fact proves that while Catarrh is a local disease, it is greatly influenced by constitutional conditions.
HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is a Tonic and acts through the blood upon the mucous surfaces of the body, thus reducing the inflammation, and assisting Nature in restoring normal conditions.

GAVE BLOOD TO SAVE HIS BABY

Why Bryant Washburn, Star of "Burglar Proof" spent vacation in bed

Following recovery from a hazardous operation, Bryant Washburn will show in "Burglar Proof" which comes to the Princess theater Saturday all of that freshness one expects of a man just back from a vacation.

This "vacation", however, was not the usual, or garden kind. Mr. Washburn spent the leisure time in bed!
He was not sick, just laid up for safety's sake while he recovered from a transfusion of his blood to the veins of his youngest son, Dwight Ludlow.

"The rest did me a world of good," laughed Mr. Washburn in discussing the incident, "And you can imagine
I am relieved to know that the 'kiddie'
is better."
"Burglar Proof" is an irresistibly funny account of a tightwad whose friends combine to cure him. The resulting incidents make this a real gem among recent Paramount releases.
The scenario is by Tom Geraghty, Maurice Campbell, directed and the cast includes Lois Wilson, Blanche Gray, Grace Morse, Emily Chichester,
C. H. Geldart, Clarence Burton, Tom
D. Bates and Hayard Mack.

Boy Wanted

grit and ambition, and absolutely honest. We want that boy. He

town for the famous MOVIE WEEKLY MAGAZINE. He will work after school and other spare time. His pay will be what he makes it; besides fine prizes and free Movie Tickets. When he makes good, he will be promoted. If you are between 14 and 18 years old, determined to "make good" and truly think you are the boy for this job, then apply by letter to Mr. E.
L. Gilbert, "Personal", 3rd floor,
119 West 40th street, New York City. Give full details of any past selling experience; your age; parents' full name and business; your
